Source Note Information

A source note shows the legislative history of a C.R.S. section and is located immediately after the text of the section. The source note for each section indicates the year the section was added, each year it was amended, and the page of the Session Laws and the section of the bill where the amendment can be found. The source note includes the number of the section in prior codifications when applicable. For amendments made after 1973, information on each specific provision of the section that has been changed by a bill, the specific change to the provision (i.e. added, added with relocations, amended, amended with relocations, repealed, repealed and reenacted, or recreated and reenacted), and the effective date of the bill are shown.

The legislative history is arranged by year of passage; if the section was amended by two or more acts in the same year, the order of the information for that year is determined by the effective dates of the acts. The effective date in the source note indicates the date the act or portion of the act takes effect even if the text of the amendment indicates a different date. If the year is not included with the month and day, the provision is effective the year of passage. Additional information to assist the user in researching C.R.S. sections can be found beginning on page vii.

The following provides a further explanation of the information found in a source note:

“L.” is the symbol for “Session Laws” and will be followed by a number indicating the year when the C.R.S. section was changed by an act generally either creating new law, amending existing law, or repealing existing law; except that, in the constitution, “L.” also means constitutional measures referred by the General Assembly and voted on by the people of Colorado at a general or an odd-year election.

“Ex. Sess.” is the symbol for “Extraordinary Session”. If this symbol follows the year, the amended provision can be found in the Session Laws for an extraordinary session for that year and not in the Session Laws for the regular session of the General Assembly for that year (S, S2 in the Red Book).

“p.” is the symbol for “page” and will be followed by a number indicating the page of the Session Laws where the amendment to the C.R.S. section can be found.

“§” is the symbol for “section” and will be followed by a number indicating the section of the act where the amendment to the C.R.S. section can be found.

“IP” is the symbol for the “introductory portion” to a section, subsection, paragraph, or subparagraph.

“Added” means the provision was newly enacted by the act (N in the Red Book).

“Added with relocations” means the provision in existing law was relocated from one title, article, part, or section to another title, article, part, or section with amendments by the act.

“Amended” means the provision in existing law was amended by the act (A in the Red Book).

“Amended with relocations” means the provision in existing law was amended to reorganize an entire title, article, part, or section by the act.

“Repealed” means the provision was deleted from the existing law by the act through the use of a repeal provision (R in the Red Book).

“R&RE” is the symbol for “Repealed and Reenacted” and means the provision in existing law was repealed and reenacted by the act (RE in the Red Book).

“RC&RE” is the symbol for “Recreated and Reenacted” and means a previously repealed provision has been recreated by the act (RC in the Red Book).

“Added by revision” means a provision providing for the repeal of a statutory provision on a specified date has been added by the Revisor of Statutes as a C.R.S. provision. Adding the provision is necessary because a separate section of the act provided for the repeal of the provision with a future effective date.

“Initiated” means a provision that was amended by means of an initiated petition approved by a vote of the people of Colorado at a general or an odd-year election.

“Referred” means a provision that was amended by a measure referred by the General Assembly and voted on by the people of Colorado at a general or an odd-year election; except that, in the constitution, a referred measure is indicated by “L.” and also means constitutional measures referred by the General Assembly and voted on by the people of Colorado at a general or an odd-year election.

Starting in 2009, references to the bill number and chapter number have been included in the source note. If you are conducting a search on-line, the bill number reference within the source note links directly to the bill itself.

Colorado Statutory Research

Legislative history is not already written. It must be compiled by the researcher from many different sources and materials. The following information is a helpful starting point in identifying information you wish to research. Consult the red book table distributed with the session laws, the softbound editions of Colorado Revised Statutes beginning in 1997, the comparative tables located in the back of the C.R.S. index, C.R.S. 1963 and subsequent cumulative supplements thereto through 1971, and C.R.S. 1973 and annual cumulative supplements thereto through 1996.

Prior to 1921, enacted laws were not compiled into a comparative table, thereby making it more difficult to track the legislative history. Determining the subject matter in the statutory index is the only choice for tracking the history of a statute since a statute did not retain its original number. The General Statutes of 1883 arranged laws into numbered chapters, alphabetically entitled, collated, and arranged by sections. This became the foundation and model for compiling the statutes until the codification of C.R.S. 1973. (See Revised Statutes of Colorado 1908, An Act Providing For the Compilation, Publication, and Distribution of all the general statutes of the state.)

References in some source notes throughout the Colorado Revised Statutes to “Code 08”, “Code 21”, and “Code 35” are to the Revised Statutes of Colorado 1908, the Compiled Laws of Colorado 1921, and the Colorado Statutes Annotated 1935, respectively. Each of these volumes set forth the general statutes of the state of Colorado, including the Code of Civil Procedure and, in 1935, the Colorado Supreme Court Rules. On January 6, 1941, the Colorado Supreme Court adopted the new Rules of Civil Procedure, which became effective on April 6, 1941, resulting in the publication of a replacement volume. Thereafter, the publication of the Colorado Court Rules, although a continuing part of the Colorado Revised Statutes, contained a combination of the Federal Rules and the Colorado Code of Civil Procedure and, in addition, included some provisions that were entirely distinct from both the Federal Rules and the Colorado Code of Civil Procedure, as adopted or amended by the Supreme Court of Colorado.

To research a statute as it existed in previous years, the following is a chronological list of C.R.S. publications and the correct citation for each publication.

Revised Statutes of Colorado	(1868)	R.S.

- C.R.S. 1963 to C.R.S. - located in the back of the Index to C.R.S.

Supplements to C.R.S. 1963 include:

- 1965 hardbound supplement containing laws enacted in 1964 and 1965
- 1967 hardbound supplement containing laws enacted in 1966 and 1967
- 1969 hardbound supplement containing laws enacted in 1968 and 1969
- 1971 hardbound supplement containing laws enacted in 1970 and 1971

The softbound publication of the “Official Report of the Committee on Legal Services” was not intended as an official publication of our office. Copies were distributed to the members of the General Assembly for the purpose of certifying the laws enacted in the 1972 and 1973 Sessions for inclusion in the compilation of the 1973 C.R.S., which was not available until 1974. To find the 1972 or 1973 amended language, refer to the session laws of either 1972 or 1973.

Bills Enacted Without A Safety Clause
Explanation of Effective Date

If a bill is enacted without a safety clause and an effective date is not indicated in the bill, the effective date is the day following the expiration of the ninety-day period after final adjournment of the General Assembly that is allowed for submitting a referendum petition pursuant to article V, section 1 (3) of the state Constitution unless a referendum petition is filed against the act within such time period. If a referendum petition is filed, the act, if approved by the people, will take effect on the date of the official declaration of the vote thereon by proclamation of the Governor or the date indicated in the act if it is later than the Governor’s proclamation. The source note for a provision contained in such an act will indicate the actual date following the ninety-day period or the date set out in the act. If a referendum petition is filed, the date in the source note will be adjusted accordingly in the next publication following the election where the referendum petition is considered.

Annotations

Beginning in 2012, the annotations for Colorado state appellate court decisions include both public domain and regional reporter case cites. In preparing annotations to court decisions, we endeavor to include the most recent decisions. Occasionally, this may result in the inclusion of a decision before it becomes finalized and published in an official reporter. In such instances, the case cite will contain blank spaces for the volume and page number of the reporter. The volume and page number will be substituted for the blank spaces in subsequent publications of the statutes.

CONSERVANCY LAW OF COLORADO - FLOOD CONTROL

ARTICLE 1

Conservancy Law - Flood Control

37-1-101.	Short title.	37-1-106.	Early hearings.
37-1-102.	Definitions.	37-1-107.	Correction of faulty notices.
37-1-103.	Liberal construction.	37-1-108.	Short forms and abbreviations.
37-1-104.	Removal of officials for cause.	37-1-109.	Repeal - saving clause.
37-1-105.	Remedy by mandamus.

37-1-101. Short title. Articles 1 to 8 of this title shall be known and may be cited as the "Conservancy Law of Colorado".

37-1-102. Definitions. As used in articles 1 to 8 of this title, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Conservancy district" means the districts created under articles 1 to 8 of this title; and the bonds which may be issued under articles 1 to 8 of this title may be called "conservancy bonds", and such designation may be engraved or printed on their face.

(2) "Court" means the district court of that judicial district of the state of Colorado wherein the petition for the organization of a conservancy district shall be filed.

(3) (a) "Land" or "property" means real estate, as "real estate" is defined by the laws of the state of Colorado, and shall embrace all railroads, tramroads, electric railroads, street and interurban railroads, highways, roads, streets and street improvements, telephone, telegraph, and transmission lines, gas, sewer, and water systems, water rights, pipelines, and rights-of-way of public service corporations, and all other real property whether held for public or private use.

(b) When "land" or "property" is used, with reference to benefits, appraisals, assessments, or taxes, public corporations, as political entities, according to benefits received, shall be considered as included in such reference, in the same manner as "land" or "property".

(4) "Person" means a person, firm, partnership, association, or corporation, other than a county, town, city, or other political subdivision. Similarly, "public corporation" means counties, towns, cities, school districts, drainage districts, irrigation districts, water districts, park districts, and all governmental agencies clothed with the power of levying or providing for the levy of general or special taxes or special assessments.

(5) "Publication" means printing once a week for three consecutive weeks in at least one newspaper of general circulation in each county wherein such publication is to be made. It shall not be necessary that publication shall be made on the same day of the week in each of the three weeks, but not less than fourteen days (excluding the day of the first publication) shall intervene between the first publication and the last publication, and publication shall be complete on the date of the last publication.

37-1-105. Remedy by mandamus. The performance of all duties prescribed in articles 1 to 8 of this title concerning the organization and administration or operation of a conservancy district may be enforced against any officer thereof or against any person or corporation refusing to comply with any order of the board of directors, by mandamus, at the instance of the board or of any person or corporation interested in any way in such district or proposed district. Such proceedings shall be instituted in the district court having jurisdiction of the original case.

37-1-106. Early hearings. All cases in which there may arise a question of the validity of the organization of a conservancy district, or a question of the validity of any proceeding under articles 1 to 8 of this title, shall be advanced as a matter of immediate public interest and concern and heard in all courts at the earliest practicable moment. The courts shall be open at all times for the purposes of said articles.

37-1-107. Correction of faulty notices. (1) In every case where a notice is provided for in articles 1 to 8 of this title, if the court finds for any reason that due notice was not given, the court shall not thereby lose jurisdiction, and the proceeding in question shall not thereby be void or be abated, but the court shall in that case order due notice to be given, and shall continue the hearing until such time as notice shall be properly given, and thereupon shall proceed as though notice had been properly given in the first instance.

(2) In case any particular appraisal, assessment, or levy is held void for want of legal notice, or in case the board of directors determines that any notice with reference to any land may be faulty, then the board of directors may file a motion in the original cause asking that the court order notice to be given to the owner of such land, and the court shall set a time for hearing as provided in articles 1 to 8 of this title. If the original notice as a whole is held to be sufficient but faulty only with reference to publication as to particular lands, only the owners of and persons interested in such particular lands need be notified by such subsequent notice, and if the publication of any notice in any county is held to be defective or not made in time, publication of the defective notice need be had only in the county in which the defect occurred.

37-1-108. Short forms and abbreviations. (1) In any order of court the words "The court now here finds that it hath jurisdiction of the parties to and of the subject matter of this proceeding", shall be equivalent to a finding of the existence of each jurisdictional fact necessary to confer plenary jurisdiction upon the court and necessary from the proper signing and filing of the initial petitions to the date of the order, to meet every legal requirement imposed by articles 1 to 8 of this title.

(2) No other evidence of the legal hypothecation of the proceeds of any special assessment levied under said articles, to pay the bonds or warrants issued pursuant to articles 1 to 8 of this title, shall be required than the passage of a resolution by the board of directors and the issuance of bonds or warrants in accordance therewith.

(3) In the preparation of any assessment or appraisal record the usual abbreviations employed by engineers, surveyors, and abstractors may be used.

(4) Where it would be necessary to use a long description to properly describe any parcel of land, the appraisers, after locating the land generally, may refer to the book and page of the public record of any instrument in which the land is described, which reference shall be sufficient for all the purposes of articles 1 to 8 of this title to identify the land described in the public record so referred to.

(5) It shall not be necessary in any notice required to be published by articles 1 to 8 of this title to specify the names of the owners of the lands or of the persons interested therein; but any such notice may be addressed "To all persons interested" with like effect as though such notice named every owner of any lands within the territory specified in the notice and every person interested therein and every lienor, actual or inchoate.

(6) Every district declared upon hearing to be a conservancy district shall thereupon become a political subdivision and a public corporation of the state of Colorado invested with all the powers and privileges conferred upon such districts by articles 1 to 8 of this title.

37-2-101. Jurisdiction of district court - purposes of districts. (1) The district court sitting in and for any county in this state has jurisdiction, when the conditions stated in section 37-2-102 are found to exist, to establish conservancy districts, which may be entirely within or partly within and partly without the judicial district in which said court is located, for any of the following purposes:

- (a) Preventing floods;
- (b) Regulating stream channels by changing, widening, and deepening the same;
- (c) Regulating the flow of streams;
- (d) Diverting, controlling, or in whole or in part eliminating watercourses;
- (e) Protecting public and private property from inundation; and incident to such purposes and to enable its accomplishment, any district so established has the power to straighten, widen, deepen, change, divert, or change the course or terminus of any natural or artificial watercourse; to build reservoirs, canals, levees, walls, embankments, bridges, or dams; to reclaim or fill low lands and lands subject to overflow; to remove and to regulate and prescribe the location of improvements upon land; to maintain, operate, and repair any of the construction herein named; and to do all other things necessary for the fulfillment of the purposes of articles 1 to 8 of this title; and such powers shall also be construed as purposes for which benefits may be appraised as provided in articles 1 to 8 of this title;
- (f) The conservation, development, utilization, and disposal of water for agricultural, municipal, and industrial uses thereof, when desirable as a part of a project or undertaking the principal purpose of which is one or more of the purposes set out in this section;
- (g) Participating in the development of parks and recreational facilities within the boundaries of the conservancy district.

ANNOTATION

The general assembly has authority to form a conservancy district involving parts of cities and counties, and the conservancy district act is not in violation of art. XX, Colo. Const., governing municipal improvements of home rule city. People ex rel. Setters v. Lee, 72 Colo. 598, 213 P. 583 (1923).

37-2-102. Petition. (1) The establishment of conservancy districts for the purposes and in the manner provided for in articles 1 to 8 of this title is declared to be conducive to public health, safety, convenience, and welfare. Before any conservancy district is established under articles 1 to 8 of this title, a petition shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the court vested with jurisdiction, in a county in which all or part of the lands embraced in said proposed conservancy district are situated, signed either by two hundred owners of land or by a majority of the owners of land situate within the limits of the territory proposed to be organized into a district. Such petition may be signed by the governing body of any public corporation lying wholly or partly within the proposed district, in such manner as it may prescribe, and when so signed by such governing body such a petition on the part of the said governing body shall fill all the requirements of representation upon such petition of the owners of land of such public corporation as they appear upon the tax rolls; and thereafter it shall not be necessary for individuals within said public corporation to sign such a petition. Such a petition may also be signed by railroad corporations and other corporations owning lands within the proposed district. Any city interested in some degree in the improvement, upon proper action by its governing body, may alone file the petition required by this section.

(2) The petition shall set forth: The proposed name of said district; that property within the proposed district will be benefited by the accomplishment of one or more of the purposes enumerated in section 37-2-101; and a general description of the purpose of the contemplated improvement and of the territory to be included in the proposed district. Said description need not be given by metes and bounds or by legal subdivisions, but it shall be sufficient to enable a property owner to ascertain whether his property is within the territory proposed to be organized as a district. Said territory need not be contiguous if it is so situated that the organization as a single district of the territory described is calculated to promote one or more of the purposes enumerated in section 37-2-101. Said petition shall pray for the organization of the district by the name proposed.

(3) No petition with the requisite signatures shall be declared null and void on account of alleged defects, but the court may at any time permit the petition to be amended to conform to the facts by correcting any errors in the description of the territory or in any other particular. Several similar petitions or duplicate copies of the same petition for the organization of the same district may be filed and shall together be regarded as one petition. All such petitions filed prior to the hearing on the first petition filed shall be considered by the court the same as though filed with the first petition placed on file. In determining whether a majority of landowners have signed the petition, the court shall be governed by the names as they appear upon the tax roll, which shall be prima facie evidence of such ownership.

ANNOTATION

Mere informalities will not vitiate a notice so long as they do not mislead, and the notice gives the necessary information to the proper parties. People ex rel. Setters v. Lee, 72 Colo. 598, 213 P. 583 (1923).

37-2-103. Bond of petitioners. At the time of filing the petition or at any time subsequent thereto and prior to the time of the hearing on said petition, a bond shall be filed, with security approved by the court, sufficient to pay all the expenses connected with the proceedings in case the organization of the district is not effected. If at any time during the proceeding the court is satisfied that the bond first executed is insufficient in amount, it may require the execution of an additional bond within a time to be fixed not less than ten days distant, and upon failure of the petitioners to execute the same, the petition shall be dismissed.

37-2-104. Notice of hearing on petition. (1) Immediately after the filing of such petition, the court wherein such petition is filed shall by order fix a place and time, not less than sixty days nor more than ninety days after the petition is filed, for hearing thereon, and thereupon the clerk of said court shall cause notice by publication (Schedule Form I) to be made of the pendency of the petition and of the time and place of the hearing thereon. The clerk of said court shall also forthwith cause a copy of said notice to be mailed by registered mail to the board of county commissioners of each of the several counties having territory within the proposed district.

(2) The district court in and for the county in which the petition for the organization of a conservancy district has been filed shall thereafter, for all purposes of articles 1 to 8 of this title, except as otherwise provided in said articles, maintain and have original and exclusive jurisdiction coextensive with the boundaries of said conservancy district and of lands and other property proposed to be included in said district or affected by said district, without regard to the usual limits of its jurisdiction.

(3) No judge of such court wherein such petition is filed shall be disqualified to perform any duty imposed by articles 1 to 8 of this title by reason of ownership of property within any conservancy district or proposed conservancy district or by reason of ownership of any property that may be benefited, taxed, or assessed therein.

ANNOTATION

Notice of hearing is not a process under § 22 of art. VI, Colo. Const. Notice of hearing upon a petition to form a conservancy district under the provisions of this section is not a process within the meaning of § 22 of art. VI, Colo. Const. People ex rel. Setters v. Lee, 72 Colo. 598, 213 P. 583 (1923).

37-2-105. Protesting petitions - hearing on petitions - organization of districts.

(1) At any time after the filing of a petition for the organization of a conservancy district and not less than thirty days prior to the time fixed by the order of the court for the hearing upon said petition and not thereafter, a petition may be filed in the office of the clerk of the court wherein the proceeding for the creation of said district is pending, signed by a majority of the owners of the land in said proposed district, protesting the creation of said district. Upon the filing of such protesting petition, it is the duty of the clerk of the court forthwith to make as many certified copies thereof, including the signatures thereto, as there are counties into any part of which said proposed district extends and forthwith to place in the hands of the county treasurer of each of such counties one of said certified copies.

(2) Thereupon it shall be the duty of each of such county treasurers to determine from the last tax rolls of his county in his hands, and to certify to the said district court under his official seal, prior to the day fixed for the hearing, the total number of owners of the land situate in said proposed district within his county and the total number of owners of the land situate in such proposed district within his county who have signed said protesting petition, and such certificate shall constitute prima facie evidence of the facts so stated therein and shall be so received and considered by said court. Upon the day set for the hearing upon the original petition, if it appears to the court from such certificate, and from such other evidence as may be adduced by any party in interest, that the said protesting petition is not signed by a majority of the owners of land within the proposed district, the court shall thereupon dismiss said protesting petition and shall proceed with the original hearing as provided in articles 1 to 8 of this title.

(3) If the court finds from the evidence that said protesting petition is signed by a majority of the owners of the land situate in the district, the court shall forthwith dismiss the original petition praying for the creation of the district. The finding of the court upon the question of the total number of owners of the land situate in said proposed district and upon the question of the number of the owners of the land situate in said proposed district signing said protesting petition, the genuineness of the signatures, and all matters of law and fact incidental to such determinations shall be final and conclusive on all parties in interest whether appearing or not.

(4) At any time prior to the hearing by the court on the petition for the organization of any conservancy district extending into more than one county, or for the inclusion in any existing conservancy district of territory situate in a county no part of which is then in such district, the board of county commissioners of any county into which said proposed district extends, or the board of county commissioners of any county, territory of which is proposed to be included in any existing district, has the right to file, in the court wherein the petition for the organization of such proposed district or the proceeding for the inclusion of additional territory in any existing district is pending, a copy of a resolution of such board of county commissioners protesting against the organization of such district or the inclusion of such territory in an existing district, which copy of resolution shall be duly certified by the clerk of said board of county commissioners, and thereupon, unless said protest is withdrawn prior to the hearing, said court shall deny and dismiss such petition; but the board of county commissioners of any such county into which said proposed district extends, or territory of which is sought to be included in an existing district, shall be required to make and file such protest, if within the time specified a written request to do so, signed by a majority of the owners of the land lying within the part of said proposed conservancy district in said county, is filed with the clerk of said board of county commissioners.

(5) If the board of county commissioners fails or refuses, upon the filing of such request, to protest against the organization of said district, and to file a certified copy thereof with the clerk of the court, then the court, upon petition, prior to such hearing, of any person or public corporation signing the request, or attorney or agent of any person or corporation signing such request, shall determine the sufficiency of such request so filed, upon notice by publication within said county, and hearing thereon, and if it is determined by the court that such request has the requisite signatures, the court shall enter an order in the same manner and effect as though a protest had been made and filed by the board of county commissioners.

(6) Any owner of real property in said proposed district not having individually signed a petition for the organization of a conservancy district and desiring to object to the organization and incorporation of said district, on or before the date set for the cause to be heard, may file objections to the organization and incorporation of the district. Such objections shall be limited to a denial of the statements in the petition and shall be heard by the court as an advanced case without unnecessary delay.

(7) Upon the said hearing, if it appears that a petition for the organization of a conservancy district has been signed and presented, as provided in section 37-2-102, in conformity with articles 1 to 8 of this title, and that the allegations of the petition are true, and that no protesting petition has been filed, or if filed has been dismissed as provided in this section, the court, by order duly entered of record, shall adjudicate all questions of jurisdiction, declare the district organized, and give it a corporate name by which in all proceedings it shall thereafter be known, and thereupon the district shall be a political subdivision of the state of Colorado and a body corporate with all the powers of a public or municipal corporation and shall have power to sue and be sued, to incur debts, liabilities, and obligations, to exercise the right of eminent domain and of taxation and assessments as provided in said articles, to issue negotiable bonds, and to do all acts expressly authorized and all acts necessary and proper for the carrying out of the purposes for which the district was created and for executing the powers with which it is invested.

(8) In such decree the court shall designate the place where the office or principal place of business of the district shall be located, which shall be within the corporate limits of the district, if practicable, and which may be changed by order of court from time to time. The regular meetings of the board of directors shall be held at such office or place of business, but for cause may be adjourned to any other convenient place. The official records and files of the district shall be kept at the office so established.

(9) If the court finds that no petition has been signed and presented in conformity with articles 1 to 8 of this title, or that the material facts are not as set forth in the petition filed, it shall dismiss said proceedings and adjudge the costs against the signers of the petition in such proportions as it deems just and equitable. No appeal or other remedy shall lie from an order dismissing said proceedings; but nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent the filing of a subsequent petition for similar improvement or for a similar conservancy district, and the right so to renew such proceedings is expressly granted and authorized.

(10) If an order is entered establishing the district, such order shall be deemed final and binding upon the real property within the district, and no appeal or other remedy shall lie therefrom, and the entry of such order shall finally and conclusively establish the regular organization of the said district against all persons except the state of Colorado, in an action in the nature of quo warranto, commenced by the attorney general within three months after said decree declaring such district organized as provided in this section, and not otherwise. The organization of said district shall not be directly nor collaterally questioned in any suit, action, or proceeding except as expressly authorized in this article.

A signature by trustee of stockholders does not make stockholders signers. Where a land owning corporation signed a protesting petition in a proceeding for the organization of a conservancy district, as “trustee for the use of its stockholders”, with a typewritten list of its stockholders attached, this did not make the stockholders signers, and is construed as the signature of but one owner. People ex rel. Setters v. Lee, 72 Colo. 598, 213 P. 583 (1923).

Sufficiency of petition need not be determined prior to publication of notice. Under the provisions of the conservancy district act, there is no necessity for the determination of the sufficiency of a petition for the formation of a district prior to the publication of notice. Such determination may be had at the time of the hearing. People ex rel. Setters v. Lee, 72 Colo. 598, 213 P. 583 (1923).

37-2-106. Provisions for recording decree of incorporation. Within thirty days after the district has been declared a corporation by the court, the clerk of the court shall transmit to the division of local government in the department of local affairs and to the county clerk and recorder in each of the counties having lands in said district copies of the findings and the decree of the court incorporating said district. The same shall be filed with said division, and copies shall also be recorded in the office of the county clerk and recorder of each county in which a part of the district may be, where they shall become permanent records.

37-3-101. Appointment of directors. Within thirty days after entering the decree incorporating said district, the court shall appoint as a board of directors of the district three persons who are residents of the county or counties in which the conservancy district is situated, at least two of whom shall own real property in said district, one for a term of two years, one for a term of three years, and one for a term of five years. At the expiration of their respective terms of office, appointments shall be made by said court for terms of five years. The court shall fill all vacancies which may occur on the said board. Each director shall hold office during the term for which he is appointed and until his successor is duly appointed and has qualified and shall furnish a corporate surety bond, at the expense of the district, in an amount and form fixed and approved by the court, conditioned upon the faithful performance of his duties as director. All special and regular meetings of the board shall be held at locations which are within the boundaries of the district or which are within the boundaries of any county in which the district is located, in whole or in part, or in any county so long as the meeting location does not exceed twenty miles from the district boundaries. The provisions of this section governing the location of meetings may be waived only if the proposed change of location of a meeting of the board appears on the agenda of a regular or special meeting of the board and if a resolution is adopted by the board stating the reason for which a meeting of the board is to be held in a location other than under the provisions of this section and further stating the date, time, and place of such meeting.

ANNOTATION

The conservancy district law is not repugnant to art. III, Colo. Const., as delegating legislative functions to the judiciary, in the provision for the appointment of district officers by the court. People ex rel. Setters v. Lee, 72 Colo. 598, 213 P. 583 (1923).

The power of appointing officers is more executive than it is legislative. Such power, taken by itself, is not judicial, but when it is incidental to the exercise of judicial functions, as it is under the conservancy law, its existence does not vitiate the statute. People ex rel. Setters v. Lee, 72 Colo. 598, 213 P. 583 (1923).

The board of directors of a conservancy district is not a "special commission" as that term is used in § 35 of art. V, Colo. Const. People ex rel. Setters v. Lee, 72 Colo. 598, 213 P. 583 (1923).

The board of directors is a permanent board. The governing body of the district is the board of directors. The act contemplates and provides for the permanent existence of that board. 37-3-102. Oath - organization. Each director, before entering upon his or her official duties, shall take and subscribe to an oath, before an officer authorized to administer oaths, that the director will honestly, faithfully, and impartially perform the duties of his or her office and that he or she will not be interested directly or indirectly in any contract let by said district, which oath shall be filed in the office of the clerk of said court in the original case. Upon taking the oath, the board of directors shall choose one of its number as chairman of the board and president of the district and shall elect some suitable person secretary of the board and of the district who may or may not be a member of the board. Such board shall adopt a seal and shall keep in a visual text format that may be transmitted electronically a record of all of its proceedings, minutes of all meetings, certificates, contracts, bonds given by employees, and corporate acts, which shall be open to the inspection of all owners of property in the district as well as to all other interested parties.

37-3-103. General powers. (1) In order to protect life and property within the district, and to protect or relieve land subject to overflowing or washing, or which is menaced or threatened by the normal flow or flood or surplus or overflow waters of any natural watercourse, stream, canyon, or wash, whether perennial, intermittent, or flood, and in order to effect the protection of the land and other property in the district, and in order to accomplish all other purposes of the district, the board of directors is authorized:

(a) To clean out, straighten, widen, alter, deepen, or change the course or terminus of any ditch, drain, sewer, river, watercourse, pond, lake, creek, or natural stream in or out of said district;

(b) To fill up any abandoned or altered ditch, drain, sewer, river, watercourse, pond, lake, creek, or natural stream and to concentrate, divert, or divide the flow of water in or out of said district;

(c) To construct and maintain main and lateral ditches, sewers, canals, levees, dikes, dams, sluices, revetments, reservoirs or retarding basins, floodways, pumping stations and syphons, and any other works and improvements deemed necessary to construct, preserve, operate, or maintain the works in or out of said district;

(d) To construct, reconstruct, or enlarge or cause to be constructed, reconstructed, or enlarged any bridges that may be needed in or out of said district;

(e) To construct, reconstruct, or elevate roadways and streets;

(f) To construct or reconstruct any works and improvements along, across, through, or over any public highway, canal, railroad right-of-way, track, grade, fill, or cut, in or out of said district;

(g) To remove or change the location of any fence, building, railroad, canal, or other improvements in or out of said district;

(h) To acquire by donation, purchase, or condemnation, to construct, own, lease, use, and sell, and to hold, encumber, control, and maintain any easement, water right, railroad right-of-way, canal, sluice, reservoir or retarding basin, mill dam, water power, work, franchise, park, cemetery, or other public way or place, or any real or personal property, public or private, in or out of said district, for rights-of-way or retarding basins, or for materials of construction, or for any other use not inconsistent with the purposes of articles 1 to 8 of this title;

(i) To replot or subdivide land, open new roads, parks, streets, and alleys, or change the location of existing ones;

(j) To cause the dissolution of the district pursuant to article 3.5 of this title;

(k) To participate in the development of parks and recreational facilities including, but not limited to, trails, greenways, and riverfront development within the boundaries of said district.

(2) Nothing in articles 1 to 8 of this title shall be construed to grant to any conservancy district organized under said articles the power to regulate or administer water rights or to take or damage such water rights, except upon payment of compensation.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "County Court Practice Changed", see 29 Dicta 62 (1952).

37-3-105. Employment of agents. (1) The secretary shall be the custodian of the records of the district and of its corporate seal and shall assist the board of directors in such particulars as it may direct in the performance of its duties. The secretary shall attest, under the corporate seal of the district, all certified copies of the official records and files of the district that may be required of him by this article or by any person ordering the same and paying the reasonable cost of transcription, and any portion of the record so certified and attested shall prima facie import verity. The secretary shall serve also as treasurer of the district unless a treasurer is otherwise provided for by the board of directors. The board shall also have the authority to appoint other members of the board as custodians for district funds. The board may also employ a chief engineer, who may be an individual, partnership, or corporation; an attorney; and such other engineers, attorneys, and agents and assistants as may be needed; and it may provide for their compensation, which, with all other necessary expenditures, shall be part of the cost or maintenance of the improvement.

(2) The employment of the secretary, treasurer, chief engineer, and attorney for the district shall be evidenced by agreements in writing which, so far as possible, shall specify the amounts to be paid for their services. The chief engineer shall be superintendent of all the works and improvements, and shall make a full report to the board of directors each year, or oftener if required by the board, and may make such suggestions and recommendations to the board as he may deem proper. The secretary and treasurer and such other agents or employees of the district as the court may direct shall furnish corporate surety bonds, at the expense of the district, in amount and form fixed and approved by the court, conditioned upon the faithful performance of their respective duties.

37-3-106. Regulations to protect works. (1) Where necessary, in order to secure the best results from the execution and operation of the plans of the district or to prevent damage to the district by the deterioration or misuse or by the pollution of the waters of any watercourse therein, the board of directors may make regulations for and may prescribe the manner of building bridges, roads, fences, or other works in, into, along, or across any channel, reservoir, or other construction; and may prescribe the manner in which ditches or other works shall be adjusted to or connected with the works of the district or any watercourse therein; and, when not in conflict with the regulations of the state board of health, may prescribe the manner in which the watercourses of the district may be used for sewer outlets or for disposal of waste.

(2) The construction of any works in a manner harmful to the district or to any watercourse therein, and in a manner contrary to that specified by the board of directors, is a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars. The directors have authority to enforce by mandamus or other legal proceedings all necessary regulations made by them and authorized by articles 1 to 8 of this title and may remove any harmful construction or may close any opening improperly made. Any person, corporation, or municipality willfully failing to comply with such regulations is liable for all damage caused by such failure and for the cost of renewing any construction damaged or destroyed.

37-3-107. Quorum. A majority of the directors shall constitute a quorum, and a concurrence of the majority in any matter within their duties is sufficient for its determination.

37-3-108. Plans. (1) Upon its qualification, the board of directors shall prepare or cause to be prepared a plan for the improvements for which the district was created. Such plan shall include such maps, profiles, plans, and other data and descriptions as may be necessary to set forth properly the location and character of the work, and of the property benefited or taken or damaged, with estimates of cost and specifications for doing the work.

(2) In case the board of directors finds that any former survey made by any other district or in any other manner is useful for the purposes of the district, it may take over the data secured by such survey or such other proceedings as may be useful to it and may pay therefor an amount equal to the value of such data to said district.

(3) Upon the completion of such plan, the board of directors shall cause notice thereof to be given by publication in each county in which said district may be located, in whole or in part, and shall permit the inspection thereof at the office of the district by all persons interested. Said notice shall fix the time and place for the hearing of all objections to said plan not less than twenty days nor more than thirty days after the last publication of said notice. All objections to said plan shall be in writing and filed with the secretary of the district at his office not more than ten days after the last publication of said notice. After said hearing before the board of directors, the board shall adopt a plan as the official plan of the said district. If, however, any person objects to said official plan, so adopted, then such person may, within ten days from the adoption of said official plan, file in the office of the clerk of the court in the original case establishing the district his objections in writing, specifying the features of the plan to which objection is made, and thereupon the court shall fix a day for the hearing thereof before the court, not less than ten days nor more than twenty days after the time fixed for filing objections, at which time the court shall hear said objections and adopt, reject, or refer back said plan to said board of directors.

(4) If the court should reject said plan, then the board shall proceed as in the first instance under this section to prepare another plan. If the court should refer back said plan to the board for amendment, then the court shall continue the hearing to a day certain without publication of notice. If the court approves the said plan as the official plan of the district, then a certified copy of the order of the court approving the same shall be filed with the secretary of the district and by him incorporated into the records of the district. The official plan may be altered in detail from time to time until the assessment record is filed, and of all such alterations the appraisers shall take notice. After the assessment record has been filed in court, no alterations of the official plan shall be made except as provided in section 37-4-113.

ANNOTATION

The "official plan" is the plan which may be adopted for the improvements for which the district was created. The board of directors is the body that prepares and, upon a hearing, adopts the plan. It also has the power to levy assessments, to borrow money, and otherwise act for the conservancy district. People ex rel. Setters v. Lee, 72 Colo. 598, 213 P. 58 (1923).

37-3-109. Execution of plans. The board of directors has full authority to devise, prepare for, execute, maintain, and operate all works or improvements necessary or desirable to complete, maintain, operate, and protect the works provided for by the official plan and to that end may employ and secure men and equipment under the supervision of the chief engineer or other agents or may in its discretion let contracts for such works, either as a whole or in parts.

ANNOTATION

Public works constructed under the conservancy district law are of a public nature and for public purposes. People ex rel. Setters v. Lee, 72 Colo. 598, 213, P. 583 (1923).

37-3-110. Contracts. When it is determined to let the work by contract, contracts in amounts in excess of ten thousand dollars shall be advertised after notice by publication calling for bids, and the board may reject any or all bids or may let said contract to the lowest or best bidder who gives a good and approved bond with ample security, conditioned on the carrying out of the contract. Such contract shall be in writing and shall be accompanied by or shall refer to plans and specifications for the work to be done prepared by the chief engineer. Said contract shall be approved by the board of directors and signed by the president of the district and by the contractor and shall be executed in duplicate; but in case of sudden emergency when it is necessary in order to protect the district, the advertising of contracts may be waived upon the unanimous consent of the board of directors, with the approval of the court; but the provisions of this section shall not apply if it is determined by the board of directors that the work be done on force account.

37-3-111. Surveys and investigation. The board of directors also has the right to establish and maintain stream gauges, rain gauges, and a flood warning service with telephone or telegraph lines or telephone or telegraph service, and may make such surveys and examinations of rainfall and flood conditions, stream flow, and other scientific and engineering subjects as are necessary and proper for the purposes of the district, and may issue reports thereon.

37-3-112. Cooperation with United States or other agencies. The board of directors also has the authority to enter into contracts or other arrangements with the United States government or any department thereof, with persons, railroads, or other corporations, with public corporations, and with the state government of this or other states and with irrigation, drainage, conservation, conservancy, or other improvement districts, in this or other states, for cooperation or assistance in constructing, maintaining, using, and operating the works of the district or for making surveys and investigations or reports thereon. It may purchase, lease, or acquire land or other property in adjoining states in order to secure outlets or for other purposes of articles 1 to 8 of this title and may let contracts and spend money for securing such outlets or other works in adjoining states.

37-3-113. Access to lands - penalty. The board of directors of any district organized under articles 1 to 8 of this title, or its employees or agents, including contractors and their employees and the members of the board of appraisers provided for in article 4 of this title, and their assistants, may enter upon lands within or without the district in order to make surveys and examinations to accomplish the necessary preliminary purposes of the district or to have access to the work, being liable, however, for actual damage done; but no unnecessary damage shall be done. Any person or corporation preventing such entry is guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not more than fifty dollars.

37-3-114. Removal of structures. (1) For the accomplishment of the official plan, the board of directors of any district has full power to improve in alignment, section, grade, location, or any other manner any watercourse, and it may remove, widen, lengthen, lower, raise, or otherwise change any public or private road bridge or railroad bridge, or any flume, aqueduct, or telephone, telegraph, gas, oil, sewer, water, or other pipelines, or any other construction over, across, in, into, under, or through any such watercourse or may require the same to be done. The foregoing shall apply to all such changes specified by the official plan or reasonably necessary for the accomplishment of the same; but, if any such change is made necessary in any construction because of the failure of the same to permit the free flow of water in such stream in time of flood or to permit the necessary enlargement or protection of the channel, then the owner of such construction shall make such change and all adjustments of grade, roadway, track, approach, or other construction incidental thereto, without cost to the district and without any claim for damages against the district; but the district shall pay the cost of excavating the earth for the enlargement of any channel or for placing earth for the filling of any channel, where such excavation or filling is required as a part of the official plan in making the changes outlined in this section. The district shall not be required to make such fill or excavation unless the same would be necessary to the official plan if the construction or work so changed did not exist.

(2) Before the removal, change, or modification of any work or construction outlined in this section, the board of directors shall give notice to the owner thereof requiring that the same be adapted to the official plan. In case such removals, changes, or adjustments are not commenced and completed by the owner within the respective times specified therefor in such notice, which time shall be reasonable under all circumstances, such removals, changes, or adjustments may be made by the district at the expense of the owner.

37-3-115. Passing equipment through bridge or grade. In case it is necessary to pass any dredge boat or other equipment through a bridge or grade of any railroad company or other corporation, county, city, town, or other municipality, the board of directors shall give notice to the owner of said bridge or grade that the same shall be removed temporarily to allow the passage of such equipment or that an agreement be immediately entered into in regard thereto. The owner of said bridge or grade shall keep an itemized account of the cost of the removal and if necessary of the replacing of said bridge or grade, and the necessary and actual cost shall be paid by the district. In case the owner of said bridge or grade fails to commence or complete provision for the passage of said equipment within the time specified in the notice, the board of directors may remove such bridge or grade at its own expense, interrupting traffic in the least degree consistent with good work and without unnecessary damage or delay. In case it is hindered or prevented from so doing, the owner of said bridge or grade shall be liable for all damage resulting to the district therefrom.

37-3-116. Condemnation under general law. The district shall also have the right, instead of having appraisals made by the board of appraisers, to condemn for the use of the district, according to the procedure provided by articles 1 to 7 of title 38, C.R.S., for the appropriation of land or other property taken for public use, any land or property within or without said district not acquired or condemned by the court on the report of said appraisers.

37-3-117. Dominant right of eminent domain. (1) The district, when necessary for the purposes of articles 1 to 8 of this title, has a dominant right of eminent domain over the right of eminent domain of railroad, telegraph, telephone, gas, water power, and other companies and corporations and over towns, cities, counties, and other public corporations.

(2) In the exercise of this right, due care shall be taken to do no unnecessary damage to other public utilities and, in case of failure to agree upon the mode and terms of interference, not to interfere with their operations or usefulness beyond the actual necessities of the case, due regard being given to the other public interests involved.

ARTICLE 3.5

Dissolution of Conservancy Districts

37-3.5-101.	Dissolution of district.	37-3.5-105.	Election procedure - ballot.
37-3.5-102.	Election for dissolution - petition or resolution filed.	37-3.5-106.	Majority vote determines question.
37-3.5-103.	Notice of election.	37-3.5-107.	Winding up and dissolution - order entered.
37-3.5-104.	Objections to resolution or petition.

37-3.5-101. Dissolution of district. (1) At such time as the board of directors of any conservancy district by unanimous decision determines that the original purposes for the organization of the district have been accomplished and after the district has paid in full any indebtedness incurred by it, the board may devise a plan of dissolution which shall be filed, together with a petition for dissolution, with the court which authorized the organization of the district pursuant to section 37-2-105 (7).

(2) Such plan of dissolution shall set forth the proposal by the board of directors to dispose of any assets which the district may then own and to transfer any remaining responsibilities of the district to a political subdivision of the state.

(3) Immediately after the filing of such petition for dissolution, the court wherein such petition is filed shall, by order, fix a date, time, and place for a public hearing thereon, and thereupon the clerk of said court shall cause notice of said hearing to be published weekly for three successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in the county where said court is located. Any person who wishes to object to the proposed plan of dissolution shall file a written objection at any time after the filing of a petition for dissolution but not less than five days prior to the date fixed by the order of the court for the hearing upon said petition. At the hearing, the court may take such testimony as the court deems proper. If the court finds that the original purpose for the organization of the district has been accomplished, that the district is no longer indebted to any person, and that adequate provision has been made for the disposition of any assets of the district and the transfer of any remaining responsibilities of the district to a political subdivision of the state, the court may enter an order approving the plan of dissolution. In lieu of approving said plan, the court may order an election submitting the proposition of dissolution of the district to the electors of the district, and any such election ordered shall be conducted pursuant to the procedures of sections 37-3.5-105 to 37-3.5-107.

(4) If an order approving the plan of dissolution is entered, the board of directors shall expeditiously implement the plan of dissolution and upon the completion of its implementation shall file, with the court and with the division of local government in the department of local affairs, a notice that the dissolution of the district has been completed in compliance with the plan of dissolution approved by the court. Upon the receipt of such notice, the court shall enter a decree granting the petition for dissolution and dissolving the district. On and after the date of the entering of such decree, the district shall be deemed dissolved, any bonds posted on behalf of members of the board shall be deemed discharged, and the board of directors shall be relieved of further responsibilities and liabilities with regard to the district.

(5) As used in this section, "political subdivision" means any entity of government authorized by law to impose ad valorem taxes on taxable property located within its territorial limits.

37-3.5-102. Election for dissolution - petition or resolution filed. (1) Any conservancy district organized may be dissolved in the manner specified in this section and sections 37-3.5-103 to 37-3.5-107 if such district has not been authorized to incur bonded or other indebtedness under the procedures set forth in article 5 of this title and such district has not incurred bonded or other indebtedness pursuant to the provisions of any other law; except that, if such district has entered into a contract with the United States or any other agency thereof, no dissolution shall take place unless the secretary of the interior of the United States has first consented thereto.

(2) An election submitting the proposition of dissolution of the district may be initiated by the filing of a copy of a resolution adopted by three-fourths of all the members of the board of directors of such district requesting such an election or by the filing of a petition requesting such election. Such resolution or petition shall be filed in the district court which formed said district.

(3) Any such petition so filed shall be accompanied by a good and sufficient bond for five hundred dollars with not less than two sureties approved by the court, and, if a majority of the qualified electors do not vote for dissolution in the election specified in this article, the amount of such bond shall be forfeited to the district; otherwise the same shall be discharged.

(4) If the valuation for assessment of land together with improvements thereon within said district when formed is in excess of twenty million dollars, such petition shall bear signatures of any owners of land equal in number to two-thirds or more of the number of such type of owners required by section 37-2-102 upon a petition for the formation of such a district. Such land shall be situated within the limits of the district and shall not be embraced within the incorporated limits of any city or town. Said petition shall also bear the signatures of any owners of land or land embraced within the incorporated limits of a city or town equal in number to two-thirds or more of the number of such type of owners required by said section upon a petition for the formation of such a district, said land to be situated within the limits of the district.

(5) If the valuation for assessment of land and improvements thereon within such district when formed is less than twenty million dollars, said petition shall contain the same number and type of signatures required by section 37-2-102 upon petitions for the formation of such a district. In either case the petition shall set forth opposite each signature the description of the land and the valuation for assessment thereof together with any improvements. Similar petitions or duplicate copies of the same petition may be filed together and shall be regarded as one petition. No petition with the requisite signatures shall be declared void on account of alleged defects, but the court may permit the petition to be amended from time to time to conform to the facts by correcting errors in descriptions, valuation, or any other particular.

37-3.5-103. Notice of election. Upon presentation of such petition or resolution, the court shall cause a notice to be published forthwith at least once each week for four consecutive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in each county where the district or parts thereof lie. Such notice shall recite that a petition or resolution for dissolution of the district has been filed, shall describe generally the territory of the district, and shall further specify the time and places of election, which time shall not be less than sixty days nor more than ninety days after the date of the last publication of the notice. If an objection to the petition or resolution is filed in such court by an owner of land situated within said district within twenty days from the date of the last publication of the notice, the court may, if necessary, continue the election from time to time until all objections are disposed of. Due notice of the time and places of any continued election shall be given in the manner and form prescribed above.

37-3.5-104. Objections to resolution or petition. Objections to a resolution for an election shall be confined to the question of whether sufficient directors voted in favor of the same. Objections to a petition for such election shall be confined to the question of whether sufficient qualified owners of land situate within the district have signed the petition for such election. Such petition shall be accepted as prima facie evidence of all facts stated therein, and all signatures affixed to such petition shall be presumed to be those of qualified owners residing within the boundaries of the district until the contrary is proven. No signer of a petition shall be permitted to withdraw his name from such petition after it is filed, except for fraud. All objections shall be heard as an advanced case on the docket of the court. Nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent the filing of subsequent resolutions or petitions for the same purpose, but elections on the proposition of dissolution shall not be held more frequently than once every three years.

37-3.5-105. Election procedure - ballot. (1) Any election held for the purpose of submitting the proposition of dissolution of a district may be held separately or may be consolidated or held concurrently with any other election authorized by law. The election shall be conducted by the secretary of the board of directors of such district under the supervision of the court, and the court shall fix the manner of holding the same and shall also fix the compensation to be paid the officers of the election and shall designate the precincts and polling places. The court shall also appoint for each polling place and for each precinct, from the electors thereof, the officers of such election, which officers shall consist of three judges, one of whom shall act as clerk, who shall constitute a board of election for each polling place.

(2) The description of precincts may be made by reference to any order of the board of county commissioners of the county in which the district or any part thereof is situated or by reference to any previous order or resolution of the board or by detailed description of such precincts. Precincts established by the boards of the various counties may be consolidated for special elections held under this article. In the event that any such election is called to be held concurrently with any other election or is consolidated therewith, the court order need not designate precincts or polling places or the names of officers of election but shall contain a reference to the act or order calling such other election and fixing the precincts and polling places and appointing election officers therefrom.

(3) The respective election boards shall conduct the election in their respective precincts in the manner prescribed by law for the holding of general elections and shall make their returns to the secretary of the district. At any regular or special meeting of the board held not earlier than five days following the date of such election, the returns thereof shall be canvassed and the results declared. In the event that any election held under this article is consolidated with any primary or general election, the returns thereof shall be made and canvassed at the time and in the manner provided by law for the canvass of the returns of such primary or general election. It is the duty of such canvassing body to promptly certify and transmit to the board a statement of the result of the vote upon the proposition submitted under this article. Upon receipt of such certificate, it is the duty of the board to tabulate and declare the results of the election held under this article.

(4) The results of such election shall be certified promptly by the secretary of the board of directors to the court. It is the duty of the secretary of the board of directors of the district to prepare ballots to be used at the election on which shall be inscribed the words "For Dissolution" and "Against Dissolution". The costs of the election and ballots shall be paid by the district under the supervision of the court, and the district shall be authorized, under the supervision of the court, to borrow funds for this purpose. Irrespective of any other provision of this article, the district shall not be required or authorized to hold any election on the proposition of such borrowing.

37-3.5-106. Majority vote determines question. The electors of the district shall be qualified to vote on the question of dissolving the district. If a majority of votes are for dissolution of the district, the district shall be dissolved as provided in section 37-3.5-107. Any objections to the election, or proceedings to invalidate the election, must be filed in the court within thirty days from the date of the election. Errors, omissions, and irregularities not affecting substantial rights shall be disregarded.

37-3.5-107. Winding up and dissolution - order entered. (1) In the event that the vote is for dissolution, any qualified signer of the petition for the election or the board of directors of such district may, within such time as may be fixed by the court, present a written plan for the winding up of the affairs of the district. Such plan may specify that the affairs of the district be wound up by the board of directors of the district or by a receiver appointed by the court for that purpose. On a day fixed by the court, the court shall consider such plan and shall enter an order establishing therefrom a plan for the winding up of such affairs. The court shall retain continuing jurisdiction to modify such plan from time to time and shall supervise such winding up.

(2) If no such plan is presented on or before the day set by the court, then the court shall appoint a receiver to wind up the affairs of the district under the court's supervision. Upon the appointment of any receiver, all authority of the board of directors of the district shall terminate; except that its authority to levy taxes for the payment of the obligations of the district and the costs of winding up shall continue until the district is dissolved. Such board shall levy taxes within the limits imposed by article 5 of this title sufficient to pay expeditiously such obligations and costs, and, if a receiver has been appointed, all tax collections shall be delivered to such receiver.

(3) When it appears to the satisfaction of the court that all obligations of the district have been discharged and the costs of winding up the district paid, such court shall enter an order dissolving the district, and a certified copy of such order shall be recorded by the clerk of the court in all counties in which the district may be situate. All funds remaining in the hands of such receiver or board of directors after such dissolution shall be divided among the counties comprising any part of such district in proportion to the total valuation of taxable property in such county within the boundaries of such district, as determined by the tax roll of such counties in the treasurer's hands, for the calendar year preceding the year in which such dissolution occurs, and said receiver or members of the board of directors shall thereupon be discharged by the court.

37-4-101. Appointment of appraisal commissioners. At the time of making its order organizing the district or at any time thereafter, the court shall appoint three commissioners, referred to in this article as appraisers or the board of appraisers, whose duties shall be to appraise the lands or other property within and without the district to be acquired for rights-of-way, reservoirs, and other works of the district and to appraise all benefits and damages accruing to all land within or without the district by reason of the execution of the official plan. Said appraisers shall be freeholders residing within the state of Colorado, who may or may not own lands within said district. Each of the appraisers, before taking up his duties, shall take and subscribe to an oath that he will faithfully and impartially discharge his duties as such appraiser and that he will make a true report of such work done by him. The appraisers at their first meeting shall elect one of their own number chairman, and the secretary of the board of directors or his deputy shall be ex officio secretary of said board of appraisers during their continuance in office. A majority of the appraisers shall constitute a quorum, and a concurrence of the majority in any matter within their duties is sufficient for its determination. The court, by order, may remove any appraiser at any time, and shall fill all vacancies in the board of appraisers, or may appoint a new board, as occasion may require, which new board, if appointed, shall perform all the duties and exercise all the powers of the board of appraisers of the district.

Law reviews. For comment, "Water: State-wide or Local Concern? City of Thornton v. Farmers Reservoir & Irrigation Co.", see 56 Den. L.J. 625 (1979).

37-4-102. Appraisals. (1) During the preparation of the official plan, the board of appraisers shall examine and become acquainted with the nature of the plans for the improvement and of the lands and other property affected thereby, in order that they may be better prepared to make appraisals.

(2) When the official plan is filed with the secretary of the district, he shall at once notify the appraisers, and they shall thereupon proceed to appraise the benefits of every kind to all land and property within or without the district which will result from the organization of said district and the execution of the official plan. They shall also appraise the damages sustained and the value of the land and other property necessary to be taken by the district for which settlement has not been made by the board of directors. In the progress of their work, the appraisers shall have the assistance of the attorney, engineers, secretary, and other agents and employees of the district.

(3) The board of appraisers shall also appraise the benefits and damages, if any, accruing to cities, towns, counties, and other public corporations as political entities, and to the state of Colorado, and the same shall be considered the same as benefits or damages, as the case may be, to land or other property.

(4) Before appraisals of compensation and damages are made, the board of directors of the district may report to the appraisers the parcels of land it wishes to purchase and for which it wishes appraisals to be made, both for easement and for purchase in fee simple, and the directors may specify the particular purpose for which and the extent to which an easement in any property is desired, describing definitely such purpose and extent.

(5) The appraisers shall appraise all damages which may, because of the execution of the official plan, accrue to real or other property, either within or without the district, which damages shall also cover easements acquired by the district for all of the purposes of the district, unless otherwise specifically stated.

(6) Wherever instructed to do so by the board of directors, the appraisers shall appraise lands which it may be necessary or desirable for the district to own and shall appraise both the total value of the land and also the damages due to an easement for the purposes of the district. Upon such appraisals being confirmed by the court, the board of directors of the district shall have the option of paying the entire appraised value of the property and acquiring full title to it in fee simple or of paying only the cost of such easement, for the purposes of the district.

(7) Upon written demand by the owner, such option shall be exercised by the directors within ninety days after the date of the final judicial determination of such appraisal. The appraisers in appraising benefits and damages shall consider only the effect of the execution of the official plan. Appraisals of value for property taken shall be made without reference to any increase in value thereof due to the execution of the official plan. The appraisers in making appraisals shall give due consideration and credit to any other works or other systems of protection already constructed or under construction which form a useful part of the work of the district according to the official plan. Where the appraisers or a jury, in case one is called, returns no appraisal of damages to any property, it is deemed a finding by it that no damages will be sustained.

37-4-103. Land affected outside the district. If the appraisers find that land not embraced within the boundaries of the district will be affected by the proposed improvement or should be included in the district, they shall appraise the benefits and damages to such land, and shall file notice in the court of the appraisal which they have made upon the lands beyond the boundaries of the district, and to the land which, in their opinion, should be included in the district. The appraisers shall also report to the court any lands which, in their opinion, should be eliminated from the district; but no territory lying in any county into which any existing district does not already extend shall be included in such district, except in accordance with the provision of section 37-2-105 with reference to the inclusion of land in such counties.

37-4-104. Notice of hearing on land excluded from or taken into district. If the report of the board of appraisers includes recommendations that other lands be included in the district or that certain lands be excluded from the district, it is the duty of the clerk of the court before which the proceeding is pending, upon order of the court, to give notice to the owners of such property by publication (Schedule Form V) to be made as provided in articles 1 to 8 of this title for a hearing on the petition for the creation of the district. The time and place of the hearing shall be the same as provided for the hearing on appraisals, and upon such hearing the court shall make and enter such orders with respect to lands to be included in or excluded from the district as the facts and the provisions of articles 1 to 8 of this title require. As to the owners of property to be excluded from the district, it will be sufficient to notify them of that fact.

37-4-105. Report of appraisal commissioners. (1) The board of appraisers shall prepare a tabulated report of its findings which shall be bound in book form and which shall be known as the conservancy appraisal record. Such record (Schedule Form VI) shall contain the names of the owners of property appraised as they appear on the tax rolls or from the records of the office of the county clerk and recorder, a description of the property appraised, the amount of benefits appraised, the amount of damages appraised, and the appraised value of land or other property which may be taken for the purposes of the district. The appraisers shall also report any other benefits or damages or any other matter which, in their opinion, should be brought to the attention of the court. No error in the names of the owners of property or in the descriptions thereof shall invalidate said appraisal or the levy of assessments or taxes based thereon, if sufficient description is given to identify such property.

(2) When the report is completed, it shall be signed by at least a majority of the appraisers and deposited with the clerk of the court who shall file it in the original case. At the same time certified copies of that part of the report giving the appraisal of benefits and appraisals of land to be taken and of damages in any county other than that in which the original case is pending shall be made and filed with the county clerk and recorder of such county.

37-4-106. Notice of hearing on appraisals. (1) Upon the filing of the report of the appraisers, the clerk of the court in which the original cause is pending shall, upon order of the court, give notice thereof by publication (Schedule Form VII) in each county in the conservancy district. It shall not be necessary for said clerk to name the parties interested, nor to describe separate lots or tracts of land in giving said notice, but it shall be sufficient to give such descriptions as will enable the owner to determine whether or not his land is covered by such description.

(2) Where lands in different counties are mentioned in said report, it shall not be necessary to publish in each county a description of all the lands in the district but only of that part of the said lands situate in the county in which publication is made.

Cross references: For Schedule Form VII, see § 37-8-101.

37-4-107. Hearing on appraisals. Any property owner may accept the appraisals in his favor of benefits and of damages and of lands to be taken, as made by the appraisers, or may acquiesce in their failure to appraise damages in his favor, and shall be construed to have done so unless, within ten days after the last publication provided for in section 37-4-106, he has filed exceptions to said report or to any appraisal of either benefits or of damages, or of the value of land to be taken. All exceptions shall be heard by the court beginning not less than twenty nor more than thirty days after the last publication provided for in section 37-4-106 and determined in advance of other business so as to carry out, liberally, the purposes and needs of the district. The court may, if it deems necessary, return the report to the board of appraisers for their further consideration and amendment and may enter its order to that effect. If, however, the appraisal roll as a whole is referred back to the appraisers, the court shall not resume the hearing thereon without new notice, as for an original hearing thereon. But the court may, without new notice, order the appraisers to revise and amend the roll when the order of the court specifies the changes to be made.

Cross references: For requirements of publication, see § 37-1-102 (5).

37-4-108. Decree on appraisals. If it appears to the satisfaction of the court, after having heard and determined all said exceptions, that the estimated cost of constructing the improvements contemplated in the official plan is less than the benefits appraised, then the court shall approve and confirm said appraisers' report as so modified and amended, and such findings and appraisals shall be final and incontestable, except as provided in this article. In considering the appraisals made by the board of appraisers, the court shall take cognizance of the official plan and of the degree to which it is effective for the purposes of the district. In case the court finds that the estimated benefits appraised are less than the estimated total cost of the execution of the official plan, exclusive of interest on deferred payments, or that the official plan is not suited to the requirements of the district, it may at its discretion return said official plan to the directors of the district with an order directing them to prepare new or amended plans, or it may dissolve the district after having provided for the payment of all expenses theretofore incurred.

37-4-109. Appeals from awards. (1) Any person or public or private corporation desiring to appeal from an award of the appraisers as to compensation, damages, or benefits shall, within ten days from the judgment of the court confirming the report of the appraisers, file with the clerk of the court a written notice making demand for a jury trial. If the appeal is solely from an award as to benefits, the appellant shall, at the same time, file a bond with good and sufficient security to be approved by the clerk, in a sum not exceeding two hundred dollars, to the effect that if the verdict is not more favorable to appellant than the award of the appraisers, the appellant will pay the costs of the appeal. The appellant shall state definitely from what part of the order the appeal is taken. The appeal may be from the award of compensation, damages, or benefits, or one or more of them, but from no other part of the judgment of the court confirming the report of the appraisers.

(2) In case more than one appeal is filed from the award as to compensation, damages, or benefits, the court may, upon a showing that the same may be consolidated without injury to the interest of anyone, consolidate and try the same together.

(3) Upon demand for a jury trial to fix the amount of compensation for property proposed to be taken or damaged, the court shall order the board of directors at once to begin condemnation proceedings therefor in the district court of the county in which are situate the lands sought to be condemned, in the district court in and for such county, which suit shall be conducted in accordance with articles 1 to 7 of title 38, C.R.S., concerning the right of eminent domain, where a jury is demanded.

(4) Upon demand for a jury trial to fix the assessment of benefits or the assessment of damages other than those incident to condemnation proceedings, the court shall order the board of directors to present a petition embodying the facts and the claims made in short form, which shall be filed in the court in which the original case is pending, whereupon a jury shall be empaneled according to law to try and determine the issue presented, as in condemnation proceedings.

37-4-110. Entry after deposit of award. No property shall be taken under articles 1 to 8 of this title until just compensation has been paid according to law. But where a trial by jury is demanded under section 37-4-109, the board of directors may pay into court the amount allowed by the appraisers, with the costs, and thereupon the court shall make an order admitting the said district into possession of the property and thereupon the board of directors may enter into undisturbed possession of the property and rights involved. The right of entry provided by this section is a cumulative remedy and additional to the district's right of possession during the pendency of condemnation proceedings under the provisions of articles 1 to 7 of title 38, C.R.S.

37-4-111. Filing decree. (1) Upon the entry of the order of the court approving the report of the appraisers, as provided for in articles 1 to 8 of this title, the clerk of said court in which the same is entered shall transmit to the secretary of the district a certified copy of the said decree and of the appraisals as confirmed by the court, except those parts from which appeals have been perfected in accordance with section 37-4-109, but not determined.

(2) When any proceeding to review a judgment of the district court, confirming the verdict of a jury, has been finally determined, the clerk of the court deciding the same shall certify the amount of each item of the judgment to the clerk of the court having the original case, who shall file the same therein and shall thereupon transmit certified copies of the same to the secretary of the district who shall thereupon complete the conservancy appraisal record.

37-4-112. Appeals shall not delay proceedings. (1) No appeal from an award by the appraisers under articles 1 to 8 of this title shall be permitted to interrupt or delay any action or the prosecution of any work under articles 1 to 8 of this title, except where the appellant is entitled to a jury trial under the constitution of the state, and the district does not exercise the right of deposit provided by section 37-4-110, in which case only so much of the work shall be interrupted or delayed as would constitute a taking or damaging of the property of such appellant.

(2) No proceeding to review a judgment of the district court entered under the provisions of articles 1 to 8 of this title shall be commenced after thirty days from the entry of the judgment sought to be reviewed.

(3) The board of directors of any district organized under articles 1 to 8 of this title has the same right as property owners to invoke the jurisdiction of an appellate court of the state of Colorado to review any reviewable order of the district court made in any proceeding under said articles.

(4) The failure to appeal from or seek a review of any order of the court in any proceeding under articles 1 to 8 of this title within the time specified in this section shall constitute a waiver of any irregularity in the proceedings, and the remedies provided for in said articles shall exclude all other remedies except as provided in this section.

37-4-113. Change of official plan. (1) The board of directors may at any time when necessary to fulfill the objects for which the district was created alter or add to the official plan, and when such alterations or additions are formally approved by the board and by the court and are filed with the secretary, they shall become part of the official plan for all purposes of articles 1 to 8 of this title. Where such alterations or additions in the judgment of the court neither materially modify the general character of the work, nor materially increase resulting damages for which the board is not able to make amicable settlement, nor increase the total cost more than ten percent above that estimated in the official plan, no action other than a resolution of the board of directors shall be necessary for the approval of such alterations or additions. In case the proposed alterations or additions materially modify the general character of the work, or materially modify the resulting damages, or materially reduce the benefits for which the board is not able to make amicable settlement, or materially increase the benefits in such a manner as to require a new appraisal, or increase the total cost more than ten percent above that estimated in the official plan, the court shall direct the board of appraisers, which may be the original board, or a new board appointed by the court on petition of the board of directors, to appraise the property to be taken, benefited, or damaged by the proposed alterations or additions.

(2) Upon the completion of the report by the board of appraisers, notice shall be given and a hearing had on its report in the same manner as in the case of the original report of the board of appraisers, and the same right of appeal to a jury shall exist; but where only a few landowners are affected, the clerk of the court may, on order of the court, if found to be more economical and convenient, give personal notice of the pendency of the report of said appraisers instead of notice by publication; and if the only question at issue is additional damages or reduction of benefits to property due to modifications in or additions to the official plan, the board of directors may, if practicable, make settlements with the owners of the property damaged instead of having appraisals made by the board of appraisers. In case such settlements are made, notice and hearing need not be had. After district bonds are sold, as provided in articles 1 to 8 of this title, in order that their security may not be impaired, no reduction shall be made in the amount of uncontested benefits appraised or costs assessed against any property in the district; but in lieu of any reduction in assessment, if by reason of a modification in or addition to the official plan an excessive assessment is made under the provisions of section 37-5-104, the excess shall be paid to the property owner in cash. This provision shall apply to all changes in appraisals under articles 1 to 8 of this title.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "County Court Practice Changed", see 29 Dicta 62 (1952).

37-4-114. Lands exempt and later liable to assessment. If any lands in any district organized under articles 1 to 8 of this title are not liable to assessment at the time of the execution of the work, but afterwards, during the period when such work is being paid for, become liable to assessment, such lands shall thereupon be appraised and assessed as other lands in said district receiving equal benefits.

37-4-115. Subsequent appraisals. In case any property within or without any district is benefited, which for any reason was not appraised in the original proceedings, or was not appraised to the extent of benefits received, or in case any person or public corporation makes use of or profits by the works of any district organized under articles 1 to 8 of this title to a degree not compensated for in the original appraisal, or in case the directors of the district find it necessary subsequent to the time when the first appraisals are made to take or damage any additional property, the directors of said district, at any time such condition becomes evident, shall direct the board of appraisers to appraise the benefits or the enhanced benefits received by such property, or such damages or value of property taken, and the proceedings in articles 1 to 8 of this title for appraising lands not at first included within the boundaries of the district shall in all matters be conformed to, including notice to the parties; or the board may, at its discretion, make settlement with such person or public corporation for such use, benefit, damage, or property taken.

37-4-116. Validation of irregular proceedings. (1) No fault in any notice or other proceeding shall affect the validity of any proceeding under articles 1 to 8 of this title except to the extent to which it can be shown that such fault resulted in a material denial of justice to the property owner complaining of such fault.

(2) In case it is found upon a hearing that, by reason of some irregularity or defect in the proceedings, the appraisal has not been properly made, the court may, nevertheless, on having proof that expense has been incurred which is a proper charge against the property of the complainant, render a finding as to the amount of benefits to said property and appraise the proper benefits accordingly, subject to a claim for a jury as already provided, when the party is entitled thereto, and thereupon said land shall be assessed as other land equally benefited.

(3) In the event that at any time, either before or after the issuance of bonds pursuant to the provisions of articles 1 to 8 of this title, the appraisal of benefits, either as a whole or in part, is declared by any court of competent jurisdiction to be invalid by reason of any defect or irregularity in the proceedings therefor, whether jurisdictional or otherwise, the said district court where the original case is pending is authorized, on the application of the board of directors of the said district, or on the application of any holder of any bonds which may have been issued pursuant hereto, promptly and without delay to remedy all defects or irregularities, as the case may require, by causing to be made in the manner provided in articles 1 to 8 of this title, a new appraisal of the amount of benefits against the whole or any part of the lands in the said district, as the case may require.

37-5-101. Funds. (1) The moneys of every conservancy district organized under articles 1 to 8 of this title shall consist of the following separate funds:

(a) "Preliminary funds" means the proceeds of the level rate assessment authorized by section 37-5-102.

(b) "Construction fund" means the proceeds of levies made against the special benefits appraised, equalized, and confirmed under the provisions of articles 1 to 8 of this title.

(c) "Maintenance fund" means the proceeds of a special assessment to be levied annually for the purpose of upkeep, administration, and current expenses as provided in said articles. Moneys received by the district from any other source shall be placed in any fund which the board of directors orders.

(2) No vouchers shall be drawn against the preliminary fund or against the maintenance fund until an assessment levying resolution has been properly passed by the board of directors and duly entered upon its records. No bonds shall be issued against the construction fund until an assessment levying resolution has been properly passed by the board of directors and duly entered upon its records and until the property owners have been given an opportunity for a period of not less than sixty days to pay in cash the assessment so levied against their respective properties.

37-5-102. Preliminary fund. (1) As soon as any district has been organized under articles 1 to 8 of this title and a board of directors has been appointed and qualified, such board has the authority to fix the amount of an assessment upon the property within the district not to exceed one mill for every dollar of valuation for assessment thereof as a level rate to be used for the purpose of paying the expenses of organization, for surveys and plans, for other incidental expenses which may have been incurred prior to the time when money is received from the sale of bonds or otherwise, and for the general administration of the district. In accordance with the schedule prescribed by section 39-5-128, C.R.S., the amount of assessment for each dollar of valuation for assessment shall be certified to the boards of county commissioners of the various counties in which the district, or any portion thereof, is located and by them included in their next annual levy for state and county purposes. Said amount shall be collected for the use of such district in the same manner as are taxes for county purposes, and the revenue laws of the state for the levy and collection of taxes on real estate for county purposes, except as modified in this article, shall be applicable for the levy and collection of the amount certified by the directors of such district as aforesaid, including the enforcement of penalties and forfeiture for delinquent taxes.

(2) All collections made by the county treasurer pursuant to such levy shall be paid to the treasurer of the conservancy district on or before the tenth day of the next succeeding calendar month. If such items of expense have already been paid in whole or in part from other sources, they may be repaid from the receipts of such levy, and such levy may be made although the work proposed may have been found impracticable or for other reasons may have been abandoned. The information collected by the necessary surveys, the appraisal of benefits and damages, and other information and data are declared to constitute benefits for which said assessment may be levied. In case a district is dissolved or abandoned for any cause whatsoever before the work is constructed, the data, plans, and estimates which have been secured shall be filed with the clerk of the court in which the district was organized and shall be matters of public record available to any person interested.

(3) If all the expenses of organization, for surveys and plans, and for other incidental expenses which may have been incurred prior to the time when money is received from the sale of bonds or otherwise have been paid in full, any or all of the moneys remaining in the preliminary fund may be transferred by the board of directors to any of the other funds of the district.

ANNOTATION

Special assessments for conservancy district purposes are not a tax within the meaning of § 3 of art. X, Colo. Const., concerning taxation. People ex rel. Setters v. Lee, 72 Colo. 598, 213 P. 583 (1923).

37-5-103. Power to borrow money for the preliminary fund. In order to facilitate the preliminary work, the board of directors may borrow money at a net effective interest rate as determined by said board and, as evidence of the debt so contracted, may issue and sell or may issue to contractors or others negotiable evidences of debt, in this article called "warrants", and may pledge, after it has been levied, the preliminary assessment of not exceeding one mill for the repayment thereof. If any warrant so issued by the board of directors is presented for payment and is not paid for want of funds in the treasury, that fact, with the date of presentation, shall be endorsed on the back of such warrant, which shall thereafter draw interest at the rate specified in the endorsement, not exceeding the net effective interest rate when issued, until such time as there is money on hand sufficient to pay the amount of said warrant with interest.

37-5-104. Construction fund. (1) After the list of property, with the appraised benefits as approved by the court or that part thereof from which no appeal is pending, has been filed with the secretary of the district, then from time to time, as the affairs of the district may demand, the board of directors shall levy on all property upon which benefits have been appraised an assessment of such portion of said benefits as may be found necessary by said board to pay the cost of the appraisal, except as paid out of the preliminary fund, the preparation and execution of the official plan including superintendence of construction and administration during the period of construction plus ten percent of said total to be added for contingencies but not to exceed, in the total of principal, the appraised benefits so adjudicated. The assessment to be known as the "construction fund assessment" shall be apportioned to and levied on each tract of land or other property in said district in proportion to the benefits appraised, and not in excess thereof, and, in case bonds are issued as provided in articles 1 to 8 of this title, then the amounts of interest which will accrue on such bonds, as estimated by said board of directors, shall be included in and added to the said assessment, but the interest to accrue on account of the issuing of said bonds shall not be construed as a part of the cost of construction in determining whether or not the expenses and costs of making said improvement are equal to or in excess of the benefits appraised. As soon as said assessment is levied, the secretary of the district, at the expense of the district, shall prepare in duplicate an assessment record of the district. It shall be in the form of a well-bound book endorsed and named, "Construction Fund Assessment Record of ..... Conservancy District", which endorsement shall also be printed at the top of each page thereof.

(2) The construction fund assessment record shall include a table or schedule (Schedule Form VIII, 1) showing in properly ruled columns:

(a) The names of the owners of the property to which benefits are appraised, which may be as they appear in the decree of the court confirming the appraisals, and, in case of appraisals against a town, city, county, or other public corporation, the name of the individual owners need not be given, but only the name of such corporation;

(b) The descriptions of the items of property appraised and assessed, arranged by counties;

(c) The total amount of benefits appraised against each item of property;

(d) The total assessment levied against each item of property to which benefits have been appraised, and in this column of the record provision shall be made for the entry of successive levies of assessments;

(e) A blank column in which the treasurer shall enter the assessments paid within the sixty-day period in which property owners may pay their assessments;

(f) In successive columns, the construction fund installments, or if bonds are issued, these columns may be designated bond fund installments, both principal and interest, one column for each installment, with provision for the entry of installments of successive levies, if any, and suitable blank columns in which the county treasurer shall record the several installment amounts, principal and interest, as collected by him, and the names of the persons paying the same. Where successive levies of assessments are made for the construction fund, the construction fund assessment record shall contain suitable notations to show the number of levies and the amount of each, to the end that it may disclose the aggregate of all levies for the construction fund.

(3) Upon the completion of the construction fund assessment record, it shall be signed by the president of the district, and the seal of the district shall be thereunto affixed and attested by the signature of the secretary, and the same shall thereafter become a permanent record in the office of said district.

(4) If it is found at any time that the total amount of assessments levied is insufficient to pay the cost of the works set out in the official plan or of additional work done, the board of directors may levy such additional assessments and may make such amendments or supplements to the construction fund assessment record from time to time as may be necessary to provide funds to complete the work, but the total of all such assessments, exclusive of interest, shall not exceed the total of benefits appraised.

(5) After the cost of the works set out in the official plan or of additional work done has been paid in full, any or all moneys remaining in the construction fund may be transferred by the board of directors to the maintenance fund.

37-5-104.5. Determination of special benefits - factors considered. (1) The term "benefit", for the purposes of assessing a particular property within a conservancy district particularly with respect to regulating streamflow to control floods, includes, but is not limited to, the following:

(a) Any increase in the market value of the property;

(b) The provision for accepting the burden from specific dominant property for discharging surface water onto servient property in a manner or quantity greater than would naturally flow because the dominant owner made some of his property impermeable;

(c) Any adaptability of property to a superior or more profitable use;

(d) Any alleviation of health and sanitation hazards accruing to particular property or accruing to public property in the improvement district, if the provision of health and sanitation is paid for wholly or partially out of funds derived from taxation of property owners of the improvement district;

(e) Any reduction in the maintenance costs of particular property or of public property in the improvement district, if the maintenance of the public property is paid for wholly or partially out of funds derived from taxation of property owners of the improvement district;

(f) Any increase in convenience or reduction in inconvenience accruing to particular property owners, including the facilitation of access to and travel over streets, roads, and highways;

(g) Recreational improvements accruing to particular property owners as a direct result of drainage improvement.

37-5-105. Payment of assessments. (1) When the construction fund assessment record is placed on file in the office of the district, notice by publication shall be given to property owners that they may pay their assessments. Any owners of real property assessed for the execution of the official plan under the provisions of articles 1 to 8 of this title shall have the privilege of paying such assessment to the treasurer of the district within sixty days from the time such publication is completed, and the amount to be paid shall be the full amount of the assessment less any amount added thereto to meet interest. When such assessment has been paid, the secretary of the district shall enter upon the said assessment record opposite each tract for which payment is made the words "paid in full", and such assessment shall be deemed satisfied. The payment of such assessment shall not relieve the landowner from the payment of a maintenance assessment nor from the payment of any further assessments, not exceeding the total of benefits appraised which may be necessary as provided in articles 1 to 8 of this title.

(2) Failure to pay the whole construction fund assessment within said period of sixty days shall be conclusively considered an election on the part of all persons interested, whether under disability or otherwise, to pay such assessment in installments as provided in this section. All persons so electing to pay in installments shall be conclusively considered as consenting to said official plan and all work thereunder, the issuance of bonds provided for in articles 1 to 8 of this title, and the payment of interest thereon, and such election shall be conclusively considered as a waiver of all right to question the power or jurisdiction of the conservancy district to construct the works set forth in said official plan, the regularity or sufficiency of the proceedings, or the validity or the correctness of such assessment; except that any public corporation may, within said sixty days, elect to pay, in whole or in part, the amount assessed against such corporation in not more than ten annual installments, beginning at the time of the next annual levy of taxes by such corporation, but nothing in this section shall be construed to relieve such corporation from liability for successive levies of assessments, not exceeding the amount of benefits appraised.

(3) In case of such election to pay in installments, the construction fund assessment shall be payable in not less than five nor more than thirty annual installments of principal, the first of which installments shall be payable in not less than one and not more than five years, and the last in not more than thirty years after the filing of the construction fund assessment record in the office of the district, with interest in all cases on the unpaid principal, computed semiannually, at a rate not exceeding six percent per annum, all as may be determined by the board of directors of the conservancy district by resolution.

(4) Subject to the foregoing requirements, all installments, both of principal and interest, shall be payable at such times as may be determined by the board of directors of the conservancy district by resolution as provided in articles 1 to 8 of this title.

(5) Upon failure to pay any installment, whether of principal or interest, when due, the whole amount of the unpaid principal of such installment and accrued interest thereon shall draw interest at the rate of one percent per month or fraction of a month until the day of sale, as provided in this article; but, at any time prior to the day of sale, the owner may pay the amount of all unpaid and overdue installments, with interest at one percent per month or fraction of a month, and all penalties accrued.

(6) After the expiration of the period of sixty days within which the property owners may pay their respective assessments, as limited in this article, the treasurer of the district shall certify to the board of directors the aggregate of the amount so paid, and thereupon the board of directors may pass and include in its records a bonding resolution in which shall be stated the amount of the construction fund assessment and the amount thereof paid as aforesaid, and in the same resolution they shall apportion the uncollected assessment into installments or levies for the collection of interest upon the unpaid installments, and they may order the issuance of conservancy district bonds in an amount not exceeding ninety percent of the levy in anticipation of the collection of said installments. The residue of the tax so levied, not less than ten percent, shall constitute a contingent account to protect the bonds from casual default, and, if not needed for this purpose, may be transferred from time to time to the maintenance fund of the district.

37-5-106. Conservancy bonds. (1) The board of directors may, if in its judgment it seems best, issue conservancy bonds (Schedule Form IV) in an amount not to exceed ninety percent of the total amount of the construction fund assessment, exclusive of interest, levied under the provisions of articles 1 to 8 of this title, in denominations of not less than one hundred dollars, bearing interest from date at a net effective interest rate determined by said board, to mature at annual intervals within thirty years commencing not later than five years after date, as may be determined by the board of directors, both principal and interest payable at a place or places determined by the board of directors and designated in the bonds. Said bonds shall be signed by the president of the district, and the seal of the district shall be thereunto affixed and attested by the signature of the secretary. The semiannual payments of interest shall be evidenced by coupons bearing a lithographed or engraved facsimile of the signature of the treasurer of the district. In case any officer whose signature or certificate appears upon bonds or coupons issued pursuant to articles 1 to 8 of this title ceases to be an officer before the delivery of such bonds to the purchaser, such signature or certificate shall nevertheless be valid and sufficient for all purposes, the same as if he had remained in office until the delivery of the bonds.

(2) All of said bonds, when executed, shall be delivered to the treasurer of said district, who shall sell the same in such quantities and at such times as the board of directors may order to meet the payments for the works and improvements of the district. Said bonds may be sold below par, but they shall be sold at such a price that the total payment of principal and interest is not greater than would have been required if the bonds had borne the net effective interest rate when issued and had been sold for par and accrued interest. The bonds shall show on their faces the purpose for which they are issued and shall be payable out of money derived from the construction fund. A sufficient amount of the assessments shall be appropriated by the board of directors for the purpose of paying the principal and interest of bonds, and the same shall, when collected, be set apart in a separate fund for that purpose and no other. All bonds and coupons not paid at maturity shall bear interest at the net effective interest rate when issued, from maturity until paid, or until sufficient funds have been deposited at the place of payment. Any expenses incurred in the issue and sale of said bonds and in paying bonds and interest thereon may be paid out of any funds in the hands of the district treasurer.

(3) The board of directors, in making assessment levies provided in this article, shall take into account maturing bonds and interest on all bonds and shall make ample provision for the payment thereof. In case the proceeds of the original assessments made under the provisions of articles 1 to 8 of this title are not sufficient to pay punctually the principal of and the interest upon all bonds issued under this article, then the board of directors shall make such additional levy or levies against the appraised benefits as may be necessary for such purposes, and under no circumstances shall any assessment levies be made that will in any manner or to any extent impair the security of any bond issued under this article or the fund available for the payment of the principal thereof and interest thereon. But no bond issue under this article, or the assessment made to pay the same, shall have a priority of lien over any other bond issued or assessment made under this article. Said district treasurer shall, at the time of taking office, execute and deliver to the president of the district a bond with good and sufficient sureties to be approved by the said board of directors, conditioned that he shall account for and pay over as required by law and as ordered by said board of directors all moneys received by him on the sale of such bonds, or from any other source, and that he will sell and deliver such bonds to the purchaser or purchasers thereof, according to the terms prescribed in this article and not otherwise, and that he will, when ordered by said board to do so, return to said board, duly canceled, all bonds not sold, which said bonds shall remain in the custody of the president of the district, who shall produce the same for inspection or for use as evidence whenever and wherever legally required to do so.

(4) The said treasurer shall promptly report all sales of bonds to the board of directors, and the board of directors shall issue warrants upon the treasurer at the proper time for the payment of the maturing bonds so sold and the interest payments coming due on all bonds sold, and said treasurer shall place sufficient funds at the place of payment to pay the same. In case warrants are not issued by the board of directors as provided in this section, then the treasurer shall of his own accord place funds at the place of payment, and the canceled bonds and coupons shall be accepted in lieu of such warrants. The successors in office of any such district treasurer shall not be entitled to said bonds or the proceeds thereof until he has complied with all the foregoing provisions applicable to his predecessor in office; but, if it is deemed more expedient to the board of directors, as to moneys derived from the sale of bonds issued or from any other source, said board may by resolution select some suitable bank or banks or other depository, which depository shall give good and sufficient bond, as temporary or assistant treasurer, to hold and disburse said moneys on the orders of the board of directors as the work progresses, until such fund is exhausted or transferred to the district treasurer by order of the said board of directors. For such deposit the district shall receive not less than two percent interest per annum. The funds derived from the sale of said bonds shall be used for the purpose of paying the cost of the works and improvements and such costs, expenses, fees, and salaries as may be authorized by law and shall be used for no other purpose.

(5) If at the time when the bonds are ready to be issued, the board of directors is of the opinion that such bonds cannot advantageously be issued and sold in whole or in part, the board may sell parts only of the entire issue or may pledge all or part of said issue as collateral to a loan, but no partial sale or pledge shall be made without the order of the board made and entered of record, and no pledge shall be made at a greater margin than at the rate of one hundred dollars of bond principal for ninety dollars of loan.

(6) The district may borrow money from the United States government and provide for the repayment thereof in the manner provided for the payment of bonds, and the board of directors may make any necessary regulations to provide for such payment.

(7) A party who has not sought a remedy against any proceeding under articles 1 to 8 of this title until after bonds have been sold shall not for any cause have an injunction against the collection of taxes or assessments for the payment of said bonds.

(8) Articles 1 to 8 of this title shall, without reference to any other law of the general assembly of the state of Colorado, be full authority for the issuance and sale of the bonds authorized in articles 1 to 8 of this title, which bonds shall have all the qualities of negotiable investment securities as provided by article 8 of title 4, C.R.S. and when executed and sealed in conformity with the provisions of articles 1 to 8 of this title and when sold or pledged in the manner prescribed in this article, and the consideration therefor received by the district shall not be invalid for any irregularity or defect in the proceedings for the issue, sale, or pledge thereof and shall be incontestable in the hands of a holder in due course. No proceedings in respect to the issuance of any such bonds shall be necessary except such as are required by articles 1 to 8 of this title.

(9) Whenever the owner of any coupon issued pursuant to the provisions of articles 1 to 8 of this title presents such bond to the treasurer of the district, or to such bank or other depository as the board of directors of the district may for such purpose designate as registrar, with a request for the conversion of such bond into a registered bond, the said treasurer, bank, or other depository shall cut off and cancel the coupons of any such coupon bond so presented and shall stamp, print, or write upon such coupon bond so presented, either upon the back or the face thereof, as may be convenient, a statement to the effect that the said bond is registered in the name of the owner and that thereafter the interest and principal of said bond are payable to the registered owner. Thereafter and from time to time, such bond may be transferred by such registered owner in person or by attorney duly authorized on presentation of such bond for registration as before, a similar statement being stamped, printed, or written thereon. Such statement stamped, printed, or written upon any such bond may be substantially in the following form:

“This bond is registered in the name of (here insert name of owner) pursuant to the provisions of the conservancy law of Colorado, and the interest and principal thereof are hereafter payable to such owner.

Treasurer (or Registrar) .....
Conservancy District.
Date .....”

(10) If any bond is registered as provided in subsection (9) of this section, the principal and interest of such bond shall be payable to the registered owner. The treasurer of the district shall enter in a register of said bonds to be kept by him or in a separate book the fact of the registration of such bond and the name of the registered owner thereof, so that the register or book shall at all times show what bonds are registered and the name of the registered owner thereof.

(11) All bonds issued by any conservancy district pursuant to articles 1 to 8 of this title shall be exempt from all state, county, municipal, school, and other taxes imposed by any taxing authority of the state of Colorado.

37-5-107. Maintenance fund. (1) To maintain, operate, and preserve the improvements made pursuant to articles 1 to 8 of this title, and to strengthen, repair, and restore the same when needed, and for the purpose of defraying the current expenses of the district, the board of directors may, upon the substantial completion of said improvements, or any unit thereof, and on or before the first Monday in November in each year thereafter, levy an assessment on each tract or parcel of land and upon public corporations, subject to assessments under articles 1 to 8 of this title, to be known as the “maintenance fund assessment”. Said maintenance fund assessment shall be apportioned upon the basis of the total appraisal of benefits accruing for original and subsequent construction and shall not exceed one percent thereof in any one year, unless the court shall by its order authorize an assessment of a larger percentage.

(2) Said assessment shall be levied by resolution of the board of directors, shall be enrolled in the “maintenance fund assessment record” provided for in this article (Schedule Form VIII, 2), shall be certified to the treasurers of the several counties in which lands so assessed are situated, and shall be collected by the treasurers of said counties and delivered to the treasurer of the district in like manner and with like effect provided for the enrollment, certification, collection, and return of other assessments set forth in said articles; except that no such maintenance assessment shall be payable in annual installments, but the whole assessment shall be due and payable as and when taxes for county purposes levied in the same year are due and payable.

(3) The amount of the maintenance assessment paid by any parcel of land shall not be credited against the benefits appraised against such parcel of land; but the maintenance assessment shall be in addition to any assessment that has been or can be levied against the benefits so appraised.

37-5-108. Power to borrow money for the maintenance fund. In anticipation of the collection of maintenance assessments, the board of directors may borrow money at a net effective interest rate determined by said board and, as evidence of the debt so contracted, may issue and sell or may issue to contractors or others negotiable evidence of debt, in this article called "warrants", and may pledge, after it has been levied, the said maintenance assessments for the repayment thereof. If any warrant so issued by the board of directors is presented for payment and is not paid for want of funds in the treasury, that fact, with the date of presentation, shall be endorsed on the back of such warrant, which shall thereafter draw interest at the rate specified in the endorsement, not exceeding the net effective interest rate when issued, until such time as there is money on hand sufficient to pay the amount of said warrant with interest.

37-5-109. Readjustment of maintenance fund assessments. (1) Whenever the owners or representatives of twenty-five percent or more of the acreage or value of the lands in the district file a petition in the court in which the original petition was filed, stating that there has been a material change in the values of the property in the district since the last previous appraisal of benefits, and praying for a readjustment of the appraisal of benefits for the purpose of making a more equitable basis for the levy of the maintenance fund assessment, the court shall by order fix a time and place for a hearing thereon, and thereupon the clerk of the court shall give notice by publication of the filing of and hearing upon said petition, in such manner as the court shall provide in the order for such hearing.

(2) Upon the hearing of said petition, if said court finds that there has been a material change in the value of property in said district since the last previous appraisal of benefits, the court shall order that there be a readjustment of the appraisal of benefits for the sole purpose of providing a basis upon which to levy the maintenance assessments of said district. Thereupon the court shall direct the appraisers of the conservancy district to make such readjustment of appraisals in the manner provided in articles 1 to 8 of this title, and said appraisers shall make their report, and the same proceedings shall be had thereon, as nearly as may be, as are provided in this article for the appraisal of benefits accruing for original construction; except that in making the readjustment of the appraisal of benefits said appraisal shall not be limited to the aggregate amount of the original or any previous appraisal of benefits, and after the making of such readjustment, the limitation of the annual maintenance assessment to one percent of the total appraised benefits shall, unless otherwise ordered by the court, apply to the amount of benefits as readjusted; and except that there shall be no such readjustment of benefits oftener than once in ten years.

37-5-110. Levies. (1) After the expiration of the sixty-day period in which persons interested may pay the whole construction fund assessment, and each year thereafter if necessary to effectuate the provisions of this article, the board of directors shall determine, order, and levy the total assessments to be collected annually under articles 1 to 8 of this title for the payment of conservancy district bonds, principal and interest, and the treasurer of the district shall thereupon enter the same in the construction fund assessment record of the district, tabulating and extending said record as provided in this article, which record shall thereupon be approved by the board of directors, and the portion thereof relating to each county shall be certified by the clerk of the district, under the seal thereof, and by him delivered to the county treasurer of each county wherein property assessed is located. It is the duty of the treasurer of each county to receive the same as a tax book and to collect the same according to law, and such construction fund assessment record shall be the treasurer's warrant and authority to demand and receive the assessments due in his county as found in the same.

(2) Such assessments shall become due and shall be collected during each year at the same time and in the same manner that state and county taxes are due and collectible; and, if further assessments are necessary to effectuate the provisions of this article, such assessments shall be levied, evidenced, and certified as provided in this section in apt time and not later than November 1 in such year, to the treasurer of each county in which the real property subject to such assessment in each district is situate.

(3) The board of directors shall each year determine, order, and levy the assessments authorized by articles 1 to 8 of this title which become due and collectible during each year on account of the maintenance fund as provided in this article.

(4) The maintenance fund assessment record (Schedule Form VIII, 2) shall include a table or schedule showing in properly ruled columns:

(a) The names of the owners of the property to which benefits are appraised, which may be as they appear in the decree of the court confirming the appraisals, and, in case of appraisals against a town, city, county, or other public corporation, the name of the individual owners need not be given, but only the name of such corporation;

(b) The description of the items of property appraised and assessed, arranged by counties;

(c) The total maintenance assessment levied against each item of property;

(d) Blank columns in which the treasurer shall enter payments as made and the name of the persons paying the same.

(5) The maintenance fund assessment record shall be prepared in duplicate in a well-bound book, which shall be endorsed and named "Maintenance Fund Assessment Record of ..... Conservancy District", which endorsement shall also be printed at the top of each page in said book. One copy of that part of such duplicate affecting lands in any county shall be forwarded to the county treasurer of such county for his use. It is the duty of the treasurer of each county to receive the same as a tax book and to collect the same according to law, and such maintenance fund assessment record shall be the treasurer's warrant and authority to demand and receive the assessments due in his county as found in the same.

(6) The county treasurer shall receive payment of all assessments, with interest and penalties, appearing upon said construction fund assessment record and said maintenance fund assessment record, or portion thereof, filed with him and, in case of default in the payment of any installment of principal of the construction fund assessment, or interest thereon, when due, shall advertise and sell any property concerning which such default is suffered for the unpaid installment of the assessments thereon; and likewise, in case of default in the payment of any maintenance fund assessment, the county treasurer shall advertise and sell any property concerning which such default is suffered. Said advertisements and sales shall be made at the same time and in the same manner, under all the same conditions and penalties, and with the same effect, provided by general law for sales of real estate in default of payment of general taxes. Lands sold for delinquent taxes or assessments under this article may be bid in, by, or for the conservancy district in like manner and like effect, including the issuance of a deed, as is provided by law with respect to lands bid in, by, or for cities and towns.

(7) All collections made by the county treasurer upon such assessment records in any calendar month shall be accounted for and paid over to the treasurer of the district on or before the tenth day of the next succeeding calendar month, with separate statements of all such collections for each item of property assessed.

37-5-111. Manner of collection - tax sale - certificate of purchase - tax deed.

(1) Lands sold for delinquent assessments under articles 1 to 8 of this title shall be struck off to the conservancy district or bid in for the conservancy district, in like manner and effect, including issuance of a deed therefor, as provided by law with respect to lands struck off to, or bid in for, counties, cities, or towns as the case may be; but when a certificate of purchase has been issued to the conservancy district with respect to any lands, no certificate of purchase for subsequent assessments shall be issued with respect to the same lands, except to the conservancy district, until all assessments represented by certificates of purchase held by the conservancy district have been redeemed or paid.

(2) No holder of such certificate of purchase, other than the conservancy district, shall be entitled to a tax deed thereon, except upon payment of all assessments subsequent to such certificate of purchase, which are due and unpaid or unredeemed, at the time of issuance of the tax deed; and the tax deed so issued to such holder shall be subject to future unpaid assessments. Any such holder of a certificate of purchase may at any time after three years from issuance thereof present the same to the county treasurer, together with all subsequent certificates held by him, as evidence of subsequent payment of assessments, and request the county treasurer to issue one tax deed thereon; and one tax deed shall be issued accordingly in the same manner as other tax deeds.

(3) The conservancy district may at any time after three years from issuance of any such certificate of purchase held by the district present the same to the county treasurer, together with all subsequent certificates of purchase held by it as evidence of unpaid subsequent assessments, and request the county treasurer to issue one tax deed thereon; and one deed shall be issued accordingly in the same manner as other tax deeds; but such tax deed shall not prejudice the parity of any existing lien for general taxes. Upon the delivery of the tax deed, the conservancy district shall have and enjoy all the rights of an owner in fee simple to the lands described therein; but no sale of such land shall be made by the district except subject to the lien of assessments due and unpaid subsequent to the issuance of the tax deed to the district, as well as future unpaid assessments, nor shall the district convey such property by deed with covenants of warranty, nor shall any sale of such property be made for less than the principal amount of the original assessment thereon, remaining due and unpaid, unless such sale is approved by an order of the district court in which the organization proceeding of the district is pending.

(4) The conservancy district by resolution of its board of directors may sell, assign, and deliver any such certificates held by the district for such sum as the board of directors may determine and authorize; but no such sale or assignment shall be made which does not include all certificates held by the district with respect to the same land. Upon presentation and surrender of such certificates by the assignee thereof to the county treasurer, such officer shall accept the same in payment of the assessment represented thereby, unless such purchaser requests a tax deed thereon as provided in this section. No such assignment shall be made by the district for less than the principal sum represented by the certificate assigned, except upon order approving the assignment, made by the district court wherein the organization proceedings of the district is pending.

37-5-112. Collection by civil action. In addition to all other remedies for collection of assessments provided by this article, and cumulative therewith, the conservancy district may at any time after three years from the issuance of any certificate of purchase held by the district bring a civil action to foreclose the lien for assessments represented by all certificates of purchase held by the district with respect to the same land and for other relief with respect to such land as provided by the Colorado rules of civil procedure then in effect for the foreclosure of liens on real property; but no statute of limitation shall be applicable to the rights of the conservancy district arising from any assessment; and no decree, or sale of lands thereunder, shall be made except subject to the lien of future unpaid installments of assessments. The county treasurer shall be made a party to any action of the conservancy district authorized by this section.

37-5-113. Bond of county treasurer. Before receiving the assessment record, the treasurer of each county in which lands or other property of the district is located shall execute to the conservancy district a bond with at least two good and sufficient sureties, or a corporate surety company, the cost of which shall be paid by the district in a sum not less than the probable amount to be collected by him, and which he may have in his custody for the district at any one time, during any one year, the amount of which said bond shall be fixed by order of the district court based thereon, conditioned that said treasurer shall, as provided in this article, pay over and account for all assessments so collected by him. Said bond after approval by the board of directors shall be deposited with the secretary of the district who shall be custodian thereof, and who shall produce the same for inspection and use as evidence whenever and wherever lawfully required to do so.

37-5-114. Lien of conservancy assessments. All conservancy assessments provided for in articles 1 to 8 of this title, together with all interest thereon and all penalties for default in payment of the same and all costs in collecting the same, shall, from the date of filing the certificate of the preliminary fund assessment with the board of county commissioners, and the construction fund assessment record and maintenance fund assessment record, mentioned in this article, in the office of the treasurer of the county wherein the lands and properties are situated, until paid, constitute a perpetual lien on said lands and property on a parity with the tax lien for general state, county, city, town, or school taxes, and no sale of such land or property to enforce any general state, county, city, town, or school tax or other lien shall extinguish the perpetual lien of such assessments.

37-5-116. Remedy for defective assessments. If any assessment made under the provisions of articles 1 to 8 of this title proves invalid, the board of directors shall, by subsequent or amended acts or proceedings, promptly and without delay remedy all defects or irregularities, as the case may require, by making and providing for the collection of new assessments or otherwise.

37-5-117. Duties of officers of public corporations as to assessments. (1) Whenever, under the provisions of articles 1 to 8 of this title, an assessment is levied against a public corporation, as defined in said articles, and is finally determined, it is the duty of the governing or taxing body of such public corporation immediately to take all the legal and necessary steps to provide for the payment of the same. It is the duty of the said governing or taxing body of such public corporation in its next annual levy succeeding said determination to levy and assess a tax by a uniform rate upon all the taxable property within the boundaries of said public corporation and certify the same to the treasurer of the county in which such corporation is located, whose duty it is to receive and collect the same for the benefit of the conservancy district, in like manner and with like remedies and penalties as provided in this article for collection of other assessments.

(2) Nothing in this section shall prevent the assessment of the real estate of other corporations or persons situated within the corporate limits of such public corporation which may be subject to assessment for special benefits to be received.

(3) In the event of any dissolution or disincorporation of any conservancy district organized pursuant to the provisions of articles 1 to 8 of this title, such dissolution or disincorporation shall not affect the lien of any assessment for benefits imposed pursuant to the provisions of articles 1 to 8 of this title, or the liability of any lands in such district to the levy of any future assessments for the purpose of paying the principal of and interest upon any bonds issued under this article, and in that event, or in the event of any failure on the part of the officers of any district to qualify and act, or in the event of any resignations or vacancies in office which prevent action by the said district or by its proper officers, it is the duty of the county treasurer and of all other officers charged in any manner with the duty of assessing, levying, and collecting taxes for public purposes in any county, municipality, or political subdivision in which such land shall be situated to perform all acts which may be necessary and requisite to the collection of any such assessment which may have been imposed and to the levying, imposing, and collecting of any assessment which it may be necessary to make for the purpose of paying the principal and interest of said bonds.

(4) Any holder of any bonds issued pursuant to the provisions of articles 1 to 8 of this title, or any person or officer being a party in interest, may either at law or in equity by suit, action, or mandamus, enforce and compel performance of the duties required by articles 1 to 8 of this title of any of the officers or persons mentioned in articles 1 to 8 of this title.

ANNOTATION

The constitutional limitation of § 8 of art. XI, Colo. Const., concerning taxation, does not apply to improvements to be paid for out of special assessments. People ex rel. Setters v. Lee, 72 Colo. 598, 213 P. 583 (1923).

City cannot pay this assessment by a special assessment of its own. The debt or obligation resting on a city by reason of the levy of an assessment made against it by the conservancy district would not be met by a special assessment of such city itself, but the city must pay its assessment by the levy of a tax at a uniform rate upon all the taxable property within its boundaries. People ex rel. Setters v. Lee, 72 Colo. 598, 213 P. 583 (1923).

37-5-118. Penalty for failure of treasurer to pay over tax. If any county treasurer or other person entrusted with the collection of any assessment made under the provisions of articles 1 to 8 of this title refuses, fails, or neglects to make prompt payment of the assessments, or any part thereof, collected under said articles to the treasurer of the district upon his presentation of a proper demand, then he shall pay a penalty of ten percent on the amount of his delinquency. Such penalty shall become due and payable at once, and both he and his sureties shall be liable therefor on his bond as provided for in said articles.

37-5-119. Surplus funds and annual reports. (1) Any surplus funds in the treasury of the district may be used for retiring bonds, reducing the rate of assessment, or for accomplishing any other of the legitimate objects of the district.

(2) At least once a year, or oftener if the court orders, the board of directors shall make a report to the court of its proceedings and an accounting of receipts and disbursements to that date, which shall be filed with the clerk of the court. Thereupon, the court shall order the auditing of said accounts by competent public accountants, who shall file their report thereon with the clerk of the court.

37-5-120. Compensation of officials. (1) Each member of the board of directors shall receive for attendance at each meeting a sum fixed by order of the court and shall receive such sum per day and his necessary expenses for the time actually employed in the performance of his duties.

(2) When the interests of the district so require, the board of directors by resolution may designate one of its members as executive director in charge of construction, maintenance, and the general business affairs of the district and fix a reasonable monthly compensation therefor in proportion to the per diem rate and in lieu thereof as to the director so designated. Such executive director shall be at all times subject to the direction of the board of directors.

(3) Each appraiser, including temporary special appraisers, shall receive a sum per day to be approved by the court for the time actually employed in the performance of his duties.

(4) Each county treasurer shall retain for his services one percent of the amount collected by him on assessments, except assessments paid by public corporations, but all other services required of courts, county treasurers, or other public officers under articles 1 to 8 of this title shall be performed as part of their official duties, and without additional compensation.

37-6-101. Lands in more than one district. (1) The same land may be included in more than one district and be subject to the provisions of articles 1 to 8 of this title for each district in which it may be included; but no district shall be organized under articles 1 to 8 of this title in whole or in part within the territory of a district already organized under said articles until the court having jurisdiction of the original conservancy district determines, upon application, whether the purposes of said articles will best be accomplished by the organization of an additional district or whether such conditions demand that the territory proposed to be organized into an additional district shall be organized as part of the existing district. Such application shall fulfill all the requirements of a petition for a district as set forth in section 37-2-102.

(2) Upon application, if the court determines that the organization of such territory as a part of the original district should not be ordered, then proceedings may be had before any court of competent jurisdiction for the formation of an additional district in accordance with the provisions of articles 1 to 8 of this title. Any person whose signature has been subscribed to said application may within ten days after such decision withdraw his signature therefrom, and if at the expiration of said period there remain sufficient subscribers to said petition to satisfy the requirements of section 37-2-102, and in case such court determines that the territory described in such application, if organized for the purpose of a conservancy district, should be included within the original district, like proceedings shall thereupon be had with respect to the territory and the owners thereof as in the case of a petition for the formation of a district. Upon the hearing, if it appears that the purpose of articles 1 to 8 of this title would be subserved by the organization of such territory as part of the original district, the court shall by its findings, duly entered of record, enter a decree accordingly.

37-6-102. Union of districts. (1) In case two or more districts have been organized under articles 1 to 8 of this title in a territory which, in the opinion of the directors of each of the districts, should constitute but one district, the board of directors of the districts may petition the court for an order uniting said districts into a single district; but if such districts are contiguous, such petition may be signed and presented by the directors of any one of such contiguous districts. Said petition shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the district court in and for that county which has the greatest valuation of real property within the districts sought to be included, as shown by the tax rolls of the respective counties. Said petition shall set forth facts showing that the purposes of articles 1 to 8 of this title would be subserved by the union of said districts and that such union would promote the economical execution of the purposes for which the districts were organized.

(2) Upon the filing of said petition the court shall by order fix a time and place of hearing, and thereupon the clerk shall give notice by publication or by personal service to the boards of directors of the districts which it is desired to unite with the district of the petitioners. Such notice shall contain the time and place where the hearing on the petition will be had and the purpose of the same, and under the provisions of section 37-2-105, in case the said two or more districts sought to be united severally include a part of the territory within two or more counties. Such hearing shall be had in accordance with the provisions of articles 1 to 8 of this title as to the hearing upon petition for the formation of a conservancy district.

(3) After the hearing, if the court finds that the averments of the petition are true and that the said districts, or any of them, should be united, it shall so order, and thereafter such districts shall be united into one district and proceed as such. The court shall designate the corporate name of such united district, and such further proceedings shall be taken as provided for in articles 1 to 8 of this title. The court shall in such order appoint the directors of such united district who shall thereafter have such powers and be subject to such regulations as are provided for directors in districts created in the first instance. All legal proceedings already instituted by or against any of such constituent districts may be revived and continued against such united district by an order of court substituting the name of such united district for such constituent districts, and such proceedings shall then continue accordingly.

(4) Instead of organizing a new district from such constituent districts, the court may, in its discretion, direct that one or more of such districts described in the petition be included in another of said districts, which other shall continue under its original corporate name and organization, or it may direct that the district or districts so absorbed shall be represented on the board of directors of the original district, designating what members of the board of directors of the original district shall be retired from the new board and what members representing the included district or districts shall take their places; or it may direct that the included district or districts shall become subdistricts of the main district.

37-6-103. Subdistricts. (1) Whenever it is desired to construct improvements wholly within or partly within and partly without any district organized under articles 1 to 8 of this title, which improvements will affect only a part of said district, for the purpose of accomplishing such work, subdistricts may be organized upon petition of the owners of real property, within or partly within and partly without the district, which petition shall fulfill the same requirements concerning the subdistricts as the petition outlined in section 37-2-102 is required to fulfill concerning the organization of the main district and shall be filed with the clerk of the district court and shall be accompanied by a bond as provided for in section 37-2-103. All proceedings relating to the organization of such subdistricts shall conform in all things to the provisions of said articles relating to the organization of districts. Whenever the court by its order duly entered of record declares and decrees the subdistricts to be organized, the clerk of said court shall thereupon give notice of such order to the directors of the district, who shall thereupon act also as directors of the subdistrict. Thereafter, the proceedings in reference to the subdistrict shall in all matters conform to the provisions of said articles; except that, in the appraisal of benefits and damages for the purposes of such subdistricts, in the issuance of bonds, in the levying of assessments, and in all other matters affecting only the subdistrict, the provisions of said articles shall apply to the subdistrict as though it were an independent district, and it shall not, in these things, be amalgamated with the main district.

(2) The board of directors, board of appraisers, chief engineer, attorney, secretary, and other officers, agents, and employees of the district shall, insofar as it may be necessary, serve in the same capacities for such subdistrict, and contracts and agreements between the main district and subdistrict may be made in the same manner as contracts and agreements between two districts. The distribution of administration expense between the main district and subdistrict shall be in proportion to the interests involved and the amount of service rendered, such division to be made by the board of directors with the right of appeal to the court establishing the district. This section shall not be held to prevent the organization of independent districts for local improvements under other laws within the limits of a district organized under articles 1 to 8 of this title.

37-6-104. Remedy for injury by a district. (1) In case any person or public corporation, within or without any district organized under articles 1 to 8 of this title, may be injuriously affected with respect to property rights in any manner whatsoever by any act performed by any official or agent of such district, or by the execution, maintenance, or operation of the official plan, and except as otherwise provided in article 10 of title 24, C.R.S., and in case no other method of relief is offered under articles 1 to 8 of this title, the remedy shall be as follows: The person or public corporation seeking relief shall petition the court before which said district was organized for an appraisal of damages sufficient to compensate for such injuries. The court shall thereupon direct the board of appraisers of the district to appraise said damages and injuries and to make a report to the court on or before the time named in the order of the court. Upon the filing of such report, the court shall cause notice to be given to the petitioner and to the directors of the district of a hearing on said report. At the time of such hearing, the court shall consider said report of said appraisers and may ratify said report or amend it as the court may deem equitable or may return it to the said board of appraisers and require them to prepare a new report. Upon the filing of an order of the court approving said report of said appraisers, with such modifications as it may have made, said order shall constitute a final adjudication of the matter, unless it is appealed in the manner provided in this article, within twenty days.

(2) Appeal from said order to a jury may be had as provided in this article, in case of condemnation proceedings, by the petitioners, by the directors of the district, or by any person or corporation adversely affected by the report of the appraisers. No damages shall be allowed under this section which would not otherwise be allowed by law; but nothing in this section shall be construed to deprive any person or public corporation of the remedy of injunction in the case of prospective irreparable injury.

When the several parts of said petition, with the signatures thereto attached, are together presented to the board of county commissioners, they shall be considered as one petition. Said petition shall be signed by a majority of the owners of said lands, whether residents or nonresidents of said county, as well as by the owners in the aggregate of a majority of the total number of acres of land sought to be included in said district and shall contain a general description of the boundaries of said proposed district and a statement that the lands within said proposed district are not at present cultivatable or useful or fully so and that they can be made more productive or useful by drainage.

(2) The petition shall be accompanied by a map drawn to scale of not less than two inches to the mile, giving the names of the owners of each tract of land appearing of record and proposed to be embraced in said district. The petitioners shall select and name in said petition a committee of three or more of said petitioners to present such petition to the board of county commissioners and to give notice thereof as provided in section 37-20-106.

37-20-110. Establishment without election. When the prayer of the petition is that a drainage system be established without holding an election and it appears that a large portion of the land which will be benefited by the proposed drainage system is unoccupied land or so many of the owners of land to be benefited thereby are not residents upon the land that an election would be impracticable or would entail an undue expense, the board of county commissioners is authorized, at any regular or special session, to cause a system of drainage to be constructed and to exercise all the powers conferred upon boards of directors of drainage districts, and to continue to exercise the powers and perform the duties of boards of directors until a petition is presented signed by the owners of the larger portion of the lands, or their duly authorized agents, praying that an election may be called to elect directors for the district. Then the board of county commissioners shall call an election for that purpose and as soon as the result of said election is determined, the board of county commissioners shall cease to have or exercise the duties of directors of a drainage district.

37-20-111. Election - notice - contents. (1) When the petition prays that an election shall be held, the board of county commissioners shall order an election to be held within the proposed drainage district for the purpose of determining whether or not said district shall be organized and shall cause to be published a notice of said election which shall contain:

- (a) The name of the proposed district;
- (b) The boundaries thereof;
- (c) The polling places;
- (d) The names of the judges of election;
- (e) The names of three or more persons eligible for directors of said district;
- (f) The date of said election.

(2) Said notice shall require the electors to cast ballots which shall contain the words: "Drainage District - Yes" or "Drainage District - No". Said notice shall be signed by the chairman of the board of county commissioners and attested by the county clerk and recorder under the seal of the county.

37-20-121. Actions - judicial notice - validity. In all actions, suits, and judicial proceedings in any court of this state, the court shall take judicial notice of the organization and existence of any drainage district of this state, from and after the filing for record in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the certified copy of the order of the board of county commissioners mentioned in section 37-20-117. A certified copy of said order shall be prima facie evidence in all actions, suits, and proceedings in any court of this state of the regularity and legal sufficiency of all acts, matters, and proceedings therein recited and set forth. Any such drainage district, in regard to which any such order may be entered and such certified copy thereof so filed for record, which has exercised the rights and powers of such a district and which has in office a board of directors exercising the duties of its office and the legality or regularity of the formation or organization of which shall not have been questioned by proceedings in quo warranto instituted in the district court of the county in which such district or the greater portion thereof is situated, within one year from the date of such filing, shall be conclusively deemed to be a legally and regularly organized, established, and existing drainage district within the meaning of articles 20 to 30 of this title. The due and lawful formation and organization of said district shall not thereafter be questioned in any action, suit, or proceeding whether brought under the provisions of articles 20 to 30 of this title or otherwise.

37-21-102. Meetings of directors. The board of directors shall hold a regular meeting in the office of the drainage district on the first Tuesday in January, April, July, and October and such special meetings as may be required for the proper transaction of business. Special meetings shall be called by the president of the board or any director. All special meetings of the board shall be held at locations which are within the boundaries of the district or which are within the boundaries of any county in which the district is located, in whole or in part, or in any county so long as the meeting location does not exceed twenty miles from the district boundaries. The provisions of this section governing the location of meetings may be waived only if the proposed change of location of a meeting of the board appears on the agenda of a regular or special meeting of the board and if a resolution is adopted by the board stating the reason for which a meeting of the board is to be held in a location other than under the provisions of this section and further stating the date, time, and place of such meeting.

37-21-109. Directors - secretary - salary. Each director shall receive as compensation for his services a sum not in excess of six hundred dollars per annum, as fixed by the board. No director shall receive any compensation as an officer, engineer, attorney, employee, or other agent of the district. Nothing contained in this article shall be construed as preventing the board from authorizing the reimbursement of any director for expenses incurred and appertaining to the activities of the district. The salary of the secretary shall be fixed by resolution of the board.

37-21-111. Right to enter upon land in district. The directors, agents, and employees of the drainage district have the right to enter upon any land in the district to make surveys and to locate drainage ditches and laterals.

Source: L. 11: p. 317, § 26. C.L. § 2133. CSA: C. 57, § 27. CRS 53: § 47-2-6. C.R.S. 1963: § 47-2-6.

37-21-112. Office of district. The office of the drainage district shall be located in the county where the organization is effected, at some fixed place to be determined by the board of directors of the drainage district.

37-21-113. Property to vest in district. The title to property acquired under the provisions of articles 20 to 30 of this title shall vest in such drainage district in its corporate name. Said property shall be held by such district in trust for, and is hereby dedicated and set apart for, the uses and purposes set forth in articles 20 to 30 of this title and shall be exempt from taxation. The board of directors is authorized to hold, use and acquire, manage, occupy, and possess said property.

37-21-113.5. Sale of district property. The board of directors of such drainage district has the power to sell and transfer by proper conveyance any real estate or personal property belonging to the district when, in the opinion of the board, such property is no longer needed by such district; except that no parcel of real estate with a fair market value of more than twenty-five thousand dollars shall be sold or transferred unless the question of the proposed sale or transfer is submitted to the qualified voters of the district at an election held thereon and is approved by a majority of the qualified voters of the district voting at such election. Such election shall be held in the same manner as an election for dissolution of the district pursuant to the provisions of article 29 of this title insofar as such provisions are practicable.

37-21-114. Construction of system - contracts. (1) The board of directors may cause surveys to be made for ditches for drainage works and rights-of-way for said district; may cause drainage or irrigation ditches, work, rights-of-way, and other property necessary for said district to be laid out, constructed, purchased, and acquired by condemnation or otherwise; and may appropriate, divert, and use waters for beneficial purposes, including any water gathered in or discharged by the works of any such district, under the same rules as to ownership, title, appropriation, priority, and adjudication of priorities as are applicable to individuals. The district shall file applications for water rights, changes of water rights, and plans for augmentation as provided in section 37-92-302.

(2) The board of directors has no power to make any contract or authorize any expenditure involving more than fifty thousand dollars unless such contract or expenditure is authorized, approved, and ratified in writing by owners of land in said drainage district equal in number to a majority of the votes cast at the last district election; and no contract or expenditure involving more than one hundred thousand dollars shall be made or be binding unless the question of making said contract or expenditure has been submitted and said expenditure authorized at an election in said district. The board of directors shall not violate the spending limitations specified in section 29-1-301, C.R.S.

(3) The board of directors has the power and authority, without advertising for bids as required by section 37-24-101, to enter into contracts either with the state of Colorado or with the United States, or both, jointly, for any and all surveys, plans, and specifications for a proposed drainage ditch, system, or works and also for the construction in whole or in part of such drainage ditch, system, or works. Such contracts shall provide for the payment by such drainage district to the state of Colorado or the United States, or both, as the case may be, of the actual cost of making such surveys, plans, and specifications and the actual cost of construction of such drainage ditch, system, or works, by such amounts as shall be agreed upon in such contracts. Any such contracts shall not become effective and binding upon any such drainage district until the question of making such contracts is submitted to and authorized at an election of the qualified electors of said district.

ANNOTATION

Payments and taxes for construction work not authorized more than statutory limit are void. Directors of a drainage district, after advertising for bids pursuant to § 37-24-101, entered into a contract for the construction of a drainage system which was signed by a majority of the landowners in the district. The work was not completed under the contract and the district board authorized the expenditure of more than statutory limit. In these circumstances district warrants issued in payment for the construction work are void, as is also a tax levy and sale based upon the involved expenditure. Swedlund v. Denver Joint Stock Land Bank, 108 Colo. 400, 118 P.2d 460 (1941).

Courts will correct an abuse committed by directors of a drainage district under the guise of discretionary powers. Olney Springs Drainage Dist. v. Auckland, 83 Colo. 510, 267 P. 605 (1928).

37-21-119. Oaths - judges and clerks. Any judge or clerk of election may administer and certify oaths required to be administered during the progress of an election. Before opening the polls, each judge and clerk shall take and subscribe an oath faithfully to perform the duties imposed upon him by law. Any qualified elector of the precinct may administer and certify said oath.

37-21-121. Canvass of returns. The board of directors shall meet at the office of the drainage district on the first Monday after an election and canvass the returns. If at the time of the meeting the returns have been received from all the precincts, the board of directors shall proceed to canvass the returns. If returns have not been received from all precincts, the canvass shall be postponed from day to day until the returns have all been received or until six postponements have been made. The canvass shall be made in public by opening the returns and counting the votes of the district for each person voted for and for or against each question submitted at such election and declaring the results thereof. The board shall declare elected the person receiving the highest number of votes for each office and shall declare the result of the vote on any question submitted to the voters.

37-21-123. Statement of result. (1) As soon as the result of any election is declared, the secretary of the board of directors shall enter in the record of the board of directors and file with the county clerk and recorder of the county in which the office of said district is located a statement of the result.

(2) Said statement shall contain:

- (a) A copy of the published notice of said election;
- (b) The names of the judges of election;
- (c) The number of votes cast in the district and in each precinct of the district;
- (d) The office to which each person was elected;
- (e) The number of votes cast in each precinct for each person;
- (f) The number of votes cast in the district for each person;
- (g) The names of the persons elected;

37-23-101. Assessments according to benefits. (1) As soon as the plans for a drainage system have been determined and before the actual work of drainage is begun or bonds voted, the board of directors shall proceed to make special assessments for benefits by classifying the lands in the district in tracts of forty acres, more or less, according to the legal or recognized subdivisions on a graduated scale to be numbered according to the benefits to be received by the contemplated drainage. The tracts of land which will receive most and about equal benefits shall be marked one hundred, and such as are adjudged to receive less benefits shall be marked with a lesser number denoting its percent of benefit. This classification when established shall remain as a basis for the levy of taxes as may be needed for the lawful and proper purposes of the drainage district.

(2) In any district where a classification has once been made and the board of directors believes from experience and results that such former classification is not fairly adjusted on the several tracts of land according to benefits which may be adjusted by new or additional assessments, then the board of directors shall disregard such former classification and make a new classification in accordance with justice and right. When the classification is completed it shall be properly tabulated or shown by a map, or both, and filed in the office of the secretary of the district for inspection.

District's authority to tax should be strictly construed. Irrigation districts and drainage districts are substantially identical in character; they have no general taxing powers; the taxes they levy are local assessments, and their authority relative thereto is limited and should be strictly construed. Henry Wilcox & Son v. Riverview Drainage Dist., 93 Colo. 115, 25 P.2d 172 (1933).

37-23-101.5. Determination of special benefits - factors considered. (1) The term "benefit", for the purposes of assessing a particular property within a drainage system improvement district, includes, but is not limited to, the following:

(a) Any increase in the market value of the property;

(b) The provision for accepting the burden from specific dominant property for discharging surface water onto servient property in a manner or quantity greater than would naturally flow because the dominant owner made some of his property impermeable;

(c) Any adaptability of property to a superior or more profitable use;

(d) Any alleviation of health and sanitation hazards accruing to particular property or accruing to public property in the improvement district, if the provision of health and sanitation is paid for wholly or partially out of funds derived from taxation of property owners of the improvement district;

(e) Any reduction in the maintenance costs of particular property or of public property in the improvement district, if the maintenance of the public property is paid for wholly or partially out of funds derived from taxation of property owners of the improvement district;

(f) Any increase in convenience or reduction in inconvenience accruing to particular property owners, including the facilitation of access to and travel over streets, roads, and highways;

(g) Recreational improvements accruing to particular property owners as a direct result of drainage improvement.

37-23-102. Objections to classification - hearing. The board of directors shall cause to be personally served upon all parties residing in the district and owning land to be affected by the proposed drainage system, or other property liable to be taxed, a written or printed notice of the time when, and place where, it will meet to hear any objections that may be made to classifications of lands on the graduated scale. The notice shall be served in case of residence in the district not less than three days before the time set for hearing, by delivering a copy thereof to the party to be served. In the event that such copy cannot be personally delivered to the party to be served, then such notice shall be served in the manner provided for the service of summons in the Colorado rules of civil procedure. The board of directors shall cause to be sent by mail, at least ten days before the time set for said hearing, such notice to all owners who do not reside in the district whose land is affected, in case their post-office address is known to the board of directors or can be ascertained by the use of reasonable diligence. In case the land of any nonresident or of anyone whose residence is unknown is affected, then publication shall be made in some newspaper published in said county for three successive weeks prior to the time of such hearing, the publication to be made after a resolution of the board of directors has been duly passed determining the names of those landowners within the district who are nonresidents of the state or whose residence is unknown, and such meeting to hear objections may be adjourned from day to day by public announcement of the board of directors made at the meeting, until all objections are heard. All persons duly notified of the first day of meeting shall take cognizance of all adjournments without further notice. The affidavit of any creditable person that he has posted or served the notice required and the certificate of the publishers of such newspaper as to such publication shall be sufficient evidence of such facts.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For note, "A Survey of Colorado Water Law", see 47 Den. L.J. 226 (1970).

37-23-103. Corrections - appeal - bond. At the time of meeting for review, the board of directors shall hear whatsoever objections may be urged by any person interested, and, if satisfied that any injustice has been done in the classification of the several tracts of land or any of them, it shall correct the same in accordance with what is right, but if not so satisfied, it shall leave the classification as first made and enter an order to that effect. Any person appearing and urging objections who is not satisfied with the decision of the board of directors may appeal from its decision to the district court of the county in which the lands affected are situated, within ten days after the decision of the board of directors is rendered, by filing with the county clerk and recorder a bond with security conditioned to pay such taxes as are finally levied upon the land in question, and the costs occasioned by the appeal, in case the board of directors is sustained by the court.

37-23-104. Hearing on appeal - special jury. (1) Appeals taken to the district court may be heard at the discretion of the court; except that ten days shall intervene from the time of taking the appeal and the date set for hearing. The costs of such appeal, at the discretion of the court, may be divided between the drainage district and the owner of the land who may appeal from the classification of the board of directors. It is the duty of the district court to cause to be summoned six landowners living outside of the drainage district, who are not interested in any lands or work in said district, or of kin to any of the parties interested, to meet at the courthouse at a time set by the court for hearing any appeal that may be taken from the decision of the board of directors. The six landowners shall be men who have some knowledge of the costs and benefits of farm drainage and shall be sworn as a special jury to try the case on appeal. Should any of said landowners fail to appear at the time named, or should any of those summoned be rejected under the exercise of the usual right of challenge, the court may cause to be summoned any other qualified landowner to fill such vacancy, or the case may be tried by three qualified jurors if both parties to the suit so agree.

(2) Whenever the special jury summoned to hear appeals has been sworn, it is the duty of the court to lay before them the classifications as determined by the drainage district board of directors, and they shall examine the same and hear allegations and testimony in opposition to and in support of the same and, if requested by either party to the appeal, may visit the district and view the lands. If they find the tracts of land in question are marked too high or too low in the classification, they shall correct the errors; but, if no injustice has been done, they shall confirm the classification as made by the board of directors. Their final determination shall be made in writing and filed with the records of the court.

(3) The classification when established shall also be recorded with other papers on the drainage record. Appellate review of the final decision of the district court, entered pursuant to the decision of the special jury, may be had in an appellate court as in other civil actions and pursuant to the Colorado appellate rules.

37-23-106. Modified classification filed. The board of directors shall modify said classification so that it conforms to the changes made therein in the hearings before said board, and the secretary of the district shall certify and file said classification of property of the district so modified, properly tabulated or shown by a map, or both, with the county clerk and recorder of each county in which the district is located, and, if through any appeal said classification is modified, the board shall then modify the classification, and the secretary of the district shall certify and file the same so modified with the county clerk and recorder of each county in which the district is located.

37-23-107. Special assessments - apportionment. (1) The board of directors, on or before July 1 in each year, shall determine the amount of money required to meet the current expenses of the coming year, including cost of construction, maintenance, operating and ordinary expenses, deficiency in the payment of expenses already incurred, bond interest unpaid, the amount of bonded indebtedness, and the principal or interest which will fall due during said coming year, and by resolutions shall order such amount of money to be raised by special assessment upon the lands of the district, as may be necessary to raise the sum of money so determined. Such amount shall be apportioned among the several tracts in the name of the owner when known according to acreage of each and its figure of this classification on the graduated scale, so that each tract may bear its equal burden in proportion to benefits.

(2) The board shall make out a special assessment roll, designated in this article as “tax list”, setting down in separate columns the owners’ names when known, and when unknown stating “unknown”, a description of the land, the number denoting the classification, and the tax: That for current expenses and that for bonded indebtedness and interest thereon shall be in separate columns. When completed the list shall be filed with the secretary of the district.

(3) The tax list may be substantially as follows:

SPECIAL ASSESSMENT TAX LIST OF -- (here insert name of district).

TAX LEVIED
OWNER'S NAME		Description of Land			No. Classification	Current Expenses		Bonded Indebtedness and Interest		Remarks
Sec.	Tp.	R.	Acres		on Scale	Dol.	Cts.	Dol.	Cts.

37-23-108. Assessment list. The assessment list shall be completed on or before July 15, and, on the first Tuesday of August in each year and from day to day thereafter, Sundays excepted, the board of directors shall sit to hear complaints and to correct errors in said assessment until all complaints filed with the secretary or presented to the board have had an opportunity to be heard and determined. The classification of any lands on the graduated scale shall not be changed or determined at said hearings.

37-23-109. Alternative method of assessment. (1) As an alternative method for the assessment of the lands in the district and in lieu of the method of assessment provided by sections 37-23-101 to 37-23-108, the board of directors may adopt the following method for the assessment of the benefits derived from the system of drainage adopted:

(a) As soon as the plans for a drainage system have been determined and before the actual work of drainage is begun or bonds voted, the board of directors shall assess the amount of benefits which, by means of the contemplated drainage, will accrue to each tract of land comprising forty acres, more or less, according to the legal or recognized subdivisions. The assessed benefits shall represent the increased value which, in the judgment of the directors, will accrue to the lands in the district because of the contemplated drainage. The board of directors shall prepare a report of its findings which shall be arranged in tabular form, the columns of which shall be headed as follows: Column 1, "Owner of property assessed"; column 2, "Description of property assessed"; column 3, "Number of acres assessed"; column 4, "Amount of benefits assessed". The board of directors shall also estimate the cost of the works set out in the plans for the drainage system, which estimate shall include the probable expenses of district organization and administration. Said report shall be signed by the president of the district with the seal of the district thereto affixed, and attested by the secretary, and one copy thereof shall be filed by the secretary in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the county where the organization is effected and one copy thereof in the office of the district.

(b) Upon the filing of the report, the secretary of the district shall give notice thereof by causing publication to be made in some newspaper published in each county in which lands affected are located. Such notice shall be in substantially the following form:

"Notice of filing of directors' report of assessments of benefits for ..... drainage district.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the following described land in .... county (or counties), in the state of Colorado (here describe the respective tracts of land) included within .... drainage district, that the board of directors of said district have assessed the benefits to be received by each tract of land in the district by the contemplated system of drainage adopted for said district, and have filed their report of such assessments in the office of the county clerk and recorder of ..... county, Colorado, and in the office of the district on the ..... day of ....., A.D., 20...., and you, and each of you, are hereby notified that you may examine said report and file exceptions with the secretary of the district to all or any part thereof, on or before the ..... day of ....., A.D., 20.... .

Secretary."

37-23-110. Owner may except - hearing. (1) Any owner of land in said drainage district may file exceptions to said report or to any assessment for benefits within ten days after the last day of publication of the notice provided for in this article. All exceptions shall be heard by the board of directors and determined in a summary manner so as to carry out liberally the purposes of articles 20 to 30 of this title and the needs of the district; and if it appears to the satisfaction of the board, after hearing and determining all exceptions which may in writing be filed, that the estimated cost of constructing the improvement contemplated in the plans for the drainage system is less than the benefits assessed against the land in the district, then the board of directors shall approve and confirm the report as originally filed or as modified and amended after such hearing.

(2) The secretary of the district shall transmit the directors' report as finally confirmed to the county clerk and recorder of each county in which lands in the district may be located or affected by said report, where the same shall become a permanent record. Appeals may be taken from the decision of the board of directors in the same manner and with the same effect as provided in sections 37-23-103 to 37-23-105, and the board of directors shall modify said assessment of benefits so that the same shall conform to the changes made therein by reason of such appeal and shall certify and file the same with the county clerk and recorder of each county in which the district is located.

(3) Where the works set out in the plan for a drainage system of any drainage district are found insufficient to reclaim in whole or in part any or all of the land within the district, the board of directors may formulate new or amended plans, containing new ditches or other works or providing for the enlargement of existing ditches or other works, and additional assessments may be made in conformity with the provisions of this section, the same to be made in proportion to the increased benefits accruing to the lands within the district because of such additional works.

(4) After the list of lands with the assessed benefits has been filed in the office of the county clerk and recorder, the board of directors, without any unnecessary delay, shall levy a tax on such portion of said benefits on all lands in the district to which benefits have been assessed, as may be found necessary by the board of directors to pay the costs of the completion of the proposed plan for the drainage system and in carrying out the objects of the district, plus ten percent for emergencies.

37-23-111. Tax levies - how made. (1) The tax shall be apportioned to and levied on each tract of land in said district in proportion to the benefits assessed and not in excess thereof, and, in case bonds are issued, the amount of the interest, as estimated by said board of directors, which will accrue on such bonds shall be included and added to the tax, but the interest to accrue on such bonds shall not be construed as a part of the cost of construction in determining whether or not the expenses and costs of making said improvements are or are not equal to or in excess of the benefits assessed.

(2) In case bonds are issued, said tax shall be divided into such number of annual installments as will meet the requirements of and provide for the punctual payment of the interest upon and the principal of the bonds as the same accrue. In case the proceeds of the original tax levy are not sufficient to pay the principal of and the interest upon all of the bonds which may at any time be issued, then the board of directors shall make such additional levies upon the benefits assessed, but not in excess thereof, as are necessary to pay such principal and interest. If it is found at any time that the amount of total taxes levied is insufficient to pay the cost of the works set out in the plan for a drainage system or to pay the cost of the additional work, the board of directors may make an additional levy to provide funds to complete the work; but the total of all such levies shall not exceed the total amount of benefits assessed.

(3) The secretary of the district, as soon as said total tax is levied, at the expense of the district, shall prepare a list of all taxes levied in the form of a well-bound book, which book shall be endorsed and named: "..... Drainage District Assessment Book", which endorsement shall also be printed or written at the top of each page in said book, and it shall be signed and certified by the president and secretary of the district, under the seal thereof, and the same shall thereafter become a permanent record in the office of said secretary, and a certified copy thereof shall be transmitted to the proper county assessor.

ANNOTATION

Section contemplates punctual payment but hints at no remedy in case of failure. Henry Wilcox & Son v. Riverview Drainage Dist., 93 Colo. 115, 25 P.2d 172 (1933).

This section contains no authority for a cumulative or additional levy to pay the original issue. Henry Wilcox & Son v. Riverview Drainage Dist., 93 Colo. 115, 25 P.2d 172 (1933).

"Proceeds", used in this section, need not mean cash. If such had been the legislative intent, it was easy to use the word and avoid confusion. "Proceeds" is whatever the levy produces. It may be cash, it may be tax sale certificates, it may be both. Henry Wilcox & Son v. Riverview Drainage Dist., 93 Colo. 115, 25 P.2d 172 (1933).

37-23-112. Levy for alternative plan. In case the board of directors adopts the alternative method of assessment of benefits provided by sections 37-23-109 to 37-23-111, and after a tax has been levied upon the benefits so assessed for the purpose of paying the costs of completion of the proposed plan for the drainage system and carrying out the objects of the district, thereafter taxes may be levied for the purposes of meeting the maintenance, operating, and ordinary expenses of the district for the coming year and any deficiency in the payment of such expenses already incurred, and such taxes shall be levied in the manner provided by sections 37-23-107 and 37-23-108, with the exception that the amounts of money to be raised shall be apportioned among the several tracts assessed in proportion to the benefits assessed thereon under section 37-23-111 and with the further exception that the amount to be raised for the purposes of meeting the interest upon and the principal of the bonds of the district as the same accrue, together with any deficiencies in the payment of the same, shall be determined in the manner provided by sections 37-23-109 to 37-23-111, and shall so appear in the assessment roll provided by section 37-23-107.

37-23-113. Assessments - how made. (1) On or before September 1 in each year, the secretary shall transmit to the county assessor of each county a certified copy of so much of said assessment book as relates to land within the county of said county assessors, together with the certified copy of the order of the board of directors.

(2) Thereupon it is the duty of the county assessor, without expense to the drainage district, to assess and enter upon his records as assessor, in its appropriate column, the assessments so certified, which assessments shall be delivered to the county treasurer as part of the assessment roll in the same manner as general, state, and county taxes are certified by the county assessor to the county treasurer for collection.

Source: L. 11: p. 323, § 56. L. 21: p. 279, § 2. C.L. § 2170. CSA: C. 57, § 65. CRS 53: § 47-4-13. C.R.S. 1963: § 47-4-13.

37-23-114. State tax laws to apply. (1) The laws of this state for the collection of general taxes including the laws for the sale of property for taxes and the redemption of the same, except as modified in this section, shall apply and have full force and effect for the purposes of articles 20 to 30 of this title, and the provisions of said articles for collecting the same shall be deemed for the purpose of carrying into effect the police powers granted to drainage districts for the construction and maintenance of drainage systems and shall not be construed as imposing a special tax under the taxing power. In case of a sale of any lot or parcel of land or any interest therein for delinquent drainage district taxes or delinquent drainage district and other taxes, and there are no bids therefor on any of the days of such tax sale, the same shall be struck off to the drainage district in which such land is located for the amount of the taxes, interest, and costs thereon, and a certificate of sale shall be made out to the district therefor and delivered to its secretary, who shall file the same in the office of its board of directors and record the same in a book of public record to be kept by said board for such purpose, but no charge shall be made by the county treasurer for making such certificate, and in such case he shall make an entry on his records "struck off to ..... drainage district" as well as an entry showing the amount of the taxes and interest thereon for which said lands were offered for sale, together with the cost attending such sale. No taxes assessed against any land so struck off to said district under the provisions of this section shall be payable until the same has been derived by the district from the sale or redemption of such lands.

(2) Such drainage district or its assignee shall be entitled to a tax deed for said lands, in the same manner and subject to the same equities as if a private purchaser at said tax sale, upon the payment to the county treasurer at the time of demanding said deed of such sum as the board of county commissioners of such county at any regular or special meeting may decide for the payment of any delinquent general taxes, and if said deed is demanded by any assignee of the drainage district, then such assignee shall also pay to the county treasurer such additional amount as may be specified by the board of directors of the drainage district, as payment for any delinquent drainage district taxes.

(3) In case the owner of said lot or parcel of land, or interest therein, desires to redeem the same at any time before said tax deed is issued, the same may be done in the same manner as provided by law, in case said lot or parcel of land, or interest therein, has been purchased by a bidder at said tax sale or has been struck off to the county, and in such case the county treasurer shall forthwith issue a certificate of redemption therefor and notify the secretary of said fact, who shall thereupon make a suitable transfer entry upon his record aforesaid, and return the certificate of sale to the county treasurer for cancellation.

(4) In case any person desires to obtain such certificate of purchase so issued to said drainage district, the same may be done in the same manner as provided by law in case said lot or parcel of land, or interest therein, had been purchased by a bidder at said tax sale or had been struck off to the county, upon payment to the county treasurer of the required amount in cash, or in cash together with warrants not in excess of the drainage district and redemption fund tax, or in cash and in warrants and bonds and coupons respectively, not in excess of said respective funds.

(5) After any certificate of sale or tax deed has been issued to any drainage district, such drainage district or any assignee thereof may at any time commence an action in the district court in the county wherein the major portion of said drainage district lies, for the purpose of determining the validity of said tax sale. Such action shall be conducted in the same manner as an action to quiet title to real estate under the laws of the state; and after the final determination of such action, the validity of the taxes for which the property was sold and the legality of the proceedings taken in the sale of the property involved shall be incontestable between all persons and parties whatsoever.

ANNOTATION

Treasurer's deed issued at sale for failure to pay drainage assessment conveys land and water rights. This section confers upon drainage districts the power to assess water rights pertinent to lands in the district for drainage purposes, and a treasurer's deed to land issued in default of payment of assessments levied for such purposes conveys not only the land, but the water rights pertinent thereto including those represented by shares of stock. Comstock v. Olney Springs Drainage Dist., 97 Colo. 416, 50 P.2d 532 (1935).

37-23-115. Sale of property taxed. The board of directors of any drainage district may sell, dispose of, and convey, on behalf of such district, any real property to which such drainage district may take title by tax deed under the provisions of section 37-23-114, as said board may by resolution direct, either at public or private sale, at such price and upon such terms as said board may determine, and without any authorization from the electors of such district.

37-23-116. President to execute deed. The president of the board of directors of such drainage district, when authorized by resolution of the board of directors, is empowered to execute, acknowledge, and deliver any deeds of conveyance necessary to convey such real property to the purchaser thereof. The deed of conveyance shall be attested by the secretary of such drainage district under its seal, and when so executed such deed of conveyance shall be held to convey the entire title of such drainage district to the purchaser thereof.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Legal Classification of Special District Corporate Forms in Colorado", see 45 Den. L.J. 347 (1968).

Board must submit proposed expenditures even if work is done under its own supervision. The board of directors of a drainage district is not absolved from submitting a proposed expenditure of more than $10,000 to the owners of land within the district through an election as provided by § 37-21-114, even though the board proceeded to do construction work under its own supervision, as provided under this section, after releasing a contractor who had contracted to do such work. Swedlund v. Denver Joint Stock Land Bank, 108 Colo. 400, 118 P.2d 460 (1941).

37-24-102. Contractor - bond - engineer. The person to whom a contract may be awarded shall execute a bond in the penal sum of not less than ten percent of the contract price, with surety to be approved by the board of directors, payable to the drainage district, conditioned for the faithful performance of the contract. All work shall be done under the direction and to the satisfaction of the engineer employed by the drainage district subject to approval by the board of directors.

37-25-102. Notice of election - form of ballot. A notice of such election shall be given by posting notices in three public places in each election precinct in said district for at least twenty days and by publication of such notice in some newspaper published in the county where the office of the drainage district is required to be kept once a week for at least three successive weeks. The notice shall specify the time of holding the election and the amount of bonds proposed to be issued, and said election shall be held and the results thereof determined and declared in all respects as nearly as possible in conformity with the provisions of sections 37-21-105 to 37-21-108, 37-21-112, and 37-21-115 to 37-21-124 governing the election of directors. No informalities in conducting such election shall invalidate the same if the election has been otherwise fairly conducted. At such election the ballots shall contain the words "Bonds - Yes" or "Bonds - No".

37-25-103. Bonds - issuance - interest. (1) If a majority of the votes cast is "Bonds - Yes", the board of directors shall immediately cause bonds in such amount to be issued payable in series as follows: At the expiration of eleven years, not less than five percent of the whole amount of said bonds; at the expiration of twelve years, not less than six percent of the whole amount of said bonds; at the expiration of thirteen years, not less than seven percent of the whole amount of said bonds; at the expiration of fourteen years, not less than eight percent of the whole amount of said bonds; at the expiration of fifteen years, not less than nine percent of the whole amount of said bonds; at the expiration of sixteen years, not less than ten percent of the whole amount of said bonds; at the expiration of seventeen years, not less than eleven percent of the whole amount of said bonds; at the expiration of eighteen years, not less than thirteen percent of the whole amount of said bonds; at the expiration of nineteen years, not less than fifteen percent of the whole amount of said bonds; and, at the expiration of twenty years, a percentage sufficient to pay off the remainder of said bonds.

(2) The several enumerated percentages shall be of the entire amount of the bond issue.

(3) Each bond must be payable at the given time for its entire amount and not for a percentage.

(4) The said bonds shall bear interest at the rate of not to exceed eight percent per annum payable semiannually on June 1 and December 1 of each year. The principal and interest shall be payable at the office of the county treasurer of the county in which the organization of the district was effected and at such other place as the board of directors may designate in such bond.

37-25-104. Denomination - coupons - record. The bonds shall be of the denomination of one hundred dollars or five hundred dollars, negotiable in form, executed in the name of the district, and signed by the president and secretary, and the seal of the district shall be affixed thereto. The bonds shall be numbered consecutively and bear the date of their issue. Coupons for the interest shall be attached to each bond bearing the lithographed signatures of the president and secretary. The bonds shall express on their face that they are issued by the authority of articles 20 to 30 of this title. The secretary shall keep a record of the bonds sold, their number, date of sale, the price received, and the name of the purchaser.

Wilcox & Son v. Riverview Drainage Dist., 93 Colo. 115, 25 P.2d 172 (1933).

37-25-107. Sale of bonds - procedure. The board of directors may sell bonds from time to time in such quantities as may be necessary and most advantageous to raise the money to carry out the objects and purposes of articles 20 to 30 of this title. Before making any sale, the board, by resolution, shall declare its intention to sell a specified amount of the bonds and the day and hour and place of such sale and shall cause such resolution to be entered in the minutes and notice of the sale to be given by publication thereof for at least twenty days in a daily newspaper published in the city of Denver and in any other newspaper at its discretion.

ANNOTATION

Water rights for irrigation are real property. Comstock v. Olney Springs Drainage Dist., 97 Colo. 416, 50 P.2d 531 (1935).

Bonds are secured by lien on irrigated land. Considering all the pertinent provisions of articles 22 to 33 of this title and the purpose sought to be accomplished, it is evident that the general assembly intended that the bonds should be secured by a lien upon irrigated land. It is inconceivable that investors would purchase the bonds if they were secured by a lien on only dry land. Comstock v. Olney Springs Drainage Dist., 97 Colo. 416, 50 P.2d 531 (1935).

37-25-110. Confirmation of bonds. Whether or not said bonds or any of them have been sold or disposed of, the board of directors of a drainage district may commence special proceedings in the district court of the county where the office of the drainage district is kept, in and by which the proceedings of said board of said district providing for and authorizing the issue and sale of the bonds of said district may be judicially examined, approved, and confirmed. The proceeding thereon shall be in conformity with the law regulating like proceedings for the examination, approval, and confirmation of the organization and bonds of irrigation districts.

37-26-101. Refunding bonds may be issued. The board of directors of any drainage district in this state has the power, under the conditions in this article, to issue negotiable coupon bonds to be denominated “refunding bonds” for the purpose of paying, redeeming, or compromising outstanding bonds of the district and any unpaid matured interest on such outstanding bonds, whether such outstanding bonds are due or not, or payable at the option of the district or by consent of the bondholders, and whether such bonds are outstanding or are issued on or after April 24, 1933. Such refunding bonds shall not exceed in amount the principal sum of the bonds outstanding and the unpaid matured interest thereon at the time of the issue of the refunding bonds. The rate of interest on such refunding bonds shall not exceed the rate on the bonds so refunded, and in no event shall interest exceed six percent per annum. Such refunding bonds may be issued and used to redeem or compromise all or any part of one or more issues of bonds outstanding at the time of refunding, together with unpaid matured interest thereon.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, “Legal Classification of Special District Corporate Forms in Colorado”, see Den. L.J. 347 (1968).

37-26-102. Refunding bonds issued - when. Such refunding bonds shall be issued in lieu of the bonds and interest refunded; shall evidence the same indebtedness; shall be supported by the same liens, assessments, appraised benefits, and levies; and, except as to time of payments, amounts, and rates of interest, shall be payable therefrom in the same manner as the bonds refunded, but said refunding bonds shall not constitute a blanket indebtedness or lien on lands within such drainage district unless provided for on the face of the bonds.

37-26-103. Elections. Whenever it is desired to issue refunding bonds, the board of directors of the district shall call a special election of the qualified voters of said district at which there shall be submitted the question of issuing refunding bonds, or the question may be submitted at a general election in the district. Said election shall be held and the result thereof determined and declared in all respects as nearly as possible in conformity with the provisions of sections 37-21-105 to 37-21-108, 37-21-112, and 37-21-115 to 37-21-124 governing the election of drainage district directors; but no informalities in conducting such election shall invalidate the same if the election has been otherwise fairly conducted. Notice of said election shall be published in three consecutive weekly issues of a newspaper of general circulation in the district, and a copy of said notice shall be posted for fifteen days in three public places in the district. Said notice shall specify the time and places of holding said election; the bonds and interest to be refunded; and the amount and maturity of and the rate of interest on the proposed refunding bonds. Every owner of land within said district who is a citizen of the United States or has declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States, and is a resident of the state of Colorado, shall be entitled to vote at such election in the precinct where he resides, or if a nonresident of the district, then in the precinct within which the greater portion of his land lies. At such election the ballots shall contain the words “Refunding Bonds - Yes” and “Refunding Bonds - No”, and the voter shall place a cross mark (X) opposite the words expressing his choice. If a majority of the votes cast are "Refunding Bonds - Yes", bonds may be issued in accordance with the proposition submitted.

Cross references: For publication of legal notices, see part 1 of article 70 of title 24.

37-26-104. Maturity and form. Whenever refunding bonds are authorized, the board of directors shall provide therefor by resolution designating the date, denomination, rate of interest, maturity, one or more places of payment within or without the state of Colorado, and the form of such bonds. Such bonds shall be executed by the president and attested by the secretary, countersigned by the district treasurer, and sealed with the seal of the district. The interest accruing on such bonds shall be evidenced by semiannual interest coupons bearing the original or facsimile signature of the president. The district treasurer shall make a record of all refunding bonds issued in a book to be kept in his office for that purpose.

37-26-105. Mature serially. The refunding bonds shall mature serially, the first payment to be in not more than five years and the last payment in not more than thirty-five years from the date of the bonds; but each bond issued shall be redeemable at the option of the district five years prior to its maturity and on any interest-paying date thereafter. Interest on any bond called for payment shall cease thirty days after publication of a notice of call in a newspaper published or of general circulation in the district. Consistently with the denomination of the bonds issued, maturities shall be in substantially equal annual amounts of principal, or in such amounts as will require substantially equal annual assessments for principal and interest throughout the period, commencing not later than five years after the date of the bonds.

37-26-106. Refunding bonds exchanged - when. The refunding bonds may be exchanged for the outstanding bonds and interest so refunded, or they may be sold, in which latter event, the proceeds shall be used solely for the purpose of paying the principal of and the interest on the bonds refunded, and for improvement of the district. In no event shall the principal amount of refunding bonds issued exceed the amount of outstanding bonds and matured interest coupons surrendered and canceled simultaneously with the issuance of refunding bonds. Any exchange or sale of refunding bonds shall be made in such manner as to cause no loss of interest to the district.

37-26-107. Consent of unknown bondholders. If the board of directors of any drainage district issuing or intending to issue refunding bonds desires to obtain the constructive consent of unknown and nonconsenting holders of bonds or claims for interest thereon desired to be retired or refunded under this article, such board of directors, before selling or otherwise disposing of any such refunding bonds, shall declare by resolution its intention of selling or otherwise disposing of the same and shall cause such resolution to be entered on its minutes and shall cause notice of sale or other disposition to be given by publication thereof at least once a week for four consecutive weeks in three newspapers published in the state of Colorado, one of which shall be a newspaper published in the city of Denver and one of which shall be a newspaper published in the county in which the office of the board of directors is situated.

Source: L. 33: p. 454, § 7. CSA: C. 57, § 101. CRS 53: § 47-7-7. C.R.S. 1963: § 47-7-7.

37-26-108. Bondholders to offer to exchange bonds. (1) Before authorizing the issuance of such refunding bonds, the board of directors, if it desires to obtain such constructive consent, shall require that the known holders, or their representatives, of not less than eighty percent of the total in amount of all of such bonds or unpaid interest which is to be retired or refunded shall submit to said board for its acceptance an offer to deliver and surrender up all such bonds or interest coupons in exchange for bonds or cash, not exceeding the maximum amount of the total of such bonds and unpaid interest, or to accept in full payment of all such outstanding bonds, interest, and interest coupons so held by any person, association, firm, or corporation a sum of money or refunding bonds representing the proportion which such total proposed refunding bond issue or cash bears to such total outstanding bonds and interest proposed to be refunded, satisfied, and discharged, based on the par value of such proposed refunding bonds or cash. Such creditors and owners of such bonds and interest of such district shall agree to absorb the loss between the amount of such total outstanding bonds and interest and the amount of refunding bonds, at par, or cash, and to receive such refunding bonds, or cash, in full payment, satisfaction and discharge of such outstanding bonds and interest. Such known creditors or their representatives shall agree to make such proper pro rata distribution of such refunding bonds or cash or the proceeds from the sale thereof or cash as shall be required to retire and discharge said total outstanding bonds and interest proposed to be refunded. Such offer shall be in writing and shall be irrevocable when once submitted to said board until after said board has the opportunity to authorize the issuance, sale, or delivery of refunding bonds to replace and discharge such outstanding bonds and interest on acceptance of such offer.

(2) Any litigation which is sought to or which will restrain or prevent said board from issuing and delivering such refunding bonds shall not subject said offer to revocation until after the same is concluded and such board has a reasonable time thereafter in which to issue, sell, or deliver such refunding bonds, and said offer shall be deemed accepted by said board upon such delivery. For the purpose of obtaining the constructive consent of the unknown holders of said bonds and interest, whether bonds or interest coupons, or interest on bonds, and of such holders of such bonds and interest due thereon, who have not given their consent in writing, said board of directors of said drainage district shall file in the district court of the county in which is located the office of said drainage district a petition in rem, duly verified by the oath of the president or secretary of said district, in which shall be set forth the plan theretofore adopted by such district for retiring or refunding such bonds and interest due thereon of the district proposed to be retired or refunded. Said petition shall further recite what percentage in amount, and which percentage shall not be less than eighty percent of the holders of said bonds, and interest thereon to be retired or refunded, have filed their written consent to said proposed plan, and shall further set forth what steps have been taken to obtain the consent of all nonconsenting holders of such bonds, or interest thereon to be retired or refunded. Upon the presentation of said petition to the judge of said district court, either in open court or in chambers, said judge shall authorize said district to publish and said district shall cause to be published, at least once in each of three newspapers published within the state of Colorado, to be by the court designated, one of which papers shall be published in the county in which the office of the board of directors is situated, and one which shall be a newspaper published in the city of Denver, a notice describing the substance of the terms of settlement under which the bonds or interest coupons of the district are to be surrendered, refunded, satisfied, compromised, exchanged, or discharged under the provisions of this article.

(3) Said notice shall contain a general description of the bonds and interest coupons to be refunded and retired, and the amount thereof, and also a general description of the refunding bonds to be issued and shall require all holders of such bonds or interest coupons so to be retired and refunded to file in said matter of said petition in said district court their written dissent from, or objection to, said proposed plan of settlement in said notice described; and, if such dissent in writing shall not be filed in said court within ninety days from the date of the first publication of said notice, the owners and holders of such bonds or interest coupons failing to file such dissent or objection shall be deemed to have consented to said refunding, compromise, or settlement of said indebtedness under the terms and conditions set forth in said notice. After the expiration of ninety days from the date of the first publication of said notice, the holders of said bonds or interest coupons so failing to file their objections and protests with said court will be deemed to have consented to said refunding, compromise, or settlement of said indebtedness under the terms set forth in said notice; and such failure within said time to file such objections and protests with said court shall be the equivalent of the offer in writing signed by known consenting holders of such bonds or interest coupons.

37-26-109. District to file verified return - decree. (1) After the expiration of ninety days from the date of the first publication of said notice, said district shall file in the proceeding in said district court its verified return of its acts under the order of the court theretofore made, attaching thereto affidavits of the printers or publishers of said newspapers of the publication of said notice in three newspapers.

(2) Thereupon said court shall forthwith hear said cause and shall enter a decree of court adjudging that all owners and holders of said bonds, or interest coupons to be retired or refunded by said plan and proceeding of the district, who have not within ninety days after the date of the first publication of said notice filed in said court their written dissent and objections to the proceedings have consented that their said bonds or interest coupons be retired or refunded under the proposed plan. In the decree the court shall direct the officers of said district to deposit with the Colorado water conservation board, as trustee for the persons entitled thereto, the pro rata part of the cash or refunding bonds which, under said settlement, belongs to the holders of said bonds, claims for interest, or interest coupons whose consent was so obtained by said court proceedings.

(3) Said decree shall further provide that, upon the payment of said money or bonds or interest coupons to the Colorado water conservation board as trustee, said bonds or interest coupons so held by said holders shall be deemed paid and no longer an obligation of said district and that, upon the surrender to the Colorado water conservation board of said bonds, together with the unpaid interest coupons belonging to same, the Colorado water conservation board shall pay on demand to said holders their pro rata part of the moneys or bonds so deposited with it as trustee and shall mark said bonds canceled and deliver same to the drainage district.

37-26-111. Assessment to pay bonds and interest. The refunding bonds and interest thereon shall be paid from annual assessments levied upon the real property within the district, and such real property shall be and remain liable to be assessed for such payments.

Except when refunding bonds are issued for unpaid matured interest, no existing lien or liability created by an original issue of bonds shall be increased by issuing bonds to refund such original bonds. The board of directors of any district issuing refunding bonds shall take the same steps and adopt the same proceedings with respect to ordering and certifying such annual assessments, and county officers shall collect and enforce the same in the same manner as provided by law for the levy, certification, and collection of assessments for the payment of bonds refunded and interest thereon; except that amounts for principal and interest shall be ordered, certified, and collected separately.

37-26-112. Collection and record of assessment. The county treasurer shall collect said assessments at the time of and simultaneously with the collection of general taxes, but the property owner may pay the general and school taxes separately from the drainage district assessments. The county treasurer shall keep a separate record of principal and interest payments. Assessments for interest shall not be construed to be part of the cost of construction or a charge against any benefits theretofore appraised.

37-26-113. Assessments on a parity with general taxes. The lien of assessments to pay refunding bonds and the interest thereon shall be on a parity with the lien of general taxes, and no sale of property for the nonpayment of general taxes shall extinguish the lien of such assessments. Except as provided by this article, the lien of any assessment levied against appraised benefits or otherwise for the payment of an original issue of bonds and interest thereon shall continue and persist for the benefit of the owners of refunding bonds, which owners shall be subrogated to all the rights and remedies of the owners of bonds refunded; except that if there is a reduction in the amount of outstanding bonds there shall be a corresponding reduction in the amount of the lien.

37-26-114. Money applied proportionately - when. In the event there shall not be sufficient funds to the credit of a district for the payment in full of an installment of principal or interest when due, the district treasurer shall apply the money in the respective funds in proportionate payments on all bonds or coupons then due, endorsing on the bonds or coupons a notation showing the payments made. After respective maturities, the district treasurer shall make disbursements whenever he has sufficient funds to pay five percent of the total principal or twenty-five percent of the total interest due at maturity.

37-26-115. Matured bonds used for paying assessments. Refunding bonds of any maturity may be used at face value in paying assessments levied to pay the principal of refunding bonds, if bonds so used have all future due coupons thereto attached and no credit shall be allowed for such coupons. Interest coupons maturing in any year may be used at face value in paying interest assessments which become due and payable in that year.

37-26-117. Manner of releasing lands from lien. (1) Any tract of land or part thereof in any drainage district issuing refunding bonds may be released from the lien of assessments to pay such bonds in the following manner:

(a) (I) If the bonds to be refunded were issued upon the basis of an assessment for benefits pursuant to the provisions of sections 37-23-101 to 37-23-106, the proportionate share of the outstanding debt chargeable to the particular tract to be released shall be determined by the board of directors of the district on application by the landowner.

(II) In making its determination the board shall take into consideration the basis of assessment on the land in question, the total authorized outstanding debt refunded, the amount of land involved in relation to the total amount of land in the district subject to assessment, the unpaid assessments against the particular land, and all other matters necessary for a proper computation and shall add thereto ten percent of such amount. The board shall make and enter in its records a certificate of such determination, and a certified copy thereof shall be delivered to the district treasurer, who shall accept refunding bonds of any maturity at face value or cash, or both, in full payment of the final amount so determined. At the time of any such payment, the district treasurer shall issue a receipt which shall be filed in the office of the county assessor and may be recorded in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the county in which the land is situate. After any such payment, the particular land shall be forever released and discharged from the lien on the bonds evidencing the particular debt and all assessments levied or to be levied to pay the principal thereof and the interest thereafter due.

(b) If at or prior to the time of the issuance of the bonds to be refunded benefits were appraised pursuant to the provisions of sections 37-23-109 to 37-23-111, any particular tract of land or part thereof may be released upon payment of refunding bonds of any maturity at face value or cash, or both, in an amount equal to any unpaid interest then due plus the benefits appraised against the land, deducting principal amounts theretofore paid. The procedure for releasing land and the effect thereof shall be the same as prescribed in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1).

(c) (I) Any tract of land or part thereof may be released pursuant to a written agreement between the district and its bondholders, under which a landowner may pay an amount less than his proportionate share, if the same is determined under paragraph (a) of this subsection (1), or less than the benefits appraised against his land, deducting principal amounts theretofore paid, the same is determined under paragraph (b) of this subsection (1). Any such agreement may provide for a general revision, reduction, or cancellation of classifications, assessments, or appraised benefits, but there shall be no increase thereof without the written consent of the landowner affected thereby.

(II) Except as provided by any such written agreement, the procedure for releasing land and the effect thereof shall be the same as prescribed in paragraph (b) of this subsection (1). A certified copy of any such agreement shall be filed with the district treasurer and with the assessor of each county in which the district is located.

37-26-118. Expenses not released. No release of land under section 37-26-117 shall relieve such land from paying its proportionate share of maintenance and operating expenses of the district.

Source: L. 33: p. 462, § 15. CSA: C. 57, § 112. CRS 53: § 47-7-18. C.R.S. 1963: § 47-7-18.

37-26-119. District may change classification. Any district intending to issue bonds pursuant to this article may revise, reduce, or cancel classifications of land, assessments, or assessments of or for benefits in substantially the same manner as provided by the laws existing at the time of the original classification or assessments; but no parcel of land shall ever be liable for the payment of an amount greater than the amount for which the land was liable under its original classification or assessment, and the total assessments levied shall not be less than the principal amount of refunding bonds to be issued. Thereafter the qualified voters of the district may vote refunding bonds based upon such reclassification or reassessment of or for benefits. Refunding bonds so authorized may be exchanged on a compromise basis for outstanding bonds and unpaid matured interest thereon, with such owners thereof as may be willing to make such exchange. The rate of interest on such refunding bonds shall not exceed the rate on the bonds refunded, and in no event shall such rate exceed six percent per annum. Refunding bonds issued in accordance with this section shall be secured only by their proportionate share of such new classifications or assessments, and that fact shall be set forth on the face of each refunding bond issued.

Inclusion of Lands in District

37-27-101. Inclusion of contiguous land. 37-27-102. Cities and towns included.

37-27-101. Inclusion of contiguous land. Upon petition of the owner of a tract of land and the payment of a sum equal to the past due assessments upon the same after a classification thereof upon a graduated scale by the board of directors as provided in section 37-23-101, so that the tract is upon an equal footing with other lands of the district, the board of directors may authorize the inclusion of any tract of land contiguous to the existing boundaries of said district and capable of being drained by said drainage system, and thereupon said lands shall become liable for all future assessments which may become due or are levied for drainage purposes within said drainage district, and the cost of any such proceeding for the inclusion of land shall be borne by the applicant.

37-27-102. Cities and towns included. The lands within the boundaries of any city or town organized and existing under the general laws of this state or under article XX of the state constitution requiring drainage in whole or in part and susceptible of drainage by the drainage ditch, system, or works of any drainage district or proposed drainage district organized or proposed to be organized pursuant to the laws of the state of Colorado relating to the formation of drainage districts may be included within and made a part of any such drainage district upon the presentation to the board of directors of such district, or to the proper board of county commissioners, in case such district has not been organized, of a petition for such inclusion signed by a majority of the owners of such lands, whether residents or nonresidents of such city or town, as well as by the owners in the aggregate of the majority of the total number of acres of such land to be included, exclusive of the land occupied by public streets and alleys, public parks, and any other lands owned by any municipality. Such city or town shall bear the expense of the drainage of all area included with the streets, alleys, public parks, or other lands owned by it. It is the duty of the city council or board of trustees of such city or town to annually certify the amount necessary to pay the drainage assessments as authorized by said drainage district to the taxing tribunal, with instructions to such taxing tribunal to make a levy against the taxable property within such city or town for such purpose as provided by law in other cases of special assessment. Any inclusion of the lands within any city or town shall be subject to all of the provisions and conditions of articles 20 to 30 of this title.

Voluntary Districts

37-28-101.	Formation of voluntary dis- tricts.	37-28-102.	Method of organization.
------------	--	------------	-------------------------

37-28-101. Formation of voluntary districts. Whenever the owners of lands which may require a combined system of drainage shall unanimously and mutually agree upon a system of drainage and the character of work necessary to be done to drain their lands and the amount of money each shall contribute towards said proposed works, they may reduce their agreement to writing specifying the boundary lines of said voluntary district and the lands therein, in one hundred sixty acre tracts or smaller tracts if necessary, giving the names of the owners of each tract of land specifying the work which they propose shall be done, the name of the drainage district, and also the names of three persons among their number who shall act as directors until the annual election, and they may agree upon any other lawful matter or thing which they may deem pertinent to the work proposed.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, “Legal Classification of Special District Corporate Forms in Colorado”, see 45 Den. L.J. 347 (1968).

37-28-102. Method of organization. (1) Said owners shall submit such agreement to the board of county commissioners of the county wherein the major part of the lands proposed to be included in such district may be situated and shall submit therewith a plat of the land giving a general description of the same, and the said board of county commissioners as soon thereafter as may be practicable shall carefully consider all questions involved and shall make a personal inspection of the land proposed to be included in said voluntary district or may employ some competent engineer or surveyor to examine and report to said board on the same, and the expense of such surveyor or engineer, including any expense that the board of county commissioners may incur in the examination of such project, shall be paid by the parties to such voluntary agreement, and the board of county commissioners may require a deposit to be made with the county treasurer of the county to protect the county against such expense.

(2) If such board of county commissioners is satisfied that the plan proposed is practicable and will be conducive to the public health, convenience, utility, or welfare and that the agreement submitted is fair and equitable in all respects considering the benefits which the respective lands will receive from such voluntary drainage system, then the board of county commissioners shall enter an order upon their records approving such agreement and shall file the same with the accompanying plat in the office of the county clerk and recorder of said county. If such district extends into more than one county, a certified copy of the agreement and plat, together with a certified copy of the said order of the board of county commissioners, shall be filed by the parties to such agreement with the county clerk and recorder of such other counties, and thereupon the said drainage district shall be fully organized and established and have all the powers of drainage districts. The directors so named in said agreement shall then possess all the powers and proceed in like manner as before designated in the case of directors of districts organized by petition, and the agreement provided for in this article shall constitute a charter of authority of such voluntary district, and all lands subscribed to and voluntarily included in said district shall be considered as a unit or but one tract of land in the determination of any question or right or duty as between said voluntary district and any lands outside thereof, whether lying above, below, or adjacent to said district.

37-29-101. Dissolution - procedure. Whenever a majority of the owners of land within a drainage district representing also a majority of the whole number of acres of land within the district petitions the board of directors to call a special election for the purpose of submitting to the qualified electors of said drainage district a proposition to dissolve such district, it is the duty of such board of directors, upon proof that all claims and bills of the district of every kind or nature whatsoever have been fully paid, to call an election for the purpose of submitting the question of the dissolution of such district to the qualified voters thereof and to cause a notice setting forth the object of such election to be posted in the office of the district and in six public places within such district and to be published in some newspaper of general circulation and published in each county in which any portion of said district may lie for a period of thirty days prior to said election. Said notice shall set forth the time and place for holding said election in each precinct within said district. It is the duty of the board of directors to prepare ballots to be used at such elections on which shall be written or printed the words "For dissolution" and "Against dissolution" and to appoint judges and clerks of elections as in other elections of the district. No district shall be dissolved which has claims, bills, bonds, or indebtedness outstanding or unpaid, and the attempted dissolution of such a district shall be null, void, and of no force and effect.

Law reviews. For article, "Legal Classification of Special District Corporate Forms in Colorado", see 45 Den. L.J. 347 (1968).

37-29-102. Canvass of votes - order of dissolution. (1) The board of directors, upon the day specified in the notice of election as the day for the canvassing of the vote of such election, shall proceed to canvass the votes cast at said election, and if it appears from such canvass that a majority of the ballots cast at said election were “For dissolution”, then the board of directors shall forthwith make and enter in their records an order declaring said district to be duly dissolved and disorganized, which order shall contain a complete copy of said petition for dissolution, including the signatures thereto attached and a duly authenticated copy of the published notice of such election, together with copies of the publisher’s affidavit of publication. The order shall state that an election was called and set for the ..... day of ....., A. D., ....., that on said day the election was held and that so many votes, stating the number, were cast for dissolution and so many votes were cast against dissolution.

(2) Said board of directors shall cause a copy of said order, duly certified by the president and attested by the secretary of the board of directors under the seal of the district, to be filed for record in the office of the county clerk and recorder of each county within which any portion of such district extends, and it is the duty of said county clerk and recorders to forthwith file and record said certified copies, whereupon said district shall be dissolved and shall cease to exist.

(3) If it appears upon the canvass of said vote so cast at the election that a majority of the votes were against dissolution, then the board of directors shall declare the proposition lost and shall thereupon enter an order to that effect in the records of the district but shall not file such order with the county clerk and recorders of the counties into which such district extends.

37-31-102. Grand Valley drainage district created - boundaries - inclusion of land.

(1) There is hereby created the Grand Valley drainage district. Said district is declared to be a body corporate under the laws of Colorado and by said name may sue and defend any actions, suits, and proceedings. Said district, situate in the county of Mesa, Colorado, shall be comprised of the district now known as Grand Junction drainage district and is included within, and may expand beyond, the following boundaries: Beginning at a point bearing south twenty-nine degrees, thirty minutes west, five hundred fifty-five feet from the east quarter corner of section three, in township eleven south of range ninety-eight west of the sixth principal meridian, in Mesa county, Colorado, said point being identical with the headgate of that certain canal heretofore known and designated as canal No. 2 of the High Line Mutual Irrigation Company, as shown by the plat thereof of record in the office of the clerk and recorder of said Mesa county, Colorado, in ditch plat book three, at pages 14 and 15, said canal being now generally known and designated as the "stub ditch" of the Mesa county irrigation district, and running thence westerly along the northerly bank or line of said canal No. 2, now known as the stub ditch, to the point where the northerly line or bank of said canal intersects the west line of the northwest quarter of section five, in township one south of range one east of the Ute principal meridian; thence south along said west line to the northerly bank or line of that certain canal heretofore known and designated as canal No. 1 of the High Line Mutual Irrigation Company, said canal being now commonly known and designated as the Price ditch, of the Palisade irrigation district; thence southwesterly along the northerly line or bank of said Price ditch to the intersection thereof with the "Indian Waste", in the southeast quarter of section six, in township one south of range one east of the Ute principal meridian; thence along the west side or line of said "Indian Waste" in a general southerly direction to the intersection of said west line or bank with the northerly line or bank of the Grand Valley canal in the northeast quarter of section seven in township one south of range one east of the Ute principal meridian; thence along the northerly line or bank of said Grand Valley canal of the Grand Valley Irrigation Company, including under the name "Grand Valley Canal" that part thereof sometimes known and designated as "The Grand Valley High Line" ditch or canal of the Grand Valley Irrigation Company, to the end of said Grand Valley canal, also sometimes known as "The High Line Canal" of the Grand Valley Irrigation Company, said point being the beginning of that certain ditch or canal of the Grand Valley Irrigation Company commonly known and designated as the Kiefer extension ditch or canal, in section thirty-six in township two north of range three west of the Ute principal meridian; thence along the right line or bank of said Kiefer extension ditch or canal to the end thereof, the same being at a point on the northerly bank of the Grand river, now the Colorado river, in section ten, in township one north of range three west of the Ute principal meridian; thence up and along the northerly line or bank of said Grand river, now the Colorado river, to the point of beginning; including all the territory embraced and included within the corporate limits of the town of Palisade. The boundaries of the district shall exist entirely within the boundaries of Mesa county.

(2) Upon petition of the owner of a tract of land located within Mesa county and capable of receiving benefit from the district, the board of directors may authorize the inclusion of said tract within the district. The petition shall describe the boundaries of said tract of land and shall be signed by the petitioner.

(3) Within thirty days following the filing of such petition, the board of directors shall fix a time and place for a public hearing and conduct said hearing on the petition, at which time all objections thereto shall be presented in writing. Failure of any person to object in writing shall be held as an assent on his part to the inclusion of such tract of land in the drainage district. If the petition is granted, the board shall make an order to that effect, and the property involved shall be included in the district. After inclusion of the tract within the district, the owner of said tract shall become liable for all future assessments within said drainage district.

37-31-104. Government of district. The district shall be managed and controlled by a board of three members known as the board of directors. The district shall be divided into three divisions with the same boundaries as the three divisions of the Grand Valley drainage district. The voters of each division shall elect one director from electors residing in said division. In the case of the inclusion of any tract of land within the district pursuant to section 37-31-102 (2), at least thirty days prior to the next succeeding regular election, the board of directors shall issue an order redividing such district into three divisions, as nearly equal in size as may be practicable.

37-31-109. Regular election - directors elected. (1) The regular election in said district for the purpose of electing a board of directors shall be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday of May of each year, beginning with 2008, at which time one director shall be elected for a term of three years. Any director whose term expires before May 2008 shall remain in office until the election of directors in May 2008. Persons residing within each division and qualified to vote at general county elections shall be entitled to vote for the director representing that division.

(2) Special elections may be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in February, May, October, or December, except for ballot issue elections, which may be held only in a state general election, the regular district election, on the first Tuesday in November of odd-numbered years, or by mail ballot.

37-31-137. Property taxable and service fees chargeable by district. (1) In order to carry out the purposes of the district and the provisions of this article, the board of directors has the following powers:

(a) Within the limits of the Grand Valley drainage district, to levy taxes of the same kinds and classes upon the taxable property, real, personal, or mixed, which is subject to taxation for state and county purposes in accordance with the laws of this state;

(b) To designate specially benefited areas within the district as improvement districts and to levy, collect, and cause to be collected assessments fixed against real property in any such improvement district within the district;

(c) To fix and, from time to time, increase or decrease and collect and cause to be collected rates, fees, and other service charges pertaining to the facilities of the district and to pledge revenues derived from such service charges for the payment of district securities. The board of directors may enforce the collection of such revenues by civil action or by any other means provided by law. Service charges may include, without limitation, minimum charges and charges for availability of the facilities or services relating to the facilities of the district. Such service charges may be charged to and collected in advance or otherwise by the district at any time or from time to time from any person owning real property within the district or from any occupancy of such property which directly or indirectly is, or has been, or will be connected with the district drainage system. Such service charges, as nearly as the district deems practicable and equitable, shall be reasonable and uniform for the same type, class, and amount of use. Reasonable penalties may be fixed for any delinquencies, including, without limitation, interest on delinquent service charges from any date due at a rate of not more than one percent per month, or fraction thereof, reasonable attorney fees, and other costs of collection. The district may prescribe and, when necessary, revise a schedule of such service charges.

37-31-147. Majority vote bonds issued - form of bonds and coupons. If the majority of the votes cast is "Bonds - Yes", the board of directors shall issue negotiable coupon bonds of the district. Bonds shall bear interest at a rate or rates such that the net effective interest rate of the issue of bonds does not exceed the maximum net effective interest rate authorized, payable semiannually, and shall be due and payable serially, either annually or semiannually, commencing not later than three years and extending not more than twenty years from date. The form and terms of said bonds, including provisions for their payment and redemption, shall be determined by the board. If the board so determines, such bonds may be redeemable prior to maturity upon payment of a premium, not exceeding three percent of the principal thereof. Said bonds shall be executed in the name of and on behalf of the district and signed by the president with the seal of the district affixed thereto and attested by the secretary. Said bonds shall be in such denominations as the board shall determine, and the bonds and coupons thereto attached shall be payable to bearer. Interest coupons shall bear the original or facsimile signature of the president.

37-31-150. Levy of tax for payment. For the half-yearly interest accruing on such bonds actually issued and delivered, the board of directors of said district shall levy annually a sufficient tax to fully discharge such interest, and, for the ultimate redemption of such bonds, they shall levy annually such tax upon all the taxable property of such district as will create a yearly fund sufficient to pay the bonds maturing in such year. All taxes for interest on and for the redemption of such bonds shall be paid in cash only and shall be kept by the district treasurer as a special fund to be used in payment of interest on, and for the payment of, such bonds annually, and such tax shall be levied and collected as other taxes. If the board of directors of the district fails to levy and certify such taxes to the board of county commissioners of Mesa county, it nevertheless is the duty of such board of county commissioners to levy such taxes.

37-31-152. Right of eminent domain. The board of directors has the power to construct the said works across any watercourse, street, avenue, highway, railway, canal, or ditch which the route of such drainage system or any branch thereof intersects or crosses. If any railroad company or the owners and controllers of said property, thing, and franchise to be crossed or the owner of land necessary for said drainage district and the board of directors cannot agree upon the amount to be paid therefor, the same shall be ascertained and determined in all respects as is provided by law in respect to the taking of land for public uses by the exercise of the right of eminent domain, the right to the exercise of which is conferred on said drainage district. Such right of eminent domain shall be exercised in the manner prescribed by article 1 of title 38, C.R.S., provided a juror in such proceeding shall not be disqualified by reason of being a resident or taxpayer within said district.

37-31-153. Publication of notice for bids. After adopting a plan for a drainage system, the board of directors may give notice by publication in a newspaper published within said district, in two consecutive publications of said newspaper, and in such other newspapers as may be deemed advisable, calling for bids for the construction of said work or any portion thereof; if less than the whole, then the portion of said system to be constructed shall be described in the notice. The notice shall set forth where the plans and specifications may be seen and that sealed proposals will be received at the office of the drainage district and a contract let to the lowest responsible bidder, giving the time and place for opening the proposals, which, at said time and place, shall be opened in public. The board of directors may enter into a contract, subject to the provisions of section 37-31-119, with the lowest responsible bidder for the construction of the whole or any portion of the work mentioned in the notice, or may reject all bids and readvertise for proposals, or may proceed to construct the work under the supervision of the board of directors.

37-31-154. Contractor's bond - engineer to supervise. The person to whom the contract may be awarded shall execute a bond in the penal sum of not less than twenty percent of the contract price, with surety to be approved by the board of directors, payable to the drainage district and conditioned upon the faithful performance of the contract. All work shall be done under the direction and to the satisfaction of the engineer employed by the drainage district and subject to approval by the board of directors.

37-31-155. Use of existing drainage works. If, after adopting plans for the drainage of the district, it is found that any ditch or drainage work has been constructed in whole or in part conforming with the general plan of drainage for the district, the board may contract for the use and control of such drainage ditch or work, which use and control may be exclusive in said district, or it may be in conjunction with those owning or controlling such ditch or drainage work.

37-31-157. Proof of existence of district. In all actions, suits, and judicial proceedings in any court in this state, the court shall take judicial notice of the organization and existence of the district from and after the filing for record in the office of the county clerk and recorder of Mesa county, Colorado, of a certified copy of the order of the board of directors of said district made at the time of the organization of the board. A certified copy of such order shall be prima facie evidence in all actions, suits, and proceedings in any court in this state of the regular and legal formation or organization of said district, and, if the formation or organization of said district has not been questioned by proceedings in quo warranto instituted in the district court of Mesa county, Colorado, within sixty days after the date of filing of such order, it shall be conclusive evidence of its due and lawful formation and organization. The said order shall state that no sufficient remonstrance was filed as in this article provided and that the Grand Valley drainage district was organized.

37-32-101. Legislative declaration. The general assembly declares that this article is necessary by reason of general economic conditions now prevailing in the agricultural sections of this state. Said conditions make it impossible for the owners of land in many such districts to pay the general and special taxes and assessments levied against their property. As a result thereof the delinquencies seriously affect the ability of counties and other governmental agencies in which such districts are located to obtain the revenue necessary to conduct governmental functions. The relief afforded to such districts by this article is urgently necessary in order to permit the performance of local governmental functions of the state in those sections thereof in which such districts are located.

37-32-102. Irrigation or drainage districts authorized to file petition and carry out plan of composition. Any irrigation or drainage district organized under the laws of the state of Colorado is authorized to take advantage of the provisions of an act of the congress of the United States entitled “An Act to establish a uniform system of bankruptcy throughout the United States.”, approved July 1, 1898, and all acts amendatory thereof or supplementary thereto. Any such district is hereby specifically authorized to file the petition mentioned in chapter 9 of the federal bankruptcy code of 1978 (Title 11 of the United States Code). Any such district is authorized to take any necessary requisite or proper action to carry out the plan of composition filed with said petition, or any modification of such plan thereafter accepted in writing by such district, if such original or modified plan is also approved by the United States district court having jurisdiction of the matter.

37-32-104. Issuance of new bonds. (1) If the plan of composition approved by the United States district court provides for the issuance of new bonds of such district and deposit thereof with such court, or such agency as it may appoint for the purpose, for the delivery of such new bonds to the creditors of the district in exchange for outstanding evidences of indebtedness of the district, such new bonds may be issued:

- (a) In the case of an irrigation district, under the provisions of sections 37-43-144 to 37-43-155, or under any other law; and
- (b) In the case of a drainage district, either:
  - (I) In the manner and with the rights of enforcement and privileges of payment provided for by article 25 of this title, insofar as applicable;
  - (II) Under the provisions of article 26 of this title, insofar as applicable; or
  - (III) Under any other law adopted after March 20, 1939.

37-32-105. Districts may cancel taxes or assessments. In carrying out any such plan of composition of its indebtedness, any such district has power to cancel or reduce any taxes or assessments theretofore levied or made by said district for the purpose of raising money to pay the principal of or interest upon bonds or warrants sought to be refunded by such plan, upon any real property in such district, and to cancel or reduce any interest, penalties, or costs that may have accrued by reason of any delinquency in the payment of such taxes or assessments.

37-33-101. Draining marsh lands. Whenever any person or corporation desires to construct, enlarge, or extend a drainage ditch or drain for the purpose of draining and reclaiming seeped or marshy land included within any irrigation district in this state, it shall file with the board of directors of such irrigation district in which such improvements are to be located a petition signed by one or more of the landowners who own the major portion of the land which would be affected by the proposed improvement.

37-33-102. Lists of lands affected. Said petition shall set forth the necessity and probable benefits of such drainage ditch or drain, together with a list of the lands affected by the proposed improvement and the names and addresses of the owners of such lands, and there shall be attached to said petition a plat showing the approximate direction, size, and length of said drainage ditch or drain.

37-33-103. Bond. The petitioner shall give good and sufficient bond, payable to the irrigation district in which such lands are included and approved by the board of directors of such district, conditioned in case said drainage ditch or drain, from any cause whatsoever, is not constructed, to pay all expenses incurred by the irrigation district on account of said proposed improvement.

37-33-104. May employ engineer - hearing. When such petition, plat, and bond are filed, the board of directors of said irrigation district in which such improvements are to be made shall proceed at once to view the line of the proposed drainage ditch or drain and the lands affected thereby, and, if in its opinion it is necessary, shall employ an engineer to prepare accurate surveys and estimates of the proposed work and shall set the day and place for hearing all interested parties, receiving protests, information, and any matter in relation to the proposed improvement, and shall notify all resident landowners affected by such improvement by personal service fifteen days prior to the date of such meeting. If personal service of such notice cannot be had, or if any of said landowners are nonresidents, then such notice shall be sent through the mail at least fifteen days prior to said meeting.

37-33-107. Majority to control. If, however, the improvements petitioned for are found feasible and of use and benefit to the owners representing a major portion of the lands affected and in the best interest of such landowners and such irrigation district, the board of directors is empowered to proceed with the construction of such improvements in the same manner as provided by the statutes of the state of Colorado; but, upon the hearing of said petition, the board of directors, on good cause shown, may exclude any of the lands mentioned and described in said petition which will not be benefited by the proposed improvement and may likewise, on petition of the owners, include such other lands as may be benefited thereby.

37-33-108. Determination of cost - assessment. When the works have been completed and accepted by the board of directors, the board shall determine the total cost, damages, and other expenses and divide the same among the several tracts of land affected in proportion to the number of acres in each tract of land or according to the benefits received at the discretion of the board of directors of the district and shall certify to the county assessor, or assessors if such improvements are located in more than one county, a list of the lands affected and the total amount to be assessed against each tract. The assessor, or assessors if such improvements are located in more than one county, shall enter such assessment against each of the several tracts of land lying within his county in the same manner as other taxes, and the county treasurer of each county where such improvements or part thereof is made shall collect the same in the same manner, at the same time, and receipt for same in the same manner as other taxes for irrigation district purposes, and all moneys collected for and on account of such improvements shall be by said county treasurer credited to the general fund of such irrigation district.

37-41-101. Irrigation district - organization - purposes. (1) If a majority of the owners of the land within any district, whether residents or nonresidents, as well as the owners in the aggregate of a majority of the lands in such district desire to provide for the irrigation of the same and drainage work, or both, necessary to maintain the irrigability of the land within the district, they may propose the organization of an irrigation district under the provisions of this article. When so organized, each district shall have the powers conferred upon such irrigation district; except that where ditches, canals, or reservoirs have been constructed before May 3, 1905, such ditches, canals, reservoirs, and franchises, and the lands watered thereby, shall be exempt from the operation of this article, except such district shall be formed to purchase, acquire, lease, or rent such ditches, canals, and reservoirs and their franchises.

(2) An irrigation district may also be formed in order to cooperate, or a district formed prior to May 3, 1905, may cooperate, with the United States under the federal reclamation laws or any other federal laws enacted by the congress of the United States which do not conflict with the constitution and laws of the state of Colorado for the purposes of the construction of irrigation works, including drainage works necessary to maintain the irrigability of the land, or for the acquisition, purchase, extension, operation, or maintenance of constructed works, or for the assumption as principal or guarantor of indebtedness to the United States on account of district lands. When so cooperating with the United States, but only in such cases, the lands of the district in their entirety shall become and remain liable to assessment and levy annually until payment is made of all contract obligations due by the district to the United States.

(3) Except when cooperating with the United States, the liabilities of an irrigation district shall be a charge upon the land ratably, and taxes levied to pay such liabilities shall be local or special improvement assessments. Such a district shall also have power to take over the assets and assume the liabilities of water users' associations organized for cooperation with the United States under the provisions of the act of congress approved June 17, 1902 (32 Stat., 388), and acts amendatory thereof, in case a majority of the lands of each association shall be within such district, subject to the provisions that the shareholders of such association, by vote as provided by their articles of incorporation and bylaws, shall assent and agree that such assets and liabilities be so taken over. Entrymen upon public lands of the United States within the proposed district boundaries shall be deemed to be the owners of lands within the district for the purpose of becoming petitioners for the organization of such irrigation district and shall share all the privileges and obligations of private landowners within the district.

(4) All contracts between irrigation districts and the United States shall be recorded in the office of the clerk and recorder of the county in which the office of the irrigation district is located; except that, where the district is located in more than one county, said contract shall be recorded with the clerk and recorder of each county in which the district or any part thereof is located.

II. ORGANIZATION, NATURE, AND POWERS OF DISTRICTS.

Irrigation districts have been judicially declared to be public corporations. Anderson v. Grand Valley Irrigation Dist., 35 Colo. 525, 85 P. 313 (1906); People ex rel. Weisbrod v. Lockard, 26 Colo. App. 439, 143 P. 273 (1914); Kiles v. Trinchera Irrigation Dist., 136 F. 2d 894 (10th Cir. 1943).

Quo warranto will lie to test the validity of organization. The assertion of the right, and the exercise thereof by individuals acting as directors of irrigation district, to use the public franchise so granted, when the district has not been lawfully and regularly organized, is in the nature of a violation of a public law, and any interested citizen ought to have the same right to a quo warranto proceeding to inquire into the authority of such individuals to act as if they had usurped, or intruded into, a public office. People ex rel. Weisbrod v. Lockard, 26 Colo. App. 439, 143 P. 273 (1914).

Irrigation districts chiefly serve private purposes and are for the benefit of private landowners. Holbrook Irrigation Dist. v. First State Bank, 84 Colo. 157, 268 P. 523 (1928); Logan Irrigation Dist. v. Holt, 110 Colo. 523, 133 P.2d 530 (1943).

Irrigation districts are not exempt from taxation as municipal corporations under § 4 of art. X, Colo. Const. Logan Irrigation Dist. v. Holt, 110 Colo. 523, 133 P.2d 530 (1943).

Property of irrigation district is exempt from mechanics' lien, as is property of all public corporations. Fisher v. Pioneer Constr. Co., 62 Colo. 538, 163 P. 851 (1917).

Districts have power to own property, to sue and be sued, and to sell bonds. This act provides for the organization and operation of irrigation districts, and these districts have power to own property, to sue and be sued, to acquire and conduct an irrigation system, and to issue and sell their bonds for that purpose. Norris v. Montezuma Valley Irrigation Dist., 248 F. 369 (8th Cir. 1918).

An irrigation district is entitled to reclaim waters which escape by seepage from its works. Acting with reasonable diligence it may maintain a bill to establish such right as against a stranger claiming the escaped waters and restrain him from asserting unlawful claims.

McKelvey v. North Sterling Irrigating Dist., 66 Colo. 11, 179 P. 872 (1919).

Lands held by a receiver may be included. Lands held by a receiver's receipt issued by a land office of the United States, no patent having issued, may be embraced within an irrigation district. Carson v. Cudworth, 26 Colo. App. 131, 140 P. 935 (1914).

III. LAND IRRIGATED PRIOR TO ARTICLE.

This section exempts all ditches theretofore constructed and not owned by the district and lands watered thereby. Norris v. Montezuma Valley Irrigation Dist., 240 F. 825 (D. Colo. 1916).

It was the purpose of this provision to exempt lands from the burden of a bonded indebtedness created to furnish water to irrigate lands embraced in an irrigation district which were irrigated from a system in existence when the act took effect, unless the district was formed to acquire or lease such system. Wilder v. Bd. of Dirs. of S. Side Irrigation Dist., 55 Colo. 363, 135 P. 461 (1913).

The provision for exemption from taxation found in § 37-41-121 is not more explicit than the provision found in this section, whereby lands watered by ditches constructed before the passage of the act are exempted from the operation of the act, which includes the right of taxation. Nile Irrigation Dist. v. Gas. Sec. Co., 248 F. 861 (8th Cir. 1918).

This provision depends upon certain questions of fact, namely, that ditches, canals, and reservoirs have been constructed before the passage of the act and that they have sufficient capacity to water the land thereunder for which the water taken in such ditches, canals, and reservoirs is appropriated. Such district shall be formed to make purchase of such ditches, canals, reservoirs, and franchises. Montezuma Valley Irrigation Dist. v. Longenbaugh, 54 Colo. 391, 131 P. 262 (1913).

It does not of its own force exclude from the proposed district lands already provided with facilities for their irrigation, which the district is not formed to acquire. If the proceedings for the organization for the district, and the definition of its boundaries, conform to the statute, one entitled to lands of the character described in the proviso is afforded opportunity to object to the inclusion thereof in the district, and if he fails to avail himself of the opportunity afforded by the statute, and permits the district to be so organized as to include such lands, then by force of the provisions made in other sections of the act he is concluded. Wilder v. Bd. of Dirs. of S. Side Irrigation Dist., 55 Colo. 363, 135 P. 461 (1913).

A party may be estopped to avail himself of the advantages of this exemption. Plaintiff sued to restrain the collection of irrigation district taxes upon certain lands, and for a decree that his lands were no part of an irrigation district. His complaint alleged, and the court found, that prior to the organization of the district, and ever since, he was the owner of water rights sufficient for the irrigation of his lands, and which he had always since applied to this purpose; and that the district was not formed to acquire such water rights, and had not acquired them; upon account of which facts the plaintiff claimed that he was within the proviso to this section. But plaintiff, with full knowledge of the situation, had signed the petition for the organization of the district, which, as therein defined, included the land described in his complaint. During two years following the organization of the district he had paid irrigation district taxes upon said land. Without objection from him, proceedings had been taken, and a decree entered under the act, declaring the validity of the district, and confirming an issue of district bonds. Hence he was estopped. Montezuma Valley Irrigation Dist. v. Longenbaugh, 54 Colo. 391, 131 P. 262 (1913).

37-41-102. Petition. (1) For the purpose of the establishment of an irrigation district as provided by this article, a petition shall be filed with the board of county commissioners of the county which embraces the largest acreage of the proposed district. The petition shall state:

(a) That it is the purpose of petitioners to organize an irrigation district under the provisions of this article;

(b) A general description of the boundaries of such proposed district;

(c) The means proposed to supply water for the irrigation of the lands embraced therein;

(d) The name proposed for such district; and

(e) A prayer that the board of county commissioners define and establish the boundaries of said proposed district and submit the question of the final organization of the same to the vote of the qualified electors of said proposed district.

(2) The petition shall be signed by a majority of the owners of said lands, whether residents or nonresidents, as well as by the owners in the aggregate of a majority of the total number of acres of land sought to be enclosed in said proposed district. The petitioners shall elect from their number a committee of three to present such petition to the board of county commissioners. The petition shall also be accompanied by a good and sufficient bond, to be approved by the board of county commissioners, in double the amount of the probable cost of organizing such district, conditioned for the payment of all costs incurred in said proceedings in case said organization shall not be effected, but in case such district is so effected, then said expenses incurred by the board of county commissioners shall be paid back to said county by said district.

(3) Such petition shall be published for at least four weeks before the time at which the same is to be presented, in some newspaper of general circulation published in the county where the petition is to be presented, together with a notice signed by the committee of said petitioners giving the time and place of the presentation of the same to the board of county commissioners.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For note, "A Survey of Colorado Water Law", see 47 Den. L.J. 226 (1970).

This section requires publication not only of a prescribed notice, but of the petition. Ahern v. Bd. of Dirs. of High Line Irrigation Dist., 39 Colo. 409, 89 P. 963 (1931).

The publication of this notice, as well as the petition, is an essential prerequisite to conferring upon the board jurisdiction concerning the matter of the organization; such notice is in the nature of process, indeed the only process by which the property owners to be affected are notified and given an opportunity to present to the board their objections; in this matter the board sits as a court of special and limited jurisdiction; that the notice must be given by the petitioners themselves, and that both the notice and the petition must be published for the required length of time. Ahern v. Bd. of Dirs. of High Line Irrigation Dist., 39 Colo. 409, 89 P. 963 (1931).

The object of the required publication is to notify landowners within the boundaries of the proposed district, other than those who have signed the petition, that at a certain time and place the petition will be presented to the board of county commissioners for its action, as provided for in the statute, when and where they may attend to offer any objection they have. All these considerations should be in the minds of those who prepare and sign the notice. Ahern v. Bd. of Dirs. of High Line Irrigation Dist., 39 Colo. 409, 89 P. 963 (1931).

There is no presumption that the notice was written at the time the petition was signed. Ahern v. Bd. of Dirs. of High Line Irrigation Dist., 39 Colo. 409, 89 P. 963 (1931).

Signatures to the petition are not signatures to the notice. Ahern v. Bd. of Dirs. of High Line Irrigation Dist., 39 Colo. 409, 89 P. 963 (1931).

These signatures to the petition are essential parts of the petition itself. Indeed, the petition without the signatures is not a petition at all. Ahern v. Bd. of Dirs. of High Line Irrigation Dist., 39 Colo. 409, 89 P. 963 (1931).

A party who has subscribed a petition cannot afterwards dispute the facts therein asserted, even though his name is necessary to make up the required majority. Montezuma Valley Irrigation Dist. v. Longenbaugh, 54 Colo. 391, 131 P. 262 (1913).

There is no necessity for addressing a petition to the board and this section does not require it. Ahern v. Bd. of Dirs. of High Line Irrigation Dist., 39 Colo. 409, 89 P. 963 (1931).

A committee appointed to make publication has authority to give the required notice. Under this section it must be inferred that the committee was selected to give the notice required since the notice and petition are required to be published together. It is unreasonable to suppose they were authorized to make an insufficient publication, but rather to do all things necessary to make it complete. Lockard v. People ex rel. Weisbrod, 71 Colo. 213, 205 P. 944 (1922).

Sufficiency of notice. Where a notice says that "The undersigned as the committee duly authorized will present", etc., this shows the official capacity in which the signers were acting, and it is not material in what part of the notice this appears. Lockard v. People ex rel. Weisbrod, 71 Colo. 213, 205 P. 944 (1922).

37-41-103. Presentation and allowance of petition. (1) When such petition is presented and it appears that the notice of the presentation of said petition has been given as required by section 37-41-102 (3) and that said petition has been signed by the requisite number of petitioners as required by this article, the board of county commissioners shall then proceed to define the boundaries of said proposed district from said petition and from such applications for the exclusion of lands therefrom and the inclusion of lands therein as may be made in accordance with the intent of this article. They may adjourn such examination from time to time, not exceeding three weeks in all, and by final order, duly entered, shall define and establish the boundaries of such proposed district; except that said board of county commissioners shall not modify such proposed boundaries described in the petition so as to change the objects of said petition or so as to exempt from the operation of this article any land within the boundaries proposed by the petition susceptible to irrigation by the same system of waterworks applicable to other lands in such proposed district; nor shall any land which will not in the judgment of the board be benefited by such proposed system be included in such district if the owner thereof makes application at a hearing to withdraw the same; also except that contiguous lands not included in said proposed district as described in the petition, upon application of the owners, may be included in such district upon such hearing.

(2) When the boundaries of any proposed district have been examined and defined, the board of county commissioners shall forthwith make an order allowing the prayer of said petition, defining and establishing the boundaries, and designating the name of such proposed district. Thereupon said board, by further order duly entered upon its record, shall call an election of the qualified electors of said district to be held for the purpose of determining whether such district shall be organized under the conditions of this article and, by such order, shall submit the names of one or more persons from each of the three divisions of said district to be voted for as directors therein. For the purposes of said election, the board of county commissioners shall divide said district into three divisions as nearly equal in size as may be practicable and shall provide that a qualified elector of each of said three divisions shall be elected as a member of the board of directors of said district by the qualified electors of the whole district.

(3) Each of said divisions shall constitute an election precinct, and three judges shall be appointed for each of such precincts, one of whom shall act as clerk of said election. In the hearing of any such petition the board of county commissioners shall disregard any informality therein, and, in case it denies the same or dismisses it for any reason on account of the provisions of this article not having been complied with, which are the only reasons upon which it shall have a right to refuse or dismiss the same, the board shall state its reasons in writing therefor in detail, which shall be entered upon its record. In case these reasons are not well founded, upon proper application therefor, an order in the nature of mandamus shall issue out of the district court of said county, compelling the board to act in compliance with this article, which order shall be heard within twenty days from the date of its issuance and which twenty days shall be excluded from the forty days given the board of county commissioners to act upon said petition. The officers of such district shall consist of three directors, a secretary, and a treasurer.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Legal Classification of Special District Corporate Forms in Colorado", see 45 Den. L.J. 347 (1968).

This section affords opportunity to have land excluded from the district. Under the second exception of subsection (1), opportunity is afforded those who desire to claim the exemption in § 37-41-101 to appear before the board and have their lands excluded from the district upon proper showing. Wilder v. Bd. of Dirs. of S. Side Irrigation Dist., 55 Colo. 363, 135 P. 461 (1913).

This construction renders § 37-41-101 and this section harmonious and consistent. Wilder v. Bd. of Dirs. of S. Side Irrigation Dist., 55 Colo. 363, 135 P. 461 (1913).

An objection that lands will not be benefited must be made at time of organization. The general rule under such irrigation statutes is that the objection that lands will not be benefited by inclusion in an irrigation district must be made by landowners at the time the district is organized, when a hearing is afforded for that purpose, or it will be waived. Nile Irrigation

Dist. v. Gas Sec. Co., 248 F. 861 (8th Cir. 1918).

For exclusion of land from district that is incapable of cultivation, see Nile Irrigation Dist. v. Gas Sec. Co., 248 F. 861 (8th Cir. 1918).

The action of the board in excluding land may be reviewed. Under this section, the action of the county commissioners in excluding lands, where there was an abuse of power but no fraud or bad faith, may be reviewed in a special proceeding by the board of directors of the irrigation district to determine the validity of the organization and bond issue. Ahern v. Bd. of Dirs. of High Line Irrigation Dist., 39 Colo. 409, 89 P. 963 (1907).

The action of the board in including land is res adjudicata. The inclusion by the county commissioners of all the land in question in the original determination of the boundaries of the district amounts to res adjudicata upon the question whether it could be thus included. Yellow Jacket Irrigation Dist. v. Pleasant Valley Ranch Co., 78 Colo. 543, 243 P. 635 (1926).

37-41-104. Notice of election - qualifications of electors. (1) The board of county commissioners shall thereupon cause a notice embodying said orders in substance, signed by the chairman of the board of county commissioners and the clerk of said board, to be issued, given, and published, giving public notice of said election, the time and places thereof, and the matters submitted to the vote of the electors. The notice and order shall be published once a week for at least four weeks prior to such election in a newspaper of general circulation in said county, and if any portion of such proposed district lies within any other county, then such order and notice shall be published in a newspaper of general circulation published within each of the counties. No election, the purpose of which is to issue bonds or purchase sites, water rights, reservoirs, or rights-of-way, shall be held nor shall any bonds be issued or purchased or contract of purchase be made for reservoirs, water rights, sites, or works before the board of directors has submitted to the state engineer a complete and detailed plan of the project and a complete and detailed information of the property to be leased or purchased, and any other information required by the state engineer, and a decision rendered by him as to the feasibility of the project. No election thereon shall be held nor purchase contract or lease made until sixty days have expired after the rendition of such decision by the state engineer.

(2) At all elections held under the provisions of this article, every owner or entryman of agricultural or horticultural land within said district over the age of eighteen years who is a citizen of the United States, or has declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States, and is a resident of the state of Colorado and has paid property taxes upon real property located within said district during the calendar year preceding any such election shall be entitled to vote at such election in the precinct where he resides or, if a nonresident of the precinct, in the precinct within which the greater portion of his land is located. A corporation organized or qualified to do business in this state which owns agricultural or horticultural land within the district, and which has paid property taxes thereon, may authorize an agent, who satisfies the residency and age requirements of this subsection (2), to vote in its behalf at all elections held under the provisions of this article or to serve as a director of the district. Any such person so qualified to vote and who resides in any county into which said district extends shall be eligible to election as a director in and for the division in such district in which he is entitled to vote. All lands platted or subdivided into residence or business lots shall not be considered agricultural or horticultural land. The ballots to be used and cast at such election for the formation of such district shall be substantially as follows: "Irrigation District - Yes", and "Irrigation District - No", or words equivalent thereto, and shall also contain the names of the persons to be voted for as members of the board of directors of said district. Each elector may vote for three directors, one from each division, and shall indicate his vote by placing a marginal cross upon the ballot, for or against any question submitted or name voted upon, and opposite thereto, at any election held under this article.

ANNOTATION

It is within the exclusive power and province of the general assembly to fix and determine the qualification of voters in all public and quasi-municipal corporations, and all reasonable provisions with reference thereto will be upheld. People ex rel. Shaklee v. Milan, 89 Colo. 556, 5 P.2d 249 (1931).

The general assembly has prescribed qualifications for voting in irrigation districts. The legislative department has recognized this principle of self-government, with reference to irrigation districts, and has accordingly prescribed certain qualifications for those who participate in the economic and elective matters of the district. People ex rel. Shaklee v. Milan, 89 Colo. 556, 5 P.2d 249 (1931).

These qualifications must be complied with. The election franchise in irrigation matters is a privilege, and one who would enjoy it must comply with all prescribed legislative requirements and qualifications. Under the existing irrigation district statutes concerning elections, a landowner has no right to vote in a precinct other than the one in which the greater portion of his land is located. People ex rel. Shaklee v. Milan, 89 Colo. 556, 5 P.2d 249 (1931).

A person whose only title to real estate is a contract to purchase has no right to vote at an irrigation district election. People ex rel. Shaklee v. Milan, 89 Colo. 556, 5 P.2d 249 (1931).

Owners of town lots within an irrigation district have no right to vote at irrigation district elections by reason of such ownership where the lots are not used exclusively for agricultural or horticultural purposes. People ex rel. Shaklee v. Milan, 89 Colo. 556, 5 P.2d 249 (1931).

The word "owner" means the person who has the dominion over the agricultural or horticultural land with power to enjoy and do with it as he pleases, so long as he does not violate the law; it means the person who has the legal title to the land. People ex rel. Shaklee v. Milan, 89 Colo. 556, 5 P.2d 249 (1931).

Tenants in common hold several and distinct titles with unity of possession. People ex rel. Shaklee v. Milan, 89 Colo. 556, 5 P.2d 249 (1931).

For meaning of electors in the various acts, see People ex rel. Shaklee v. Milan, 89 Colo. 556, 5 P.2d 249 (1931).

The phrase, "during the calendar year preceding any such election", means the year beginning January 1 and ending December 31. People ex rel. Shaklee v. Milan, 89 Colo. 556, 5 P.2d 249 (1931).

37-41-105. Canvass of votes - proclamation. (1) The board of county commissioners shall meet on the second Monday next succeeding such election and proceed to canvass the votes cast thereat. If, upon such canvass, it appears that at least a majority of said legal electors in said district have voted "Irrigation District - Yes", the said board, by an order entered on its minutes, shall declare such territory duly organized as an irrigation district under the name and style theretofore designated and shall declare the persons receiving, respectively, the highest number of votes for such several offices to be duly elected to such office. Said board shall cause a copy of such order, including a plat of said district, duly certified by the clerk of the board of county commissioners, to be immediately filed for record in the office of the county clerk and recorder of each county in which any portion of such lands are situated, and no board of county commissioners of any county, including any portion of such district, after the date of organization of such district, shall allow another district to be formed including any of the lands of such district without the consent of the board of directors thereof.

(2) From and after the date of such filing, the organization of such district shall be complete, and the officers thereof shall immediately enter upon the duties of their respective offices, upon qualifying in accordance with law, and shall hold such offices, respectively, until their successors are elected and qualified. For the purpose of the election, the board of county commissioners shall establish a convenient number of election precincts and polling places in said proposed district and define the boundaries thereof, which said precincts may thereafter be changed by the board of directors of such districts, who shall also appoint the judges of election for each such precinct, one of whom shall act as clerk of election.

37-41-106. Directors - election - term. (1) The regular election of said district for the purpose of electing a board of directors shall be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in December of each year, at which time one director shall be elected for a term of three years; except that, at the first election held to choose the first board of directors after the organization of any district has been effected, the person having the highest number of votes shall continue in office for the full term of three years; the next highest for two years; and the next highest for one year. But if two or more persons have the same number of votes, then their term shall be determined by lot, under the direction of the county judge of the county wherein the organization of said district has been effected. The person receiving the highest number of votes for any office to be filled at such election is elected thereto.

(2) Within ten days after receiving their certificates of election provided for in section 37-41-112 (2), said officers shall take and subscribe the official oath and file the same in the office of the county clerk and recorder wherein the organization was effected and on January 1 following shall assume the duties of their respective offices. Each member of the board of directors shall execute an official bond in the sum of three thousand dollars, which bond shall be approved by the county judge of the county wherein such organization was effected, and shall be recorded in the office of the county clerk and recorder thereof. Such official bond may be signed by a surety company authorized to do business in the state of Colorado, in which case the district shall be liable for and shall pay premium on said bond. All official bonds shall be in form prescribed by law for official bonds for county officials; except that the obligee named in said bonds shall be to the district and shall be filed with the county clerk and recorder at the same time as the filing of the oath provided for in this section.

Persons claiming to have been elected may be joined in the action. In an action in quo warranto involving title to the offices of directors of an irrigation district, realtors who were residents of the district and claiming to have been lawfully elected were properly joined as complainants in the action. Lockard v. People ex rel. Hasselbush, 80 Colo. 31, 250 P. 152 (1926).

Failure of the complainant to designate the divisions of the district is immaterial. In an action in quo warranto involving the offices of irrigation district directors, the contention that the complaint is uncertain in failing to designate the several divisions of the district where realtors resided held immaterial. *Lockard v. ex rel. Hasselbush, 80 Colo. 31, 250 P. 152 (1926).

A doubt as to the legality of election is no excuse for old directors holding over. In an action in quo warranto, the mere fact that respondents — holdover directors — doubted the legality of the proceedings by which realtors claimed to be elected directors of an irrigation district, held no reason for their trying to extend their tenure of office, nor for withholding certificates of election from realtors, without attempting to show the invalidity of the election. *Lockard v. 37-41-107. Office of board - elections. (1) The office of the board of directors shall be located in the county where the organization was effected.

(2) Fifteen days before any election held under this article subsequent to the organization of the district, the secretary, who shall be appointed by the board of directors, shall cause notice to be posted in three public places in each election precinct, specifying the polling places of each precinct and the time and place of holding the election; and he shall also post a general notice of the same in the office of said board, which shall be established and kept at some fixed place to be determined by said board in said county. In lieu of such posting, said notice may be published once a week for at least three weeks (four weekly publications) prior to such election in a newspaper of general circulation in each county in which the district is located.

(3) Prior to the time for posting the notices, or the publication thereof, the board shall appoint from each precinct, from the electors thereof, three judges, one of whom shall act as clerk, who shall constitute a board of election for such precinct. If the board fails to appoint a board of election, or the members appointed do not attend the opening of polls on the morning of election, the electors of the precinct present at that hour may appoint the board of election or supply the place of an absent member thereof.

(4) The board of directors, in its order appointing the board of election, shall designate the hour and the place in the precinct where the election shall be held.

(5) Each judge of election shall receive as compensation the sum of up to one hundred dollars per day, to be paid by the district.

37-41-108. Directors - secretary - salaries. Each member of the board of directors may receive compensation at the rate of up to one hundred dollars per day while attending meetings and shall be reimbursed for his or her actual and necessary expenses while engaged in official business. No director or officer named in this article shall be interested, directly or indirectly, in any manner, in any contract awarded or to be awarded by the board or in the profits to be derived therefrom, nor shall he or she receive any bonds, gratuity, or bribe. For any violation of this section, such officer commits a class 6 felony and shall be punished as provided in section 18-1.3-401, C.R.S. He or she shall also forfeit his or her office upon conviction.

ANNOTATION

Requirements of section must be satisfied before removal from office. The constitution makes no provision for the forfeiture of and removal from office of an irrigation officer, but this section does and its requirements must be satisfied before such forfeiture and removal take place. Burkholder v. People ex rel. Nazarene, 59 Colo. 99, 147 P. 347 (1915).

The court has no power to create a forfei- ture and no power to declare a forfeiture, where none already exists. The forfeiture must exist in fact before the action of quo warranto is commenced. The common law is not paramount to the statutes, and they must define and point out the cause or causes of forfeiture and removal, else none exist. Burkholder v. People ex rel. Nazarene, 59 Colo. 99, 147 P. 347 (1915).

Conviction of offense is necessary before removal from office. An officer of an irrigation district is not to be excluded from his office for the offenses denounced in this section until conviction thereof. The commission of the offense, without conviction, is not sufficient. Burkholder v. People ex rel. Nazarene, 59 Colo. 99, 147 P. 347 (1915).

37-41-109. District treasurer - duties. (1) The county treasurer of the county in which is located the office of an irrigation district shall be and is hereby constituted ex officio district treasurer of said district. The county treasurer shall be liable upon his official bond and to indictment and criminal prosecution for malfeasance, misfeasance, or failure to perform any duty prescribed as that of the county treasurer or district treasurer, as is provided by law in other cases as that of the county treasurer. The treasurer shall collect, receive, and receipt for all moneys belonging to said district. It is the duty of the county treasurer of each county in which any irrigation district is located in whole or in part to collect and receipt for all taxes levied as provided in section 37-41-123 in the same manner and at the same time and on the same receipt as is required in the collection of taxes upon real estate for county purposes; except that such county treasurer shall receive in payment of the general fund tax, for the year in which said taxes are payable, warrants drawn against said general fund, the same as so much lawful money of the United States, if such warrant does not exceed the amount of the general fund tax which the person tendering the same owes; further except that such county treasurer shall receive in payment of the district bond fund taxes, for the year in which said taxes are payable, interest coupons or bonds of said irrigation district maturing within the year said taxes are payable the same as so much lawful money of the United States, if such interest coupons or bonds do not exceed the amount of district bonds funds tax which the person tendering the same owes.

(2) The county treasurer of each county comprising a portion only of the irrigation district, excepting the county treasurer of the county in which the office of said district is located, on the first Monday of every month, shall remit to the district treasurer all moneys, warrants, coupons, or bonds theretofore collected or received by him on account of said district. Every county treasurer shall keep a bond fund account and a general fund account. The bond fund account shall consist of all moneys received on account of interest and principal of bonds issued by said district. Said accounts for interest and principal shall be kept separate. The general fund shall consist of all moneys or general fund warrants received by the collection of taxes or otherwise. The district treasurer shall pay out of said bond fund, when due, the interest and principal of the bonds of said district at the time and place specified in said bonds and shall pay out of said general fund only upon the order of the district, signed by the president and countersigned by the secretary of said district. The district treasurer, on the fifteenth day of each month, shall report to the secretary of the district the amount of money in his hands to the credit of said respective funds, the amount of warrants paid during the previous month, and the amount of registered warrants if any. All such district taxes collected and paid to the county treasurers shall be received by said treasurers in their official capacity, and they shall be responsible for the safekeeping, disbursement, and payment thereof the same as for other moneys collected by them as such treasurers.

- I. General Consideration.
- II. Receipt and Payment of Coupons.
- III. Compensation of Treasurer.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

This section being explicit does not admit of interpretation beyond its express letter, and must be administered as we find it, and it would be an act of judicial legislation to give to it any construction other than the plain meaning which the language indicates. Chicago Title & Trust Co. v. Patterson, 65 Colo. 534, 178 P. 13 (1918).

The proceeds of the assessments made are to be kept in a distinct "bond fund" with separate interest and principal accounts and that all other income of the district is to be kept in a "general fund", from which all other district expenses and expenditures are to be paid. Gas Sec. Co. v. Nile Irrigation Dist., 293 F. 365 (8th Cir. 1923).

Proceeds from judgment recovered go into general fund. A bondholder is not entitled to a decree applying the proceeds of a judgment recovered against a contractor for construction of irrigation ditches for breach of contract to the construction of irrigation improvements since, by this section, the money goes into the general fund, to be expended for any legitimate purpose. Gas Sec. Co. v. Nile Irrigation Dist., 293 F. 365 (8th Cir. 1923).

A bondholder is limited to the fund provided by this section, and cannot subject other funds of the district to payment of his bonds. Gas Sec. Co. v. Nile Irrigation Dist., 293 F. 365 (8th Cir. 1923).

The county treasurer, as ex officio treasurer of the district, has a duty to collect the taxes levied, place all money received on account of principle and interest of bonds issued by the district in a separate account, from which he shall pay the principle and interest as it becomes due. Denver-Greeley Valley Irrigation Dist. v. McNeil, 80 F.2d 929 (10th Cir. 1936).

A county treasurer may not lawfully demand, receive, and receipt for all other taxes against the lands, leaving district taxes uncollected. Moore v. Gas Sec. Co., 278 F. 111 (8th Cir. 1921).

II. RECEIPT AND PAYMENT OF COUPONS.

The proviso as to payment by coupons applies to anyone having the right to make payment of such taxes, which includes the holder of a previous tax sale certificate. Orchard Mesa Farms Co. v. Canon, 61 Colo. 347, 157 P. 192 (1916); Bd. of Comm'rs v. Heath, 87 Colo. 204, 286 P. 107 (1930).

Coupons from the bonds of an irrigation district are a lawful tender for the district tax levied for the year in which such coupons mature, but which tax is collected in the year next succeeding. Chicago Title & Trust Co. v. Patterson, 65 Colo. 534, 178 P. 13 (1918).

"Maturing within the year" means year in which tax is levied. No other year is mentioned in this section except the year in which the taxes were levied, hence it would do violence to the plain language of this section, in the ordinary and accepted meaning, to say that "maturing within the year" can apply to other coupons or bonds than those maturing within the year in which the tax was levied. Neither can there be any legitimate inference that this language can refer to any other year than the one in which the tax is levied. In fact the inference if any there should be must be to the contrary. Chicago Title & Trust Co. v. Patterson, 65 Colo. 534, 178 P. 13 (1918).

The treasurer is not required to pay the coupons in the order of presentation, but the fund is to be allotted to all holders of coupons who present them within a reasonable time after they are due. Norris v. Montezuma Valley Irrigation Dist., 248 F. 369 (8th Cir. 1918).

The weight of authority is that there should be no distinction made and that all have a reasonable time within which to present their coupons for payment without losing their rights. Thomas v. Patterson, 61 Colo. 547, 159 P. 34 (1916).

When funds are insufficient, bonds are paid off proportionately. When coupons are presented for payment, and there is not sufficient funds in the hands of the treasurer which can be applied to the payment of all the coupons of the bond issue from which they were taken to pay them in full, such proportion of such funds may be applied on the coupons presented as are payable out of the funds in the hands of the treasurer in the ratio they bear to the sum total of the coupons to which such funds must be applied. Thomas v. Patterson, 61 Colo. 547, 159 P. 34 (1916).

III. COMPENSATION OF TREASURER.

The statute fixes the maximum and minimum of the fee allowed the treasurer, not leaving it entirely to the discretion of the district. Bd. of Comm'rs v. Otero Irrigation Dist., 56 Colo. 515, 139 P. 546 (1914).

The compensation allowed is a fee and it is the only fee that can be charged. Bd. of Comm'rs v. Otero Irrigation Dist., 56 Colo. 515, 139 P. 546 (1914).

No commissions are charged on proceeds from sale of district bonds. The proceeds of the sale of the bonds of an irrigation district come into the hands of the treasurer of the county in which the office of the district is located, not as county treasurer, but as ex officio treasurer of the district. No commissions are to be charged thereon. Bd. of Comm'rs v. Otero Irrigation Dist., 56 Colo. 515, 139 P. 546 (1914).

Commissions are to be collected upon irrigation district taxes, according to the rate prescribed by § 30-1-102, and go into the fee fund and pass thence to the treasurer on account of his salary. Bd. of Comm'rs v. Otero Irrigation Dist., 56 Colo. 515, 139 P. 546 (1914).

37-41-110. Duties of election officers. (1) One of the judges shall be chairman of the election board and may:

(a) Administer all oaths required in the progress of an election;
(b) Appoint judges and clerks if during the progress of the election any judge or clerk ceases to act. Any member of the board of election, or any clerk thereof, may administer and certify oaths required to be administered during the progress of an election.

(2) Before opening the polls, each member of the board must take and subscribe an oath to faithfully perform the duties imposed upon him by law. Any elector of the precinct may administer and certify such oath. The polls must be opened at 9 a.m. on the day of election and be kept open until 7 p.m. on the same day. It is the duty of the clerk of the board of election to forthwith deliver the returns duly certified to the board of directors of the district.

37-41-111. Canvass of votes. No lists, tally paper, or certificates returned from any election shall be set aside or rejected for want of form if they can be satisfactorily understood. The board of directors must meet at its usual place of meeting on the first Monday after election and canvass the returns. If at the time of meeting the returns from each precinct in the district in which the polls were open have been received, the board of directors must then and there proceed to canvass the returns; but, if all the returns have not been received, the canvass must be postponed from day to day until the returns have been received or until six postponements have been had. The canvass must be made in public and by opening the returns and counting the votes of the district for each person voted for and by declaring the results thereof. The board shall declare elected the person receiving the highest number of votes so returned for each office and also declare the result of any question submitted.

37-41-112. Records - vacancy and term of office. (1) The secretary of the board of directors, as soon as the result of any election held under the provisions of this article is declared, shall enter in the records of such board and file with the county clerk and recorder of the county in which the office of said district is located a statement of such results, which statement shall show:

(a) A copy of the publication notice of said election;
(b) The names of the judges of said election;
(c) The whole number of votes cast in the district and in each precinct of the district;
(d) The names of the persons voted for;
(e) The offices voted for;
(f) The number of votes given in each precinct for each of such persons;
(g) The number of votes given in the district for each of such persons;
(h) The names of the persons declared elected;
(i) The result declared on any question submitted in accordance with the majority of the votes cast for or against such question.

(2) The board of directors shall declare elected the person having the highest number of votes given for each office and also the result of any question submitted. The secretary shall immediately make out and deliver to such person a certificate of election, signed by him and authenticated with the seal of the board. In case of a vacancy in the board of directors by death, removal, or inability from any cause to properly discharge the duties as such director, the vacancy shall be filled by appointment by the remaining members of the board, and, upon their failure or inability to act within thirty days after such vacancy occurs, then, upon petition of five electors of said district, the board of county commissioners of the county where the office of said board of directors is situate shall fill such vacancy. Any director so appointed shall hold his office until the next general election of said district and until his successor is elected and qualified.

ANNOTATION

In filling "a vacancy" in the board of directors, the "remaining members" who are authorized to fill it must act as a board. Two members constitute a quorum. There can be no valid meeting of a board without a quorum. One member of a board consisting of three members cannot constitute himself a quorum when the other two are absent. Kepley v. People ex rel. Everson, 76 Colo. 233, 230 P. 804 (1924).

A vacancy can be filled only where there are two remaining members. The use of the singular "vacancy" indicates that the filling by the board of "a vacancy" in the board can be done only where there are two "remaining members" qualified to act. The board, therefore, is unable to fill a vacancy if there is only one qualified member. Kepley v. People ex rel. Everson, 76 Colo. 233, 230 P. 804 (1924).

In the event of more than one vacancy, or where there are two vacancies in a board consisting of three members, only the board of county commissioners is competent to fill them. The language itself clearly indicates this where it says that the county commissioners shall fill "such vacancy or vacancies", which means that where there is more than one vacancy, only the county board can fill them, and the county board may also fill one vacancy, when the irrigation board fails or is unable to act within 30 days. Kepley v. People ex rel. Everson, 76 Colo. 233, 230 P. 804 (1924).

37-41-113. Board of directors - duties - contracts. (1) The directors, having duly qualified, shall organize as a board, elect a president from their number, and appoint a secretary. The board has power and it is its duty to adopt a seal, manage and conduct the affairs and business of the district, make and execute all necessary contracts, employ such agents, attorneys, officers, and employees as may be required and prescribe their duties, and establish equitable rules and regulations for the distribution and use of water among the owners of said land. The board shall generally perform all such acts as shall be necessary to fully carry out the purposes of this article.

(2) Said board may also enter into any obligation or contract with the United States for the construction or operation and maintenance of the necessary works for the delivery and distribution of water therefrom, or for drainage of district lands, or for the assumption, as principal or guarantor, of indebtedness to the United States on account of district lands, or for the temporary rental of water under the provisions of the federal reclamation act and all acts amendatory thereof or supplementary thereto or any other federal laws which do not conflict with the constitution and laws of the state of Colorado and the rules and regulations established thereunder, or the board may contract with the United States for a water supply under any act of congress providing for or permitting such contract and may convey to the United States as partial or full consideration therefor water rights or other property of the district. In case contract has been made with the United States, bonds of the district may be deposited with the United States at ninety-five percent of their par value, to the amount to be paid by the district to the United States under any such contract, the interest on said bonds, if bearing interest, to be provided for by assessment and levy, as in the case of other bonds of the district, and regularly paid to the United States to be applied as provided in such contract, and, if bonds of the district are not so deposited, it is the duty of the board of directors to include, as part of any levy or assessment now provided for by law, an amount sufficient to meet each year all payments accruing under the terms of any such contract. Districts cooperating with the United States may rent or lease water to private lands, entrymen, or municipalities in the neighborhood of the district in pursuance of contract with the United States and under terms and conditions not inconsistent with the laws of Colorado.

(3) Such board has the power, in addition to the means to supply water to said district proposed by the petition submitted for the formation of said district, to construct, acquire, purchase, or condemn any canals, ditches, reservoirs, reservoir sites, water, water rights, rights-of-way, or other property necessary for the use of the district or to acquire by condemnation, or otherwise, the right to enlarge any ditch, canal, or reservoir already constructed or partly constructed. In case of the purchase of any property by said district, when it shall be proposed by the board of directors to purchase a system of irrigation already constructed, or partially constructed, and to enlarge and complete the same adequate to the needs of the district, the board in such case may embody in one contract the matter of the purchase, the enlargement, and the completion of such irrigation system without inviting bids for such construction and completion; and, in case of the purchase of such property by said district, the bonds of the district provided for in section 37-41-117 may be used at their par value in payment without previous offer of such bonds for sale.

(4) No contract involving a consideration exceeding two hundred fifty thousand dollars and not exceeding four hundred thousand dollars shall be binding unless such contract has been authorized and ratified in writing by not less than one-third of the legal electors of said district according to the number of votes cast at the last district election; nor shall any contract in excess of four hundred thousand dollars be binding until such contract has been authorized and ratified at an election in the manner provided for the issue of bonds.

(5) Where the compensation to be paid by the district to the owner of any property which the board of directors of an irrigation district is authorized to take by proceedings in eminent domain has been finally determined to be in excess of twenty-five thousand dollars, sufficient time shall be given by the courts for the submission to and determination by the electors of the district, at a regularly called election in the district, of the question of whether the district shall pay said compensation or shall abandon such condemnation proceedings. If the electors shall authorize the payment of such compensation, the necessary additional time shall be given the district to pay such compensation, either by levy and collection of assessments against the lands of the district, or by the issue and sale of bonds of the district, or by both such methods as may be determined at a district election. Where the compensation to be paid shall be more than ten thousand dollars and less than twenty-five thousand dollars, the district board may elect to pay such compensation or abandon such condemnation proceedings upon authorization in writing by not less than one-third of the legal electors of said district according to the number of votes cast at the last district election.

(6) The rules and regulations shall be printed in convenient form, as soon as the same are adopted, for distribution in the district. All waters distributed shall be apportioned to each landowner pro rata to the lands assessed under this article within such district. But all water which has been acquired by the district by virtue of the laws of Colorado may be distributed and apportioned according to the terms of any contract entered into between the district and the United States, until the obligation due the United States is paid or the obligation to pay is discharged in any manner. Nothing in this article shall be deemed or construed to grant or relinquish to the United States any of the sovereign rights of the state of Colorado in and to the waters within its borders, or its exclusive authority over and jurisdiction and control of said waters, and the diversion, appropriation, and use thereof nor in any manner change the methods of appropriation thereof.

(7) The board of directors has power to lease or rent the use of water, or contract for the delivery thereof, to occupants of other lands within or without the said district at such prices and on such terms as it deems best, but the rental shall not be less than one and one-half times the amount of the district tax for which said land would be liable if held as a freehold. No vested prescriptive right to the use of such water shall attach to said land by virtue of such lease or such rental; except that any landowner in said district, with the consent of the board of directors, may assign the right to the whole or any portion of the water so apportioned to him for any one year where practicable to any other bona fide landowner, to be used in said district for use on his land for said year, but such owner shall have paid all amounts due on assessments upon all such lands.

(8) The board of directors further has power to lease or rent the use of water, or to contract for the delivery thereof, to settlers upon or occupants of the public domain, whose entries shall not have been subordinated to the district through compliance with the act of congress approved August 11, 1916, on the terms as provided in this section; except that, in such case, the board of directors has the further power to make a contract on behalf of the district with such settler or occupant to the effect that such settler or occupant, upon receiving full title to his lands and upon the payment of his proportionate share of the bond assessments as provided in section 37-41-136, shall include his lands within said district and, upon such inclusion, shall be entitled to all the rights and privileges of a member of said district. Before the execution of such contract the board of directors shall cause notice of such contract to be given substantially as provided in section 37-41-134, with such changes in the form of the notice as may be necessary, and a hearing upon said contract and all objections thereto shall be had as provided in section 37-41-135. If upon said hearing the board of directors deems it not for the best interests of the district to execute said contract, it by order shall refuse to execute said contract; but, if it deems it for the best interests of the district that said contract be executed, the board may execute said contract, and, in such case, said contract shall be valid and binding upon all parties thereto; and, when the said settler or occupant shall have complied with said contract and obtained title to his lands, upon proof of such compliance and obtaining of title, and without any further notice or hearing upon the matter, the board shall enter an order of inclusion of said lands as provided in section 37-41-137, but, if within thirty days from the execution of said contract a majority of the qualified electors of the district protest in writing to said board against the execution of said contract, the contract shall be held for naught and shall not be binding upon any party thereto.

salary in such position are void. Interstate Trust Co. v. Steele, 65 Colo. 99, 173 P. 873 (1918).

The board is without power to materially change plans authorized by the electors. Where the electors of an irrigation district vote to purchase an irrigation system to be completed according to certain plans and specifications prepared by an engineer, the district board is without power to authorize material changes in the plans and any contract entered into by the members thereof materially changing the system from that authorized by the electors, is illegal. Antero & Lost Park Reservoir Co. v. Lowe, 69 Colo. 409, 194 P. 945 (1921).

Acceptance of work by an irrigation district board under a void contract is without effect. Colo. Irrigation Constr. Co. v. Nile Irrigation Dist., 69 Colo., 366, 194 P. 609 (1920).

Action of two directors is valid. The absence of one of three directors of an irrigation district, he having had notice of the meeting, does not invalidate the action of the other two. Lockard v. People ex rel. Hasselbush, 80 Colo. 31, 250 P. 152 (1926).

In view of the general powers given to the board, the requirement of § 37-41-126 that claims be verified is not mandatory. Thus, the omission to verify does not deprive the board of the power given it by this section. Interstate Trust Co. v. Steele, 65 Colo. 99, 173 P. 873 (1918).

Warrants issued by a district are valid in the hands of a holder in good faith. Warrants of an irrigation district issued in payment of an obligation for which the district was liable are valid in the hands of one who receives them in the usual course of business, without notice of any defect in the title. Interstate Trust Co. v. Steele, 65 Colo. 99, 173 P. 873 (1918).

While a warrant drawn by irrigation district directors is presumed to be lawful, the treasurer may overcome the presumption in an action in mandamus against him to compel payment or registration. Ellis v. Moses, 76 Colo. 214, 230 P. 802 (1924).

Discretion exercised by the board, unless abused, cannot be reviewed by the court at the instance of a taxpayer. Antero & Lost Park Reservoir Co. v. Lowe, 69 Colo. 409, 194 P. 945 (1921).

37-41-114. Meetings - duties - eminent domain. The board of directors shall hold a regular quarterly meeting in its office on the first Tuesday in January, April, July, and October and such special meetings as may be required for the proper transaction of business. All special meetings shall be called by the president of the board or any two directors. All meetings of the board must be public, and two members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business and, on all questions requiring a vote, there shall be a concurrence of at least two members of said board. All special meetings of the board shall be held at locations which are within the boundaries of the district or which are within the boundaries of any county in which the district is located, in whole or in part, or in any county so long as the meeting location does not exceed twenty miles from the district boundaries. The provisions of this section governing the location of meetings may be waived only if the proposed change of location of a meeting of the board appears on the agenda of a regular or special meeting of the board and if a resolution is adopted by the board stating the reason for which a meeting of the board is to be held in a location other than under the provisions of this section and further stating the date, time, and place of such meeting. All records of the board must be open to the inspection of any elector during business hours. The board and its agents and employees shall have the right to enter upon any land in the district, to make surveys, and to locate and construct any canal and the necessary laterals. Said board shall also have the right to acquire all lands, water rights, franchises, and other property necessary for the construction, use, maintenance, repair, and improvement of its canals, ditches, reservoirs, and waterworks and shall also have the right by purchase or condemnation to acquire rights-of-way for the construction or enlargement of any of its ditches, canals, or reservoirs and lands for reservoir sites.

37-41-115. Property - title. The title to all property acquired under this article shall immediately and by operation of law vest in such irrigation district in its corporate name, and shall be held by such district in trust for and is hereby dedicated and set apart for the uses and purposes set forth in this article, and shall be exempt from all taxation as provided in section 3 of article X of the state constitution. The board is hereby authorized to hold, use and acquire, manage, occupy, and possess said property as provided in this article; except that when any district contemplated in this article finds it necessary to procure and acquire a supply of water from outside the boundaries of this state, then it shall be lawful for said district to contract and pay for the same in the same manner as other property acquired by the district is purchased and paid for. Any property acquired by the district may be conveyed to the United States insofar as the same may be needed for the construction, operation, or maintenance of works by the United States for the benefit of the district under any contract that may be entered into by the United States pursuant to this article.

ANNOTATION

The general assembly cannot extend § 3 of art. X, Colo. Const., which exempts from separate taxation ditches, canals, and flumes owned and used by individuals or corporations for irrigating their own lands exclusively. The enactments of such statutes are unauthorized exercises of legislative power, and the portion of this section insofar as it attempts to exempt the property of irrigation districts from taxation, is unconstitutional and void. Logan Irrigation Dist. v. Holt, 110 Colo. 253, 133 P.2d 530 (1942).

For inability of district to abandon project after expenditures have been made, see Gas Sec. Co. v. Antero & Lost Park Reservoir Co., 259 F. 423 (8th Cir. 1919).

37-41-116. Conveyances - suits. (1) The said board is hereby authorized to take conveyances or assurances for all property acquired by it under the provisions of this article in the name of such irrigation district for the purposes expressed in this article, and to institute and maintain any actions and proceedings, and suits at law or in equity, necessary or proper in order to fully carry out the provisions of this article, or to enforce, maintain, protect, or preserve any rights, privileges, and immunities created by this article or acquired in pursuance thereof. In all courts, actions, suits, or proceedings, the board may sue, appear, and defend in person or by attorneys and in the name of such irrigation district. Judicial notice shall be taken in all actions, suits, and judicial proceedings in any court of this state of the organization and existence of any irrigation district of this state from and after the filing for record in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the certified copy of the order of the board of county commissioners mentioned in section 37-41-103. A certified copy of said order shall be prima facie evidence in all actions, suits, and proceedings in any court of this state of the regularity and legal sufficiency of all acts, matters, and proceedings therein recited and set forth.

(2) Any such irrigation district, in regard to which any such order has been entered and such certified copy thereof so filed for record, and which has exercised or shall exercise the rights and powers of such a district, and which shall have in office a board of directors exercising the duties of their office, and the legality or regularity of the formation or organization of which shall not have been questioned by proceedings in quo warranto instituted in the district court of the county in which such district or the greater portion thereof is situated within one year from the date of such filing, shall be conclusively deemed to be a legally and regularly organized, established, and existing irrigation district within the meaning of this article; and its due and lawful formation and organization shall not thereafter be questioned in any action, suit, or proceeding whether brought under the provisions of this article or otherwise.

ANNOTATION

For irrigation districts being subject to rules of civil procedure, see North Sterling Irrigation Dist. v. Dickman, 66 Colo. 8, 178 P. 559 (1919).

37-41-117. Bonds - contract - purposes - election. (1) For the purpose of constructing or purchasing or acquiring necessary reservoir sites, reservoirs, water rights, canals, ditches, and works and of acquiring the necessary property and rights therefor; for the assumption of indebtedness to the United States or for entering into a contract with the United States or any agency thereof or water right owners for district lands; for the purpose of paying the first year's interest upon the bonds authorized in this article; and for otherwise carrying out the provisions of this article, the board of directors of any such district, as soon after such district has been organized as may be practicable, shall estimate and determine the amount of money necessary to be raised for such purposes and shall forthwith call a special election, at which election shall be submitted to the electors of such district possessing the qualifications prescribed by this article the question of whether or not the bonds of said district shall be issued in the amount so determined and, if applicable, whether the contract shall be approved.

(2) A notice of such election must be given by posting notices in three public places in each election precinct in said district for at least twenty days and also by publication of such notice in some newspaper published in the county where the office of the board of directors of such district is required to be kept, once a week for at least three successive weeks. Such notice shall specify the time of holding the election, the amount of bonds proposed to be issued, and, if applicable, the dollar amount of the contract to be entered into, and said election must be held and the result thereof determined and declared in all respects as nearly as possible in conformity with the provisions of this article governing the election of officers. No informalities in conducting such election shall invalidate the same if the election shall have been otherwise fairly conducted.

(3) At such election the ballots shall contain the words, if applicable, "Bonds - Yes" or "Bonds - No" or, if applicable, "Contract - Yes" or "Contract - No", or words equivalent thereto. If a majority of the legal electors who are freeholders and taxpayers or entrymen qualified as provided in this article within said district voting at said election have voted "Bonds - Yes" or "Contract - Yes", the board of directors shall immediately cause bonds in such amount to be issued and payable in series with such rate of interest as may be required to market said bonds as irrigation district bonds or cause the contract to be executed by the president and the secretary of the district.

(4) The principal and interest shall be payable at the office of the county treasurer of the county in which the organization of the district was effected and at such other place as the board of directors may designate in such bond. Said bonds shall be in denominations as may be determined by the board of directors and shall be negotiable in form, executed in the name of the district, and signed by the president and secretary, and the seal of the district shall be affixed thereto. Bonds deposited with the United States may call for the payment of such interest not exceeding the going rate for irrigation district bonds, may be of such denominations and may call for the repayment of the principal at such times as may be agreed upon between the district and the secretary of the interior, and, where the contract provides, may likewise call for the repayment of the principal at such times as may be agreed upon. Said bonds shall be numbered consecutively as issued and bear date at the time of their issue. Coupons for the interest shall be attached to each bond bearing the lithographed signatures of the president and secretary. Said bonds shall express on their faces that they are issued by the authority of this article, stating its title and date of approval.

(5) The secretary shall keep a record of the bonds sold, their number, date of sale, the price received, and the name of the purchaser; but any such district, by a majority vote of the legal electors of said district voting at said election, may provide for the issuance of bonds that will mature in any number of years less than thirty and arrange for the payment thereof in series. When the money provided by any previous issue of bonds has become exhausted by expenditures authorized therefrom and it becomes necessary to raise additional money for such purposes, additional bonds may be issued by submitting the question at a special election to the qualified voters of said district and otherwise complying with the provisions of this section in respect to an original issue of such bonds. The lien for taxes, for the payment of the interest and principal of any bond issue, or for any indebtedness under any contract with the United States or any agency thereof or another financial institution shall be a prior lien to that of any subsequent bond issue or under subsequent contract.

(6) If a contract is proposed to be made with the United States and bonds are not to be deposited with the United States in connection therewith, the question to be submitted to the voters at such special election is whether a contract shall be entered into with the United States or any agency thereof or any financial institution. The notice of election shall state the maximum amount of money payable to the United States for construction or other purposes, exclusive of penalties and interest, and the water rights and other property, if any, to be conveyed to the United States, any agency thereof, or another financial institution as provided in section 37-41-113. The ballots for such election shall contain the words "Contract with the United States or agency thereof or financial institution - Yes", and "Contract with the United States or agency thereof or financial institution - No", or words equivalent thereto.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For note, "A Survey of Colorado Water Law", see 47 Den. L.J. 226 (1970).

The constructions placed on this and the following sections by the supreme court of Colorado are binding on the federal courts. Denver-Greeley Valley Irrigation Dist. v. McNeil, 80 F.2d 929 (10th Cir. 1936).

Violation of rule was nonprejudicial where majority of qualified electors voted in favor of bond issue. The violation of this rule was nonprejudicial to plaintiff, where it appeared that the whole number of qualified electors entitled to vote at the election for a second bond issue was 10, and that at least six who voted "Yes" possessed the requisite qualifications, so that a majority voted in favor of the bond issue. Wilder v. Bd. of Dirs. of S. Side Irrigation Dist., 55 Colo. 363, 135 P. 461 (1913).

The power given to the irrigation district to issue its bonds, when exercised, imposed an obligation upon the district to levy a sufficient tax to pay such bonds as they became due unless the constitution or statutes of the state forbade. Norris v. Montezuma Valley Irrigation Dist., 248 F. 369 (8th Cir. 1918).

This section becomes a part of the contract with the bondholders. The bondholders must be held to have taken the bonds with the understanding and agreement that they were only entitled to the principal and the annual interest, and that no interest on the principal of the bonds or on the coupons was provided for or could be recovered after their maturity. In re Green City Irrigation Dist., 91 Colo. 202, 13 P.2d 1113 (1932).

One is entitled to a judgment against the district, but not entitled to execution unless perchance to reach moneys in the treasury which may have been collected from assessments levied in accordance with the underlying statute. She must look to the revenue provided by statute for the payment of her bonds. Divide Creek Irrigation Dist. v. Hollingsworth, 72 F.2d 859 (10th Cir. 1934).

Where bonds recite that all acts and things required to be done to render their issuance lawful have been done, the district cannot assert, against an innocent purchaser for value, that they were improvidently issued, or issued for a purpose not contemplated by the statute or election notice, or that those to whom they were issued did not live up to agreements contemporaneously made. Divide Creek Irrigation Dist. v. Hollingsworth, 72 F.2d 859 (10th Cir. 1934).

A third person having knowledge of infirmities in bonds should return them. In an action for the return of irrigation district bonds, a third party to whom they were delivered, having full knowledge of their infirmities, should return them, regardless of the relations existing between himself and the party to whom they were originally delivered. Henry L. Doherty & Co. v. Steele, 71 Colo. 33, 204 P. 77 (1922).

If bonds of an irrigation district are so wrongfully delivered that they ought to be returned, then they to whom they are delivered should return them, and they cannot relieve themselves of the obligation by transferring them to others, whether those others be holders in due course or not. Henry L. Doherty & Co. v. Steele, 71 Colo. 33, 204 P. 77 (1922).

The fact that the district is not liable on bonds which were wrongfully delivered is one reason why they should be returned. Henry L. Doherty & Co. v. Steele, 71 Colo. 33, 204 P. 77 (1922).

It was not error to enter judgment for the par value of bonds in case they could not be returned to the district. Henry L. Doherty & Co. v. Steele, 71 Colo. 33, 204 P. 77 (1922).

The delivery of certain rights-of-way of nominal value to an irrigation district held not a sufficient consideration for a transfer of bonds of the district of the face value of $250,000. Henry L. Doherty & Co. v. Steele, 71 Colo. 33, 204 P. 77 (1922).

This section provides that, so far as a second issue of bonds is concerned, the same procedure must be gone through as is provided for the first issue. This means everything concerning them. Thomas v. Patterson, 61 Colo. 547, 159 P. 34 (1916).

In order to be different liens for taxes, there must be different levies for these taxes. The proviso of this section says "the lien for taxes" not "the lien on taxes" and, in order to be different liens for taxes, there must be different levies for these taxes. Somewhat similar conditions pertaining to different liens for taxes have been recognized in different cases, some of which are cited, not as authority upon this question, but as referring to the subject and as recognizing a distinction between different liens for taxes for different purposes. City & County of Denver v. Keeler, 48 Colo. 54, 108 P. 998 (1910); Thomas v. Patterson, 61 Colo. 547, 159 P. 34 (1916).

37-41-118. Sale of bonds - proceeds. The board may sell bonds from time to time in such quantities as may be necessary and most advantageous to raise the money for the construction or purchase of canals, reservoir sites, reservoirs, and water rights and works and otherwise to fully carry out the object and purposes of this article. Before making any sale, the board, at a meeting, by resolution, shall declare its intention to sell a specified amount of the bonds and the day and hour and place of such sale and shall cause such resolution to be entered in the minutes and notice of the sale to be given by publication thereof at least twenty days in a daily newspaper published in the city of Denver and in any other newspaper at its discretion. The notice shall state that sealed proposals will be received by the board at its office, for the purchase of the bonds, until the day and hour named in the resolution. At the time appointed, the board shall open the proposals and award the purchase of the bonds to the highest responsible bidder and may reject all bids. The board in no event shall sell any of said bonds for less than ninety-five percent of the face value thereof. In case no bid is made and accepted, the board of directors is hereby authorized to use said bonds for the purchase of canals, reservoir sites, reservoirs, and water rights and works, or for the construction of any canal, reservoir, and works; but such bonds shall not be so disposed of at less than ninety-five percent of the face value thereof.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For note, "A Survey of Colorado Water Law", see 47 Den. L.J. 226 (1970).

Bonds create trust relation requiring investment in irrigation. Where a district put forth an issue of bonds payable "to bearer", obviously intended for a negotiable security to be purchased by the investing public, and stating upon their faces that they were "a lien upon all the real property in said district", the clear intention of the parties, acted upon by the bondholders through purchase of the bonds, created a relation of trust, the terms of which were that the district would invest such funds in the irrigation of the lands in the district. Gas Sec. Co. v. Antero & Lost Park Reservoir Co., 259 F. 423 (8th Cir. 1919).

The district shall require sufficient assessment, levy, and collection to actually pay debt. A statutory obligation of a municipal corporation or quasi-municipal corporation to pay its debt, or to fix a rate of levy necessary to provide the amount of money required to pay its debt, is not satisfied by an assessment and rate of levy sufficient to pay the debt if the taxes are collected, but requires that there be a sufficient assessment and levy and collection of the taxes as levied to actually pay the debt. Norris v. Montezuma Valley Irrigation Dist., 248 F. 369 (8th Cir. 1918).

The warrant, bond, and coupon indebtedness is not a lien against any of the lands within the irrigation district. Kiles v. Trinchera Irrigation Dist., 136 F.2d 894 (10th Cir. 1943).

37-41-119. Bonds - payment - lien. The bonds, and the interest thereon, and all payments due or to become due to the United States under any contract between the district and the United States accompanying which bonds of the district have not been deposited with the United States shall be paid by revenue derived from an annual assessment upon the real property of the district, and the real property of the district shall be and remain liable to be assessed for such payments. Public lands of the United States within any district shall be subject to taxation for all purposes of this article to the extent provided by the act of congress approved August 11, 1916, upon full compliance therewith by the district.

ANNOTATION

The provisions of this section measure the obligations of the district and the property owners therein. Divide Creek Irrigation Dist. v. Hollingsworth, 72 F.2d 859 (10th Cir. 1934).

This section calls for a construction which creates a lien by necessary implication without express language to that effect. Thomas v. Patterson, 61 Colo. 547, 159 P. 34 (1916).

Upon default in payment of interest, sole remedy of bondholder is mandamus. Under the provisions of this section, the sole remedy of the holder of the bonds of an irrigation district, if default is made in the payment of interest, is by mandamus. Henrylyn Irrigation Dist. v. Thomas, 64 Colo. 413, 173 P. 541 (1918); Alpha Corp. v. Denver-Greeley Valley Irrigation Dist., 110 Colo. 179, 132 P.2d 448 (1942); Kiles v. Trinchera Irrigation Dist., 136 F.2d 894 (10th Cir. 1943).

An ordinary action demanding judgment for money will not lie. Henrylyn Irrigation Dist. v. Thomas, 64 Colo. 413, 173 P. 541 (1918); Alpha Corp. v. Denver-Greeley Valley Irrigation Dist., 110 Colo. 179, 132 P.2d 448 (1942); Kiles v. Trinchera Irrigation Dist., 136 F.2d 894 (10th Cir. 1943).

Under this section, bonds shall be paid by annual assessments on the lands in the district sufficient to pay the principal and the interest of the bonds. Gas Sec. Co. v. Nile Irrigation Dist., 293 F. 365 (8th Cir. 1923).

The method provided by the act for the payment of the bonds and interest is exclusive, and the court cannot require the board to depart from the method prescribed for it in the act. Norris v. Montezuma Valley Irrigation Dist., 240 F. 825 (D. Colo. 1916).

The statute makes no provision for interest after the obligations are due, and bondholders must be held to have acquired their bonds and coupons with that understanding. Denver-Greeley Valley Irrigation Dist. v. McNeil, 80 F.2d 929 (10th Cir. 1934).

The lien of the bonds is exhausted upon sale of the lands at a tax sale after default in a assessment made to satisfy the entire indebtedness on the bonds. Sumers v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 117 Colo. 57, 184 P.2d 144 (1947).

The courts of the United States are not deprived of the power to enforce the right because it is rooted in a state statute which prescribes a different method of enforcement in the state courts. Divide Creek Irrigation Dist. v. Hollingsworth, 72 F.2d 859 (10th Cir. 1934).

A nonresident may enforce right in federal court. While appellee's right is measured by this section and the Colorado decisions construing it, neither state statute nor decision can prevent appellee, a nonresident, from enforcing that right in the courts of the United States, nor control the procedure of such courts. Divide Creek Irrigation Dist. v. Hollingsworth, 72 F.2d 859 (10th Cir. 1934).

Mandamus available in federal court only after right has ripened into judgment. In the federal courts mandamus is an ancillary remedy, available in such instances as this, only after the right has ripened into judgment. An action to adjudicate the existence of the right is a necessary step in the enforcement of that right by mandamus. Divide Creek Irrigation Dist. v. Hollingsworth, 72 F.2d 859 (10th Cir. 1934).

Where there are two issues of bonds, and single levy of taxes, to pay "the interest which may become due on the bonds of the district" during a specified year, largely in excess of the interest due on the first issue, but not sufficient to discharge what accrues upon the two, the tax collected is to be apportioned to the holders of the two issues, in the proportion that the total amount collected bears to the total amount of the interest falling due during the year. Thomas v. Patterson, 61 Colo. 547, 159 P. 34 (1916).

37-41-120. Fiscal year - directors to fix levy. The fiscal year of each irrigation district in this state shall commence on January 1 in each year. It is the duty of the board of directors on or before October 15 in each year to determine the amount of money required to meet the maintenance, operating, and current expenses for the ensuing fiscal year and to certify by resolution to the board of county commissioners of the county in which the office of the district is located said amount, together with any additional amount which may be necessary to meet any deficiency in the payment of said expenses theretofore incurred. The board of directors may fix the amount payable for any tract containing one acre or less and, if so, similarly shall certify this amount to the board of county commissioners. The board of directors shall also fix the amount payable by each tract within any district with which the United States has made a contract and shall certify the same to the board of county commissioners, and the amount so fixed shall be in accordance with the federal reclamation laws and the public notices, orders, and regulations issued thereunder and shall be in compliance with any contracts made by the United States with any owners of said lands and in compliance further with the contracts between the district and the United States. The obligation of every irrigation district contracting with the United States shall be deemed a district debt. Said resolution shall be termed the annual appropriation resolution for the next fiscal year, and no expenditure to be paid out of such fund shall exceed in any one year the amounts fixed for such expenses in the annual appropriation resolution, except as provided in section 37-41-129.

ANNOTATION

The power given under the act was to assess special improvement taxes only; therefore it is constitutional. Interstate Trust Co. v. Montezuma Valley Irrigation Dist., 66 Colo. 219, 181 P. 123 (1919).

Section provides for local improvements or special assessments. In no sense can it be said that, under the act in question, the assessments to pay the bonds are to be levied or collected in order that one may take another's property for his own exclusive use. Nor does it follow that the method must be assimilated to and follow exactly the mode provided in the constitution for the assessment and collection of taxes for general state purposes. The nature of the assessments is not for local improvements, which, however, eventuate in the advancement of the public good, and such assessments and collections can be lawfully made. Interstate Trust Co. v. Montezuma Valley Irrigation Dist., 66 Colo. 219, 181 P. 123 (1919).

Irrigation district bonds, bond interest, and warrant liens are special assessment liens and not blanket liens, and cumulative tax levies for the purpose of paying such irrigation district indebtedness cannot be made or enforced. Alpha Corp. v. Denver-Greeley Valley Irrigation Dist., 110 Colo. 179, 132 P.2d 448 (1942).

The additional amount which may be levied under this section is not for the purpose of paying current warrants, and has nothing to do with it, and the warrants issued in payment of the current expense would be no more entitled to be paid out of this fund than would the previous warrants out of the levy for current expense. Eberhart v. Canon, 61 Colo. 340, 157 P. 189 (1916).

District cannot add to the yearly expenses an amount sufficient to pay warrants of preceding years. The phrase, "deficiency in the payment of said expenses theretofore incurred", does not empower, and does not purport to empower, the district to add to the yearly expenses, by cumulative levies, an amount sufficient to cover unpaid warrants for the expenses of preceding years. To strain the intent of the statute to this construction would be to compel only a portion of the landowners, perhaps but one of them, to bear the whole burden of the district. This is not only inconsistent with and contrary to the theory of special assessments, which is that assessments shall be in proportion to the benefits conferred, but amounts to confiscation in the guise of taxes for local improvements. Interstate Trust Co. v. Montezuma Valley Irrigation Dist., 66 Colo. 219, 181 P. 123 (1919).

Section requires that the directors anticipate and certify the amounts necessary but, appreciating the uncertainties that might arise from determining these questions in advance, the general assembly attempted to meet them by the latter portion of this section in providing that, upon the following year, such additional amount might be raised as is necessary to meet any deficiency in the payment of the expenses theretofore incurred. Eberhart v. Canon, 61 Colo. 340, 157 P. 189 (1916); Henrylyn Irrigation Dist. v. Thomas, 66 Colo. 296, 181 P. 979 (1919).

Writ compelling directors to certify amount to the commissioners must show prior demand and refusal. Where it is sought to compel the directors of an irrigating district to certify to the county commissioners the amount necessary to pay interest on outstanding bonds of such district, the writ must show prior demand and refusal. Henrylyn Irrigation Dist. v. Thomas, 66 Colo. 296, 181 P. 979 (1919).

The owner of a minority of the bonds of an irrigation district is entitled to mandamus to compel the directors of the district to determine the amount of money required to discharge his holdings, and certify the same to the county commissioners. He is entitled to satisfaction of the bonds which he holds and is not required to go further. Henrylyn Irrigation Dist. v. Thomas, 66 Colo. 300, 181 P. 980 (1919).

If action appears injurious to other holders, they must complain. If, when mandamus is awarded, the action of the board appears injurious to the holders of other bonds outstanding, it is for these holders to complain. Henrylyn Irrigation Dist. v. Thomas, 66 Colo. 300, 181 P. 980 (1919).

Holders of unpaid warrants of preceding years may take land at tax sale in lieu of warrants. When all assessments required by law have been levied, the district is not empowered to add to the yearly expense by a cumulative levy, to cover warrants issued for the expenses of preceding years. The holders of warrants issued in preceding years, and which remain unpaid, by reason of the defaults of the taxpayers, may take the land itself at the tax sale, in lieu of the warrant. Interstate Trust Co. v. Montezuma Valley Irrigation Dist., 66 Colo. 219, 181 P. 123 (1919).

37-41-121. Assessor - assessment. (1) It is the duty of the county assessor of any county embracing the whole or a part of any irrigation district to assess and enter upon his records as assessor in its appropriate column the assessment of all real estate, including public lands subject to assessment under the act of congress of August 11, 1916, exclusive of improvements, situate, lying, and being within any irrigation district in whole or in part of such county. Immediately after said assessment has been extended as provided by law, the assessor shall make returns of the total amount of such assessment to the board of county commissioners of the county in which the office of said district is located. All lands within the district, for the purpose of taxation under this article, shall be valued by the assessor at the same rate per acre; but in no case shall any land be taxed, or subject to taxation, for irrigation district purposes under this article, or under any other law relative to irrigation districts, which, by reason of location or the broken uneven surface, or unsuitable character or quality of the soil, is unsuitable for irrigation and cultivation, or which, from any natural cause, is not capable of irrigation and cultivation, except at a financial loss, nor shall tracts of land of one acre or less be taxed for irrigation purposes if the board of directors of the irrigation district has fixed an amount payable for each of said tracts. If the amount of water available from the water system of the irrigation district is wholly insufficient for the successful growing and maturing of crops on the entire acreage of lands within the district and susceptible of irrigation therefrom, that fact may be alleged and, upon being established by proofs, shall entitle the owner of lands that have never been cultivated and irrigated from the water system of such irrigation district to the relief provided for in this article.

(2) In all cases where any such land is included in any irrigation district under any law relative to irrigation districts and assessed for irrigation district purposes, it may be excluded from such irrigation district and relieved from such assessments for irrigation district purposes by order of the board of directors of the irrigation district, upon written petition of the owner, verified as pleadings are required to be verified. The petition shall state the grounds upon which the relief is asked and shall also show that the land has never been cultivated and irrigated and is incapable of cultivation by irrigation from the irrigation system of the irrigation district, and that the petitioner did not participate in the organization of the districts; and, upon hearing before the board of directors on such petition, the allegations thereof must be supported by evidence. Notice of the filing of such petition and of the time and place of hearing thereon shall be given for the length of time and in the manner as provided in section 37-41-144.

(3) The action of the board of directors upon such petitions, as well as the action of the board of county commissioners in including such land in such irrigation district and the subsequent taxing of such lands for irrigation district purposes, shall be subject to review and correction by any court of competent jurisdiction, but the owner of any such land shall be deemed to have waived, relinquished, and lost his right to relief under this section as to such land or such portion of it as he has cultivated and irrigated from the irrigation system of such irrigation district; where a contract has been entered into between the United States and any irrigation district, the district boundaries shall not be changed, nor shall lands be exempted from taxation except upon written consent of the secretary of the interior filed with the official records of the district, nor in case of such a contract shall the foregoing provisions of this section requiring the assessor to value all lands within such district at the same rate per acre be applicable, but in such case the county assessor shall assess such district land in accordance with the certificate provided for in section 37-41-120 and in compliance with the terms of such contract between the United States and the district.

ANNOTATION

The liabilities of the district are a charge upon the land ratably, with the acre as the unit, on which basis assessments are determined according to benefits. Interstate Trust Co. v. Montezuma Valley Irrigation Dist., 66 Colo. 219, 181 P. 123 (1919); Alpha Corp. v. Denver-Greeley Valley Irrigation Dist., 110 Colo. 179, 132 P.2d 448 (1942).

This section looks to uniformity of assessment per acre for the payment of the district's indebtedness. Norris v. Montezuma Valley Irrigation Dist., 248 F. 369 (8th Cir. 1918).

This section does not provide that a uniform amount shall be collected per acre, but that the lands shall be valued by the assessor at the same rate per acre. Norris v. Montezuma

Valley Irrigation Dist., 248 F. 369 (8th Cir. 1918).

This section gives the county assessor the power and imposes on him the duty to make the annual assessment only on the lands to be benefited. Norris v. Montezuma Valley Irrigation Dist., 240 F. 825 (D. Colo. 1916).

Taxes of irrigation district enforced as in case of other taxes. Taxes regularly assessed and levied for a duly organized and lawfully existing irrigation district are of equal dignity with other taxes and should be respected, and the collection thereof enforced, as in the case of other taxes. Nile Irrigation Dist. v. English, 60 Colo. 406, 153 P. 760 (1915).

37-41-122. Other taxes must be paid. The owner of such land, at the time of filing such petition and before the order of the board of directors of the district or the decree of court excluding such land from the district goes into effect, shall pay to the county treasurer of the county in which such land is situated all taxes, other than taxes for irrigation district purposes, levied or assessed thereon, together with any interest, penalties, and fees as are or may be by law properly chargeable thereon.

37-41-123. Special tax levy. (1) It is the duty of the board of county commissioners of the county in which is located the office of any irrigation district, immediately upon receipt of the returns of the total assessment of said district and upon the receipt of the certificates of the board of directors certifying the total amount of money required to be raised, to fix the rate of levy necessary to provide said amount of money and to fix the rate necessary to provide the amount of money required to pay the interest and principal of the bonds of said district as the same shall become due; to fix the rate necessary to provide the amount of money required for any other purposes as provided in this article and which is to be raised by the levy of assessments upon the real property of said district; and to certify said respective rates to the board of county commissioners of each county embracing any portion of said district. The rate of levy necessary to raise the required amount of money on the valuation for assessment of the property of said district shall be increased fifteen percent to cover delinquencies.

(2) For the purposes of said district it is the duty of the board of county commissioners of each county in which any irrigation district is located in whole or in part, at the time of making levy for county purposes, to make a levy at the rates above specified upon all real estate in said district within their respective counties and, in case of contract with the United States, in the amounts and on the tracts as fixed and certified by the board of directors as prescribed in section 37-41-120. If the board of directors of an irrigation district has certified the amount payable for any tract of one acre or less, it is the duty of the board of county commissioners of each county in which the irrigation district is located, in whole or in part, also to levy such amount against each of such tracts. All taxes levied under this article are special taxes.

ANNOTATION

I. General Consideration.

II. Rights and Remedies of Bondholder.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

The tax levied under this section is a special tax. Henrylyn Irrigation Dist. v. Thomas, 66 Colo. 296, 181 P. 979 (1919).

Special taxes may be, and frequently are, public taxes as well, that is, taxes levied for a public purpose. Frequently the term "special" is used simply as a designation or for the purposes of classification. McCord Mercantile Co. v. McIntyre, 25 Colo. App. 376, 138 P. 59 (1914).

The authority for levying the special irrigation district tax is the same as the authority for levying the general public revenue tax, i.e., it proceeds from the same source. McCord Mercantile Co. v. McIntyre, 25 Colo. App. 376, 138 P. 59 (1914).

This section does not undertake to limit the amount of the levy the board may make. This section granting power to the county board to estimate and fix the amount of the levy in no way undertakes to limit the amount of the levy they may make. Norris v. Montezuma Valley Irrigation Dist., 248 F. 369 (8th Cir. 1918).

The failure of the means of payment prescribed by statute does not extinguish the debt for which such provision is made. Michigan Trust Co. v. Otero Irrigation Dist., 76 Colo. 441, 232 P. 919 (1925).

Reason for 15 percent levy. The general assembly is presumed to have knowledge of the fact that, under any system of taxation by assessment hitherto devised, a portion of the taxpayers neglect to pay the taxes levied against their property for a long period after they become due. In partial recognition of this fact, this section provides that the county board shall increase the rate of levy on an irrigation district 15 percent to cover delinquencies. Norris v. Montezuma Valley Irrigation Dist., 248 F. 369 (8th Cir. 1918).

Such levy cannot be used to discharge the proportionate obligation of those who do not pay. The 15 percent levy "to cover delinquencies" provided by this section cannot be made, and the amount collected cannot be used, to discharge the proportionate obligation of those who do not pay their district taxes. Bd. of Comm'rs v. Heath, 87 Colo. 204, 286 P. 107 (1930).

The 15 percent levy must be limited so as to cover delinquencies in maintenance, operating, current, and other expenses of the district. The holder of district bonds has no claim upon the funds arising from such levy for the payment of his bonds or interest thereon. Bd. of Comm'rs v. Heath, 87 Colo. 204, 286 P. 107 (1930).

The property of one landowner shall not become liable for the assessments for other lands where the owners fail or refuse to pay. Bd. of Comm'rs v. Heath, 87 Colo. 204, 286 P. 107 (1930).

Taxes to pay warrants could not be pyramided so as eventually to compel those who paid to carry the burden of those who failed. Interstate Trust Co. v. Montezuma Valley Irrigation Dist., 66 Colo. 219, 181 P. 123 (1919); Bd. of Comm'rs v. Heath, 87 Colo. 204, 286 P. 107 (1930).

Additional levy upon all property because of failure of some to pay their portion may be valid. It is a common provision in state constitutions and statutes that assessments or levies for taxation shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects or by value. Such provisions are not violated when, after the lapse of a reasonable time and after reasonable efforts have been made to collect the first levy, an additional levy is made upon all the property in the district because of the failure of some of the taxpayers to pay their portions of the first levy. Norris v. Montezuma Valley Irrigation Dist., 248 F. 369 (8th Cir. 1918).

Where sufficient assessment is made to pay annual interest on bonds, the board cannot reassess lands which have paid. When an assessment has been levied by the county board on the lands of a district to pay the annual interest on the district bonds, and it is sufficient in amount, the board has no power to reassess lands which have paid the assessment to make up a deficiency caused by the failure of other lands to pay. Norris v. Montezuma Valley Irrigation Dist., 240 F. 825 (D. Colo. 1916).

Such assessments are only sustainable when the benefits received by the property assessed are proportionate to the burden placed upon it. City & County of Denver v. Kennedy, 33 Colo. 80, 80 P. 122 (1905); Norris v. Montezuma Valley Irrigation Dist., 240 F. 825 (D. Colo. 1916).

II. RIGHTS AND REMEDIES OF BONDHOLDER.

Sole remedy of bondholder upon default in payment of interest is mandamus. Under the provisions of this section, the sole remedy of the holder of the bonds of an irrigation district, if default be made in the payment of interest, is by mandamus. Henrylyn Irrigation Dist. v. Thomas, 64 Colo. 413, 173 P. 541 (1918); Norris v. Montezuma Valley Irrigation Dist., 248 F. 369

(8th Cir. 1918); Kiles v. Trinchera Irrigation Dist., 136 F.2d 894 (10th Cir. 1943).

If it is not the plain duty of the board to make a levy, action of mandamus will be dismissed. In an action in mandamus to compel county commissioners to levy a tax for irrigation district purposes, it is held that, if it was not the plain legal duty of the board to make the levy, the action was properly dismissed. Kerber Creek Irrigation Dist. v. Woodard, 76 Colo. 219, 230 P. 807 (1924).

Board cannot be compelled to complete legal duty if what they have done satisfies petitioner's legal demands. In an action in mandamus to compel the levy and collection of taxes for the payment of irrigation district bonds, the petitioner cannot lawfully compel the county officials to do their complete legal duty even although they have neglected to do it completely, if what they have done is sufficient to satisfy his legal demands. Bd. of Comm'rs v. Heath, 79 Colo. 429, 246 P. 794 (1926).

If an irrigation district has money or property aside from the specific fund to be raised by a tax levy, it can be subjected to the payment of its outstanding negotiable bonds and coupons which have not been paid because of inability to collect the special tax. Michigan Trust Co. v. Otero Irrigation Dist., 76 Colo. 441, 232 P. 919 (1925).

Although board has exhausted legal method to gather a fund to pay, this does not constitute a payment. Where the board of directors of the district complied with the statute and performed its duty by making a sufficient levy of taxes which, if paid by the taxpayers, would have discharged the obligations evidenced by its negotiable bonds and coupons or a judgment rendered thereon, even though the district board has done all that it may lawfully do to gather a fund to pay, this does not constitute a payment or discharge of the debt. Michigan Trust Co. v. Otero Irrigation Dist., 76 Colo. 441, 232 P. 919 (1925); Kiles v. Trinchera Irrigation Dist., 136 F.2d 894 (10th Cir. 1943).

Though the particular method of payment proves abortive, a debt remains an obligation of the district until it is paid. Michigan Trust Co. v. Otero Irrigation Dist., 76 Colo. 441, 232 P. 919 (1925).

37-41-124. Assessment - collection - redemption - deed. (1) The revenue laws of this state for the assessment, levying, and collection of taxes on real estate for county purposes, as modified in this section, shall be applicable for the purposes of this article, including the enforcement of penalties and forfeiture for delinquent taxes. However, in case of sale of any lot or parcel of land, or any interest therein, for delinquent irrigation district taxes or delinquent irrigation district and general taxes, when there are no bids therefor on any of the days of such tax sale, the same shall be struck off to the irrigation district in which such land is located for the amount of the taxes, interest, and costs thereon, and a certificate of sale shall be made out to said district therefor and delivered to its secretary, who shall file the same in the office of its board of directors and record the same in a book of public record to be kept by said board for such purpose, but no charge shall be made by the county treasurer for making such certificate, and in such case he shall make the entry "struck off to ..... irrigation district" on his records, as well as an entry showing the amount of the general irrigation district taxes and interest thereon, respectively, for which said lands were offered for sale, together with the cost attending such sale.

(2) No taxes assessed against any land so struck off to said district under the provisions of this section shall be payable until the same has been derived by the district from the sale or redemption of such lands. Such irrigation district or its assignee shall be entitled to a tax deed for said lands in the same manner and subject to the same equities as if a private purchaser at said tax sale, upon the payment to the county treasurer at the time of demanding said deed of such sum as the board of county commissioners of such county at any regular or special meeting may decide.

(3) In case the owner of said lot or parcel of land, or interest therein, desires to redeem the same at any time before said tax deed shall be issued, the same may be done in the same manner as is provided by law to be done, in case said lot or parcel of land, or interest therein, had been purchased by a bidder at said tax sale or had been struck off to the county. In such case the county treasurer shall forthwith issue a certificate of redemption therefor and notify the district secretary of said fact, who shall thereupon make a suitable transfer entry upon his record and return the certificate of sale to the county treasurer for cancellation.

(4) In case any person desires to obtain such certificate of purchase so issued to said irrigation district, the same may be done in the same manner as provided by law to be done in case said lot or parcel of land, or interest therein, had been purchased by a bidder at said tax sale or had been struck off to the county, upon payment to the county treasurer of the required amount in cash, or in cash together with warrants not in excess of the district general fund tax, or in cash and interest coupons or bonds not in excess of the irrigation district and redemption fund tax, or in cash and in warrants and bonds, respectively, not in excess of said respective funds.

(5) No action for possession of or to quiet title to land sold for taxes shall lie on behalf of the owner or claimant of the fee title as against the holder of the tax deed or his grantee claiming title or color of title thereunder in any case wherein the taxes or any part thereof for which said land was sold were levied for the maintenance, operating, and current expenses of an irrigation district or to pay the interest or principal of the bonds of such district, unless such action is brought within five years after the execution and delivery of the deed by the treasurer and the recording thereof, any law to the contrary notwithstanding. As a condition precedent to the right of such owner or claimant of the fee title to maintain his said suit for possession or to quiet title as against the person in possession under color of title, or as against the claimant of title to vacant and unoccupied land under a tax deed giving color of title to lands in an irrigation district, the plaintiff, at the time of filing his complaint, shall pay to the clerk of the court in which such proceedings are instituted, for the benefit of and to be paid to the person entitled thereto in case the plaintiff prevails in such suit, the amount of all taxes, interest, expenses, and penalties, including the amount of subsequent taxes paid on account of such sale which may have been paid thereunder, with interest on the whole of such sum at eight percent per annum.

(6) In any case in which the claimant has title or color of title to land in an irrigation district under a tax deed duly recorded, and brings his suit for possession of or to quiet title to such lands, the invalidity or alleged invalidity or insufficiency of the tax deed shall not be a sufficient defense after the expiration of five years from and after the execution, delivery, and record of said tax deed, nor, if such defense is pleaded prior to the expiration of said five years, shall the invalidity or insufficiency of the tax deed be considered by the court as a defense, unless defendant shall first deposit with the clerk of the court in which said suit is brought, a sufficient amount to pay the taxes, interest, expenses, and penalties, including the amount of subsequent taxes and interest at eight percent per annum, paid on account of such tax sale, for the benefit of and to be paid to the person entitled thereto, when ascertained by the judgment in said suit.

ANNOTATION

This section is not authority for the registration of interest coupons like county warrants, if there are no funds to discharge them. Thomas v. Patterson, 61 Colo. 547, 159 P. 34 (1916).

Lands sold to the county for taxes are excepted from the provisions of this section. Such lands are not to be sold at all for taxes until by redemption or sale the county is made whole. Henrylyn Irrigation Dist. v. Patterson, 65 Colo. 385, 176 P. 493 (1918).

This section calls for a construction which creates a lien by necessary implication without express language to that effect. Thomas v. Patterson, 61 Colo. 547, 159 P. 34 (1916).

This section was evidently for the purpose of assisting counties to secure purchasers at tax sales for lands in irrigation districts, in order to better enable not only the state and counties, but such districts, to secure their taxes, so that their affairs may not be crippled by the failure of landowners to pay them. Delta Land & Orchard Co. v. Zaninetti, 64 Colo. 268, 170 P. 964 (1918).

A purchaser at a tax sale, of lands included within an irrigation district, may pay therefor in part with bonds and warrants of the district, under the provisions of § 37-41-109. Tew v. Phillips, 73 Colo. 408, 216 P. 525 (1923).

The provisions of this section are written into a contract of tenancy and the tenant is bound thereby. Pendleton v. Mosca Irrigation Dist., 89 Colo. 209, 1 P.2d 99 (1931).

The landlord cannot, by the simple device of a long-term lease, either evade the payment of the tax during the term or deprive the holder of the tax deed of the rights accorded him by this section. Pendleton v. Mosca Irrigation Dist., 89 Colo. 209, 1 P.2d 99 (1931).

In an action in ejectment by an irrigation district based on tax deeds, defendant could not assert the invalidity of the tax deeds as a defense if he failed and refused to tender and deposit with the clerk of the court money to pay taxes, etc., under this section. Pendleton v. Mosca Irrigation Dist., 89 Colo. 209, 1 P.2d 99 (1931).

There is nothing in this section which gives the holder of a tax deed to vacant and unoccupied land any enlarged or other or different rights or remedies in a suit to quiet title under a tax deed than obtain generally. Gibson v. Interior Realty & Inv. Co., 70 Colo. 5, 201 P. 680 (1921).

The purport and effect of the provision is merely to limit the rights of the fee holder as to the circumstances and conditions under which he may make a defense. Gibson v. Interior Realty & Inv. Co., 70 Colo. 5, 201 P. 680 (1921).

Owner must pay tax title claimant amount for which lands were sold with interest. This section extends the substance of the equitable doctrine that, as a prerequisite to a recovery of lands by the owner against one claiming under an invalid tax deed, he must pay the tax title claimant the amount for which the lands were sold, with interest, etc., to suits by tax deed claimants for possession of lands in irrigation districts, by providing that before the owner can question the validity or regularity of the tax deed, he must pay the amount of the taxes, etc. Delta Land & Orchard Co. v. Zaninetti, 64 Colo. 268, 170 P. 964 (1918).

In an action for the recovery of lands in an irrigation district under a tax deed, judgment may, under this section, be given so that defendant may, within a time limited, pay into court the tax and interest evidenced by the deed, and the cost of its execution and record, and that in default of such payment plaintiff is declared the owner of the land and entitled to possession even though the deed is void upon its face. Delta Land & Orchard Co. v. Zaninetti, 64 Colo. 268, 170 P. 964 (1918).

37-41-125. Construction - contracts. (1) After adopting a plan for the construction of canals, reservoirs, and works, the board of directors shall give notice, by publication thereof, for not less than twenty days, in a newspaper published in each of the counties into which any such irrigation district extends, provided a newspaper is published therein, and in such other newspapers as it may deem advisable, calling for bids for the construction of said work or any portion thereof. If less than the whole work is advertised, then the portion so advertised must be particularly described in such notice. The notice shall set forth that plans and specifications can be seen at the office of the board, and that the board will receive sealed proposals therefor, and that the contract will be let to the lowest responsible bidder, stating the time and the place for opening the proposals, which, at said time and place, shall be opened in public. As soon as convenient thereafter the board shall let said work, either in portions or as a whole, to the lowest responsible bidder, or it may reject any or all bids and readvertise for proposals, or it may proceed to construct the work under its own superintendence.

(2) Contracts for the purchase of material shall be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder. The persons to whom a contract may be awarded shall enter into a bond, with good and sufficient sureties, to be approved by the board, payable to said district for its use, for not less than ten percent of the amount of the contract price, conditioned for the faithful performance of said contract. The work shall be done under the direction and to the satisfaction of the engineer in charge and be approved by the board. The provisions of this section shall not apply in the case of any contract between the district and the United States; except that, before any contract for construction work shall be entered into between the United States and the district, plans and specifications covering the proposed work shall be prepared and filed with the secretary of the district.

ANNOTATION

An irrigation district may contract for a complete irrigation system. Gas Sec. Co. v. Antero & Lost Park Reservoir Co., 259 F. 423 (8th Cir. 1919).

District may require other security besides the required bond. The fact that a district was required to take a bond from the contractors for the faithful performance of the contract is no reason why it could not otherwise protect itself by retaining a certain amount of the monthly estimate or provide in the contract for such other protection as it might require. Noonan v. Stein, 56 Colo. 64, 136 P. 1181 (1913).

The bond may become valueless. The requirement of this section in no way militates against the construction which was upon the contract, but to the contrary, although not disclosed in the record, it evidently was a wise precaution upon behalf of the district to make other provisions for its protection, as it is conceded that the bond taken in this case has become practically valueless. The record shows that the contractors are insolvent. Noonan v. Stein, 56 Colo. 64, 136 P. 1181 (1913).

This protection is for the sole benefit of the district. The contract gave to the district the right to retain the fund for the purposes of protecting it generally against all breaches of the contract, and claims of every kind and nature growing out of it, and that this was done solely for the benefit of the district; hence, it was not such a fund as was specifically set apart for the payment of the unpaid bills of the contractors. Noonan v. Stein, 56 Colo. 64, 136 P. 1181 (1913).

Bonds must be returned if irrigation system is not constructed. If bonds were delivered as an advance payment in contemplation of the completion of a contract for the construction and delivery of an irrigation system, which was never fulfilled, equity requires the return of the bonds. Henry L. Doherty & Co. v. Steele, 71 Colo. 33, 204 P. 77 (1922).

37-41-126. Claims - audit - payment - financial report. Except with respect to claims coming within the provisions of article 10 of title 24, C.R.S., no claims shall be paid by the district treasurer until the same shall have been allowed by the board, and only upon warrants signed by the president and countersigned by the secretary, which warrants shall state the date authorized by the board and for what purposes. If the district treasurer has insufficient funds on hand to pay such warrant when presented for payment, he shall endorse thereon "not paid for want of funds, this warrant draws interest from date at six percent per annum", and endorse thereon the date when so presented, over his signature, and from the time of such presentation until paid such warrant shall draw interest at the rate of six percent per annum; but when there is the sum of one hundred dollars or more in the hands of the treasurer, it shall be applied upon said warrant. All claims against the district shall be verified the same as required in the case of claims filed against counties in this state, and the secretary of the district is hereby authorized to administer oaths to the parties verifying said claims the same as the county clerk and recorder or notary public might do.

The district treasurer shall keep a register in which he shall enter each warrant presented for payment, showing the date and amount of such warrant, to whom payable, the date of the presentation for payment, the date of payment, and the amount paid in redemption thereof, and all warrants shall be paid in the order of their presentation for payment to the district treasurer. All warrants shall be drawn payable to the claimant or bearer, the same as county warrants.

ANNOTATION

The requirement that claims be verified is not mandatory in view of the broad provisions of § 37-41-111. Interstate Trust Co. v. Steele, 65 Colo. 99, 173 P. 873 (1918).

The failure to verify claims is not jurisdictional. Interstate Trust Co. v. Steele, 65 Colo. 99, 173 P. 873 (1918).

37-41-127. Funds for expenses. For purposes of defraying the expenses of the organization of the district, and the care, operation, management, repair, and improvement of all canals, ditches, reservoirs, and works, including salaries of officers and employees, the board may either fix rates of tolls and charges and collect the same of all persons using said canal and water for irrigation or other purposes, and in addition thereto may provide, in whole or in part, for the payment of such expenditures by levy of assessments therefor as provided in section 37-41-123, or by both tolls and assessment. In case the money raised by the sale of bonds issued is insufficient, and in case bonds are unavailable for the completion of the plans of works adopted, it is the duty of the board of directors to provide for the completion of said plans by levy of an assessment therefor in the same manner in which levy of assessments is made for the other purposes provided for in section 37-41-120.

37-41-128. Crossing streams, highways, railroads, state lands. The board of directors has the power to construct the said works across any stream of water, watercourse, street, avenue, highway, railway, canal, ditch, or flume which the route of said canal may intersect or cross. If such railroad company and said board, or the owners and controllers of said property, thing, or franchise so to be crossed, cannot agree upon the amount to be paid therefor, or the points or the manner of said crossings, the same shall be ascertained and determined in all respects as is provided in respect to the taking of land for public uses. The right-of-way is hereby given, dedicated, and set apart to locate, construct, and maintain said works or reservoirs over, through, or upon any of the lands which are now or may be the property of the state.

37-41-129. Limit of indebtedness - emergency. The board of directors or other officers of the district shall have no power to incur any debt or liability whatever, either by issuing bonds or otherwise, in excess of the express provisions of this article, nor shall they add to the expenditure of any one fiscal year anything over and above the amount provided for in the annual appropriation resolution relating to that year, and any debt or liability incurred in excess of these provisions shall be and remain absolutely void; except that said expenditures may be increased in emergency cases if the same are authorized in writing by a number of district electors equal to one-half the number who voted at the last annual district election.

37-41-130. Insufficient supply - distribution. In case the volume of water in any canal, reservoir, or other works in any district shall not be sufficient to supply the continual wants of the entire district susceptible of irrigation therefrom, then it is the duty of the board of directors to distribute all available water upon certain or alternate days to different localities, as it may in its judgment think best for the interests of all parties concerned.

ANNOTATION

If water is insufficient for all, it must be prorated. Norris v. Montezuma Valley Irrigation Dist., 240 F. 825 (D. Colo. 1916).

37-41-131. Compensation for property taken. Nothing contained in this article shall be deemed to authorize any person to divert the waters of any river, creek, stream, canal, or reservoir to the detriment of any person having a prior right to the waters of such river, creek, stream, canal, or reservoirs, unless previous compensation is ascertained and paid therefor under the laws of this state, authorizing the taking of private property for public use.

37-41-132. Boundaries - change - effect. The boundaries of any irrigation district organized under the provisions of this article may be changed in the manner prescribed in sections 37-41-132 to 37-41-148; but such change of the boundaries of the district shall not impair or affect its organization, or its rights in or to property, or any of its rights or privileges of whatsoever kind or nature; nor shall it affect, impair, or discharge any contract, obligation, lien, or charge for or upon which it was or might become liable or chargeable had such change of its boundaries not been made; except that, in case a contract has been made between the district and the United States as provided in section 37-41-113, no change shall be made in the boundaries of the district, and the board of directors shall make no order changing the boundaries of the district until the secretary of the interior shall assent thereto in writing and such assent is filed with the board of directors.

ANNOTATION

This and the following sections provide for changing the boundaries of a district after its organization, and allowing, under certain conditions, contiguous territory to be included therein. Montezuma Valley Irrigation Dist. v. Longenbaugh, 54 Colo. 391, 131 P. 262 (1913).

37-41-133. Additional land admitted - petition. The holder of title, or color of title, of any land adjacent to or situated within the boundaries of any irrigation district or irrigable from the ditches, canals, and irrigation works of the district may file with the board of directors of said district a petition in writing, praying that such lands be included in such district. The petition shall describe the tracts or body of land owned by the petitioners, but such description need not be more particular than is required when such lands are entered by the county assessor in the assessment book. Such petition shall be deemed to give the assent of the petitioners to the inclusion in said district of the lands described in the petition, and such petition must be acknowledged in the same manner that conveyances of land are required to be acknowledged.

ANNOTATION

The effect of a petition by an entryman of the public lands is also to give his assent to such inclusion, when he has earned the right to a patent, and has made no objection either to the formal inclusion of his lands or to the confirmation of the issue of bonds. Nile Irrigation Dist. v. Gas Sec. Co., 248 F. 861 (8th Cir. 1918).

37-41-134. Notice of filing - costs. The secretary of the board of directors shall cause notice of the filing of such petition to be given and published once each week for three successive weeks in a newspaper published in the county where the office of said board is situate, which shall state the filing of such petition, the names of the petitioners, a description of the lands mentioned in said petition, and the prayer of said petitioners and that all persons interested may appear at the office of said board at a time named in said notice, and show cause, in writing, why the petition should not be granted. The time specified in the notice at which it shall be required to show cause shall be the regular meeting of the board next after the expiration of the time for the publication of the notice. The petitioners shall advance to the secretary sufficient money to pay the estimated cost of all proceedings under such petition before the secretary shall be required to give such notice.

37-41-135. Hearing of petition - assent. The board of directors, at the time and place mentioned in said notice, or at such time to which the hearing of said petition may adjourn, shall proceed to hear the petition, and all objections thereto, presented in writing by any person, showing cause why said petition should not be granted. The failure of any person interested to show cause, in writing, shall be deemed as an assent on his part to the inclusion of such lands in said district as prayed for in said petition.

37-41-136. Payment of pro rata assessments. The board of directors to whom such petition is presented may require, as a condition precedent to the granting of the same, that the petitioners shall severally pay to such district such respective sums, as nearly as the same can be estimated by the board, as petitioners or their grantors would have been required to pay to such district as assessments for the payment of its pro rata share of all bonds and the interest thereon, which may have previously thereto been issued by said district, or for the payment of the pro rata share of the cost of construction under any contract between the district and the United States accompanying which bonds of the district have not been deposited with the United States as provided in this article, had such lands been included in such district at the time the same was originally formed, or when said bonds were so issued, or when said contract with the United States was executed. In case unentered public land is proposed to be annexed to the district, the board of directors of the district, instead of requiring such payment as a condition precedent, may assess such charge against such unentered public land upon the records of the district to be collected in the manner authorized by the act of congress of August 11, 1916.

ANNOTATION

Payment may be waived. The provision of this section requiring payment by the petitioner is for the benefit of the district, is not a condition precedent, and may be waived by the board. Nile Irrigation Dist. v. Gas Sec. Co., 248 F. 861 (8th Cir. 1918).

37-41-137. Inclusion or rejection of lands - protest. The board of directors if it deems it not for the best interests of the district to include therein the lands mentioned in the petition, by order, shall reject the petition, but if it deems it for the best interests of the district that said lands be included, the board may order that the district be so changed as to include therein the lands mentioned in the said petition. The order shall describe the entire boundaries of the district with the lands so included, if the district boundaries are changed thereby, and for that purpose the board may cause a survey to be made of such portion of such boundaries as may be deemed necessary. However, if within thirty days from the making of such order a majority of the qualified electors of the district protest in writing to said board against the inclusion of such lands in said district, said order shall be held for naught, and such lands shall not be included therein. In the case of inclusion of government land according to the provisions of section 37-41-113, said protest must be made within thirty days of the date of the execution of the contract provided for in said section.

37-41-138. Order - record - effect. Upon the allowance of such petition and in case no protest has been filed with the board within thirty days after the entry of said order, a certified copy of the order of the board of directors making such change, and a plat of such district showing such change, certified by the president and secretary, shall be filed for record in the office of the clerk and recorder of each county in which are situate any of the lands of the district, and the district shall remain an irrigation district, as fully to every intent and purpose as if the lands which are included in the district by the change of the boundaries had been included therein at the organization of the district; and said district as so changed and all the lands therein shall be liable for all existing obligations and indebtedness of the organized district.

37-41-139. Records - evidence. Upon the filing of the copies of the order and the plat as provided in section 37-41-138, the secretary shall record the petition in the minutes of the board. The minutes, or a certified copy thereof, shall be admissible in evidence with the same effect as the petition.

37-41-140. Legal representatives petitioners. A guardian, an executor, or an administrator of an estate, who is appointed as such under the laws of this state and who, as such guardian, executor, or administrator, is entitled to the possession of the lands belonging to the estate which he represents, upon being thereunto authorized by the proper court on behalf of his ward or the estate which he represents, may sign and acknowledge the petition and may show cause why the boundaries of the district should not be changed.

37-41-141. Redivision of district - election of officers. In case of the inclusion of any land within any district by proceedings under this article, at least thirty days prior to the next succeeding general election, the board of directors shall make an order redividing such district into three divisions, as nearly equal in size as may be practicable, which shall be numbered first, second, and third, and one director shall thereafter be elected by each division. For the purposes of election the board of directors shall establish a convenient number of election precincts in said districts and define the boundaries thereof, which said precincts may be changed from time to time as the board may deem necessary.

37-41-142. Lands may be excluded from district. (1) Any tract of land included within the boundaries of any such district at or after its organization, under the provisions of this article, may be excluded therefrom in the manner prescribed in sections 37-41-142 to 37-41-148, but such exclusion of land from the district shall not impair or affect its organization or its rights in or to property or any of its rights or privileges of whatever kind or nature; nor shall such exclusion affect, impair, or discharge any contract, obligation, lien, or charge for or upon which it would or might become liable or chargeable had such land not been excluded from the district.

(2) If the board of directors of an irrigation district organized under this article finds and by resolution of the board declares that the irrigation district taxes assessed against any tract of land, in such irrigation district, have not been paid for three consecutive years and further finds that it would be for the best interests of such district and the landowners and members thereof and the lienholders thereon, if any, that such lands so in default in the payment of irrigation district taxes be excluded from such irrigation district, it shall be conclusively presumed that any such lands are unproductive and unfruitful and should be excluded from such irrigation district, and the board of directors may by resolution order such exclusions and cause a copy of such resolution certified by the secretary of such irrigation district to be filed and recorded in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the county in which such lands are located, and thereupon without further proceedings all such lands shall be excluded from such irrigation district and dropped from the list of district lands for all purposes.

(3) Any water or water rights owned or controlled by the district theretofore appertaining or allocated to such lands so in default may be reallocated to lands then remaining in such district, or other and different productive lands may be included in such district in lieu thereof.

ANNOTATION

Decisions of board of directors of an irrigation district have the effect of judgments in matters over which it has jurisdiction. Yellow Jacket Irrigation Dist. v. Pleasant Valley Ranch Co., 78 Colo. 543, 243 P. 635 (1926).

The decisions are binding on all parties and their privies in estate. The board of directors of an irrigation district is the tribunal designated by this section to determine the question of inclusion or exclusion of territory; its decision is binding upon all parties and their privies in estate, and the question cannot be again raised between the same parties and their privies except upon some ground which has arisen since the former decision. Yellow Jacket Irrigation Dist. v. Pleasant Valley Ranch Co., 78 Colo. 543, 243 P. 635 (1926).

Estoppel to deny ownership after making application for exclusion. Where a party, claiming to be the owner, makes application to the board of directors of an irrigation district to exclude lands therefrom, neither he nor his privies in estate can thereafter deny the ownership.

Yellow Jacket Irrigation Dist., v. Pleasant Valley
Ranch Co., 78 Colo. 543, 243 P. 635 (1926).

37-41-143. Petition for exclusion. The owner in fee of any lands constituting a portion of any irrigation district may file, with the board of directors of the district, a petition praying that such lands may be excluded and taken from said district. The petition shall describe the lands which the petitioners desire to have excluded, but the description of such lands need not be more particular than required when lands are entered in the assessment book by the county assessor. Such petition must be acknowledged in the same manner and form as is required in case of a conveyance of land.

37-41-144. Notice of filing petition. The secretary of the board of directors shall cause a notice of the filing of such petition to be published for at least three weeks in some newspaper published in the county where the office of the board of directors is situated, and if any portion of said district lies within another county, then said notice shall be so published in a newspaper published within each of said counties, or if no newspaper is published therein, then by posting such notice for the same time in at least three public places in said district, and, in case of the posting of said notices, one of said notices must be so posted on the lands proposed to be excluded. The notice shall state the filing of such petition, the names of the petitioners, a description of the lands mentioned in said petition, and the prayer of said petitioners, and it shall notify all persons interested to appear at the office of said board at a time named in said notice and to show cause in writing why said petition should not be granted. The time to be specified in the notice at which they shall be required to show cause shall be the regular meeting of the board next after the expiration of the time for the publication of the notice. The petitioner shall advance to the secretary sufficient money to pay the estimated cost of all proceedings under such petition before the secretary shall give such notice.

37-41-145. Hearing of petition. The board of directors, at the same time and place mentioned in the notice or at the time to which the hearing of said petition may be adjourned, shall proceed to hear the petition and all objections thereto presented in writing by any persons, showing cause why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted. The filing of such petition with such board shall be deemed as an assent by each and all of such petitioners to the exclusion from such district of the lands mentioned in the petition, or any part thereof.

37-41-146. Order. The board of directors, if it deems it not for the best interest of the district that the lands mentioned in the petition, or some portion thereof, should be excluded from said district, shall order that said petition be denied; but if it deems it for the best interest of the district that the lands mentioned in the petition, or some portion thereof, be excluded from the district and if there are no outstanding bonds of the district, then the board may order the lands mentioned in the petition, or some defined portion thereof, to be excluded from the district. However, if, within thirty days from the making of such order, a majority of the qualified electors of the district protest in writing to said board against the exclusion of such lands from said district, said order shall be held for naught, and such lands shall not be excluded therefrom. In case a contract has been made between the district and the United States, no change shall be made in the boundaries of the district unless the secretary of the interior shall assent thereto in writing and such assent is filed with the board of directors. Upon such assent, any lands excluded from the district shall be discharged from all liens in favor of the United States under contract with the United States or under bonds deposited with its agents.

37-41-148. Division of districts. At least thirty days before the next general election of such district the board of directors thereof may make an order dividing said district into three divisions, as nearly equal in size as practicable, which divisions shall be numbered first, second, and third, and one director shall be elected for each division by the qualified electors of the whole district. For the purpose of election in such district, the said board of directors must establish a convenient number of election precincts and define the boundaries thereof, which said precincts may be changed from time to time, as the board of directors may deem necessary.

37-41-149. Dissolution of district - election. If a majority of the resident freeholders, representing a majority of the number of acres of the irrigable land in any irrigation district organized under this article, shall petition the board of directors to call a special election for the purpose of submitting to the qualified electors of said irrigation district a proposition to vote on the dissolution of said irrigation district, setting forth in said petition that all bills and claims of every nature whatsoever have been fully satisfied and paid, it is the duty of said directors, if they are satisfied that all claims and bills have been fully satisfied, to call an election, setting forth the object of the said election, and to cause notice of said election to be published in some newspaper in each of the counties in which said district is located, for a period of thirty days prior to said election, setting forth the time and place for holding said election in each of the three voting precincts in said district. It is also the duty of the directors to prepare ballots to be used at said election on which shall be written or printed the words: "For Dissolution - Yes", and "For Dissolution - No".

ANNOTATION

No dissolution can take place unless and until all of the district's indebtedness is paid or liquidated or adequate security furnished by the district to, and accepted by, its creditors.

37-41-150. Canvass - record. The board of directors shall name a day for canvassing the vote, and if it appears that a majority of said ballots contain the words, "For Dissolution - Yes", then it shall be the duty of said board of directors to declare said district to be dissolved and to certify to the county clerk and recorders of the respective counties in which the district is situated (stating the number of signers to said petition) that said election was called and set for the ..... day of ..... (month of) ..... (year) and that said election was held and so many votes (stating the number) had been cast for, and so many votes (stating the number) had been cast against, said proposition, said certificate to bear the seal of the district and the signatures of the president and secretary of said board of directors. It is the duty of the said respective clerk and recorders to record all such certificates in the records of the respective counties. Should it appear that a majority of the votes cast at said election were "For Dissolution - No", then the board of directors shall declare the proposition lost and shall cause the result and the vote to be made a part of the records of said irrigation district.

37-41-151. Judicial examination of bonds and contracts. The board of directors of an irrigation district organized under the provisions of this article may commence special proceedings, in and by which the proceedings of said board and of said district providing for and authorizing the issue and sale of the bonds of said district, whether said bonds or any of them have or have not been sold or disposed of, may be judicially examined, approved, and confirmed. Special proceedings may be commenced by which the proceedings of the district providing for the authorization of a contract with the United States and the validity of said contract, and whether or not the said contract has been executed, may be judicially examined, approved, and confirmed.

ANNOTATION

One, and perhaps the chief, object of proceedings under this section is thus to validate the bonds by a decree in advance of their issue, thereby facilitating their sale and enhancing their value. Ahern v. Bd. of Dirs., 39 Colo. 409, 89 P. 963 (1907).

Action of county commissioners in excluding lands may be reviewed. Under this section the action of the county commissioners in excluding lands, where there was an abuse of power but no fraud or bad faith, may be reviewed in a special proceeding by the board of directors of the irrigation district to determine the validity of the organization and bond issue.

Ahern v. Bd. of Dirs., 39 Colo. 409, 89 P. 963 (1907).

Directors must prove qualifications of signers of petition when in issue. In a special proceeding under this section, where an issue is made concerning the qualifications of the signers of the petition presented to the county commissioners, the board of directors must prove such qualifications. Ahern v. Bd. of Dirs., 39 Colo. 409, 89 P. 963 (1907).

Evidence actually produced before the court. The board of directors cannot rely upon the decision of the county commissioners that, in the opinion of that body, proof of the qualifications of the signers of the petition presented to them was made; nor can it introduce in evidence transcripts or copies of the evidence heard before the county commissioners or before its own body to prove any of the issues in said proceeding, since the court must determine such questions upon evidence actually produced before it. Ahern v. Bd. of Dirs., 39 Colo. 409, 89 P. 963 (1907).

The best evidence. In a special proceeding by the board of directors of an irrigation district to have the validity of its organization and bond issue determined, in proof of the qualifications of the signers of the petition presented to the county commissioners, affidavits of the circulators of the petition stating in general terms that the signers of the petition had the statutory qualifications were introduced in evidence, such circulators later testified to the same effect, and abstracts of title showing the record owners were also introduced in evidence. It was held that such documents were not admissible; that the rule requiring the best evidence was violated, without showing necessity for secondary evidence; and that the large expense necessary to obtain the oral evidence or depositions of the signers, of itself, is no reason for dispensing with such evidence. Ahern v. Bd. of Dirs., 39 Colo. 409, 89 P. 963 (1907).

Decree confirming previous like issue is competent evidence of regular organization. In a proceeding by an irrigation district under this and the following sections, seeking confirmation of a proposed issue of bonds, a decree of the court confirming a previous like issue is competent evidence of the regular organization of the district. Wilder v. Bd. of Dirs., 55 Colo. 363, 135 P. 461 (1913).

The supreme court passes upon the objections to the confirmatory decree only so far as they bear upon the propositions whether the proceedings had for the organization of the district and the issuance of bonds thereby after the organization, are, or are not, in harmony with the constitutional and statutory provisions which they are said to violate. Anderson v. Grand Valley Irrigation Dist., 35 Colo. 525, 85 P. 313 (1906).

37-41-152. Petition for judicial examination. The board of directors of the irrigation district shall file, in the district court of the county in which the lands of the district or some portion thereof are situated, a petition praying in effect that the proceedings may be examined, approved, and confirmed by the court. The petition shall state the facts showing the proceedings had for the issue and sale of said bonds, or for the authorization of a contract with the United States as the case may be, and shall state generally that the irrigation district was duly organized and that the first board of directors was duly elected, but the petition need not state the facts showing such organization of the district or the election of said first board of directors.

37-41-153. Notice of hearing. The court shall fix the time for the hearing of said petition and shall order the clerk of the court to give and publish a notice of the filing of said petition. The notice shall be given and published for three successive weeks in a newspaper published in the county where the office of the district is situated. The notice shall state the time and place fixed for the hearing of the petition and the prayer of the petitioners and that any person interested in the organization of said district or in the proceedings for the issue or sale of said bonds or in the making of a contract with the United States, on or before the day fixed for the hearing of said petition, may move to dismiss or answer said petition. The petition may be referred to and described in said notice as the petition of the board of directors of ..... irrigation district (giving its name), praying that the proceedings for the issue and sale of said bonds of said district, or that the proceedings for the authorization of a contract with the United States and the validity thereof, may be examined, approved, and confirmed by the court.

ANNOTATION

Applied in Ahern v. Bd. of Dirs., 39 Colo. 409, 89 P. 963 (1907).

37-41-154. Answer - pleading. Any person interested in said district, or in the issue or sale of said bonds, or in the making of a contract with the United States may move to dismiss or answer said petition. The provisions of the Colorado rules of civil procedure respecting the motion to dismiss and answer to a complaint shall be applicable to a motion to dismiss and answer to said petition. The person so moving to dismiss and answering said petition shall be the defendant to the special proceeding, and the board of directors shall be the plaintiff. Every material statement of the petition not specifically controverted by the answer, for the purpose of said special proceeding, shall be taken as true, and each person failing to answer the petition shall be deemed to admit as true all the material statements of the petition. The rules of pleading and practice relating to appeals as provided by law and the Colorado appellate rules, which are not inconsistent with the provisions of this article, are applicable to the special proceedings provided for in this section.

37-41-155. Determination - costs. Upon the hearing of such special proceeding, the court shall find and determine whether the notice of the filing of the petition has been duly given and published for the time and in the manner prescribed in this article and shall have power and jurisdiction to examine and determine the legality and validity of, and approve and confirm, all of the proceedings for the organization of said district under the provisions of said article, from and including the petition for the organization of the district, and all other proceedings which may affect the legality or validity of said bonds, and the order of the sale and the sale thereof, and all of the proceedings, if any, for the authorization of a contract with the United States and the terms of said contract. The court, in inquiring into the regularity, legality, or correctness of said proceedings, shall disregard any error, irregularity, or omission which does not affect the substantial rights of the parties to said special proceedings. The court by decree may approve and confirm such proceedings in part and disapprove and declare illegal or invalid other or subsequent parts of the proceedings. The costs of the special proceedings may be allowed and apportioned between the parties, in the discretion of the court.

37-42-101. Petition for organization - schedule - bond. Whenever the landowners of any prescribed area within the state of Colorado desire to organize an irrigation district for the purposes named in this article, they may propose such organization by presenting to the board of county commissioners of the county within which said area, or the greater part thereof, lies a petition praying such organization, signed by a majority of such landowners, whether resident or not, owning in the aggregate a majority of the acreage of such area so proposed to be organized. Such petition shall contain a definite description by metes and bounds of the area included within the exterior boundaries of said proposed district and a description by legal subdivisions of the area proposed to be organized, together with a statement of the purposes of organization and the property and rights proposed to be acquired or constructed, and shall name a resident of the county of proposed organization as agent for the proposers of organization, who shall act as their representative until such time as organization has been completed. Accompanying this petition, a schedule shall be filed showing by legal subdivisions, with acreage, the land owned by each signer and the total acreage of the proposed district, together with a map of the proposed district and the proposed system for its irrigation or reclamation, drawn to such scale and in the manner required by such rules as are promulgated by the state engineer for such purpose. These instruments shall be accompanied by a bond approved by the board of county commissioners in such amount as it shall fix, conditioned that all costs of inspection and organization shall be paid by the bondsmen in case organization is not effected. Copies of all instruments and maps filed with the board of county commissioners under this article shall also be filed with the state engineer.

37-42-102. Date of hearing - notice. Upon the filing of such petition and the approval of the bond, the board of county commissioners shall communicate with the state engineer with reference thereto, and together they shall agree upon a date for hearing upon such petition, which shall in no case be later than ninety days from the date of filing thereof, and, in case no agreement is reached with reference to such date of hearing, it shall be had on the Tuesday next after the expiration of sixty days from the date of filing of such petition. During at least the four weeks immediately preceding such date for hearing, the board of county commissioners shall cause notice thereof to be published in some newspaper of general circulation published in each of the counties wherein any portion of the area of said proposed district lies, and, in case no such newspaper is published in any such county, the notice shall be given by posting the notice at the county courthouse in such county and in at least one conspicuous point within the area of such proposed district which lies in such county during the same time that publication is required, where a newspaper is available therefor.

37-42-103. Preliminary report. Prior to the date of such hearing, the state engineer shall file with the board of county commissioners, before which the hearing will be held, his preliminary report on the proposed irrigation system, showing his estimate of costs, as well as the availability of an adequate water supply, and the general feasibility of the system. In the preparation of such report, the state engineer may require such aid, assistance, maps, and data as he deems necessary, from the proposers of organization. Such report shall be considered a public document and open to general public inspection and examination.

37-42-104. Hearing - adjournments. In case the state engineer considers the proposed irrigation system feasible, and shall so state in his report, or shall report his inability to reach a definite conclusion with reference thereto, the board of county commissioners shall proceed to a hearing and determination of those matters subject to their consideration either immediately upon the date set for hearing, or may adjourn such hearing from time to time as they shall see fit, but not exceeding two weeks. During such time consumed by adjournment, the state engineer may file such additional or supplemental reports as he sees fit, and they shall also be considered in the determination.

37-42-105. Adverse report - investigations. (1) In case the report of the state engineer is adverse to the formation of such district because it is not considered feasible, he shall state his reasons for such conclusion in concise language and shall call attention thereto expressly in his letter transmitting such report to the board of county commissioners.

The board of county commissioners shall thereupon fix and determine, upon such investigations and hearings as they see fit, the following matters and things:

(a) Whether the statutory requirements preliminary to organization have been substantially complied with, which determination shall be reviewable only by an action in the nature of certiorari issuing out of the district court having jurisdiction and upon application therefor made within fifteen days of the date of determination by the board of county commissioners;

(b) Fix the territorial extent and boundaries of such district and, in so doing, consider the petition upon which hearing is had, together with such petitions for inclusion within or exclusion from said district as are presented.

(2) No lands shall be excluded from said district which are susceptible of irrigation from the source of water supply intended for the irrigation of the district and not more easily irrigable from another source, nor shall any lands be included within said district which are not susceptible of irrigation from the source of supply intended for the district, or which are already irrigated, or which can be more easily irrigated from another source.

(3) Objection to such exclusions or inclusions, or the order fixing the territorial extent and boundaries of the district, shall be made in writing by the interested landowners, on or before such date of hearing or adjournment thereof, and an appeal from such adverse determination prosecuted to the district court of the county wherein such hearing is had, as in the case of appeals from disallowance of claims, insofar as applicable, within fifteen days from such determination. No such appeal having been prosecuted, the determination of the board of county commissioners shall be deemed conclusive on such points.

37-42-106. Notice of organization meeting and election. (1) Immediately following the determination of the board of county commissioners, it shall call an organization meeting and election of such proposed irrigation district for the purpose of determining whether such irrigation district shall be organized, and if organized, for the election of officers. Notice of such meeting shall recite the name of the proposed irrigation district, shall describe the boundaries thereof as defined by the determination of the board of county commissioners, and shall state that the purposes of such meeting are to determine whether said district shall be organized and, if organized, to elect directors thereof until the first annual election. Said notice shall state the place of holding such meeting, which shall be at some convenient place in the county where the petition was filed, and the date and hour thereof. Said notice shall be published once each week for four weeks immediately preceding such meeting in a newspaper published within the county where the meeting will be held, or, if no such newspaper is published in such county, then notice shall be given by posting such notice at the courthouse in each county in which any portion of said district lies and also by posting such notice at three conspicuous places within said proposed district.

(2) At all elections held under the provisions of this article, every owner of agricultural land within said district who is eighteen years of age or older, is a citizen of the United States or has declared his or her intention to become a citizen of the United States, is a resident of the state of Colorado, and has paid real property taxes upon the property located within said district on an area in excess of one acre during the year preceding the date of said election if a resident of the district or on an area of forty acres or more if a resident of the state outside the district or who is an entryman upon public lands of the United States and is residing thereon, shall be entitled to vote at such election in the precinct where he or she resides or, if a nonresident of the precinct, in the precinct within which the greater portion of his or her land is located. Any person so qualified to vote, and who resides in any county into which said district extends, is eligible for election as a director in and for the division in such district in which he or she is entitled to vote. All lands platted or subdivided into residence or business lots shall not be considered agricultural land.

37-42-107. Organization - meeting - voting. (1) The board of county commissioners shall attend at the time and place of such meeting and shall certify to the meeting a list of the landowners of said proposed district, taking no account of those who have prosecuted appeals from the order of the board of county commissioners fixing and determining boundaries, together with the number of acres within said proposed district, owned or represented by each, the total of which acreage, for the purposes of this meeting, shall be considered the total acres of the district. The board of county commissioners shall also act as a credentials committee of said meeting and shall decide who are eligible voters thereat making a certificate concerning the same, and the chairman of the board shall preside at said meeting until such time as temporary officers are elected from among those present. The unit of voting power shall be the acre within said district or proposed district, each landowner being entitled to cast as many votes as he has acres of land within the district or proposed district, and, in casting such votes, such landowner may vote in person or by proxy, and, in the election of directors, the practice known as cumulative voting shall be allowed. Any person desiring to act as proxy for another must file written authority therefor before being allowed to vote, which authority shall be retained as part of the proceedings of the meeting at which such vote is cast and shall be subject to use at no other meeting.

(2) The landowners shall organize such meeting by the selection from their own number of a chairman who shall preside at said meeting and a clerk who shall keep the minutes of the proceedings of such meeting and perform the duties generally performed by such officer.

(3) The meeting having been so organized, a vote shall be taken by ballot to determine organization. The ballots cast shall contain the words "Irrigation District - Yes ...." and "Irrigation District - No ....", and shall have a cross marked opposite the words expressing the desire of the voter, together with the name and, if the vote is by proxy, both the name of the landowner and the person voting, and the number of votes cast, being the number of acres of the landowner within said proposed district.

(4) The vote shall be publicly counted by tellers selected by the chairman, entered at length upon a tally sheet and checked with the list certified by the board of county commissioners, and shall be entered in detail in the minutes of the proceedings. If a majority of the total vote of the proposed district, as shown by the list certified by the board of county commissioners, is not found to have been cast in favor of organization, the meeting shall thereby stand adjourned and no further proceedings had upon the petition for organization or order of determination; but, if the majority of the total vote of the district as shown by said certified list is cast in favor of organization, the organization of the district shall be declared accomplished and record thereof entered in the minutes of the meeting, and the meeting shall proceed to the election of the directors of the district who shall hold office until the first annual election.

37-42-108. Directors - election. (1) The board of directors shall consist of three landowners of the district, who shall hold their respective offices for the period of three years and until their successors are elected and qualified. They shall be elected by ballot upon public nominations made at the meeting at which they are elected, and each ballot shall contain the name of the person for whom it is cast, the name of the voter or if, by proxy, the name of both landowner and proxy, and the number of votes cast. Each landowner may cast as many votes as he has acres of land within the district for each of three persons voted for and may vote cumulatively, if he so desires, indicating that fact upon his ballot.

(2) At the first election to choose the first board of directors, the person having the highest number of votes shall continue in office for the full term of three years; the next highest two years; the next highest one year; but, if two or more persons have the same number of votes, their terms shall be determined by lot, under the direction of the county judge of the county wherein the organization of said district has been effected; and the person receiving the highest number of votes for any office to be filled at any such election is elected thereto. In case a vacancy occurs in the membership of the board of directors by death, resignation, or otherwise, the remaining members shall select a successor to serve out the unexpired term. If vacancies occur in the membership of all the places upon the board or if the board fails, neglects, or refuses at any regular meeting to fill a vacancy existing at such time, the board of county commissioners of the county wherein is situated the office of such district may fill such vacancies for the unexpired terms from the landowners of such district.

37-42-109. Directors to file map. It is the duty of the board of directors to file for record in the office of the county clerk and recorder of each county wherein any part of an irrigation district lies a map of such district showing the boundaries thereof, together with a complete list of all lands within such county included within the organized area, and to file supplements of such lists from time to time as lands are excluded from or included within such district.

37-42-110. Directors to organize - powers. (1) On the same day the board of directors is elected, and immediately following the meeting at which they were elected, the board shall meet for the purpose of organization of the board. It shall select one of its own members as president of the irrigation district and shall select a secretary who may or may not be a member of the board.

(2) (a) The board of directors shall be the governing body of the irrigation district for which it is elected and shall have the power to make and alter bylaws, rules, and regulations for the distribution of water and for the conduct of the district business not inconsistent with the laws of the state of Colorado and to make such contracts and employ such persons as are necessary for the conduct of the affairs of the district, in general exercising the usual and ordinary functions of management of the district, including, when specifically authorized by vote of the landowners so to do, to cooperate with the United States under the federal reclamation laws or any other federal laws enacted by the congress of the United States for the purpose of the construction of irrigation works, including drainage works necessary to maintain the irrigability of the land, or for the acquisition, purchase, extension, operation, or maintenance of constructed works, or for the assumption as principal or guarantor of indebtedness to the United States on account of district lands.

(b) It is also the duty of such board to make an annual report of such district showing the status of its affairs generally, including full lists of assets and liabilities, warrants and bonds outstanding, and such as have been paid or retired during the last fiscal year, and to present the same to the landowners at the annual election.

(3) As compensation for such service as directors, each person so acting shall receive ten dollars for each day necessarily spent in the discharge of district business and such expenses as are necessarily incurred in the conduct of its affairs; except that, after the first year, the landowners may fix other compensation by vote at any annual election.

(4) Each member of the board of directors shall execute an official bond in the sum of three thousand dollars, which shall be approved by the county judge of the county wherein such organization was effected, and the bond shall be recorded in the office of the county clerk and recorder thereof. Such official bond may be signed by a surety company authorized to do business in the state of Colorado, in which case the district shall be liable for and shall pay the premium on said bond.

(5) No director or any officer named in this article shall be interested directly or indirectly, in any manner, in any contract awarded or to be awarded by the board or in the profits to be derived therefrom, nor shall he receive any bonds, gratuity, or bribe.

(6) Any officer who violates this section commits a class 6 felony and shall be punished as provided in section 18-1.3-401, C.R.S. He or she shall also forfeit his or her office upon conviction.

(7) If it is found necessary by the board of directors to employ judges of election, each shall receive as compensation for his services the sum of ten dollars per day to be paid by the district.

37-42-111. Meetings of directors - notice. The board of directors shall hold its regular meetings at least four times each year, which may be immediately following the general election and on the first Tuesday of April, July, and October of each year, or, in the alternative, at such other times as may be designated in the bylaws adopted by the board, and such special meetings as shall be called, on at least five days' notice, by a majority of the board. All special and regular meetings must be held where practicable within the district or, if not so practicable, within the boundaries of any county in which the district is located, in whole or in part, or in any county so long as the meeting location does not exceed twenty miles from the district boundaries. The provisions of this section governing the location of meetings may be waived only if the proposed change of location of a meeting of the board appears on the agenda of a regular or special meeting of the board and if a resolution is adopted by the board stating the reason for which a meeting of the board is to be held in a location other than under the provisions of this section and further stating the date, time, and place of such meeting. In calling special meetings, the call must state specifically the business to be transacted, and none other shall be considered, but, at regular meetings, any business which the board of directors may legally transact may be acted upon. A majority of all members of the board shall concur in order to bind the district or the board in any matter. All board meetings shall be public and the records thereof open to general public inspection during business hours.

37-42-112. District elections. Elections are of two kinds, general and special. A general election shall be held once each year in the month of January, at a date, time, and place designated by the board. Any business requiring or permitting a vote of the landowners may be transacted at such election, including always the election of a board of directors for the ensuing year. A special election may be called at any time by the board of directors by resolution duly passed and entered of record in the minutes of the proceedings of the board. Notice of general elections shall call attention to the date and place of such election. In addition, notice of special elections shall state the nature of the business to be transacted at such election, and no business shall be transacted thereat other than that mentioned in the call. In either case, notice shall be mailed to each landowner of the district at his last address as shown by the records of the district at least thirty days prior to the date of such election and also published once each week for four consecutive weeks immediately preceding such election, in a newspaper designated by the board and of general circulation within said district.

37-42-113. Powers of district. (1) Irrigation districts organized under this article may sue and be sued in their district names, and courts shall take judicial notice of their organization and territorial extent. The board of directors may acquire, by use, appropriation, purchase, or condemnation, property or rights of any kind, including rights-of-way, canals, or reservoirs either projected, or partly constructed, or constructed, or the part or whole of any contemplated, projected, partly completed system of irrigation or waterworks, water rights, or any other property or right necessary or useful for carrying out the objects of said irrigation district. The title to any such property so acquired shall vest immediately in said irrigation district in its corporate name and shall be held by said district in trust for, and is hereby dedicated and set apart for, the uses and purposes provided for in this article. Any contract purporting to bind the district to the payment of any sum in excess of twenty thousand dollars shall first be ratified by a majority of all the votes cast at a general or special election called for that purpose before it shall become so binding, and all contracts entered into by the board of directors agreeing to a payment in excess of such amount shall be construed as made expressly subject to this provision, and shall not become binding upon the district until authorized and ratified at an election called and held for that purpose.

(2) Where the compensation to be paid by the district to the owners of any property which the board of directors of an irrigation district are authorized to take by proceedings in eminent domain has been finally determined to be in excess of twenty thousand dollars, sufficient time shall be given by the courts for the submission to and determination by the landowners of the district, at a regularly called general or special election, of the questions of whether the district shall pay said compensation or shall abandon such condemnation proceedings. If the landowners, by majority vote of all the votes cast at such election, shall vote for the payment of such compensation, the necessary additional times shall be given the district wherein to pay such compensation either by levy and collection of assessments against the lands of the district, or by the issuance and sale of bonds of the district, or by both such methods, as may be determined at a district election.

(3) The board may also enter into any obligation or contract with the United States for the construction or operation and maintenance of the necessary works for the delivery and distribution of water therefrom; or for drainage of district lands; or for the assumption, as principal or guarantor, of indebtedness to the United States on account of district lands; or for the temporary rental of water under the provision of the federal reclamation act and all acts amendatory thereof or supplementary thereto and the rules and regulations established thereunder; or the board may contract with the United States for a water supply under any act of congress providing for or permitting such contract and may convey to the United States as partial or full consideration therefor water rights or other property of the district. The district also has power to take over the assets and assume the liabilities of water users' associations organized for cooperation with the United States under the provisions of the act of congress approved June 17, 1902 (32 Stat. 388), and acts amendatory thereto, in case a majority of the lands of each association shall be within such district, subject to the provision that the shareholders of such association by vote, as provided by their articles of incorporation and bylaws, shall assent and agree that such assets and liabilities shall be so taken over.

The general assembly cannot extend the provisions of § 3 of art. X, Colo. Const., which exempts from separate taxation ditches, canals, and flumes owned and used by individuals or corporations for irrigating their own lands exclusively. The enactments of such statutes are unauthorized exercises of legislative power, and the portion of this section, insofar as it attempts to exempt the property of irrigation districts from taxation, is unconstitutional and void. Logan Irrigation Dist. v. Holt, 110 Colo. 253, 133 P.2d 530 (1943).

37-42-114. Landowners - evidence of ownership. (1) "Landowners", as used in this article, shall include any persons, natural or artificial, resident or nonresident, who are citizens of the United States and owners in fee of lands within the boundaries of any irrigation district organized or proposed to be organized, or holders of incomplete title under contracts to purchase state or Carey act lands, or the state board of land commissioners in care of agricultural college or public school lands, including also entrymen or purchasers of public lands of the United States under any of the agricultural public land laws, or the secretary of the interior in care of unentered public lands subject to this article under the terms of an act of congress entitled "An Act to promote reclamation of arid lands.", approved August 11, 1916, and all acts amendatory thereof or supplemental thereto.

(2) Where such landowner is under disability, or infancy, insanity, or otherwise, or the lands are held under administration, guardianship, conservatorship, receivership, or other similar proceeding, the administrator, executor, guardian, conservator, receiver, or other like officer shall be considered the "landowner" for the purposes of this article and, when authorized by the court having jurisdiction to do so, may act in that capacity in the formation, organization, operation, management, or dissolution of any irrigation district as any other landowner thereof.

(3) For the purposes of this article, evidence of ownership shall be prima facie established, as to patented land, by the certificate of the county assessor of the county wherein the lands involved are situated; as to unperfected entries upon public lands, by the certificate of the register of the United States land office of the district wherein the lands involved are situated; or as to holders of incomplete title under contracts to purchase state or Carey act lands, by certificate of the register of the state board of land commissioners.

37-42-115. Land board as landowner. (1) The state board of land commissioners is hereby authorized to act in the capacity of landowner with reference to any lands under its management or control; except that no such lands under the control or management of the state board of land commissioners, or upon which less than two-thirds of the purchase price has been paid under contracts to purchase such lands, shall be included within any irrigation district organized under this article over the written objection of such state board of land commissioners, and upon opportunity given to offer such objection.

(2) Any such lands when included within any irrigation district shall be subject to all the terms and provisions of this article for all purposes, and the state treasurer is authorized to pay assessments for district purposes upon such lands out of the proper funds, upon order of the state board of land commissioners.

37-42-117. Directors to adopt plans. (1) The board of directors of any irrigation district organized under this article, as soon as organized, shall adopt a definite and complete plan for carrying out the purposes of its organization, which plan shall include a definite means for the irrigation or reclamation of the lands included within such area, as well as the plans proposed for financing such undertaking. This plan shall be set out at length in the record of the proceedings of the board of directors.

37-42-118. Bond election - ballots. (1) After the plan specified in section 37-42-117 has been adopted, the board of directors may then call a district election for the purpose of voting upon the question of authorization and issuance of district bonds in an amount and in such series and dates of maturities, but none later than forty years from date of issue and bearing such interest not exceeding seven percent, as shall be first determined by resolution of said board. Notice of said election shall be given as in case of other special elections of irrigation districts, or such question may be submitted at a general election. At the time and place named in the call, the election shall be held and the question of the authorization of bonds, and any other matter named in the call, shall be submitted to vote of the landowners, who shall vote by ballot. On the ballots cast concerning the authorization and issuance of bonds shall appear a recital of the amount of bonds proposed, the series and dates of maturities, the rate of interest they shall bear, and, beneath such recital, the words "Bonds, Yes ...." and "Bonds, No ....", with a cross marked opposite the words expressing the voter's choice. Bonds shall not be construed to be authorized, and none shall be issued, except upon an affirmative vote of the majority of the total voting strength of the district.

(2) If bonds are authorized, the board of directors shall immediately cause the same to be issued. They shall be in denominations of not less than one hundred dollars and not more than one thousand dollars and shall be in the total amount and in such series and dates of maturities and bear interest as authorized by vote of the landowners. All bonds so issued shall be numbered consecutively beginning with the number one, shall become due in the order of their serial numbers, shall bear interest payable semiannually evidenced by coupons attached thereto bearing the same number as the bonds to which they are attached, and shall be registered with the county treasurer of the county wherein is situated the office of such irrigation district, and it is the duty of the county treasurer to keep a list of such bonds, serially, with the names and addresses of the owners thereof, as furnished him from time to time. Such bonds may contain a provision for redemption upon call, serially, as provided in this article, shall be in such form as prescribed by the board of directors, and shall be signed by the president of the district, attested by the secretary thereof, and countersigned by the district treasurer. Such bonds may be issued and the proceeds of their sale used for the payment of the first two years' interest thereon and for any of the several purposes of this article, except for maintenance, operation, or salaries.

(3) If a contract is proposed to be made with the United States, the question to be submitted to the voters at such special election is whether a contract shall be entered into with the United States. The notice of election shall state the maximum amount of money payable to the United States for construction purposes, exclusive of penalties and interest, and the water rights and other property, if any, to be conveyed to the United States. The ballots for such election shall contain the words "Contract with the United States, Yes" and "Contract with the United States, No", or words equivalent thereto.

37-42-123. Rescission of action authorizing bonds. If the landowners of an irrigation district desire to rescind their action authorizing an issue of bonds, they may do so as to any such entire issue remaining unsold in the hands of the board of directors in the same manner as such issue was authorized and upon an affirmative vote of the majority of the total voting strength of the district, whereupon the board of directors shall cancel or destroy said bonds and shall enter that fact, reciting the numbers of such bonds so canceled or destroyed, in the minutes of their proceedings.

37-42-124. Construction of works - bids - notice - contract - bond. (1) After a plan for construction of irrigation or other works has been adopted and approved as provided in section 37-42-117, and funds provided therefor, the board of directors shall call for bids for the construction of the whole or any part thereof. The notice shall be published for four weeks in such papers as the board shall designate as best suited to give widest publicity, and shall set forth that plans and specifications can be seen at the office of the district, that sealed bids for such construction will be received, and that the contract will be let to the lowest responsible bidder, stating the time and place for opening such bids, which, at such time and place, shall be opened in public. Within ten days from the opening of such bids, the board shall let said contract, in whole or in part, to the lowest responsible bidder, or may reject any or all of said bids and readvertise for other bids, or may proceed to construct such works under the superintendence of the officers and employees of the district. Any person to whom a contract is let under this article shall enter into a bond with good and sufficient sureties to be approved by the board, payable to such district for its use in not less than twenty-five percent of the amount stated in said contract, conditioned for the faithful performance of such contract.

(2) All preliminary engineering and construction work shall be done under the direction of a competent irrigation engineer, and shall be approved by the state engineer of Colorado; except that this section shall not apply in the case of any contract between the district and the United States.

37-42-125. Fiscal year - appropriation resolution. (1) The fiscal year of each irrigation district in this state shall commence on January 1 in each year. It is the duty of the board of directors, in accordance with the schedule prescribed by section 39-5-128, C.R.S., to determine the amount of money required to meet the maintenance, operating, and current expenses for the ensuing fiscal year and to certify said amount by resolution to the board of county commissioners of the county in which the office of the district is located, together with such additional amounts as may be necessary to meet any deficiency in the payment of said expenses theretofore incurred. The board of directors may fix the amount payable for any tract containing one acre or less and, if so, similarly shall certify this amount to the board of county commissioners. The board of directors shall also fix the amount payable by each tract within any district with which the United States has made a contract and shall certify the same to the board of county commissioners.

(2) The amount so fixed shall be in accordance with the federal reclamation laws and the public notices, orders, and regulations issued thereunder and shall be in compliance with any contracts made by the United States with any owners of said lands and in compliance further with the contracts between the district and the United States. The resolution shall be termed the annual appropriation resolution for the next fiscal year, and any debt or liability incurred or warrant issued in excess of the amount therein stated shall be absolutely void, except upon express authority conferred by the landowners at a general or special election.

37-42-126. Assessment of lands - valuation. (1) It is the duty of the county assessor of any county embracing the whole or a part of any irrigation district to assess and enter upon his records as assessor in its appropriate columns the assessment of all lands, including public lands subject to assessment under the congressional act of August 11, 1916, exclusive of improvements, situate, lying, and being within any irrigation district in whole or in part of such county. Immediately after said assessment has been extended as provided by law, the assessor shall make returns of the total amount of such assessment to the board of county commissioners of the county in which the office of said district is located.

(2) All lands within the district for the purpose of taxation under this article shall be valued by the assessor at the same rate per acre; except that in no case shall any land be taxed, or subject to taxation, for irrigation district purposes under this article, or under any other or former law relative to irrigation districts, which by reason of location, or the broken uneven surface, or unsuitable character or quality of the soil is unsuitable for irrigation and cultivation, or which, from any natural cause is not capable of irrigation and cultivation, except at a financial loss, nor shall tracts of land of one acre or less be taxed for irrigation purposes if the board of directors of the irrigation district has fixed an amount payable for each of such tracts. If the amount of water available from the water system of the irrigation district is wholly insufficient for the successful growing and maturing of crops on the entire acreage of lands within the district and susceptible of irrigation therefrom, that fact may be alleged and, upon proof, shall entitle the owner of lands that have never been cultivated and irrigated from the water system of such irrigation district to the relief provided for in this article.

(3) Where a contract is entered into between the United States and an irrigation district organized under this article providing for the payment of charges at an unequal rate per acre, district land so affected shall not be valued by the county assessor under the foregoing provision of this section, but in such case the county assessor shall assess such district land in accordance with the certificate provided for in section 37-42-125 and in compliance with the terms of such contract between the United States and the district.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For note, "A Survey of Colorado Water Law", see 47 Den. L.J. 226 (1970).

37-42-127. Levy to pay interest and expenses. (1) It is the duty of the board of county commissioners of the county in which the office of any irrigation district is located, immediately upon receipt of the returns of the total assessment of said district and upon the receipt of the certificates of the board of directors certifying the total amount of money required to be raised as provided in section 37-42-125, to fix the rate of levy necessary to provide the amount of money required to pay the interest and principal of the bonds of said district as the same becomes due; also, to fix the rate necessary to provide the amount of money required for any other purposes provided in this article which are to be raised by the levy of assessments upon the real property of said district; and to certify said respective rates to the board of county commissioners of each county embracing any portion of said district. The rate of levy necessary to raise the required amount of money on the valuation for assessment of the property of said district shall be increased fifteen percent to cover delinquencies.

(2) For the purposes of said district, it is the duty of the board of county commissioners of each county in which any irrigation district is located, in whole or in part, at the time of making levy for county purposes, to make a levy, at the rates above specified, upon all lands in said district within their respective counties and, in case of contract with the United States, in the amounts and on the tracts as fixed and certified by the board of directors. If the board of directors of an irrigation district has certified the amount payable for any tract of one acre or less, it is the duty of the board of county commissioners of each county in which the irrigation district is located, in whole or in part, also to levy such amount against each of such tracts. All taxes levied under this article are special taxes.

37-42-128. Collection of assessments. (1) The county treasurer of the county wherein the office of an irrigation district is located shall be and is hereby constituted ex officio district treasurer of such irrigation district and shall be liable upon his official bond and to indictment and criminal prosecution for malfeasance, misfeasance, or failure to perform any duty prescribed in this article, either as county treasurer or as district treasurer, as is provided by law in like or other cases as county treasurer. Said treasurer shall collect, receive, and receipt for all moneys belonging to the district.

(2) It is the duty of the county treasurer of any county wherein is located the whole or any part of an irrigation district to collect and receipt for all irrigation district assessments levied. The revenue laws of this state for the assessment, levying, and collection of taxes on real estate for county purposes, except as modified in this article, shall be applicable for the purposes of this article, including the enforcement of penalties and forfeitures for delinquent assessments, and, in the collection and enforcement of irrigation district assessments, the county treasurer is authorized to issue such instruments and do such acts at such times, in the same manner and with like effect, as authorized by the general revenue laws concerning such taxes upon real estate for county purposes.

(3) In the case of irrigation district assessments, such county treasurer shall receive, in payment of the general fund assessment for the year in which taxes are payable, warrants drawn against said general fund the same as so much lawful money of the United States, if such warrant does not exceed the amount of the general fund assessment which the person tendering the same owes. Such county treasurer shall receive, in payment of the district bond fund assessment for the year in which said taxes are payable, interest coupons or bonds of said irrigation district maturing within the year said assessments are payable the same as so much lawful money of the United States, if such interest coupons or bonds do not exceed the amount of district bond fund assessment which the person tendering the same owes. Payment of irrigation district assessments shall be receipted for upon the same receipt required in the collection of general real estate taxes, but, in the case of payment of only general tax or irrigation district assessment and the nonpayment of the other, such nonpayment shall be clearly indicated upon such receipt so issued, and the payment of the one shall in no way affect the lien or obligation of the unpaid tax or assessment, but each shall exist and be enforceable separately.

(4) The county treasurer of each county comprising a portion only of an irrigation district, excepting the county treasurer of the county in which the office of said district is located, on the first Monday of each month, shall remit to the district treasurer all moneys, warrants, coupons, or bonds theretofore collected or received by him on account of said district. Every county treasurer shall keep a general fund account, a bond fund account, and, in the case of a contract with the United States, a United States contract fund account. In the bond fund account shall be placed all moneys received from taxation for the payment of bonds and the interest thereon. In the United States contract fund account shall be placed all moneys received for payments due or to become due the United States under any contract between the district and the United States.

(5) All other district moneys from whatever sources shall be placed in the general fund, and the three funds kept separate at all times. The district treasurer shall pay out of said bond and United States contract fund, when due, the interest and principal of the bonds of said district, at the time and place specified in said bonds, or all payments due to the United States under any contract between the district and the United States, at the time and in the manner provided in said contract, and shall pay out of the general fund only upon warrants signed by the person duly authorized by the board of directors of said district as provided in this section.

(6) The district treasurer, on the fifteenth day of each month, unless excused therefrom by order of the board of directors, shall report to the secretary of the district the amount of money in his hands to the credit of the respective funds, the amount of warrants paid during the previous month, and the amount of registered warrants, if any, together with an account of bonds retired or United States contract payments made, if any.

(7) All such district assessments collected and paid to the county treasurer shall be received by said treasurer in his official capacity, and he shall be responsible for the safekeeping, disbursement, and payment thereof the same as for other moneys collected by him as such treasurer. The county treasurer shall receive for the collection of such assessments such amount as the board of directors may allow, as provided in section 30-1-102, C.R.S. Any assessment collected and paid to the county treasurer for districts that are defunct or have not been in operation for five or more years shall be transferred by the county treasurer to the county general fund.

37-42-129. Warrants - interest - call. Except with respect to claims coming within the provisions of article 10 of title 24, C.R.S., no warrants shall be issued except upon a verified claim first audited and allowed by the board, and each warrant shall be signed by the person duly authorized by the board of directors; and, if the district treasurer has insufficient money in the general fund to pay any warrant when presented for payment, he shall enter such warrant, with its number, amount, date, and the name and address of holder, in a register kept for that purpose and shall endorse upon said warrant "presented and not paid for want of funds", with the date of presentation. Such warrant shall draw interest at the rate of six percent per annum from such date of presentation until called for payment. When money sufficient to pay such warrant, or sufficient to allow a credit of not less than one hundred dollars thereon is in the general fund, such treasurer shall mail notice thereof to the holder of record at his address of record, and interest thereon shall thereupon cease. Warrants shall be paid in the order of their presentation for payment.

37-42-130. Call of bonds - surplus fund. If bonds are issued which are subject to redemption prior to maturity, and if, after the payment of all coupons and bonds due in any fiscal year, it is found that the bond fund of an irrigation district contains an amount of money sufficient therefor, it is the duty of the district treasurer to call such bonds as first become due and payable and to retire such indebtedness. Call shall be made by registered mail, addressed to the holder of such bonds so called at his address of record, giving the number of the bonds called, and notifying the holder thereof, that upon presentation of such bonds with all future due coupons attached, they shall be redeemed at their face value, with interest to date of call. When any bond has been so called, such fact shall be noted upon the bond register of the district treasurer, and money in the amount of its face, with interest to date of call, shall be set aside for its payment from the bond fund, and no coupons upon such bond maturing at a date later than the date of such call shall be paid. If money remains in or is paid into the bond fund after final liquidation of all bonded indebtedness, such money shall be transferred to the general fund by the treasurer of the district.

37-42-131. Payment of general expenses. (1) If any money in excess of one hundred dollars remains in the general fund in any year after the payment of all district warrants or other indebtedness properly chargeable against such fund and due and payable within such fiscal year, the board shall apply such surplus to the payment of the warrants of preceding years, if any, in the order of their registration and thereafter, in its discretion, by resolution, may authorize the transfer of such money from the general fund to the bond fund, and a certified copy of such resolution, signed by the president and attested by the secretary of the district, shall be sufficient warrant to the treasurer for making such transfer.

(2) For the purposes of defraying the expenses of the organization of the district and the care, operation, management, repair, and improvement of all canals, ditches, reservoirs, and works, including salaries of officers and employees, the board may either fix rates of tolls and charges and collect the same of all persons using said canal and water for irrigation or other purposes and in addition thereto may provide, in whole or in part, for the payment of such expenditures by levy of assessments therefor, as provided in section 37-42-126, or by both tolls and assessments. In case the money raised by the sale of bonds issued is insufficient, and in case bonds are unavailable for the completion of the plans of works adopted, it is the duty of the board of directors to provide for the completion of said plans by levy of an assessment therefor in the same manner in which levies of assessments are made for the other purposes.

37-42-132. Relief from bonded indebtedness. (1) At any time after the expiration of two years from the date of the issuance of any bonds under this article, any landowner may relieve his lands from the burden of such bonded indebtedness in the following manner: He shall pay to the district treasurer an amount of money sufficient to retire district bonds in such ratio to the total bonded indebtedness of the district as the acreage of lands which he owns within such district bears to the total acreage thereof, subject to such bonded indebtedness, plus fifteen percent; except that, where such district may have outstanding more than one issue of bonds, the bonds of any one issue may be thus retired without reference to other issues; and where such payment is insufficient to furnish money to retire an entire bond, such landowner shall pay such further sum as shall be required to retire an entire bond, and the treasurer shall issue to him a lien bond in a denomination representing such excess payment, bearing the same serial number, of like terms, and with the same rate of interest as the bond of the last serial number so retired.

(2) The treasurer shall thereupon issue to such landowner his official receipt in duplicate, one of which receipts shall be filed with the secretary of such irrigation district and one filed for record in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the county wherein the lands involved are situated. From and after the filing, such lands shall be free and clear from any and all liens, levies, and assessments of such bonded indebtedness for which such payment was made; except that, in the case of a contract with the United States, the provisions of this section shall not apply, but, in such case, the real property of the district shall be and remain liable to be assessed for all payments provided for in such contract with the United States until the obligations under such contract have been paid.

37-42-133. Exclusion of land from district. (1) Any landowner desiring the exclusion of any of his lands from an irrigation district organized under this article shall present to the board of directors of such district his verified petition describing such lands and praying their exclusion by order of such board. He shall allege and show by certificate of the county clerk and recorder of the county wherein such lands are situate that such lands are not subject to any bonded indebtedness of such district and, by certificate of the county treasurer of such county, that all levies for the general fund of said district have been paid upon said lands. Whereupon, said board shall proceed to an examination of the matters alleged in said petition as it sees fit and shall consider the advisability of such exclusion. If it finds that such land is not burdened with any bonded indebtedness of such district, and that all levies made thereon have been paid, or proper security given for payment of such levies as are not yet payable, and that its exclusion from the district would in no way damage or injure other lands of said district, it may order such exclusion, and thereafter such lands shall be dropped from the lists of district lands for all purposes; except that such exclusion shall in no way affect or impair any of the rights or obligations of such district.

(2) The board of directors of an irrigation district is authorized to exclude any lands situate in the district where the board believes that the exclusion of such lands from such district would be in the best interest of other landowners in such district. Such board may order such exclusion, and thereafter such lands shall be dropped from the lists of district lands for all purposes; except that notice shall be published first in a newspaper in said district or county thereof for a period of two successive weeks, and, in the event there is no such newspaper published in such district, such intended order shall be posted at the office of the district board and in at least two other public places within the boundaries of said district, and notice shall also be served upon the owners of the lands proposed to be excluded before the making of such order. Proof of such posting and publication and also of such notice having been served upon the landowner shall be duly made and recorded in the minutes of the board of directors.

(3) However, when the district makes such an order, anyone having a water privilege on such land so excluded shall be reimbursed for the value of such privilege, and the owners of said lands shall have the right to appeal to the district court of the judicial district in which such land is situate to have such order reviewed and set aside, if improperly made. In case a contract has been made between the district and the United States, no change shall be made in the boundaries of the district, and the board of directors shall make no order changing the boundaries of the district until the secretary of the interior assents thereto in writing and such assent is filed with the board of directors.

37-42-134. Inclusion of land in district. (1) Landowners representing a majority of the acreage of any tracts of land susceptible of irrigation from the system of any irrigation district already organized may present their petition to the board of directors of such irrigation district, praying that such lands be included within the district. Such petition shall describe each tract of land sought to be included within such district and give the name of the owner thereof. It shall be accompanied by a map prepared by a competent civil engineer, showing the proposed method of irrigation of the land involved and the susceptibility of its irrigation from the system of such district. Upon the filing of such petition, it is the duty of the secretary of such district to cause notice thereof to be published, at the expense of such petitioners, once each week for three successive weeks in a newspaper designated by the board and of general circulation within such district and to set said petition down for hearing before the board at its next regular meeting after the last of such publications.

(2) At the date set for hearing, such board shall proceed to hear said petition and any objections thereto that have been offered in writing by any landowner of the district or other interested person and may allow or reject said petition in whole or in part in its discretion. As a condition precedent to the granting of such petition, the board of directors shall require the payment into the bond fund of such amount, as nearly as the same can be estimated, as such land as is included by its order would have been assessed on account of such fund if it had been in such district from the date of its organization and, in addition, may require such further payments as it considers just and equitable to be paid into the general fund; but, in case any unentered public land is so included within any irrigation district, such payment shall be assessed against such lands on the records of the district and collected in the manner authorized by the act of congress of August 11, 1916.

(3) In case a contract has been made between the district and the United States, no change shall be made in the boundaries of the district unless the secretary of the interior assents thereto in writing and such assent is filed with the board of directors. Upon such assent any lands excluded from the district shall be discharged from all liens in favor of the United States under a contract with the United States.

37-42-135. District to lease surplus water. Whenever any irrigation district organized under the provisions of this article acquires water in excess of its own needs or becomes the owner of water or rights capable of use for other purposes than those for which it was organized, without impairing or injuring such use, it may lease such water or rights for use within or without the district for domestic, agricultural, power, or mechanical purposes, upon affirmative vote of the district authorizing such lease, and the rentals derived from such lease shall be paid into the general fund of the district. Such rentals shall become due and payable semiannually, in advance, on March 1 and August 1 of each year, and shall bear interest at the rate of one percent per month from due date until paid. At its option the board of directors may cancel any lease upon which any rental is past due and unpaid, and no lease shall extend beyond the term of twenty years from the date of its execution.

37-42-136. Drainage of lands - surveys. The board of directors of any irrigation district may cause surveys, maps, estimates of cost, and a report of feasibility to be made looking to the drainage of the whole or any part of an irrigation district which may have become, or threatens to become, seeped or too wet or which requires drainage for profitable cultivation. Such surveys, maps, estimates, and report shall be filed in the office of the district, and such matters shall be submitted to the landowners at a general or special election held not less than sixty days from the date of the filing of such documents. If the landowners express their approval of such drainage undertaking by affirmative vote of a majority of the votes cast at such election, the district may proceed to do such drainage work and shall have like powers with reference thereto, including the levying of an assessment or the issuing of bonds, to defray the expense thereof.

37-42-137. Sale of surplus water - proceeds. The board of directors may sell property or assets of the district not needed for district use nor essential to its operation from time to time as it shall direct by resolution, at public auction, and upon such notice as it shall designate, and shall cause the proceeds thereof to be placed in the bond fund or United States contract fund of the district. If such district has no bonded or United States contract indebtedness then such proceeds shall be placed in the general fund.

37-42-138. Confirmation of organization and bonds. (1) The board of directors of any irrigation district organized under this article at any time may file a petition in the district court of the county wherein is situated the office of such district praying for a judicial examination and determination of the question of the validity of the organization of the district, or of any bonds issued, whether sold or not, or of any assessment levied, or of any order, act, proceeding, or contract of said district. Such petition shall set forth the facts whereon the validity of such organization or of such bonds, assessment, order, act, proceeding, or contract is founded and shall be verified by a member of the board.

(2) Thereupon a notice in the nature of a summons shall issue under the hand and seal of the clerk of said court, directed to all landowners, creditors, or other persons interested in said district, naming it, which designation shall be deemed sufficient to give the court jurisdiction of all matters and parties involved and interested. Service shall be obtained by publication of such notice as in the case of publication of summons in an action to quiet title to real property. Any landowner, creditor, or other interested person may move to dismiss or answer said petition within the time allowed therefor. All persons filing motions to dismiss or answers shall be entered as defendants in said cause and their several defenses consolidated for hearing or trial.

(3) Upon hearing, the court shall examine into all matters and things affecting the validity of the matter in controversy, shall make a finding with reference thereto, and shall enter judgment and decree as the case warrants. In reaching its conclusions in such causes, the court shall follow a liberal interpretation of the law and shall disregard informalities or omissions not affecting the substantial rights of the parties, unless it is affirmatively shown that such informalities or omissions led to a different result than would have been otherwise obtained. The Colorado rules of civil procedure shall govern matters of pleading and practice as nearly as may be. Costs may be assessed or apportioned among contesting parties in the discretion of the trial court. Review of judgments of the district court by an appellate court may be had as in other civil causes.

37-42-139. Dissolution of district - election. (1) A plan for the dissolution of any irrigation district organized under this article may be submitted to the landowners at a special election held for that purpose. Such plan must provide for the payment of all district debts and liabilities and the disposition of district assets. If the landowners authorize such dissolution by an affirmative vote of a majority of the entire voting strength of the district, the directors shall proceed to carry out the plan so authorized and, upon the accomplishment thereof, shall file their certificate of such fact with the county clerk and recorder of each county wherein any part of said district is situated.

(2) Thereupon, the district shall be considered at an end; except that, within fifteen days from the date of the vote of the landowners authorizing such dissolution, any landowner or creditor may contest the validity of such proceeding or the legality of the proposed plan of dissolution by action in the district court of the county wherein the district office is situated, and, pending determination in such cause, no action shall be taken by the board of directors thereunder. If any funds remain in the hands of the district treasurer to the credit of such district after its dissolution, such funds shall be distributed among the landowners in proportion to the acreage of their lands within the district.

37-42-140. Districts organized hereafter. This article shall apply only to irrigation districts organized after April 7, 1921, and no existing laws in any manner relating to irrigation districts shall apply to or affect irrigation districts organized after said date, but said existing laws and all amendments thereto made after said date shall be and remain in and have full force and effect as to all irrigation districts organized prior to April 7, 1921. However, whenever resident freeholders, representing a majority of the number of acres of the irrigable land in any irrigation district organized prior to April 7, 1921, shall petition the board of directors to call a special election for the purpose of submitting to the qualified electors of said irrigation district, who for the purpose of this section are defined as the owners or entrymen of agricultural or horticultural land within said district exclusive of lands platted or subdivided into residence or business lots, a proposition to vote, at any regular or any special election called and notice given for such purpose, upon the question whether or not such irrigation district shall thereafter operate under the provisions of this article and if two-thirds of said qualified electors of such irrigation district voting upon such question shall vote in favor of coming under the provisions of this article, upon the filing of a statement of the results of such election in the manner provided by section 37-41-112, such irrigation district shall thereafter be governed by the provisions of this article, but the election of such district to come under the provisions of this article shall not invalidate any act or proceeding theretofore done under the laws governing such irrigation district prior to such election and shall not impair any obligation of such irrigation district or any right thereunder.

37-42-141. Ratification of irrigation district. If the qualified voters of an irrigation district have authorized the dissolution of such district in the manner provided by section 37-42-139 but the plan of dissolution so authorized has not been implemented and the district has continued to function as an irrigation district, such district may submit the question of ratification of the district to the qualified voters in a district election as specified in section 37-42-112. If a majority of the votes cast at such election are in favor of the ratification of the district, the prior authorization of dissolution shall be deemed null and void. The directors shall file their certificate of such fact with the county clerk and recorder of the county wherein such district is situated, and the district shall be deemed, for all purposes, to be a de jure irrigation district.

PART 2

IRRIGATION DISTRICT SALINITY CONTROL ACT

PART 1

IRRIGATION DISTRICTS
OF 1905 AND 1921

37-43-101. Definition of landowner. For the purposes of sections 37-43-101 to 37-43-103, a "landowner" shall be held to be any individual eighteen years of age or older, owning in fee within an irrigation district land in excess of one acre that is subject to irrigation district taxation or assessment, who is a citizen of the United States or has declared his or her intention to become a citizen of the United States and is a resident of the state of Colorado or who is an entryman upon public lands of the United States and is residing thereon. Any landowner shall be eligible to election as a director of the district in which the landowner is entitled to vote.

37-43-103. Directors may submit question. At any general or special election held in any irrigation district, the board of directors may submit to the electors of the district the question of voting for directors of the district on an acreage basis; except that no landowner has the right to vote more than eighty acres in the election of directors. If at such election a majority of the votes cast are in favor of the proposition, at all elections of directors held thereafter, each landowner of the district shall be permitted to vote for each office to be filled as many votes as he has acres of land within the district which are subject to district taxes or assessments. A landowner may vote in person or by proxy, and any person acting as proxy for another must file written authority therefor with the election judges, which authority must be retained with the other election proceedings. The candidate receiving the most votes shall be declared elected.

37-43-105. Increasing number of directors. The board of directors of any irrigation district in the state of Colorado may submit to the electors of any such district the question of whether or not the number of directors of such district shall be increased from three to five.

Source: L. 45: p. 419, § 1. CSA: C. 90, § 487(1). CRS 53: § 149-3-4. C.R.S. 1963: § 150-3-4.

37-43-106. Calling election - ballot. Such election may be called by any board of directors and shall be called if a petition therefor, signed by thirty percent of the qualified electors in said district, as defined in section 37-43-108, is presented to any such board, which election shall be a special election and the question to be voted upon shall be submitted upon printed ballots on which the said question shall be set forth as follows:

FOR an increase of the number of directors of the .....

Irrigation District from three to five ☐

AGAINST an increase in the number of directors of the .....

Irrigation District from three to five ☐

37-43-112. Agricultural college and school lands included. For the purpose of furnishing water and securing water rights for agricultural college and public school lands lying within or adjacent to the boundaries of any irrigation district organized, the state board of land commissioners is authorized to petition all such lands into such irrigation districts.

37-43-113. Petition - form and execution. All such petitions shall be in the form provided by law for the petition of other lands into such irrigation districts, and shall be signed, sealed, and acknowledged by the register of the state board of land commissioners on behalf of said board and shall in addition be countersigned by the governor of the state on behalf of the state and, when so signed, sealed, acknowledged, and filed with the board of directors of any irrigation district, shall be deemed to give the assent of said state board of land commissioners and the state of Colorado to the inclusion of all lands therein described in said irrigation district.

37-43-114. Assessments. All such lands so included in any irrigation district in this state shall be assessed for irrigation district purposes in the same manner and at the same rate as other lands in such irrigation districts.

Source: L. 09: p. 429, § 3. C.L. § 2028. CSA: C. 90, § 490. CRS 53: § 149-3-13. C.R.S. 1963: § 150-3-13.

37-43-115. Mode of payment - receipts. It is the duty of the county treasurer of each county in this state wherein any irrigation district is located and in which such lands have been so included to notify the register of the state board of land commissioners on or before February 1 of each year of the amount of district assessments due on such lands, giving therein the exact description of each tract of land so assessed and the amount of assessments due thereon. Immediately upon receiving such notice, it is the duty of the register of said state board of land commissioners to place the same before said board at its next regular meeting at which it shall examine said notice of assessments due, and, if the same is found correct, the board shall certify the same to the state treasurer who shall pay the same out of any moneys in his hands belonging to said respective land funds howsoever derived and charge the same to said respective funds. Such payment shall be by warrant from the state treasurer to the proper county treasurer, and, when so received by him, he shall issue his receipts therefor in the name of the state board of land commissioners, and shall in addition issue a duplicate receipt to said state treasurer.

37-43-116. Purchaser to pay accrued assessments. Upon the receipt of such receipts from said county treasurers, it is the duty of the register of the state board of land commissioners to enter and charge the same against each tract of land so paid on, in a book to be kept by him for that purpose, showing the amount paid, date of payment, and to whom paid. Whenever any of said tracts of land are sold, the purchaser thereof, in addition to the purchase price therefor, shall pay all of such accrued assessments so paid, together with interest thereon, from the date of payment at the rate of six percent per annum, such accrued assessments and interest thereon to be included in the total purchase price to be paid by said purchaser; except that this section shall not apply to such assessments which have been paid by the lessees of any such tracts of land theretofore leased from the state as provided in section 37-43-117.

37-43-117. Lessee to pay assessments in addition to rent. In the event that any such tracts of land so included within any irrigation district are leased from the state board of land commissioners, then all such lessees, in addition to the rental paid to said state board of land commissioners, shall pay such an additional amount to said board as will equal the district assessments levied upon such lands for the year in which such rental shall be paid; and such moneys, when so received by the register of the state board of land commissioners, shall be turned in to the state treasurer and kept in a separate fund for the payment of such assessments.

37-43-122. Irrigation districts to provide drainage. Upon presentation of a petition to the board of directors of an irrigation district signed by not less than two-thirds of the legal voters of such district, each of whom is the owner of five acres or more of lands within the district and has paid the irrigation district taxes in full upon all his real property located within said district during the calendar year preceding the presentation of said petition, any irrigation district organized under the laws relating to such districts may provide for any drainage made necessary by the irrigation provided for by such laws. The officers, agents, and employees of such districts shall have the same powers, duties, and liabilities respecting such drainage, and the construction, repair, maintenance, management, and control thereof as they have respecting such irrigation, and all laws respecting such irrigation or such irrigation districts shall be so construed, applied, and enforced as to apply to such drainage as well as such irrigation.

powers of its officers, and the law applicable shall be the same. San Luis Irrigation Dist. v. Noffsinger, 85 Colo. 202, 274 P. 827 (1929).

37-43-123. Title in seepage or waste waters. Whenever it appears necessary, proper, or beneficial to the lands affected thereby to drain such lands or any portion thereof on account of the irrigation which has been done, or which is intended to be done under such laws, whether for the purpose of more beneficially carrying on such irrigation, or increasing the available water supply of the district or for any other purpose, whether the irrigation works have already been constructed or not, it is the duty of the board of directors to provide for such drainage, and said board and its officers, agents, and employees shall do all necessary and proper acts for the construction, repair, maintenance, and management of drainage work for such purposes. Any irrigation district shall have a first and preferred right to the beneficial use of all seepage, waste, and percolating waters flowing within said district or collected and conveyed by drainage works constructed in any portion of the lands of the district. Any segregated lands drained under the provisions of this section and section 37-43-122 shall be immediately reinstated, placed upon the tax roll by the county assessor, and taxed for irrigation district and drainage purposes, and all of said lands shall bear their pro rata share of all bonded indebtedness of such irrigation district. Any lands not included in said irrigation district before, which are benefited by said drainage system, shall be assessed by the county assessor and taxed for irrigation district and drainage purposes and shall bear a full proportion of all of said irrigation district bonds and costs of drainage, in accordance with the terms of payment specified by said district.

37-43-125. Election - notice - canvass. Whenever it is desired to sell property of the district, the board of directors, by resolution entered in the minutes of their proceedings, shall submit such questions to the qualified voters of said district at a special election of the district called for such purpose or at a general district election when noticed as provided in this section. The notice of said election shall be published and posted for the same length of time and in the same manner and the election shall be conducted the same as in case of an election for an original issue of bonds. The notice shall also contain a general description of the property, or interest therein, to be sold, the conditions of the terms of sale, the time and manner of payment, and such other information as may be necessary to fully advise the voters of the facts, together with the substance of any plan proposed to carry the same into execution and any settlement with the bondholders of the district, or any proposed contract may be published in full. The ballot shall contain such appropriate words as shall enable the electors to indicate their approval or disapproval of the propositions submitted. The returns shall be canvassed and the statements of the results of said election shall be entered and filed in the same manner as in case of an original issue of bonds. Two or more propositions may be submitted at the same election.

37-43-126. Determination of validity of sale. (1) In case, upon the canvass of a vote at such election, it is found and declared by said board of directors that a majority of the votes cast at such election have been cast in favor of selling all or part of the dams, reservoirs, canals, franchises, water rights, and other property of the district, then said board of directors may file a petition in the district court of the county wherein is located the office of such board to determine the validity of the proceedings had for the sale of the dams, reservoirs, canals, franchises, water rights, and other property of such district. The same petition shall set forth the same facts required to be given in the notice of election.

(2) Such actions shall be in the nature of a proceeding in rem and jurisdiction of all parties interested may be had by publication of a notice of the pendency of such action at least once a week for three weeks in some paper of general circulation published in the county and district where the action is pending; except that if the district is situated in more than one county, then the publication shall be made in one newspaper in each county where the district is situated, said newspapers to be designated by the judge of the court having jurisdiction of the proceedings; or the court may provide for notice by posting not less than thirty days before the date set for hearing such petition in any county where no newspaper is published. Jurisdiction shall be complete in thirty days after the posting or last publication of such notice.

(3) Such notice shall be directed as follows:

“To all holders of indebtedness of the ..... irrigation district (inserting the name of the district whose property is to be sold, etc.); to all landowners within said district, and to all others interested in the proposed sale of the dams, reservoirs, canals, franchises, water rights, and other property of said irrigation district”, and said notice shall state the filing of said petition by the board of directors, the date of filing said petition, and the court in which filed, and shall further state that the object of such petition is to obtain the sale of said dams, reservoirs, canals, franchises, water rights, and other property of the district briefly described in the same, and shall give the date set by the court for the hearing of said petition.

(4) At or before the time set for the hearing of said petition, anyone interested may appear and file written objections to such petition, and may at the time set for the hearing of said petition appear and contest the validity of the proceedings already had, and of the plan proposed for the sale of the dams, reservoirs, canals, franchises, water rights, and other property of the district or any portion thereof, including the validity of any portion of the indebtedness set out in said petition. At the one hearing the court shall determine the amount of indebtedness of said district, and may determine the validity of any portion thereof, and in said proceeding may adjust and determine the rights and liabilities of all parties, and decree an adoption and execution of the proposed plan. Such action shall be speedily tried and judgment rendered. At the hearing the court shall hear and determine the regularity, legality, and correctness of all proceedings and in doing so shall disregard any error, irregularity, or omission which does not affect the substantial rights of the parties.

(5) The rules of pleading and practice in the Colorado rules of civil procedure and in the Colorado appellate rules not inconsistent with the provisions of sections 37-43-124 to 37-43-130 are made applicable to the proceedings provided in this section. Any party shall have the right to appellate review, as provided by law and the Colorado appellate rules, within ninety days after the entering of final decree by the district court and the case shall be advanced on the docket of the appellate court and disposed of with all convenient speed. Unless appellate review is so pursued, the decree entered in said case by the district court shall be final and binding upon all parties interested in said district, whether as officer, electors, landowners, creditors, or otherwise. The costs of any contest may be allowed and proportioned between the parties or taxed to the losing party, in the discretion of the court, and no contest of any matter or thing provided for in this section shall be made other than in the time and manner specified in this section.

37-43-127. Proceedings by elector on failure of board. If no such proceedings have been filed by the board of directors within thirty days after the canvass of said vote, then any qualified elector of the district may bring an action in the district court of the county wherein the office of the board of directors is located. The board of directors shall be made parties defendant and notice shall be served on the members of the board personally, if they can be found in the county; if not, then service by publication as provided in section 37-43-125 shall be sufficient. Proceedings shall be had in the same manner and with the same effect as if brought by the board of directors.

37-43-128. Sale. The sale may be made to any person or to a corporation organized under the laws of the state of Colorado, or may be made to the United States, but no sale of water rights shall in any manner impair or be deemed to relinquish any of the sovereign rights of the state of Colorado in the waters of the state or to control and regulate the diversion, use, and distribution thereof.

37-43-129. Decree of sale. The court in its decree has the power to make the orders necessary to carry out said proposition or plan for the sale of the dams, reservoirs, canals, franchises, water rights, or other property of the district; but no plan for the sale of the entire property of irrigation districts including the dams, reservoirs, canals, franchises, water rights, and other property of the district shall be approved by the court which does not provide for the ultimate payment or liquidation of all the indebtedness of the district and adequate security for the holders thereof, and as well protect the landowners of said district.

37-43-130. Construction. Sections 37-43-124 to 37-43-131 shall be liberally construed to carry out the intent and purpose, and nothing in this article shall be held to curtail or abridge the powers of the district officers, the boards of county commissioners, or the revenue officers of the state in the assessment, levy, or collection of irrigation district taxes, or in any other particular. All such powers are expressly retained and, in addition thereto, such officers have all powers necessary or proper to enable them to fully carry out the provisions of sections 37-43-124 to 37-43-131. The procedure provided in this article shall not be deemed to affect any liens for unpaid taxes or assessments which have been duly levied and assessed, existing at the time of the filing of the petition in the district court; but nothing in sections 37-43-124 to 37-43-131 or in the procedure therein provided shall be construed in any manner to either impair, enlarge, or give additional rights or powers to the holders of bonds or other evidences of district indebtedness. The board of directors of the district has the right to sell or otherwise dispose of any of the personal property of the district in the ordinary course of business, and nothing in sections 37-43-124 to 37-43-131 shall be taken or held to interfere with such right.

37-43-131. Distribution of proceeds. Whenever all of the property of any irrigation district has been disposed of and all of the indebtedness and obligations thereof, if any, have been discharged, the balance of the money of said district shall be distributed to the landowners in said district upon the last assessment roll in the proportion in which each acre of land has contributed to the total amount of said assessments.

37-43-132. Purposes for bond issues. Whenever irrigation districts shall be organized or created under the laws of this state, they have power to construct, build, or acquire irrigation works and to purchase or acquire rights-of-way, reservoirs, water rights, and priorities of rights to the use of water, all of which are declared to be public purposes. Such districts shall be special taxing districts with power to levy ad valorem taxes on all taxable land therein and to collect the same and to issue negotiable coupon general obligation bonds for any of said purposes, the principal of and the interest on which shall be payable from such ad valorem taxes as provided in section 37-43-136. If it is proposed that any district to be organized shall issue bonds under this part 1, the petition for the organization thereof and the notice of the election on the question of organization shall so state.

37-43-133. Meeting of landowners. Whenever the board of directors of any irrigation district proposes to issue negotiable coupon general obligation bonds of the district for one or more of said purposes, it shall call a meeting of the owners of land in the district, at which meeting the question of issuing such bonds shall be submitted. Notice of such meeting shall be given by publication once a week in five consecutive weekly issues of an official newspaper published nearest the center of the district, and the secretary of the board, not later than five days after the first publication of said notice, shall mail a copy of said notice, postage prepaid, to each owner of land within the district. In determining who are owners of land in the district the secretary may rely upon the records on file in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the county in which the district is located. Such notice shall designate the time and place of meeting, not less than thirty days after the first publication of the notice, the purpose and the amount of bonds proposed to be issued, the maximum rate of interest thereon not exceeding six percent per annum payable semiannually, and the time during which the bonds shall mature not exceeding twenty-five years.

37-43-134. Voting on bond issue. The president of the board of directors, or in his absence one of the other members of the board of directors of the district, shall preside at such meeting and the secretary of the board shall act as secretary of the meeting. The landowners present shall elect three of their own number to act as judges who shall determine all questions arising concerning ownership of land and the regularity and authenticity of proxies. The owners of land in the district or their duly authorized proxies shall vote by ballot containing the words "for the bonds" and "against the bonds", with spaces opposite wherein the voter may place a cross mark (X) to express his choice. Said ballot shall also have appropriate places for the signature of the voter and the number of acres of land in the district owned by the voter. Each landowner shall be entitled to cast as many votes as he has acres of land in the district. The owner of the fee title to land in the district or the owner of incomplete title to public land in the district on which a filing has been made and proceedings taken to perfect title in good faith and in full compliance with law shall be deemed to be a "landowner" for the purposes of sections 37-43-132 to 37-43-138, and all persons, corporations, partnerships, or entities owning land in the district shall be entitled to vote at said meeting in person or by their duly authorized proxy. All proxies shall be in writing and shall be acknowledged. The judges shall canvass the votes cast at any meeting held pursuant to said sections and shall certify the result thereof to the board of directors of the district.

37-43-135. Resolution of board of directors. If the result so certified shows that votes representing eighty percent of the acres of taxable land in the district have been cast in favor of the proposed bonds, the board of directors, by resolution, may authorize the issuance of negotiable coupon general obligation bonds of the district. Such resolution shall specify the purpose for which the bonds are to be issued, the date thereof, the rate of interest not exceeding six percent per annum payable semiannually, and the maturities thereof. Such bonds shall mature serially commencing not later than five years after the date thereof and extending to a time not exceeding twenty-five years after the date thereof. The amounts which shall mature in each of the years shall be determined by the board of directors of the district and specified in said resolution. The bonds shall be in the denomination of one hundred dollars or some multiple thereof. The said bonds and the coupons attached thereto shall be payable at such places, within or without the state of Colorado, as shall be designated in such resolution. The bonds shall be signed by the president of the board of directors, countersigned by the county treasurer, ex officio treasurer of the district, sealed with the seal of the district, and attested by the secretary of the board. The semiannual interest coupons attached to said bonds shall be executed with the facsimile signature of the president of the board of directors. The county treasurer, ex officio treasurer of the district, shall make a record of all bonds issued pursuant to sections 37-43-132 to 37-43-138 in a book to be kept in his office for that purpose. Bonds issued pursuant to said sections shall be sold at not less than the par value thereof.

37-43-136. Levy of tax - collection. For the purpose of paying such bonds and the interest thereon, the board of directors of any district issuing bonds under this article is authorized to levy ad valorem taxes on all taxable land within the district. Such taxes shall be certified, extended, and collected at the same time and in the same manner as other irrigation district taxes or assessments, and the revenue laws of the state of Colorado relating to the levy, collection, and enforcement of general taxes, the sale of property for the nonpayment of general taxes, and the rights of redemption shall apply, as nearly as may be, to such irrigation district taxes. The lien of irrigation district taxes levied pursuant to the provisions of sections 37-43-132 to 37-43-138 shall be on a parity with the lien of general taxes, and no sale of land for the nonpayment of general taxes shall extinguish the lien of irrigation district taxes levied to pay the principal of or the interest on any bonds issued under this part 1. In the event that the amount of taxes collected in any year is not sufficient to pay the principal of or interest on bonds due and payable in such year, the deficit shall be made up in the next annual levy.

37-43-137. Bonds receivable in payment of taxes. Bonds of any maturity issued under this part 1 may be used at face value in paying taxes levied to pay the principal of such bonds; except that bonds maturing after the year in which the bonds are so used shall have all future due coupons attached thereto and no credit shall be allowed for such coupons. Interest coupons attached to such bonds and maturing in any year may be used at face value in paying taxes levied for such interest which becomes due and payable in that year.

37-43-141. Levy of tolls or charges. The board of directors of any irrigation district within the state may annually or otherwise levy and assess such tolls or charges as may be necessary to raise moneys for the maintenance and operation or payment of existing unfunded indebtedness of the district, said tolls or charges to be levied and assessed pro rata upon each acre of land within the district for the use of water for the irrigation thereof. By resolution, the board may refuse to deliver water to any land within such district when the owner thereof, within such time as may be fixed by such resolution, fails or refuses to pay in cash, to the secretary or treasurer of the district, such tolls or charges. Where a district takes over by deed or assignment or otherwise any irrigation system or works, or parts thereof, either upon reorganization or otherwise, the board of directors of any such district in like manner may collect any and all assessments theretofore levied for maintenance and operation by its predecessor in the ownership or operation of such system, whether such predecessor is a district or a mutual company, if such assessments are assigned to and become the property of the district seeking to collect the same.

37-43-144. Issuance of refunding bonds. The board of directors of any irrigation district, under the conditions provided in sections 37-43-144 to 37-43-151, may issue negotiable coupon bonds, denominated as refunding bonds for the purpose of taking up, paying off, and refunding any outstanding indebtedness of the district, whether due or not and whether such indebtedness is now existing or may be created, when there are not funds in the treasury in such district available for the payment of such indebtedness. Such refunding bonds sought to be issued shall not exceed the amount lawfully owing and unpaid upon such indebtedness so to be taken up, paid, and refunded. Such refunding bonds shall not bear interest greater in rate or amount per annum than that borne by the indebtedness to be taken up, paid, and refunded. The authority vested in the board of directors by any election held pursuant to sections 37-43-144 to 37-43-151 shall be and remain effective until the indebtedness so authorized to be refunded has been paid, redeemed, or refunded. Such refunding bonds may be issued and used to pay off all or part of any indebtedness then outstanding.

37-43-145. Board of directors to issue bonds. (1) Whenever it is desired to issue refunding bonds under sections 37-43-144 to 37-43-151, the board of directors of the district, by resolution entered in the minutes of their proceedings, shall call a special election of the qualified voters of said district for the purpose of voting upon the issuance of such refunding bonds, or such question may be submitted at a general election of the district if the notice complies with the requirements set forth in this section. At any election held under sections 37-43-144 to 37-43-151, the question of refunding all or any part of the then outstanding indebtedness of an irrigation district may be submitted for determination, whether such indebtedness is due or not.

(2) The notice of said election shall be published and posted for the same length of time and in the same manner, and the election shall be conducted the same as in the case of an election for an original issue of bonds. The notice shall specify the time and place of holding said election, the amount and date of the indebtedness sought to be taken up and paid, the amount and rate of interest of the refunding bonds proposed to be issued, and the dates when said refunding bonds will become due.

(3) At such election the ballots shall contain the words "Refunding Bonds - Yes" and "Refunding Bonds - No". The return shall be canvassed by the board of directors in the same manner as in the case of an original issue of bonds and a similar statement of the results of said election shall be entered in the records of said board and filed with the county clerk and recorder of the county in which the office of said district is located. If it is determined upon such canvass that a majority of the legally qualified electors of the district have voted "Refunding Bonds - Yes", the board of directors shall cause bonds in such amount to be issued. Such bonds may mature serially, with or without an option to redeem the same prior to maturity, or they may have one maturity date, not exceeding fifty years from date, and be redeemable on and after a designated date not later than ten years from the date of said bonds.

(4) If serial bonds are issued, the last series shall mature in not more than fifty years from the date of said bonds, and the first series shall become due not more than ten years from the date of said bonds, and the series shall be so arranged that some part of the principal of said bonds, never less than one percent, shall become due each year during the maturity period until the entire principal is paid. If optional bonds are issued, the board of directors of the district, when funds are available for redemption purposes at any time after the optional date, shall call for offerings for redemption, and, out of the redemption fund provided for the payment of said bonds, shall pay any bonds presented for payment pursuant to such call to any holders thereof who offer the same for payment and redemption for the lowest amount below par, including accrued interest, to the extent of the funds available.

(5) Available funds not used for the retirement of bonds shall be used in the redemption of outstanding bonds commencing with the lowest outstanding number. For the ultimate redemption of such refunding bonds, the board of county commissioners of each county embracing any portion of an irrigation district, at the time of making tax levies for county purposes commencing not more than ten years from the date of said refunding bonds, shall levy annually a separate tax upon the lands within a district subject to taxes for irrigation district purposes sufficient to discharge, at maturity, the principal of the refunding bonds issued, registered, and outstanding, pursuant to the provisions of sections 37-43-144 to 37-43-151; and except for the payment of an issue of refunding bonds payable serially, each annual tax levy for the payment of principal shall be equal, as nearly as can be. Such bonds shall be as nearly as possible in the same general form as an original issue of bonds of said district, with interest represented by coupons payable semiannually upon June 1 and December 1 of each year, at the office of the county treasurer of the county in which the organization of the district was effected, and, at the option of the board of directors, at such other places within or outside the state of Colorado as the board may designate in said bonds.

37-43-146. Submission of question to electors. The board of directors at the same election, or at any future general or special election, may submit to the qualified voters of the district the question of whether the coupons upon such refunding bonds shall bear interest at a rate not to exceed six percent per annum after their maturity, if said coupons are not paid upon presentation. In such case the ballots shall contain the words, "Interest on coupons - Yes", and "Interest on coupons - No", or words equivalent thereto. The vote upon said question shall be canvassed at the same time and in the same manner as the vote for the issue of refunding bonds and, if a majority of the qualified electors of the district have voted "Interest on coupons - Yes", the board of directors shall certify the result and cause the same to be entered of record and filed the same as in the case of an election for refunding bonds. Thereafter, when any of said coupons are presented for payment on or after their due dates and there are insufficient funds on hand to pay said coupons, the county treasurer shall stamp on the back of said coupons, "Not paid for want of funds", and all coupons so stamped shall bear interest from that date until paid at the same rate as the principal of the bond.

37-43-147. Sale of bonds. In case of the sale of said refunding bonds or any portion thereof for cash, the same procedure shall be followed as in case of the sale of an original issue of bonds; but, if no bid of par or better is received at public sale, said bonds may be sold at private sale. No bond shall be sold for less than ninety-five percent of the par value thereof. The money realized from said sale shall be used only for the purpose of paying the indebtedness for which said refunding bonds were issued. Any part or all of said issue of refunding bonds may be exchanged for the indebtedness to be refunded; but the par value of the refunding bonds exchanged shall not exceed the par value of the indebtedness refunded thereby. All indebtedness so discharged, either by payment or exchange, shall immediately be canceled by the county treasurer of the county in which the office of the district is located.

37-43-148. County treasurer to register bonds. At the time of the issue by exchange or sale of refunding bonds authorized under the provisions of sections 37-43-144 to 37-43-151, each bond shall be registered by the county treasurer, who is ex officio district treasurer, in a book to be kept by him for such purpose. Coupons evidencing unearned interest shall be detached and canceled. Each bond so registered shall have endorsed thereon the treasurer's certificates of such registration; and only such bonds so certified shall be valid; but such certificate shall be conclusive evidence that the bond so certified has been duly issued in full conformity with the provisions of sections 37-43-144 to 37-43-151. Immediately upon the registration of any refunding bond, the treasurer shall certify the fact to the board of county commissioners of the county in which the office of the district is located, in order that the requisite tax levies may be made in due course to meet the maturing interest upon and principal of such bond.

37-43-149. Collection of taxes. Taxes for the payment of interest and principal of said refunding bonds shall be levied and thereafter collected in the same manner as provided by law for the levy and collection of taxes for the payment of interest and principal of an original issue of irrigation district bonds. Such bonds and coupons shall be receivable in payment of said taxes, as is provided in the irrigation district law concerning original bond issues. All taxes for interest shall be kept by the county treasurer as a special fund to be used in the payment of interest only, and all taxes for the redemption of such refunding bonds shall be kept by such county treasurer as a special fund to be used for the redemption of the principal only of such refunding bonds. The revenue laws of this state for the assessment, levying, and collection of taxes on real estate for county purposes and the disbursement of such taxes, except as modified by sections 37-43-144 to 37-43-151 or by the irrigation district laws of this state, shall be applicable for the purposes of sections 37-43-144 to 37-43-151, including the enforcement of penalties and forfeitures for delinquent taxes; but if in any year a sufficient amount is not collected for payment in full of principal or interest installments falling due in such year on any specific piece of property in said irrigation district, the delinquency on such property shall be included in the next assessment thereafter levied against said piece of property.

37-43-150. Validity of bonds examined. The validity of refunding bonds issued pursuant to sections 37-43-144 to 37-43-151 may be judicially examined, approved, and confirmed in the same manner as an original issue of bonds of such district.

37-43-151. Relief of lands from burden of refunded indebtedness. At any refunding bond election held under the provisions of sections 37-43-144 to 37-43-151, the board of directors may submit to the voters of the district the question of giving landowners the privilege of relieving their lands from the lien of taxes or assessments to be levied for the payment of said refunding bonds and the interest thereon. If authorized by a majority of those voting on the question, any owner of land within the district, who is not in default in the payment of irrigation district taxes or assessments, may relieve his lands from the burden of such refunded indebtedness by paying to the district treasurer an amount of money sufficient to retire district bonds in such ratio to the total bonded indebtedness of the district as the acreage of lands which he owns within such district bears to the total acreage thereof subject to such bonded indebtedness plus fifteen percent for the privilege of discharging his total indebtedness to the district at one time. The treasurer shall thereupon issue to such landowner his official receipt in duplicate, one of which receipts shall be filed with the secretary of such irrigation district and one filed for record in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the county wherein the lands involved are situate, and from and after such filing, such lands shall be free and clear from all liens, levies, and assessments of such bonded indebtedness for which such payment was made.

37-43-152. Board may contract with United States. The board of directors of any irrigation or drainage district, organized under the laws of the state of Colorado, in its discretion, whenever it is determined by such board to be for the best interests of any such district, may contract with the United States or any governmental agency thereof to fund or refund any or all of the outstanding indebtedness of such district together with the interest accrued and unpaid thereon.

37-43-153. Provisions of contract. Such contract and the proceedings taken by any such district pursuant thereto and in connection with the authorization and issue of refunding bonds, in case the indebtedness of such district is reduced by the issuance of such refunding bonds, may include provisions whereby the board of directors of said district covenants and agrees on behalf of said district to levy and collect assessments in excess of the amounts which would meet the principal of and the interest on said bonds as the same fall due if all such assessments were paid in full, in order to create and maintain a reserve fund to insure the prompt payment of the principal of and interest on said bonds; but such covenants and agreements shall never provide for assessments in amounts greater than such assessment would have been had such indebtedness of such district not been so reduced. Said provisions and covenants, when included in the proceedings adopted by the board of directors of any such district, shall inure to the holders of said refunding bonds.

37-43-154. Prior contracts validated. Contracts entered into prior to April 10, 1935, between irrigation and drainage districts and the United States or any agency thereof, for any of the purposes stated in section 37-43-152, and all proceedings taken pursuant thereto for the creation of reserve funds are hereby ratified, confirmed, and validated.

37-43-155. Powers cumulative. The powers conferred in sections 37-43-152 to 37-43-154 upon the board of directors of any irrigation or drainage district organized as provided in section 37-43-152 are cumulative in character and are in addition to all powers possessed by any such board under the laws of the state of Colorado or which may be conferred upon such board by said laws.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "One Year Review of Property Law", see 38 Dicta 192 (1961).

This act allows a dissolution of districts which are, as well as those which are not, in debt. Michigan Trust Co. v. Otero Irrigation Dist., 76 Colo. 441, 232 P. 919 (1925).

Debts must be paid. The dissolution statute, if construed to authorize the dissolution of an irrigation district without payment of its just debts, would be unconstitutional as impairing the obligation of contracts and as depriving citizens of their property without due process of law. Michigan Trust Co. v. Otero Irrigation Dist., 76 Colo. 441, 232 P. 919 (1925).

Bondholders may be afforded relief in equity. Where the district and its officials have voluntarily surrendered the property and their official positions so that they are no longer able to respond to any mandamus suit which might be instituted to carry the judgments and claims of plaintiffs into effect, nonresident bondholders may be afforded relief in a court of equity, for otherwise they are without any remedy to effect the collection of their claims. Beck v. Otero Irrigation Dist., 38 F.2d 275 (D. Colo. 1929).

For this section and §§ 37-43-157 through 37-43-167 governing dissolution, see McKinley v. Dunn, 141 Colo. 487, 349 P.2d 139 (1960).

37-43-157. Petition - where filed - contents. A majority of the legally qualified electors of any irrigation district, or the holders of the legal title to a majority of the whole acreage of said district, or seventy-five percent or more in amount of the holders of the bonds issued by said irrigation district may propose the dissolution of said district by a petition signed by the petitioners. In case of a petition by the bondholders, said petition may be signed by said bondholders or by any one or more persons or corporations representing said bondholders and filed with the board of directors of said district, which petition shall set forth the amount of the outstanding bonds, coupons, and other indebtedness, if any, insofar as known to the petitioners, together with a general description of the same and the amount overdue thereon, if any, and the holders, insofar as known, showing the amount of each description of indebtedness and the ownership, insofar as known, of the same and also the estimated cost of the dissolution of said district. The petition shall also state the assets of said district, including the irrigation system, if any, dams, reservoirs, canals, franchises, and water rights. If any proposition has been made by the holders of said indebtedness to settle the same, said proposition, together with any plan proposed to carry the same into execution, shall be included in said petition.

37-43-158. Dissolution - special election. (1) Upon the filing of said petition with the board of directors of said district, the board shall call a special election, at which shall be submitted to the qualified electors of such district the question whether or not said district shall be dissolved, its indebtedness liquidated, and its assets distributed in accordance with the plan so proposed or, in case no plan has been proposed, in accordance with a plan which shall be proposed by said board of directors in the notice of the election. No such election shall be called until either the assent of all holders of valid indebtedness against the district known to the directors is obtained, or else provision shall be made in said plan for the ultimate payment or liquidation of the claims of such nonassenting holders, either in money or, in the alternative, until all tax levies required by the laws of the state of Colorado for the payment of such indebtedness have been made; except that action shall not be taken upon said petition and said election called, in case contract has been made between the district and the United States, until the secretary of the interior has assented thereto in writing and such assent is filed with the board of directors.

(2) Notice of such election must be given in the same manner and for the same time as notice of election of directors of an irrigation district under the laws of the state of Colorado. Such notice must specify the time of holding the election, the fact that it is proposed to dissolve the district, and a brief summary of the plan proposed for liquidating all its indebtedness or for the making of all tax levies required by the laws of the state of Colorado for the payment of such indebtedness and for disposing of its assets. Such election shall be held and the result thereof determined and declared in all respects as nearly as practicable in conformity with the provisions governing the election of directors in irrigation districts. At such election the ballot shall contain the words "Dissolution of the District - Yes" and "Dissolution of the District - No" or words equivalent thereto.

ANNOTATION

Statutory procedure part of bond contract. If dissolution of an irrigation district is had in compliance with the statutes which were in effect when district bonds were issued, no holder thereof can successfully raise a jurisdictional question based upon any failure of due process, since he must be held to have agreed to the statutory procedure as a part of his bond contract. Alpha Corp. v. Denver-Greeley Valley Irrigation Dist., 110 Colo. 179, 132 P.2d 448 (1942).

Once directors offer to satisfy bondholder's claim, he cannot contest dissolution. Where the holder of bonds of an irrigation district was tendered, and refused to accept, the full amount of money which, as such holder, he was entitled to receive, he had no further interest to subserve by complaining of a dissolution decree. A creditor cannot compel further action by district officials, if what they have done is sufficient to satisfy his legal demands. In re Green City Irrigation Dist., 91 Colo. 202, 13 P.2d 1113 (1932).

Directors' determination of who is a qualified voter is binding on court absent fraud or abuse of discretion. Two requisites in the statute defining qualified electors are ownership on the date of the election plus payment of taxes in the preceding year. The undelivered and unrecorded deeds were properly held by the court to justify the directors in disqualifying the plaintiffs because of no title in them. The board of directors, having the duty to determine the qualifications of both the signers of the petition and the voters, made their determination as an administrative function, and in the absence of a showing that they acted illegally, fraudulently, or abused their discretion, their determination is binding on the trial court. McKinley v. Dunn, 141 Colo. 487, 349 P.2d 139 (1960).

For composition under bankruptcy act, see Kiles v. Trinchera Irrigation Dist., 136 F.2d 894 (10th Cir. 1943).

37-43-159. Determination of validity of dissolution. (1) In case, upon the canvass of the vote at such election, it is found and declared by said board of directors that a majority of the votes cast at such election have been cast in favor of "Dissolution of the District - Yes", then the board of directors shall file a petition in the district court of the county wherein is located the office of such board to determine the validity of the proceedings had and of the proposed plan for the dissolution of such district. Such action shall be in the nature of a proceeding in rem, and jurisdiction of all parties interested may be had by publication of a notice of the pendency of the proceeding at least once a week for three weeks in some newspaper of general circulation published in the county where the action is pending; but if the district is situate in more than one county, then the publication shall be made in one newspaper in each county wherein the same is situate, such newspaper to be designated by the court having jurisdiction of the procedure. The court may provide for notice by posting the same not less than thirty days before the date set for the hearing of such petition in any county where no newspaper is published. Jurisdiction shall be complete in thirty days after the posting or last publication of such notice.

(2) The notice may be directed as follows:

"To all holders of indebtedness of the ..... irrigation district (insert the name of the district sought to be dissolved), to all landowners within said district, and to all others interested in the proposed dissolution of the said irrigation district", and said notice shall state the filing of the petition by the board of directors, the date of filing said petition and the court in which filed, and shall further state that the object of said petition is to obtain the dissolution of said irrigation district, and shall give the date set by the court for the hearing of said petition.

(3) At the time set for the hearing of said petition, anyone interested may appear and contest the validity of the proceedings already had, and of the plan proposed for the dissolution of said district or any portion thereof, including the validity of any portion of the indebtedness set out in said petition. The court shall determine the amount of the indebtedness of said district, and may determine the validity of any portion thereof, and in said proceeding, may adjust and determine the rights and liabilities of all parties and decree an adoption and execution of the proposed plan. Such action shall be speedily tried and judgment rendered.

(4) Any party shall have the right of appellate review, as provided by law and the Colorado appellate rules, at any time within thirty days after the entering of final judgment, and the case shall be heard and determined by an appellate court of the state within three months after taking the appeal. Unless appeal is made within such thirty days, the decree entered in said cause shall be final and binding upon all parties interested in said district, whether as officers, electors, landowners, creditors, or otherwise.

ANNOTATION

A creditor who appears and files his claim in dissolution proceedings tacitly admits their propriety, and it may be that he is estopped thereafter to assert objections that he might have urged had he not by his conduct acquiesced in the proceedings. In re Green City Irrigation Dist., 91 Colo. 202, 13 P.2d 1113 (1932).

A dissolution proceeding is not one in rem. It would be presuming too much to hold that a dissolution proceeding was actually one in rem which would bind those holding securities upon the property without personal service upon them. Beck v. Otero Irrigation Dist., 38 F.2d 275 (D. Colo. 1929).

Service on nonresident bondholders by publication only does not bar suit for equitable relief. Dissolution proceedings do not bar suit for equitable relief where plaintiffs, as holders of the bonds of the district, being nonresidents of the state, were served with no process other than the advertisement in the local paper. Beck v. Otero Irrigation Dist., 38 F.2d 275 (D. Colo. 1929).

Applied in Michigan Trust Co. v. Otero Irrigation Dist., 76 Colo. 441, 232 P. 919 (1925).

37-43-160. Contents of petition - procedure - costs. Such petition to the district court shall set forth the facts required to be set forth in the petition to the board of directors and all the proceedings had thereunder, and at the hearing the court shall hear and determine the regularity, legality, and correctness of all proceedings, and in doing so shall disregard any error, irregularity, or omission which does not affect the substantial rights of the parties. The rules of pleading and practice in the Colorado rules of civil procedure and in the rules of the supreme court not inconsistent with the provisions of sections 37-43-156 to 37-43-168 are made applicable to the proceeding provided in this article. The costs of any contest may be allowed and proportioned between the parties or taxed to the losing party in the discretion of the court, and no contest of any matter or thing provided for in said sections shall be made other than in the time and manner specified in sections 37-43-151 to 37-43-168.

37-43-161. Elector may bring action. If no such proceeding has been filed by the board of directors within thirty days after the canvass of said vote, then any qualified elector of the district may bring an action in the district court of the county wherein the office of the board of directors is located. The board of directors shall be made parties defendant, and notice shall be served on the members of the board personally if they can be found in the county; if not, then service by publication as provided in section 37-43-159 shall be sufficient. Proceedings shall be had in the same manner and with the same effect as if brought by the board of directors.

37-43-162. May organize corporation to acquire assets. A corporation may be organized under general laws for the purpose of acquiring the assets of said district, including the irrigation system, if any, dams, reservoirs, canals, franchises, water rights, and all other property of any nature belonging to said district, which corporation shall have all the powers, rights, and franchises of corporate bodies organized under general laws and in addition shall have such further powers as may be necessary to possess and carry on said irrigation system and exercise such franchise and water rights.

37-43-163. Decree of court. (1) The court in its decree shall have power to make the orders necessary to carry out said proposition or plan for the liquidation of the indebtedness and distribution of the property of said district, including the right to apportion any indebtedness found due, and to declare said portions of any said indebtedness liens upon the various parcels and lots of land within the district, and may decree a sale or exchange of its assets in such manner as may effectuate said proposition, as the said court may judge best, and as, in the opinion of the court, provides an adequate security for the ultimate payment or complete liquidation of all the indebtedness of said district. Said sale or exchange of said assets may be made either in one lot or in such parcels as may be provided, and the decree may provide for conveyance of said irrigation system, including the dams, reservoirs, canals, franchises, and water rights, and also of all of the other assets of the district and for the exchange thereof for outstanding indebtedness and the cancellation of such indebtedness. Said court may also provide by decree for the ultimate payment of all or any part of the indebtedness of said district by directing a continuance of the levy and assessment of taxes upon the lands included in said district in the manner provided by the laws of this state in relation to irrigation districts.

(2) At any time prior to the actual execution of the proposed plan for dissolution, whether before or after entry of the decree, the proceeding for approval of such plan may be dismissed by the court and such dissolution may be abandoned when it is made to appear to the court that a majority of the qualified electors of the irrigation district have voted for the dismissal of such proceeding and abandonment of such proposed dissolution at an election regularly held for the purpose of voting on such question and that such dissolution plan and proceeding can feasibly and equitably be abandoned and dismissed at that time. Notice of such election shall be given in the same manner and for the same time as notice of election of directors of an irrigation district under the laws of the state of Colorado, and such notice shall specify the time of holding the election and the matter to be voted upon. Such election shall be held and the result thereof determined and declared in all respects as nearly as practicable in conformity with the provisions governing the election of directors in irrigation districts. The court in its decree dismissing any such proceeding under the provisions of this subsection (2) has the power to make all orders necessary to effectuate the abandonment of such dissolution plan and the continuation of such irrigation district.

ANNOTATION

This section contemplates, in the event of a dissolution of the district, that the property and assets of the district may be sold and outstanding indebtedness thereby be paid. Michigan Trust Co. v. Otero Irrigation Dist., 76 Colo. 441, 232 P. 919 (1925).

37-43-164. Apportionment of indebtedness. In any such proceeding for the dissolution of any irrigation district, the district court also has power, subject to such terms and conditions as it may deem just and equitable under the circumstances, to apportion the bonded indebtedness of the district among the various tracts of land within said district, each irrigable acre being liable for the same amount, and to provide for the release and extinguishment of the lien securing the bonds of said district or a part or portion thereof against all or any of said tracts of land upon the payment of all or a pro rata amount of said bonded indebtedness by the landowner either in cash or by the surrender by said landowner of an equivalent amount of said district bonds, coupons, or warrants. In the event the lien of said bonds, coupons, or warrants is so extinguished pursuant to said decree of said district court against any tract of land within said district, it is the duty of the county treasurer to issue a certificate to said landowner evidencing the extinguishment of said lien, and said certificate may be recorded and when recorded shall be conclusive evidence that the land described therein has been released and relieved from the lien securing the bonds of said district.

37-43-165. Plan must provide for adequate levies. No plan of liquidation shall be approved by the court which does not provide for the making of all levies required by the laws of the state of Colorado for the payment of all valid indebtedness of the district. In the petition mentioned in section 37-43-157, it shall not be necessary to include in the schedule of indebtedness any bond, coupon, warrant, or other indebtedness, claim, or demand which has been barred by the laws of this state, nor shall it be necessary to include in the schedule of indebtedness any bond, coupon, warrant, or other indebtedness for the payment of which all levies required by the laws of the state of Colorado have been made prior to the filing of said petition with the board of directors of said irrigation district, nor shall it be necessary in winding up the affairs of any district organized under the laws of this state to pay all or any portion of a debt or obligation of such district for the enforcement of which debt or obligation a suit is barred by the laws of this state, nor shall it be necessary to pay, except from the proceeds of tax levies therefor already made, all or any portion of a debt or obligation of such district for the payment of which all levies required by the laws of the state of Colorado have been made.

37-43-166. Foreclosure subject to prior taxes. In case the court decrees the establishment of a lien against any portion of the lands in said district, or against any of the property of said district, the decree shall provide for the foreclosure of such liens upon the failure to make any payments for which said liens are given at the time the same become due under the terms of the decree entered in such proceeding. All conditions of such foreclosure, including the existence or nonexistence of a right to redeem therefrom, shall be within the discretion of the court. Nothing in sections 37-43-156 to 37-43-168 and nothing in the procedure provided for in this article shall be deemed to affect any liens for unpaid taxes or assessments which have been duly levied and assessed and existing at the time of the filing of the petition in the district court.

37-43-167. Disposition of surplus. Whenever all the property of such irrigation district has been disposed of, and all indebtedness and obligations thereof, if any, have been discharged, the balance of the money of said district shall be distributed to the assessment payers in said district as named in the last assessment roll in the proportion in which each has contributed to the total amount of said assessments.

37-43-168. Procedure where district is solvent. Irrigation districts which are free from debt may be dissolved under sections 37-43-156 to 37-43-168. In such cases, it shall not be necessary that the proceedings for the dissolution of said district shall be passed upon by the district court, as prescribed in section 37-43-159, but, after the holding of the election in the district and the declaration of the result, a certificate, signed by the president and secretary of the district, shall be filed with the county clerk and recorder of each county in which the district is situated, which certificate shall state the number of signers to the petition for dissolution and shall recite the calling of an election, the holding of said election, and the result thereof. Said certificate shall bear the seal of the district. It is the duty of said respective clerk and recorders to record all such certificates in the records of the respective counties, and, upon filing of such certificate with the said county clerk and recorders the dissolution of said district shall be complete.

37-43-169. Dissolution of inactive irrigation districts. Whenever, for a period of five successive years, any irrigation district organized under the laws of the state of Colorado has failed to transact any business for which such district was organized, or its board of directors has failed to hold a meeting for the purpose of transacting any business for the benefit of such district, or the board of directors has failed to certify the annual appropriation resolutions to the board of county commissioners during such period or, during such period, there has been no election of directors or there is no duly elected, qualified, and acting board of directors due to death, resignation, or otherwise, or if, for a like period, the irrigation works of the district has been abandoned by such district, the indebtedness of said irrigation district shall be paid and such irrigation district may be dissolved, not only in the manner provided by law prior to April 7, 1921, but also in the manner provided in sections 37-43-169 to 37-43-178.

37-43-170. Petition for payment of indebtedness. The president, secretary, any officer or director, any legally qualified elector of such district, or any holder of outstanding bonds of said district may file, in the district court of the county wherein is located the principal office of such irrigation district or of the counties wherein the greater portion of the acreage of such irrigation district lies, a petition, duly verified, setting forth any one or more of the foregoing reasons for the payment of the indebtedness or dissolution of such irrigation district, or both, and setting forth any other reasons showing just cause therefor, and setting forth, as nearly as such petitioner shall be able to ascertain, a list of the outstanding indebtedness of the district and the names and addresses of the creditors of the district.

37-43-171. Jurisdiction - order for hearing. Upon the filing of such petition, the district court shall be vested with jurisdiction of the subject matter and shall forthwith ascertain from testimony or other evidence, as nearly as may be, the names and addresses of all the creditors and bondholders, or their counsel or representative, of said district and shall make an order requiring each of the owners of the lands included within the boundaries of such irrigation district, and the legal holders of any indebtedness of such irrigation district, and all persons who may be affected in any manner by such proceedings to appear before such district court upon a certain day, to be designated in such order, not less than twenty days after service of notice of such order, as provided in section 37-43-172, there to show cause why the said petition should not be granted.

37-43-172. Notice of hearing. Immediately upon the making of such order by said district court, the clerk of such court shall issue a notice of such order, in the nature of a summons, under his hand and the seal of such court, notifying all persons included within such order of the contents thereof, which notice may be served either personally in the same manner as provided for the service of summons under the Colorado rules of civil procedure, or by publication once a week for three successive weeks in some newspaper, to be designated in such order, of general circulation published in the county where such court is held, or, in case there is no such newspaper, then by posting the same in at least three conspicuous places in such county, to be designated by such order, one of which places shall be within the boundaries of such irrigation district, and by mailing a copy of such published notice, by registered mail at least thirty days before the date of any such hearing, to each of the creditors and bondholders of the district and their representatives and attorneys, insofar as known to or ascertainable by the court.

37-43-173. Notice - how addressed. Neither such notice nor such order shall be addressed to any person by name, but it shall be sufficient if it is addressed to any and all owners of land in such irrigation district, to the legal holders of any claims of indebtedness against said district, and to all persons interested in said proceedings.

37-43-174. Completion of service. Service of such published or posted notice shall be deemed complete at the expiration of ten days after the last publication or posting and mailing thereof. At the expiration of the time required by such order to show cause, and not less than twenty days after the service of such notice, whether by personal service or by publication or posting, such district court shall be vested with complete jurisdiction over both the subject matter of such petition and of all parties in any manner concerned or affected by it, and thereafter its proceedings shall be governed by the Colorado rules of civil procedure except only as modified or controlled by sections 37-43-169 to 37-43-178.

37-43-175. Answer or contest - default. Within the time required by such order to show cause, any person interested in the subject matter of such petition, including any owner of lands in said irrigation district or the holder of any of its indebtedness whether bonded or otherwise, may appear and move to dismiss, plead, or answer to such petition, or contest the same, in the same manner as in civil actions under the Colorado rules of civil procedure wherein he might be defendant; and for all purposes the nonappearance of any landowner in said district, after due notice of such order, shall be taken as his consent to the granting of such petition and all proceedings had thereon.

37-43-176. Proceedings in rem - accounting. (1) All proceedings upon such petition shall be considered as in the nature of proceedings in rem, and the court has power to make any proper orders affecting the rights of all parties interested therein, and may order all of the corporate property of said irrigation district to be sold or otherwise disposed of for the benefit of its creditors and the good of the lands or landowners thereof, and shall take a full and complete accounting of all the assets and liabilities of such district, and provide for the payment of all its indebtedness of any sort, either by the sale of its corporate property or by the levy of assessments or taxes upon all the lands within the boundaries of such district, which lands shall be assessed for the same amount per acre, or by both such means and methods. The district court may enter such other and further orders from time to time for additional levies as may be necessary to pay and discharge all the indebtedness of said district, whether in the original amount of said indebtedness or any compromise amount which may be offered by the creditors and bondholders and approved by the court.

(2) All assessments or taxes shall be collected and their collection enforced by and according to the methods provided by law for the collection of taxes and assessments for irrigation district purposes, but it shall not be necessary for any board of directors of such district to take any part in such proceedings, but certified copies of the orders, findings, or judgments of the district court filed with the board of county commissioners shall be sufficient authority for the board of county commissioners of the proper county to make the levies of taxes or assessments against the district lands in said orders, findings, or judgments provided.

(3) If the court orders the sale of any district property, a commissioner shall be appointed for such sale and conveyance of the property, and to report to the court, and any funds obtained from any such sales shall be deposited with the district treasurer for the payment of district indebtedness. Sufficient additional amounts shall be added to the levies to pay the costs of any such proceedings in the district court, and, after collection, moneys derived from such levies for such purposes shall be paid by the district treasurer upon order of court and any surplus shall be used to pay district indebtedness. In case any outstanding warrants or bonds of the district are surrendered to the court for compromise or for the purpose of aiding in the closing up of the district affairs, or for other purposes, the court may enter judgment in behalf of each such creditor for the amount of the indebtedness ascertained to be due or which such creditor consents he will accept in satisfaction of such indebtedness and such judgment shall be sufficient warrant upon the district treasurer to pay the amount thereof out of the funds of the district obtained upon levies and collection of taxes and assessments or from other sources. When all the outstanding indebtedness of the district has been paid, the district court, if so petitioned, may enter findings and decree dissolving such irrigation district.

37-43-177. Indebtedness of inactive districts. (1) In addition to the methods provided in sections 37-43-169 to 37-43-178, the following method of providing for the naming of directors and ascertaining and providing for the payment and discharge of the indebtedness of inactive or abandoned irrigation districts may be followed:

(a) Whenever any irrigation district organized prior to April 7, 1921, in this state has no duly elected or appointed and acting board of directors, by reason of the death, resignation, expiration of the terms of office of its former directors, or from any other cause, and no action has been taken by the electors of said district to fill such vacancies in its directorate by election or appointment as provided by law, upon petition filed and presented by any landowner, creditor, or bondholder of the irrigation district and upon notice given as provided in this section, the district court in and for the county in which the office of said district is located, by order, shall appoint not less than two nor more than three persons to act as directors of said district until their successors have been elected by the district and qualified as provided by law. Such directors so appointed by the district court shall be selected either from electors of said district or from owners of lands therein, although not otherwise qualified as electors of said district. If any person so appointed refuses to qualify as such, the court may appoint others in the place of those so refusing. The persons so appointed who qualify as directors shall file a certified copy of such order of court with the county clerk and recorder of said county in lieu of the statement of the results of election of directors required to be filed by the secretary of the district by section 37-41-112, and said directors so appointed shall have all the powers of, and shall otherwise qualify in the same manner provided by law for, directors elected by the district.

(b) If it appears to the court, upon the hearing, that there are not two or more electors or owners of land in said district who are ready and willing to accept such appointment and to qualify as such directors, the court, by order duly entered, shall direct the county assessor of the county in which the office of the district is located and it is thereupon his official duty to forthwith ascertain and certify to the court and thereafter certify to the board of county commissioners of said county, on or before October 15 of that year and succeeding years until directors of said district are elected or appointed, the amount and maturities of the outstanding bonds of said district, the amount of the unpaid interest thereon, the amounts and payees of the several outstanding warrants of said district, and the number of acres of land in said district which are burdened and obligated for the payment of bonded indebtedness and the number of acres subject to taxation for the payment of the general indebtedness of such district. Such certificate by the assessor shall have the same force and effect as the annual appropriation resolution required by law to be certified to the board of county commissioners by the directors of the irrigation district.

(c) The petitioners may submit to the court in any such proceeding any offer, proposition, or contract of compromise with holders of outstanding bonds and interest coupons of said district, wherein it is proposed to issue warrants of said district in exchange for said bonds and coupons and providing for the amounts to be levied from year to year to pay such warrants; and, if it appears to the court that said proposition or contract of compromise affords an equitable method of paying off said outstanding indebtedness, the court shall enter an order directing an election to be held at some convenient point at or near the location of the last office of the district for the purpose of submitting the question of the approval or rejection of such offer, proposition, or contract of compromise to a vote of the electors of the district. The election shall be conducted, and returns thereof made to the court, by the clerk of the court upon four weeks' published notice in the newspaper published nearest the place of holding said election. If a majority of the electors voting at said election vote in favor of said offer, proposition, or contract, or, in event no votes are cast, upon returns by the clerk, the court shall enter an order directing the carrying out of said offer, proposition, or the execution of said contract.

(d) If there are no directors of said district, the board of county commissioners of the county in which the office of the irrigation district is located, or should be located according to law, is hereby given the powers of directors of such district and shall act in the name of the district for the purpose of carrying out such offer or proposition or executing such contract and any warrants necessary to fulfill the terms of said offer, proposition, or contract, upon filing with the county clerk and recorder of said county a certified copy of said order of the court, and said board shall thereupon notify the county assessor of the amount of money to be collected from year to year as fixed and determined by said proposition or contract and the warrants so issued, which said certificate shall be followed by the county assessor in making certificate to the board of county commissioners. If the electors of the district reject such offer, proposition, or contract, the court may in like manner submit other or different propositions or contracts that may be proposed, and the proceedings shall be held open by the court for such purpose.

(e) All such proceedings before the district court shall be proceedings in rem and shall be entitled "In the matter of the ..... irrigation district, for appointment of directors and other purposes", and notice of the hearing upon such petition shall be given by publication in a newspaper of general circulation published nearest the office of the district for the time required for publication of summons as provided by the Colorado rules of civil procedure, and copies of such printed notice shall be mailed by the clerk of the court to the last-known directors and secretary of said district, as shown by the records of the county clerk and recorder of the county in which the office of the district is or was last located, and to all creditors, bondholders, or owners of warrants of said irrigation district, as nearly as the court and county assessor may be able to ascertain, at least three weeks prior to the date of such hearing. Any landowner or creditor of said district may appear and plead to or answer said petition and may offer testimony at said hearing. The court shall liberally construe sections 37-43-169 to 37-43-178 in carrying out the provisions of this section and shall retain jurisdiction of such proceedings until final provision has been made to pay off the indebtedness of any such irrigation district.

37-43-178. Appeals. Appellate review as provided by law and the Colorado appellate rules shall lie to review the orders, judgments, or decrees of the district court entered in either of the proceedings provided in sections 37-43-169 to 37-43-178, and the supreme court shall advance such cases upon its docket. The supreme court may provide for further proceedings upon said petitions and may make further rules of procedure in such cases in the same manner and to the same extent as it may provide amendments or further rules of procedure under the Colorado rules of civil procedure.

37-43-179. Dissolution - where bondholders are unknown. Any irrigation district organized under the laws of the state of Colorado in which bonds have been issued and in which said bonds were not registered as required by law, and the whereabouts of the bondholders is unknown, and more than twenty years has elapsed since the maturity date of the last issue of said bonds in said district may be dissolved as provided in sections 37-43-179 to 37-43-182.

37-43-180. Petitions for dissolution. Any person who is the owner of real property situated in said district sought to be dissolved may file a verified petition in the district court of the county wherein is located the principal office of such irrigation district or of the county wherein lies the greater portion of the acreage of such irrigation district, setting forth in said petition the facts upon which petitioner relies for dissolution of such irrigation district, including the fact that the bonds previously issued were not registered as required by law, that the whereabouts of said bondholders is unknown, and that more than twenty years has elapsed since the maturity date of the last issue of said bonds.

37-43-181. Notice of hearing. (1) After the filing of said petition, the court shall thereupon enter an order fixing a day certain for the hearing of said petition, said date not to be less than forty-five days from the date on which said petition was filed. Immediately upon making such order by the district court, the clerk of said court shall issue a notice of such order, in the nature of a summons, under the hand and seal of the court, notifying all persons in interest of the contents of said order. Said notice shall be served in the same manner as provided for the service of summons under the Colorado rules of civil procedure or by publication thereof once a week for three successive weeks in a newspaper, to be designated by the court, of general circulation published in the county where such court is held, or, if there is no such newspaper in said county, publication of said notice shall be in a newspaper designated by the court.

(2) Service of said published notice shall be deemed complete at the expiration of ten days after the last publication of said notice, at which time the court shall be vested with complete jurisdiction over the subject matter of such petition and all of the parties in any manner concerned or affected by it. Before the time of completion of service of notice, any person interested in the subject matter of said petition may appear in and contest the same in the same manner as in civil actions under the Colorado rules of civil procedure. The nonappearance of any bondholder concerned at the time of the hearing of said petition, or prior thereto, shall be considered as his consent to the granting of such petition and all proceedings had thereon. All proceedings upon such petition shall be considered as in the nature of proceedings in rem, and the court has power to make any proper orders affecting the rights of all parties concerned.

37-43-182. Disposition of unpaid funds. If, at the time of the entry of the order of dissolution, there remains in the funds of any county treasurer any moneys for the redemption of said bonds, the court shall require, by its proper order, said county treasurer to disburse said funds to any persons who present bonds for redemption and in proportion to the total value of such bonds presented. Such county treasurer, before disbursing any of said money, shall cause the publication of a notice, in the manner set forth in section 37-43-181, that said funds will be disbursed on a day certain not sooner than ninety days from the date of the first publication of said notice.

37-43-183. Application. The provisions of sections 37-43-183 to 37-43-189 shall apply only to irrigation districts having a bonded indebtedness of twenty dollars or more per acre and to lands in such described irrigation districts upon which the general property taxes have been delinquent and unpaid for more than five years.

37-43-184. Treasurer to strike off lands to county. When lands situate in an irrigation district, having an outstanding bonded indebtedness or indebtedness evidenced by outstanding warrants for which there are no available funds for payment, are sold for delinquent taxes assessed for state, county, and school district purposes, or any one or more of said purposes, with or without levies for irrigation district taxes or assessments, and there are no bidders at said sale for said lands in the amount of taxes assessed against the same, the treasurer, as in other cases, shall strike said lands off to the county for the amount of the state, county, and school district taxes and issue a certificate the same as in other cases. The treasurer shall offer separately said lands for sale for irrigation district taxes or assessments, if any, and sell the same to the person who bids the amount of the assessments for irrigation purposes against said lands. Such bidder may pay in cash or by such other obligations of said district as are acceptable for such purpose. If there is no bidder when said lands are offered for sale for the irrigation district assessments, the same shall be struck off to the district. In either event a certificate of sale for irrigation district assessments shall be executed and delivered to the purchaser or said district with a notation thereon by the treasurer showing the outstanding certificate of sale held by the county and the amount thereof.

37-43-185. Redemption. The person holding said certificate of purchase for irrigation district taxes, or the irrigation district, or any persons to whom said district assigns said certificate issued to it, upon payment of the amount due the county for state, county, and school district taxes, together with costs of sale and interest as provided by law, or for such amount as may be fixed by the board of county commissioners, may redeem from the sale to said county, and the amount so paid shall be endorsed upon and added to the certificate of sale issued for irrigation district assessments or taxes.

37-43-186. Lands offered for sale - when. Lands covered by an outstanding certificate held by the county shall not again be offered for sale until said certificate is redeemed or assigned. Subsequent taxes assessed against said land shall be endorsed upon such certificate and shall become an additional amount due and payable thereon.

37-43-187. When county entitled to tax deed. If any such certificate of sale issued to the county is not sold or assigned within three years from the date of the sale, thereupon the county may apply for a tax deed and shall be entitled to such tax deed the same as provided by law for other purchasers at tax sales. After the execution of said deed, the county shall be entitled to the rents, issues, and profits from any such land the same as any other owner. Such tax deed shall name the board of county commissioners as grantee and tax deeds may be executed and delivered, based upon certificates now held by counties, as well as certificates which may hereafter be issued covering lands in irrigation districts having an outstanding indebtedness, as provided in this article.

37-43-188. County may sell by quitclaim deed. At any time the county may sell by quitclaim deed any such land so acquired for the best price obtainable in the opinion of the board, which price is to be fixed by the board of county commissioners; and the purchase price, as well as the net amount realized as rental on such lands, shall be applied upon and apportioned to the payment of taxes for state, county, and school district purposes in proportion to the amount due at the time said tax deed is executed and delivered.

37-43-189. Continuation of lien of bonded indebtedness. No such sale shall relieve the land so sold from the lien of a bonded indebtedness, but the county, if it becomes the owner of any such land, shall not be obligated or liable for any such bonded indebtedness, interest, or other assessments or levies on account of irrigation district purposes, but the same shall be enforceable against the land, and not otherwise.

PART 2

IRRIGATION DISTRICT SALINITY CONTROL ACT

37-43-201. Short title. This part 2 shall be known and may be cited as the "Irrigation District Salinity Control Act".

37-43-202. Definitions. As used in this part 2, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Contracting district" means an irrigation district which has entered into a salinity control contract.

(2) "Irrigation district" means an irrigation district formed pursuant to the provisions of article 41 or 42 of this title.

(3) "Salinity control contract" means a contract made between an irrigation district and the United States pursuant to the "Colorado River Basin Salinity Control Act", 43 U.S.C. sec. 1571, as amended, for the construction, improvement, operation, and maintenance of lateral ditches and pipelines or for any combination of such purposes.

(4) "Salinity control lateral" means a lateral ditch or pipeline constructed or improved pursuant to a salinity control contract.

37-43-203. Applicability - exercise of authority. The provisions of this part 2 shall apply only to irrigation districts formed prior to January 1, 1988. The powers and authority conferred by this part 2 may be exercised only within the boundaries of such an irrigation district, as such boundaries existed on January 1, 1988.

Source: L. 88: Entire part added, p. 1228, § 1, effective April 6.

37-43-204. Irrigation district - authority to contract. Subject to authorization by a vote of the electors as provided in section 37-43-211, an irrigation district formed prior to January 1, 1988, shall have and may exercise all rights and powers necessary or incidental to enter into, implement, and perform a salinity control contract.

37-43-205. Special assessment. (1) (a) To the extent that the expenses of the operation and the maintenance of salinity control laterals are in excess of annual reimbursements payable to a contracting district by the United States under a salinity control contract, the contracting district may levy special assessments upon real estate within the contracting district which is entitled to receive water through the salinity control laterals. The special assessments shall be made as provided in this article. The laws of this state relating to the review, correction, collection, and enforcement of other district taxes shall apply to the special assessment; except that revenue derived from each such special assessment shall be excluded in the year in which such assessment is first levied in computing the limitations specified in part 3 of article 1 of title 29, C.R.S.

(b) The board of directors of a contracting district shall provide and certify a description of the real estate within the contracting district and within the county which the board determines to be entitled to receive water through salinity control laterals. The assessor shall assess and enter upon his records the assessed valuation of all real estate, including public lands subject to assessment under the act of the United States congress of August 11, 1916, exclusive of improvements, which is within the contracting district and served by the salinity control laterals. Such assessment shall be based upon values at the same rate per acre. Tracts of land of one acre or less shall not be assessed if the board of directors of the contracting district has otherwise fixed the amount to be paid by each tract of one acre or less.

(c) Immediately after assessment has been made, the assessor shall make a return to the board of county commissioners of the county in which the contracting district's office is located of the total amount of assessed valuation of the real estate served by salinity control laterals within the contracting district and, if the board of directors of the contracting district has specified a fixed amount for tracts of one acre or less, the number of such tracts in the area served by such laterals within the contracting district. The board of directors of the contracting district shall certify to the board of county commissioners of the county in which the contracting district's office is located the total amount of the special assessment and the amount, if any, payable by tracts of one acre or less. The board of directors of the contracting district may include in the special assessment an amount of up to fifteen percent of the expenses of operation and maintenance not reimbursed under a salinity control contract to cover delinquencies.

(d) Upon receipt of the returns of the total assessment of the contracting district and receipt of the certification from the board of directors of the contracting district, the board of county commissioners shall levy the special assessment upon all tracts of land of one acre or less in the amount established by the board of the contracting district, if any, and shall fix the rate of levy necessary to provide the balance of the special assessment certified by the board of directors of the contracting district. The board of county commissioners of the county in which the contracting district's office is located shall certify the rates thus established to the board of county commissioners of each county in which any portion of real estate served by the salinity control laterals is located, and such boards shall make the levy, at the rate specified, upon the lands in their respective counties.

(2) In lieu of the special assessment taxes specified in subsection (1) of this section, a contracting district may charge and collect toll charges for deliveries of water through salinity control laterals to obtain additional funds to defray operation and maintenance expenses of such laterals not reimbursed under a salinity control contract. The board of directors of a contracting district may, from time to time, establish schedules of such toll charges based upon a reasonable apportionment, as determined by the board, among the users deriving water through such salinity control laterals. Deliveries of water may be suspended or withheld from a water user who is delinquent in payment of toll charges.

37-43-206. Authority to obtain loans to defray expenses. Upon authorization of its board of directors, a contracting district shall have the authority to obtain loans, upon such terms and granting such security for repayment thereof as the board deems proper, to defray the annual expenses of operation and maintenance required to perform a salinity control contract. Such loans shall not be subject to any other requirement or limitation in this article or in articles 41 to 43 of this title.

37-43-207. Power of eminent domain. In order to carry out the purposes of this part 2, a contracting district shall have the power of eminent domain to acquire, within the boundaries of the district, existing lateral ditches, pipelines, and appurtenances thereto and interests therein, easements, rights-of-way, and such other rights and interests in property, including property devoted to a public purpose, as may be required in order to carry out the purposes of this part 2. The power of eminent domain granted to a contracting district pursuant to this section shall not extend to the acquisition of: Water rights; laterals which have been and as of April 6, 1988, are improved so as to achieve the purposes of the federal "Colorado River Basin Salinity Control Act" as determined by the United States bureau of reclamation; and ditch rights in a lateral with respect to which the owners of a majority of the acreage entitled to receive water therefrom have not agreed to have such lateral improved under the provisions of such federal act. If the compensation to be paid for the taking or acquisition of interests in property by a contracting district is to be paid or reimbursed by the United States, the question of whether such compensation shall be made need not be submitted to a vote of the qualified voters of such district.

37-43-208. Contracts - reimbursement by United States. If payments required under contracts made by a contracting district for construction, improvement, operation, or maintenance of facilities, or for supplying of materials or services, in implementation of a salinity control contract are to be paid for or reimbursed by the United States, to the extent that such payments exceed the expenses that would have been incurred by a contracting district in the thorough and timely operation and maintenance of its salinity control lateral absent their improvement pursuant to a salinity control contract, then such contracts need not be submitted to a vote of the qualified voters of the contracting district.

37-43-209. Submission of plans to state engineer - not required. (1) Notwithstanding the provisions of section 37-41-104 (1), a contracting district shall not be required to submit to the state engineer:

- (a) Plans for the construction, operation, or maintenance of salinity control laterals; or
- (b) Information concerning such salinity control laterals.

(2) Notwithstanding the provisions of section 37-41-104 (1), a contracting district shall not be required to obtain a decision from the state engineer as to the feasibility of construction, operation, and maintenance of salinity control laterals.

37-43-210. Compensation of director of contracting district. Amounts paid to a director of a contracting district for services rendered pursuant to a salinity control contract shall be excluded from and not considered to be a part of compensation subject to the limitations imposed by section 37-41-108 or 37-42-110 (3).

37-43-211. Creation of contracting district - election. An irrigation district proposing to become a contracting district shall submit the question of whether to become a contracting district at a special election called for that purpose. Copies of the contract proposed to be entered into shall be maintained at the office of the district from the date of notice of such election until the election is held, and such copies shall be available for inspection by landowners of the district during business hours. Each landowner who owns property within the district which is assessed for district taxes shall be entitled to cast one vote for each acre, or fraction thereof, of land owned by such landowners in the district. If a majority of the votes cast at such election are in favor of the irrigation district becoming a contracting district, such district shall be deemed to be subject to the provisions of this part 2, and the board of directors thereof shall be authorized to enter into a salinity control contract and to execute such modifications, extensions, and supplements thereto from time to time as the board shall deem appropriate.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Legal Classification of Special District Corporate Forms in Colorado", see 45 Den. L.J. 347 (1968).

37-44-102. Petition - establishment of an internal improvement district. (1) For the purpose of the establishment of an internal improvement district, as provided for by this article, a petition shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the district court of the county which embraces the largest acreage of the proposed district, which district court is hereby vested with full jurisdiction to hear said petition and to establish such internal improvement district.

(2) Such petition shall state that it is the purpose of the petitioners to organize an internal improvement district; shall contain a general description of the boundaries of such proposed internal improvement district, the means proposed to supply storage water for the irrigation of lands embraced therein or of preventing floods, regulating streams and channels, regulating the flow of streams, and protecting public and private property from inundation or the means of supplying storage water and flood protection to the lands proposed to be included within said internal improvement district as necessary, and the name proposed for such internal improvement district; and shall name a committee of five of the petitioners to present such petition to the district court praying that the district court define and establish the boundaries of said proposed internal improvement district and submit the question of the final organization of the same to the vote of the qualified electors of said district.

(3) The petition shall be signed by a majority of the owners of the land within the limits of the territory proposed to be organized into such district, who shall have all the qualifications of electors provided for under section 37-44-105. The petition shall also be accompanied by a good and sufficient bond to be approved by the clerk of said district court, in an amount to be fixed by the court, conditioned for the payment of all costs incurred in such proceeding in case such organization shall not be effected, but in case such district is effected, then such expenses incurred in the organization thereof shall be paid by said district.

(4) In the event the proposed district intends to acquire or maintain any such drainage system, the said petition shall also set forth:

- (a) In general terms, a description of the area proposed to be drained or benefited;
- (b) A general description of the means to be adopted to effect such drainage;
- (c) A statement of the proposed means of financing the construction of the necessary drainage works;
- (d) An estimate of the probable annual expense of maintaining such drainage system;
- (e) A general statement of the reasons why the construction and the maintenance of such drainage system would inure to the benefit of the irrigated lands included within the proposed district.

(5) Such petitions shall be published for at least four weeks before the time at which the same is to be presented in some newspaper of general circulation and published in each county into which any part of the proposed district extends, together with a notice signed by the committee of said petitioners selected by the petition for that purpose, giving the time and place of the presentation of the same to said district court.

37-44-103. Powers of district. (1) Any district organized under this article has the power, whenever necessary or expedient to promote the object of the district:

- (a) To provide for the drainage of lands whether lying within or without the boundaries of such district;
- (b) To acquire by condemnation or otherwise such lands as are necessary for the construction, operation, and maintenance of such ditches, canals, drains, or other works as are required for the drainage of such lands;
- (c) To accept grants or loans of money from the federal government, or any department or agency thereof, for the construction of such drainage ditches, canals, drains, or other works, and to enter into such contracts for the maintenance of such drainage system as are necessary to be entered into in order to procure any such grant of money or other federal aid in the construction of such drainage system;
- (d) In general, to contract with the federal government, or any department or agency thereof, in such manner as shall be found necessary or advisable in order to procure federal aid in any form in the construction of any such drainage system;
- (e) To provide means for the maintenance of and to maintain and operate such drainage system when so constructed or acquired.

37-44-104. Presentation and allowance of petitions. (1) (a) When such petition is presented and it appears that the notice of presentation of said petition has been given, as required by section 37-44-102, and that said petition has been signed by the requisite number of petitioners, the district court in which said petition is presented shall proceed to define the boundaries of such proposed district, from the petition and from such application for the exclusion of lands from and inclusions of lands therein as may be made in accordance with the provisions of this article.

(b) Any owner of land included in the proposed district who is not a signer of said petition may file with said court, on or before the day fixed by said notice for the presentation of said petition, a protest against the inclusion of lands so owned by him in the proposed district and petition for its exclusion. Said protest and petition shall set out the facts and conditions by reason of which such owner seeks to have his lands excluded from said proposed district. As many different owners as desire to do so may join in the same petition.

(c) Owners of lands not included in said proposed district, in like manner, may petition for the inclusion of their lands therein.

(2) On the day fixed for such hearing, the court shall proceed to examine the petition for the formation of said district and shall determine whether the same is in proper form and signed by the requisite number of petitioners. Certificates from several county assessors as to the ownership of lands in said proposed district, if the same appear upon the last assessment rolls of their respective counties, shall be prima facie evidence of the ownership of the lands therein mentioned; but strict proof of such ownership may be required by the court in regard to any lands, the ownership of which is called in question by any interested parties.

(3) When it appears to the court that the required notice of such hearing has been given, and that such petition is in proper form and signed by the required number of landowners, the court shall proceed to hear the same and all applications for inclusion and exclusion of lands theretofore filed with the clerk of said court. In such hearing, the court may consider:

(a) The physical condition and location of any lands for the inclusion or exclusion of which a petition has been filed;

(b) Its adaptability for agricultural use; and the sufficiency of any water supply already available for its irrigation and the need for any additional supply;

(c) The location and condition of said land with reference to other lands to be included in the proposed district;

(d) The cost and practicability of applying the proposed water supply to the irrigation of said lands, and the necessity and practicability of flood protection for said lands, if the same is sought to be included for flood protection purposes;

(e) The necessity and practicability of draining lands, either within or without the boundaries of said district;

(f) In general, any other matters which will enable the court to determine the question of whether such land should be included or excluded from said district. Lands which will not be benefited by the works of any such proposed district or lands already provided with adequate water supply for irrigation, where it is proposed to irrigate such lands, in whole or in part, from the works of such proposed district, or lands already provided with drainage, where it is proposed to drain such lands, in whole or in part, by the works to be constructed by such proposed district, shall not be included in said district or assessed for district purposes, except upon the written consent of the owner thereof, including all encumbrances, duly acknowledged in the manner provided by law for the acknowledgment of deeds.

(4) If, in the judgment of the court, the matters to be heard in connection with said petition can best be determined by reference of such matters, or any thereof to a magistrate, reference thereof may be ordered by said court and such order of reference shall expressly state what question shall be heard by said magistrate, when and where such hearing will be held, and the date on which the magistrate's report and findings shall be received and considered by the court. Said court may adjourn such hearing from time to time. If the court finds and determines that the organization of the proposed district is not in the best interests of the lands proposed to be included therein, the petition shall be denied and the proceedings dismissed. If the court finds that the formation of the district is meritorious and in the best interests of the lands to be included therein, the court by final order duly entered, shall define and establish the boundaries of such proposed district. When the boundaries of any proposed district have been examined and defined, the district court shall forthwith make an order allowing the prayer of said petitions defining and establishing the boundaries and designating the name of such proposed district.

(5) Thereupon said district court by order duly entered in said court shall call an election of all qualified electors of said district to be held for the purpose of determining whether such district shall be organized under provisions of this article and by such order shall submit the names of two or more persons from each of the five divisions of said district, who may be voted for as directors therein. For the purposes of said election the court shall divide said district into five divisions as nearly equal in size as may be practicable and shall provide that a qualified elector of each of said five divisions shall be elected as a member of the board of directors of said district by the qualified electors of the whole district. Each of said divisions shall constitute an election precinct and three qualified electors shall be appointed in each of said precincts, who shall act as judges to conduct the election in said precinct, one of whom shall act as clerk of said election.

37-44-105. Notice of election - voters - ballots. (1) The clerk of the district court of the county where said petition was presented shall thereupon cause a notice embodying said orders in substance, signed by the clerk of the said district court, to be issued, given, and published, giving notice of said election and the time and place thereof. The notice shall be published once a week for at least three weeks prior to such election in a newspaper of general circulation in each county into which any portion of such proposed district extends. In addition to the notice by publication, the clerk of the district court shall mail, postage prepaid, a printed copy of said notice of election to each of the owners of the lands proposed to be included in said district. Such notices shall be addressed to the last-known post office address of each of said owners as the same may appear from the certificates of the several county assessors theretofore certified to the court as provided in section 37-44-104, or which are otherwise made known to the clerk of said court, and said notices shall be mailed not less than two weeks prior to the election. The clerk shall certify and file, in the records of the proceeding, a list of the persons, and their addresses, to whom notices have been mailed.

(2) At all elections held under the provisions of this article, all persons are entitled to vote who are resident freeholders of agricultural lands within the said district or who are the owners of land to the extent of forty acres or more within said district and reside in the state of Colorado, and who are qualified electors under the general laws of the state of Colorado, and who have paid property taxes upon property located within said district during the three hundred and sixty-five days immediately preceding any such election.

(3) Electors not residing within the district are entitled to vote only within the precinct of such district wherein the majority of their lands are located. Any person entitled to vote shall also be eligible to election as director in and for the precinct of such district in which the major portion of his lands are located.

(4) The ballot to be used and cast at such election for the formation of such district shall be substantially as follows: "Internal Improvement District - Yes" or "Internal Improvement District - No", or words equivalent thereto, and shall also contain the names of persons to be voted for as members of the board of directors of said district and shall contain a sufficient number of blank spaces to permit each elector to write in the names of any persons for whom he may wish to vote as members of the board of directors. Each elector may vote for five directors, one for each precinct, and shall indicate his choice by placing a marginal cross upon the ballot opposite any name voted upon or by writing in the name of the person for whom he desires to vote, and shall also indicate his vote upon any question submitted by placing a marginal cross upon the ballot either for or against such question.

37-44-106. Canvass of votes. The district judge, within ten days after the returns of said election have been filed with the clerk of said district court by the judges of election in the various precincts of said district, shall proceed to canvass the returns of the votes cast thereat and if it is proven to said court that at least a majority of the legal electors in said district who are also the owners of more than one-half the total acreage included in said district have voted "Internal Improvement - Yes", the said judge, by an order duly entered in said court, shall declare such territory duly organized into an internal improvement district under the name and style theretofore designated and in said order declare the persons receiving respectively the highest number of votes in each election precinct for such several offices to be duly elected to such office. Said board shall cause a copy of such order, including a plat of said district, duly certified by the clerk of said district court, to be filed for record in the office of the county clerk and recorder of each county into which any portion of the lands situated in said internal improvement district extends and, after the date of filing such order, no portion of such district shall be included in or form a part of any other internal improvement district. From and after the date of such filing, the organization of such district shall be complete, and the officers thereof shall immediately enter upon the duties of their respective offices, upon qualifying in accordance with law, and shall hold such offices respectively until their successors are elected and qualified.

37-44-107. Plans for improvements. Upon qualification, the board of directors shall prepare, or cause to be prepared, a plan for the improvements for which the district was created. Such plan shall include such maps, profiles, plans, other data and descriptions as may be necessary to give the proper location and character of the work contemplated, and the specific property to be benefited thereby, that portion to be furnished with a supply of reservoir water for the irrigation thereof or to supplement inadequate water rights already appurtenant thereto, or used for the irrigation thereof, or any lands lying either within or without the boundaries of the district, the drainage of which may be deemed directly or indirectly beneficial to the lands within the district, and that portion of said district requiring flood protection; however, no system of drainage or irrigation already existing in said internal improvement district, or any drainage district, or irrigation district, or any water rights appertaining to or provided for any lands in said district after May 9, 1923, and not supplied by works constructed by such internal improvement district, shall be affected in any way by the passage of this article or the organization of said district.

37-44-108. Directors - powers and duties. (1) The directors, having duly qualified, shall organize as a board, elect a president from their number, and appoint a secretary. The board has power, and it is its duty, to adopt a seal, manage and conduct the affairs and business of the district, make and execute all necessary contracts, employ such agents, attorneys, officers, and employees as may be required, and prescribe their duties, and generally perform all such acts as shall be necessary to fully carry out the purposes of this article. The board of directors has power to construct, acquire, purchase, or condemn any drainage canals, reservoir sites, and such inlet and outlet works as may be necessary, or to acquire, by condemnation or otherwise, the right to enlarge any reservoir already constructed or partly constructed and to enlarge the inlet and outlet works thereof, or to purchase or acquire, by proceedings in eminent domain or otherwise, any reservoir, drainage system, or irrigation system already constructed or partially constructed and to enlarge and complete the same adequate to the needs of the district.

(2) No contract or award or judgment in eminent domain involving a consideration exceeding twenty-five thousand dollars shall be binding until such contract, award, or judgment has been authorized, ratified, or the payment thereof approved at an election in the same manner as is provided for the issue of bonds, and the necessity of submitting such matters to the approval of the electors shall not be avoided by entering into more than one contract with considerations of less than twenty-five thousand dollars where the whole transaction actually involved more than that amount.

(3) The board also has power to promulgate rules regulating the use of the water owned and controlled by said district, and all water owned by said district shall be apportioned and distributed for irrigation to each landowner in proportion to the benefits to said land as determined by the assessments levied against said land for irrigation purposes as provided in this article.

(4) The board of directors has the further power to lease or rent the use of water or to contract for the delivery thereof to settlers thereon or occupants of the public domain; except that, in such case, the board of directors has the further power to make a contract on behalf of the district with such settlers or occupants to the effect that any such settler or occupant, upon receiving full title to his land and upon the payment of his proportional share of the bond assessment and maintenance charges as fixed and determined by the board of directors of said district, shall include his land within said district, and such land upon such inclusion shall be entitled to all the rights and privileges of other lands of said district and subject to all of the provisions of this article. Before the execution of such contract, the board of directors shall cause a notice of such contract to be given for three successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in the county where the office of the district is required to be located, and a hearing upon said contract and all objections thereto shall be had as provided in this article.

(5) If upon said hearing the board of directors deems it for the best interest of the district not to execute said contract, the petition shall be rejected, but, if the board deems it for the best interest of the district that the contract be executed, the board shall execute said contract, and, in such case, the contract shall be valid and binding upon all parties thereto. When such settler or occupant has complied with said contract and obtained title to his land, upon proof of such compliance and obtaining of title and without any further notice or hearing of the matter, the board shall enter an order for the inclusion of said lands as provided in this article. If any settler or occupant fails or refuses to perform said contract, the board of directors, if it so elects, may rescind the contract and declare a forfeiture of any payments theretofore made, in which event said land shall no longer be entitled to any of the benefits to be obtained under said contract and shall not become a part of the district.

(6) The board of directors further has full power, in order to protect life and property within the district, to devise, prepare, execute, maintain, and operate any and all works and improvements provided for by the plan adopted and, to that end, may employ and secure men and equipment under the general supervision of the engineer of the district or, in its discretion, may let contracts for such work either in the whole or in parts. In order to protect life and property, and in order to drain, protect, or relieve land, which subject to overflow or washing or which is menaced or threatened by the normal flow, flood, surplus, or overflow of water of any natural watercourse, stream, canal, or wash, whether perennial, intermittent, or flood, and in order to effect the protection of the land and other property in the district, the board of directors is empowered to clean out, straighten, widen, alter, deepen, or change the course or terminus of any ditch, drain, sewer, reservoir, watercourse, pond, lake, creek, or natural stream, in or out of said district, necessary for the proper protection of the lands in said district from overflow, washing, or drainage by reason thereof.

37-44-109. Meetings of board - records. The board of directors shall hold a regular quarterly meeting in its office on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in January, April, July, and October and such special meetings as may be required for the proper transaction of business. All special meetings shall be called by the president of the board or any two directors. All meetings of the board shall be public, and three members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, and, on all occasions requiring a vote, there shall be a concurrence of at least two members of said board. All special meetings of the board shall be held at locations which are within the boundaries of the district or which are within the boundaries of any county in which the district is located, in whole or in part, or in any county so long as the meeting location does not exceed twenty miles from the district boundaries. The provisions of this section governing the location of meetings may be waived only if the proposed change of location of a meeting of the board appears on the agenda of a regular or special meeting of the board and if a resolution is adopted by the board stating the reason for which a meeting of the board is to be held in a location other than under the provisions of this section and further stating the date, time, and place of such meeting. All records of the board must be kept open to any elector during business hours. The board and its agents and employees have the right to enter upon any land in the district, to make surveys, and to construct such works as may be necessary for the proper operation of the district. The board also has the right to acquire all lands, water rights, franchises, and other property necessary to the construction, use, maintenance, repairs, and improvements of its canals, ditches, reservoirs, and works and also has the right by purchase or condemnation to acquire rights-of-way for the construction or enlargement of any of its ditches, canals, or reservoirs or lands for reservoir sites.

37-44-110. Title - tax exemption. The title to all property acquired under the provisions of this article, immediately and by operation of law, shall vest in such internal improvement district in its corporate name, and shall be held by such district in trust and is hereby dedicated and set apart for the uses and purposes set forth in this article, and shall be exempt from all taxation, and said board is hereby empowered to hold, use, acquire, manage, occupy, and possess said property.

37-44-111. Conveyances - power to sue. The board is hereby empowered to take conveyances or assurances for all property acquired by it under the provisions of this article and, in the name of such internal improvement district to and for the purposes expressed in this article, to institute and maintain any action or proceeding necessary or proper in order to fully carry out the provisions of this article or to enforce, maintain, and protect all rights, privileges, and immunities created by this article or acquired in pursuance thereof. In all courts, actions, or proceedings, the board may sue, appear, and defend in person or by attorneys and in the name of such internal improvement district. Judicial notice shall be taken in all actions and judicial proceedings in any court of this state of the organization and existence of any internal improvement district of this state, from and after the filing for record in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the certified copy of the order of the district court creating the same, and a certified copy of said order shall be prima facie evidence in all actions and proceedings in any court of this state of the regularity and legal sufficiency of all acts, matters, and proceedings therein recited.

37-44-112. Bonds. (1) For the purpose of constructing, purchasing, or acquiring necessary reservoir sites, reservoirs, canals, ditches, and works and acquiring the necessary property rights therefor, for the purpose of paying an amount not to exceed the first five years' interest on the bonds authorized in this article, and for the purpose of otherwise carrying out the provisions of this article, the board of directors of any such internal improvement district, as soon after such district has been organized as may be practicable, shall estimate and determine the amount of money necessary to be raised for such purposes and shall forthwith call a special election, at which election there shall be submitted to the electors of such district possessing the qualifications prescribed by this article the question of whether or not the bonds of said district shall be issued in the amount so determined. A notice of such election shall be given by posting notices in three public places in each election precinct in said district for at least twenty days and also by publication of such notice in some newspaper published in the county where the office of the board of directors is required to be kept once a week for at least three successive weeks.

(2) Such notice shall specify the time of holding the election, the amount of bonds proposed to be issued and the amount and rate of interest on such bonds proposed to be issued, and the dates when the percentage of principal or series of said bonds will become due, if serial bonds are contemplated, or the maturity date of the entire issue, as the case may be. At such election the ballots shall contain the words, "Bonds - Yes" or "Bonds - No", or words equivalent thereto, and also such appropriate words as shall enable the electors to indicate whether such bonds shall be redeemable at the option of the district at any time after their date or payable in series, and said election must be held and the result determined and declared in all respects as nearly as possible in conformity with the provisions of this article governing the election of officers, but no informality in conducting such election shall invalidate the same if the election has been otherwise fairly conducted. If a majority of the legal electors who are freeholders and taxpayers who represent a majority of the land within said district have voted "Bonds - Yes", the board of directors shall immediately cause bonds in such amount to be issued.

(3) If bonds are to be payable in series, each series shall consist of a definite percentage of the whole amount and number of said bonds. The time of maturity of the series of bonds and the percentage represented by each series shall be submitted to and approved by the electors at said election; but the last series shall mature in not more than fifty years from the date of said bonds, and the first series or percentage of the principal of said bonds shall become due not more than ten years from the date of said bonds, and the series shall be so arranged that some percentage of the principal of said bonds, never less than one percent, shall become due each year thereafter until the entire principal has been paid. If such bonds are made redeemable at the option of the district, they shall mature at a specific date not more than fifty years from their date of issue. If the optional form of bond is issued, the board of directors of the district, when funds are available for redemption purposes at any time before maturity, shall call for offerings for redemption and, out of the redemption fund provided for the payment of said bonds, shall pay any bonds presented for payment pursuant to such call to any holder thereof who offers the same for payment and redemption for the lowest amount below par, including accrued interest, to the extent of the funds available; otherwise said bonds shall be retired in the order of their issue numerically.

(4) The interest on said bonds shall be made payable semiannually on June 1 and December 1 of each year. The principal and interest shall be payable at the office of the county treasurer of the county in which the organization of the district was effected and at such other place as the board of directors may designate in such bond.

(5) Such bonds shall each be of the denomination of not less than one hundred dollars and nor more than one thousand dollars and shall be negotiable in form, executed in the name of the internal improvement district, and signed by the president and secretary, and the seal of the district shall be affixed thereto.

(6) Such bonds shall be numbered consecutively as issued and bear the date of their issue. Coupons for the interest shall be attached to each bond bearing the lithographed signatures of the president and secretary. Said bonds shall express on their faces that they are issued by the authority of this article, stating its title and date of approval. At the time of the issue of said bonds, each bond shall be registered by the county treasurer, who is ex officio treasurer of the internal improvement district, in a book to be kept by him for such purpose, and the interest thereon shall begin to run only from the date of such registry. Coupons evidencing unearned interest shall be detached and canceled. Each bond so registered shall have endorsed thereon the treasurer's certificate of such registration, and only such bonds so certified shall be valid, but such certificate shall be conclusive evidence that the bond so certified has been duly issued in full conformity with the provisions of this article.

(7) When the money provided by any previous issue of bonds has been exhausted by expenditures provided for in this article and it becomes necessary to raise additional money for such purposes, additional bonds may be issued, submitting the question by special election to the qualified voters of said district and otherwise complying with the provisions of this article in respect to an original issue of such bonds, but the lien for assessments for the payment of interest and principal of any bond issue shall be a prior lien to that of any subsequent bond issue.

37-44-113. Sale of bonds. (1) The board may sell bonds so issued from time to time in such quantities as necessary and most advantageous to raise the money for the construction of reservoirs or canals, or the purchase of reservoir sites, reservoirs, water rights and works, and otherwise to carry out the objects and purposes of this article. Before making any sale, the board at a meeting shall declare by resolution its intent to sell a specified amount of bonds and the day and hour and place of such sale and shall cause such resolution to be entered in its minutes and a notice of the sale to be published at least twenty days in a daily newspaper published in the city of Denver and in any other newspaper at its discretion. The notice shall state that sealed proposals will be received by the board at its office for the purchase of the bonds until the day and hour named in the resolution. At the time appointed the board shall open the proposals and award the purchase of the bonds to the highest responsible bidder or may reject any and all bids; but said board shall, in no event, sell any of said bonds for less than ninety-five percent of the face value thereof.

(2) The bonds and the interest thereon shall be paid by revenue derived from an annual assessment upon the real property of the district, and the real property of the district shall be and remain liable to be assessed for such payments as provided in this article.

37-44-114. Classification of lands. (1) As soon as the plans for the development of storage water and flood protection have been determined and before the actual work thereon is begun or bonds voted, the board of directors shall proceed to make special assessments for benefits by classifying the lands in the district in tracts of forty acres, more or less, according to the legal or recognized subdivisions, on a graduated scale to be numbered according to the benefits to be received by the contemplated supply of storage water or flood protection. The tracts of land which will receive more than about equal benefits shall be marked one hundred, and such as are adjudged to receive less benefits shall be marked with a lesser number denoting their percentage of benefit. This classification when established shall remain as a basis for the levy of such assessments as may be needed for the lawful and proper purposes of the internal improvement district, but, in any district where a classification has once been made and the board of directors believes from experience and results that such former classification was or is not fairly adjusted on the several tracts of land according to benefits, which classification may be adjusted by new or additional assessments, the board of directors shall disregard such former classification and make a new classification in accordance with justice and right. When the classification is completed, it shall be properly tabulated or shown by a map, or both, and filed in the office of the district for inspection.

(2) The board of directors shall cause to be personally served upon all parties owning land to be affected by the proposed supply of storage or reservoir waters or flood protection or other property liable to be assessed under this article and residing in the district a written or printed notice of the time and place where they will meet to hear and consider any objections that may be made to the classification of lands on the graduated scale, which notice shall be served in case of residence in the district at least ten days before the time set for the hearing by delivering a copy thereof to the party to be served. As to all persons not served personally, they shall be given notice by publishing the same in one public newspaper in each county into which such internal improvement district may extend, which notice shall be published in such newspaper once in each week until four successive weekly publications have been made, the last publication to be on a day previous to the day appointed for said hearing, and proof of the proper publication of said notice in the newspaper shall consist of the sworn certificate of the publisher of such newspaper, showing the publication to have been made in accordance with the provisions of this section.

(3) Such hearing may be adjourned from day to day by public announcement of the board of directors made at the hearing until all objections are heard. All persons duly notified of the first day of the meeting as provided in this section shall take cognizance of all adjournments without further notice. The affidavit of any creditable person that he has posted or served such notice as required by this section and the affidavit of publication of the publisher of such newspapers as to the publication of said notice shall be sufficient evidence of such facts.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Legal Classification of Special District Corporate Forms in Colorado", see 45 Den. L.J. 347 (1968).

37-44-115. Objections to classifications. At the time of said meeting, the board of directors shall hear any objections made by any interested person, and, if satisfied that any injustice has been done in the classification of the tracts of land, it shall correct the same in accordance with what is right, but, if not so satisfied, it shall leave the classification as first made and enter an order to that effect. Any person appearing and urging objections who is not satisfied with the decision of the board of directors may appeal its decision to the district court having original jurisdiction in the formation of said district within ten days after the decision of the board of directors was rendered by filing with the clerk of said court a statement in writing of his objections to the assessment made against him together with a bond with security conditioned to pay such taxes as may be finally levied upon the land in question and the costs occasioned by the appeal if the board of directors is sustained by said court.

37-44-116. Conduct of appeals. Appeals taken to the district court under the provisions of section 37-44-115 may be heard at any term thereof at such time as may be fixed by the court, and the cost of such appeal at the discretion of the court may be divided between the internal improvement district and the owner of the land who appeals the classification of the board of directors or assessed against either party. Either party may demand a jury to which shall be submitted all questions of fact as in other civil cases, and said cause shall be heard and determined as other civil causes. The classification as determined and fixed by the court shall be entered in the records of the district in which the lands are situate and thereafter shall be the basis upon which assessments for benefits are made.

37-44-117. Appeal not to delay. The taking of an appeal by any person as provided in section 37-44-115 shall not operate to delay the collection of any assessment from which no appeal has been taken or to delay the progress of the work or the issuing of any bonds.

37-44-118. Modification of classification. The board of directors shall modify such classification so that the same conforms to the changes made therein in the hearings before said board, and the secretary of the district shall certify and file said classification of property of the district so modified, properly tabulated or shown by a map or both, with the county clerk and recorder of each county into which said district extends. If on appeal said classification is modified, the board shall then modify the classification, and the secretary of the district shall certify and file the same with the clerk of each county in which the district is located.

37-44-119. Apportionment of levy. (1) On or before July 1 in each year, the board of directors shall determine the amount of money required to meet the current expenses of the district for the coming year, including the cost of construction, maintenance, including maintenance of drainage works, operating expenses, and any deficiencies in the payment of expenses already incurred, and bond interest unpaid, and also the amount of bonded indebtedness and the principal or interest which will fall due during the coming year and, by resolution, shall order such an amount of money to be raised by special assessment upon the lands of the district as may be necessary to raise the sum of money so determined, and such amount shall be apportioned among the several tracts in the name of the owner, when known, according to the acreage of each at its figure or classification on the graduated scale so that each tract may bear its equal burden proportionate to benefits.

(2) The secretary of the district shall make out a special assessment roll, hereinafter designated "assessment list", setting down in opposite columns the owners, names when known, and when unknown stating unknown, a description of the land, and the number denoting the classification of the assessment, which is current expenses and which is bonded indebtedness and interest thereon in separate columns.

37-44-120. Assessment. The assessment list shall be completed on or before July 15, and, on the first Tuesday in August in each year and from day to day thereafter, Sundays excepted, the board of directors shall sit to hear complaints and to correct errors in such assessments until all complaints filed with the secretary are presented to the board of directors and have had an opportunity to be heard and have been determined. The classification of any lands on the graduated scale shall not be changed or determined at said hearings.

37-44-123. Assessments affect land benefited. All districts organized under authority of this article shall be special or local improvement districts. The assessments levied by, for, or on behalf of any such district shall be local or special improvement assessments. Such assessments shall be determined and levied according to the benefits to accrue to each tract of land included in any such district and not otherwise. No tract of land so included shall be burdened by cumulative levies or otherwise for the payment of delinquencies or defaults in the payment of assessments levied against other lands in such district.

37-44-124. County treasurer ex officio district treasurer. (1) The county treasurer of the county in which is located the office of any internal improvement district shall be and is hereby constituted ex officio district treasurer of said district, and said county treasurer shall be liable upon his official bond and to indictment and criminal prosecution for malfeasance, misfeasance, or failure to perform any duty prescribed in this article as county treasurer or district treasurer, as is provided by law in other cases as county treasurer. Said county treasurer shall collect, receive, and receipt for all moneys belonging to said district. It is the duty of the county treasurer of each county in which any internal improvement district is located, in whole or in part, to collect and receipt for all assessments levied in the same manner and at the same time and on the same receipt as is required in the collection of taxes upon real estate for county purposes. The county treasurer of each county comprising a portion only of such internal improvement district, excepting the county treasurer of the county in which the office of said district is located, on the first Monday of every month shall remit to the district treasurer all moneys theretofore collected or received by him on account of said district. Every county treasurer shall keep a bond fund account and a general fund account. The bond fund account shall consist of all moneys received on account of interest and principal of bonds issued by said district, and said accounts for interest and principal shall be kept separate. The general fund shall consist of all other moneys received by the collection of assessments or otherwise.

(2) The district treasurer shall pay out of said bond fund when due the interest and principal of the bonds of said district at the time and place specified in said bonds and shall pay out of the said general funds only upon the order of the board of directors, signed by the president and countersigned by the secretary of the district. The district treasurer on the fifteenth day of each month shall report to the secretary of the district the amount of money in his hands to the credit of the respective funds showing the amount of warrants and bonds paid during the previous month and the amount of warrants registered, if any. All such district assessments collected and paid to the county treasurers shall be receipted for by said treasurers in their official capacity, and they shall be responsible for the safekeeping and disbursement and payment thereof the same as for other moneys collected by them as treasurers. Each county shall receive for the collection of such taxes such amount as the board of directors may allow, to be not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars per year, but the board of directors may allow such an additional amount to the county in which the office of the district is located, such additional compensation, as it may determine in any event, not to exceed the sum of five hundred dollars per year.

37-44-126. Election of officers - oath - bond. (1) The regular election of the district for the purpose of electing a board of directors shall be held on the first Monday after the first Tuesday in December of each year, at which time one director shall be elected for a term of five years; except that, at the first election held to choose the first board of directors after the organization of any internal improvement district has been effected, the person having the highest number of votes shall continue in office for the full term of five years, the next highest four years, the next highest three years, the next highest two years, and the next highest one year. If two or more persons in the same precinct have the same number of votes, their term shall be determined by lot under the direction of the judge of the district court having original jurisdiction of the formation of the said district. The person receiving the highest number of votes for any office to be filled is elected thereto.

(2) Within ten days after receiving their certificates of election provided for in section 37-44-135, said officers shall take and subscribe the official oath and file the same in the office of the county clerk and recorder wherein the organization was effected and, January 1 following, shall assume the duties of their respective offices. Each member of the board of directors shall execute an official bond in the sum of five thousand dollars, which bond shall be approved by the judge of the district court of the county wherein such organization was effected and shall be filed in the office of the county clerk and recorder thereof. All official bonds shall be in the form prescribed by law for official bonds for county commissioners; except that the obligee named in said bonds shall be the internal improvement district and shall be filed with the county clerk and recorder at the same time as the filing of the oath.

37-44-130. Administration of oath. Any judge or clerk of election may administer and certify oaths required to be administered during the progress of an election. Before opening the polls each judge and clerk shall take and subscribe an oath to faithfully perform the duties imposed upon him by law. Any qualified elector of the precinct may administer and certify said oath.

37-44-133. Canvass of returns - result. The board of directors shall meet at the office of the internal improvement district on the first Monday after an election and canvass the returns. If at the time of the meeting the returns have been received from all the precincts, the board of directors shall then proceed to canvass the returns. If returns have not been received from all precincts, the canvass shall be postponed from day to day until the returns have all been received or until six postponements have been had. The canvass shall be made in public by opening the returns and counting the votes of the district for each person voted for and for or against each question submitted at such election and declaring the results thereof. The board shall declare elected the person receiving the highest number of votes for each office and shall declare the result of the vote on any question submitted to the voters.

37-44-136. Filling vacancy. In case of vacancy in the board of directors, by death, removal, or inability from any cause to properly discharge the duties of a director, the board of county commissioners of the county where the office of said district is located shall appoint a director who shall hold his office until the next regular election in said district and until his successor is elected and qualified.

37-44-137. Collection of assessments. The revenue laws of this state for the assessment and collection of taxes on real estate for county purposes, except as modified by this article, shall be effective for the purposes of this article, including the enforcement of penalties and forfeitures for delinquent taxes.

37-44-138. Construction contract - bond. After adopting a plan for the construction of reservoirs and works for the protection of life and property and to furnish water for the irrigation of the territory embraced within the boundaries of the internal improvement district, or to drain lands within or without the boundaries of said district, the board of directors shall give notice, by publication thereof, not less than twenty days in a newspaper published in the county in which the office of the internal improvement district is located, provided a newspaper is published therein, and in such other newspapers as it may deem advisable, calling for bids for the construction of said works or any portion thereof. If less than the whole work is advertised, then the portion so advertised must be particularly described in such notice. The notice shall set forth that plans and specifications may be seen at the office of the board and that the board shall receive sealed proposals therefor and that the contract will be let to the lowest responsible bidder, stating the time and place for opening the proposals, which bids at said time and place shall be opened in public. As soon as convenient thereafter, the board shall let said work, either in portions or as a whole, to the lowest responsible bidder, or it may reject any or all bids and readvertise for proposals, or may proceed to construct the work under its own superintendence. Contracts for the purchase of materials shall be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder. The person to whom a contract may be awarded shall enter into a bond, with good and sufficient sureties, to be approved by the board, payable to said district for its use, for not less than ten percent of the amount of said contract, conditioned for the faithful performance of said contract. The work shall be done under the direction and to the satisfaction of the engineer in charge and shall be approved by the board.

37-44-139. Claims - audit - payment. Except with respect to claims coming within the provisions of article 10 of title 24, C.R.S., no claim shall be paid by the district treasurer until the same is allowed by the board, and only upon warrants signed by the president and countersigned by the secretary, which warrants shall state the date authorized by the board and for what purposes. If the district treasurer has not sufficient money on hand to pay such warrant when it is presented for payment, he shall endorse thereon "not paid for want of funds, this warrant draws interest from date at six percent per annum" and endorse thereon the date when so presented over his signature, and from the time of such presentation such warrant shall draw interest at the rate of six percent per annum. All claims against the district shall be verified, and the secretary of the district is authorized to administer oaths to the parties verifying said claims, the same as a notary public might do. The district treasurer shall keep a register in which he shall enter said warrants presented for payment, showing the date and amount of such warrants, to whom payable, the date of presentation for payment, the date of payment, and the amount paid in redemption thereof, and all warrants shall be paid in their order of presentation for payment to the district treasurer. All warrants shall be drawn payable to bearer the same as for county warrants.

37-44-140. Expenses of organization. For the purpose of defraying the expenses of the organization of the district, and the repair, operation, management, and improvement of all reservoirs, inlet works, outlet works, drainage works, canals, and works for the protection of life and property from floods, washing, and inundation, including salaries of officers and employees, the board may provide, in whole or in part, for the payment of such expenditures by levy of assessments therefor as provided in section 37-44-119, if the money raised by the sale of bonds issued is insufficient. In case bonds are unavailable for the completion of the plans of works adopted, the board of directors may provide for the completion of said plans by levy of an assessment therefor in the same manner in which levy of assessments is made for other purposes.

37-44-141. Works may cross other lands. The board of directors has the dominant power to construct said works across any stream of water, watercourses, street, avenue, highway, railway, canal, ditch, or flume which intersects or crosses the area covered by such works or reservoir site, and, if said board and such railroad company or the owners and controllers of said property, thing, or franchise so to be crossed cannot agree upon the amount to be paid therefor, or the points or the manner of said crossing, the same shall be ascertained and determined in all respects as is provided in respect to the taking of land for public uses. The right-of-way is hereby given, dedicated, and set apart to locate, construct, and maintain said works or reservoirs over, through, or upon any of the lands which are the property of the state.

37-44-142. Officers' compensation. The directors shall receive a salary at the rate of four dollars per day while attending meetings and for each day necessarily spent in attending to the business of the district and their actual and necessary expenses while engaged in official business. The salary of the secretary shall not exceed fifteen hundred dollars per annum. No director or any officer named in this article shall in any manner be interested, directly or indirectly, in any contract awarded or to be awarded by the board or in the profits to be derived therefrom, nor shall he or she receive any bonds, gratuity, or bribe; and for the violation of this provision such officer commits a class 6 felony and shall be punished as provided in section 18-1.3-401, C.R.S. He or she shall also forfeit his or her office upon conviction.

37-44-143. Limit of indebtedness. The board of directors, or other officers of the district, shall have no power to incur any debt or liability, either by issuing bonds or otherwise, in excess of the express provisions of this article, and any debt or liability incurred in excess of such express provisions shall be and remain absolutely void.

37-44-144. Insufficient supply. In case the volume of storage water from the reservoir or other works in any district shall not be sufficient to supply the continual wants of that portion of the district requiring reservoir water, then it is the duty of the board of directors to distribute all water available on certain or alternate days to different localities in proportion to the benefits for which the respective lands in said district have been assessed.

37-44-145. Judicial action on bonds. The board of directors of an internal improvement district organized under the provisions of this article may commence special proceedings, by which the proceedings of said board and of said district providing for and authorizing the issue and sale of the bonds of the district, whether said bonds have or have not been sold or disposed of, may be judicially examined, approved, and confirmed.

37-44-146. Petition for confirmation. The board of directors shall present to the district court in which the organization of the district was elected, a petition, praying, in effect, that the proceedings may be examined, approved, and confirmed by the court. The petition shall state the facts showing the proceedings had for the issue and sale of said bonds and shall state generally that the internal improvement district was duly organized and that the first board of directors was duly elected; but the petition need not state the facts showing such organization of the district or the election of said first board of directors.

37-44-147. Notice of hearing. The court shall fix the time for the hearing of said petition and shall order the clerk of the court to give and publish a notice of the filing of said petition. The notice shall be given and published for three successive weeks in a newspaper published in each county into which the district may extend. The notice shall state the time and place fixed for the hearing of the petition and the prayer of the petitioners and that any person interested in the organization of said district, or sale of said bonds, on or before the day fixed for the hearing of said petition, may move to dismiss or answer said petition. The petition may be referred to and described in said notice as the petition of the board of directors of ..... internal improvement district (giving its name), praying that the proceedings for the issue of said bonds of said district may be examined, approved, and confirmed by the court.

37-44-148. Answer or pleading. Any person interested in said district, or in the issue or sale of said bonds, may move to dismiss or to answer said petition. The Colorado rules of civil procedure respecting motions to dismiss and answer to a verified complaint shall be applicable to a motion to dismiss and answer said petition. The person so moving or answering said petition shall be the defendant to the special proceeding, and the board of directors shall be the plaintiff. Every material statement of the petition not specifically contradicted by the answer for the purpose of said special proceedings shall be taken as true, and each person failing to answer the petition shall be deemed to admit as true all the material statements of the petition. The rules of pleading and practice relating to appeals and appellate review as provided by law and the Colorado appellate rules which are not inconsistent with the provisions of this article are applicable to the special proceedings.

37-44-149. Determination. Upon the hearing of such special proceedings, the court shall find and determine whether the notice of the filing of the petition has been duly given and published for the time and in the manner prescribed and shall have power and jurisdiction to examine and determine the legality and validity of, and approve and confirm, the proceedings for the organization of said district, from and including the petition for the organization of the internal improvement district, and all other proceedings which may affect the legality and validity of said bonds and the order of sale and the sale thereof. The court, inquiring into the regularity, legality, or correctness of said proceedings, must disregard any error, irregularity, or omission which does not affect the substantial rights of the parties to such special proceedings. The court by decree may approve and confirm such proceedings in part and disapprove and declare illegal or invalid other and subsequent parts of the proceedings. The cost of the special proceedings may be allowed and apportioned between the parties, in the discretion of the court. Appeals for review of judgments of the district court may issue as provided by law and the Colorado appellate rules as in other civil cases.

ANNOTATION

Water conservancy act provides complete statutory scheme for the creation of water conservancy districts and their operation, including the grant of authority to set rates to the board of directors. It requires no further procedures, such as seeking public utilities commission approval of these rates. Matthews v. Tri-County Water Conservancy Dist., 42 Colo. App. 80, 594 P.2d 586 (1979), aff'd, 200 Colo. 202, 613 P.2d 889 (1980).

Water conservancy districts are not under public utilities commission jurisdiction. Matthews v. Tri-County Water Conservancy Dist., 42 Colo. App. 80, 594 P.2d 586 (1979), aff'd, 200 Colo. 202, 613 P.2d 889 (1980).

Applied in Purgatoire River Water Conservancy Dist. v. Kuiper, 197 Colo. 200, 593 P.2d 333 (1979).

37-45-102. Legislative declaration. (1) It is hereby declared that to provide for the conservation of the water resources of the state of Colorado and for the greatest beneficial use of water within this state, the organization of water conservancy districts and the construction of works as defined in this article by such districts are a public use and will:

(a) Be essentially for the public benefit and advantage of the people of the state of Colorado;

(b) Indirectly benefit all industries of the state;

- (c) Indirectly benefit the state of Colorado in the increase of its taxable property valuation;
- (d) Directly benefit municipalities by providing adequate supplies of water for domestic use;
- (e) Directly benefit lands to be irrigated from works to be constructed;
- (f) Directly benefit lands now under irrigation by stabilizing the flow of water in streams and by increasing flow and return flow of water to such streams;
- (g) Promote the comfort, safety, and welfare of the people of the state of Colorado.
- (2) It is therefore declared to be the policy of the state of Colorado:
  - (a) To control, make use of, and apply to beneficial use all unappropriated waters originating in this state to a direct and supplemental use of such waters for domestic, manufacturing, irrigation, power, and other beneficial uses;
  - (b) To obtain from water originating in Colorado the highest duty for domestic uses and irrigation of lands in Colorado within the terms of interstate compacts;
  - (c) To cooperate with the United States under the federal reclamation laws and other agencies of the United States government for the construction and financing of works in the state of Colorado as defined in this article, and for the operation and maintenance thereof;
  - (d) To promote the greater prosperity and general welfare of the people of the state of Colorado by encouraging the organization of water conservancy districts as provided in this article.
- (3) It is further declared that:
  - (a) The development, use, and conservation of water within this state is inextricably tied to the development and construction of works as defined in this article;
  - (b) The development and construction of such works shall be deemed to be the development, use, and conservation of water; and
  - (c) Such works are deemed to be a public use essential for the public benefit of the people of this state.

For article, "Irrigation Corporations", see 32 Rocky Mt. L. Rev. 527 (1960). For article, "Legal Classification of Special District Corporate Forms in Colorado", see 45 Den. L.J. 347 (1968).

This section declares the public policy of the state to be that of encouraging the organization of water conservancy districts. People ex rel. Dunbar v. South Platte Water Conservancy Dist., 139 Colo. 503, 343 P.2d 812 (1959).

Not every proposed water district is worthy of public sanction. People ex rel. Dunbar v. South Platte Water Conservancy Dist., 139 Colo. 503, 343 P.2d 812 (1959).

The general assembly has not stated that district formation, per se, is desirable. People ex rel. Dunbar v. South Platte Water Conservancy Dist., 139 Colo. 503, 343 P.2d 812 (1959).

Districts are state agencies and constitute a public purpose. The objects of this and following sections are of sufficient public benefit and advantage to the people of Colorado as a whole to constitute a public purpose and the water conservancy districts authorized by the act are state agencies and public corporations, and in them are vested powers which have come to be associated with true municipal corporations, including the power of taxation to further its purpose. People ex rel. Rogers v. Letford, 102 Colo. 284, 79 P.2d 274 (1938); Kistler v. Northern Colo. Water Conservancy Dist., 126 Colo. 11, 246 P.2d 616 (1952).

The general assembly, as a matter of public policy, believed that the formation of a conservancy district under the standards set forth in the act would further the public interest. People ex rel. Dunbar v. South Platte Water Conservancy Dist., 139 Colo. 503, 343 P.2d 812 (1959).

The functions of a water conservancy district are in no sense the functions of a state subdivision like counties, cities, and school districts. Northern Colo. Water Conservancy Dist. v. Witwer, 108 Colo. 307, 116 P.2d 200 (1938).

Applied in Southeastern Colo. Water Conservancy Dist. v. Huston, 197 Colo. 365, 593 P.2d 1347 (1979).

II. CONSTITUTIONALITY.

This section and following sections, constituting the water conservancy act, do not violate § 35 of art. V, Colo. Const., as the board of directors of a water conservancy district is not a "special commission" within the meaning of the appellation of that constitutional provision. People ex rel. Rogers v. Letford, 102 Colo. 284, 79 P.2d 274 (1938).

Such sections do not violate § 1 of art. XI, Colo. Const. The contention that this and following sections constituting the water conservancy act, constitute a pledge of the credit of cities and towns within a water conservancy district, contrary to the provisions of § 1 of art. XI, Colo. Const., is overruled. People ex rel. Rogers v. Letford, 102 Colo. 284, 79 P.2d 274 (1938).

This section and following sections, constituting the water conservancy act, do not violate § 8 of art. XI, Colo. Const., since only debts contracted for the supply of water to a city or town are expressly excepted by the constitutional provision. People ex rel. Rogers v. Letford, 102 Colo. 284, 79 P.2d 274 (1938).

Section § 8 of art. XI, Colo. Const., has no application. This and following sections constituting the water conservancy act do not contravene § 8 of art. XI, Colo. Const., as the latter section has no application to independent entities such as water conservancy districts. People ex rel. Rogers v. Letford, 102 Colo. 284, 79 P.2d 274 (1938).

Such sections do not violate § 14 of art. X, Colo. Const. The provision of the water conservancy act that the board of directors of a water conservancy district shall have power to levy and collect assessments upon people within the district does not violate § 14 of art. X, Colo. Const., since that section means only that a creditor of a municipality may not levy upon and sell private property of individuals within the corporation to pay the debts of the municipality. People ex rel. Rogers v. Letford, 102 Colo. 284, 79 P.2d 274 (1938).

Since § 13 of art. XIV, Colo. Const., provides only for the organization of cities and towns, consequently water conservancy districts do not come within the purview of the constitutional provision. People ex rel. Rogers v. Letford, 102 Colo. 284, 79 P.2d 274 (1938).

In addition, since § 14 of art. XIV, Colo. Const., provides that cities and towns created under special local laws may elect to become governed by the general laws of the state relating to such corporations, the constitutional provision is not applicable to water conservancy districts created under this and following sections. People ex rel. Rogers v. Letford, 102 Colo. 284, 79 P.2d 274 (1938).

This article does not violate art. III, Colo. Const. In an action involving the validity of this and following sections, constituting the water conservancy law, the contention that the act delegates nonjudicial functions to the district court in violation of art. III, Colo. Const., is overruled. People ex rel. Rogers v. Letford, 102 Colo. 284, 79 P.2d 274 (1938).

37-45-103. Definitions. As used in this article, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Acre-foot" or "acre-feet" may be substituted by any other commonly used unit for the measurement of water when appropriate.

(2) "Board" means the board of directors of the district.

(3) "Court" means the district court of that judicial district of the state of Colorado wherein the petition for the organization of a water conservancy district shall be filed.

(4) (a) "Elector" means a person who, at the designated time or event, is qualified to vote in general elections in this state, and:

(I) Who has been a resident of the district or the area to be included in the district for not less than thirty-two days; or

(II) Who or whose spouse owns taxable real or personal property within the district or the area to be included in the district.

(b) A person who is obligated to pay general taxes under a contract to purchase real property within the district shall be considered an owner within the meaning of this subsection (4). The payment of a specific ownership tax pursuant to law shall not qualify a person as an elector. Taxable property means real or personal property subject to general ad valorem taxes.

(c) For all elections and petitions that require ownership of real property or land, a mobile home or manufactured home as defined in section 38-12-201.5 (2), 5-1-301 (29), or 42-1-102 (106) (b), C.R.S., shall be deemed sufficient to qualify as ownership of real property or land for the purpose of voting rights and petitions.

(5) "Land" or "property" is used in this article with reference to benefits, appraisals, assessments, or taxes, as political entities, according to benefits received, and public corporations shall be considered as included in such reference in the same manner as "land" or "property".

(6) "Land" or "real estate" means real estate, as "real estate" is defined by the laws of the state of Colorado, and embraces all railroads, tramroads, electrical roads, street and interurban railroads, highways, roads, streets and street improvements, telephone, telegraph, and transmission lines, gas, sewer and water systems, water rights, pipelines, and rights-of-way of public service corporations, and all other real property whether held for public or private use.

(7) "Person" means a person, firm, partnership, association, or corporation, other than a county, town, city, city and county, or other political subdivision. Similarly, "public corporation" means counties, city and counties, towns, cities, school districts, irrigation districts, water districts, park districts, subdistricts, and all governmental agencies, clothed with the power of levying or providing for the levy of general or special taxes or special assessments.

(8) "Property" means real estate and personal property.

(9) "Publication" means once a week for three consecutive weeks in at least one newspaper of general circulation in each county wherein such publication is to be made. It shall not be necessary that publication be made on the same day of the week in each of the three weeks, but not less than fourteen days, excluding the day of the first publication, shall intervene between the first publication and the last publication, and publication shall be complete on the date of the last publication.

(10) "Works" means dams, storage reservoirs, compensatory and replacement reservoirs, canals, conduits, pipelines, tunnels, power plants, and any and all works, facilities, improvements, and property necessary or convenient for the supplying of water for domestic, irrigation, power, milling, manufacturing, mining, metallurgical, and all other beneficial uses.

ANNOTATION

This section gives a district court authority to form such districts only when the conditions stated in § 37-45-109 are found to exist. People ex rel. Dunbar v. South Platte Water Conservancy Dist., 139 Colo. 503, 343 P.2d 812 (1959).

Petitions for district formation must set forth a general description of the territory to be included in the proposed district, and where the territory actually included in a district is substantially different from the territory to be included the conditions stated in this section do not exist. In such a situation, the conditions which would give a lower court authority to form a district do not exist. People ex rel. Dunbar v. South Platte Water Conservancy Dist., 139 Colo. 503, 343 P.2d 812 (1959).

Any authority exercised by the district court following the organization and incorporation is limited to clear statutory provisions such as the filling of vacancies in the board of directors and is nongeneral in nature. Peaker v. Southeastern Colo. Water Conservancy Dist., 174 Colo. 210, 483 P.2d 232 (1971).

The general powers over the affairs of the district after incorporation are granted to the members of the board of directors by § 37-45-118, with the jurisdiction of the district court limited by this section. Peaker v. Southeastern Colo. Water Conservancy Dist., 174 Colo. 210, 483 P.2d 232 (1971).

37-45-109. Petition. (1) (a) Except as provided in subsection (2.5) of this section, before any water conservancy district is established under this article having a valuation for assessment of irrigated land, together with improvements thereon within the proposed district, of twenty million dollars or more, a petition shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the court vested with jurisdiction in a county in which all or part of the lands embraced in such proposed water conservancy district are situated, signed by not fewer than fifteen hundred owners of irrigated land situated within the limits of the territory proposed to be organized into a district but not embraced within the incorporated limits of a city or town; and each tract of land shall be listed opposite the name of the signer, each such tract, together with improvements thereon, to have a valuation for assessment of not less than two thousand dollars. Such petition shall be also signed by not fewer than five hundred owners of nonirrigated land or lands embraced in the incorporated limits of a city or town, all situated in the proposed district; and each tract of land shall be listed opposite the name of the signer, each such tract, together with improvements thereon, to have a valuation for assessment of not less than one thousand dollars.

(b) In the event a petitioner signs the petition both as owner of irrigated and nonirrigated land situated within a municipality, his name shall be counted only as an owner of irrigated lands. A signing petitioner shall not be permitted, after the filing of the petition, to withdraw his name therefrom.

(c) No district shall be formed under this subsection (1) unless the valuation for assessment of irrigated land, together with improvements thereon, within the proposed district, is twenty million dollars or more, and no city, or city and county, having a population of more than twenty-five thousand as determined by the last United States census shall be included within such district unless by and with the written consent of the chief executive officer of such city, or city and county, and with the approval of the legislative body of such municipality, and such consent may specify that the rate of taxation on the valuation for assessment of property within said city, or city and county, under section 37-45-122, shall not exceed a maximum rate which may be less than the rates set out in section 37-45-122, and, in such case, the district shall not have power to levy an assessment on the property in said city, or city and county, at a greater rate than that specified in said consent.

(2) (a) Except as provided in subsection (2.5) of this section, before any water conservancy district shall be established under this article having a valuation for assessment of irrigated land, together with improvements thereon, within the proposed district of less than twenty million dollars, a petition shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the court vested with jurisdiction in a county in which all or part of the lands embraced in such proposed water conservancy district are situated, signed by not fewer than twenty-five percent of the owners of irrigated lands to be included in the district but not embraced within the incorporated limits of a city or town; and each tract of land shall be listed opposite the name of the signer, each such tract, together with improvements thereon, to have a valuation for assessment of not less than one thousand dollars. Such petition shall be also signed by not fewer than five percent of the owners of nonirrigated land or lands embraced in the incorporated limits of a city or town, all situated in the proposed district; and each tract of land shall be listed opposite the name of the signer, each such tract, together with improvements thereon, to have a valuation for assessment of not less than one thousand dollars.

(b) In the event a petitioner signs such a petition both as owner of irrigated and nonirrigated land situated within a municipality, his name shall be counted only as an owner of irrigated land. A signing petitioner shall not be permitted, after the filing of the petition, to withdraw his name therefrom.

(c) No district shall be formed under this subsection (2) unless the valuation for assessment of irrigated land, together with improvements thereon, within the proposed district, is less than twenty million dollars, and no city, or city and county, having a population of more than twenty-five thousand as determined by the last United States census shall be included within such district unless by and with the written consent of the chief executive officer of such city, or city and county, with the approval of the legislative body of such municipality, and such consent may specify that the rate of taxation on the valuation for assessment of property within said city, or city and county, under section 37-45-122, shall not exceed a maximum rate which may be less than the rates set out in section 37-45-122, and, in such case, the district shall not have power to levy an assessment on the property in said city, or city and county, at a greater rate than that specified in said consent.

(2.5) (a) As an alternative to the procedures set forth in subsections (1) and (2) of this section, a petition for an election on the organization of a water conservancy district may be filed with the clerk of the court vested with jurisdiction in a county in which all or part of the lands embraced in such proposed district is situated. The petition shall be signed by not less than ten percent or two hundred electors of the proposed special district, whichever number is smaller. The proposed boundary of the special district may include any part or all of any city or city and county of any size. Such petition and the hearing thereon shall otherwise comply with the provisions of this article which are not inconsistent with the provisions of this subsection (2.5).

(b) On the day fixed for the hearing, or at a continuance thereof, the court shall first ascertain, from such evidence which may be adduced, that the required number of electors of the proposed district have signed the petition. Upon said hearing, if it appears that the petition for the organization of the district has been signed and presented in conformity with this subsection (2.5) and that the allegations of the petition are true, the court, by order duly entered of record, shall direct that the question of the organization of the water conservancy district shall be submitted at an election to be held for that purpose in accordance with the procedures set forth in sections 37-45-139 to 37-45-141. The court shall exercise all functions which are the responsibility of the board of directors of a water conservancy district as set forth in said sections.

(c) At such election, the voter shall vote for or against the organization of the water conservancy district. If a majority of the votes cast at said election are in favor of the organization, the court shall declare the district organized and give it the corporate name designated in the petition, by which it shall thereafter be known in all proceedings. However, if the proposed district includes any territory within a municipality and a majority of the votes cast by voters residing within that incorporated area are against formation of the district, the governing body of said municipality may, within thirty days after certification of the election results, petition the court organizing the district for exclusion from the district of all such incorporated territory, and the court shall exclude such territory from the district. Thereupon, the district shall be a political subdivision of the state of Colorado and a body corporate with all the powers of a public or municipal corporation.

(3) The petition shall set forth:

(a) The proposed name of said district;

(b) In cases where an election will not be held on the organization of the district, that property within the proposed district will be benefited by the accomplishment of the purposes enumerated in section 37-45-108;

(c) A general description of the purpose of the contemplated improvement and of the territory to be included in the proposed district. The description need not be given by metes and bounds or by legal subdivision, but it shall be sufficient to enable a property owner to ascertain whether his property is within the territory proposed to be organized as a district. The territory need not be contiguous if it is so situated that the organization of a single district of the territory described is calculated to promote one or more of the purposes enumerated in section 37-45-108.

(d) Whether or not any part of the proposed district is included within the boundaries of a district already in existence under the provisions of this article and, if so, the general description, as defined in paragraph (c) of this subsection (3), of the overlapping area;

(e) The valuation for assessment of all irrigated land within the boundaries of the proposed district if the district is to be organized without holding an election on the question of organization;

(f) A general designation of divisions of the district and the number of directors of the district proposed for each subdivision;

(g) A prayer for the organization of the district by the name proposed and, in the case of a petition for an election under subsection (2.5) of this section, a request for the holding of an election on the question of the organization of the district.

(4) No petition with the requisite signatures shall be declared void on account of alleged defects, but the court may permit the petition to be amended at any time to conform to the facts by correcting any errors in the description of the territory or in any other particular. However, similar petitions or duplicate copies of the same petition for the organization of the same district may be filed and together shall be regarded as one petition. All such petitions filed prior to the hearing on the first petition filed shall be considered by the court the same as though filed with the first petition placed on file.

(5) In determining whether the requisite number of landowners have signed the petition, the court shall be governed by the names as they appear upon the tax roll which shall be prima facie evidence of such ownership.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "When Corporate Stock Becomes Real Estate", see 21 Dicta 53 (1944).

Section 37-45-108 gives a district court authority to form such districts only when the conditions stated in this section are found to exist. People ex rel. Dunbar v. South Platte Water Conservancy Dist., 139 Colo. 503, 343 P.2d 812 (1959).

This statute requires as a prerequisite to the exercise of authority that a petition be first filed designating the boundaries of a district, so that it may be easily distinguished. This is for the benefit of the property owners. A property owner might be willing to sign for an improvement district as designated in the first petition, and might be unwilling to sign if a part of the property included within the boundaries of the district should be omitted; for this might have the effect of imposing upon the property owners additional and enlarged burdens which they did not contemplate when they signed the petition. People ex rel. Dunbar v. South Platte Water Conservancy Dist., 139 Colo. 503, 343 P.2d 812 (1959).

The sufficiency of the petition giving the court jurisdiction is to be determined on the record at the time of the hearing fixed in the order of publication and not otherwise. Hill v. District Court, 134 Colo. 369, 304 P.2d 888 (1956).

The function of requiring a petition to describe territory to be included and the purpose of the contemplated improvement is that a citizen may know what he is petitioning for. He is furnished a basis for estimating the quantities of water needed, the size of the tax base and population involved, and the benefit which might be anticipated in terms of the cost per acre foot of water supplied. Furnishing a "basis for estimating" various matters is a far cry from stating that a district's project must be completely planned in every detail prior to the time the petition is filed. People ex rel. Dunbar v. South Platte Water Conservancy Dist., 139 Colo. 503, 343 P.2d 812 (1959).

This section requires a petition to pray for the organization of a district by the name proposed, not some other name. People ex rel. Dunbar v. South Platte Water Conservancy Dist., 139 Colo. 503, 343 P.2d 812 (1959).

This section permits a petition to be amended at any time to conform to the facts by correcting errors in description of territories or in any other particular. People ex rel. Dunbar v. South Platte Water Conservancy Dist., 139 Colo. 503, 343 P.2d 812 (1959).

A desire to foreclose opposition by excluding lands or individuals is not a correction of an error in description nor a correction of an error in any other particular in originating petitions. People ex rel. Dunbar v. South Platte Water Conservancy Dist., 139 Colo. 503, 343 P.2d 812 (1959).

Subsection (4) may not be used to exclude originally included land. Subsection (4), permitting amendment of a petition to form a conservancy district to conform to the facts by correcting any errors in the description of the territory or in other particulars, does not authorize such amendment for the purpose of excluding territory originally included in the district. People ex rel. Dunbar v. South Platte Water Conservancy Dist., 139 Colo. 503, 343 P.2d 812 (1959).

Changes of scope and magnitude emasculate the notice and information requirements of the act. People ex rel. Dunbar v. South Platte Water Conservancy Dist., 139 Colo. 503, 343 P.2d 812 (1959).

It cannot be assumed that petitioners affixing their signatures to an originating petition would have done so had they known that the district to be created would be substantially different from that described in the original petition. People ex rel. Dunbar v. South Platte Water Conservancy Dist., 139 Colo. 503, 343 P.2d 812 (1959).

37-45-110. Bond of petitioners. At the time of filing the petition or at any time subsequent thereto and prior to the time of hearing on said petition, a bond shall be filed, with security approved by the court, sufficient to pay all expenses, including any expenses of an election, connected with the proceedings in case the organization of the district is not effected. If at any time during the proceeding the court is satisfied that the bond first executed is insufficient in amount, it may require the execution of an additional bond within a time to be fixed to be not less than ten days distant, and, upon failure of the petitioner to execute the same, the petition shall be dismissed.

37-45-111. Notice of hearing on petition. (1) Immediately after the filing of such petition, the court wherein such petition is filed, by order, shall fix a place and time, not less than sixty days nor more than ninety days after the petition is filed, for hearing thereon, and thereupon the clerk of said court shall cause notice by publication to be made of the pendency of the petition and of the time and place of hearing thereon; the clerk of said court shall also forthwith cause a copy of said notice to be mailed by United States registered mail to the board of county commissioners of each of the several counties having territory within the proposed district.

(2) The district court in and for the county in which the petition for the organization of a water conservancy district has been filed shall thereafter for all purposes of this article, except as otherwise provided in this article, maintain and have original and exclusive jurisdiction coextensive with the boundaries of said water conservancy district and of land and other property proposed to be included in said district or affected by said district, without regard to the usual limits of its jurisdiction.

(3) No judge of such court wherein such petition is filed shall be disqualified to perform any duty imposed by this article by reason of ownership of property within any water conservancy district or proposed water conservancy district or by reason of ownership of any property that may be benefited, taxed, or assessed therein.

ANNOTATION

- I. General Consideration.
- II. Hearing Date.
- III. Judicial Supervision.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

The sufficiency of the petition giving the court jurisdiction is to be determined on the record at the time of the hearing fixed in the order of publication and not otherwise. Hill v. District Court, 134 Colo. 369, 304 P.2d 888 (1956).

II. HEARING DATE.

Date of hearing is the date when pleadings are placed at issue. The wording of this section, requiring the setting of a hearing "not less than 60 days nor more than 90 days after the petition is filed" is a date which puts the respective petitions and pleadings at issue, the final determination of which lies in the sound discretion of the trial court in accordance with the evidence introduced. Hill v. District Court, 134 Colo. 369, 304 P.2d 888 (1956).

In the act there is a clear mandate that the courts act with all convenient speed to determine a matter of great public importance. However, this speed is for the benefit of the petitioners of a proposed district. As long as the matter is inactive objectors have lost nothing. Hill v. District Court, 134 Colo. 369, 304 P.2d 888 (1956).

The objectors to a petition for formation of a water conservancy district are not prejudiced by the continuation of the hearing thereon. Hill v. District Court, 134 Colo. 369, 304 P.2d 888 (1956).

A continuation does not divest the court of jurisdiction. Since the general assembly has provided that certain objections may be filed up to and including the date set for hearing, a petition for formation of a water conservancy district cannot stand fully at issue until the date of the hearing itself, and continuation of the hearing date beyond that set forth in the published notice does not divest the court of jurisdiction. Hill v. District Court, 134 Colo. 369, 304 P.2d 888 (1956).

III. JUDICIAL SUPERVISION.

This article, particularly subsection (2), grants the district court authority to supervise only the organization and incorporation of water conservancy districts. Peaker v. Southeastern Colo. Water Conservancy Dist., 174 Colo. 210, 483 P.2d 232 (1971).

Any authority exercised by the district court following the organization and incorporation is limited to clear statutory provisions such as the filling of vacancies in the board of directors and is nongeneral in nature. Peaker v. Southeastern Colo. Water Conservancy Dist., 174 Colo. 210, 483 P.2d 232 (1971).

It is improper for a district judge to maintain, in an official capacity, a close personal and financial relationship with a district. Such association is violative of the judicial impartiality requisite for the proper functioning of an adversary system of justice. Peaker v. Southeastern Colo. Water Conservancy Dist., 174 Colo. 210, 483 P.2d 232 (1971).

37-45-112. Protests and hearings on petitions. (1) (a) At any time after the filing of a petition for the organization of a conservancy district having a valuation for assessment of irrigated land within the proposed district, together with improvements thereon, of twenty million dollars or more, a petition protesting the creation of said district may be filed in the office of the clerk of the court wherein the proceeding for the creation of said district is pending. Such protesting petition shall be filed at least thirty days prior to the time fixed by order of court for the hearing upon the petition to create such district, and not thereafter.

(b) Any such protesting petition shall be signed by either: Not fewer than fifteen hundred owners of the irrigated lands in said proposed district, but not embraced within the incorporated limits of a city or town, the aggregate valuation for assessment of which, together with improvements, is not less than two million dollars and also signed by not fewer than five hundred owners of nonirrigated land or lands embraced in the incorporated limits of a city or town, all such situated within the proposed district, the aggregate valuation for assessment of which, together with improvements, is not less than one million dollars; or owners of property subject to ad valorem taxes within the proposed district, regardless of number, the aggregate valuation for assessment of which property is more than fifty percent of the total valuation for assessment of all property subject to ad valorem taxes within the proposed district.

(c) The signers of any such protesting petition shall state therein a description of the taxable property owned by each, the value thereof as shown by the last preceding assessment, and that they did not sign the petition for creating the proposed district.

(2) (a) At any time after the filing of a petition for the organization of a conservancy district having a valuation for assessment of irrigated land within the proposed district, together with improvements thereon, of less than twenty million dollars, a petition protesting the creation of said district may be filed in the office of the clerk of the court wherein the proceeding for the creation of said district is pending. Such protesting petition shall be filed at least thirty days prior to the time fixed by order of court for the hearing upon the petition to create said district, and not thereafter.

(b) Any such protesting petition shall be signed by either: Not fewer than twenty-five percent of the owners of the irrigated lands within said proposed district not embraced within the incorporated limits of a city or town and also signed by not fewer than five percent of owners of nonirrigated lands or lands embraced in the incorporated limits of a city or town, all situated within the proposed district; or owners of property subject to ad valorem taxes within the proposed district, regardless of number, the aggregate valuation for assessment of which property is more than fifty percent of the total valuation for assessment of all properties subject to ad valorem taxes within the proposed district.

(c) The signers of any such protesting petition shall state therein a description of the taxable property owned by each, the value thereof as shown by the last preceding assessment, and that they did not sign the petition for creating the proposed district.

(3) In the event a petitioner signs such petition both as owner of irrigated and nonirrigated land situated within a municipality, his name shall be counted only as an owner of irrigated lands.

(4) (a) Upon the filing of any petition either for or against creation of a district, it is the duty of the clerk of the court to make as many certified copies thereof, including the signatures thereto, as there are counties in which any part of said district extends.

(b) The court shall thereupon order the mailing of such copies to the appropriate county treasurers, which order shall include directions to the county treasurers to certify by a day certain such information contained in their official files as the court may deem necessary to resolve the issues of property ownership and valuation for assessment raised in or incidental to the petitions as filed.

(5) (a) Upon the day set for the hearing upon the original petition, if it appears to the court from the information furnished by the county treasurers, and from such other evidence as may be adduced by any party in interest, that a protesting petition is not signed by the requisite number of owners of lands and of the requisite values, as applicable, the court shall thereupon dismiss said protesting petition and shall proceed with the original hearing as provided in this section.

(b) If the court finds from the evidence that a protesting petition is signed by the requisite number of owners of lands and of the requisite values, as applicable, the court shall order an election on the question of the formation of the district in accordance with the procedure set forth in sections 37-45-139 to 37-45-141. The court shall exercise all functions which are the responsibility of the board of directors of a water conservancy district as set forth in said sections.

(c) The finding of the court upon the question of total valuation, the genuineness of the signatures, and all other matters of law and fact incident to such determination shall be final and conclusive on all parties and interests whether appearing or not.

(6) (a) Any owner of real property in said proposed district not having individually signed a petition for the organization of a conservancy district may file objection to the organization and incorporation of the district. Such objection shall be limited to a denial of the statements in the petition.

(b) The owner of any real property, or interest therein subject to ad valorem taxation, within the proposed district may file a petition with the court stating reasons why said property should not be included therein and praying that said property be excluded therefrom. Such reasons may include, but shall not be limited to, the absence of benefit to the said property derived from the proposed district and the fact that the exclusion will not interfere with the purposes of the proposed district. Such petition shall be duly verified and shall describe the property sought to be excluded. The court shall hear said petition and all objections thereto at the time of the hearing on the petition for organization as an advanced matter and shall determine whether said property should be excluded or included in said district. A final order of the court shall be entered on a petition for exclusion prior to and separately from any final order granting or dismissing the petition for the organization of the district.

(c) Any petitions or objections filed under paragraph (a) or (b) of this subsection (6) shall be filed at least thirty days prior to the time fixed by order of court for hearing upon the petition to create said district and not thereafter.

(6.5) (a) The only objections or protesting petitions allowed in the case of a petition for an election under section 37-45-109 (2.5) shall be those filed under paragraph (b) of subsection (6) of this section and those which protest that such petition for an election has not been signed and presented in compliance with said section.

(b) In the event that a petition is amended to request an election, any protesting petitions not allowed under paragraph (a) of this subsection (6.5) shall be dismissed by the court and the proceedings continued as provided in section 37-45-109 (2.5).

(6.6) Any petition originally filed under section 37-45-109 (1) or (2) may, at any time, be amended to request an election on the question of the organization of the district as provided in section 37-45-109 (2.5) if the original petition stated that it may be used in the alternative to request an election on the question of the organization of the district. Any such amended petition shall then conform with the petition requirements of section 37-45-109 (2.5), and any signers to the petition originally filed shall be considered valid signers on the amended petition so long as such signers meet the requirements of section 37-45-109 (2.5).

(7) Upon said hearing on a petition filed under section 37-45-109 (1) or (2), if it appears that the petition for the organization of a water conservancy district has been signed and presented in conformity with this article, and that the allegations of the petition are true, and that no protesting petition has been filed, or if filed has been dismissed, by order duly entered of record, the court shall adjudicate all questions of jurisdiction, declare the district organized, and give it a corporate name, by which in all proceedings it shall thereafter be known, and thereupon the district shall be a political subdivision of the state of Colorado and a body corporate with all the powers of a public or municipal corporation.

(8) In such decree the court shall designate the place where the office or principal place of business of the district shall be located, which shall be within the corporate limits of the district and which may be changed by order of court from time to time. The regular meetings of the board shall be held at such office or place of business but for cause may be adjourned to any other convenient place. The official records and files of the district shall be kept at the office so established.

(9) If the court determines that a petition for organization of a water conservancy district has not been signed and presented in conformity with this article or that the material facts are not as set forth in the petition, the court shall allow the petitioner thirty days within which to cure any defects as provided in section 37-45-109 (4) or to amend the petition as provided in subsection (6.6) of this section to request an election on the question of organizing the district. Any such amendment of a petition shall be valid if amended within said thirty days. If after said thirty days any defects are not cured or the petition is not so amended, the court shall dismiss the proceedings and adjudge the costs against the signers of the petition in such proportion as it deems just and equitable. No appeal or other remedy shall lie from an order dismissing said proceeding; but nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent the filing of a subsequent petition for similar improvements or for a similar water conservancy district, and the right to renew such proceeding is expressly granted and authorized.

(10) If an order is entered establishing the district, such order shall be deemed final and no appeal or other remedy shall lie therefrom, and the entry of such order shall finally and conclusively establish the regular organization of the district against all persons except the state of Colorado, in an action in the nature of quo warranto, commenced by the attorney general within three months after said decree, declaring such district organized as provided in this article, and not otherwise. The organization of such district shall not be directly nor collaterally questioned in any action or proceeding except as expressly authorized in this article.

(11) Nothing in this article shall be construed to affect districts organized prior to May 10, 1939, under the provisions of this article.

The same shall be filed with said division, and copies shall also be recorded in the office of the county clerk and recorder of each county in which a part of the district may be, where they shall become permanent records.

37-45-114. Appointment of board of directors. (1) (a) Within thirty days after entering the decree incorporating said district, the court shall appoint a board of directors of the district with backgrounds reflecting the agricultural, municipal, industrial, and other interests in the beneficial use of water within the district. Such board shall consist of not more than fifteen persons who are residents of the counties in which the water conservancy district is situated, all of whom shall be the owners of real property in said district and knowledgeable in water matters. Directors shall be appointed so as to generally achieve geographical representation. No specific number of directors shall be required to represent any specific interest in the beneficial use of water. In order to achieve geographical representation, the court shall appoint a director from each county within the district which contains more than one percent of the total land area of the district, which person shall be the owner of real property within the district and within said county. Based on the most recent federal census, the court shall appoint the remaining directors, so far as practicable, in the same proportion that the population of each county or portion thereof within the district bears to the total population of the district. Said directors shall reside and own real property within each county, or portion thereof within the district, which is entitled to such proportional representation. The district shall maintain, for public inspection at its offices during normal working hours, a current list showing the names, counties of residence, and expiration dates of the terms of each member of the district's board of directors. Not more than sixty days and not less than forty-five days prior to expiration of a director's term, the conservancy district shall publish notice, once in a newspaper of general circulation within the district, that applications for appointment as director will be accepted by the court until thirty days prior to the expiration of the director's term. The notice shall specify the address of the court to which resumes may be sent, shall specify that the applicant must have resided within the district for a period of one year and be the owner of real property within the district, and, when applicable by decree or revised decree, shall specify that the applicant must be the owner of real property within the particular county whose director's term is expiring. If the organizational decree of the district provides criteria for the appointment of board members, the provisions of this paragraph (a), regarding geographical and population criteria for appointment, shall not apply to districts which were created pursuant to this article prior to July 1, 1985, unless the court enters an order pursuant to paragraph (d) of this subsection (1).

(b) At the expiration of their respective terms of office as fixed by the court, appointments of one-third of the board, to the nearest whole number, shall be made by said court for terms of one year; a like number shall be appointed for terms of two years; and the remainder shall be appointed for terms of four years. Thereafter all appointments of directors shall be for terms of four years. The court shall fill, for the duration of the unexpired term, any vacancy which may occur on the board. Each director shall hold office during the term for which he is appointed and until his successor is duly appointed and has qualified and shall furnish a corporate surety bond at the expense of the district, in the amount and form fixed and approved by the court, conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties as such director.

(c) In the event that any water conservancy district extends into two or more judicial districts, or any parts thereof, the directors of such water conservancy district shall be appointed by the presiding district judges of all such judicial districts, who, sitting en banc, shall constitute "the court" for purposes of this paragraph (c) and paragraph (a) of this subsection (1). In the event of a disagreement regarding appointees, the presiding judge of each judicial district shall appoint the directors from each eligible county within his judicial district.

(d) The court which entered the organizational decree of a district created before July 1, 1985, may reopen the organizational decree in accordance with this subsection (1). If a petition to reopen any such organizational decree is filed with the court in which the decree was originally entered, such petition shall be signed by the board of directors in its discretion or by the owners of ten percent of the allocation of a district's water supply or by ten percent of the registered electors who have resided within the district for a period of one year and who are owners of real property within the district. The court shall promptly conduct a hearing for the limited purpose of reviewing and revising the organizational decree, if necessary to meet the criteria of paragraph (a) of this subsection (1), to specify the number of directors from each county according to the criteria of paragraph (a) of this subsection (1). After the initial reopening and revision of a decree under the provisions of this subsection (1), such decree may be reopened and revised only once every ten years if necessary to reflect the criteria of paragraph (a) of this subsection (1). Any revision to the decree shall take effect upon entry, but no provision of the revised decree shall remove a director then serving prior to the expiration of his term. A director whose term expires after a proper petition has been filed pursuant to this paragraph (d) shall continue to serve, and the court shall make no appointment of a successor director until such time as a revised organizational decree is entered pursuant to this paragraph (d) or until the court makes a determination that no revision is necessary. The revised decree shall stagger the terms of the directors so that no more than one-third of the terms of the directors shall expire in any given year.

(e) Upon petition or upon its own motion, the court may remove any director of a district board for malfeasance, misfeasance, willful neglect of duty, or any other cause which renders such director incapable or unfit to perform the duties of his office. Such action for removal of a director shall occur after notice and a public hearing, unless such notice and hearing is expressly waived in writing by the challenged director.

(2) In the event that a petition, signed by not fewer than ten percent of the registered electors residing in a county, or portion of a county entitled to a director, of a water conservancy district, which electors, for the purpose of this subsection (2), are those persons entitled to vote in general elections, praying for the election of a director from that county to fill the term of office of the specified director from that county then about to expire, in lieu of the appointment thereof by the court, shall be filed with the clerk of the court at any time prior to ninety days preceding the expiration date of the term of office of such director appointed by the court, the court shall order the holding of an election in the county, or portion of a county entitled to a director, in the district for the purpose of filling the vacancy to be caused by the expiration of the term of office of the director so about to expire in lieu of the appointment of a successor by the court as provided in subsection (1) of this section.

(3) Upon the entry of such order by the court, the clerk of the court shall prepare a certified copy of such order and file the same with the board of directors which shall thereafter provide for the holding of such election for the election of such member of the board of directors in accordance with the provisions of section 37-45-139.

(4) Any director so elected shall have the qualifications required for members of the board of directors appointed by the court and shall furnish like bond as required of directors appointed by the court under subsection (1) of this section.

(5) The call of such election shall be published as required by the provisions of section 37-45-140, and such election and the canvass of returns thereof shall be held in pursuance of the provisions of section 37-45-141.

(6) Repealed.

ANNOTATION

Board of directors of water conservation district is subject to the elective process, if steps are taken by the electors of the district as provided for in this section. Thus, if the electorate is dissatisfied with the operation of the district, they may demonstrate their discontent by exercising their right to initiate the elective process. Matthews v. Tri-County Water Conservancy Dist., 200 Colo. 202, 613 P.2d 889 (1980).

37-45-115. Organization of the board of directors. (1) Before entering upon his official duties each director shall take and subscribe to an oath before an officer authorized to administer oaths that he will support the constitutions of the United States and of the state of Colorado and will honestly, faithfully, and impartially perform the duties of his office and that he will not be interested directly or indirectly in any contract let by said district, which oath shall be filed in the office of the clerk of said court in the original case.

(2) Upon taking the oath, the board shall choose one of its number chairman of the board and president of the district and shall elect some suitable person secretary of the board and of the district who may or may not be a member of the board. Such board shall adopt a seal and shall keep in a visual text format that may be transmitted electronically a record of all of its proceedings, minutes of all meetings, certificates, contracts, bonds given by employees, and all corporate acts, which shall be open to inspection of all owners of property in the district as well as to all other interested parties.

(3) Each member of the board shall receive as compensation for the member's service such sum as shall be ordered by the court, not in excess of two thousand four hundred dollars per annum, payable monthly, and necessary traveling expenses actually expended while engaged in the performance of the member's duties.

(4) All special and regular meetings of the board shall be held at locations which are within the boundaries of the district or which are within the boundaries of any county in which the district is located, in whole or in part, or in any county so long as the meeting location does not exceed twenty miles from the district boundaries. The provisions of this subsection (4) may be waived only if the following criteria are met:

(a) The proposed change of location of a meeting of the board appears on the agenda of a regular or special meeting of the board; and

(b) A resolution is adopted by the board stating the reason for which a meeting of the board is to be held in a location other than under the provisions of this subsection (4) and further stating the date, time, and place of such meeting.

37-45-116. Meetings and records. (1) The meetings of the board of directors of a water conservancy district shall be subject to the requirements of part 4 of article 6 of title 24, C.R.S.

(2) A majority of the directors shall constitute a quorum, and a concurrence of a majority of those in attendance, in any matter within their duties, shall be sufficient for its determination, except as otherwise provided in this article.

(3) The board shall keep written minutes of its proceedings. The minutes of the board, as approved by the board, shall constitute prima facie evidence of the acts of the board recorded therein, and, when duly certified by the board's president or the board's secretary, copies of such minutes shall be received as evidence of the acts of the board in all courts equally and with like effect as the originals. The records of a water conservancy district shall be public records as defined by section 24-72-202 (6), C.R.S.

37-45-117. Employment of agents. The secretary shall be custodian of the records of the district and of its corporate seal, and shall assist the board in such particulars as it may direct in the performance of its duties. The secretary shall attest, under the corporate seal of the district, all certified copies of the official records and files of the district that may be required of him by this article, or by any person ordering the same and paying the reasonable cost of transcription, and any portion of the record so certified and attested shall prima facie import verity. The secretary shall serve as treasurer of the district, unless a treasurer is otherwise provided for by the board. The board may also employ a chief engineer who may be an individual, partnership, or corporation; an attorney, and such other engineers, attorneys, and other agents and assistants as may be necessary; and may provide for their compensation which, with all other necessary expenditures, shall be taken as a part of the cost or maintenance of the improvement. The chief engineer shall be superintendent of all the works and improvements, and shall make a full report to the board each year, or oftener if required by the board, and may make such suggestions and recommendations to the board as he may deem proper. The secretary and treasurer and such other agents or employees of the district as the court may direct, shall furnish corporate surety bonds, at the expense of the district, in amount and form fixed and approved by the court, conditioned upon the faithful performance of their respective duties.

37-45-118. General powers. (1) The board has power on behalf of said district:

(a) To have perpetual succession;

(b) (I) (A) To take by appropriation, grant, purchase, bequest, devise, or lease, and to hold and enjoy water, waterworks, water rights, and sources of water supply, and any and all real and personal property of any kind within or without the district necessary or convenient to the full exercise of its powers;

(B) To sell, lease, encumber, alien, or otherwise dispose of water, waterworks, water rights, and sources of supply of water for use within the district;

(C) To acquire, construct, or operate, control, and use any and all works, facilities, and means necessary or convenient to the exercise of its power, both within and without the district for the purpose of providing for the use of such water within the district and to do and perform any and all things necessary or convenient to the full exercise of the powers granted in this paragraph (b).

(II) Any works or facilities planned and designed for the exportation of water from the natural basin of the Colorado river and its tributaries in Colorado, by any district created under this article, shall be subject to the provisions of the Colorado river compact and the "Boulder Canyon Project Act." Any such works or facilities shall be designed, constructed, and operated in such manner that the present appropriations of water and, in addition thereto, prospective uses of water for irrigation and other beneficial consumptive use purposes, including consumptive uses for domestic, mining, and industrial purposes, within the natural basin of the Colorado river in the state of Colorado from which water is exported will not be impaired nor increased in cost at the expense of the water users within the natural basin. The facilities and other means for the accomplishment of said purpose shall be incorporated in and made a part of any project plans for the exportation of water from said natural basin in Colorado.

(c) To have and to exercise the power of eminent domain and dominant eminent domain and in the manner provided by law for the condemnation of private property for public use to take any property necessary to the exercise of the powers granted in this article; except that such district shall not have or exercise the power of eminent domain over or by means thereof to acquire the title to or beneficial use of vested water rights for transmountain diversion, and in connection therewith such district shall not have the power to carry or transport water in transmountain diversion, the title to which has been acquired by any municipality by virtue of eminent domain proceedings against any such vested rights;

(d) (I) To construct and maintain works and establish and maintain facilities across or along any public street or highway and in, upon, or over any vacant public lands which public lands are now, or may become, the property of the state of Colorado and to construct works and establish and maintain facilities across any stream of water or watercourse; except that the district shall promptly restore any such street or highway to its former state of usefulness as nearly as may be and shall not use the same in such manner as to completely or unnecessarily impair the usefulness thereof. The grant of the right to use such vacant state lands shall be effective upon the filing by such district with the state board of land commissioners of an application showing the boundaries, extent, and locations of the lands, rights-of-way, or easements desired for such purposes.

(II) If the land, rights-of-way, or easements for which application is made is for the construction of any aqueduct, ditch, pipeline, conduit, tunnel, or other works for the conveyance of water, or for roads, or for poles or towers and wires for the conveyance of electrical energy, or for telephonic or telegraphic communication, no compensation shall be charged the district therefor, unless in the opinion of the state board of land commissioners the construction of such works will render the remainder of the legal subdivision through which such works are to be constructed valueless or unsalable, in which event the district shall pay for the lands to be taken and for such portion of any legal subdivision which in the opinion of the board is rendered valueless or unsalable, at the rate of two dollars and fifty cents per acre. If the lands for which application is made are for purposes other than the construction of roads or works for the conveyance of water or electricity or telephonic or telegraphic communication, such district shall pay to the state for such lands at the rate of two dollars and fifty cents per acre.

(III) Upon filing such application, accompanied by map or plat showing the location or proposed location of such works or facilities, the fee title to so much of such state lands as shall be necessary or convenient to enable such district efficiently and without interference to construct, maintain, and operate its works and to establish, maintain, and operate its facilities shall be conveyed to said district by patent. If an easement or right-of-way only over such lands is sought by the district, such easement or right-of-way shall be evidenced by permit or grant executed by or on behalf of the state board of land commissioners. The state board of land commissioners may reserve easements or rights-of-way, in the public, across any lands in such patents, grants, or permits described for streets, roads, and highways theretofore established according to law. Before any such patent, grant, or permit is executed, any compensation due to the state under the provisions hereof must be paid. No fee shall be exacted from the district for any patent, permit, or grant so issued or for any service rendered hereunder.

(IV) In the use of streets, the district shall be subject to the reasonable rules and regulations of the county, city, or town where such streets lie, concerning excavation and the refilling of excavation, the relaying of pavements, and the protection of the public during periods of construction; except that the district shall not be required to pay any license or permit fees or file any bonds. The district may be required to pay reasonable inspection fees.

(e) To contract with the government of the United States or any agency thereof for the construction, preservation, operation, and maintenance of tunnels, reservoirs, regulating basins, diversion canals, and works, dams, power plants, and all necessary works incident thereto and to acquire perpetual rights to the use of water from such works and to sell and dispose of perpetual rights to the use of water from such works to persons and corporations, public and private;

(f) To list in separate ownership the lands within the district which are susceptible of irrigation from district sources and to make an allotment of water to all such lands, which allotment of water shall not exceed the maximum amount of water that the board determines could be beneficially used on such lands; to levy assessments as provided in sections 37-45-121 to 37-45-126 against the lands within the district to which water is allotted on the basis of the value per acre-foot of water allotted to said lands within the district; except that the board may divide the district into units and fix a different value per acre-foot of water in the respective units and, in such case, shall assess the lands within each unit upon the same basis of value per acre-foot of water allotted to lands within such unit;

(g) To fix rates at which water not allotted to lands, as provided in paragraph (f) of this subsection (1), shall be sold, leased, or otherwise disposed of; but rates shall be equitable although not necessarily equal or uniform, for like classes of service throughout the district;

(h) To enter into contracts, employ and retain personal services, and employ laborers; to create, establish, and maintain such offices and positions as shall be necessary and convenient for the transaction of the business of the district; and to elect, appoint, and employ such officers, attorneys, agents, and employees therefor as found by the board to be necessary and convenient;

(i) To adopt plans and specifications for the works for which the district was organized, which plans and specifications may at any time be changed or modified by the board. Such plans shall include maps, profiles, and such other data and descriptions as may be necessary to set forth the location and character of the works, and a copy thereof shall be kept in the office of the district and open to public inspection.

(j) To appropriate and otherwise acquire water and water rights within or without the state; to develop, store, and transport water; to subscribe for, purchase, and acquire stock in canal companies, water companies, and water users' associations; to provide, sell, lease, and deliver water for municipal and domestic purposes, irrigation, power, milling, manufacturing, mining, metallurgical, and any and all other beneficial uses and to derive revenue and benefits therefrom; to fix the terms and rates therefor; and to make and adopt plans for and to acquire, construct, operate, and maintain dams, reservoirs, canals, conduits, pipelines, tunnels, power plants, and any and all works, facilities, improvements, and property necessary or convenient therefor and, in the doing of all of said things, to obligate itself and execute and perform such obligations according to the tenor thereof; but the sale, leasing, and delivery of water for irrigation, domestic, and other beneficial purposes as provided in this section, whether the water is developed by the principal district or a subdistrict thereof, shall only be made for use within the boundaries of either the principal district or the subdistrict, or both;

(k) Repealed.

(l) To invest or deposit any surplus money in the district treasury, including such money as may be in any sinking or escrow fund established for the purpose of providing for the payment of the principal of or interest on any contract or bonded or other indebtedness, or for any other purpose, not required for the immediate necessities of the district in any legal investment or depository authorized by the provisions of part 6 of article 75 of title 24, C.R.S., and such investment may be made by direct purchase of any issue of such legal investment, or part thereof, at the original sale of the same or by the subsequent purchase of such legal investment. Any legal investment thus made and held may be sold from time to time and the proceeds reinvested in any such legal investment. Sales of any such legal investment thus purchased and held shall be made in season so that the proceeds may be applied to the purposes for which the money with which the legal investments were originally purchased was placed in the treasury of the district. The functions and duties authorized by this paragraph (l) shall be performed under such rules and regulations as shall be prescribed by the board. The board may appoint, by written resolution, one or more persons to act as custodians of the money of the district. Such persons shall give surety bonds in such amounts and form and for such purposes as the board requires.

(m) To refund bonded indebtedness incurred by the district under and pursuant to such rules and regulations as shall be prescribed by the board;

(n) To borrow money and incur indebtedness and to issue bonds or other evidence of such indebtedness;

(o) To adopt bylaws not in conflict with the constitution and laws of the state for carrying on the business, objects, and affairs of the board and of the district;

(p) To participate in the formulation and implementation of nonpoint source water pollution control programs related to agricultural practices in order to implement programs required or authorized under federal law and section 25-8-205 (5), C.R.S., enter into contracts and agreements, accept funds from any federal, state, or private sources, receive grants or loans, participate in education and demonstration programs, construct, operate, maintain, or replace facilities, and perform such other activities and adopt such rules and policies as the board deems necessary or desirable in connection with nonpoint source water pollution control programs related to agricultural practices;

(q) (I) To provide park and recreation improvements and services in connection with a reservoir owned by the district and adjacent land if such improvements and services are not already being provided by another entity with respect to the reservoir and adjacent land.

(II) Once the board adopts a resolution to provide improvements and services pursuant to this paragraph (q), no other entity may provide park and recreation improvements and services with respect to the reservoir and adjacent land without the consent of the board.

(III) The district may exercise any powers that a park and recreation district has in connection with the provision of park and recreation improvements and services, including imposing rates, fees, and charges in connection with the improvements and services. The district may use any district revenues to provide the improvements and services.

(2) Nothing provided in this article shall be construed to grant to the district or board the power to generate, distribute, sell, or contract to sell electric energy except for the operation of the works and facilities of the district and except for wholesale sales of electric energy which may be made both within and without the boundaries of the district or subdistrict.

Constitutional and statutory provisions not applicable. The language of § 8 of art. XVI, Colo. Const., and of article 85 of title 37, is not applicable to a political subdivision of the state of Colorado. Matthews v. Tri-County Water Conservancy Dist., 200 Colo. 202, 613 P.2d 889 (1980).

Such provisions are only applicable to private parties. The framers intended, and the general assembly understood, that § 8 of art. XVI, Colo. Const., was applicable only to private persons or corporations engaged in the business of storage, carriage, and sale of water for irrigation, mining, milling, manufacturing, or domestic purposes. Matthews v. Tri-County Water Conservancy Dist., 200 Colo. 202, 613 P.2d 889 (1980).

District compelled to obey section in formation and function. A legislatively created water conservancy district is compelled to obey the mandate of this section, not only in how the district is formed but also in how the district

Dunbar v. South Platte Water Conservancy Dist.*, 139 Colo. 503, 343 P.2d 812 (1959).

Board has duty to determine extent of property necessary to be taken. In the exercise of the broad power vested in the district board, there is a duty to determine, among other things, the extent of the property necessary to be taken to accomplish the public purpose, and its determination of the question, in the absence of fraud or bad faith, is final; accordingly the failure of the court to appoint a commission to determine the necessity of taking land above the high-water line of the lake involved, or to be involved, was not error. Kistler v. Northern Colo. Water Conservancy Dist., 126 Colo. 11, 246 P.2d 616 (1952).

Water conservancy districts, when fixing rates for sale of water, are not subject to the jurisdiction of the boards of county commissioners. Matthews v. Tri-County Water Conservancy Dist., 200 Colo. 202, 613 P.2d 889 (1980).

Water conservancy districts are not public utilities subject to the regulation of the public utilities commission. Matthews v. Tri-County Water Conservancy Dist., 200 Colo. 202, 613 P.2d 889 (1980).

The power of a conservancy district to engage in rate fixing for the sale, leasing or disposition of its waters does not by this authority alone give it public utility status or subject it to the rules, regulations, and supervision of the public utilities commission. Matthews v. Tri-County Water Conservancy Dist., 200 Colo. 202, 613 P.2d 889 (1980).

A water conservancy district, a political subdivision of the state, having the powers of a public or municipal corporation and having no obligation to sell, and being prohibited by statute from selling water for use outside the district boundaries, does not rationally fall within the definition of a public utility or within the regulatory control of the public utilities commission. Matthews v. Tri-County Water Conservancy Dist., 200 Colo. 202, 613 P.2d 889 (1980).

37-45-119. Power to acquire rights-of-way. Whenever, pursuant to this article, the electors of a water conservancy district have authorized a contract with the United States for construction and acquisition of works and water rights, which contract has obligated the district to acquire rights-of-way therefor to be conveyed by the district to the United States upon reimbursement by the United States, then the district, without further election and through its board of directors, has power to do all acts for acquiring such rights-of-way, including borrowing of and paying interest upon such sums of money as shall be required to make deposits fixed by the court for possession and to pay awards on condemnation of said rights-of-way as well as amounts up to the appraised values of the particular rights-of-way as have been fixed by the appraisers for the United States in each instance of negotiated purchases, notwithstanding the sum borrowed shall be greater than the ordinary annual incomes and revenues of the district; and all debts incurred, and interest payments made prior to February 5, 1943, for the aforesaid purposes, are expressly authorized, ratified, and approved.

petition shall fulfill the same requirements concerning the subdistricts as the petition outlined in section 37-45-109 is required to fulfill, concerning the organization of the main district, and shall be filed with the clerk of the court, and shall be accompanied by a bond as provided for in section 37-45-110. All proceedings relating to the organization of such subdistricts shall conform in all things to the provision of this article relating to the organization of districts; except that not more than a majority of the owners of lands, having one-half or more of the aggregate valuation for assessment of the lands in the proposed subdistrict, shall be required to sign the petition for the creation of a subdistrict and not more than twenty-five percent of the owners of lands in the proposed subdistrict shall be required to sign the protesting petition against the creation of such subdistrict.

(2) Whenever the court declares and decrees by its order duly entered of record such subdistricts to be organized, the clerk of said court shall thereupon give notice of such order to the directors of the district who shall thereupon act also as directors of the subdistrict. Thereafter, the proceedings in reference to the subdistrict in all matters shall conform to the provisions of this article; except that, in the appraisal of benefits for the purpose of such subdistricts, in the issuance of bonds, in levying of assessments, and in all other matters affecting only the subdistrict, the provisions of this article shall apply to the subdistrict as though it were an independent district, and it shall not in these things be amalgamated with the main district.

(3) The petition for organization of a subdistrict shall also contain a statement of the amount or quantity of water for which said subdistrict desires to acquire the perpetual use and the amount of money that said subdistrict is willing to pay therefor, and, prior to the entry of its decree organizing any territory into a subdistrict, the court shall obtain the verified consent of the board to furnish such perpetual use of water for the purposes therein specified to such subdistrict at a price and upon the terms mentioned in the petition. The court shall then be authorized to enter its decree of organization of such subdistrict.

Classification of taxes and assessments - powers. (1) In addition to the other means of providing revenue for such districts, the board has the power to levy and collect taxes and special assessments for maintaining and operating such works and paying the obligations and indebtedness of the district by any one or more of the methods or combinations thereof, classified as follows:

(a) Class A: To levy and collect taxes upon all property within the district as provided in section 37-45-122;

(b) Class B: To levy and collect assessments for special benefits accruing to property within municipalities for which use of water or capacity of works is allotted as provided in section 37-45-123;

(c) Class C: To levy and collect assessments for special benefits accruing to property within public corporations for which use of water or capacity of works is allotted as provided in section 37-45-124;

(d) Class D: To levy and collect assessments for special benefits accruing to lands for which use of water or capacity of works is allotted as provided in section 37-45-125.

The so-called assessments for special benefits provided for in classes B, C, and D of this section are unique in character and are not directly analogous to special assessments as they generally are known in ordinary local improvement districts, since the liability for these assessments can arise only by the voluntary act of the individuals and corporations affected, and such assessments cannot be held violative of § 25 of art. II, Colo. Const., as each individual landowner and designated corporation agrees to process before he or it becomes subject to any special assessment. *People ex rel. Rogers v. bly upon the district here involved is found in § 7 of art. X; Colo. Const., and in this grant of power lies the distinction between a water conservancy district under this act and the irrigation districts authorized by the Colorado irrigation district act of 1935. The public character of the water conservancy district is the occasion for this difference. People ex rel. Rogers v. Letford, 102 Colo. 284, 79 P.2d 274 (1938).

A water conservancy district is not required to employ all methods authorized by this section for the levy and collection of taxes, but rather may limit its means of providing revenues for the district to the levy and collection of taxes upon all property within the district, thereby collecting taxes from those who did not receive project water. *Pueblo West Metro v. The specific ownership tax on motor vehicles, trailers, and semi-trailers, authorized by § 42-3-102, is not to be allotted in part to water conservation districts unless it is clear that such was the intention of the general assembly. But a water conservation district is not a "political subdivision" within the meaning of § 6 of art. X, Colo. Const., directing the general assembly to impose such specific ownership tax. Northern Colo. Water Conservancy Dist. v. Witwer, 108 Colo. 307, 116 P.2d 200 (1941).

37-45-122. Levy and collection under class A. (1) As to any district formed prior to April 22, 1957, to levy and collect taxes under class A, in each year, the board shall determine the amount of money necessary to be raised by taxation, taking into consideration other sources of revenue of the district, and shall fix a rate of levy which when levied upon every dollar of valuation for assessment of property within the district and with other revenues will raise the amount required by the district to supply funds for paying expenses of organization, for surveys and plans, and for paying the costs of construction of, operating, and maintaining the works of the district. The rate shall not exceed one-half mill on the dollar, prior to the delivery of water from the works, and thereafter shall not exceed one mill on the dollar of valuation for assessment of the property within the district, except in the event of accruing defaults or deficiencies when an additional levy may be made as provided in section 37-45-126.

(2) (a) As to any district formed subsequent to April 22, 1957, to levy and collect taxes under class A, in each year, the board shall determine the amount of money necessary to be raised by taxation, taking into consideration other sources of revenue of the district, and shall fix a rate of levy which, when levied on every dollar of valuation for assessment of property within the district and with other revenues, will raise the amount required by the district to supply funds for paying expenses of organization, for surveys and plans, and for paying the costs of construction of and operating and maintaining the works of the district; except that said rate shall not exceed:

(I) In the case of a district having a valuation for assessment when formed of not more than twenty million dollars, one and one-half mill on each dollar of valuation for assessment of property within the district prior to the delivery of water from the works and thereafter not to exceed three mills on each dollar of valuation for assessment;

(II) In the case of a district having a valuation for assessment when formed of more than twenty million dollars but not more than fifty million dollars, one mill on each dollar of valuation for assessment of property within the district prior to the delivery of water from the works and thereafter not to exceed two mills on each dollar of valuation for assessment;

(III) In the case of a district having a valuation for assessment when formed of more than fifty million dollars, not to exceed one-half mill on each dollar of valuation for assessment of property within the district prior to the delivery of water from the works and thereafter not to exceed one mill on each dollar of valuation for assessment of the property within the district.

(b) In the event of accruing defaults or deficiencies, a levy in addition to those prescribed in paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) may be made as provided in section 37-45-126.

(3) In accordance with the schedule prescribed by section 39-5-128, C.R.S., the board shall certify to the board of county commissioners of each county within the district, or having a portion of its territory within the district, the rate so fixed with directions that, at the time and in the manner required by law for levying of taxes for county purposes, such board of county commissioners shall levy such tax upon the valuation for assessment of all property within the district, in addition to such other taxes as may be levied by such board of county commissioners at the rate so fixed and determined.

(4) (a) Any district may increase the maximum mill levy to no more than nine mills for districts described in subparagraph (I) of paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of this section, to no more than six mills for districts described in subparagraph (II) of paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of this section, and to no more than three mills for districts described in subparagraph (III) of paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of this section, but any such increase in a mill levy shall be made in accordance with the election procedure provided in this subsection (4).

(b) Whenever the board of directors of the district, by resolution adopted by a majority of all of the members of the board, determines that the interests of said district and the public interest or necessity demand an increase in the mill levy for such district not greater than the maximum mill levy prescribed in paragraph (a) of this subsection (4) for the purposes therein stated, said board shall order the submission of the proposition to the electors of the district at an election held for that purpose. Any election held for the purpose of submitting any such proposition may be held separately or may be consolidated or held concurrently with any other election authorized by law at which such electors of the district shall be entitled to vote.

(c) The declaration of such election may be included within the same resolution, which resolution, in addition to such declaration of public interest or necessity, shall recite the maximum mill levy proposed which shall be no greater than that authorized by paragraph (a) of this subsection (4) for a district of like size. Such resolution shall also fix the date upon which such election shall be held and the manner of holding the same and the method of voting for or against the increase in mill levy. Such resolution shall also fix the compensation to be paid the officers of the election and shall designate the precincts and polling places and shall appoint for each polling place, from each precinct from the electors thereof, the officers of such election, which officers shall consist of three judges, one of whom shall act as a clerk, who shall constitute a board of election for each polling place. The description of precincts may be made by reference to any order of the board of county commissioners of the county in which the district or any part thereof is situated or by reference to any previous order or resolution of the board or by detailed description of such precincts. Precincts established by boards of the various counties may be consolidated for special elections held under this article.

(d) In the event any such election is called to be held concurrently with any other election or is consolidated therewith, the resolution calling the election under this article need not designate precincts or polling places or names of officers of the election but shall contain reference to the act or order calling such other election and fixing the precincts and polling places and appointing the election officers therefrom. The resolution shall be published once a week for two consecutive weeks, the last publication of which shall be at least ten days prior to the date set for said election, in a newspaper of general circulation, printed and published within the district, and no other or further notice of such election or publication of the names of election officers or of the precincts or polling places need be given or made.

(e) The election shall be conducted in accordance with the provisions of section 37-45-141 and in the same manner as elections held in accordance with the provisions of section 37-45-142. In the event that the increase in the mill levy of the district is approved, the board of directors shall be authorized to levy taxes at the rate authorized in the election. If the proposition of increasing such mill levy is defeated, the board of directors may continue to levy taxes at rates not exceeding those authorized prior to such election.

37-45-123. Levy and collection under class B. (1) (a) To levy and collect special assessments under class B, the board shall make an allotment of water or of capacity of specified works to each petitioning municipality in the district in the manner provided in this article and in such quantity as will in the judgment of the board, when added to the then present supply of water of such municipality in the case of an allotment of water, or when added to the then present supply of capacity of all other works of such municipality in the case of an allotment of capacity of specified works, make an adequate supply for such municipality and shall fix and determine the rate and the terms upon which such water or capacity of such works shall be sold, leased, contracted for, or otherwise disposed of for use by such municipalities; except that such rates shall be equitable although not necessarily equal or uniform for like classes of services throughout the district and no municipality shall be required to make payments to secure or cover the default or failure of performance pertaining to capital debt of any other participating municipality which participates in a project in which the capacity of the specified works has been allotted to two or more participants.

(b) The board shall examine all rates charged for like classes of service throughout the district and shall by rule and regulation adjust such rates periodically as needed to make such rates within any such class of service equitable.

(2) In the event any city, city and county, or town desires to purchase, lease, contract for, or otherwise obtain the beneficial use of waters or capacity of works of the district for domestic, irrigation, or other beneficial purposes, the legislative body of such municipality shall by ordinance authorize and direct its mayor and clerk to petition the board for an allotment of water or capacity of specified works, upon terms prescribed by the board, which petition shall contain, inter alia, the following:

- (a) Name of municipality;
- (b) Quantity of water or capacity of works for which an allotment is sought;
- (c) Rate to be paid;
- (d) Whether payments are to be in cash or annual installments;

(e) Agreement by the municipality to make payments for the beneficial use of such water or capacity of works together with annual maintenance and operating charges and to be bound by the provisions of this article and the rules and regulations of the board.

(3) The secretary of the board shall cause notice of the filing of such petition to be given and published once each week for two successive weeks, in a newspaper published in the county in which said municipality is situated, which notice shall state the filing of such petition and give notice to all persons interested to appear at the office of the board, at a time named in said notice and show cause, in writing, if any they have, why the petition should not be granted.

(4) The board at the time and place mentioned in said notice or at such time to which the hearing of said petition may adjourn, shall proceed to hear the petition and objections thereto, presented in writing, by any person showing cause why said petition should not be granted. The failure of any person interested to show cause shall be deemed an assent on such person's part to the granting of said petition. At its discretion, the board may accept or reject said petition; but, if it deems it for the best interest of the district that said petition be granted, the board shall enter an order granting said petition, and, from and after such order, the said municipality shall be deemed to have purchased, leased, contracted for, or otherwise acquired the beneficial use of water or capacity of works as set forth in said order.

(5) If said petition is granted, the board shall determine the amount of money necessary to be raised by taxation in each year from property within such municipality to pay the annual installments and a fair proportionate amount of estimated operating and maintenance charges for the next succeeding year, as provided in the order granting said petition, and shall prepare a statement showing the tax rate to be applied to all property in such municipality, which rate shall be the rate fixed by resolution of the board, modified to the extent necessary to produce from each such municipality only the amount of money apportioned thereto in said resolution, less any amount paid or undertaken to be paid by such municipality in cash or as credited thereto by payments from the general funds of such municipality. Upon receipt by the board of county commissioners of each county, wherein such municipality is located, of a certified copy of such resolution showing the tax rate to be applied to all property in each municipality and showing the municipalities and the property which is exempt therefrom, if any, it is the duty of the county officers to levy and collect such tax in addition to such other tax as may be levied by such board of county commissioners at the rate so fixed and determined.

ANNOTATION

Class B allottee agrees to pay a specific price per square foot. For a class B water allotment to municipalities, as to class C allotments to irrigation districts and as to individual allotments under class D, the allottee in a petition for allotment agrees to pay a specific price per acre-foot for water and must in the application agree to pay the tax rate above the general tax that is fixed each year by the district board. The board first accepts the petition — then annually fixes the rate of tax after the allottee is bound to the purchase. People ex rel. Dunbar v. South Platte Water Conservancy Dist., 139 Colo. 503, 343 P.2d 812 (1959).

37-45-124. Levy and collection under class C. (1) (a) To levy and collect special assessments upon lands under class C, the board shall make an allotment of water or of capacity of specified works to each of the petitioning public corporations, other than municipalities, within the district in the manner as provided in this section, in such quantity as will in the judgment of the board, when added to the present supply of water of such public corporation in the case of an allotment of water, or when added to the then present supply of capacity of all other works of such public corporation in the case of an allotment of capacity of specified works, make an adequate supply for such public corporation and shall fix and determine the rate and terms at which such water or capacity of works shall be sold, leased, contracted for, or otherwise disposed of to such public corporation; except that such rates shall be equitable although not necessarily equal or uniform for like classes of services throughout the district.

(b) The board shall examine all rates charged for like classes of service throughout the district and shall by rule and regulation adjust such rates periodically as needed to make such rates within any such class of service equitable.

(2) In the event any such public corporation desires to purchase, lease, contract for, or otherwise obtain the beneficial use of waters or capacity of works of the district, the board of such public corporation by resolution shall authorize and direct its president and secretary to petition the board for an allotment of water or of capacity of specified works, upon terms prescribed by the board, which petition shall contain, inter alia, the following:

- (a) Name of public corporation;
- (b) Quantity of water or capacity of works for which allotment is sought;
- (c) Rate to be paid;
- (d) Whether payments are to be made in cash or annual installments;
- (e) Agreement by such public corporation to make payments for the beneficial use of such water or capacity of works, together with annual maintenance and operating charges, and to be bound by the provisions of this article and the rules and regulations of the board.

(3) The secretary of the board shall cause notice of the filing of such petition to be given and published, which notice shall state the filing of such petition and give notice to all persons interested to appear at the office of the board at a time named in said notice and show cause in writing why the petition should not be granted. The board at the time and place mentioned in said notice, or at such time to which the hearing of said petition may be adjourned, shall proceed to hear the petition and objections thereto, presented in writing, by any person showing cause why said petition should not be granted. The failure of any person interested to show cause shall be deemed an assent on such person's part to the granting of said petition. At its discretion, the board may accept or reject said petition; but, if it deems it for the best interest of the district that said petition be granted, the board shall enter an order to that effect granting said petition and, from and after such order, the public corporation or persons therein shall be deemed to have purchased, leased, contracted for, or otherwise acquired the beneficial use of water or capacity of works as set forth in said order.

(4) If said petition is granted, the board shall determine the amount of money necessary to be raised by assessment in each year on lands within such public corporation, less any amount paid or undertaken to be paid by such public corporation in cash or as credited thereto by payments from the general fund of such public corporation, and shall certify to the county assessor of the county in which the lands of such public corporation are located the amount of the assessment, plus a fair proportionate amount of the estimated operating and maintenance charges for the next succeeding year on each tract of land on or before October 1 of each year, and such county assessor shall extend the amount of such assessment, plus said operating and maintenance charges, on the tax roll as an assessment against the lands upon which said assessment is made.

37-45-125. Levy and collection under class D. (1) To levy and collect special assessments upon lands under class D, the board shall make an allotment of water or of capacity of specified works to petitioning owners of lands in the district, upon which water may be beneficially used in the manner as provided in this article, in such amount as will in the judgment of the board, together with the present supply of water for such lands in the case of an allotment of water, or when added to the then present supply of capacity of all other works in the case of an allotment of capacity of specified works, make an adequate water supply for such lands and shall fix and determine the rate and the terms at which water or capacity of works shall be sold, leased, contracted for, or otherwise disposed of, for use on said lands.

(2) In the event that any person or private corporation elects to purchase, lease, contract for, or otherwise obtain the beneficial use of waters or capacity of works of the district, such person or corporation shall petition the board for an allotment of water or of capacity of specified works, upon terms prescribed by the board, which petition shall contain, inter alia, the following:

- (a) Name of applicant;
- (b) Quantity of water or capacity of works for which allotment is sought;
- (c) Descriptions of lands upon which the water or capacity of works will be used and attached;
- (d) Rate to be paid;
- (e) Whether payment will be made in cash or annual installments;
- (f) Agreement that the annual installments and the charges for maintenance and operating shall become a tax lien upon the lands for which such water or capacity of works is petitioned and allotted and to be bound by the provision of this article and the rules and regulations of the board.

(3) (a) In its discretion the board may accept or reject said petition, but, if it deems it for the best interest of the district that said petition be granted, the board shall enter an order granting said petition, and from and after such order, said petitioner shall be deemed to have agreed to the purchase, lease, contract, or other means of acquiring the beneficial use of water or capacity of works under the terms set forth in said petition and order. Such order shall provide for payment on the basis of rate per unit of measure of water allotted in the case of an allotment of water, or on the basis of rate per unit of capacity allotted in the case of an allotment of works to said lands within the district; except that the board may divide the district into units and fix a different rate in the respective units; and further except that such rates shall be equitable although not necessarily equal or uniform for like classes of services throughout the district.

(b) The board shall examine all rates charged for like classes of service throughout the district and shall by rule and regulation adjust such rates periodically as needed to make such rates within any such class of service equitable.

(4) The secretary of the board shall cause notice of the filing of such petition to be given and published, which notice shall state the filing of such petition and give notice to all persons interested to appear at the office of the board at a time named in said notice and show cause in writing why the petition should not be granted. The board at the time and place mentioned in said notice, or at such time to which the hearing on said petition may be adjourned, shall proceed to hear the petition and objections thereto, presented in writing, by any person showing cause why said petition should not be granted. The failure of any person interested to show cause shall be deemed an assent on such person's part to the granting of said petition. (5) If such petition is granted, the board shall cause a certified copy of the order granting said petition to be recorded in the county in which said lands are located, and, thereafter, the annual installments and annual operating and maintenance charges shall be a perpetual tax lien upon such lands. On or before October 1 of each year, the board shall certify to the county assessor of the county within the district in which such lands are located the amount of the annual installments, plus a fair proportionate amount of the estimated operating and maintenance charges apportioned to said lands for the next succeeding year, and such county assessor shall extend the amount so certified on the tax roll as a flat special assessment against the lands for which such water is petitioned and allotted.

37-45-126. Levies cover defaults and deficiencies. The board, in making the annual assessments and levies, shall take into account the maturing indebtedness for the ensuing year as provided in its contracts or the maturing of bonds and interest on all bonds and deficiencies and defaults of prior years and shall make ample provision for the payment thereof. In case the proceeds of such levies and assessments made under the provisions of this article, together with other revenues of the district, are not sufficient to punctually pay the annual installments on its contracts or bonds and interest thereon and to pay defaults and deficiencies, then the board shall make such additional levies of taxes or assessments as may be necessary for such purposes; and, notwithstanding any limitations by contract, order, tax lien, or otherwise, such taxes and assessments shall be made and shall continue until the indebtedness of the district is fully paid; except that the additional levies authorized by this section may not be made to cover defaults and deficiencies with respect to evidences of indebtedness authorized and issued by a district pursuant to any law if such evidences of indebtedness declare on their faces that they are payable solely from revenues derived from payments made with respect to contracts which are entered into pursuant to this article and further except that the amount of such additional levies of taxes under class A shall not in any one year exceed an amount that would be raised by a levy of one-half mill against the valuation for assessment of such property as fixed for general tax purposes and further except that such levies for defaults and deficiencies shall not, at any time, be made to impose upon class A payments in excess of twenty-five percent of the anticipated revenue from all sources to be raised for the specific purpose of payment of existing defaults and deficiencies and further except that, in making such additional levies or assessments, the board shall take into account all sources of revenue and equitably distribute the burden of such defaults and deficiencies according to the uses and benefits as provided in this article.

37-45-127. Objections to assessments - appeal. (1) Prior to October 1 of each year in which assessments are made, the board shall appoint a time and place where it will meet within the district for the purpose of hearing objections to assessments, and prior notice of such hearing shall be given by publication in two issues, a week apart, in some newspaper of general circulation published in each county; except that, if there is any county in the district in which there is no newspaper published, such notice shall be published in an adjoining county. Said notice shall notify the owners of property in the district that in the secretary's office may be found and examined a description of the property so assessed, the amount of the assessment thereon fixed by the board, and the time and place fixed by the board for the hearing of objections to such assessments. It shall not be necessary for said notice to contain separate descriptions of the lots or tracts of real estate, but it is sufficient if the notice contains such descriptions as will inform the owner whether or not his real estate is covered by such descriptions, and to inform the owner where can be found of record the amount of assessments.

(2) If, in the opinion of any person whose property is assessed, his property has been assessed too high, or has been erroneously or illegally assessed, at any time before the date of such hearing, he may file written objections to such assessments, stating the grounds of such objections, which statement shall be verified by the affidavit of said person or his agent. In such hearing the board shall hear such evidence and arguments as may be offered concerning the correctness or legality of such assessment and may modify or amend the same.

(3) Any owner of property desiring to appeal from the findings of the board as to assessment, within thirty days from the finding of the board, shall file with the clerk of the court a written notice making demand for trial by the court. The appellant at the same time shall file a bond with good and sufficient security to be approved by the clerk of said court in a sum not exceeding two hundred dollars to the effect that, if the finding of the court is not more favorable to the appellant than the finding of the board, the appellant shall pay the cost of the appeal. The appellant shall state definitely from what part of the order the appeal is taken. In case more than one appeal is taken, upon its showing that the same may be consolidated without injury to the interests of anyone, the court may consolidate and try the same together.

(4) The court shall not disturb the findings of the board unless the findings of the board in any case are manifestly disproportionate to the assessments imposed upon other property in the district created under this article. The trial shall be to the court, and the matter shall take precedence before the court and shall be taken up as promptly as may be after the appeal is filed. If no appeal is taken from the findings of the board within the time prescribed in this section, or after the findings of the court in case an appeal is taken from the findings of the board, then the assessment shall be final and conclusive evidence that said assessments have been made in proportion to the benefits conferred upon the property in said district by reason of the improvements to be constructed under the provisions of this article, and such assessments shall constitute a perpetual lien upon such property so assessed until paid.

37-45-128. Officers levy and collect taxes and assessments. It is the duty of the officer or body having authority to levy taxes within each county, city and county, or town to levy the taxes and special assessments as provided in this article, and it is the duty of all county or city and county officials charged with the duty of collecting taxes to collect such taxes and special assessments in the time, form, and manner and with like interest and penalties as county or city and county taxes are collected and, when collected, to pay the same to the district ordering its levy or collection, and the payment of such collections shall be made through the secretary of the district and paid into the depository thereof to the credit of the district. All taxes and assessments made under this article together with all interest thereon and penalties for default in payment thereof, and all costs in collecting the same, until paid, shall constitute a perpetual lien on a parity with the tax lien of general, state, county, city, town, or school taxes, and no sale of such property to enforce any general, state, county, city, town, or school tax or other liens shall extinguish the perpetual lien of such taxes and assessments.

ANNOTATION

Perpetual lien status of unpaid assessments and taxes is not subject to challenge. The provision of this section that all taxes and assessments are, until paid, a perpetual lien on a party with other tax liens, as they pertain to the general ad valorem tax, is not subject to challenge. People ex rel. Rogers v. Letford, 102 Colo. 284, 79 P.2d 274 (1938).

37-45-129. Sale for delinquencies. If the taxes or assessments levied are not paid, then the real property shall be sold at the regular tax sale for the payment of said taxes and assessments, interest, and penalties in the manner provided by the statutes of the state of Colorado for selling property for payment of general taxes. If there are no bids at said tax sale for the property so offered under class A and class B, said property shall be struck off to the county, and the county shall account to the district in the same manner as provided by law for accounting for school, town, and city taxes. If there are no bids for the property so offered under class C and class D, said property shall be struck off to the district, and the tax certificate shall be issued in the name of the district, and the board shall have the same power with reference to sale of said tax certificate as vested in county commissioners and county treasurers when property is struck off to the counties.

37-45-130. Exemptions. All property of whatever kind and nature owned by the state and by towns, cities, school districts, drainage districts, irrigation districts, park districts, water districts, or any other governmental agency within said district shall be exempt from assessment and levy by the board as provided by this article for the purposes of this article.

37-45-132. Contracts - security - enforcement. (1) To meet the annual installments as provided in contracts for the use of water:

(a) A water users' association may bind itself to levy an annual assessment on the use of water and to secure same by liens on land and water rights or in such manner as may be provided by law;

(b) A mutual ditch or irrigation company may bind itself by mortgage upon its irrigation works and system or to levy annual assessments upon its stockholders;

(c) Any person or corporation landowner may create a mortgage lien upon lands or give other security satisfactory to the board; and all such contracts shall provide for forfeiture of the use of water for nonpayment of assessments or installments in the same manner and procedure as provided by statute for forfeiture of stock in a mutual ditch company;

(d) A public corporation shall meet the annual installments as provided in sections 37-45-123 and 37-45-124.

37-45-133. Sinking fund. Whenever a contract of indebtedness has been created by the district, it shall be lawful for the board to make the annual levy of taxes and special assessments in such amount as will create a surplus of funds to meet the annual installments of indebtedness or the payment of bonds and interest and the necessary maintenance and operating charges, and the board shall cause such surplus funds to be placed in a sinking fund which may be used for the payments of contingencies, defaults, and delinquencies and to pay the future annual installments of indebtedness on contract or bonds and interest.

37-45-134. Additional powers. (1) The board has the following powers concerning the management, control, delivery, use, and distribution of water by the district:

(a) To make and enforce all reasonable rules and regulations for the management, control, delivery, use, and distribution of water;

(b) To withhold the delivery of water upon which there are any defaults or delinquencies of payment;

(c) To provide for and declare forfeitures of rights to the use of water upon default or failure to comply with any order, contract, or agreement for the purchase, lease, or use of water and to resell, lease, or otherwise dispose of water upon which forfeiture has been declared;

(d) To allocate and reallocate the use of water to lands within the district;

(e) To provide for and grant the right, upon terms, to transfer water from lands to which water has been allocated to other lands within the district and to discharge liens from lands to which the same was theretofore attached and to create liens, as provided in this article, upon lands to which the use of such water is transferred.

ANNOTATION

This section granted the northern Colorado water conservancy district (NCWCD) the authority to enact rules and regulations that implement the limitations placed on the distribution of Colorado-Big Thompson (CBT) water by the Water Conservancy Act and the 1938 repayment contract between the United States and the NCWCD for the construction of the CBT project. City of Thornton v. Bijou Irrigation Co., 926 P.2d 1 (Colo. 1996).

The NCWCD had statutory authority to make those rules, the rules did not impermissibly infringe on the jurisdiction of the water court to regulate the exercise of water rights, and the court has jurisdiction to resolve disputes concerning the interpretation and application of the rules. As the rules were reasonable limitations on the use of CBT water, they superseded the general replacement and exchange statutes. City of Thornton v. Bijou Irrigation Co., 926 P.2d 1 (Colo. 1996).

37-45-135. Allotment of water to disabled landowner or administrator. Where the landowner in a water conservancy district, organized under this article, is under disability by reason of infancy, insanity, or otherwise, or lands are held under administration, executorship, guardianship, conservatorship, trusteeship, receivership, or other similar proceeding, the administrator, executor, guardian, conservator, trustee, receiver, or other like officer shall be considered the "landowner" for all purposes within this article; and, when authorized by the court having jurisdiction of the estate or lands, such administrator, executor, guardian, conservator, trustee, receiver, or other like officer may petition for an allotment of water in such quantity as determined by such court as will, together with the present supply of water for irrigation purposes, make an adequate supply for the irrigation of such lands; or, in the event such administrator, executor, guardian, conservator, trustee, receiver, or other like officer has, prior to February 28, 1939, petitioned for a supply of water for irrigation of lands so held, the court having jurisdiction of the estate or lands may ratify or confirm the petition for such quantity of water as it may determine will make an adequate supply for the irrigation of such lands, and such petition so made and authorized or ratified and confirmed shall have the same effect and be binding upon all parties interested in such lands to the same extent as though made by a landowner while not under disability.

37-45-136. Inclusion of lands. (1) The boundaries of any district organized under the provisions of this article may be changed in the manner prescribed in this article, but the change of boundaries of the district shall not impair or affect its organization or its rights in or to property or any of its rights or privileges whatsoever, nor shall it affect or impair or discharge any contract, obligation, lien, or charge for or upon which it might be liable or chargeable had such change of boundaries not been made.

(2) The owners of lands may file a petition with the board, in writing, praying that such lands be included in the district. The petition shall describe the tracts or body of land owned by the petitioners, and such petition shall be deemed to give the assent of the petitioners to the inclusion in said district of the lands described in the petition, and such petition must be acknowledged in the same manner that conveyances of land are required to be acknowledged. The secretary of the board shall cause notice of filing of such petition to be given and published in the county in which the lands are situated, which notice shall state the filing of such petition, names of petitioners, descriptions of lands mentioned, and the prayer of said petitioners, giving notice to all persons interested to appear at the office of the board at any time named in said notice and show cause in writing why the petition should not be granted. At the time and place mentioned or at such time to which the hearing may be adjourned, the board shall proceed to hear the petition and all objections thereto, presented in writing by any person showing cause why said petition should not be granted. The failure of any person interested to show cause shall be deemed an assent on his part to the inclusion of such lands in the district as prayed for in the petition. If the petition is granted, the board shall make an order to that effect and file the same with the clerk of the court, and, upon order of the court, said lands shall be included in the district.

(3) (a) In addition to the method provided in subsections (1) and (2) of this section, additional areas, either contiguous or noncontiguous to the district, and including irrigated lands, nonirrigated lands, towns and cities, and other lands and any one or more of the same, may be included in the district by petition, which petition shall be filed in the district court of the county in which the petition for organization of the original district was filed, signed by not fewer than twenty-five percent of the owners of irrigated lands in said area but not embraced within the corporate limits of a city or town; and each tract of land shall be listed opposite the name of the signer. Each such tract together with the improvements thereon shall have a valuation for assessment of not less than one thousand dollars. The petition shall also be signed by not fewer than five percent of the owners of nonirrigated lands or lands embraced within the incorporated limits of a city or town, all situated in the area embraced in said petition; and each tract of land shall be listed opposite the name of the signer. Each such tract together with improvements thereon shall have a valuation for assessment of not less than one thousand dollars. Said petition shall set forth a general description of the territory in the area sought to be included in the district, the name of the district in which it is sought to be included, and a statement that the property sought to be included will be benefited by the accomplishment of the purposes for which the original district was formed and shall pray for the inclusion of the area in the district.

(b) No petition with the requisite signatures shall be declared null and void on account of alleged defects, but the court may permit the petition to be amended at any time to conform to the facts by correcting any errors in the description of the territory or in any other particular. However, similar petitions or duplicate copies of the same petition for the inclusion of the same area may be filed and shall together be regarded as one petition. All such petitions filed prior to the hearing on the first petition filed shall be considered by the court the same as though filed with the first petition placed on file.

(c) In determining whether the requisite number of landowners has signed the petition, the names as they appear upon the tax roll shall be prima facie evidence of such ownership.

(d) At the time of filing the petition or at any time subsequent thereto, and prior to the time of hearing on said petition, a bond shall be filed, with security approved by the court, sufficient to pay all expenses connected with the proceedings in case the inclusion of the area is not effected. If at any time during the proceeding the court is satisfied that the bond first executed is insufficient in amount, it may require the execution of an additional bond within a time to be fixed to be not less than ten days distant, and, upon failure of the petitioner to execute the same, the petition shall be dismissed.

(e) Immediately after the filing of such petition, the court wherein such petition is filed, by order, shall fix a place and time, not less than sixty days nor more than ninety days after the petition is filed, for hearing thereon, and thereupon the clerk of said court shall cause notice by publication to be made of the pendency of the petition and of the time and place of hearing thereon. The clerk of said court shall also forthwith cause a copy of said notice to be mailed by registered mail to the board of county commissioners of each of the several counties having territory within the area proposed to be included within the district.

(f) No city, or city and county, having a population of more than twenty-five thousand as determined by the last United States census shall be included within such area proposed to be included within the district unless by and with the written consent of the chief executive officer of such city, or city and county, with the approval of the legislative body of such municipality, and such consent may specify that the rate of taxation on the valuation for assessment of property within said city, or city and county, under section 37-45-122, shall not exceed a maximum rate which may be less than the rates set out in said section 37-45-122, and in such case the district shall not have power to levy an assessment on the property in said city, or city and county, at a greater rate than that specified in said consent.

(g) Not less than thirty days prior to the time fixed by order of court for the hearing on said petition, and not thereafter, a petition may be filed in the office of the clerk of the court wherein the proceeding for inclusion is pending, signed by not fewer than twenty percent of the owners of irrigated lands in said area but not embraced within the incorporated limits of a city or town, who have not signed the petition for inclusion, and also signed by not fewer than five percent of the owners of nonirrigated lands or lands embraced in the incorporated limits of a city or town, all situated in said area proposed to be included within the district, who have not signed the petition for inclusion, protesting the inclusion of said area. The signers of said protesting petition shall state therein the land owned by each and also shall state the value thereof as shown by the last preceding assessment.

(h) In the event a petitioner signs such petition both as owner of irrigated and nonirrigated land situated within a municipality, his name shall be counted only as an owner of irrigated lands.

(i) Upon the day set for the hearing upon the original petition, if it appears to the court that said protesting petition is not signed by the requisite number of owners of lands and of the requisite value, the court shall thereupon dismiss said protesting petition and shall proceed with the original hearing as provided in this section.

(j) If the court finds from the evidence that said protesting petition is signed by the requisite number of owners of lands, and of the requisite values, the court shall forthwith dismiss the original petition for inclusion. The finding of the court upon the question of such valuation, the genuineness of the signatures, and all matters of law and fact incident to such determination shall be final and conclusive on all parties in interest whether appearing or not.

(k) Any owner of real property in said proposed area not having individually signed a petition for the inclusion, and desiring to object to the inclusion, on or before ten days prior to the date set for the cause to be heard, may file objection to the inclusion.

(l) Such objection shall be limited to a denial of the statements in the petition and shall be heard by the court as an advanced case without unnecessary delay.

(m) Any owner of irrigated land in said proposed area who has not individually signed a petition for the inclusion of the area within the district and who desires to have his irrigated lands excluded from said district, on or before ten days prior to the date set for the cause to be heard, may file a petition in said district court asking to have his irrigated lands excluded therefrom. Any petition so filed shall be heard by the district court on the date set for the hearing of the petition for inclusion of the area, and the district court shall exclude such irrigated lands from the area proposed for inclusion within the district.

(n) Upon said hearing, if it appears that a petition for the inclusion has been signed and presented, as provided in this subsection (3), in conformity with this article, and that the allegations of the petition are true, and that no protesting petition has been filed, or if filed has been dismissed by order duly entered of record, the court shall adjudicate all questions of jurisdiction and declare the area included in the district to the same extent and as fully as if said area had been included in the original petition for the organization of the district; except that, prior to the entry of its decree including such area within the district, the court shall obtain the verified consent of the board of directors of the district to the inclusion of such area, which consent shall set forth the terms and conditions upon which said area shall be included, which terms may include the price and value per acre-foot of water to be allotted and contracted for use within said included area and which said terms and conditions shall be embodied in the decree of said court.

(o) If the court finds that no petition has been signed and presented in conformity with this section, or that the material facts are not as set forth in the petition filed, it shall dismiss said proceedings and adjudge the costs against the signers of the petition in such proportion as it deems just and equitable. No appeal or other remedy lies from an order dismissing said proceeding; but nothing in this article shall be construed to prevent the filing of a subsequent petition for similar purposes, and the right so to renew such proceeding is expressly granted and authorized.

(3.5) (a) As an alternative to the procedures set forth in subsections (2) and (3) of this section, a petition for inclusion and for an election on inclusion of lands within a water conservancy district may be filed in the district court of the county in which the petition for organization of the original district was filed. The petition shall be signed by not less than twenty-five percent of the owners of agricultural lands of the area embraced by the proposed lands to be included and by not less than ten percent of the electors of said area embraced by the proposed lands to be included. The petition shall show that the board of directors of the district has given its verified approval to the inclusion of such area in the district and shall recite the terms and conditions upon which said area shall be included, if any, which the board of directors of the district may have required, in its discretion, as a prerequisite to the inclusion. The board of directors of the district may require, as one of the conditions of its approval of the proposed inclusion, that the petitioners post a sufficient bond to cover the costs of the election. If no bond is so required, the district shall be deemed to have agreed to pay the costs of the election. The proposed boundary of the lands to be included within the district may include any part or all of any county, city, or city and county of any size. Such petition and the hearing thereon shall otherwise comply with the provisions of this section which are not inconsistent with the provisions of this subsection (3.5).

(b) On the day fixed for hearing, or at a continuance thereof, the court shall first ascertain, from such evidence which may be adduced, that the required number of electors of the area to be included in the district have signed the petition and that the board of directors has approved the inclusion of lands in the district. Upon said hearing, if it appears that the petition for inclusion has been signed and presented in conformity with this subsection (3.5) and that the allegations of the petition are true, the court, by order duly entered of record, shall direct that the question of the inclusion of lands in the water conservancy district be submitted at an election, to be held for that purpose, of electors of the area embraced within the inclusion petition. Such election shall be conducted by the board of directors of the district in the same manner set forth in sections 37-45-139 to 37-45-141.

(c) At such election the voter shall vote for or against the inclusion of lands in the water conservancy district. If the terms and conditions on inclusion have been set by the board of directors of the district, said terms and conditions shall be identified to the electors. If a majority of votes cast at said election are in favor of inclusion, the court, on the motion of the board of directors of the district, shall declare the area included in the district to the same extent and as fully as if said area had been included in the original petition for the organization of the district; except that, if the proposed inclusion in a district includes any territory within a municipality and a majority of the votes cast by the voters residing within that incorporated area are against inclusion in the district, the governing body of said municipality may, within thirty days after certification of the election results, petition the court for exclusion from the district of such incorporated area, and the court shall exclude such territory from the district. Any order of the court so including lands in a district shall incorporate the terms and conditions, if any, for inclusion which the board of directors of the district has required as a prerequisite to inclusion.

(3.6) Whenever a municipality has annexed land into its boundaries and that municipality at the time of annexation previously had lands within its boundaries included within the district, upon consent of the governing body of the municipality, and upon consent by the board of directors of the district, the annexed lands shall be deemed to have been included within the district, subject to terms and conditions as determined by the board of directors of the district that shall not be inconsistent with the terms and conditions of previous applicable inclusion orders relating to that municipality. The municipality shall promptly transmit to the district a certified copy of the municipality's annexation ordinance. Upon receipt of the municipality's annexation ordinance, the board of directors of the district shall promptly act to grant or deny consent to the inclusion of the newly annexed lands into the district. If the board of directors of the district consents to such inclusion, and the municipality agrees to any terms and conditions to the inclusion adopted by the board of directors of the district, the district shall file with the court a certified copy of the municipality's annexation ordinance and a petition of the district for inclusion of the annexed lands that states the terms and conditions of inclusion as determined by the board of directors of the district. Upon the district's filing of a certified copy of the municipality's annexation ordinance and a petition of the district for inclusion of the annexed lands, the court shall enter an order including such lands within the boundaries of the district, upon the terms and conditions set forth in the petition.

(4) As a part of any order entered establishing the inclusion of lands or areas into the district, the court shall designate the division of the district to which such included lands or areas shall be attached or shall, in combination with or in lieu of the foregoing, create a new division from such included lands or areas and appoint the directors therefor; but the total number of directors of the district shall not exceed fifteen.

(5) (a) If an order is entered establishing the inclusion of lands or areas into the district, such order shall be deemed final and no appeal or other remedy lies therefrom, and the entry of such order shall finally and conclusively establish the inclusion of the lands or areas against all persons except the state of Colorado, in an action in the nature of quo warranto commenced by the attorney general within three months after said decree declaring such lands or areas included as provided, and not otherwise. The inclusion of said lands or areas shall not be directly or collaterally questioned in any suit, action, or proceeding except as expressly authorized in this section.

(b) Upon the entry of such decree, the clerk of the court shall transmit, to the division of local government in the department of local affairs and to the county clerk and recorder in each of the counties in which said lands or areas are located, copies of the findings and decree of the court including such lands or areas in the district. The same shall be recorded with said division, and copies shall also be filed in the office of the county clerk and recorder in each county in which a part of the district may be, where they shall become permanent records.

ANNOTATION

The water conservancy act provides a complete and exclusive procedure for organization of water conservancy districts, as well as the exclusion and inclusion of property therefrom or thereto. People ex rel. Dunbar v. San Luis Water Conservancy Dist., 128 Colo. 193, 261 P.2d 704 (1953).

It is the duty of the supreme court to construe the water conservancy district act so as to give force and effect to all of its provisions. People ex rel. Dunbar v. San Luis Water Conservancy Dist., 128 Colo. 193, 261 P.2d 704 (1953).

Jurisdiction is dependent upon the legal sufficiency of the inclusion petition. People ex rel. Dunbar v. San Luis Water Conservancy Dist., 128 Colo. 193, 261 P.2d 704 (1953).

Any area contiguous or noncontiguous to the district may, by petition, be made a part of the district, and it is not the area but the territory in the area which subsection (2) requires the petition to set forth a general description of the territory in the area sought to be included in the district, the name of the district in which it is sought to be included, a statement that the property sought to be included will be benefited by the accomplishment of the purposes for which the original district was formed, and shall pray for the inclusion of the area in the district. People ex rel. Dunbar v. San Luis Water Conservancy Dist., 128 Colo. 193, 261 P.2d 704 (1953).

It is apparent that contiguity is not required in the additional areas to be included in the district, and it is equally apparent that the inclusion petition is not to include the area but rather territory in the area. This is made apparent by the provision that the petition shall set forth a general description of the territory in the area. If the area in its entirety was to become a part of the district by the inclusion petition, all the territory therein would necessarily be part of the district. People ex rel. Dunbar v. San Luis Water Conservancy Dist., 128 Colo. 193, 261 P.2d 704 (1953).

An area is a particular extent of surface. It is rather an elastic term not easily definable; it means a surface or a region or a territory, and, of course, contiguity is not a prerequisite. In subsection (2), area is used in connection with and subordinate to "district" and any surface or region or territory on petition of the designated owners and verified consent of the board may properly be included in the district in the absence of the statutory protest provided in the act. People ex rel. Dunbar v. San Luis Water Conservancy Dist., 128 Colo. 193, 261 P.2d 704 (1953).

There is no necessity for a determination of the sufficiency of the petition prior to the publication of notice. People ex rel. Dunbar v. San Luis Water Conservancy Dist., 128 Colo. 193, 261 P.2d 704 (1953).

A petition must be dismissed when it takes signatures of owners. Where the protesting petition did not contain the signatures of any owners of irrigated lands in the area described in the inclusion petition, this made it obligatory upon the trial court on the day for the hearing to dismiss the protesting petitions and then left for the court's determination the legal sufficiency of the inclusion petition only. People ex rel. Dunbar v. San Luis Water Conservancy Dist., 128 Colo. 193, 261 P.2d 704 (1953).

There is provided in the water conservancy act one hearing only on the sufficiency of the petition for inclusion and protests thereto. People ex rel. Dunbar v. San Luis Water Conservancy Dist., 128 Colo. 193, 261 P.2d 704 (1953).

37-45-137. Exclusion of lands. (1) (a) The owner in fee of any lands constituting a portion of any district, regardless of the valuation for assessment of such district, or, if the valuation for assessment of an existing district is less than three hundred million dollars, not less than fifteen owners of land in an overlapping area as described in section 37-45-109 (3) (d) who are petitioners for the formation of a new district proposed to be organized under the provisions of this article which includes lands within such existing district, may file with the board a petition praying that such lands be excluded and taken from said district. Petitions shall describe the lands which the petitioners desire to have excluded. Such petition must be acknowledged in the same manner and form as required in case of a conveyance of land and be accompanied by a deposit of money sufficient to pay all costs of the exclusion proceedings.

(b) The secretary of the board shall cause a notice of filing of such petition to be published in a newspaper of general circulation in the county in which said lands, or the major portion thereof, are located, the final publication to be made not less than ten days prior to the date set for the hearing thereon. If such petition has been filed by the proponents of a new district, individual notice shall also be given to those landowners of the existing district whose lands are included in the request for exclusion, by mailing a copy of such notice by registered or certified mail not less than ten days prior to the date set for the hearing thereon to each such landowner at his last-known address, as shown by the records of the treasurer of the county in which the lands are located. The notice shall state the filing of such petition, the names of petitioners, and, if applicable, the name of the proposed new district, descriptions of lands mentioned in said petition, and the prayer of said petitioners, and it shall notify all persons interested to appear at the office of said board at the time named in said notice, showing cause in writing why said petition should not be granted.

(c) The board at the time and place mentioned in the notice, or at the time to which the hearing of said petition may be adjourned, shall proceed to hear the petition and all objections thereto, presented in writing, by any person showing cause why the prayer of the petition should not be granted. The filing of such petition shall be deemed an assent by each such petitioner to the exclusion from the district of his lands mentioned in the petition or any part thereof.

(d) If the board deems it not for the best interest of the district that the lands mentioned in the petition or some portion thereof are excluded from the district, the board shall order that said petition be denied; but, if the board deems it for the best interest of the district that the lands mentioned in the petition, or some portion thereof, be excluded from the district and, if there are no outstanding bonds of the district, the board may order the lands mentioned in the petition, or some portion thereof, to be excluded from the district. If such exclusion is granted at the request of a proposed new district, it shall be conditioned to take effect only upon the legal creation of the proposed new district.

(e) In case contract has been made between the district and the United States or any agency thereof, no change shall be made in the boundaries of the district unless the secretary of the interior assents thereto in writing and such assent is filed with the board. Upon such assent, any lands excluded from the district upon order of the court shall be discharged from all liens in favor of the United States under the contract with the United States or under bonds deposited with its agents.

(f) Upon allowance of such petition, the board shall file a certified copy of the order of the board making such change with the clerk of the court, and, upon order of the court, said lands shall be excluded from the district.

(2) Following organization of a district under this article at any time prior to authorization for the incurring of bonded or other indebtedness under the election procedures set forth in sections 37-45-139 to 37-45-142 and prior to the execution of a contract with the United States or any of its agencies, the governing body of any city, city and county, or town, regardless of its population, originally included in the district without consent given in the manner provided in section 37-45-109, and over an express objection made in writing to the court in which the petition for organization has been filed at any time prior to the date upon which the court declares the district organized, may pass an ordinance declaring all property, real and personal, within the limits of said public corporation, to be lands and property excluded from the district. Upon service by registered or certified mail of a certified copy of said ordinance upon the division of local government in the department of local affairs, the board of directors of the district, the court organizing said district, the assessor or treasurer, and the county clerk and recorder of the county in which that public corporation is located, said city, city and county, or town, and all lands and property within its limits, shall forthwith be automatically excluded from the district, and said property and lands within the limits of said public corporation shall thereafter be free of any tax levied by the district; except that, if such exclusion occurs after March 15 of any year, said lands and property, and the owners thereof, shall be liable for any existing levy made under section 37-45-122, only for the taxable year of the exclusion, said liability in no event to exceed one-half mill on the dollar of valuation of the property, real and personal, within the limits of said public corporation.

(3) Nothing in this section shall be construed to interfere or conflict with or amend any proceeding now pending in any district court in the state of Colorado.

37-45-138. Board to execute contracts - issue bonds. To pay for construction, operation, and maintenance of said works, and expenses preliminary and incidental thereto, the board is authorized to enter into a contract with the United States or any agency thereof, providing for payment in installments or to issue negotiable bonds of the district. If bonds are authorized, the board shall set a maximum net effective interest rate, and such bonds shall bear interest at a rate such that the net effective interest rate of the issue of bonds does not exceed the maximum net effective interest rate authorized. Interest shall be payable annually or semiannually and shall be due and payable not more than fifty years from their dates. The form, terms, and provisions of said bonds, provisions for their payment, and conditions for their retirement and calling, not inconsistent with law, shall be determined by the board, and they shall be issued in payment of the works, equipment, expenses, and interest during the period of construction. When any bonded indebtedness has been authorized pursuant to section 37-45-139, and when the board has entered into a contract with the United States or any agency thereof whereby the United States or any agency thereof has agreed to purchase such bonds, at an interest rate established in such contract, the board may issue interim notes bearing interest at a net effective interest rate not exceeding the maximum net effective interest rate authorized for the bonds, the interim notes to be payable at the termination of such contract, or at such time not exceeding three years after the date of their issuance and on such terms and conditions as the board may determine. No interim note may be extended or funded except by the issuance of bonds. Bonds also may be issued to pay interim notes as they become due or may be exchanged for the interim notes as the board may determine. Said bonds or interim notes shall be executed in the name of and on behalf of the district and signed by the president of the board with the seal of the district affixed thereto and attested by the secretary of the board. Said bonds or interim notes shall be in such denominations as the board shall determine and shall be payable to bearer and may be registered in the office of the county treasurer of the county wherein the organization of the district has been effected, with the interest coupons payable to bearer, which coupons shall bear the facsimile signature of the president of the board. Such bonds and interim notes shall be exempt from all state, county, municipal, school, and other taxes imposed by any taxing authority of the state of Colorado. Such bonds or interim notes may be sold at par, above par, or below par, but the net effective interest rate to the district, including any discount, but exclusive of any discount payable for costs of the issue, shall not exceed the maximum net effective interest rate authorized for such issue of bonds. Such bonds or interim notes may be used as security for any depository bond or obligation where any kind of bonds or other securities must or may, by law, be deposited as security. Any resolution authorizing, or other instrument appertaining to, any bonds or interim notes under this article may provide that each bond or interim note therein authorized shall recite that it is issued under authority of this article. Such recital shall be conclusive evidence of full compliance with all of the provisions of this article, and all bonds and interim notes issued containing such recital shall be incontestable for any cause whatsoever after their delivery for value.

37-45-139. Contracts - submission to electors. (1) Whenever the board incorporated under this article, by resolution adopted by a majority of the said board, determines that the interests of said district and the public interest or necessity demand the acquisition, construction, or completion of any source of water supply, waterworks, or other improvements or facilities or the making of any contract with the United States or other persons or corporations to carry out the objects or purposes of said district, wherein the annual obligation created will require a greater annual expenditure than the annual income and revenue that the district is estimated to permit, said board shall order the submission of the proposition of incurring such obligation or bonded or other indebtedness for the purposes set forth in said resolution to the electors of the district at an election held for that purpose pursuant to the provisions of this section and section 37-45-142; except that no such election shall be required when the evidence of indebtedness evidencing the obligation created expressly states that it is payable solely from revenues derived from payments made with respect to contracts which are entered into pursuant to this article.

(2) Any election held for the purpose of submitting any proposition of incurring such obligation or indebtedness may be held separately or may be consolidated or held concurrently with any other election authorized by law at which such qualified electors of the district are entitled to vote.

(3) The declaration of public interest or necessity required in this section and the provisions for the holding of such election may be included within one and the same resolution, which resolution, in addition to such declaration of public interest or necessity, shall recite the objects and purposes for which the indebtedness is proposed to be incurred, the estimated cost of the works or improvements, as the case may be, the amount of principal of the indebtedness to be incurred therefor, and the maximum net effective rate of interest to be paid on such indebtedness. Such resolution shall also fix the date upon which such election shall be held and the manner of holding the same and the method of voting for or against the incurring of the proposed indebtedness. Such resolution shall also fix the compensation to be paid the officers of the election and shall designate the precincts and polling places and shall appoint for each polling place, from each precinct from the electors thereof, the officers of such election, which officers shall consist of three judges, one of whom shall act as clerk, who shall constitute a board of election for each polling place.

(4) The description of precincts may be made by reference to any order of the board of county commissioners of the county in which the district or any part thereof is situated or by reference to any previous order or resolution of the board or by detailed description of such precincts. Precincts established by the boards of the various counties may be consolidated for special elections held under this article. In the event any such election is called to be held concurrently with any other election or is consolidated therewith, the resolution calling the election under this article need not designate precincts or polling places or the names of officers of election but shall contain reference to the act or order calling such other election and fixing the precincts and polling places and appointing election officers therefrom.

37-45-140. Publication of call. The resolution provided in section 37-45-139 shall be published once a week for two consecutive weeks, the last publication of which shall be at least ten days prior to the date set for said election, in a newspaper of general circulation within the district, and no other or further notice of such election or publication of the names of election officers or of the precincts or polling places need be made.

37-45-141. Conduct of election. (1) The respective election boards shall conduct the election in their respective precincts in the manner prescribed by law for the holding of general elections and shall make their returns to the court or secretary of the district, as applicable. At any regular or special meeting of the board held not later than five days following the date of such election, the returns thereof shall be canvassed and the results declared.

(2) In the event that any election held under this article is consolidated with any primary or general election, the returns thereof shall be made and canvassed at the time and in the manner provided by law for the canvass of the returns of such primary or general election. It is the duty of such canvassing body to promptly certify and transmit to the board or court, as applicable, a statement of the result of the vote upon the proposition submitted under this article. Upon receipt of such certificate, it is the duty of the board or court to tabulate and declare the results of the election held under this article.

37-45-142. Bond elections - subsequent elections. (1) No debt required by section 37-45-139 to be submitted to the electors of the district shall be incurred unless the proposition to create such debt is first submitted to and approved by the electors of the district.

(2) In the event it appears from the returns that the proposition submitted has been approved by a majority of those voting at the election as required under subsection (1) of this section, the district is authorized to incur such indebtedness or obligations, enter into such contract, or issue and sell such bonds of the district, all for the purpose and object provided for in the proposition submitted under this section and in the resolution therefor and in the amount so provided and at a net effective interest rate not exceeding the maximum net effective interest rate recited in such resolution. Submission of the proposition of incurring such obligation or bonded or other indebtedness at such an election shall not prevent or prohibit submission of the same or other propositions at subsequent elections called for such purpose.

(3) (a) The board, having received approval at an election to issue bonds and having determined that the limitations of the original election question are too restrictive to permit the advantageous sale of the bonds so authorized, may submit at another election held for such purpose:

(I) The question of issuing the bonds, or any portion thereof, at a higher maximum net effective interest rate than the maximum interest rate or maximum net effective interest rate approved at the original election; or

(II) The question of issuing the bonds, or any portion thereof, to mature over a longer period of time than the maximum period of maturity approved at the original election.

(b) An election held pursuant to this subsection (3) shall be held in substantially the same manner as an election to authorize bonds initially, except as may be required for the submission of the limited question or questions permitted under this subsection (3).

(c) If a majority of those voting at an election held pursuant to this subsection (3) fails to approve the changes submitted, such result shall not impair the authority of the board at a later time to issue the bonds originally approved within the limitations established at the first election.

37-45-143. Confirmation of contract proceedings. (1) In its discretion, the board may file a petition in the court at any time, praying for a judicial examination and determination of any power conferred or of any tax or assessment levied or of any act, proceeding, or contract of the district, whether or not said contract has been executed, including proposed contracts for the acquisition, construction, maintenance, or operation of works for the district. Such petition shall set forth the facts whereon the validity of such power, assessment, act, proceeding, or contract is founded and shall be verified by the president of the board. Notice of the filing of said petition shall be given by the clerk of the court, under the seal thereof, stating in brief outline the contents of the petition and showing where a full copy of any contract therein mentioned may be examined. The notice shall be served by publication in at least five consecutive issues of a weekly newspaper of general circulation published in the county in which the principal office of the district is located and by posting the same in the office of the district at least thirty days prior to the date fixed in said notice for the hearing on said petition.

(2) Any owner of property in the district or person interested in the contract or proposed contract may appear and move to dismiss or answer said petition at any time prior to the date fixed for said hearing or within such further time as may be allowed by the court; and the petition shall be taken as confessed by all persons who fail to appear.

(3) The petition and notice shall be sufficient to give the court jurisdiction, and, upon hearing, the court shall examine into and determine all matters and things affecting the question submitted, shall make such findings with reference thereto, and shall render such judgment and decree thereon as the case warrants. Costs may be divided or apportioned among the contesting parties in the discretion of the trial court. Review of the judgment of the court may be had as in other similar cases; except that such review must be applied for within thirty days after the time of the rendition of such judgment or within such additional time as may be allowed by the court within the thirty days. The Colorado rules of civil procedure shall govern in matters of pleading and practice where not otherwise specified in this article. The court shall disregard any error, irregularity, or omission which does not affect the substantial rights of the parties.

37-45-144. Correction of faulty notices. In every case where a notice is provided for in this article, if the court finds for any reason that due notice was not given, the court shall not thereby lose jurisdiction, and the proceeding in question shall not thereby be void or be abated, but in that case the court shall order due notice to be given, and shall continue the hearing until such time as notice shall be properly given, and thereupon shall proceed as though notice had been properly given in the first instance.

37-45-145. Early hearings. All cases in which there arises a question of the validity of the organization of a water conservancy district, or a question of the validity of any proceeding under this article, shall be advanced as a matter of immediate public interest and concern and heard at the earliest practicable moment. The courts shall be open at all times for the purposes of this article.

37-45-146. Dissolution of districts. Any water conservancy district organized may be dissolved in the manner specified in sections 37-45-146 to 37-45-152 if such district has not been authorized to incur bonded or other indebtedness under the election procedures set forth in sections 37-45-139 to 37-45-142 and such district has not incurred bonded or other indebtedness pursuant to the provisions of any other law; except that, if such district has entered into a contract with the United States or any other agency thereof, no dissolution shall take place unless the secretary of the interior of the United States has first consented thereto.

37-45-147. Election for dissolution - petition or resolution filed. (1) An election submitting the proposition of dissolution of the district may be initiated by the filing of a copy of a resolution adopted by three-fourths of all the members of the board of directors of such district requesting such an election or by the filing of a petition requesting such election. Such resolution or petition shall be filed in the district court which formed said district.

(2) Any such petition so filed shall be accompanied by a good and sufficient bond for five hundred dollars with not less than two sureties approved by the court, and, if a majority of the qualified electors do not vote for dissolution in the election specified in this article, the amount of such bond shall be forfeited to the district, otherwise the same shall be discharged.

(3) If the valuation for assessment of irrigated land together with improvements thereon within said district when formed is in excess of twenty million dollars, such petition shall bear signatures of any owners of irrigated land equal in number to two-thirds or more of the number of such type of owners required by section 37-45-109, upon a petition for the formation of such a district. Such irrigated land shall be situated within the limits of the district and shall not be embraced within the incorporated limits of any city or town. Said petition shall also bear the signatures of any owners of nonirrigated land or land embraced within the incorporated limits of a city or town equal in number to two-thirds or more of the number of such type of owners required by said section upon a petition for the formation of such a district, said land to be situated within the limits of the district.

(4) If the valuation for assessment of irrigated land and improvements thereon within such district when formed is less than twenty million dollars, said petition shall contain the same number and type of signatures required by section 37-45-109 upon petitions for the formation of such a district. In either case the petition shall set forth opposite each signature the description of the land and the valuation for assessment thereof together with any improvements. Similar petitions or duplicate copies of the same petition may be filed together and shall be regarded as one petition. No petition with the requisite signatures shall be declared void on account of alleged defects, but the court may permit the petition to be amended from time to time to conform to the facts by correcting errors in descriptions, valuation, or any other particular.

37-45-148. Notice of election. Upon presentation of such petition or resolution, the court shall cause a notice to be published forthwith at least once each week for four consecutive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in each county where the district or parts thereof lie. Such notice shall recite that a petition or resolution for dissolution of the district has been filed, shall describe generally the territory of the district, and shall further specify the time and places of election, which time shall not be less than sixty days nor more than ninety days after the date of the last publication of the notice. If an objection to the petition or resolution is filed in such court by an owner of land situated within said district within twenty days from the date of the last publication of the notice, the court may, if necessary, continue the election from time to time until all objections are disposed of. Due notice of the time and places of any continued election shall be given in the manner and form prescribed above.

37-45-149. Objections to resolution or petition. Objections to a resolution for an election shall be confined to the question of whether sufficient directors voted in favor of the same. Objections to a petition for such election shall be confined to the question of whether sufficient qualified owners of land situate within the district have signed the petition for such election. Such petition shall be accepted as prima facie evidence of all facts stated therein, and all signatures affixed to such petition shall be presumed to be those of qualified owners residing within the boundaries of the district until the contrary is proven. No signer of a petition shall be permitted to withdraw his name from such petition after it is filed, except for fraud. All objections shall be heard as an advanced case on the docket of the court. Nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent the filing of subsequent resolutions or petitions for the same purpose, but elections on the proposition of dissolution shall not be held more frequently than once every three years.

37-45-150. Election procedure - ballot. (1) Any election held for the purpose of submitting the proposition of dissolution of a district may be held separately or may be consolidated or held concurrently with any other election authorized by law. The election shall be conducted by the secretary of the board of directors of such district under the supervision of the court, and the court shall fix the manner of holding the same and shall also fix the compensation to be paid the officers of the election and shall designate the precincts and polling places. The court shall also appoint for each polling place and for each precinct from the electors thereof the officers of such election, which officers shall consist of three judges, one of whom shall act as clerk, who shall constitute a board of election for each polling place.

(2) The description of precincts may be made by reference to any order of the board of county commissioners of the county in which the district or any part thereof is situated or by reference to any previous order or resolution of the board or by detailed description of such precincts. Precincts established by the boards of the various counties may be consolidated for special elections held under this article. In the event any such election is called to be held concurrently with any other election or is consolidated therewith, the court order need not designate precincts or polling places or the names of officers of election but shall contain a reference to the act or order calling such other election and fixing the precincts and polling places and appointing election officers therefrom. The election shall be conducted in accordance with the provisions of section 37-45-141.

(3) The results of such election shall be certified promptly by the secretary of the board of directors to the court. It is the duty of the secretary of the board of directors of the district to prepare ballots to be used at the election on which shall be inscribed the words "For Dissolution" and "Against Dissolution". The costs of the election and ballots shall be paid by the district under the supervision of the court, and the district shall be authorized, under the supervision of the court, to borrow funds for this purpose. Irrespective of any other provision of this article, the district shall not be required or authorized to hold any election on the proposition of such borrowing.

37-45-151. Majority vote determines question. The electors of the district shall be qualified to vote on the question of dissolving the district. If a majority of votes are for dissolution of the district, the district shall be dissolved as provided in section 37-45-152. Any objections to the election, or proceedings to invalidate the election, must be filed in the court within thirty days from the date of the election. Errors, omissions, and irregularities not affecting substantial rights shall be disregarded.

37-45-152. Winding up and dissolution - order entered. (1) In the event the vote is for dissolution, any qualified signer of the petition for the election, or the board of directors of such district may, within such time as may be fixed by the court, present a written plan for the winding up of the affairs of the district. Such plan may specify that the affairs of the district be wound up by the board of directors of the district or by a receiver appointed by the court for that purpose. On a day fixed by the court, the court shall consider such plan and shall enter an order establishing therefrom a plan for the winding up of such affairs. The court shall retain continuing jurisdiction to modify such plan from time to time and shall supervise such winding up.

(2) If no such plan is presented on or before the day set by the court, the court shall appoint a receiver to wind up the affairs of the district under the court's supervision. Upon the appointment of any receiver all authority of the board of directors of the district shall terminate; except that its authority to levy taxes for the payment of the obligations of the district and the costs of winding up shall continue until the district is dissolved. Such board shall levy taxes within the limits imposed by this article sufficient to pay expeditiously such obligations and costs, and, if a receiver has been appointed, all tax collections shall be delivered to such receiver.

(3) When it appears to the satisfaction of the court that all obligations of the district have been discharged, and the costs of winding up the districts paid, such court shall enter an order dissolving the district, and a certified copy of such order shall be recorded by the clerk of the court in all counties in which the district may be situate. All funds remaining in the hands of such receiver or board of directors after such dissolution shall be divided among the counties comprising any part of such district in proportion to the total valuation of taxable property in such county within the boundaries of such district, as determined by the tax roll of such counties in the treasurer's hands, for the calendar year preceding the year in which such dissolution occurs, and said receiver or members of the board of directors shall thereupon be discharged by the court.

37-45-153. Validation and recreation of water conservancy districts. (1) The following water conservancy districts, originally organized under the provisions of this article, are hereby validated and recreated: Alamosa-La Jara Water Conservancy District; Animas-La Plata Water Conservancy District; Badger-Beaver Water Conservancy District; Basalt Water Conservancy District; Battlement Mesa Water Conservancy District; Bluestone Water Conservancy District; Bostwick Park Water Conservancy District; Central Colorado Water Conservancy District; Collbran Water Conservancy District; Conejos Water Conservancy District; Costilla County Water Conservancy District; Crawford Water Conservancy District; Dolores Water Conservancy District; Florida Water Conservancy District; Fruitland Mesa Water Conservancy District; Grand Mesa Water Conservancy District; Great Northern Water Conservancy District; Groundwater Management Subdistrict, Central Colorado Water Conservancy District; Huerfano County Water Conservancy District; Jackson County Water Conservancy District; Juniper Water Conservancy District; La Plata Water Conservancy District; Lower South Platte Water Conservancy District; Mancos Water Conservancy District; Michigan River Water Conservancy District; Middle Park Water Conservancy District; Municipal Subdistrict, Northern Colorado Water Conservancy District; North Fork Water Conservancy District; North La Junta Water Conservancy District; Northern Colorado Water Conservancy District; Pot Hook Water Conservancy District; Purgatoire River Water Conservancy District; Saint Vrain and Left Hand Water Conservancy District; San Luis Valley Water Conservancy District; San Miguel Water Conservancy District; Silt Water Conservancy District; Southeastern Colorado Water Conservancy District; Tri-County Water Conservancy District; Trinchera Water Conservancy District; Upper Arkansas Water Conservancy District; Upper Gunnison River Water Conservancy District; Upper South Platte Water Conservancy District; Upper Yampa Water Conservancy District; Ute Water Conservancy District; West Divide Water Conservancy District; and Yellow Jacket Water Conservancy District.

(2) The territory of such water conservancy districts shall be the same as set forth or established for each such district by Colorado court orders entered pursuant to this article as of February 23, 1983.

(3) The provisions of this article, including changes in territory, shall continue to govern such districts, and the districts shall continue to function in all respects as they did prior to February 23, 1983; except that such districts shall be deemed to have been created by statute, irrespective of any organizational process set forth in this article or the district's method of original organization.

(4) All actions undertaken by such districts under or pursuant to the authority or apparent authority of this article prior to February 23, 1983, shall be considered as those of de facto officers and directors and as valid and effective should the original organization of such districts be ruled invalid in any respect.

(5) The purpose of this section is to validate and recreate such districts and to continue them in existence as constituted prior to February 23, 1983, without interruption in order to provide financial security and stability in water development in this state and to ensure that obligations and projects undertaken, or to be undertaken, by such existing districts under or pursuant to this article are honored and carried out should the original organization of such existing districts be ruled invalid in any respect.

37-45.1-101. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly hereby finds, determines, and declares that in order to provide for the continued beneficial use of all waters originating in Colorado, the establishment of water activity enterprises within or by water conservancy districts, water conservation districts, and other entities of state and local government is critical to the health and welfare of the people of the state of Colorado. The general assembly further finds that water activities are necessary to:

- (a) Provide a secure water supply for domestic use;
- (b) Continue to provide water for agricultural use;
- (c) Supply water for power, milling, manufacturing, mining, metallurgical, fish, wild-life, recreational, and all other beneficial uses;
- (d) Secure water to which the state is entitled under its interstate water compacts and equitable apportionment decrees;
- (e) Treat, reclaim, conserve, recharge, augment, exchange, or reuse water supplies within the state; and
- (f) Provide wholesale and retail water supply and wastewater services.

Source: L. 93: Entire article added, p. 102, § 1, effective March 30.

37-45.1-102. Definitions. As used in this article, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "District" means any state or local governmental entity that has authority to conduct water activities, including a water conservancy district created pursuant to article 45 of this title, a water conservation district created by article 46, 47, 48, or 50 of this title, a water and sanitation district or other entity created pursuant to title 32, C.R.S., an entity created pursuant to title 29, C.R.S., or this title, a county, or a municipality.

(2) "Grant" means a cash payment of public funds made directly to a water activity enterprise by the state or a local governmental entity or a district, which cash payment is not required to be repaid. "Grant" does not include public funds paid or advanced to a water activity enterprise by the state or a local governmental entity or district in exchange for an agreement by a water activity enterprise to provide services including the provision of water, the capacity of project works, materials, or other water activities, nor does “grant” include refunds made in the current or next fiscal year, gifts, any payments directly or indirectly from federal funds or earnings on federal funds, collections for another government, pension contributions by employees and pension fund earnings, reserve transfers or expenditures, damage awards, or property sales.

(3) “Water activity” includes but is not limited to the diversion, storage, carriage, delivery, distribution, collection, treatment, use, reuse, augmentation, exchange, or discharge of water and includes the provision of wholesale or retail water or wastewater or storm water services and the acquisition of water or water rights.

(4) “Water activity enterprise” includes any government water activity business owned by a district, which enterprise receives under ten percent of its annual revenues in grants from all Colorado state and local governments combined and which is authorized to issue its own revenue bonds pursuant to this article or any other applicable law.

(5) “Water project or facility” includes a dam, storage reservoir, compensatory or replacement reservoir, canal, conduit, pipeline, tunnel, power plant, water or wastewater treatment facility, and any and all works, facilities, improvements, and property necessary or convenient for the purpose of conducting a water activity.

37-45.1-103. Establishment of enterprises. (1) Any district which under applicable provisions of law has its own bonding authority may establish or may continue to maintain water activity enterprises for the purpose of pursuing or continuing water activities, including water acquisition or water project or facility activities, including the construction, operation, repair, and replacement of water or wastewater facilities. Any water activity enterprise established or maintained pursuant to this article is excluded from the provisions of section 20 of article X of the state constitution.

(2) (a) Each water activity enterprise shall be wholly owned by a single district and shall not be combined with any water activity enterprise owned by another district; however, each district may establish more than one water activity enterprise and each water activity enterprise may conduct or continue to conduct one or more water activities as may be determined by the governing body of the water activity enterprise.

(b) This subsection (2) shall not limit the authority of a water activity enterprise to contract with any other person or entity, including other districts or water activity enterprises.

(3) The governing body of the water activity enterprise shall be the governing body of the district which owns the enterprise or such governing body as may be prescribed by applicable laws, city and county, county, or municipal charters, county resolutions, municipal ordinances, or intergovernmental agreements which designate a different governing body for the water activity enterprise.

(4) The governing body of each water activity enterprise may exercise the district’s legal authority relating to water activities, but no enterprise may levy a tax which is subject to section 20 (4) of article X of the state constitution.

Source: L. 93: Entire article added, p. 103, § 1, effective March 30.

37-45.1-104. Enterprise revenue bonding authority. (1) Each water activity enterprise, through its governing body, may issue or reissue revenue bonds in accordance with and through the provisions of subsection (2) of this section.

(2) The water activity enterprise is authorized to issue or reissue bonds, notes, or other obligations payable from the revenues derived or to be derived from the function, service, benefits, or facility or the combined functions, services, benefits, or facilities of the enterprise or from any other available funds of the enterprise. The terms, conditions, and details of said bonds, notes, and other obligations, the procedures related thereto, and the refunding thereof shall be set forth in the resolution authorizing said bonds, notes, or other obligations and shall, as nearly as may be practicable, be substantially the same as those provided in part 4 of article 35 of title 31, C.R.S., relating to water and sewer revenue bonds; except that the purposes for which the same may be issued shall not be so limited and except that said bonds, notes, and other obligations may be sold at public or private sale. Each bond, note, or other obligation issued under this subsection (2) shall recite in substance that said bond, note, or other obligation, including the interest thereon, is payable from the revenues and other available funds of the water activity enterprise pledged for the payment thereof. Notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary, such bonds, notes, and other obligations may be issued to mature at such times not beyond forty years from their respective issue dates, shall bear interest at such rates, and shall be sold at, above, or below the principal amount thereof, all as shall be determined by the governing body of the water activity enterprise. Notwithstanding anything in this section to the contrary, in the case of short-term notes or other obligations maturing not later than one year after the date of issuance thereof, the governing body of the water activity enterprise may authorize officials of the enterprise to fix principal amounts, maturity dates, interest rates, and purchase prices of any particular issue of such short-term notes or obligations, subject to such limitations as to maximum term, maximum principal amount outstanding, and maximum net effective interest rates as the governing body shall prescribe by resolution. Such action may be taken only at a public meeting preceded by adequate notice, and the action of the governing body of the water activity enterprise shall be properly recorded on the permanent records of the governing body of the enterprise. The powers provided in this section for water activity enterprises shall not modify, limit, or affect the powers conferred by any other law either directly or indirectly.

37-45.1-105. Article X, section 20 matters. (1) Contracts pertaining to a water project, facility, or activity entered into prior to November 4, 1992, and bonded indebtedness incurred prior to November 4, 1992, or refunding of such bonded indebtedness, which involve a levy or assessment or a pledge of a levy or assessment under any provision of law governing the district to provide revenues to the district or cover default or deficiencies in bonded indebtedness payments are not affected or impaired by the passage of section 20 of article X of the state constitution.

(2) Lands which are included in a district with authority to conduct a water activity shall be subject to the same mill levies and other taxes levied or to be levied on other similarly situated lands at the time such additional lands are included. Such newly included lands are additions to taxable real property, and application of such levies and other taxes to such newly included lands is not subject to the limitations of section 20 (4) of article X of the state constitution. This subsection (2) is intended to place newly included lands and similarly situated existing lands within a district on an equal basis.

(3) Water project loan agreements subject to repayment or contracts for services including the provision of water, capacity of project works, materials, or other water activities, which involve the payment of funds for such services to a district or its water activity enterprise by a state or local governmental entity or by another district or water activity enterprise, shall not be considered "grants" within the meaning of section 20 (2) (d) of article X of the state constitution. Notwithstanding the provisions of section 6 (3) of article XI of the state constitution, where such agreement or contract shall in whole or in part constitute a general obligation of such local governmental entity or district, and where such agreement or contract provides that such local governmental entity or district shall be required to accept and pay for water, capacity, materials, or other water activities agreed or contracted for by a defaulting local governmental entity or district, such agreement or contract shall not be entered into unless the question of incurring such general obligation has been submitted to and approved at an election conducted by such local governmental entity or district in accordance with applicable election laws.

37-45.1-106. Contracts. (1) A district or its water activity enterprise may contract with the Colorado water conservation board or any other governmental source of funding for loans and grants related to water activity enterprise functions, and a district or its water activity enterprise may contract with the Colorado water resources and power development authority for loans or other available financial assistance related to water activity enterprise functions.

(2) Revenues collected by a district for services rendered by a water activity enterprise which it owns, including but not limited to the revenues raised by rates on each class of service under article 45, 46, 47, or 48 of this title, are not subject to the limitations of subsections (4) and (7) of section 20 of article X of the state constitution.

(3) The rates or a change in the rates charged by a district for its water activity enterprise services, including the provision of water, capacity of project works, materials, or other water activities provided by or through the water activity enterprise, shall not be deemed a tax subject to the limitations of section 20 (4) and (7) of article X of the state constitution.

37-45.1-107. Construction. The authority of this article is in addition to all other authority provided by law. Nothing contained in this article shall be construed to require the establishment, operation, or continuation of a water activity enterprise or to limit the authority of any state or local government to utilize other policies and procedures for establishing, operating, or continuing water activity enterprises or to establish and operate other types of enterprises for any other lawful purpose.

37-46-101. Legislative declaration. In the opinion of the general assembly of the state of Colorado, the conservation of the water of the Colorado river in Colorado for storage, irrigation, mining, and manufacturing purposes and the construction of reservoirs, ditches, and works for the purpose of irrigation and reclamation of additional lands not yet irrigated, as well as to furnish a supplemental supply of water for lands now under irrigation, are of vital importance to the growth and development of the entire district and the welfare of all its inhabitants and that, to promote the health and general welfare of the state of Colorado, an appropriate agency for the conservation, use, and development of the water resources of the Colorado river and its principal tributaries should be established and given such powers as may be necessary to safeguard for Colorado, all waters to which the state of Colorado is equitably entitled under the Colorado river compact.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Water Conservancy Districts", see 22 Rocky Mt. L. Rev. 432 (1950). For article, "Legal Classification of Special District Corporate Forms in Colorado", see 45 Den. L.J. 347 (1968).

37-46-102. Definitions. As used in this article, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Colorado river" is construed to embrace and include any tributaries or streams which flow into the Colorado river which may be found in any part of the territory embraced in said district.

(2) "District" means the "Colorado River Water Conservation District". The district is a body corporate and politic and a political subdivision of the state of Colorado.

(3) "Person" means a person, firm, partnership, association, or corporation.

(4) "Property", as used in sections 37-46-109 (1), 37-46-109.3, 37-46-126 (1), and 37-46-126.2 to 37-46-126.6, includes both real and personal property. In other parts of said article relating to special assessments, unless otherwise specified, it means real estate as the words "real estate" are defined by the law of the state of Colorado and embraces all railroads, tram roads, electric railroads, state and interurban railroads, highways, telephone, telegraph, and transmission lines, water systems, water rights, pipelines, and rights-of-way of public service corporations, and all other real property, whether held for public or private use.

(5) "Subdistrict" or "subdivision" embraces and includes the kind or character of special improvement districts created under the provisions of this article, including subdistricts organized under the name and style of "Water Users' Association No. .... of the Colorado River Water Conservation District" and "Special Improvement District No. .... of the Colorado River Water Conservation District". A subdistrict or subdivision is a body corporate and politic and a political subdivision of the state of Colorado.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Highlights of the 1955 Colorado Legislative Session — Water", see 28 Rocky Mt. L. Rev. 58 (1955).

37-46-104. Board of directors. (1) The Colorado river water conservation district shall be managed and controlled by a board of fifteen directors. One of said directors shall be from each of the respective counties in said district. He shall be selected by the board of county commissioners of the county in which he resides. He may be a member of the board of county commissioners of such county. He shall have been a resident of such county, or if only a part of a county is included within the boundaries of the said district, a resident of such included part for a period of at least two years prior to the date of his appointment and shall be a freeholder who has paid taxes in the county of his residence during the calendar year next preceding his appointment. The members of said board shall hold office for a term of three years and until their successors are appointed and qualified, except as otherwise provided in this article. The regular term of office of each director shall commence on the third Tuesday of January following his appointment. The board of county commissioners of the county in which a director, whose term of office is about to expire, resides shall, at its first meeting in January, appoint a successor who shall take office on the third Tuesday in January following his appointment.

(2) The members of the board of directors of said district who are now in office shall hold their respective office for the period of time for which they were selected to serve, and their tenure of office shall not be affected by this amendatory section. Within sixty days after April 7, 1961, each of the boards of county commissioners of the counties of Hinsdale and Saguache shall appoint a director from such county with the qualifications above prescribed to serve as a member of the board of directors of the Colorado river water conservation district. The director from Hinsdale county shall hold office until the third Tuesday of January, 1962, and the director from Saguache county shall hold office until the third Tuesday of January, 1963. Upon expiration of the several terms of office of the directors appointed under the terms of this section, successors shall be appointed as provided in this section to serve for the regular term of three years.

37-46-106. Vacancies - secretary and treasurer. The office of director shall become vacant when any member ceases to reside in the county from which he was appointed. In the event a vacancy occurs in said office by reason of death, resignation, removal, or otherwise, it shall be filled by the board of county commissioners of the county from which said member originally came. Before entering upon the discharge of his duties, each director shall take an oath to support and defend the constitutions of the United States and of the state of Colorado and to impartially, without fear or favor, discharge the duties of a director of said district. The board of directors of said district shall appoint a secretary and a treasurer. The same individual may at the election of the board hold both of said offices. The board shall likewise hire such other employees, including engineers and attorneys, as may be required to properly transact the business of the district, and said board is authorized to provide for the compensation of the secretary and treasurer and other appointees. The treasurer shall be required by the board to give bond with corporate surety in such amount as the board may fix and which it deems sufficient to protect the funds in the hands of the treasurer or under his control. Such bond is subject to the approval of the board.

37-46-107. General powers. (1) In its corporate capacity, the district shall have the power:

(a) To sue and be sued in the name of the Colorado river water conservation district;

(b) To acquire, operate, and hold in the name of the district such real and personal property as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this article and to sell and convey such property or its products, as provided in this article, or when said property is no longer needed for the purposes of said district;

(c) To make surveys and conduct investigations to determine the best manner of utilizing stream flows within the district and the amount of such stream flow or other water supply, and to locate ditches, irrigation works, and reservoirs to store or utilize water for irrigation, mining, manufacturing, or other purposes, and to make filings upon said water and initiate appropriations for the use and benefit of the ultimate appropriators, and to perform all acts and things necessary or advisable to secure and insure an adequate supply of water, present and future, for irrigation, mining, manufacturing, and domestic purposes within said districts;

(d) To make contracts with respect to the relative rights of said district under its claims and filings and the rights of any other person, association, or organization seeking to divert water from any of the streams within said district;

(e) To contract with any agencies, officers, bureaus, and departments of the state of Colorado or the United States, including the department of corrections, to obtain services or labor for the initiation, the construction, or any other acquisition of irrigation works, ditches and ditch rights, canals, reservoirs, power plants, or retaining ponds within the district or to acquire, by purchase, rental, lease, or exchange, water, water rights, or electricity (or any combination thereof) from the state or the United States, acting by and through any such agency, officer, bureau, or department, but not to acquire any electricity for sale by the district as a public utility either to the public or to any other user (other than any sale to any subdistrict or to any water conservancy district located wholly or in part within the Colorado river water conservation district and other than any sale of electricity at wholesale to any person or governmental entity);

(f) To enter upon any privately owned land or other real property for the purpose of making surveys or obtaining other information, without obtaining any order so to do, but without causing any more damage than is necessary to crops or vegetation upon such land;

(g) To organize special assessment districts at different times for the purpose of establishing effective agencies to secure funds to construct reservoirs or other irrigation works under various types and plans of financing, including, among others, by issuance of revenue warrants only, by the issuance of bonds or revenue obligations constituting a lien up to a specified amount against the lands in said special improvement district, and payable out of special assessments or by general obligations of such special improvement districts;

(h) To contract with the United States government, the bureau of reclamation, or other agencies of the United States government for the construction of any such works and the issuance of such obligations as the special improvement districts may have the power to issue in payment of costs of construction and maintenance of said works;

(i) To have and exercise the power of eminent domain and, in general, to have and exercise rights and powers of eminent domain conferred upon other agencies as provided in articles 1 to 7 of title 38, C.R.S.; but the district, any subdivision thereof, or the special improvement districts therein shall neither have nor exercise the power of eminent domain against the state or state agencies nor acquire thereby any electric generation facilities, electric distribution lines, or any conditional or absolute decrees for the use of water;

(j) To file upon and hold for the use of the public sufficient water of any natural stream to maintain a constant stream flow in the amount necessary to preserve fish and to use such water in connection with retaining ponds for the propagation of fish for the benefit of the public;

(k) To exercise such implied powers and perform such other acts as may be necessary to carry out and effect any of the express powers hereby conferred upon such district;

(1) To participate in the formulation and implementation of nonpoint source water pollution control programs related to agricultural practices in order to implement programs required or authorized under federal law and section 25-8-205 (5), C.R.S., enter into contracts and agreements, accept funds from any federal, state, or private sources, receive grants or loans, participate in education and demonstration programs, construct, operate, maintain, or replace facilities, and perform such other activities and adopt such rules and policies as the board deems necessary or desirable in connection with nonpoint source water pollution control programs related to agricultural practices.

(2) The board of directors of the district acting as the governing body, in the name and on the behalf of the district, may issue revenue bonds to finance, in whole or in part, the construction or other acquisition of works, reservoirs, or other improvements for the beneficial use of water for the purposes for which it has been or may be appropriated, including, without limitation, the hydrogeneration of electricity, or the acquisition by purchase, rental, lease, or exchange of water, or the purchase or exchange of water rights or electricity and appurtenances (or any combination thereof), and to finance incidental expenses pertaining thereto, whether or not the interest on such bonds may be subject to taxation. Such revenue bonds shall be issued in such denominations and with such maximum net effective interest rate as may be fixed by the board of directors of the district and shall bear interest such that the net effective interest rate of the bonds does not exceed the maximum net effective interest rate authorized. The board shall pledge only bond proceeds, sale proceeds, rental or lease proceeds, service charges, and other income from such works or other improvements or from the sale, rental, or lease of water or the sale of electricity (or any combination thereof), and the district shall not be otherwise obligated for the payment thereof. At the time such revenue bonds are issued, the board of directors of the district shall make and enter in the minutes of the proceeding a resolution in which the due dates of such revenue bonds, the rates of interest thereon, the general provisions of the bonds, and a recital that the same are payable only out of bond proceeds, sale proceeds, rental and lease proceeds, service charges, and other income from such works or other improvements and from the sale, rental, lease, or exchange of water or the sale or exchange of electricity (or any combination thereof) are set forth. In addition, the board of directors shall require the payment of rental or lease charges, service charges, or other charges by the political subdivisions or persons who are to use or derive benefits from the water or other services furnished by such works or improvements or otherwise. Such charges shall be sufficient to pay operation and maintenance expenses thereof, to meet said bond payments, to accumulate and maintain reserve and replacement accounts pertaining thereto as set forth in such resolution, and to provide funds sufficient for the further development of water resources for all of the foregoing beneficial purposes. Such resolution shall be irrevocable during the time that any of the revenue bonds are outstanding and unpaid. Except as provided in sections 11-55-101 to 11-55-106, C.R.S., the revenue bonds shall be signed "Colorado River Water Conservation District, By ....., President. Attest ....., Secretary", and they shall be countersigned by the treasurer.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Water for Recreation: A Plea for Recognition", see 44 Den. L.J. 288 (1967).

District must make same developmental efforts as other appropriators. Subsection (1)(c) does not relieve a water district of the requirement to make the same developmental efforts as required of other appropriators in order to support a finding of reasonable diligence in the development of appropriations under conditional water rights. Colo. River Water Conservation Dist. v. City & County of Denver, 640 P.2d 1139 (Colo. 1982).

There is no support in the law of Colorado for the proposition that a minimum flow of water may be "appropriated" in a natural stream for piscatorial purposes without diversion of any portion of the water "appropriated" from the natural course of the stream. By the enactment of this section the general assembly did not intend to bring about such an extreme departure from well established doctrine, and the supreme court holds that no such departure was brought about by said section. Colo. River Water Conservation Dist. v. Rocky Mt. Power Co., 158 Colo. 331, 406 P.2d 798 (1965).

Appropriations for piscatorial purposes without diversion intended. The general assembly in the enactment of the second sentence in subsection (4) of § 37-92-103 and subsection (1)(j) of this section intended to have appropriations for piscatorial purposes without diversion. Colo. River Water Conservation Dist. v. Colo. Water Conservation Bd., 197 Colo. 469, 594 P.2d 570 (1979).

37-46-108. Principal office - meetings. The board of directors of said district shall designate a place within the district where the principal office is to be maintained and may change such place from time to time. Regular quarterly meetings of said board shall be held at said office on the third Tuesday in the months of January, April, July, and October. The board is also empowered to hold such special meetings as may be required for the proper transaction of business. All special meetings of the board shall be held at locations which are within the boundaries of the district or which are within the boundaries of any county in which the district is located, in whole or in part, or in any county so long as the meeting location does not exceed twenty miles from the district boundaries. The provisions of this section governing the location of meetings may be waived only if the proposed change of location of a meeting of the board appears on the agenda of a regular or special meeting of the board and if a resolution is adopted by the board stating the reason for which a meeting of the board is to be held in a location other than under the provisions of this section and further stating the date, time, and place of such meeting. Special meetings may be called by the president of the board or by any three directors. Meetings of the board shall be public, and proper minutes of the proceedings of said board shall be preserved and shall be open to the inspection of any elector of the district during business hours.

37-46-109. Authority of board to levy taxes. (1) (a) In addition to other means of providing revenue for the district, the board of directors has the power to fix the amount of an assessment upon the property within the district, not to exceed two and one-half mills for every dollar of valuation for assessment therein as a level or general levy to be used for the purpose of paying the expenses of organization, for surveys and plans, to pay the salaries of officers and the per diem allowed to directors and their expenses, for the costs and expenses of construction or partial construction of any project designed or intended to accomplish the utilization of water, by storage or otherwise, for any beneficial uses or purposes, and for other incidental expenses which may be incurred in the administration of the affairs of the district.

(b) and (c) Repealed.

(d) Upon the receipt of any proceeds of a tax levy made under paragraph (a) of this subsection (1), if any items of expense have already been paid in whole or in part from any other sources by the district, they may be repaid from receipts of such levy. Such levy may be made, although the work proposed or any part thereof may have been found impractical or for other reasons abandoned. The collection of data and the payment of expenses therefor, including the compensation of engineers and attorneys and clerical assistants, to conserve the water of the district and to enable the district to adopt plans and projects for the orderly development of the district are hereby declared to be a matter of general benefit to the public welfare and such that taxes for said purposes may be properly imposed in the opinion of the general assembly.

(e) If this subsection (1) or any clause, phrase, or part thereof is held unconstitutional or invalid by any court of competent jurisdiction, such decision shall not affect the validity or force of any other part of this section or any other part of this law, and the general assembly hereby declares it would have enacted the remainder of this article without this subsection (1).

(2) The board of said district may, in lieu of the level or general tax authorized by subsection (1) of this section, levy special assessments upon all real estate within the district, except such real estate as is exempted in this article, to raise funds to pay expenses of organization, salaries, expenses, and per diem allowances of officers and directors and to prepare a general plan for the maintenance of constant stream flow and adequate water supplies in all the principal tributaries and the main stream of the Colorado river in said district and provide for future development of the district and insure water therefor. Such assessments shall be made in proportion to the benefits to each piece of real estate accruing by reason of the adoption of a comprehensive plan of development of the natural resources of the district as a whole. The board of directors, if it deems it advisable at any time before levying special assessments, shall appraise the benefits to the several parcels of real estate within the district which shall result from the organization of said district and the general plans and development aforesaid. The board may adopt rules for such purpose and provide inter alia for notice and hearing to all persons affected thereby. A permanent record, arranged by counties, of the benefits which will accrue to each tract of land shall be kept, and such benefits shall be apportioned over a series of years, the amount to be collected each year to be in the discretion of the board; but the amount of such assessment to be levied and assessed against the real property in said district in any one year shall not exceed a total of seventy-five hundred dollars, and it is hereby declared that the amount of special benefits accruing annually to the real estate in said district is in excess of such amount. All property owned by the state, counties, cities, towns, school districts, or other governmental agencies shall be exempt from taxation or special levies under this article.

(3) Prior to October 15 of each year in which an assessment is made, the board of directors shall appoint a time and place where it will meet within the district for the purpose of hearing objections to assessments at least thirty days prior to the dates so appointed. Notice of such hearing shall be given by posting a notice thereof at or near the door of the treasurer's office in each county in said district and by publishing said notice in a legal newspaper not less than three consecutive times within a period of thirty days, immediately prior to the hearing. The notice posted in each county shall be sufficient if it pertains to the property subject to assessment in said county only and need not contain the description of, or any reference to, property situated in other counties also affected by such assessment. The notice shall contain a description of the real estate so assessed in the county in which said notice is posted and published, the amount of the assessment fixed by the board, and the time and place fixed by the board for the hearing of objections to such assessments. It shall not be necessary for the notice to contain a separate description of the lots or tracts of real estate, but it shall be sufficient if the said notice contains such descriptions as will inform the owner whether or not his real estate is covered by such descriptions, and to inform the owner of the amount of special assessments thereon.

(4) If, in the opinion of any person whose real estate is assessed, his property has been assessed too high or has been erroneously or illegally assessed, at any time before the date of such hearing, he may file written objections to such assessments, stating the ground of such objections, which statement shall be verified by the affidavit of said person or some other person familiar with the facts. At such hearing the board shall hear such evidence and argument as may be offered concerning the correctness or legality of such assessment and may modify or amend the same. Any owner of property desiring to appeal from the finding of the board as to assessments, within thirty days from the finding of the board, shall file with the clerk of the district court of the county in which the property is situated, a written notice making demand for a trial by the court. At the same time, the appellant shall file a bond with good and sufficient security, to be approved by the clerk of said court, in a sum not exceeding two hundred dollars, to the effect that, if the finding of the court is not more favorable to the appellant than the finding of the board, the appellant will pay the costs of the appeal. The appellant shall state definitely from what part of the order the appeal is taken. In case more than one appeal is taken, upon a showing that the same may be consolidated without injury to the interests of anyone, the court may consolidate and try the appeals together.

(5) The court shall not disturb the findings of the board unless the finding of the board in any case is manifestly disproportionate to the assessments imposed upon other property in the district created under this article. The trial shall be to the court, and the matter shall take precedence before the court and shall be taken up as promptly as may be after the appeal is filed. If no appeal is taken from the finding of the board within the time prescribed in this section, or after the finding of the district court in case an appeal is taken from the finding of the board, then said assessments shall be final and conclusive evidence that said assessments have been made in proportion to the benefits conferred upon each tract of real estate of said district by reason of the general plans of survey, comprehensive plan of development, and the completion of improvements to be constructed under the provisions of this article, and such assessments shall constitute a perpetual lien as provided in section 37-46-121 upon the real estate so assessed until paid.

37-46-109.3. Taxes - determination and collection. (1) In addition to other means of providing revenue for the district, the board of directors, in the name of the district, has the power to levy and collect general ad valorem taxes on or against all taxable property within the district, subject to the limitations provided in section 37-46-109 (1).

(2) To levy and collect general ad valorem taxes, the board shall determine in each year the amount of money to be raised by taxation, including, without limitation, tax levies to retire and pay indebtedness incurred by the district by contract other than the issuance of bonds pursuant to section 37-46-133 and other provisions in this article supplemental thereto, taking into consideration other sources of revenue of the district, and shall fix a rate of levy, without limitation as to rate or amount, but subject to the limitations provided in section 37-46-109 (1), which, when levied upon every dollar of valuation for assessment of taxable property within the district and together with any other moneys of the district, will raise the amount required by the district annually to supply funds for the payment of costs and expenses specified in section 37-46-109 (1) and this subsection (2).

(3) In accordance with the schedule prescribed by section 39-5-128, C.R.S., the board of directors shall certify to the board of county commissioners of each county within the district or having a portion of its territory within the district the rate so fixed in order that, at the time and in the manner required by law for the levying of taxes, such board of county commissioners shall levy such tax upon the valuation for assessment of all taxable property within the district.

(4) The body having authority to levy taxes within each such county shall levy the taxes certified to it, and all officials charged with the duty of collecting taxes shall collect such taxes levied by the district in accordance with sections 37-46-126.5 and 37-46-126.6.

37-46-109.4. Levies to cover district's deficiencies. The board of directors, in certifying annual levies for the district, shall take into account the maturing indebtedness incurred by the district by contract other than the issuance of bonds for the ensuing year as provided in its contracts and deficiencies and defaults of prior years and shall make ample provision for the payment thereof. In case the moneys produced from such levies, together with other revenues of the district, are not sufficient to pay punctually the annual installments of such contracts and interest thereon and to pay defaults and deficiencies, the board shall make such additional levies of taxes as may be necessary for such purposes, and such taxes shall be made and shall continue to be levied until the indebtedness of the district is fully paid.

37-46-110. Organization. (1) Notwithstanding the organization of the district provided for in this section, public irrigation districts organized under and pursuant to article 4 of chapter 149, CRS 53, and irrigation districts organized under and pursuant to articles 41 and 42 of this title, and any other form or organization designed or intended to acquire, construct, or maintain reservoirs, ditches, and similar works for irrigation or other beneficial purposes under any law of the state of Colorado or of the United States may be organized to cover and include areas within the Colorado river water conservation district and may likewise embrace territory within that district and partly out of the district. The board of directors, whenever in their opinion such form of organization will help promote the local interests or accomplish improvements for any part of said district, may recommend the organization of any such type of organization.

(2) In addition to such forms of organization, whenever in the opinion of the board of directors of said district it is feasible and necessary that ditches, canals, reservoirs, or other works which benefit only a part of the district should be constructed, a local improvement district or subdivision, or as many of such local improvement districts as may be necessary, may be created as provided in this article. Said local improvement district, when organized under the provisions of this law, shall be designated as "Water Users' Association No. .... in the Colorado River Water Conservation District", or as "Special Improvement District No. .... in the Colorado River Water Conservation District". Each subdistrict shall be numbered consecutively as created or organized. The board of directors, the engineers, attorneys, secretary, and other officers, agents, and employees of the district, so far as it may be necessary, shall serve in the same capacity for such subdivisions or subdistricts. A contract and agreement between the main district and the subdistrict may be made in the same manner as contracts and agreements between two districts.

Editor's note: The public irrigation law, article 4 of chapter 149, CRS 53, referred to in subsection (1), was repealed, but the provisions of said article 4 were preserved as to all districts formed under that article prior to 1963. (See L. 63, p. 1009.)

37-46-111. Rules and regulations. The district has the power to make general rules and regulations for the conduct of its business, as well as the conduct of the business of any subdistrict therein, and by such rules and regulations may provide for the rental of water or other services which are to be furnished by said subdistrict, to any municipality, public irrigation district, or irrigation district, or other quasi-municipal corporation in this state, and to make contracts for the payment of the rental to be charged for any such water or services.

37-46-112. Petition. (1) Before any subdistrict is established under this article, a petition shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the district court of the county in which the territory to be embraced in said subdistrict, or the greater part thereof is situate, signed by the board of directors of the district or by a majority of the owners of land situate within the limits of the territory proposed to be organized into a subdistrict.

(2) The petition shall set forth:

(a) The proposed name of said subdistrict, whether it shall be designated "Water Users' Association No. .... in the Colorado River Water Conservation District", or "Special Improvement District No. .... in the Colorado River Water Conservation District";

(b) That property within the proposed subdistrict will be benefited by the proposed reservoirs, ditches, canals, works, or other improvements and shall set forth in a general way the nature and estimated cost thereof, together with a general statement of the nature of the anticipated benefits to be derived therefrom;

(c) A full description of the territory to be included in the proposed subdistrict. The description need not be given by metes and bounds or by legal subdivision, but it shall be sufficient to enable a property owner to ascertain whether his property is within the territory proposed to be organized in a subdistrict. Such territory need not be contiguous, if it is so situated that the organization as a single subdistrict of the territory described is such as to promote one or more of the objectives of this article as to all parts of the area proposed to be included.

(d) A general description of the methods proposed to finance the proposed works or other improvements, whether by revenue warrants pledging the income from the proposed works, special improvement bonds to be paid by special assessments on the property benefited in an amount on each tract of land not in excess of the appraised benefits, contracts of water users or water users' associations creating liens or mortgages on lands within the subdistrict, or general obligation bonds constituting a lien against the real property embraced in such subdistrict, and which indebtedness shall never be an obligation of the district itself. If general obligations are proposed, the petition shall allege and show that all lands in the subdistrict will be benefited in an amount not less than the total amount of general obligation bonds to be issued exclusive of interest.

(e) If such a petition is filed by the board of directors of the district, it shall contain a statement to the effect that a majority of the landowners of the territory in the proposed subdistrict petitioned the board of directors to organize said subdistrict, and a copy of the petition of said landowners shall be attached as an exhibit to the petition for organization of the subdistrict.

(f) The petition shall pray for the organization of a subdistrict by the name proposed.

(3) To determine whether a majority of landowners in said district have signed the petition, in the event the petition is signed by landowners, or have petitioned the board of directors of the district, in the event the petition is filed by the board of directors, the court may require the county treasurer of each county in which territory proposed to be included in said subdistrict is situated to furnish a certified list of names of landowners within said area, and the court shall be governed by the names as they appear upon said copy of the tax roll, and the same shall be prima facie evidence of ownership, and, if said tax roll shows a majority of the landowners have signed the main petition or petitioned the district for said organization, the same shall be considered as prima facie evidence that a majority of said landowners are in favor of the organization of said proposed subdistrict.

37-46-113. Notice of hearing on petition. (1) Immediately after the filing of such petition, the court wherein such petition is filed, by order, shall fix a place and time, not less than sixty days nor more than ninety days after the petition is filed, for hearing thereon, and thereupon the clerk of said court shall cause notice by publication, which may be substantially the same as provided in section 37-8-101, to be made of the pendency of the petition and of the time and place of the hearing thereon. The clerk of said court shall also forthwith cause a copy of said notice to be mailed by United States registered mail to the board of county commissioners of each of the several counties having territory within the proposed subdistrict and to the board of directors of said district in the event that said petition is filed by the landowners.

(2) The district court in and for the county in which the petition for the organization of a subdistrict has been filed, for all purposes of this article, except as otherwise provided in this article, thereafter shall maintain and have original and exclusive jurisdiction coextensive with the boundaries of said subdistrict of lands and other property proposed to be included in said subdistrict or affected by said district, without regard to the usual limits of its jurisdiction.

(3) No judge of such court wherein such petition is filed shall be disqualified to perform any duty imposed by this article by reason of ownership of property within any subdistrict or proposed subdistrict or by reason of ownership of any property that may be benefited, taxed, or assessed therein.

37-46-114. Protesting of petitions. (1) At any time after the filing of a petition for the organization of a subdistrict, and not less than thirty days prior to the time fixed by the order of the court for the hearing upon said petition, and not thereafter, a protest may be filed in the office of the clerk of the court wherein the proceedings for the organization of such subdistrict is pending, signed by a majority of the owners of the land in said proposed subdistrict protesting the organization or creation of said subdistrict. It is the duty of the clerk of the court forthwith, upon filing of said protest, to make as many certified copies thereof, including the signatures thereto, as there are counties into any part of which said proposed subdistrict extends and forthwith to place in the hands of the county treasurer of each of such counties one of said certified copies.

(2) It is the duty of each of such county treasurers to determine from the last tax rolls of his county, and to certify to said district court under his official seal, prior to the day fixed for the hearing, the total number of owners of land situate in such proposed subdistrict within his county and the total number of owners of land situate in such proposed subdistrict within his county who have signed such protest. Such certificate shall constitute prima facie evidence of the facts so stated therein and shall be so received and considered by the court.

(3) Upon the day set for the hearing upon the original petition, if it appears to the court from such certificate and from such other evidence as may be adduced by any party in interest that the said protest is not signed by a majority of the owners of land within the proposed subdistrict, the court shall thereupon dismiss said protest and shall proceed with the hearing on the petition. If it appears to the court at said hearing that the protest is signed by any person or corporation who signed the original petition for the organization of said subdistrict, either to the court or to the district, then the signature of any such landowner upon the protest shall be disregarded and not counted. The board of county commissioners of any county in which any part of said proposed subdistrict is situate, or any owner of real property in said proposed subdistrict who has not signed the petition for the organization of said subdistrict, on or before the date set for the cause to be heard, may file objections to the organization and incorporation of the district. Such objections shall be limited to a denial of the statements in the petition and shall be heard by the court as an advanced case without unnecessary delay.

(4) Upon said hearing, if it appears that said petition has been signed and presented in accordance with the requirements of this article and that the allegations of the petition are true, the court shall enter a decree and therein adjudicate all questions of jurisdiction and declare the subdistrict organized and designate the name of said subdistrict, by which in all subsequent proceedings it shall thereafter be designated and known, and thereafter said subdistrict shall be deemed a special improvement district.

(5) Such order shall be binding upon the real property within the subdistrict, and no appeal or other remedy shall lie therefrom, and entry of such order shall finally and conclusively establish the regular organization of said subdistrict against all persons except the state of Colorado in an action in the nature of quo warranto to be commenced by the attorney general within three months after said decree is entered and not otherwise. Within ten days after such subdistrict has been declared duly organized by the court, the clerk of said court shall transmit to the county clerk and recorder in each of the counties having lands in said subdistrict copies of the findings and decree of the court establishing said subdistrict. The same shall be recorded in the office of the county clerk and recorder, where they shall become permanent records.

37-46-115. Board of directors to prepare plans. Upon organization of such subdistrict, the board of directors of said district, acting as the board of directors of said subdistrict, are authorized and required to prepare and adopt as the official plans for said subdistrict a comprehensive detailed plan showing the nature of the improvements or works, including all canals, reservoirs, and ditches, whether within or without the district, and the estimated cost of each principal part of said system or works.

37-46-116. Appointment of appraisers. As soon as such official plan has been prepared and adopted and is on file in the office of said district, upon petition of the district, the court shall appoint a board of appraisers consisting of three members. The qualifications of said appraisers and all proceedings before them shall be in accordance with the provisions of the law pertaining to the duties and qualifications of appraisers under the conservancy law of Colorado as set forth in article 4 of this title; except that, where reference is made in said law to districts, it shall apply to subdistricts organized under this article.

37-46-117. Compensation of appraisers. Appraisers when appointed under the provisions of this article shall receive a compensation of ten dollars per day during the time that they are engaged in the performance of their duties.

Source: L. 37: p. 1017, § 15. CSA: C. 138, § 199(15). CRS 53: § 149-8-15. C.R.S. 1963: § 150-7-15.

37-46-118. Board bound by financing plan. (1) The board of directors of the district shall be bound by the plan of financing set forth in the petition for the organization of the subdistrict and approved by decree of the district court. The appointment of appraisers shall not be necessary in the event that the plan adopted provides that general obligations of the subdistrict are to be issued or provides for the issuance of revenue warrants which are a lien and charge upon the rental and income from the irrigation works or reservoirs or other improvements to be constructed under the plan adopted and the rental derived from any such works.

(2) The warrants shall be payable in such denominations, with a maximum net effective interest rate which may be fixed by the board of directors of said district pursuant to the order and decree of the court. Such warrants shall bear interest such that the net effective interest rate of the warrants does not exceed the maximum net effective interest rate authorized. The board shall pledge the income and rentals from said irrigation works or water supplied therethrough, and the subdistrict shall not be otherwise obligated for the payment thereof.

(3) At the time said revenue warrants are issued, the board of directors of the district shall make and enter in the minutes of the proceeding a resolution in which the due dates of said revenue warrants, the rate of interest thereon, the general provisions of said bonds, and a recital that the same are payable out of rental and income only are set forth and shall require the payment of an assessment or annual rental charge by the persons who are to use or derive benefit from the water or other service furnished through said improvements or works, sufficient to meet said payments, and the resolution shall be irrevocable during the time that any of said revenue warrants are outstanding and unpaid. The revenue warrants shall be signed "Water Users' Association No. .... in the Colorado River Water Conservation District, By ....., President. Attest ....., Secretary" or "Special Improvement District No. .... in the Colorado River Water Conservation District, By ....., President. Attest ....., Secretary". They shall be countersigned by the treasurer.

(4) General obligation bonds of said subdistrict shall be signed in the same manner as provided in this section for revenue warrants and shall recite that the same are issued pursuant to the provisions of this article and are to be payable at the time and in the manner and with the rate of interest therein specified and that the same were issued under and pursuant to a decree of court and a resolution of the board of directors authorizing the issue of said obligations and referring to the date of said resolution. Said bonds shall further recite that they are payable from funds to be derived by assessments and tax levies against the property in said subdistrict and not otherwise, and that the same are not to be deemed as an obligation of the Colorado river water conservation district but only as an obligation of said subdistrict, and that the district itself is not obligated in any manner for the payment of said bonds.

37-46-119. Directors may make assessments. (1) In the event that the plans for the organization of said district, including the petition and the decree entered thereon, provide for a plan of financing the construction or acquisition of the works, or other improvements proposed, by special assessments to be levied against the appraised benefits to property within said subdistrict, then the board of directors may make assessments from time to time as required, and said board in making said assessments shall be guided by the procedure for the levy of similar assessments under the conservancy law of the state of Colorado and particularly the provisions of said law appearing in sections 37-5-104 to 37-5-106, and the same shall apply to subdistricts created under this article. The board of directors from time to time, as the affairs of the subdistrict may demand, may levy on all property upon which benefits have been appraised an assessment of such portion of said benefits as may be found necessary by said board to pay the cost of the appraisal, the preparation and execution of the official plan for said subdistrict, superintendence of construction, and administration during the period of construction, plus ten percent of said total to be added for contingencies, but not to exceed in the total of principal the appraised benefits so adjudicated.

(2) The assessments, to be known as the "construction fund assessment", shall be apportioned to and levied on each tract of land or other property in said district in proportion to the benefits appraised and not in excess thereof, and in case bonds are issued, as provided in section 37-46-120, then the amount of interest which will accrue on such bonds as estimated by said board of directors shall be included in and added to said assessment, but the interest to accrue on account of the issuance of said bonds shall not be construed as a part of the cost of construction in determining whether or not the expenses and cost of making said improvement are or are not equal to or in excess of the benefits appraised.

(3) As soon as said assessment is levied, the secretary of the subdistrict, at the expense thereof, shall prepare in duplicate an assessment of the subdistrict. It shall be in the form of a well-bound book endorsed and named "Construction Fund Assessment Record of Water Users' Association No. .... (or Special Improvement District No. ...., as the case may be) of the Colorado River Water Conservation District". Said record shall be in the form of similar records for conservancy districts under the laws of this state, particularly as provided by section 37-5-104. Said assessments may be paid in the manner provided by section 37-5-105, relating to conservancy districts under the laws of this state. All proceedings provided in said sections with respect to conservancy districts shall apply to the assessments, the records thereof, and the manner of payment of assessments of subdistricts organized under this article.

37-46-120. Improvement district bonds. (1) The board of directors of said district may issue as obligations of the subdistrict, not as an obligation of the Colorado river water conservation district, improvement district bonds to be paid out of special assessments made by said board of directors against all lands in the subdistrict, not exceeding in the aggregate principal amount of ninety percent of the amount of benefits assessed against said lands and unpaid at the time of issue of said bonds. The bonds shall contain a recital to the effect that they are issued under and in accordance with the provisions of this article as special improvement district bonds and are payable out of special assessments to be levied against the property in said subdistrict as provided in this article, and not otherwise. Such improvement district bonds shall be signed, "Water Users' Association No. .... (or Special Improvement District No. ...., as the case may be) of the Colorado River Water Conservation District, By ....., President", and countersigned "....., Treasurer".

(2) Otherwise said bonds shall be in such denominations and become due at such dates, with interest payable either annually or semiannually at such rate subject to a maximum net effective interest rate, and contain such other provisions as may be fixed by the board of directors, if said provisions are not inconsistent with the terms of this article. Except as otherwise expressly modified in this article, the law relating to the form and issuance of bonds of conservancy districts under the laws of this state, particularly section 37-5-106, shall apply and govern officers of the district in the issuance and sale of said bonds, and other provisions of said law with respect to the levy of assessments or the payment of said bonds with interest, and particularly section 37-5-110, shall likewise be applicable to the bonds of a subdistrict organized under this article.

37-46-121. Assessments perpetual lien. All assessments on account of special improvements against appraised benefits and interest thereon and penalties for default of payment thereof, together with costs of collecting the same, from the date of the filing of the "construction fund assessment" record and the "maintenance fund assessment" record in the office of the county treasurer of the county wherein the lands and property are situate, shall constitute a perpetual lien in an amount not in excess of the benefits severally appraised upon the land and other property against which said assessments have been levied and such benefits appraised to which only the lien of the general, state, county, city, town, or school district taxes shall be paramount, and any sale of such property and the issuance of a tax deed conveying title thereto, to enforce any general, state, county, city, town, or school district tax, or any other lien, shall extinguish the perpetual lien of said assessment. Any landowner at any time may pay the full amount of said assessment, and thereafter the property of any such landowner shall be clear and free from said lien and shall not be subject to assessment for and on account of benefits appraised against any other land or default in the payment of assessments made against any other land.

37-46-122. Invalid assessments - board remedy. If any assessment made under the provisions of this article proves invalid, the board of directors by subsequent or amended acts or proceedings, promptly and without delay, shall remedy all defects or irregularities, as the case may require, by making and providing for the collection of new assessments, or otherwise.

37-46-124. Remedies in case of faulty notice. Whenever in this article notice is provided for, if the court finds that due notice was not given, jurisdiction shall not thereby be lost or the proceedings abated or held void, but the court shall continue the hearing until such time as proper notice may be given and thereupon shall proceed as though proper notice had been given in the first instance. If any appraisal, assessment, levy, or other proceeding relating to said district is held defective, then the board of directors may file a motion in the cause in which said district was organized to perfect any such defect, and the court shall set a time for hearing thereon. If the original notice as a whole is held to be sufficient but faulty only with reference to publication as to certain particular lands or as to service as to certain persons, publication of the defective notice may be ordered as to the particular lands, or service may be made on the persons not properly served, and said notice is thereby corrected without invalidating the original notice as to other lands or persons.

37-46-125. Lawful contracts. (1) When the petition for the organization of a sub-district and the decree for such organization so provide, it is lawful for any said subdistrict to make contracts as follows:

(a) A water users' association may bind itself to levy an annual assessment for the use of water and to secure same by liens on land and water rights or in such manner as may be provided by law.

(b) Any person or corporation landowner may create a mortgage lien upon lands or give other security satisfactory to the board or any other contracting agency, and all such contracts shall provide for forfeiture of the use of water for nonpayment of assessments or installments in the same manner and procedure as provided by statute for forfeiture of stock in a mutual ditch company.

37-46-126. Issuance of general obligation bonds and revenue bonds. (1) The board of directors of the district acting as the governing body, in the name and on the behalf of the subdistrict as provided in section 37-46-110 and not otherwise, when authorized by the plan of organization and decree of court organizing said subdistrict to do so, may issue general obligation bonds or otherwise incur a general obligation indebtedness to finance, in whole or in part, the construction or other acquisition of works, reservoirs, or other improvements for the beneficial use of water for the purposes for which it has been or may be appropriated, including, without limitation, the hydrogeneration of electricity, or the acquisition by purchase, rental, lease, or exchange of water, or the purchase or exchange of water rights or electricity and appurtenances (or any combination thereof), and to finance incidental expenses pertaining thereto, whether or not the interest on such bonds may be subject to taxation. Said obligations shall bear interest at a rate such that the net effective interest rate of the issue does not exceed the maximum net effective interest rate authorized. Interest shall be payable semiannually, but the first installment of interest may evidence interest for not exceeding two years from the date of issue, and said obligations may be issued and made payable in series becoming due over a term of not less than five years and not more than fifty years after the date of issue. Such bonds or other indebtedness is to be paid from general ad valorem taxes levied from time to time, as the bonds or other indebtedness and interest thereon become due, against the taxable property in said subdistrict and not otherwise; but such taxes may be diminished to the extent other revenues are made available to pay such debt service as the same becomes due. The board of directors of the district shall certify to the boards of county commissioners of the several counties in which said subdistrict or any part thereof is located the amount of the levy necessary to pay said bonds or installments of principal of other indebtedness as they mature and also to pay the interest becoming due on all outstanding bonds or other indebtedness, and the procedure for the assessment and collection of revenue or taxes of the county and state are, except as may be otherwise provided in this article, made applicable and are to be followed in the levy of assessments for payment of taxes and collection of principal and interest on such general obligations.

(2) The board of directors of the district acting as the governing body, in the name and on the behalf of the subdistrict, may issue revenue bonds to finance, in whole or in part, the construction or other acquisition of works, reservoirs, or other improvements for the beneficial use of water for the purposes for which it has been or may be appropriated, including, without limitation, the hydrogeneration of electricity, or the acquisition by purchase, rental, lease, or exchange of water, or the purchase or exchange of water rights or electricity and appurtenances (or any combination thereof), and to finance incidental expenses pertaining thereto, whether or not the interest on such bonds may be subject to taxation. Such revenue bonds shall be issued in such denominations and with such maximum net effective interest rate as may be fixed by the board of directors of the subdistrict and shall bear interest such that the net effective interest rate of the bonds does not exceed the maximum net effective interest rate authorized. The board shall pledge only bond proceeds, sale proceeds, rental or lease proceeds, service charges, and other income from such works or other improvements or from the sale, rental, lease, or exchange of water or the sale or exchange of electricity (or any combination thereof), and the subdistrict shall not be otherwise obligated for the payment thereof. At the time said revenue bonds are issued, the board of directors of the subdistrict shall make and enter in the minutes of the proceeding a resolution in which the due dates of such revenue bonds, the rates of interest thereon, the general provisions of the bonds, and a recital that the same are payable only out of bond proceeds, sale proceeds, rental and lease proceeds, service charges, and other income from such works or other improvements and from the sale, rental, lease, or exchange of water or the sale or exchange of electricity (or any combination thereof) are set forth. In addition, the board of directors shall require the payment of rental or lease charges, service charges, or other charges by the political subdivisions or persons who are to use or derive benefits from the water or other services furnished by such works or improvements or otherwise. Such charges shall be sufficient to pay operation and maintenance expenses thereof, to meet said bond payments, to accumulate and maintain reserve and replacement accounts pertaining thereto as set forth in such resolution, and to provide funds sufficient for the further development of water resources for all of the foregoing beneficial purposes. Such resolution shall be irrevocable during the time that any of the revenue bonds are outstanding and unpaid. Except as provided in sections 11-55-101 to 11-55-106, C.R.S., the revenue bonds shall be signed "Water Users' Association No. .... in the Colorado River Water Conservation District, By ....., President. Attest ....., Secretary" or "Special Improvement District No. .... in the Colorado River Water Conservation District, By ....., President. Attest ....., Secretary", and they shall be countersigned by the treasurer.

37-46-126.2. Subdistrict's levy of taxes. In addition to other means of providing revenue for a subdistrict, the board of directors, in the name of the subdistrict, has the power to levy and collect general ad valorem taxes on or against all taxable property within the subdistrict, subject to the limitations provided in section 37-46-126.3 (1), in part 3 of article 1 of title 29, C.R.S., and in any other law which by its terms is applicable to the subdistrict and which imposes tax limitations or expenditure limitations thereon.

37-46-126.3. Levy and collection of subdistrict's taxes. (1) The board of directors, in the name of the subdistrict, after it has been organized, shall determine the amount of money necessary to be raised by a levy on the taxable property in the subdistrict and shall fix a rate of levy, not to exceed five mills, which when levied upon every dollar of valuation for assessment of taxable property within the subdistrict will raise the amount required by the subdistrict during the ensuing fiscal year to supply funds for paying expenses of organization, costs of surveys and plans, salaries of any employees of the subdistrict, per diem allowed to directors and their expenses pertaining to the subdistrict, and other incidental expenses which may be incurred in the administration of the affairs of the subdistrict, paying the costs and expenses of construction of any project designed or intended to accomplish the utilization of water, by storage or otherwise, for any beneficial uses or purposes, and promptly paying in full, when due, all interest on and principal of general obligation bonds and other general obligation indebtedness of the subdistrict, but the limitation of five mills imposed in this section on the amount of levy shall not apply to levies made for the purpose of paying the principal of and interest on the general obligation bonds and other general obligation indebtedness of the subdistrict. Except for levies to pay such indebtedness, a two-thirds vote of the membership of the board shall be required to fix the amount of each of such levies.

(2) To levy and collect general ad valorem taxes, the board shall determine in each year the amount of money necessary to be raised by taxation, taking into consideration other sources of revenue of the subdistrict, and shall fix a rate of levy, without limitation of rate or amount, but subject to the provisions of subsection (1) of this section, which, when levied upon every dollar of valuation for assessment of taxable property within the subdistrict and together with any other moneys of the subdistrict, will raise the amount required by the subdistrict annually to supply funds for the payment of the expenses provided in subsection (1) of this section.

(3) In accordance with the schedule prescribed by section 39-5-128, C.R.S., the board of directors shall certify to the board of county commissioners of each county within the subdistrict, or having a portion of its territory within the subdistrict, the rate so fixed in order that, at the time and in the manner required by law for the levying of taxes, such board of county commissioners shall levy such tax upon the valuation for assessment of all taxable property within the subdistrict in such county.

(4) Upon the receipt of any proceeds of tax levies made under subsection (1) of this section, if any items of expense have already been paid in whole or in part from any other sources by the subdistrict, they may be repaid from receipts of such levies. Such levies may be made, although the work proposed or any part thereof may have been found impractical or for any other reasons abandoned. The collection of data and the payment of expenses therefor, including the compensation of engineers, attorneys, and clerical assistants, to conserve water of the subdistrict, are hereby declared to be a matter of general benefit to the public welfare and such that taxes for such purposes may be properly imposed in the opinion of the general assembly.

(5) The limitations in and other provisions of part 3 of article 1 of title 29, C.R.S., and any other law which by its terms is applicable to the subdistrict and which imposes tax limitations or expenditure limitations thereon, other than the tax limitation in subsection (1) of this section, shall not apply to the subdistrict until the fifth year after the date on which the subdistrict is created or May 31, 1979, whichever date is later.

37-46-126.4. Levies to cover subdistrict deficiencies. The board of directors, in certifying annual levies for the subdistrict, shall take into account the maturing indebtedness for the ensuing year as provided in its contracts, maturing bonds and interest on bonds, and deficiencies and defaults of prior years and shall make ample provision for the payment thereof. In case the moneys produced from such levies, together with other revenues of the subdistrict, are not sufficient to pay punctually the annual installments of its contracts or bonds and interest thereon and to pay defaults and deficiencies, the board shall make such additional levies of taxes as may be necessary for such purposes, and such taxes shall be made and shall continue to be levied until the indebtedness of the subdistrict is fully paid.

37-46-126.5. County to levy and collect. (1) The body having authority to levy taxes within each county in which the district is situate wholly or in part if it levies taxes to pay expenses or to retire and pay indebtedness incurred by contract other than the issuance of bonds, or both to pay such expenses and to retire and pay such indebtedness, and each county in which a subdistrict is situate wholly or in part if it levies taxes pursuant to sections 37-46-126 (1) and 37-46-126.2 to 37-46-126.4, shall levy the taxes provided in this article.

(2) All officials charged with the duty of collecting taxes shall collect such taxes levied by the district or subdistrict, as the case may be, at the time and in the form and manner and with the interest and penalties as other taxes are collected and, when collected, shall pay the same to the district or subdistrict levying the tax.

(3) The payment of such collection shall be made on or before the tenth day of the next succeeding calendar month to the treasurer of the district or subdistrict levying the taxes and paid into the depository thereof to the credit of such district or subdistrict.

(4) All taxes levied under this article, together with interest thereon and penalties for default in payment thereof, and all costs of collecting the same shall constitute, until paid, a perpetual lien on and against the property taxed, and such lien shall be on a parity with the tax lien of other general ad valorem taxes.

Source: L. 79: Entire section added, p. 1359, § 6, effective May 31.

37-46-126.6. Delinquent taxes. (1) If the taxes levied are not paid, then delinquent real property shall be sold at the regular tax sale for the payment of such taxes, interest, and penalties in the manner provided by statute for selling real property for the nonpayment of taxes. If there are no bids at such tax sale for the property so offered, the property shall be struck off to the county, and the county shall account to the district or the subdistrict levying the taxes in the same manner as provided by law for accounting for school, town, and city taxes.

(2) Delinquent personal property shall be distrained and sold as provided by law.

(3) Nothing in this article, neither the tax limitations in sections 37-46-109 (1) and 37-46-126.3 (1) nor otherwise, shall be construed as preventing the collection in full of the proceeds of all levies of taxes by the district or subdistrict levying the taxes authorized by this article, including, without limitation, any delinquencies, interest, penalties, and costs.

Source: L. 79: Entire section added, p. 1360, § 6, effective May 31.

37-46-127. Maintenance assessment. (1) To maintain, operate, and preserve ditches, canals, reservoirs, or other improvements made pursuant to this article, and to strengthen, repair, and restore the same, when needed, and, for the purpose of defraying any incidental expenses of the subdistrict, upon completion of a works provided for in the plan for any such subdistrict, on or before the first Monday in November of each year thereafter, the board of directors may certify to the board of county commissioners of the county in which said subdistrict or any part thereof is located an assessment on each tract of land and upon public corporations subject to assessment under this article, for the purpose of raising funds to be used for the maintenance of said improvements. If an appraisal of benefits has been made against the lands in said district, assessments shall be apportioned by the county treasurer and by the board of directors of said district against the property therein upon the basis of the appraisal of benefits originally made. If no such appraisal has been made and the form of organization and financing is such that revenue warrants or general obligations of the subdistrict have been issued, then said assessment shall be made on the basis of the valuation for assessment of the property subject to assessment in said subdistrict.

(2) Such assessment shall not exceed five mills on each dollar of the valuation for assessment of the property in said subdistrict in any one year, unless the court shall by order authorize an assessment of a larger percentage. The assessment shall be levied by resolution of the board of directors and shall be enrolled in a well-bound record to be known as the maintenance fund assessment record and shall be substantially the form provided for similar records of conservancy districts under the laws of the state of Colorado, particularly as provided by section 37-5-107. Assessments so certified shall be levied by the board of county commissioners of the counties in which said subdistrict is situate, on the property of said district in their respective counties, to be collected by the treasurers of the several counties and delivered to the treasurer of the district in like manner and with like effect as is provided for the collection and return of other assessments under this article. The whole assessment shall be due and payable as and when taxes for county purposes levied in the same year are due and payable. The said maintenance assessments shall be in addition to any assessments which have been levied against benefits appraised for and on account of construction.

37-46-128. Annual levy limit. (1) The district has no power of taxation or right to levy or assess taxes, except as provided in sections 37-46-109 to 37-46-109.4, 37-46-126.5, and 37-46-126.6. The district has no power to contract or incur any obligation or indebtedness except as expressly provided in this article, and then any obligation or indebtedness so contracted or incurred is to be payable out of the funds derived through the limited tax provided in section 37-46-109 (1) and the unlimited tax provided in section 37-46-109.3 (2) to retire and pay indebtedness incurred by the district by contract other than the issuance of bonds and not otherwise; except that the district for and in behalf of any subdistrict or improvement district created under this article has the right to issue obligations as expressly authorized in this article and not otherwise.

(2) All assessments under this article shall be collected by the county treasurer of the respective counties in which said real estate is situated at the same time and in the same manner as is provided by law for the collection of taxes for county and state purposes, and if said assessments are not paid, then the real estate shall be sold at the regular tax sale for the payment of said assessments, interest, and penalties in the manner provided by the statutes of the state of Colorado for selling property for the payment of general taxes. If there are no bids at said tax sale for the property so offered, said property shall be struck off to the district, and the tax certificates shall be issued in the name of the district, and the board of directors has the same power with reference to the sale of said tax certificates as is vested in county commissioners and county treasurers when property is struck off to the counties.

(3) Tax deeds may be issued, based upon said certificates of sale in the same manner that deeds are executed on tax sales on general state and county taxes.

37-46-129. Investment of surplus funds. The board of directors of said district may invest any surplus funds of the district, including any funds in the construction fund assessment not needed for immediate use to pay the cost of construction of any project in any one of the subdistricts or to pay bonds or coupons or to meet current expenses, in securities meeting the investment requirements established in part 6 of article 75 of title 24, C.R.S. The board of directors of said district may require any funds of the district, or of any subdistrict, to be deposited with such depository or bank as may be designated by the board and shall likewise have authority to require the treasurer of the district to take from such depository a bond with corporate surety to insure payment of any such deposit or to require such depository to pledge securities of the same kind as those in which the district is authorized to invest its funds to insure payment of any such deposit.

37-46-131. Court confirmation. (1) (a) In its discretion, the board of directors, on the behalf and in the name of the district or any subdistrict which is a party in interest, may file a petition at any time in the district court in and for the county in which the district's principal office is maintained or, if both the district and one or more subdistricts are parties to the petition, in the district court in and for the county in which any such subdistrict was organized, praying for a judicial examination and determination of any power conferred or of any taxes or rates or other charges levied, or of any act, proceeding, or contract of the district, the subdistrict, or the subdistricts, or any combination thereof, as the case may be, whether or not said contract has been executed, including, without limitation, proposed contracts for the acquisition, improvement, equipment, maintenance, operation, or disposal of any properties or facilities for the benefit of the district, the subdistrict, or the subdistricts, as the case may be, and so including a proposed issue of revenue warrants, revenue bonds, special assessment bonds, or general obligation bonds, issued or to be issued on behalf of any such entity. Such petition shall set forth the facts whereon the validity of such power, tax, assessment, charge, act, proceeding, or contract is founded and shall be verified by the president of the board of directors.

(b) Such action shall be in the nature of a proceeding in rem, and jurisdiction of all parties interested may be had by publication, mail, and posting, as provided in this article.

Notice of the filing of the petition shall be given by the clerk of the court, under the seal thereof, stating in brief outline the contents of the petition and also stating where a full copy of any contract therein mentioned may be examined. The notice shall be served by publication at least once a week for five consecutive weeks in a daily or a weekly newspaper of general circulation published in the county in which the principal office of the district is located, by mailing copies of the notice by registered or certified mail, return receipt requested, to the boards of county commissioners of the several counties in which the parties in interest in such action are located wholly or in part, and by posting the same in the office of the district at least thirty days prior to the date fixed in said notice for the hearing on said petition. Jurisdiction shall be complete after such publication, mailing, and posting.

(c) Any owner of property in the district or any subdistrict filing the petition or any person interested in the contract or proposed contract or in the premises may appear and move to dismiss or answer the petition at any time prior to the date fixed for the hearing or within such further time as may be allowed by the court; and the petition shall be taken as confessed by all persons who fail to appear.

(2) The petition and notice shall be sufficient to give the court jurisdiction; and, upon hearing, the court shall examine into and determine all matters and things affecting the question submitted and shall make such findings with reference thereto and render such judgment and decree thereon as the case warrants. Costs may be divided or apportioned among any contesting parties in the discretion of the trial court. Review of the judgment of the court may be had as in other similar cases; except that such review must be applied for within thirty days after the time of the rendition of such judgment or within such additional time as may be allowed by the court within thirty days. The Colorado rules of civil procedure shall govern in matters of pleadings and practice where not otherwise specified in this article. The court shall disregard any error, irregularity, or omission which does not affect the substantial rights of the parties.

37-46-132. Allocation of water or service. In order to enable a subdistrict organized under the provisions of this article to furnish water to lands which have not been irrigated and had, up to the time of the construction of the works to be constructed by said subdistrict, no water supply and, at the same time, to enable other areas within the same subdistrict to obtain a supplemental supply of water or to enable said subdistrict to furnish a complete service to certain lands, certain areas, certain persons, or municipalities within the district and to supplement an existing supply or service to other persons, localities, and municipalities, prior to the time that an appraisal of benefits is made in any such subdistrict, the board of directors may make a resolution setting forth the amount of water or the kind of service to be allocated to specified classes or areas, and such limitation shall be taken into consideration by the appraisers in the appraisal of benefits with respect to lands affected by any such limitation. Like conditions and restrictions may be provided for payment by certain lands or persons of revenue warrants which pledge the income from the works of said subdistricts, but no such limitation shall govern the payment of any general obligations of any such subdistrict.

37-46-133. Election to authorize debt. Except for the issuance of refunding bonds or other funding or refunding of obligations which does not increase the net indebtedness of the district or any subdistrict so proceeding, no indebtedness shall be incurred by the issuance of general obligation bonds of any subdistrict or by any contract by which the district or a subdistrict agrees to repay as general obligations or other obligations constituting a "general obligation debt by loan in any form", as such term is used in section 6 of article XI of the state constitution, of the district or subdistrict, respectively, to the federal government, the state, any political subdivision, or any person over a term not limited to the then current fiscal year any project costs advanced thereby under any contract for the acquisition or improvement of the facilities or any interest therein, or for any project, advanced by the issuance of securities of such a political subdivision or person to defray any cost of the project or of the facilities or an interest therein thereby acquired and becoming a part of the facilities of the district or subdistrict, or otherwise advanced, unless a proposal of issuing the subdistrict's general obligation bonds or of incurring an indebtedness by the district or subdistrict by making such a contract is submitted to the electors of the district or subdistrict, as the case may be, and is approved by a majority of such electors voting on the proposal at an election held for that purpose in accordance with this article and with all laws amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto.

37-46-134. Definition of elector. (1) An "elector", "elector of the district", or "elector of the subdistrict", or any term of similar import, means a person:

(a) Who, at the time of the election, is qualified to vote in general elections in this state; and

(b) Who is a resident of the district or subdistrict proposing to incur an indebtedness at the time of the election.

(2) Registration pursuant to the laws concerning general elections or any other laws shall not be required.

Source: L. 77: Entire section added, p. 1642, § 5, effective June 9.

37-46-135. Elections. Whenever in this article an election of the electors of the district or a subdistrict therein is permitted or required, the election may be held separately at a special election or may be held concurrently with any primary or general election held under the laws of this state; but no election shall be held at the same time as any regular election of any city, town, or school district if any part of the area thereof is located within the boundaries of the district.

37-46-136. Election resolution. (1) The board of directors shall call any election by resolution adopted at least thirty days prior to the election.

(2) Such resolution shall recite the objects and purposes of the election, the date upon which such election shall be held, and the form of the ballot.

(3) In the case of any election not to be held concurrently with a primary or general election, the board of directors shall provide in the election resolution or by supplemental resolution for the appointment of sufficient judges and clerks of the election, who shall be electors of the district or the subdistrict holding the debt election, and in such event shall set their compensation. The election resolution or a supplemental resolution shall also then designate the precincts and polling places, but a supplemental resolution may modify such a description of precincts and polling places without repeating such description in full. The description of precincts may be made by reference to any order of the governing body of any county, municipality, or other political subdivision in which the district or subdistrict or any part thereof is situated, or by reference to any previous order or other instrument of such a governing body, or by detailed description of such precincts, or by other sufficient description.

(4) Precincts established by any such governing body may be consolidated in the election resolution by the board of directors in a sufficient number which it deems expedient for the convenience of the electors for any election not to be held concurrently with a primary or general election.

(5) If the election shall be held concurrently with a primary or general election held under the laws of this state, the judges of election for such primary or general election shall be designated as the judges of the election for the election held pursuant to this article, and they shall receive such additional compensation, if any, as the board of directors shall set by the election resolution.

37-46-137. Conduct of election. (1) Except as otherwise provided in this article, an election held pursuant to this article shall be opened and conducted in the manner then provided by the laws of this state for the conduct of general elections.

(2) If an election is held concurrently with a primary or general election, the county clerk and recorder of each county in which the district or subdistrict holding the debt election is located shall perform for the district or subdistrict election the acts provided by law to be performed by such officials. If an election is not held concurrently with a primary or general election, such acts shall be performed by the secretary of the district with the assistance of the county clerk and recorders. The board of directors and county clerk and recorders are authorized to agree among themselves upon the division of such acts and the determination of persons to perform them.

(3) An elector of the district may vote in any election by absent voter’s ballot under such terms and conditions, and in substantially the same manner insofar as is practicable, as prescribed in article 8 of title 1, C.R.S., of the “Uniform Election Code of 1992” for general elections, except as specifically modified in this article.

(4) All acts required or permitted therein to be performed by a county clerk and recorder shall be performed by each one respectively in the event of a primary or general election and by the secretary or assistant secretary of the board of directors in the event of any other election, unless the services of the county clerk and recorder in each such county are contracted for, but no oath shall be administered by the secretary or assistant secretary unless he is also an officer authorized to administer oaths.

(5) Application may be made for an absent voter’s ballot not more than twenty days and not less than four days before the election.

(6) No consideration shall be given nor distinction made with reference to any person’s affiliation or the lack thereof.

(7) The return envelope for the absent voter’s ballot shall have printed on its face an affidavit substantially in the following form:

“State of Colorado, County of ....., I, ....., being first duly sworn according to law, depose and say that my residence and post-office address is .....; that I am a person qualified to vote in general elections in the State of Colorado and am a resident of the Colorado River Water Conservation District or Water Users’ Association No. .... or Special Improvement District No. .... in the Colorado River Water Conservation District, as may be appropriate, at the time of this election.

(8) In any such election at which voting machines are used, the board of directors shall provide paper ballots for absent voters containing the same question as is to be submitted to the electors by the voting machines, subject to the provisions of subsection (9) of this section.

(9) The district or subdistrict may provide for mail-in voters to cast their mail-in voters' ballots on voting machines expressly provided for that purpose, if each mail-in voter indicates by affidavit that he or she is qualified to vote at the election and will be a mail-in voter, pursuant to section 1-8-102, C.R.S., of the "Uniform Election Code of 1992" and all laws supplemental thereto.

37-46-140. Election supplies. (1) The secretary of the district shall provide at each polling place ballots or ballot labels, or both, ballot boxes or voting machines, or both, instructions, electors' affidavits, and other materials and supplies required for an election by any law; and the secretary may provide ballots and marking devices suitable for voting and for the votes on the ballots to be counted on electronic vote-tabulating devices.

(2) Election officials may require the execution of an affidavit by any person desiring to vote at any election of the district or subdistrict to evidence his qualifications to vote, which affidavit shall be prima facie evidence of the facts stated therein.

37-46-141. Election returns. (1) In the case of any election held under this article which is not held concurrently with a primary or general election, the election officials shall make their returns directly to the secretary of the district for the board of directors.

(2) In the case of any election held under this article which is consolidated with any primary or general election, the returns thereof shall be made and canvassed at the time and in the manner provided by law for the canvass of the returns of such primary or general election. Such canvassing body shall certify promptly and shall transmit to the secretary of the district for the board of directors a statement of the result of the vote upon any proposition submitted under this article.

(3) Upon receipt by the board of directors of election returns from election officials or upon receipt of such certificate from each such canvassing body, the board shall tabulate and declare the results of the election at any regular or special meeting held not earlier than five days following the date of the election.

(4) The board of directors shall cause the results of the election to be published at least one time in at least one newspaper having general circulation in the district.

37-46-142. Debt election contests. (1) Any election declared to have carried on an authorization to issue any bonds, by approval of the bond question, or otherwise to incur an indebtedness by approval of the question thereon may be contested by any elector of the district or subdistrict holding the debt election by suit against it as contestee and defendant in any district court of any county in which the district or subdistrict holding the election is wholly or partially situate:

(a) When illegal votes have been received or legal votes rejected at the polls in sufficient numbers to change the results;

(b) For any error or mistake on the part of any of the judges of election, any county clerk and recorder, the secretary of the district, or their respective officers and employees in counting or declaring the result of the election, if the error or mistake is sufficient to change the result;

(c) For malconduct, fraud, or corruption on the part of any of the judges of election, any county clerk and recorder, the secretary of the district, or their respective officers and employees, if the malconduct, fraud, or corruption is sufficient to change the result;

(d) When the bonds or other indebtedness is authorized to be issued for an invalid purpose; or

(e) For any other cause which shows that the bonds or other indebtedness is not validly authorized at the election.

(2) The style and form of process, the manner of service of process and papers, the fees of officers, and judgment for costs and execution thereon shall be according to the rules and practices of the court.

(3) Before the court shall take jurisdiction of the contest, the contestor shall file with the clerk of the court a bond, with sureties, to be approved by the judge thereof, running to the district or subdistrict holding the debt election as contestee and conditioned to pay all costs in case of failure of the contestor to maintain his contest.

(4) When the validity of any bond or other indebtedness election is contested, the plaintiff or plaintiffs, within thirty days after the returns of the election are canvassed and the results thereof declared and published, or last published, as the case may be, shall file with the clerk of the court a verified written complaint setting forth specifically:

(a) The name of the party contesting the election and a statement that the plaintiff or each plaintiff is an elector of the district or subdistrict holding the election;

(b) The proposition or propositions voted on at the election which are contested, the name of the district or the subdistrict as defendant and contestee, and the date of the election; and

(c) The particular grounds of such contest.

(5) No such contest shall be maintained and no election shall be set aside or held invalid unless such a complaint is filed within the period prescribed in subsection (4) of this section.

(6) Except as otherwise provided in this article, the election laws pertaining to contested election cases of municipal offices as provided in part 13 of article 10 of title 31, C.R.S., of the "Colorado Municipal Election Code of 1965", as from time to time amended, shall be applicable to bond or other indebtedness elections; but any such contest shall be regarded as one contesting the outcome of the vote on the proposition authorizing the issuance of securities or otherwise incurring the indebtedness, rather than election to office, and the district or subdistrict as contestee, rather than a person declared to have been elected to office, shall be regarded as the defendant.

(7) If the board of directors declares the proposition authorizing the issuance of bonds or otherwise incurring the indebtedness to have carried and no contest is duly filed or if such a contest is filed after it is favorably terminated, the board may issue the bonds or otherwise incur the indebtedness authorized at the election at one time or from time to time.

37-46-143. Covenants and other provisions in bonds. (1) Any resolution providing for the issuance of any bonds under this article payable from pledged revenues and any indenture or other instrument or proceedings pertaining thereto may at the discretion of the board of directors contain covenants or other provisions, notwithstanding that such covenants and provisions may limit the exercise of powers conferred by this article, in order to secure the payment of such bonds, in agreement with the holders of such bonds, including, without limitation, covenants or other provisions as to any one or more of the following:

(a) The pledged revenues and, in the case of general obligations, the taxes to be fixed, charged, or levied and the collection, use, and disposition thereof, including, without limitation, the foreclosure of liens for delinquencies, the discontinuance of services, facilities, or use of any properties or facilities, prohibition against free service, the collection of penalties and collection costs, and the use and disposition of any moneys of the district or subdistrict issuing bonds, derived or to be derived, from any source designated;

(b) The acquisition, improvement, or equipment of all or any part of properties pertaining to any project or any facilities;

(c) The creation and maintenance of reserves or sinking funds to secure the payment of the principal of and the interest on any bonds or of the operation and maintenance expenses of any facilities, or part thereof, and the source, custody, security, regulation, use, and disposition of any such reserves or funds, including, without limitation, the powers and duties of any trustee with regard thereto;

(d) Limitations on the powers of the district or subdistrict to acquire or operate, or permit the acquisition or operation of, any structures, facilities, or properties which may compete or tend to compete with any facilities;

(e) The vesting in a corporate or other trustee or trustees of such property, rights, powers, and duties in trust as the board of directors may determine, which may include any or all of the rights, powers, and duties of the trustee appointed by the holders of bonds, and limiting or abrogating the rights of such holders to appoint a trustee, or limiting the rights, duties, and powers of such trustee;

(f) Events of default, rights, and liabilities arising therefrom and the rights, liabilities, powers, and duties arising upon the breach by the district or subdistrict of any covenants, conditions, or obligations;

(g) The terms and conditions upon which the holders of the bonds or of a specified portion, percentage, or amount thereof, or any trustee therefor, shall be entitled to the appointment of a receiver, which receiver may enter and take possession of any facilities or service, operate and maintain the same, prescribe fees, rates, and other charges, and collect, receive, and apply all revenues thereafter arising therefrom in the same manner as the district or subdistrict itself might do;

(h) A procedure by which the terms of any resolution authorizing bonds or any other contract with any holders of district or subdistrict bonds, including, without limitation, an indenture of trust or similar instrument, may be amended or abrogated, and as to the proportion, percentage, or amount of bonds the holders of which must consent thereto, and the manner in which such consent may be given;

(i) The terms and conditions upon which any or all of the bonds shall become or may be declared due before maturity and as to the terms and conditions upon which such declaration and its consequences may be waived; and

(j) All such acts and things as may be necessary or convenient or desirable in order to secure the bonds or, in the discretion of the board of directors, tend to make the bonds more marketable, notwithstanding that such covenant, act, or thing may not be enumerated in this article, it being the intention of this article to give to the board of directors power to do in the name and on behalf of the district or subdistrict all things in the issuance of district or subdistrict bonds and for their security, except as expressly limited in this article.

37-46-144. Liens on pledged revenues. (1) Revenues pledged for the payment of any bonds, as received by or otherwise credited to the district or subdistrict issuing bonds under this article, shall immediately be subject to the lien of each such pledge without any physical delivery thereof, any filing, or any further act.

(2) The lien of each such pledge and the obligation to perform the contractual provisions made in the authorizing resolution or other instrument pertaining thereto shall have priority over any or all other obligations or liabilities of the district or subdistrict, except as may be otherwise provided in this article or in the resolution or other instrument, and subject to any prior pledges and liens theretofore created.

(3) The lien of each such pledge shall be valid and binding as against all persons having claims of any kind in tort, in contract, or otherwise against the district or subdistrict, irrespective of whether or not such persons have notice thereof.

37-46-145. Rights - powers of holders of bonds - trustees. (1) Subject to any contractual limitations binding upon the holders of any issue or series of bonds of the district or subdistrict issuing bonds under this article, or the trustee therefor, including, without limitation, the restriction of the exercise of any remedy to a specified proportion, percentage, or number of such holders, and subject to any prior or superior rights of others, any holder of bonds, or the trustee therefor, shall have the right and power, for the equal benefit and protection of all holders of bonds similarly situated:

(a) By mandamus or other suit, action, or proceeding at law or in equity, to enforce his rights against the district, subdistrict, or board of directors, or any combination thereof, or any of the officers, agents, and employees of the district or subdistrict to require and compel such district, subdistrict, or board or any of such officers, agents, or employees to perform and carry out their respective duties, obligations, or other commitments under this article and their respective covenants and agreements with the holder of any bond;

(b) By action or suit in equity, to require the district or subdistrict to account as if it were the trustee of an express trust;

(c) By action or suit in equity, to have a receiver appointed, which receiver may enter and take possession of any facilities and any pledged revenues for the payment of the bonds, prescribe sufficient fees, rates, and other charges derived from the facilities, and collect, receive, and apply all pledged revenues or other moneys pledged for the payment of the bonds in the same manner as the district or subdistrict itself might do in accordance with the obligations of the district or subdistrict; and

(d) By action or suit in equity, to enjoin any acts or things which may be unlawful or in violation of the rights of the holder of any bonds and to bring suit thereupon.

37-46-146. Investments and securities. (1) The board of directors of the district or subdistrict, respectively, issuing bonds under this article, subject to any contractual limitations from time to time imposed upon the district or subdistrict by any resolution authorizing the issuance of the outstanding bonds of the district or subdistrict or by any trust indenture or other proceedings pertaining thereto, may cause to be invested and reinvested any proceeds of taxes, any pledged revenues, and any proceeds of bonds issued under this article in securities meeting the investment requirements established in part 6 of article 75 of title 24, C.R.S., and may cause such proceeds of taxes, revenues, district or subdistrict bonds, and securities to be deposited in any trust bank or trust banks within or without or both within and without this state and secured in such manner and subject to such terms and conditions as the board of directors may determine, with or without the payment of any interest on such deposit, including, without limitation, time deposits evidenced by certificates of deposit.

(2) Any such securities and any certificates of deposit thus held may, from time to time, be sold, and the proceeds may be so reinvested or redeposited as provided in this section.

(3) Sales and redemptions of any such securities and certificates of deposit thus held shall, from time to time, be made in season, so that the proceeds may be applied to the purposes for which the money with which such securities and certificates of deposit were originally acquired was placed in the district or subdistrict treasury.

(4) Any gain from any such investments or reinvestments may be credited to any fund or account pledged for the payment of any district or subdistrict bonds issued under this article, including any reserve therefor, or any other fund or account pertaining to a project or any facilities, or the district's or subdistrict's general fund, subject to any contractual limitations in any proceedings pertaining to outstanding district or subdistrict bonds.

(5) It is lawful for any commercial bank incorporated under the laws of this state which may act as depository of the proceeds of any bonds issued under this article, any securities owned by the district or subdistrict, any proceeds of taxes, any pledged revenues, and any moneys otherwise pertaining to a project or any facilities, or any combination thereof, to furnish such indemnifying bonds and to pledge such securities as may be required by the board of directors.

37-46-147. Rents and charges. (1) (a) The district, any subdistrict, and any political subdivision of the state of Colorado contracting with the district or subdistrict and fixing and collecting annual rentals, service charges, and other charges, or any combination thereof, are, in supplementation of the powers provided in this article, authorized to fix and collect rents, rates, fees, tolls, and other charges, in this article sometimes referred to as "service charges", for direct or indirect connection with, or the use or services of, a water system, electrical system, joint system, or other facilities, including, without limitation, connection charges, minimum charges, and charges for the availability of service.

(b) Such service charges may be charged to and collected in advance or otherwise by a district from any political subdivision or person and by any political subdivision from any person contracting for such connection or use or services or from the owner or occupant, or any combination thereof, of any real property which directly or indirectly is or has been or will be connected with any such facilities, and the political subdivision or owner or occupant of any such real property shall be liable for and shall pay such service charges to the district, subdistrict, or political subdivision fixing the service charges at the time when and place where such service charges are due and payable.

(c) Such service charges of the district or subdistrict may accrue from any date on which the board of directors reasonably estimates, in any resolution authorizing the issuance of any securities or other instrument pertaining thereto or in any contract with any political subdivision or person, that any facilities or project being acquired or improved and equipped will be available for service or use.

(2) (a) Such rents, rates, fees, tolls, and other charges, being in the nature of use or service charges, shall, as nearly as the district, subdistrict, or political subdivision fixing the service charges shall deem practicable and equitable, be reasonable, and such service charges shall be uniform throughout the district, subdistrict, or political subdivision for the same type, class, and amount of use or service of the facilities and may be based or computed either: On measurements of water, flow devices, or electric meters, duly provided and maintained by the district, subdistrict, or political subdivision, or any user as approved by the district, subdistrict, or political subdivision fixing such charges; or on the consumption of water or electricity in or on or in connection with the political subdivision, or any person, or real property, making due allowance for commercial use of water and infiltration of groundwater and discharge of surface runoff to the facilities, or on the number and kind of water or electric outlets on or in connection with the political subdivision, person, or real property, or on the water or electric fixtures or facilities in or on or in connection with the political subdivision, person, or real property; or on the number of persons residing or working in or on or otherwise connected or identified with the political subdivision, person, or real property, or on the capacity of the improvements in or on or connected with the political subdivision, person, or real property; or upon the availability of service or readiness to serve by the facilities; or on any other factors determining the type, class, and amount of use or service of the facilities; or on any combination of any such factors.

(b) Reasonable penalties may be fixed for any delinquencies, including, without limitation, interest on delinquent service charges from any date due at a rate of not exceeding one percent per month or fraction thereof, reasonable attorneys' fees, and other costs of collection.

(3) The district, subdistrict, or political subdivision fixing the service charges shall prescribe and, from time to time when necessary, revise a schedule of such service charges, which shall comply with the terms of any contract of the district, subdistrict, or political subdivision fixing the service charges.

(4) The general assembly has determined and declared that the obligations, arising from time to time, of the district, any subdistrict, any political subdivision, or any person to pay service charges fixed in connection with any facilities shall constitute general obligations of the district, subdistrict, political subdivision, or person charged with their payment; but, as such obligations accrue for current services and benefits from, and the use of, any such facilities, the obligations shall not constitute an indebtedness of the district, any subdistrict, or any political subdivision within the meaning of any constitutional, charter, or statutory limitation or any other provision restricting the incurrence of any debt.

(5) No board, agency, bureau, commission, or official, other than the board of directors of the district or subdistrict, respectively, or the governing body of the political subdivision fixing the service charges, has authority to fix, prescribe, levy, modify, supervise, or regulate the making of service charges or to prescribe, supervise, or regulate the performance of services pertaining to the facilities thereof, as authorized by this article; but this subsection (5) shall not be construed to be a limitation on the contracting powers of the board of directors of the district or any subdistrict, respectively, or the governing body of any such political subdivision.

37-46-148. Miscellaneous powers. (1) The district and any subdistrict thereof shall also have the following powers:

(a) To pay or otherwise defray and to contract to pay or defray, for any term not exceeding seventy-five years, without an election, except as otherwise provided in this article, the principal of, any prior redemption premiums due in connection with, any interest on, and any other charges pertaining to any securities or other obligations of the federal government, any subdistrict or the district, respectively, any political subdivision, or any person which were incurred in connection with any property thereof subsequently acquired by the district or any subdistrict and relating to either's facilities;

(b) To establish, operate, and maintain facilities within the district or any subdistrict or elsewhere, across or along any public street, highway, bridge, or viaduct or any other public right-of-way or in, upon, under, or over any vacant public lands, which public lands now are, or may become, the property of a political subdivision of this state, without first obtaining a franchise from the political subdivision having jurisdiction over the same; but the district or subdistrict shall cooperate with any political subdivision having such jurisdiction, shall promptly restore any such public street, highway, bridge, or viaduct or any such other public right-of-way to its former state of usefulness as nearly as may be and shall not use the same in such manner as permanently to impair completely or materially the usefulness thereof;

(c) To adopt, amend, repeal, enforce, and otherwise administer such reasonable resolutions, rules, regulations, and orders as the district or subdistrict shall deem necessary or convenient for the operation, maintenance, management, government, and use of the facilities of the district or subdistrict, as the case may be, and any other facilities under its control, whether situated within or without or both within and without the territorial limits of the district or subdistrict; and

(d) (I) To adopt, amend, repeal, enforce, and otherwise administer under the police power such reasonable resolutions, rules, regulations, and orders pertaining to water or electric services performed by any person through the district's or subdistrict's facilities or pertaining to facilities of the district or subdistrict, any political subdivision, or any person, or any combination thereof, reasonably affecting the activities of the district or subdistrict, directly or indirectly, as the board of directors may from time to time deem necessary or convenient.

(II) No such resolution, rule, regulation, or order shall be adopted or amended except by action of the board of directors on the behalf and in the name of the district or subdistrict, respectively, after a public hearing thereon is held by the board of directors, in connection with which any political subdivision owning or authorizing any facilities comparable to facilities of the district or subdistrict, as the case may be, whether therein or thereout, or both therein and thereout, and other persons of interest have an opportunity to be heard, after mailed notice of the hearing is given at least thirty days prior to the hearing by the secretary to each such political subdivision wholly or partly within the district or subdistrict proceeding under this article, and after notice of such hearing is given by publication at least once a week for three consecutive weeks in at least one newspaper of general circulation in the district or such subdistrict by the secretary to persons of interest, both known and unknown, the first publication to be made at least thirty days prior to the hearing.

37-46-149. Cooperative powers. (1) The district and any subdistrict have the power to utilize and may utilize private industry, by contract, to carry out the design, construction, operation, management, manufacturing, marketing, planning, and research and development functions of the district or any subdistrict proceeding under this article, unless the district or subdistrict determines that it is in the public interest to adopt another course of action. The district or subdistrict, or both, may enter into long-term contracts with private persons, not exceeding a term of seventy-five years, without an election, for the performance of any such functions of the district or subdistrict, which, in the opinion of the district or subdistrict, can desirably and conveniently be carried out by a private person under contract; but any such contract shall contain such terms and conditions as shall enable the district or subdistrict to retain reasonable supervision and control of such functions to be carried out or performed by such private persons pursuant to such contract.

(2) Subject to the provisions of section 37-46-133, the district and any subdistrict have the following powers:

(a) To accept contributions, grants, or loans from the state and the federal government for the purpose of financing the planning, acquisition, improvement, equipment, maintenance, and operation of any enterprise in which the district or subdistrict, or both, are authorized to engage, and to enter into contracts and cooperate with, and accept cooperation from, the federal government, the state, the subdistrict or the district, respectively, any political subdivision, any private firm, and any other person, or any combination thereof, in the planning, acquisition, improvement, equipment, maintenance, and operation and in financing the planning, acquisition, improvement, equipment, maintenance, and operation of any such enterprise in accordance with any legislation which the general assembly, congress, the governing body of any political subdivision, the board of directors or other governing body of any private firm, any other person, or any combination thereof may have adopted prior to the adoption of this article or may thereafter adopt, under which aid, assistance, and cooperation may be furnished by such cooperating entity or entities or other persons in the planning, acquisition, improvement, equipment, maintenance, and operation or in financing the planning, acquisition, improvement, equipment, maintenance, and operation of any such enterprise, including, without limitation, costs of engineering, architectural, and economic investigations and studies, surveys, designs, plans, working drawings, specifications, procedures, and other action preliminary to the acquisition, improvement, or equipment of any facilities, or any part thereof, and to do any and all things necessary in order to avail itself of such aid, assistance, and cooperation under any state, federal, or other legislation;

(b) To enter into, without any election, joint operating or service contracts and agreements; acquisition, improvement, equipment, or disposal contracts; contracts for the purchase, sale, rental, lease, as lessor or lessee, or exchange of water or the purchase, sale, or exchange of water rights or electricity (or any combination thereof) but not to acquire any electricity for sale by the district or any subdistrict as a public utility either to the public or to any other user (other than any sale to any subdistrict or the district, respectively, or to any water conservancy district located wholly or in part within the Colorado river water conservation district and other than any sale of electricity by the district or any subdistrict thereof at wholesale to any person or governmental entity); or other arrangements, for any term not exceeding seventy-five years, with the federal government, the state, the subdistrict or the district, respectively, any political subdivision, any private firm, or any other person, or any combination thereof, concerning the facilities and any project or property pertaining thereto, whether acquired or undertaken by the district, by the subdistrict, by the federal government, by any political subdivision of this state or any other state, or by any person, and to accept contributions, grants, or loans from the cooperating entity or entities or other persons in connection therewith;

(c) To enter into and perform without any election, when determined by the board of directors to be in the public interest, contracts and agreements, for any term not exceeding seventy-five years, with the federal government, the subdistrict or the district, respectively, any political subdivision, or any person, or any combination thereof, for the provision and operation by the subdistrict or the district, respectively, of any facilities pertaining to such facilities of the district or subdistrict, as the case may be, any part thereof, or any project relating thereto, and the payment periodically thereby to the district or subdistrict of amounts at least sufficient, if any, in the determination of the board, to compensate the district or subdistrict for the cost of providing, operating, and maintaining such facilities serving the federal government, the subdistrict or the district, respectively, any political subdivision, or such other person, or any combination thereof, or otherwise;

(d) To enter into and perform, without any election, contracts and agreements, for any term not exceeding seventy-five years, on a public bid basis, a competitive basis, or a negotiated basis, as the board of directors may determine, with the federal government, the subdistrict or the district, respectively, any political subdivision, any private firm, or any other person, or any combination thereof, for or concerning the planning, construction, lease, other acquisition, improvement, equipment, operation, maintenance, lease, other disposal, and financing, or any other combination thereof, of any property pertaining to the facilities of the district or subdistrict or to any project of the district or subdistrict, including, without limitation, any contract or agreement, for any term not exceeding seventy-five years, pertaining to the joint ownership of the facilities as tenants in common thereamong or providing for the exchange of water or electric power for backup water or power, the pooling of resources, or the designation of a manager for any such project or facilities supervised by an engineering and operating committee of co-owners or otherwise supervised, and otherwise to contract with water or power producers or users, or any combination thereof;

(e) To cooperate with and act in conjunction with the federal government or any of its engineers, officers, boards, commissions, or departments, or with the state or any of its engineers, officers, boards, commissions, or departments, or with any political subdivision or any person in the acquisition, improvement, and equipment of any facilities or any part thereof authorized for the district or subdistrict or for any other works, acts, or purposes provided for in this article and to adopt and carry out any definite plan or system of work for any such purpose;

(f) To cooperate with the federal government, the subdistrict or district, respectively, any political subdivision, or any person, or any combination thereof, by an agreement therewith by which the district or the subdistrict may:

(I) Acquire and provide, without cost to the cooperating entity or entities, the land, easements, and rights-of-way necessary for the acquisition, improvement, and equipment of any properties;

(II) Hold the cooperating entity or entities free from and save it or them harmless from any claim for damages arising from the acquisition, improvement, equipment, maintenance, and operation of any facilities;

(III) Maintain and operate any facilities in accordance with regulations prescribed by the cooperating entity or entities; and

(IV) Establish and enforce regulations, if any, concerning the facilities which are satisfactory to the cooperating entity or entities;

(g) To provide, by any contract for any term not exceeding seventy-five years, or otherwise, without an election:

(I) For the joint use of personnel, equipment, and facilities of the district, the subdistrict, any political subdivision, or any person, or any combination thereof, including, without limitation, public buildings constructed by or under the supervision of the board of directors, the governing body of the political subdivision, or the board of directors or other governing body of a private firm or other person concerned, upon such terms and agreements and within such areas within the district or subdistrict, or otherwise, as may be determined, for the promotion and protection of health, comfort, safety, life, welfare, and property of the inhabitants of the district or subdistrict and any such political subdivision and any other persons of interest, and for water or electric services;

(II) For the joint employment of clerks, stenographers, and other employees pertaining to the facilities or any project, now existing or hereafter established, upon such terms and conditions as may be determined for the equitable apportionment of the expenses resulting therefrom;

(h) To provide for comprehensive planning and, where possible, coordinate operations of the district or subdistrict with the subdistrict or district, respectively, any and all such political subdivisions, private firms, and other persons, or any combination thereof, pertaining to water conservation and use and to the generation and use of electricity.

37-46-150. Joint action entity. (1) The district or subdistrict and any other cooperating entity or entities relating to any project or facilities in which the district or the subdistrict is a party in interest may create a joint action entity, a separate body corporate, for the planning, construction, lease, other acquisition, improvement, equipment, operation, maintenance, disposal, and financing of any enterprise or properties relating to such project or such facilities.

(2) A joint action entity may exercise the powers granted to the district or the subdistrict by this article, other than the levy or fixing and collection of taxes, assessments, and service charges and the making and revising of rules and regulations under the police power.

37-47-101. Legislative declaration - rivers named. In the opinion of the general assembly of the state of Colorado, the conservation of the water of the San Juan and Dolores rivers and their tributaries for storage, irrigation, mining, and manufacturing purposes and the construction of reservoirs, ditches, and works for the purpose of irrigation and reclamation of additional lands not yet irrigated, as well as to furnish a supplemental supply of water for lands now under irrigation, is of vital importance to the growth and development of the entire district and the welfare of all its inhabitants and that, to promote the health and general welfare of the state of Colorado, an appropriate agency for the conservation, use, and development of the water resources of the San Juan and Dolores rivers and their principal tributaries should be established and given such powers as may be necessary to safeguard for Colorado, all waters to which the state of Colorado is equitably entitled.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Legal Classification of Special District Corporate Forms in Colorado", see 45 Den. L.J. 347 (1968).

Applied in Southeastern Colo. Water Conservancy Dist. v. Huston, 197 Colo. 365, 593 P.2d 1347 (1979).

37-47-102. Definitions. As used in this article, unless the context otherwise requires:

- (1) "District" means the "Southwestern Water Conservation District". The district is a body corporate and politic and a political subdivision of the state of Colorado.
- (2) "Person" means a person, firm, partnership, association, or corporation.
- (3) "Property", as used in section 37-47-109 (1), includes both real and personal property. In other parts of said article relating to special assessments, unless otherwise specified, it means real estate as "real estate" is defined by the law of the state of Colorado and embraces all railroads, tram roads, electric railroads, state and interurban railroads, highways, telephone, telegraph and transmission lines, water systems, water rights, pipelines, and rights-of-way of public service corporations, and all other real property, whether held for public or private use.

(4) "San Juan and Dolores rivers" embraces and includes any and all tributaries or streams which flow into the San Juan and Dolores rivers which may be found in any part of the territory embraced in said district.

(5) "Subdistrict" or "subdivision" embraces and includes the kind or character of special improvement districts created under the provisions of this article, including subdistricts organized under the name and style of "Water Users' Association No. .... of the Southwestern Water Conservation District" and "Special Improvement District No. .... of the Southwestern Water Conservation District". A subdistrict or subdivision is a body corporate and politic and a political subdivision of the state of Colorado.

37-47-104. Board of directors. (1) The southwestern water conservation district shall be managed and controlled by a board of nine directors. The members of said board shall hold their office for staggered terms of three years, with three members appointed each year, and until their successors are appointed and qualified. One member of said board shall be selected from each of the respective counties in said water conservation district and, at the time of his appointment, shall have been a resident of said county or, if only a part of a county is included within the boundaries of said district, a resident of such included part for at least two years prior to the date of his appointment and shall be a freeholder who has paid taxes upon real estate in the county of his residence during the calendar year next preceding his appointment. He shall be appointed by the board of county commissioners of the county in which he resides. He may be a member of the board of county commissioners of such county. The members of said board shall annually select one of their number to act as president and presiding officer until the fourth Tuesday in January following his appointment.

(2) Immediately upon organization the members of said board shall be divided by lot or chance into three classes. The term of office of the members of the first class shall expire on the third Tuesday in January, 1942; the term of office of the members of the second class shall expire on the third Tuesday in January, 1943; and the term of office of the members of the third class shall expire on the third Tuesday in January, 1944; except that on and after March 11, 1943, terms of office shall expire on the fourth Tuesday in January, instead of the third Tuesday in January, as provided in this subsection (2). At the first meeting of the board of county commissioners held after the second Tuesday in January, and every three years thereafter, the boards of county commissioners of the counties of residence of the members whose terms expire shall appoint successors to take office on the fourth Tuesday in January following.

(3) The members of the board of directors of said district who are in office on April 7, 1961, shall hold their respective offices for the period of time for which they were selected to serve, and their tenure of office shall not be affected by this amendatory section. Within sixty days after April 7, 1961, the board of county commissioners of Mineral county shall appoint a director from such county, with the qualifications prescribed in this section, to serve as a member of the board of directors of the southwestern water conservation district until the fourth Tuesday in January, 1963. Upon expiration of such term of office, a successor shall be appointed as provided to serve for the regular term of three years.

37-47-106. Vacancy in office of director. The office of director shall become vacant when any member ceases to reside in the county from which he was appointed. In the event a vacancy occurs in said office by reason of death, resignation, removal, or otherwise, it shall be filled by the board of county commissioners of the county from which said member originally came. Before entering upon the discharge of his duties, each director shall take an oath to support and defend the constitutions of the United States and of the state of Colorado and to impartially, without fear or favor, discharge the duties of a director of said district. The board of directors of said district shall appoint a secretary and a treasurer. The same individual, at the election of the board, may hold both of said offices. The board shall likewise hire such other employees, including engineers and attorneys, as may be required to properly transact the business of the district, and said board is authorized to provide for the compensation of the secretary and treasurer and other appointees. The treasurer shall be required by the board to give bond with corporate surety in such amount as the board may fix and which it deems sufficient to protect the funds in the hands of the treasurer or under his control. Such bond is subject to the approval of the board.

37-47-107. Powers of district. (1) Such district, in its corporate capacity, shall have power:

- (a) To sue and be sued in the name of the southwestern water conservation district;
- (b) To acquire, operate, and hold in the name of the district such real and personal property as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this article and to sell and convey such property or its products as provided in this article or when said property is no longer needed for the purposes of said district;
- (c) To make surveys and conduct investigations to determine the best manner of utilizing stream flows within the district and the amount of such stream flow or other water supply, and to locate ditches, irrigation works, and reservoirs to store or utilize water for irrigation, mining, manufacturing, or other purposes, and to make filings upon said water and initiate appropriations for the use and benefit of the ultimate appropriators, and to perform all acts and things necessary or advisable to secure and insure an adequate supply of water, present and future, for irrigation, mining, manufacturing, and domestic purposes within said districts;
- (d) To make contracts with respect to the relative rights of said district under its claims and filings and the rights of any other person, association, or organization seeking to divert water from any of the streams within said district;
- (e) To contract with any agencies, officers, bureaus, and departments of the state of Colorado and the United States, including the department of corrections, to obtain services or labor for the initiation or construction of irrigation works, canals, reservoirs, power plants, or retaining ponds within said district;
- (f) To enter upon any privately-owned land or other real property for the purpose of making surveys or obtaining other information, without obtaining any order so to do, but without causing any more damage than is necessary to crops or vegetation upon such land;
- (g) To organize special assessment districts at different times for the purpose of establishing effective agencies to secure funds to construct reservoirs or other irrigation works under various types and plans of financing, including among others, by issuance of revenue warrants only, by the issuance of bond or revenue obligations constituting a lien up to a specified amount against the lands in said special improvement district, and payable out of special assessments or by general obligations of such special improvement districts;
- (h) To contract with the United States government, the bureau of reclamation, or other agencies of the United States government for the construction of any such works and the issuance of such obligations as the special improvement districts may have the power to issue in payment of costs of construction and maintenance of said works;
- (i) To exercise the power of eminent domain to acquire ditches, reservoirs, or other works or lands or rights-of-way therefor which said district or any subdivision thereof, or special improvement districts created pursuant to the power conferred, may need to carry out the plans of said district or the improvement districts therein, and in general to exercise all rights and powers of eminent domain conferred upon other agencies as provided in articles 1 to 7 of title 38, C.R.S.;
- (j) To file upon and hold for the use of the public sufficient water of any natural stream to maintain a constant stream flow in the amount necessary to preserve fish, and to use such water in connection with retaining ponds for the propagation of fish for the benefit of the public;
- (j.5) To make loans or grants to any public entity, nonprofit corporation, not-for-profit corporation, carrier ditch company, mutual ditch or reservoir company, unincorporated ditch or reservoir company, and cooperative association within the boundaries of the district to carry out the purposes of the district;

(k) To exercise such implied powers and perform such other acts as may be necessary to carry out and effect any of the express powers hereby conferred upon such district;

(l) To participate in the formulation and implementation of nonpoint source water pollution control programs related to agricultural practices in order to implement programs required or authorized under federal law and section 25-8-205 (5), C.R.S., enter into contracts and agreements, accept funds from any federal, state, or private sources, receive grants or loans, participate in education and demonstration programs, construct, operate, maintain, or replace facilities, and perform such other activities and adopt such rules and policies as the board deems necessary or desirable in connection with nonpoint source water pollution control programs related to agricultural practices.

(2) The district, in its own name, may issue revenue bonds to finance, in whole or part, the construction of works, reservoirs, or other improvements for the beneficial use of water for the purposes for which it has been or may be appropriated, whether or not the interest on such bonds may be subject to taxation. Such revenue bonds shall be issued in such denominations and with such maximum net effective interest rate as may be fixed by the board of directors of the district and shall bear interest such that the net effective interest rate of the bonds does not exceed the maximum net effective interest rate authorized. The board shall pledge only rental proceeds, service charges, and other income (or any combination thereof) from such works or other improvements, and the district shall not be otherwise obligated for the payment thereof. At the time such revenue bonds are issued, the board of directors of the district shall make and enter in the minutes of the proceeding a resolution in which the due dates of such revenue bonds, the rates of interest thereon, the general provisions of the bonds, and a recital that the same are payable only out of rental proceeds, service charges, and other income (or any combination thereof) are set forth. In addition, the board of directors shall require the payment of rental charges, service charges, or other charges by the political subdivisions or persons who are to use or derive benefits from the water or other services furnished by such works or improvements. Such charges shall be sufficient to pay operation and maintenance expenses thereof, to meet said bond payments, and to accumulate and maintain reserve and replacement accounts pertaining thereto as set forth in such resolution. Such resolution shall be irrevocable during the time that any of the revenue bonds are outstanding and unpaid. The revenue bonds shall be signed "Southwestern Water Conservation District, By ....., President. Attest ....., Secretary", and they shall be countersigned by the treasurer.

ANNOTATION

Applied in Southeastern Colo. Water Conservancy Dist. v. Huston, 197 Colo. 365, 593 P.2d 1347 (1979).

37-47-108. Principal office - meetings. The board of directors of the district shall designate a place within the district where the principal office is to be maintained and may change such place from time to time. Regular quarterly meetings of said board shall be held at said office on the fourth Tuesday in the months of January, April, July, and October. The board is also empowered to hold such special meetings as may be required for the proper transaction of business. All special meetings of the board shall be held at locations which are within the boundaries of the district or which are within the boundaries of any county in which the district is located, in whole or in part, or in any county so long as the meeting location does not exceed twenty miles from the district boundaries. The provisions of this section governing the location of meetings may be waived only if the proposed change of location of a meeting of the board appears on the agenda of a regular or special meeting of the board and if a resolution is adopted by the board stating the reason for which a meeting of the board is to be held in a location other than under the provisions of this section and further stating the date, time, and place of such meeting. Special meetings may be called by the president of the board or by any three directors. Meetings of the board shall be public, and proper minutes of the proceedings of said board shall be preserved and shall be open to the inspection of any elector of the district during business hours.

37-47-109. Assessment and levy by board. (1) (a) As soon as the district has been organized and a board of directors has been appointed and qualified, such board of directors shall have the power and authority to fix the amount of an assessment upon the property within the district not to exceed six-tenths of one mill for every dollar of valuation for assessment therein, as a level or general levy to be used for the purpose of paying the expenses of organization, for surveys and plans, to pay the salary of officers and the per diem allowed to directors and their expenses, and for other incidental expenses which may be incurred in the administration of the affairs of the district. A two-thirds vote of the membership of said board shall be required to fix the amount of said levy.

(b) The amount of assessment on each dollar of valuation for assessment shall, in accordance with the schedule prescribed by section 39-5-128, C.R.S., be certified to boards of county commissioners of the various counties in which the district is located and by them included in their next annual levy for state and county purposes. Such amount so certified shall be collected for the use of such district in the same manner as are taxes for county purposes, and the revenue laws of the state for the levy and collection of taxes on real estate for county purposes, except as modified in this article, shall be applicable to the levy and collection of the amount certified by the board of directors of said district as aforesaid, including the enforcement of penalties, forfeiture, and sale for delinquent taxes.

(c) All collections made by the county treasurer pursuant to such levy shall be paid to the treasurer of the conservancy district on or before the tenth day of the next succeeding calendar month. If any items of expense have already been paid in whole or in part from any other sources by the said district, they may be repaid from receipts of such levy. Such levy may be made, although the work proposed or any part thereof may have been found impracticable or for other reasons abandoned. The collection of data and the payment of expenses therefor, including salaries of engineers and attorneys and clerical assistants, to conserve the water of said district and to enable said district to adopt plans for the orderly development of said district are hereby declared to be a matter of general benefit to the public welfare, and such that a tax for said purposes may be properly imposed, in the opinion of the general assembly.

(d) If this subsection (1) or any clause, phrase, or part thereof is held unconstitutional or invalid by any court of competent jurisdiction, such decision shall not affect the validity or force of any other part of this section or any other part of this article, and the general assembly hereby declares it would have enacted the remainder of this article without this subsection (1).

(2) In lieu of the level or general tax authorized by subsection (1) of this section, the board may levy special assessments upon all real estate within the district, except such real estate as is exempted in this article, to raise funds to pay expenses of organization, salaries, expenses, and per diem allowances of officers and directors and to prepare a general plan for the maintenance of constant stream flow and adequate water supplies in all the principal tributaries and the main stream of the San Juan and Dolores rivers in said district and provide for future development of the district and insure water therefor. Such assessments shall be made in proportion to the benefits to each piece of real estate accruing by reason of the adoption of a comprehensive plan of development of the natural resources of the district as a whole. The board of directors, if it deems it advisable at any time before levying special assessments, shall appraise the benefits to the several parcels of real estate within the district which shall result from the organization of said district and the general plans and development. The board may adopt rules for such purpose and provide inter alia for notice and hearing to all persons affected thereby. A permanent record arranged by counties of the benefits which will accrue to each tract of land shall be kept, and such benefits shall be apportioned over a series of years, the amount to be collected each year to be in the discretion of the board; but the amount of such assessment to be levied and assessed against the real property in said district in any one year shall not exceed a total of seven thousand five hundred dollars, and it is hereby declared that the amount of special benefits accruing annually to the real estate in said district is in excess of such amount. All property owned by the state, counties, cities, towns, school districts, or other governmental agencies shall be exempt from taxation or special levies under this article.

(3) Prior to October 15 of each year in which an assessment is made, the board of directors shall appoint a time and place where it will meet within the district for the purpose of hearing objections to assessments at least thirty days prior to the dates so appointed. Notice of such hearing shall be given by posting a notice thereof at or near the door of the treasurer's office in each county in said district and by publishing said notice in a legal newspaper not less than three consecutive times within a period of thirty days, immediately prior to the hearing. The notice posted in each county shall be sufficient if it pertains to the property subject to assessment in said county only and need not contain the description of or any reference to property situated in other counties also affected by such assessment. Said notice shall contain a description of the real estate so assessed in the county in which said notice is posted and published, the amount of the assessment fixed by the board, and the time and place or places fixed by the board for the hearing of objection to such assessments. It shall not be necessary for the said notice to contain a separate description of the lots or tracts of real estate, but it shall be sufficient if the said notice contains such descriptions as will inform the owner whether or not his real estate is covered by such descriptions, and to inform the owner of the amount of special assessments thereon.

(4) If, in the opinion of any person whose real estate is assessed, his property has been assessed too high or has been erroneously or illegally assessed, at any time before the date of such hearing, he may file written objections to such assessments, stating the ground of such objections, which statement shall be verified by the affidavit of said person or some other person familiar with the facts. At such hearing the board shall hear evidence and argument offered concerning the correctness or legality of such assessment and may modify or amend the same. Any owner of property desiring to appeal from the finding of the board as to assessments within thirty days from the finding of the board shall file with the clerk of the district court of the county in which the property is situated a written notice making demand for a trial by the court. At the same time, the appellant shall file a bond with good and sufficient security, to be approved by the clerk of said court, in a sum not exceeding two hundred dollars, to the effect that, if the finding of the court is not more favorable to the appellant than the finding of the board, the appellant will pay the costs of the appeal. The appellant shall state definitely from what part of the order the appeal is taken. In case more than one appeal is taken, upon a showing that the appeals may be consolidated without injury to the interests of anyone, the court may consolidate and try the same together.

(5) The court shall not disturb the findings of the board unless the finding of the board in any case is manifestly disproportionate to the assessments imposed upon other property in the district created under this article. The trial shall be to the court, and the matter shall take precedence before the court and shall be taken up as promptly as may be after the appeal is filed. If no appeal is taken from the finding of the board within the time prescribed in this section, or after the finding of the district court in case an appeal is taken from the finding of the board, then said assessments shall be final and conclusive evidence that said assessments have been made in proportion to the benefits conferred upon each tract of real estate of said district by reason of the general plans of survey, comprehensive plan of development, and the completion of improvements to be constructed under the provisions of this article, and such assessments shall constitute a perpetual lien as provided in this article upon the real estate so assessed until paid.

37-47-110. Creation of subdistricts. (1) Notwithstanding the organization of the district provided for in this article, public irrigation districts organized under article 4 of chapter 149, CRS 53, and irrigation districts organized under articles 41 and 42 of this title, and any other form or organization designed or intended to acquire, construct, or maintain reservoirs, ditches, and similar works for irrigation or other beneficial purposes under any law of the state of Colorado or of the United States, may be organized to cover and include areas within the southwestern water conservation district and may likewise embrace territory within that district and partly out of the district. Whenever in their opinion such form of organization will help promote the local interests or accomplish improvements for any part of said district, the board of directors may recommend the organization of any such type of organization.

(2) In addition to such forms of organization, whenever in the opinion of the board of directors of said district it is feasible and necessary that ditches, canals, reservoirs, or other works which benefit only a part of the district should be constructed, a local improvement district or subdivision, or as many of such local improvement districts as may be necessary, may be created. Such local improvement district, when organized under the provisions of this article, shall be designated as "Water Users' Association No. .... in the Southwestern Water Conservation District", or as "Special Improvement District No. .... in the Southwestern Water Conservation District". Each subdistrict shall be numbered consecutively as created or organized. The board of directors, the engineers, attorneys, secretary, and other officers, agents, and employees of the district, so far as it may be necessary, shall serve in the same capacity for such subdivision or subdistricts. A contract and agreement between the main district and the subdistrict may be made in the same manner as contracts and agreements between two districts.

Editor's note: The public irrigation law, article 4 of chapter 149, CRS 53, referred to in subsection (1) of this section, was repealed, but the provisions of said article 4 were preserved as to all districts formed under that article prior to 1963. (See L. 63, p. 1009.)

37-47-111. Rules and regulations. Such district has the power to make general rules and regulations for the conduct of its business, as well as the conduct of the business of any subdistrict therein, and by such rules and regulations may provide for the rental of water or other services which are to be furnished by said subdistrict, to any municipality, public irrigation district, or irrigation district, or other quasi-municipal corporation in this state, and to make contracts for the payment of the rental to be charged for any such water or services.

37-47-112. Procedure for establishment of subdistricts. (1) Before any subdistrict is established under this article, a petition shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the district court of the county in which the territory to be embraced in said subdistrict or the greater part thereof is situate, signed by the board of directors of the district or by a majority of the owners of land situate within the limits of the territory proposed to be organized into a subdistrict.

(2) The petition shall set forth:

(a) The proposed name of said subdistrict, whether it shall be designated "Water Users' Association No. .... in the Southwestern Water Conservation District", or "Special Improvement District No. .... in the Southwestern Water Conservation District";

(b) That property within the proposed subdistrict will be benefited by the proposed reservoirs, ditches, canals, works, or other improvements and shall set forth in a general way the nature and estimated cost thereof, together with a general statement of the nature of the anticipated benefits to be derived therefrom;

(c) A full description of the territory to be included in the proposed subdistrict. Said description need not be given by metes and bounds or by legal subdivision, but it shall be sufficient to enable a property owner to ascertain whether his property is within the territory proposed to be organized in a subdistrict. Such territory need not be contiguous, if it is so situated that the organization as a single subdistrict of the territory described is such as to promote or tend to promote one or more of the objectives of this article as to all parts of the area proposed to be included.

(d) A general description of the methods proposed to finance the proposed works or other improvements, whether by revenue warrants pledging the income from the proposed works, special improvement bonds to be paid by special assessments on the property benefited in an amount on each tract of land not in excess of the appraised benefits, contracts of water users or water users' associations creating liens or mortgages on lands within the subdistrict, or general obligation bonds constituting a lien against the real property embraced in such subdistrict and which indebtedness shall never be an obligation of the district. If general obligations are proposed, the petition shall allege and show that all lands in the subdistrict will be benefited in an amount not less than the total amount of general obligation bonds to be issued exclusive of interest.

(e) If such a petition is filed by the board of directors of the district, it shall contain a statement to the effect that a majority of the landowners of the territory in the proposed subdistrict petitioned the board of directors to organize said subdistrict, and a copy of the petition of said landowners shall be attached as an exhibit to the petition for organization of the subdistrict;

(f) Said petition shall pray for the organization of a subdistrict by the name proposed.

(3) To determine whether a majority of landowners in said district have signed the petition, in the event the petition is signed by landowners, or have petitioned the board of directors of the district, in the event the petition is filed by the board of directors, the court may require the county treasurer of each county in which territory proposed to be included in said subdistrict is situated to furnish a certified list of names of landowners within said area, and the court shall be governed by the names as they appear upon said copy of the tax roll, and the same shall be prima facie evidence of ownership, and, if said tax roll shows a majority of the landowners have signed the main petition or petitioned the district for said organization, the same shall be considered as prima facie evidence that a majority of said landowners are in favor of the organization of said proposed subdistrict.

37-47-113. Time and place of hearing on petition. (1) Immediately after the filing of such petition the court wherein such petition, is filed, by order, shall fix a place and time, not less than sixty days nor more than ninety days after the petition is filed, for hearing thereon, and, thereupon, the clerk of said court shall cause notice by publication, which may be substantially the same as provided in section 37-8-101, to be made of the pendency of the petition and of the time and place of the hearing thereon. The clerk of said court shall also forthwith cause a copy of said notice to be mailed by United States registered mail to the board of county commissioners of each of the several counties having territory within the proposed subdistrict and to the board of directors of said district in the event that said petition is filed by the landowners.

(2) The district court in and for the county in which the petition for the organization of a subdistrict has been filed shall thereafter, for all purposes of this article, except as otherwise provided in this article, maintain and have original and exclusive jurisdiction coextensive with the boundaries of said subdistrict, of lands and other property proposed to be included in said subdistrict or effected by said subdistrict, without regard to the usual limits of its jurisdiction.

(3) No judge of such court wherein such petition is filed shall be disqualified to perform any duty imposed by this article by reason of ownership of property within any subdistrict or proposed subdistrict or by reason of ownership of any property that may be benefited, taxed, or assessed therein.

Source: L. 41: p. 876, § 10. CSA: C. 173B, § 65. CRS 53: § 149-9-10. C.R.S. 1963: § 150-8-10.

37-47-114. Recording of protest - procedure - decree - fee. (1) At any time after the filing of a petition for the organization of a subdistrict, and not less than thirty days prior to the time fixed by the order of the court for the hearing upon said petition, and not thereafter, a protest may be filed in the office of the clerk of the court wherein the proceedings for the organization of such subdistrict is pending, signed by a majority of the owners of the land in said proposed subdistrict protesting the organization or creation of said subdistrict. It is the duty of the clerk of the court forthwith, upon filing of said protest, to make as many certified copies thereof, including the signatures thereto, as there are counties into any part of which said proposed subdistrict extends and forthwith to place in the hands of the county treasurer of each of such counties one of said certified copies.

(2) It is the duty of each of such county treasurers to determine from the last tax rolls of his county, and to certify to said district court under his official seal, prior to the day fixed for the hearing, the total number of owners of land situate in such proposed subdistrict within his county and the total number of owners of land situate in such proposed subdistrict within his county who have signed such protest. Such certificate shall constitute prima facie evidence of the facts so stated therein and shall be so received and considered by the court.

(3) Upon the day set for the hearing upon the original petition, if it appears to the court from such certificate and from such other evidence as may be adduced by any party in interest that the said protest is not signed by a majority of the owners of land within the proposed subdistrict, the court shall thereupon dismiss said protest and shall proceed with the hearing on the petition. If it appears to the court at said hearing that the protest is signed by any person or corporation who signed the original petition for the organization of said subdistrict, either to the court or to the district, then the signature of any such landowner upon the protest shall be disregarded and not counted. The board of county commissioners of any county in which any part of said proposed subdistrict is situate, or any owner of real property in said proposed subdistrict who has not signed the petition for the organization of said subdistrict, on or before the date set for the cause to be heard, may file objections to the organization and incorporation of the district. Such objections shall be limited to a denial of the statements in the petition and shall be heard by the court as an advanced case without unnecessary delay.

(4) Upon said hearing, if it appears that said petition has been signed and presented in accordance with the requirements of this article and that the allegations of the petition are true, the court shall enter a decree and therein adjudicate all questions of jurisdiction and declare the subdistrict organized and designate the name of said subdistrict, by which in all subsequent proceedings it shall thereafter be designated and known, and thereafter said subdistrict shall be deemed a special improvement district.

(5) Such order shall be binding upon the real property within the subdistrict, and no appeal or other remedy lies therefrom, and entry of such order shall finally and conclusively establish the regular organization of said subdistrict against all persons except the state of Colorado in an action in the nature of quo warranto to be commenced by the attorney general within three months after said decree is entered and not otherwise. Within ten days after such subdistrict has been declared duly organized by the court, the clerk of said court shall transmit to the county clerk and recorder in each of the counties having lands in said subdistrict copies of the findings and decree of the court establishing said subdistrict. The same shall be recorded in the office of the county clerk and recorder where they shall become permanent records.

37-47-115. Plan for subdistrict. Upon organization of such subdistrict, the board of directors of said district, acting as the board of directors of said subdistrict, are authorized and required to prepare and adopt as the official plans for said subdistrict a comprehensive detailed plan showing the nature of the improvements or works, including all canals, reservoirs, and ditches, whether within or without the district, and the estimated cost of each principal part of said system or works.

37-47-116. Appointment of appraisers. As soon as such official plan has been prepared and adopted and is on file in the office of said district, the court, upon petition of the district, shall appoint a board of appraisers consisting of three members. The qualifications of said appraisers and all proceedings before them shall be in accordance with the provisions of the law pertaining to the duties and qualifications of appraisers under the conservancy law of Colorado as set forth in article 4 of this title; except that, where reference is made to districts, it shall apply to subdistricts organized under this article.

37-47-118. Directors bound by financing plan. (1) The board of directors of said district shall be bound by the plan of financing set forth in the petition for the organization of the subdistrict and approved by the decree of the district court. The appointment of appraisers shall not be necessary in the event that the plan adopted provides that general obligations of the subdistrict are to be issued or provides for the issuance of revenue warrants which shall be a lien and charge upon the rental and income from the irrigation works or reservoirs or other improvements to be constructed under the plan adopted and the rental derived from any such works. Said warrants shall be payable in such denominations, with interest at a rate not exceeding six percent per annum which may be fixed by the board of directors of said district pursuant to the order and decree of the court. The board shall pledge the income and rentals from said irrigation works or water supplied therethrough, and the subdistrict shall not be otherwise obligated for the payment thereof.

(2) At the time said revenue warrants are issued, the board of directors of the district shall make and enter in the minutes of the proceeding a resolution in which the due dates of said revenue warrants, the amount of interest thereon, which shall not exceed six percent per annum, the general provisions of said revenue warrants and a recital that the same are payable out of rental and income only are set forth and shall require the payment of an assessment or annual rental charge by the persons who are to use or derive benefit from the water or other service furnished through said improvements or works, sufficient to meet said payments, and the resolution shall be irrevocable during the time that any of said revenue warrants are outstanding and unpaid. Said revenue warrants shall be signed "Water Users' Association No. .... in the Southwestern Water Conservation District, By ....., President, Attest ....., Secretary", or "Special Improvement District No. .... in the Southwestern Water Conservation District, By ....., President, Attest ....., Secretary". They shall be countersigned by the treasurer.

(3) General obligation bonds of said subdistrict shall be signed in the same manner as provided for revenue warrants and shall recite that the same are issued pursuant to the provisions of this article and are to be payable at the time and in the manner and with the rate of interest therein specified, and that the same were issued under and pursuant to a decree of court and a resolution of the board of directors authorizing the issue of said obligations and referring to the date of said resolution. Said bonds shall further recite that they are payable from funds to be derived by assessments and tax levies against the property in said subdistrict and not otherwise, and that the same are not to be deemed as an obligation of the southwestern water conservation district but only as an obligation of said subdistrict, and that the district itself is not to be obligated in any manner for the payment of said bonds.

37-47-119. Assessments - procedure in making. (1) In the event that the plans for the organization of said district, including the petition and the decree entered thereon, provide for a plan of financing the construction or acquisition of the works, or other improvements proposed, by special assessments to be levied against the appraised benefits to property within said subdistrict, then said board of directors may make assessments from time to time, as required, and in making said assessments, said board shall be guided by the procedure for the levy of similar assessments under the conservancy law of the state of Colorado and particularly the provisions of said law appearing in sections 37-5-104 to 37-5-106, and the same shall apply to subdistricts created under this article.

(2) From time to time, as the affairs of the subdistrict may demand, the board of directors may levy on all property upon which benefits have been appraised an assessment of such portion of said benefits as may be found necessary by said board to pay the cost of the appraisal, the preparation, and execution of the official plan for said subdistrict, superintendence of construction and administration during the period of construction, plus ten percent of said total to be added for contingencies, but not to exceed in the total of principal the appraised benefits so adjudicated. The assessments, to be known as the "construction fund assessment", shall be apportioned to and levied on each tract of land or other property in said district in proportion to the benefits appraised and not in excess thereof, and in case bonds are issued, as provided in section 37-47-120, then the amount of interest which will accrue on such bonds as estimated by said board of directors shall be included in and added to the said assessment, but the interest to accrue on account of the issuance of said bonds shall not be construed as a part of the cost of construction in determining whether or not the expenses and cost of making said improvement are or are not equal to or in excess of the benefits appraised.

(3) As soon as said assessment is levied, the secretary of the subdistrict, at the expense thereof, shall prepare in duplicate an assessment of the subdistrict. It shall be in the form of a well-bound book endorsed and named "Construction Fund Assessment Record of Water Users' Association No. ...., or Special Improvement District No. ...., of the Southwestern Water Conservation District". Said record shall be in the form of similar records for conservancy districts under the laws of this state, particularly as provided in section 37-5-104. Said assessments may be paid in the manner provided in section 37-5-105, relating to conservancy districts under the laws of this state. All proceedings provided in said sections with respect to conservancy districts shall apply to the assessments, the records thereof, and the manner of payment of assessments of subdistricts organized under this article.

37-47-120. Improvement district bonds. (1) The board of directors of said district may issue as obligations of the subdistrict, not as an obligation of the southwestern water conservation district, improvement district bonds to be paid out of special assessments made by said board of directors against all lands in the subdistrict, not exceeding in the aggregate amount of ninety percent of the amount of benefits assessed against said lands and unpaid at the time of issue of said bonds. Such bonds shall contain a recital to the effect that they are issued under and in accordance with the provisions of this article as special improvement district bonds and are payable out of special assessments to be levied against the property in said subdistrict and not otherwise.

(2) Said improvement district bonds shall be signed, "Water Users' Association No. .... or Special Improvement District No. ...., of the Southwestern Water Conservation District, By ....., President", and countersigned "....., Treasurer". Otherwise said bonds shall be in such denominations and become due at such dates, with interest at such rate, payable either annually or semiannually, but not exceeding the rate of six percent per annum, and contain such other provisions as may be fixed by the board of directors, if said provisions are not inconsistent with the terms of this article. Except as otherwise expressly modified in this article, the law relating to the form and issuance of bonds of conservancy districts under the laws of this state, particularly section 37-5-106, shall apply and govern officers of the district in the issuance and sale of said bonds, and other provisions of said law with respect to the levy of assessments for the payment of said bonds with interest, and particularly section 37-5-110, shall likewise be applicable to the bonds of a subdistrict organized under this article.

37-47-121. Assessments constitute perpetual lien. All assessments on account of special improvements against appraised benefits and interest thereon and penalties for default of payment thereof, together with the cost of collecting the same, from the date of the filing of the "construction fund assessment" record and the "maintenance fund assessment" record in the office of the treasurer of the county wherein the lands and property are situate, shall constitute a perpetual lien in an amount not in excess of the benefits severally appraised upon the land and other property against which said assessments have been levied and such benefits appraised, to which only the lien of the general, state, county, city, town, or school taxes shall be paramount, but no sale of said property, to enforce any general, state, county, city, town, school tax, or other lien, shall extinguish the perpetual lien of said assessment. At any time any landowner may pay the full amount of said assessment, and thereafter the property of any such landowner shall be clear and free from said lien and shall not be subject to assessment for and on account of benefits appraised against any other land or default in the payment of assessments made against any other land.

37-47-122. Directors to remedy defects in assessments. If any assessment made under the provisions of this article proves invalid, the board of directors shall, by subsequent or amended acts or proceedings, promptly and without delay remedy all defects or irregularities, as the case may require, by making and providing for the collection of new assessments, or otherwise.

37-47-124. Defects in notice perfected. Whenever notice is provided for in this article, if the court finds that due notice was not given, jurisdiction shall not thereby be lost or the proceedings abated or held void, but the court shall continue the hearing until such time as proper notice may be given and shall thereupon proceed as though proper notice had been given in the first instance. If any appraisal, assessment, levy, or other proceeding relating to said district is held defective, then the board of directors may file a motion in the cause in which said district was organized to perfect any such defect, and the court shall set a time for hearing thereon. If the original notice as a whole is held to be sufficient but faulty only with reference to publication as to certain particular lands or as to service as to certain persons, publication of the defective notice may be ordered as to the particular lands, or service may be made on the persons not properly served, and said notice is thereby corrected without invalidating the original notice as to other lands or persons.

37-47-125. Contracts of subdistricts. (1) When the petition for the organization of a subdistrict and the decree for such organization so provide, it shall be lawful for any subdistrict to make contracts as follows:

(a) A water users' association may bind itself to levy an annual assessment for the use of water and to secure same by liens on land and water rights or in such manner as may be provided by law.

(b) Any person or corporation landowner may create a mortgage lien upon lands or give other security satisfactory to the board or any other contracting agency, and all such contracts shall provide for forfeiture of the use of water for nonpayment of assessments or installments in the same manner and procedure as provided by statute for forfeiture of stock in a mutual ditch company.

Cross references: For forfeiture of stock in a ditch company, see § 7-42-104 (4).

37-47-126. Issuance of general obligation bonds and revenue bonds. (1) In the name of the subdistrict and not otherwise, when authorized by the plan of organization and decree of court organizing said subdistrict to do so, the district may issue general obligations or bonds which shall constitute a lien against the real property in said subdistrict. Said obligations shall bear interest at a rate such that the net effective interest rate of the issue does not exceed the maximum net effective interest rate authorized. Interest shall be payable semiannually, and said obligations may be issued and made payable in series becoming due not less than five years and not more than fifty years after the date of issue. Such bonds are to be paid from assessments levied from time to time, as the bonds and interest thereon become due, against the real property in said district and not otherwise. The board of directors of said district shall certify to the boards of county commissioners of the several counties in which said subdistrict or any part thereof is located the amount of the levy necessary to pay said bonds as they mature, and also to pay the interest becoming due on all outstanding bonds, at the same time that like certificates are made under this article for assessments on special improvement district bonds, and the procedure for the assessment and collection of revenue or taxes of the county and state are, except as may be otherwise provided in this article, made applicable and are to be followed in the levy of assessments for payment of taxes and collection of principal and interest on such general obligations.

(2) The subdistrict, in its own name, may issue revenue bonds to finance, in whole or in part, the construction of works, reservoirs, or other improvements for the beneficial use of water for the purposes for which it has been or may be appropriated, whether or not the interest on such bonds may be subject to taxation. Such revenue bonds shall be issued in such denominations and with such maximum net effective interest rate as may be fixed by the board of directors of the subdistrict and shall bear interest such that the net effective interest rate of the bonds does not exceed the maximum net effective interest rate authorized. The board shall pledge only rental proceeds, service charges, and other income (or any combination thereof) from such works or other improvements, and the subdistrict shall not be otherwise obligated for the payment thereof. At the time said revenue bonds are issued, the board of directors of the subdistrict shall make and enter in the minutes of the proceeding a resolution in which the due dates of such revenue bonds, the rates of interest thereon, the general provisions of the bonds, and a recital that the same are payable only out of rental proceeds, service charges, and other income (or any combination thereof) are set forth. In addition, the board of directors shall require the payment of rental charges, service charges, or other charges by the political subdivisions or persons who are to use or derive benefits from the water or other services furnished by such works or improvements. Such charges shall be sufficient to pay operation and maintenance expenses thereof, to meet said bond payments, and to accumulate and maintain reserve and replacement accounts pertaining thereto as set forth in such resolution. Such resolution shall be irrevocable during the time that any of the revenue bonds are outstanding and unpaid. The revenue bonds shall be signed "Water Users' Association No. ... in the Southwestern Water Conservation District, By ....., President. Attest ....., Secretary" or "Special Improvement District No. .... in the Southwestern Water Conservation District, By ....., President. Attest ....., Secretary", and they shall be countersigned by the treasurer.

37-47-127. Board to certify assessments. (1) To maintain, operate, and preserve ditches, canals, reservoirs, or other improvements made pursuant to this article, and to strengthen, repair, and restore the same, when needed, and for the purpose of defraying any incidental expenses of the subdistrict, the board of directors may, upon completion of a works provided for in the plan for any such subdistrict, on or before the first Monday in November of each year thereafter, certify to the board of county commissioners of the county in which said subdistrict or any part thereof is located an assessment on each tract of land and upon public corporations subject to assessment under this article, for the purpose of raising funds to be used for the maintenance of said improvements. If an appraisal of benefits has been made against the lands in said district, assessments shall be apportioned by the county treasurer and by the board of directors of said district against the property therein upon the basis of the appraisal of benefits originally made. If no such appraisal has been made and the form of organization and financing is such that revenue warrants or general obligations of the subdistrict have been issued, then said assessment shall be made on the basis of the valuation for assessment of the property subject to assessment in said subdistrict.

(2) Said assessment shall not exceed five mills on each dollar of the valuation for assessment of the property in said subdistrict in any one year, unless the court shall by order authorize an assessment of a larger percentage. Said assessment shall be levied by resolution of the board of directors and shall be enrolled in a well-bound record to be known as the maintenance fund assessment record and shall be substantially the form provided for similar records of conservancy districts under the laws of the state of Colorado, particularly as provided by section 37-5-107. Assessments so certified shall be levied by the board of county commissioners of the counties in which said subdistrict is situate, on the property of said district in their respective counties, to be collected by the treasurers of the several counties and delivered to the treasurer of the district in like manner and with like effect as is provided for the collection and return of other assessments under this article. The whole assessment shall be due and payable as and when taxes for county purposes levied in the same year are due and payable. The said maintenance assessments shall be in addition to any assessments which have been levied against benefits appraised for and on account of construction.

37-47-128. Limitations on power to levy and contract. (1) The district has no power of taxation or right to levy or assess taxes, except an annual levy, not exceeding six-tenths of a mill on each dollar of the valuation for assessment of property in said district, as provided in section 37-47-109. The district has no power to contract or incur any obligation or indebtedness except as expressly provided in this article, and then any obligation or indebtedness so contracted or incurred is to be payable out of the funds derived through said limited tax and not otherwise; except that said district for and in behalf of any subdistrict or improvement district created under this article has the right to issue obligations as expressly authorized in this article and not otherwise.

(2) All assessments under this article shall be collected by the county treasurer of the respective counties in which said real estate is situated at the same time and in the same manner as is provided by law for the collection of taxes for county and state purposes, and, if said assessments are not paid, then the real estate shall be sold at the regular tax sale for the payment of said assessments, interest, and penalties in the manner provided by the statutes of the state of Colorado for selling property for the payment of general taxes. If there are no bids at said tax sale for the property so offered, said property shall be struck off to the district, and the tax certificates shall be issued in the name of the district, and the board of directors has the same power with reference to the sale of said tax certificates as is now vested in county commissioners and county treasurers when property is struck off to the counties.

(3) Tax deeds may be issued, based upon said certificates of sale, in the same manner that deeds are executed on tax sales on general state and county taxes.

37-47-129. Investment of surplus funds. The board of directors of said district may invest any surplus funds of the district including any funds in the construction fund assessment not needed for immediate use to pay the cost of construction of any project in any one of the subdistricts, or to pay bonds or coupons or to meet current expenses, in securities meeting the investment requirements established in part 6 of article 75 of title 24, C.R.S. The board of directors of said district may require any funds of the district, or of any subdistrict, to be deposited with such depository or bank as may be designated by the board and likewise shall have authority to require the treasurer of the district to take from such depository a bond with corporate surety to insure payment of any such deposit or to require such depository to pledge securities of the same kind as those in which the district is authorized to invest its funds to insure payment of any such deposit.

37-47-131. Court confirmation. (1) (a) In its discretion, the board of directors, on the behalf and in the name of the district or any subdistrict which is a party in interest, may file a petition at any time in the district court in and for the county in which the district's principal office is maintained or, if both the district and one or more subdistricts are parties to the petition, in the district court in and for the county in which any such subdistrict was organized, praying for a judicial examination and determination of any power conferred or of any taxes or rates or other charges levied, or of any act, proceeding, or contract of the district, the subdistrict, or the subdistricts, or any combination thereof, as the case may be, whether or not said contract has been executed, including, without limitation, proposed contracts for the acquisition, improvement, equipment, maintenance, operation, or disposal of any properties or facilities for the benefit of the district, the subdistrict, or the subdistricts, as the case may be, and so including a proposed issue of revenue warrants, revenue bonds, special assessment bonds, or general obligation bonds, issued or to be issued on behalf of any such entity. Such petition shall set forth the facts whereon the validity of such power, tax, assessment, charge, act, proceeding, or contract is founded and shall be verified by the president of the board of directors.

(b) Such action shall be in the nature of a proceeding in rem, and jurisdiction of all parties interested may be had by publication, mail, and posting, as provided in this article. Notice of the filing of the petition shall be given by the clerk of the court, under the seal thereof, stating in brief outline the contents of the petition and also stating where a full copy of any contract therein mentioned may be examined. The notice shall be served by publication at least once a week for five consecutive weeks in a daily or a weekly newspaper of general circulation published in the county in which the principal office of the district is located, by mailing copies of the notice by registered or certified mail, return receipt requested, to the boards of county commissioners of the several counties in which the parties in interest in such action are located wholly or in part, and by posting the same in the office of the district at least thirty days prior to the date fixed in said notice for the hearing on said petition. Jurisdiction shall be complete after such publication, mailing, and posting.

(c) Any owner of property in the district or any subdistrict filing the petition or any person interested in the contract or proposed contract or in the premises may appear and move to dismiss or answer the petition at any time prior to the date fixed for the hearing or within such further time as may be allowed by the court; and the petition shall be taken as confessed by all persons who fail to appear.

(2) The petition and notice shall be sufficient to give the court jurisdiction; and, upon hearing, the court shall examine into and determine all matters and things affecting the question submitted and shall make such findings with reference thereto and render such judgment and decree thereon as the case warrants. Costs may be divided or apportioned among any contesting parties in the discretion of the trial court. Review of the judgment of the court may be had as in other similar cases; except that such review must be applied for within thirty days after the time of the rendition of such judgment or within such additional time as may be allowed by the court within thirty days. The Colorado rules of civil procedure shall govern in matters of pleadings and practice where not otherwise specified in this article. The court shall disregard any error, irregularity, or omission which does not affect the substantial rights of the parties.

37-47-132. Subdistrict furnishing water to nonirrigated land. In order to enable a subdistrict organized under the provisions of this article to furnish water to lands which have not been irrigated and had, up to the time of the construction of the works to be constructed by said subdistrict, no water supply and, at the same time, to enable other areas within the same subdistrict to obtain a supplemental supply of water or to enable said subdistrict to furnish a complete service to certain lands, certain areas, certain persons or municipalities within the district and to supplement an existing supply or service to other persons, localities, and municipalities, prior to the time that an appraisal of benefits is made in any such subdistrict, the board of directors may make a resolution setting forth the amount of water or the kind of service to be allocated to specified classes or areas, and such limitation shall be taken into consideration by the appraisers in the appraisal of benefits with respect to lands affected by any such limitation. Like conditions and restrictions may be provided for payment by certain lands or persons of revenue warrants which pledge the income from the works of said subdistricts, but no such limitation shall be contained or govern the payment of any general obligations of any such subdistrict.

37-47-133. Election to authorize debt. Except for the issuance of refunding bonds or other funding or refunding of obligations which does not increase the net indebtedness of the district or any subdistrict so proceeding, no indebtedness shall be incurred by the issuance of general obligation bonds of any subdistrict or by any contract by which the district or a subdistrict agrees to repay as general obligations or other obligations constituting a "general obligation debt by loan in any form", as such term is used in section 6 of article XI of the state constitution, of the district or subdistrict, respectively, to the federal government, any political subdivision, or any person over a term not limited to the then current fiscal year any project costs advanced thereby under any contract for the acquisition or improvement of the facilities or any interest therein, or for any project, advanced by the issuance of securities of such a political subdivision or person to defray any cost of the project or of the facilities or an interest therein thereby acquired and becoming a part of the facilities of the district or subdistrict, or otherwise advanced, unless a proposal of issuing the subdistrict's general obligation bonds or of incurring an indebtedness by the district or subdistrict by making such a contract is submitted to the electors of the district or subdistrict, as the case may be, and is approved by a majority of such electors voting on the proposal at an election held for that purpose in accordance with this article and with all laws amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto.

37-47-134. Definition of elector. (1) An "elector", "elector of the district", or "elector of the subdistrict", or any term of similar import, means a person:

(a) Who, at the time of the election, is qualified to vote in general elections in this state; and

(b) Who is a resident of the district or subdistrict proposing to incur an indebtedness at the time of the election.

(2) Registration pursuant to the laws concerning general elections or any other laws shall not be required.

Source: L. 77: Entire section added, p. 1659, § 10, effective June 9.

37-47-135. Elections. Whenever in this article an election of the electors of the district or a subdistrict therein is permitted or required, the election may be held separately at a special election or may be held concurrently with any primary or general election held under the laws of this state; but no election shall be held at the same time as any regular election of any city, town, or school district if any part of the area thereof is located within the boundaries of the district.

37-47-136. Election resolution. (1) The board of directors shall call any election by resolution adopted at least thirty days prior to the election.

(2) Such resolution shall recite the objects and purposes of the election, the date upon which such election shall be held, and the form of the ballot.

(3) In the case of any election not to be held concurrently with a primary or general election, the board of directors shall provide in the election resolution or by supplemental resolution for the appointment of sufficient judges and clerks of the election, who shall be electors of the district or the subdistrict holding the debt election, and in such event shall set their compensation. The election resolution or a supplemental resolution shall also then designate the precincts and polling places, but a supplemental resolution may modify such a description of precincts and polling places without repeating such description in full. The description of precincts may be made by reference to any order of the governing body of any county, municipality, or other political subdivision in which the district or subdistrict or any part thereof is situated, or by reference to any previous order or other instrument of such a governing body, or by detailed description of such precincts, or by other sufficient description.

(4) Precincts established by any such governing body may be consolidated in the election resolution by the board of directors in a sufficient number which it deems expedient for the convenience of the electors for any election not to be held concurrently with a primary or general election.

(5) If the election shall be held concurrently with a primary or general election held under the laws of this state, the judges of election for such primary or general election shall be designated as the judges of the election for the election held pursuant to this article, and they shall receive such additional compensation, if any, as the board of directors shall set by the election resolution.

37-47-137. Conduct of election. (1) Except as otherwise provided in this article, an election held pursuant to this article shall be opened and conducted in the manner then provided by the laws of this state for the conduct of general elections.

(2) If an election is held concurrently with a primary or general election, the county clerk and recorder of each county in which the district or subdistrict holding the debt election is located shall perform for the district or subdistrict election the acts provided by law to be performed by such officials. If an election is not held concurrently with a primary or general election, such acts shall be performed by the secretary of the district with the assistance of such county clerk and recorders. The board of directors and such county clerk and recorders are authorized to agree among themselves upon the division of such acts and the determination of persons to perform them.

(3) An elector of the district may vote in any election by absent voter's ballot under such terms and conditions, and in substantially the same manner insofar as is practicable, as prescribed in article 8 of title 1, C.R.S., of the "Colorado Election Code of 1980" for general elections, except as specifically modified in this article.

(4) All acts required or permitted therein to be performed by a county clerk and recorder shall be performed by each one respectively in the event of a primary or general election and by the secretary or assistant secretary of the board of directors in the event of any other election, unless the services of the county clerk and recorder in each such county are contracted for, but no oath shall be administered by the secretary or assistant secretary unless he is also an officer authorized to administer oaths.

(5) Application may be made for an absent voter's ballot not more than twenty days and not less than four days before the election.

(6) No consideration shall be given nor distinction made with reference to any person's political party affiliation or the lack thereof.

(7) The return envelope for the absent voter's ballot shall have printed on its face an affidavit substantially in the following form:

“State of Colorado, County of ....., I, ....., being first duly sworn according to law, depose and say that my residence and post-office address is .....; that I am a person qualified to vote in general elections in the State of Colorado and am a resident of the Southwestern Water Conservation District or Water Users’ Association No. .... or Special Improvement District No. .... in the Southwestern Water Conservation District, as may be appropriate, at the time of this election.

.....
Signature of voter

Subscribed and sworn to before me this ... day of....., 20....

.....
(Signature of notary public, county clerk and recorder, or other officer authorized to administer oaths)

(SEAL)

.....
Title of office”

- (8) In any such election at which voting machines are used, the board of directors shall provide paper ballots for absent voters containing the same question as is to be submitted to the electors by the voting machines, subject to the provisions of subsection (9) of this section.
- (9) The district or subdistrict may provide for mail-in voters to cast their mail-in voters’ ballots on voting machines expressly provided for that purpose, if each mail-in voter indicates by affidavit that he or she is qualified to vote at the election and will be a mail-in voter, pursuant to section 1-8-102, C.R.S., of the “Uniform Election Code of 1992” and all laws supplemental thereto.

37-47-138. Notice of election. Notice of such election shall be given by publication by three consecutive weekly insertions in at least one newspaper of general circulation in the district or subdistrict holding the election, as determined by the board of directors. No other notice of an election held under this article need be given, unless otherwise provided by the board. A supplemental notice may be given by publication at such times and places as the board may determine to be necessary or convenient for correcting or otherwise modifying the original notice of election or for any other purpose.

37-47-139. Polling places. (1) All polling places designated by resolution for an election shall be within the territorial limits of the district or subdistrict holding the election; but, if an election of the district or subdistrict is held concurrently with a primary or general election, the polling place for each precinct located wholly or partially within the district or subdistrict shall be the polling place for such precinct for the district or subdistrict election, regardless of whether or not such polling place is within the district or subdistrict.

(2) If the election of the district or subdistrict is not held concurrently with a primary or general election held under the laws of this state, there shall be one polling place in each of the election precincts which are used in the primary and general elections or in each of the consolidated precincts fixed by the board of directors, as the case may be.

37-47-140. Election supplies. (1) The secretary of the district shall provide at each polling place ballots or ballot labels, or both, ballot boxes or voting machines, or both, instructions, electors' affidavits, and other materials and supplies required for an election by any law; and the secretary may provide ballots and marking devices suitable for voting and for the votes on the ballots to be counted on electronic vote-tabulating devices.

(2) Election officials may require the execution of an affidavit by any person desiring to vote at any election of the district or subdistrict to evidence his qualifications to vote, which affidavit shall be prima facie evidence of the facts stated therein.

37-47-141. Election returns. (1) In the case of any election held under this article which is not held concurrently with a primary or general election, the election officials shall make their returns directly to the secretary of the district for the board of directors.

(2) In the case of any election held under this article which is consolidated with any primary or general election, the returns thereof shall be made and canvassed at the time and in the manner provided by law for the canvass of the returns of such primary or general election. Such canvassing body shall certify promptly and shall transmit to the secretary of the district for the board of directors a statement of the result of the vote upon any proposition submitted under this article.

(3) Upon receipt by the board of directors of election returns from election officials or upon receipt of such certificate from each such canvassing body, the board shall tabulate and declare the results of the election at any regular or special meeting held not earlier than five days following the date of the election.

(4) The board of directors shall cause the results of the election to be published at least one time in at least one newspaper having general circulation in the district.

37-47-142. Debt election contests. (1) Any election declared to have carried on an authorization to issue any bonds, by approval of the bond question, or otherwise to incur an indebtedness by approval of the question thereon may be contested by any elector of the district or subdistrict holding the debt election by suit against it as contestee and defendant in any district court of any county in which the district or subdistrict holding the election is wholly or partially situate:

(a) When illegal votes have been received or legal votes rejected at the polls in sufficient numbers to change the results;

(b) For any error or mistake on the part of any of the judges of election, any county clerk and recorder, the secretary of the district, or their respective officers and employees in counting or declaring the result of the election, if the error or mistake is sufficient to change the result;

(c) For malconduct, fraud, or corruption on the part of any of the judges of election, any county clerk and recorder, the secretary of the district, or their respective officers and employees, if the malconduct, fraud, or corruption is sufficient to change the result;

(d) When the bonds or other indebtedness is authorized to be issued for an invalid purpose; or

(e) For any other cause which shows that the bonds or other indebtedness is not validly authorized at the election.

(2) The style and form of process, the manner of service of process and papers, the fees of officers, and judgment for costs and execution thereon shall be according to the rules and practices of the court.

(3) Before the court shall take jurisdiction of the contest, the contestor shall file with the clerk of the court a bond, with sureties, to be approved by the judge thereof, running to the district or subdistrict holding the debt election as contestee and conditioned to pay all costs in case of failure of the contestor to maintain his contest.

(4) When the validity of any bond or other indebtedness election is contested, the plaintiff or plaintiffs, within thirty days after the returns of the election are canvassed and the results thereof declared and published, or last published, as the case may be, shall file with the clerk of the court a verified written complaint setting forth specifically:

(a) The name of the party contesting the election and a statement that the plaintiff or each plaintiff is an elector of the district or subdistrict holding the election;

(b) The proposition or propositions voted on at the election which are contested, the name of the district or the subdistrict as defendant and contestee, and the date of the election; and

(c) The particular grounds of such contest.

(5) No such contest shall be maintained and no election shall be set aside or held invalid unless such a complaint is filed within the period prescribed in subsection (4) of this section.

(6) Except as otherwise provided in this article, the election laws pertaining to contested election cases of municipal offices as provided in part 13 of article 10 of title 31, C.R.S., of the "Colorado Municipal Election Code of 1965", as from time to time amended, shall be applicable to bond or other indebtedness elections; but any such contest shall be regarded as one contesting the outcome of the vote on the proposition authorizing the issuance of securities or otherwise incurring the indebtedness, rather than election to office, and the district or subdistrict as contestee, rather than a person declared to have been elected to office, shall be regarded as the defendant.

(7) If the board of directors declares the proposition authorizing the issuance of bonds or otherwise incurring the indebtedness to have carried and no contest is duly filed or if such a contest is filed after it is favorably terminated, the board may issue the bonds or otherwise incur the indebtedness authorized at the election at one time or from time to time.

37-47-143. Covenants and other provisions in bonds. (1) Any resolution providing for the issuance of any bonds under this article payable from pledged revenues and any indenture or other instrument or proceedings pertaining thereto may at the discretion of the board of directors contain covenants or other provisions, notwithstanding that such covenants and provisions may limit the exercise of powers conferred by this article, in order to secure the payment of such bonds, in agreement with the holders of such bonds, including, without limitation, covenants or other provisions as to any one or more of the following:

(a) The pledged revenues and, in the case of general obligations, the taxes to be fixed, charged, or levied and the collection, use, and disposition thereof, including, without limitation, the foreclosure of liens for delinquencies, the discontinuance of services, facilities, or use of any properties or facilities, prohibition against free service, the collection of penalties and collection costs, and the use and disposition of any moneys of the district or subdistrict issuing bonds, derived or to be derived, from any source designated;

(b) The acquisition, improvement, or equipment of all or any part of properties pertaining to any project or any facilities;

(c) The creation and maintenance of reserves or sinking funds to secure the payment of the principal of and the interest on any bonds or of the operation and maintenance expenses of any facilities, or part thereof, and the source, custody, security, regulation, use, and disposition of any such reserves or funds, including, without limitation, the powers and duties of any trustee with regard thereto;

(d) Limitations on the powers of the district or subdistrict to acquire or operate, or permit the acquisition or operation of, any structures, facilities, or properties which may compete or tend to compete with any facilities;

(e) The vesting in a corporate or other trustee or trustees of such property, rights, powers, and duties in trust as the board of directors may determine, which may include any or all of the rights, powers, and duties of the trustee appointed by the holders of bonds, and limiting or abrogating the rights of such holders to appoint a trustee, or limiting the rights, duties, and powers of such trustee;

(f) Events of default, rights, and liabilities arising therefrom and the rights, liabilities, powers, and duties arising upon the breach by the district or subdistrict of any covenants, conditions, or obligations;

(g) The terms and conditions upon which the holders of the bonds or of a specified portion, percentage, or amount thereof, or any trustee therefor, shall be entitled to the appointment of a receiver, which receiver may enter and take possession of any facilities or service, operate and maintain the same, prescribe fees, rates, and other charges, and collect, receive, and apply all revenues thereafter arising therefrom in the same manner as the district or subdistrict itself might do;

(h) A procedure by which the terms of any resolution authorizing bonds or any other contract with any holders of district or subdistrict bonds, including, without limitation, an indenture of trust or similar instrument, may be amended or abrogated, and as to the proportion, percentage, or amount of bonds the holders of which must consent thereto, and the manner in which such consent may be given;

(i) The terms and conditions upon which any or all of the bonds shall become or may be declared due before maturity and as to the terms and conditions upon which such declaration and its consequences may be waived; and

(j) All such acts and things as may be necessary or convenient or desirable in order to secure the bonds or, in the discretion of the board of directors, tend to make the bonds more marketable, notwithstanding that such covenant, act, or thing may not be enumerated in this article, it being the intention of this article to give to the board of directors power to do in the name and on behalf of the district or subdistrict all things in the issuance of district or subdistrict bonds and for their security, except as expressly limited in this article.

37-47-144. Liens on pledged revenues. (1) Revenues pledged for the payment of any bonds, as received by or otherwise credited to the district or subdistrict issuing bonds under this article, shall immediately be subject to the lien of each such pledge without any physical delivery thereof, any filing, or any further act.

(2) The lien of each such pledge and the obligation to perform the contractual provisions made in the authorizing resolution or other instrument pertaining thereto shall have priority over any or all other obligations or liabilities of the district or subdistrict, except as may be otherwise provided in this article or in the resolution or other instrument, and subject to any prior pledges and liens theretofore created.

(3) The lien of each such pledge shall be valid and binding as against all persons having claims of any kind in tort, in contract, or otherwise against the district or subdistrict, irrespective of whether or not such persons have notice thereof.

37-47-145. Rights - powers of holders of bonds - trustees. (1) Subject to any contractual limitations binding upon the holders of any issue or series of bonds of the district or subdistrict issuing bonds under this article, or the trustee therefor, including, without limitation, the restriction of the exercise of any remedy to a specified proportion, percentage, or number of such holders, and subject to any prior or superior rights of others, any holder of bonds, or the trustee therefor, shall have the right and power, for the equal benefit and protection of all holders of bonds similarly situated:

(a) By mandamus or other suit, action, or proceeding at law or in equity, to enforce his rights against the district, subdistrict, or board of directors, or any combination thereof, or any of the officers, agents, and employees of the district or subdistrict to require and compel such district, subdistrict, or board or any of such officers, agents, or employees to perform and carry out their respective duties, obligations, or other commitments under this article and their respective covenants and agreements with the holder of any bond;

(b) By action or suit in equity, to require the district or subdistrict to account as if it were the trustee of an express trust;

(c) By action or suit in equity, to have a receiver appointed, which receiver may enter and take possession of any facilities and any pledged revenues for the payment of the bonds, prescribe sufficient fees, rates, and other charges derived from the facilities, and collect, receive, and apply all pledged revenues or other moneys pledged for the payment of the bonds in the same manner as the district or subdistrict itself might do in accordance with the obligations of the district or subdistrict; and

(d) By action or suit in equity, to enjoin any acts or things which may be unlawful or in violation of the rights of the holder of any bonds and to bring suit thereupon.

37-47-146. Investments and securities. (1) The board of directors of the district or subdistrict, respectively, issuing bonds under this article, subject to any contractual limitations from time to time imposed upon the district or subdistrict by any resolution authorizing the issuance of the outstanding bonds of the district or subdistrict or by any trust indenture or other proceedings pertaining thereto, may cause to be invested and reinvested any proceeds of taxes, any pledged revenues, and any proceeds of bonds issued under this article in securities meeting the investment requirements established in part 6 of article 75 of title 24, C.R.S., and may cause such proceeds of taxes, revenues, district or subdistrict bonds, and securities to be deposited in any trust bank or trust banks within or without or both within and without this state and secured in such manner and subject to such terms and conditions as the board of directors may determine, with or without the payment of any interest on such deposit, including, without limitation, time deposits evidenced by certificates of deposit.

(2) Any such securities and any certificates of deposit thus held may, from time to time, be sold, and the proceeds may be so reinvested or redeposited as provided in this section.

(3) Sales and redemptions of any such securities and certificates of deposit thus held shall, from time to time, be made in season so that the proceeds may be applied to the purposes for which the money with which such securities and certificates of deposit were originally acquired was placed in the district or subdistrict treasury.

(4) Any gain from any such investments or reinvestments may be credited to any fund or account pledged for the payment of any district or subdistrict bonds issued under this article, including any reserve therefor, or any other fund or account pertaining to a project or any facilities, or the district's or subdistrict's general fund, subject to any contractual limitations in any proceedings pertaining to outstanding district or subdistrict bonds.

(5) It is lawful for any commercial bank incorporated under the laws of this state which may act as depository of the proceeds of any bonds issued under this article, any securities owned by the district or subdistrict, any proceeds of taxes, any pledged revenues, and any moneys otherwise pertaining to a project or any facilities, or any combination thereof, to furnish such indemnifying bonds and to pledge such securities as may be required by the board of directors.

37-47-147. Rents and charges. (1) (a) The district, any subdistrict, and any political subdivision of the state of Colorado contracting with the district or subdistrict and fixing and collecting annual rentals, service charges, and other charges, or any combination thereof, are, in supplementation of the powers provided in this article, authorized to fix and collect rents, rates, fees, tolls, and other charges, in this article sometimes referred to as "service charges", for direct or indirect connection with, or the use or services of, a water system, electrical system, joint system, or other facilities, including, without limitation, connection charges, minimum charges, and charges for the availability of service.

(b) Such service charges may be charged to and collected in advance or otherwise by a district from any political subdivision or person and by any political subdivision from any person contracting for such connection or use or services or from the owner or occupant, or any combination thereof, of any real property which directly or indirectly is or has been or will be connected with any such facilities, and the political subdivision or owner or occupant of any such real property shall be liable for and shall pay such service charges to the district, subdistrict, or political subdivision fixing the service charges at the time when and place where such service charges are due and payable.

(c) Such service charges of the district or subdistrict may accrue from any date on which the board of directors reasonably estimates, in any resolution authorizing the issuance of any securities or other instrument pertaining thereto or in any contract with any political subdivision or person, that any facilities or project being acquired or improved and equipped will be available for service or use.

(2) (a) Such rents, rates, fees, tolls, and other charges, being in the nature of use or service charges, shall, as nearly as the district, subdistrict, or political subdivision fixing the service charges shall deem practicable and equitable, be reasonable, and such service charges shall be uniform throughout the district, subdistrict, or political subdivision for the same type, class, and amount of use or service of the facilities and may be based or computed either: On measurements of water, flow devices, or electric meters, duly provided and maintained by the district, subdistrict, or political subdivision, or any user as approved by the district, subdistrict, or political subdivision fixing such charges; or on the consumption of water or electricity in or on or in connection with the political subdivision, or any person, or real property, making due allowance for commercial use of water and infiltration of groundwater and discharge of surface runoff to the facilities, or on the number and kind of water or electric outlets on or in connection with the political subdivision, person, or real property, or on the water or electric fixtures or facilities in or on or in connection with the political subdivision, person, or real property; or on the number of persons residing or working in or on or otherwise connected or identified with the political subdivision, person, or real property, or on the capacity of the improvements in or on or connected with the political subdivision, person, or real property; or upon the availability of service or readiness to serve by the facilities; or on any other factors determining the type, class, and amount of use or service of the facilities; or on any combination of any such factors.

(b) Reasonable penalties may be fixed for any delinquencies, including, without limitation, interest on delinquent service charges from any date due at a rate of not exceeding one percent per month or fraction thereof, reasonable attorneys' fees, and other costs of collection.

(3) The district, subdistrict, or political subdivision fixing the service charges shall prescribe and, from time to time when necessary, revise a schedule of such service charges, which shall comply with the terms of any contract of the district, subdistrict, or political subdivision fixing the service charges.

(4) The general assembly has determined and declared that the obligations, arising from time to time, of the district, any subdistrict, any political subdivision, or any person to pay service charges fixed in connection with any facilities shall constitute general obligations of the district, subdistrict, political subdivision, or person charged with their payment; but, as such obligations accrue for current services and benefits from, and the use of, any such facilities, the obligations shall not constitute an indebtedness of the district, any subdistrict, or any political subdivision within the meaning of any constitutional, charter, or statutory limitation or any other provision restricting the incurrence of any debt.

(5) No board, agency, bureau, commission, or official, other than the board of directors of the district or subdistrict, respectively, or the governing body of the political subdivision fixing the service charges, has authority to fix, prescribe, levy, modify, supervise, or regulate the making of service charges or to prescribe, supervise, or regulate the performance of services pertaining to the facilities thereof, as authorized by this article; but this subsection (5) shall not be construed to be a limitation on the contracting powers of the board of directors of the district or any subdistrict, respectively, or the governing body of any such political subdivision.

37-47-148. Miscellaneous powers. (1) The district and any subdistrict thereof shall also have the following powers:

(a) To pay or otherwise defray and to contract to pay or defray, for any term not exceeding seventy-five years, without an election, except as otherwise provided in this article, the principal of, any prior redemption premiums due in connection with, any interest on, and any other charges pertaining to any securities or other obligations of the federal government, any subdistrict or the district, respectively, any political subdivision, or any person which were incurred in connection with any property thereof subsequently acquired by the district or any subdistrict and relating to either's facilities;

(b) To establish, operate, and maintain facilities within the district or any subdistrict or elsewhere, across or along any public street, highway, bridge, or viaduct or any other public right-of-way or in, upon, under, or over any vacant public lands, which public lands now are, or may become, the property of a political subdivision of this state, without first obtaining a franchise from the political subdivision having jurisdiction over the same; but the district or subdistrict shall cooperate with any political subdivision having such jurisdiction, shall promptly restore any such public street, highway, bridge, or viaduct or any such other public right-of-way to its former state of usefulness as nearly as may be and shall not use the same in such manner as permanently to impair completely or materially the usefulness thereof;

(c) To adopt, amend, repeal, enforce, and otherwise administer such reasonable resolutions, rules, regulations, and orders as the district or subdistrict shall deem necessary or convenient for the operation, maintenance, management, government, and use of the facilities of the district or subdistrict, as the case may be, and any other facilities under its control, whether situated within or without or both within and without the territorial limits of the district or subdistrict; and

(d) (I) To adopt, amend, repeal, enforce, and otherwise administer under the police power such reasonable resolutions, rules, regulations, and orders pertaining to water or electric services performed by any person through the district's or subdistrict's facilities or pertaining to facilities of the district or subdistrict, any political subdivision, or any person, or any combination thereof, reasonably affecting the activities of the district or subdistrict, directly or indirectly, as the board of directors may from time to time deem necessary or convenient.

(II) No such resolution, rule, regulation, or order shall be adopted or amended except by action of the board of directors on the behalf and in the name of the district or subdistrict, respectively, after a public hearing thereon is held by the board of directors, in connection with which any political subdivision owning or authorizing any facilities comparable to facilities of the district or subdistrict, as the case may be, whether therein or thereout, or both therein and thereout, and other persons of interest have an opportunity to be heard, after mailed notice of the hearing is given at least thirty days prior to the hearing by the secretary to each such political subdivision wholly or partly within the district or subdistrict proceeding under this article, and after notice of such hearing is given by publication at least once a week for three consecutive weeks in at least one newspaper of general circulation in the district or such subdistrict by the secretary to persons of interest, both known and unknown, the first publication to be made at least thirty days prior to the hearing.

37-47-149. Cooperative powers. (1) The district and any subdistrict have the power to utilize and may utilize private industry, by contract, to carry out the design, construction, operation, management, manufacturing, marketing, planning, and research and development functions of the district or any subdistrict proceeding under this article, unless the district or subdistrict determines that it is in the public interest to adopt another course of action. The district or subdistrict, or both, may enter into long-term contracts with private persons, not exceeding a term of seventy-five years, without an election, for the performance of any such functions of the district or subdistrict, which, in the opinion of the district or subdistrict, can desirably and conveniently be carried out by a private person under contract; but any such contract shall contain such terms and conditions as shall enable the district or subdistrict to retain reasonable supervision and control of such functions to be carried out or performed by such private persons pursuant to such contract.

(2) Subject to the provisions of section 37-47-133, the district and any subdistrict have the following powers:

(a) To accept contributions, grants, or loans from the state and the federal government for the purpose of financing the planning, acquisition, improvement, equipment, maintenance, and operation of any enterprise in which the district or subdistrict, or both, are authorized to engage, and to enter into contracts and cooperate with, and accept cooperation from, the federal government, the state, the subdistrict or the district, respectively, any political subdivision, any private firm, and any other person, or any combination thereof, in the planning, acquisition, improvement, equipment, maintenance, and operation and in financing the planning, acquisition, improvement, equipment, maintenance, and operation of any such enterprise in accordance with any legislation which the general assembly, congress, the governing body of any political subdivision, the board of directors or other governing body of any private firm, any other person, or any combination thereof may have adopted prior to the adoption of this article or may thereafter adopt, under which aid, assistance, and cooperation may be furnished by such cooperating entity or entities or other persons in the planning, acquisition, improvement, equipment, maintenance, and operation or in financing the planning, acquisition, improvement, equipment, maintenance, and operation of any such enterprise, including, without limitation, costs of engineering, architectural, and economic investigations and studies, surveys, designs, plans, working drawings, specifications, procedures, and other action preliminary to the acquisition, improvement, or equipment of any facilities, or any part thereof, and to do any and all things necessary in order to avail itself of such aid, assistance, and cooperation under any state, federal, or other legislation;

(b) To enter into, without any election, joint operating or service contracts and agreements; acquisition, improvement, equipment, or disposal contracts; or other arrangements for any term not exceeding seventy-five years, with the federal government, the state, the subdistrict or the district, respectively, any political subdivision, any private firm, or any other person, or any combination thereof, concerning the facilities, and any project or property pertaining thereto, whether acquired or undertaken by the district, by the subdistrict, by the federal government, by any political subdivision of this state or any other state, or by any person; and to accept contributions, grants, or loans from the cooperating entity or entities or other persons in connection therewith;

(c) To enter into and perform without any election, when determined by the board of directors to be in the public interest, contracts and agreements, for any term not exceeding seventy-five years, with the federal government, the subdistrict or the district, respectively, any political subdivision, or any person, or any combination thereof, for the provision and operation by the subdistrict or the district, respectively, of any facilities pertaining to such facilities of the district or subdistrict, as the case may be, any part thereof, or any project relating thereto, and the payment periodically thereby to the district or subdistrict of amounts at least sufficient, if any, in the determination of the board, to compensate the district or subdistrict for the cost of providing, operating, and maintaining such facilities serving the federal government, the subdistrict or the district, respectively, any political subdivision, or such other person, or any combination thereof, or otherwise;

(d) To enter into and perform, without any election, contracts and agreements, on a public bid basis, a competitive basis, or a negotiated basis, as the board of directors may determine, with the federal government, the subdistrict or the district, respectively, any political subdivision, any private firm, or any other person, or any combination thereof, for or concerning the planning, construction, lease, other acquisition, improvement, equipment, operation, maintenance, disposal, and financing of any property pertaining to the facilities of the district or subdistrict or to any project of the district or subdistrict, including, without limitation, any contract or agreement for any term not exceeding seventy-five years, pertaining to the joint ownership of the facilities as tenants in common thereamong, providing for the exchange of water or electric power, for backup water or power, pooling of resources, the designation of a manager for any such project or facilities supervised by an engineering and operating committee of co-owners, or otherwise supervised; and otherwise to contract with water or power producers or users, or both;

(e) To cooperate with and act in conjunction with the federal government or any of its engineers, officers, boards, commissions, or departments, or with the state or any of its engineers, officers, boards, commissions, or departments, or with any political subdivision or any person in the acquisition, improvement, and equipment of any facilities or any part thereof authorized for the district or subdistrict or for any other works, acts, or purposes provided for in this article and to adopt and carry out any definite plan or system of work for any such purpose;

(f) To cooperate with the federal government, the subdistrict or district, respectively, any political subdivision, or any person, or any combination thereof, by an agreement therewith by which the district or the subdistrict may:

(I) Acquire and provide, without cost to the cooperating entity or entities, the land, easements, and rights-of-way necessary for the acquisition, improvement, and equipment of any properties;

(II) Hold the cooperating entity or entities free from and save it or them harmless from any claim for damages arising from the acquisition, improvement, equipment, maintenance, and operation of any facilities;

(III) Maintain and operate any facilities in accordance with regulations prescribed by the cooperating entity or entities; and

(IV) Establish and enforce regulations, if any, concerning the facilities which are satisfactory to the cooperating entity or entities;

(g) To provide, by any contract for any term not exceeding seventy-five years, or otherwise, without an election:

(I) For the joint use of personnel, equipment, and facilities of the district, the subdistrict, any political subdivision, or any person, or any combination thereof, including, without limitation, public buildings constructed by or under the supervision of the board of directors, the governing body of the political subdivision, or the board of directors or other governing body of a private firm or other person concerned, upon such terms and agreements and within such areas within the district or subdistrict, or otherwise, as may be determined, for the promotion and protection of health, comfort, safety, life, welfare, and property of the inhabitants of the district or subdistrict and any such political subdivision and any other persons of interest, and for water or electric services;

(II) For the joint employment of clerks, stenographers, and other employees pertaining to the facilities or any project, now existing or hereafter established, upon such terms and conditions as may be determined for the equitable apportionment of the expenses resulting therefrom;

(h) To provide for comprehensive planning and, where possible, coordinate operations of the district or subdistrict with the subdistrict or district, respectively, any and all such political subdivisions, private firms, and other persons, or any combination thereof, pertaining to water conservation and use and to the generation and use of electricity.

37-48-101. Legislative declaration. In the opinion of the general assembly of the state of Colorado, the conservation of the water of the Rio Grande and its tributaries for beneficial use and the construction of reservoirs, ditches, and works for such purposes are of vital importance to the growth and development of the entire area and the welfare of all its inhabitants and that, to promote the health and general welfare of the state of Colorado, an appropriate agency for the conservation, use, and development of the water resources of the Rio Grande and its tributaries should be established and given such powers as may be necessary to safeguard for Colorado all waters to which the state of Colorado is equitably entitled.

37-48-101.3. Definitions. (1) "District" means the "Rio Grande Water Conservation District". The district is a body corporate and politic and a political subdivision of the state of Colorado.

(2) "Subdistrict" or "subdivision" embraces and includes the kind or character of special improvement districts created under the provisions of this article, including subdistricts organized under the name and style of "Water Users' Association No. .... of the Rio Grande Water Conservation District" and "Special Improvement District No. .... of the Rio Grande Water Conservation District". A subdistrict or subdivision is a body corporate and politic and a political subdivision of the state of Colorado.

37-48-102. Creation and name of district. There is hereby created a water conservation district to be known and designated as "Rio Grande Water Conservation District" when the governor declares, pursuant to section 37-48-121, that such district is formed. Such district is hereby declared to be a body corporate under the laws of Colorado. Said district shall comprise the counties of Alamosa, Conejos, Rio Grande and those portions of Saguache and Mineral counties which are within the drainage basin of the Rio Grande river and its tributaries, including the closed basin thereof.

37-48-103. Board of directors. (1) The district shall be managed and controlled by a board of nine directors. The members of said board shall hold their offices for terms of three years and until their successors are appointed and qualified. Two members of such board shall be appointed from each of the counties of Conejos, Alamosa, Rio Grande, and Saguache, and one such member shall be appointed from Mineral county. At the time of his appointment each director shall be a resident and freeholder of the county from which he is appointed or, if only a part of the county is included within the boundaries of said district, a resident and freeholder of such included part. Each director shall be appointed by the board of county commissioners of the county in which such director resides. He may be a member of the board of county commissioners of such county. The members of said board shall annually select one of their number to act as president and one of their number to act as vice-president, each to hold office for one year or until his successor is duly selected.

(2) The office of a director shall become vacant when any director ceases to reside in the county from which he was appointed or when declared vacant by a majority vote of all of the members of the board when any director has failed to attend two consecutive regular meetings without having been excused from attendance by the president. In the event a vacancy occurs in said office by reason of death, resignation, removal, or otherwise, it shall be filled for the remainder of the unexpired term by the board of county commissioners of the county from which said director originally came. Before entering upon the discharge of his duties, each director shall take an oath to support and defend the constitutions of the United States and of the state of Colorado and to impartially, without fear or favor, discharge the duties of a director of said district.

(3) Upon expiration of the terms of the present directors of the district in September, 1970, their successors shall be appointed by the respective boards of county commissioners as provided in this section for the following terms of office: One director from each of the counties of Alamosa, Rio Grande, and Saguache, whose terms of office shall expire on the date of the regular quarterly meeting of said board to be held in April, 1971, or as soon thereafter as their respective successors are appointed and qualified; one director from each of the counties of Conejos, Mineral, and Rio Grande, whose terms of office shall expire on the date of the regular quarterly meeting to be held in April, 1972, or as soon thereafter as their respective successors are appointed and qualified; and one director from each of the counties of Alamosa, Saguache, and Conejos, whose terms of office shall expire on the date of the regular quarterly meeting to be held in April, 1973, or as soon thereafter as their respective successors are appointed and qualified. Thereafter, each director shall be appointed for a term of three years, and his term shall expire on the date of the regular quarterly meeting to be held in April of the year that commences during the third year of his term, or as soon thereafter as his successor is duly appointed and qualified. For the purpose of determining such expiration date, the term of such director shall be taken as having commenced on the date of the first regular April quarterly meeting at which the term of his predecessor would have expired had he then been duly appointed and qualified.

37-48-104. Employees. The board of directors of said district shall appoint a secretary and a treasurer. The same individual at the election of the board may hold both offices. The board shall likewise hire such other employees, including engineers and attorneys, as may be required to properly transact the business of the district, and said board is authorized to provide for the compensation of the secretary and treasurer and other appointees. The treasurer shall be required by the board to give bond with corporate surety in such amount as the board may fix and which it deems sufficient to protect the funds in the hands of the treasurer or under his control. Such bond is subject to the approval of the board.

37-48-105. Powers of district. (1) The district, in its corporate capacity, shall have power to:

(a) Sue and be sued in the name of the Rio Grande water conservation district and otherwise to participate in litigation;

(b) Acquire, operate, and hold in the name of the district such real and personal property as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this article and to sell and

convey such property or its products as provided in this article or when said property is no longer needed for the purposes of said district;

(c) Borrow money and incur indebtedness and to issue bonds or other evidence of such indebtedness; except that the district may not incur any indebtedness in an aggregate amount exceeding the product of the valuation for assessment of the district multiplied by two mills;

(d) Make surveys and conduct investigations to determine the best manner of utilizing stream flows within the district and the amount of such stream flow or other water supply, and to locate ditches, irrigation works, and reservoirs to store or utilize water for irrigation, mining, manufacturing, or other purposes, and to make filings upon said water and initiate appropriations for the use and benefit of the ultimate appropriators, and to do and perform all acts and things necessary or advisable to secure and insure an adequate supply of water, present and future, for irrigation, mining, manufacturing, and domestic purposes within said district;

(e) Make contracts with respect to the relative rights of said district under its claims and filings and the rights of any other person, association, or organization seeking to divert water from any of the streams within said district;

(f) Contract with any agencies, officers, bureaus, and departments of the state of Colorado and the United States, including the department of corrections, to obtain services or labor for the initiation or construction of irrigation works, canals, reservoirs, power plants, or retaining ponds within said district;

(g) Enter upon any privately-owned land or other real property for the purpose of making surveys or obtaining other information, without obtaining any order so to do, if the same can be done without damage to the lands, crops, or improvements thereon;

(h) Contract with the United States government, the bureau of reclamation, or other agencies of the United States government for the construction of any works;

(i) Have and exercise the power of eminent domain to acquire ditches, reservoirs, or other works or lands or rights-of-way therefor which the district or a subdistrict thereof may need to carry out the plans of said district or subdistrict and in general to exercise any and all rights and powers of eminent domain conferred upon other agencies, as provided in articles 1 to 7 of title 38, C.R.S.;

(j) File upon and hold for the use of the public sufficient water of any natural stream to maintain a constant stream flow in the amount necessary to preserve fish, and to use such water in connection with retaining ponds for the propagation of fish for the benefit of the public;

(k) Exercise such implied powers and perform such other acts as may be necessary to carry out and effect any of the express powers hereby conferred upon such district;

(l) Participate in the formulation and implementation of nonpoint source water pollution control programs related to agricultural practices in order to implement programs required or authorized under federal law and section 25-8-205 (5), C.R.S., enter into contracts and agreements, accept funds from any federal, state, or private sources, receive grants or loans, participate in education and demonstration programs, construct, operate, maintain, or replace facilities, and perform such other activities and adopt such rules and policies as the board deems necessary or desirable in connection with nonpoint source water pollution control programs related to agricultural practices;

(m) Make loans or grants to any public entity, nonprofit corporation, not-for-profit corporation, carrier ditch company, mutual ditch or reservoir company, unincorporated ditch or reservoir company, or cooperative association within the boundaries of the district to carry out the purposes of the district;

(n) In connection with a plan of water management, assess annual service charges and user fees on the diversion or use of water within the district or a subdistrict. This paragraph (n) shall not allow service charges or user fees to be imposed on surface water diversions in a plan of water management to replace depletions from groundwater withdrawals or to reduce groundwater diversions.

(o) Establish a nonprofit or charitable land trust;

(p) Purchase, rent, lease, and accept donations of, or cooperate in the creation of, conservation easements; and

(q) Cooperate in the creation of conservation reserve programs and other similar programs.

(2) The district, in its own name, may issue revenue bonds to finance, in whole or in part, the construction of works, reservoirs, or other improvements for the beneficial use of water for the purposes for which it has been or may be appropriated, and to finance plans of water management, whether or not the interest on such bonds may be subject to taxation. Such revenue bonds shall be issued in such denominations and with such maximum net effective interest rate as may be fixed by the board of directors of the district and shall bear interest such that the net effective interest rate of the bonds does not exceed the maximum net effective interest rate authorized. The board shall pledge only rental proceeds, service charges, other income, or any combination thereof, from such works, plans of water management, or other improvements, and the district shall not be otherwise obligated for the payment thereof. At the time such revenue bonds are issued, the board of directors of the district shall make and enter in the minutes of the proceeding a resolution that sets out the due dates of such revenue bonds, the rates of interest thereon, the general provisions of the bonds, and a recital that the same are payable only out of rental proceeds, service charges, other income, or any combination thereof. In addition, the board of directors shall require the payment of rental charges, service charges, or other charges by the political subdivisions or persons who are to use or derive benefits from the water or other services furnished by such works, plans of water management, or improvements. Such charges shall be sufficient to pay operation and maintenance expenses thereof, to meet said bond payments, and to accumulate and maintain reserve and replacement accounts pertaining thereto as set forth in such resolution. Such resolution shall be irrevocable during the time that any of the revenue bonds are outstanding and unpaid. The revenue bonds shall be signed "Rio Grande Water Conservation District, By ....., President. Attest ....., Secretary", and they shall be countersigned by the treasurer.

37-48-106. Principal office - meetings. The board of directors of the district shall designate a place within the district where the principal office is to be maintained and may change such place from time to time. Regular quarterly meetings of said board shall be held within the district during the months of January, April, July, and October, the date and place of which shall be fixed by the board at its next preceding quarterly meeting and which shall be advertised by notice published once in a newspaper or newspapers which collectively provide general circulation throughout the district at least ten days before such meeting. The board is also empowered to hold such special meetings as may be required for the proper transaction of business. All special meetings of the board shall be held at locations which are within the boundaries of the district or which are within the boundaries of any county in which the district is located, in whole or in part, or in any county so long as the meeting location does not exceed twenty miles from the district boundaries. The provisions of this section governing the location of meetings may be waived only if the proposed change of location of a meeting of the board appears on the agenda of a regular or special meeting of the board and if a resolution is adopted by the board stating the reason for which a meeting of the board is to be held in a location other than under the provisions of this section and further stating the date, time, and place of such meeting. Special meetings may be called by the president of the board or by any three directors. Meetings of the board shall be public, and proper minutes of the proceedings of said board shall be preserved and shall be open to the inspection of any elector of the district during business hours.

37-48-107. Assessment and levy by board. (1) The board of directors has the power to fix the amount of an assessment upon the property within the district not to exceed two and one-half mills for every dollar of valuation for assessment therein, as a level or general levy to be used for the purpose of paying the expenses of organization, for surveys and plans, to pay the salary of officers, and the per diem allowed to directors and their expenses, for expenses which may be incurred in the administration of the affairs of the district, and for all other lawful purposes of the district including capital construction.

(2) The amount of assessment on each dollar of valuation for assessment shall, in accordance with the schedule prescribed by section 39-5-128, C.R.S., be certified to boards of county commissioners of the various counties in which the district is located and by them included in their next annual levy for state and county purposes. Such amount so certified shall be collected for the use of such district in the same manner as are taxes for county purposes, and the revenue laws of the state for the levy and collection of taxes on real estate for county purposes, except as modified in this article, shall be applicable to the levy and collection of the amount certified by the board of directors of said district as aforesaid, including the enforcement of penalties, forfeiture, and sale for delinquent taxes.

(3) All collections made by the county treasurer pursuant to such levy shall be paid to the treasurer of the conservancy district on or before the tenth day of the next succeeding calendar month. If any items of expense have already been paid in whole or in part from any other sources by said district, they may be repaid from receipts of such levy. Such levy may be made, although the work proposed, or any part thereof, may have been found impracticable, or for other reasons abandoned. The collection of data and the payment of expenses therefor, including salaries of engineers, attorneys, and others, to conserve the water of said district and to enable said district to adopt plans for the orderly development of said district are hereby declared to be a matter of general benefit to the public welfare, and such that a tax for said purposes may be properly imposed, in the opinion of the general assembly.

(4) If any provision of this section is held unconstitutional or invalid by any court of competent jurisdiction, such decision shall not affect the validity or force of any other part of this section, or any other part of this article, and the general assembly hereby declares it would have enacted the remainder of this article without this section.

37-48-108. Creation of subdistricts. (1) Notwithstanding the organization of the district provided for in this article, irrigation and internal improvement districts organized under articles 41, 42, 44, and 45 of this title and any other form of organization designed or intended to acquire, construct, or maintain reservoirs, ditches, and similar works for irrigation or other beneficial purposes under any law of the state of Colorado or of the United States may be organized to cover and include areas within the Rio Grande water conservation district and may likewise embrace territory within that district and partly out of the district. Whenever, in its opinion, such form of organization will help promote the local interests or accomplish improvements for any part of said district, the board of directors may recommend the organization of any such type of organization. The creation of the Rio Grande water conservation district shall not affect the existence of public irrigation districts heretofore created under article 4 of chapter 149, CRS 53, or water conservancy districts heretofore created pursuant to article 45 of this title.

(2) In addition to such forms of organization, whenever in the opinion of the board of directors of said district it is feasible and necessary that water rights, ditches, canals, reservoirs, wells, or other works which benefit only a part of the district should be acquired or constructed or that a plan of augmentation or plan of water management, or any combination of the foregoing, involving only a part of the district should be developed and put into effect, a local improvement district or subdivision or as many of such local improvement districts as may be necessary may be created. Such local improvement district, when organized under the provisions of this article, shall be designated as "Water Users' Association No. .... in the Rio Grande Water Conservation District" or as "Special Improvement District No. .... in the Rio Grande Water Conservation District". Each subdistrict shall be numbered consecutively as created or organized.

(3) Subdistricts shall be created and managed as provided in sections 37-48-123 to 37-48-193. Except as otherwise provided in said sections, the board of directors and the engineers, attorneys, secretary, and other officers, agents, and employees of the district, so far as it may be necessary, may serve in the same capacity for such subdivision or subdistricts. A contract and agreement between the main district and a subdistrict, between subdistricts, between a subdistrict and a municipal water supplier, and between a subdistrict and an agency of the state of Colorado or the United States, may be made in the same manner as contracts and agreements between two districts.

(4) As used in this article, a "plan of water management" means a cooperative plan for the utilization of water and water diversion, storage, and use facilities in any lawful manner, so as to assure the protection of existing water rights and promote the optimum and sustainable beneficial use of the water resources available for use within the district or a subdistrict, and may include development and implementation of plans of augmentation and exchanges of water and groundwater management plans under section 37-92-501 (4) (c).

Editor's note: The public irrigation law, article 4 of chapter 149, CRS 53, referred to in subsection (1) of this section, was repealed, but the provisions of said article 4 were preserved as to all districts formed under that article prior to 1963. (See L. 63, p. 1009.)

37-48-109. Compensation of directors. The directors of the district shall receive as compensation a sum not to exceed one hundred dollars per day while actually engaged in the business of said district and, in addition, shall be entitled to their actual traveling and transportation expenses when away from their respective places of residence on district business.

37-48-110. Limitations on power to levy and contract. (1) The district has no power of taxation or right to levy or assess taxes, except an annual levy not to exceed two and one-half mills on each dollar of the valuation for assessment of property in said district. The district has no power to contract or incur any obligation or indebtedness except as expressly provided in this article, and then any obligation or indebtedness so contracted or incurred is payable out of the funds derived through said limited tax and not otherwise, but said district, for and in behalf of any subdistrict or improvement district created under this article, shall have the right and authority to approve and incur subdistrict obligations and to issue warrants, notes, bonds, or other evidences of said obligations, as expressly authorized in this article and not otherwise, and such subdistrict obligations shall never be obligations or indebtednesses of the district and shall be payable only as provided in this article.

(2) All assessments under this article shall be collected by the county treasurers of the respective counties in which said real estate is situated at the same time and in the same manner as is provided by law for the collection of taxes for county and state purposes, and, if said assessments are not paid, the real estate shall be sold at regular tax sales for the payment of said assessments, interest, and penalties in the manner provided by the statutes of the state of Colorado for selling property for the payment of general taxes. If there are no bids at said tax sales for the property so offered, said property shall be struck off to the district, and the tax certificates shall be issued in the name of the district; and the board of directors has the same power with reference to the sale of said tax certificates as is now vested in county commissioners and county treasurers when property is struck off to the counties.

(3) Tax deeds may be issued, based upon said certificates of sale, in the same manner that deeds are executed on tax sales on general state and county taxes.

37-48-111. Investment of surplus funds. The board of directors of said district may invest any surplus funds of the district, including any amounts in the construction fund not needed for immediate use to pay the cost of construction of any project in any one of the subdistricts or to pay bonds or coupons or to meet current expenses, in securities meeting the investment requirements established in part 6 of article 75 of title 24, C.R.S. The board of directors of said district may require any funds of the district, or of any subdistrict, to be deposited with such depository or bank as may be designated by the board and likewise has authority to require the treasurer of the district to take from such depository a bond with corporate surety to insure payment of any such deposit, or to require such depository to insure payment of any such deposit, or to require such depository to pledge securities of the same kind as those in which the district is authorized to invest its funds to insure payment of any such deposit.

37-48-112. Rules. (1) The district has the power to make general rules for the conduct of its business, as well as the conduct of the business of any subdistrict therein, and by such rules may provide for the rental of water or other services that are to be furnished by said subdistrict to any municipality, public irrigation district, irrigation district, other quasi-municipal corporation in this state, or any agency of the state of Colorado or the United States, and to make contracts for the payment of the rental to be charged for any such water or services.

(2) Where a board of managers is established to carry out the general supervision and operational management of a plan of water management of a subdistrict, such board of managers shall, before undertaking any water management function, formulate and propose to the board of directors of the district rules and regulations which shall define the scope of the responsibility of the board of managers and the functional relationship between such board and the board of directors of the district in terms consistent with the requirements of this article. If such responsibility and relationship are described in the petition for the creation of the subdistrict, the rules and regulations must incorporate and be consistent therewith. Such rules and regulations shall also include operational rules and regulations for the plan of water management and any other operational function undertaken by the board of managers. Such rules and regulations, and any amendments thereto, may be adopted by the board of managers only after having been approved by the board of directors of the district.

37-48-113. Court confirmation. (1) (a) In its discretion, the board of directors, on the behalf and in the name of the district or any subdistrict that is a party in interest, may file a petition at any time in the district court in and for the county in which the district's principal office is maintained or, if both the district and one or more subdistricts are parties to the petition, in the district court in and for the county in which any such subdistrict was organized praying for a judicial examination and confirmation of any power conferred or of any taxes, rates, including service charges and user fees, or other charges levied or proposed, or of any act, proceeding, or contract of the district, the subdistrict, or the subdistricts, or any combination thereof, as the case may be, whether or not said contract has been executed, including, without limitation, proposed contracts for the acquisition, improvement, equipment, maintenance, operation, or disposal of any properties or facilities for the benefit of the district, the subdistrict, or the subdistricts, as the case may be, and so including a proposed issue of revenue warrants, revenue bonds, special improvement bonds, or general obligation bonds, issued or to be issued on behalf of any such entity. Such petition shall set forth the facts whereon the validity of such power, tax, assessment, service charge, user fee, act, proceeding, or contract is founded and shall be verified by the president of the board of directors or the board of managers.

(b) Such action shall be in the nature of a proceeding in rem, and jurisdiction of all parties interested may be had by publication, mail, and posting, as provided in this article. Notice of the filing of the petition shall be given by the clerk of the court, under the seal thereof, stating in brief outline the contents of the petition and also stating where a full copy of any contract therein mentioned may be examined. The notice shall be served by publication at least once a week for five consecutive weeks in a daily or a weekly newspaper of general circulation published in the county in which the principal office of the district is located and, if said action is filed for a subdistrict organized in another county, in such county, by mailing copies of the notice by registered or certified mail, return receipt requested, to the boards of county commissioners of the several counties in which the parties in interest in such action are located wholly or in part, and by posting the same in the office of the district at least thirty days prior to the date fixed in said notice for the hearing on said petition. Jurisdiction shall be complete after such publication, mailing, and posting.

(c) Any owner of property in the district or any subdistrict filing the petition or any person interested in the contract or proposed contract or in the premises may appear and move to dismiss or answer the petition at any time prior to the date fixed for the hearing or within such further time as may be allowed by the court; and the petition shall be taken as confessed by all persons who fail to appear.

(2) The petition and notice shall be sufficient to give the court jurisdiction; and, upon hearing, the court shall examine into and determine all matters and things affecting the question submitted and shall make such findings with reference thereto and render such judgment and decree thereon as the case warrants. Costs may be divided or apportioned among any contesting parties in the discretion of the trial court. Review of the judgment of the court may be had as in other similar cases; except that such review must be applied for within thirty days after the time of the rendition of such judgment, or within such additional time as may be allowed by the court within thirty days. The Colorado rules of civil procedure shall govern in matters of pleadings and practice where not otherwise specified in this article. The court shall disregard any error, irregularity, or omission which does not affect the substantial rights of the parties.

37-48-114. Petition. Before the Rio Grande water conservation district is established under this article, a petition shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the district court of the twelfth judicial district in and for Alamosa county, signed by not fewer than four hundred landowners, each of which owns eighty or more acres of land situated within the limits proposed to be organized into said district. The petition shall set forth the name of the proposed district and a general description of the boundaries of the proposed district and shall pray for an election on the question of organization of the proposed district. No petition with the requisite signatures shall be declared void on account of alleged defects, but the court may permit the petition to be amended at any time to conform to the facts by correcting any error. Similar petitions, except for signatures, may be filed and together shall be regarded as one petition. All such petitions filed prior to the hearing on the first petition filed shall be considered by the court the same as though filed with the first petition placed on file. In determining whether the requisite number of landowners have signed the petition, the court shall be governed by the names as they appear upon the tax roll. Duplicate copies of the petition covering the lands in each county shall be prepared and sent to the treasurer of each such county. Each treasurer shall examine the copy of such petition sent to him and shall file a certificate with said district court in and for Alamosa county stating as to each signatory whether such person owns eighty acres of land or more. Such certificate shall be prima facie evidence as to such ownership. For the purposes of this article, any person owning land in joint tenancy or as a tenant in common shall be deemed an owner of all land so held.

37-48-115. Notice and hearing on petition. (1) Immediately after the filing of such petition, the court shall fix a time not less than forty-five days nor more than ninety days after the petition is filed for hearing thereon, and the clerk of said court shall cause notice by publication to be made of the pendency of the petition and of the time and place of hearing thereon. Such notice shall be published in a newspaper of general circulation published within the boundaries of the proposed district, such notice to be published once each week for four successive weeks. The clerk shall also notify the county commissioners of each of said counties of the pendency of the petition and the time and place of hearing thereon. No judge of the district court of the twelfth judicial district in and for the county of Alamosa shall be disqualified to perform duties imposed by this article by reason of ownership of property within the proposed district.

(2) Upon the day set for the hearing upon the original petition, if it appears to the court from the certificates of the county treasurers, and from such other evidence as may be adduced by any party in interest, that the petition is signed by the requisite number of owners of land, the court shall thereupon set a day certain for the holding of a meeting by the boards of county commissioners of the counties, part or all of which lands lie within the boundaries of the proposed Rio Grande water conservation district, and shall set the time and place of meeting.

37-48-116. Election resolution. On such day certain or as soon thereafter as is reasonably possible, the board of county commissioners of the counties, part or all of whose lands lie within the boundaries of the proposed Rio Grande water conservation district, shall meet at the time and place specified by such court, or at such other place as the county commissioners of said counties shall designate. The county commissioners of said counties shall call an election by resolution adopted at least thirty days prior to such election. Such resolution shall recite that the object and purpose of the election is to determine whether or not the Rio Grande water conservation district is to be formed. The county commissioners shall provide in the election resolution, or by supplemental resolution, for the appointment of sufficient judges and clerks of the election who shall be taxpaying electors residing within the proposed district and shall set their compensation. The election resolution shall also designate the precincts and polling places. The description of precincts may be made by reference to any order of the governing body of any county, municipality, or other public body in which the proposed district or any part thereof is situated, or by reference to any previous order or by other instrument of such governing body, or by detailed description of such precincts or by other sufficient description. Precincts established by any such governing body may be consolidated in the election resolution by the county commissioners for the election.

37-48-117. Conduct of election. (1) Except as provided in this article, an election held pursuant to this article shall be opened and conducted in the manner provided by the laws of the state of Colorado for the conduct of general elections except that only taxpaying electors may vote in such election. Registration pursuant to the general election laws or any other statute is not required.

(2) Any taxpaying elector may vote in any election by absent voter's ballot under the terms and conditions and in substantially the same manner, insofar as is practicable, as prescribed in the "Uniform Election Code of 1992" for general elections.

Source: L. 67: p. 670, § 1. C.R.S. 1963: § 150-10-19.

37-48-120. Election supplies. The county commissioners of each county shall have provided at each polling place ballots or ballot labels, or both, ballot boxes or voting machines, or both, instructions, elector's affidavits, and other material and supplies required for a general election by law. The county commissioners, acting as a group, may procure all of the necessary supplies and may agree among themselves as to a division of the costs therefor. Election officials may require the execution of an affidavit by any person desiring to vote at any election of the district showing evidence of his qualifications as a taxpaying elector, which affidavit shall be prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated.

37-48-121. Election returns. The election officials shall make their returns directly to the county commissioners of said counties in care of the board of county commissioners of Alamosa county, Alamosa, Colorado. The county commissioners of said counties shall act as the canvassing body. The returns of said election shall be made and canvassed at any time and in the manner provided by law for the canvass of the returns of any general election. It is the duty of such canvassing body to certify promptly and to transmit to the governor of the state of Colorado a statement of the results of the vote upon the proposition submitted. If a majority of the voters voting in said election vote in favor of the formation of the Rio Grande water conservation district, the governor shall declare the same to be formed. If a majority of the voters voting in said election do not vote in favor of formation of said district, the governor shall declare that the district is not formed. If the governor declares said district to be formed, it shall be formed as of the time and date specified in his declaration of formation.

37-48-122. Expenses of election - appropriation. The expenses of the election shall be paid by the Colorado water conservation board to the extent of fifteen thousand dollars, and there is hereby appropriated to said board the sum of fifteen thousand dollars to be used for this purpose and no other. Each county is entitled to a fraction of said sum, the numerator of which is the election expense incurred by each such county and the denominator of which is the total election expense of all such counties.

37-48-123. Procedure for establishment of subdistricts. (1) Before any subdistrict is established under this article, a petition shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the district court of the county in which the territory to be embraced in said subdistrict or the greater part thereof is situate, signed by the board of directors of the district or by a majority of the owners representing a majority of the land situate within the limits of the territory proposed to be organized into a subdistrict.

(2) (a) The petition shall set forth the matters specified in this subsection (2).

(b) The proposed name of said subdistrict shall be set forth, whether it is designated "Water Users' Association No. .... in the Rio Grande Water Conservation District" or "Special Improvement District No. .... in the Rio Grande Water Conservation District".

(c) The petition shall recite that property within the proposed subdistrict will be benefited by the proposed reservoirs, ditches, canals, works, improvements, or plan of augmentation or plan of water management or combination thereof and shall set forth in a general way the nature and estimated cost thereof, together with a general statement of the nature of the anticipated benefits to be derived therefrom.

(d) A full description of the territory to be included in the proposed subdistrict shall be included in the petition. Said description need not be given by metes and bounds or by legal subdivision, but it shall be sufficient to enable a property owner to ascertain whether his property is within the territory proposed to be organized in a subdistrict. Such territory need not be contiguous if it is so situated that the organization as a single subdistrict of the territory described is such as to promote or tend to promote one or more of the objectives of this article as to all parts of the area proposed to be included.

(e) (I) The petition shall include a general description of the methods proposed to finance the proposed works and plans, including the acquisition, construction, maintenance, and operation thereof, with sufficient detail to enable a property owner within the proposed subdistrict to know whether the proposed methods of financing would result in the imposition of a lien or charge upon the taxable or assessable property within the subdistrict and the amount thereof and to know further that such proposed methods of financing would be authorized without further election by the signing of the petition by the requisite number of petitioners to authorize the creation of the subdistrict. Such methods of financing the acquisition, construction, and improvement of needed property, including planning and development, may include any one or more, or any combination, of the following:

(A) Revenue warrants pledging the income or other revenues from the proposed works, improvements, or plans;

(B) Special improvement bonds to be paid by special assessments on the property benefited and in an amount on each tract of land not in excess of the appraised benefits;

(C) Contracts of water users, mutual ditch or reservoir companies, or water users' associations creating liens upon lands within the subdistrict;

(D) The imposition of reasonable service charges or user fees by the district for the conferring by the subdistrict of any benefits upon or providing any service to any person or property;

(E) Contracts for the purchase of existing water rights or other property providing for payment of the purchase price on a deferred basis by installments or otherwise and which may provide further for pledging general or specific revenues of the subdistrict to the payment thereof or which may create a lien to secure the payment thereof against the real property embraced in the subdistrict in the same manner as general obligation bonds;

(F) Acquisition of the use of water rights or other property by long- or short-term leases with or without a pledge of general or specific revenues of the subdistrict;

(G) General obligation bonds constituting a lien against the real property embraced in the subdistrict;

(H) The imposition of an ad valorem mill levy upon all taxable property within the subdistrict sufficient in amount to raise the funds necessary to pay any amount due on any contract, lease, or general obligation bond installment, including interest and other debt service requirement, which is entered into or issued pursuant to sub-subparagraph (E), (F), or (G) of this subparagraph (I) and the provisions of the petition and order creating the subdistrict, as general obligations of the subdistrict.

(II) None of the methods of financing or borrowing referred to in subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (e), including exercise of the authority to issue general obligation bonds, shall ever constitute or result in the creation of an indebtedness or obligation of the district or a lien or charge upon any property of the district. If general obligations are proposed, the petition shall allege and show that the benefit to the lands in the subdistrict will be not less than the total amount of general obligation bonds to be issued exclusive of interest.

(f) If such a petition is filed by the board of directors of the district, it shall contain a statement to the effect that a majority of the landowners owning a majority of the land of the territory in the proposed subdistrict petitioned the board of directors to organize said subdistrict, and a copy of the petition of said landowners shall be attached as an exhibit to the petition for organization of the subdistrict.

(g) If it is anticipated that a plan of water management, plan of augmentation, or both will be adopted for the subdistrict, the petition shall describe such plan or plans in general terms and may also request establishment of a board of managers of the subdistrict, to be made up of landowners within the subdistrict, which shall have the authority and responsibility of devising and carrying out such plan or plans. Where a board of managers is requested, the petition shall set forth in detail the qualifications, manner of selection, and terms of office of board members and may also define, in terms consistent with the requirements of this article, the scope of the responsibility of the board of managers and the functional relationship between such board and the board of directors of the district. Every such petition, when filed with the court, must be approved by the board of directors of the district, which approval shall be noted on the petition over the signature of the president or some other authorized officer thereof, unless the petition is signed and filed by the board of directors of the district.

(h) Said petition shall pray for the organization of a subdistrict by the name proposed.

(3) To determine whether a majority of landowners in said district have signed the petition, in the event the petition is signed by landowners, or have petitioned the board of directors of the district, in the event the petition is filed by the board of directors, the court may require the county treasurer of each county in which territory proposed to be included in said subdistrict is situated to furnish a certified list of names of landowners within said area, and the court shall be governed by the names as they appear upon said copy of the tax roll, and the same shall be prima facie evidence of ownership. If said tax roll shows a majority of the landowners have signed the main petition or petitioned the district for said organization, the same shall be considered as prima facie evidence that a majority of said landowners are in favor of the organization of said proposed subdistrict.

37-48-124. Time and place of hearing on petition. (1) Immediately after the filing of such petition, the court wherein such petition is filed, by order, shall fix a place and time, not less than sixty days nor more than ninety days after the petition is filed, for hearing thereon, and thereupon the clerk of said court shall cause notice by publication, which may be substantially the same as provided in section 37-8-101, to be made of the pendency of the petition and of the time and place of the hearing thereon. The clerk of said court shall also forthwith cause a copy of said notice to be mailed by United States registered mail to the board of county commissioners of each of the several counties having territory within the proposed subdistrict and to the board of directors of said district in the event that said petition is filed by the landowners.

(2) The district court in and for the county in which the petition for the organization of a subdistrict has been filed shall thereafter, for all purposes of this article, except as otherwise provided in this article, maintain and have original and exclusive jurisdiction, coextensive with the boundaries of said subdistrict, of lands and other property proposed to be included in said subdistrict or affected by said subdistrict, without regard to the usual limits of its jurisdiction.

(3) No judge of such court wherein such petition is filed shall be disqualified to perform any duty imposed by this article by reason of ownership of property within any subdistrict or proposed subdistrict or by reason of ownership of any property that may be benefited, taxed, or assessed therein.

37-48-125. Filing of protest - procedure - decree - fee. (1) At any time after the filing of a petition for the organization of a subdistrict, and not less than thirty days prior to the time fixed by the order of the court for the hearing upon said petition, and not thereafter, a protest may be filed in the office of the clerk of the court wherein the proceedings for the organization of such subdistrict is pending, signed by a majority of the owners of the land in said proposed subdistrict protesting the organization or creation of said subdistrict. It is the duty of the clerk of the court forthwith, upon filing of said protest, to make as many certified copies thereof, including the signatures thereto, as there are counties into any part of which said proposed subdistrict extends and forthwith to place in the hands of the county treasurer of each of such counties one of said certified copies.

(2) It is the duty of each of such county treasurers to determine from the last tax rolls of his county and to certify to said district court under his official seal, prior to the day fixed for the hearing, the total number of owners of land situate in such proposed subdistrict within his county and the total number of owners of land situate in such proposed subdistrict within his county who have signed such protest. Such certificate shall constitute prima facie evidence of the facts so stated therein and shall be so received and considered by the court.

(3) Upon the day set for the hearing upon the original petition, if it appears to the court from such certificate and from such other evidence as may be adduced by any party in interest that the said protest is not signed by a majority of the owners of land within the proposed subdistrict, the court shall thereupon dismiss said protest and shall proceed with the hearing on the petition. If it appears to the court at said hearing that the protest is signed by any person or corporation who signed the original petition for the organization of said subdistrict, either to the court or to the district, then the signature of any such landowner upon the protest shall be disregarded and not counted. The board of county commissioners of any county in which any part of said proposed subdistrict is situate, or any owner of real property in said proposed subdistrict who has not signed the petition for the organization of said subdistrict, on or before the date set for the cause to be heard, may file objections to the organization and incorporation of the district. Such objections shall be limited to a denial of the statements in the petition and shall be heard by the court as an advanced case without unnecessary delay.

(4) Upon said hearing, if it appears that said petition has been signed and presented in accordance with the requirements of this article and that the allegations of the petition are true, the court shall enter a decree and therein adjudicate all questions of jurisdiction and declare the subdistrict organized and designate the name of said subdistrict, by which in all subsequent proceedings it shall thereafter be designated and known; and thereafter said subdistrict shall be deemed a special improvement district.

(5) Such order shall be binding upon the real property within the subdistrict, and no appeal or other remedy lies therefrom, and entry of such order shall finally and conclusively establish the regular organization of said subdistrict against all persons, except the state of Colorado, in an action in the nature of quo warranto to be commenced by the attorney general within three months after said decree is entered, and not otherwise. Within ten days after such subdistrict has been declared duly organized by the court, the clerk of said court shall transmit to the county clerk and recorder, in each of the counties having lands in said subdistrict, copies of the findings and decree of the court establishing said subdistrict. The same shall be filed and recorded in the office of the county clerk and recorder, where they shall become permanent records. The county clerk and recorder in each county shall collect a fee of two dollars for filing and preserving the same.

37-48-126. Official plan for subdistrict. (1) Upon organization of such subdistrict, the board of directors of said district, acting as the board of directors of said subdistrict, is authorized and required to prepare and adopt as the official plans for said subdistrict a comprehensive detailed plan, setting forth any plan of water management for the subdistrict, any improvements or works, including all canals, reservoirs, and ditches whether within or without the district to be constructed or used for the subdistrict, and the manner of utilization of the same in any plan of augmentation or plan of water management, together with the estimated cost of each principal part of said plan or plans, system, or works and the estimated cost of maintenance and operation thereof.

(2) Where a board of managers for the subdistrict is authorized by the petition and decree establishing the subdistrict, the preparation of the official plans for the subdistrict shall be carried out by the board of managers. Such official plans shall be submitted to and approved by the board of directors of the district before the holding of the public hearing thereon required by subsection (3) of this section. If the official plan approved by the board of directors includes a groundwater management plan within the meaning of section 37-92-501 (4) (c), the board of directors shall obtain the state engineer's approval of the groundwater management plan in accordance with section 37-92-501 (4) (c) before holding the public hearing required by subsection (3) of this section.

(3) (a) Upon the completion of such official plan, the board of directors shall cause notice thereof to be given by publication in each county in which said district may be located, in whole or in part, and shall permit the inspection thereof at the office of the district by all persons interested. Said notice shall fix the time and place for the hearing of all objections to said plan not less than twenty days or more than thirty days after the last publication of said notice. All objections to said plan shall be in writing and filed with the manager or secretary of the district at its office prior to the date established for the hearing. After said hearing before the board of directors, the board shall consult with the board of managers, if any, and shall adopt the plan as the official plan of the said subdistrict; adopt the plan with changes in which the board of managers, if any, concurs; or disapprove the plan, in which case the board of managers, if any, shall proceed as set forth in this section to prepare another plan.

(b) If any person objects to the official plan adopted pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (3), such person may, within ten days after the adoption of said official plan, file in the office of the clerk of the court in the original case establishing the district his or her objections in writing, specifying the features of the plan to which objection is made, and, thereupon, the court shall fix a day for the hearing thereof before the court, at which time the court shall hear said objections and adopt, reject, or refer back the plan to the board of directors. If the official plan includes a groundwater management plan, the court may consolidate the hearing on objections to the official plan with any hearing on the groundwater management plan required by section 37-92-501 (4) (c).

(c) If the official plan includes a plan for augmentation, all issues concerning the adequacy of such plan under the applicable provisions of article 92 of this title shall be adjudicated pursuant to the procedures specified in said article.

(4) If the court should reject the plan, the board or the board of managers, as the case may be, shall proceed as in the first instance under this section to prepare another plan. If the court should refer the plan back to the board for amendment, the court shall continue the hearing to a day certain without publication of notice. If the court approves the plan as the official plan of the district, a certified copy of the order of the court approving the plan shall be filed with the secretary of the district and incorporated into the records of the district. The official plan may be altered in detail as necessary from time to time but may not be altered in substance without notice and hearing as required in subsection (3) of this section, nor may the plan be altered in substance after the sale of bonds or warrants to finance the construction and development of the plan without notice to the holders of the bonds or warrants and opportunity for them to be heard, and in no event shall the plan be altered, except within the objects and purposes of the subdistrict as set forth in the petition to organize the same.

ANNOTATION

Because adoption of an official water management plan is a quasi-legislative action, the most appropriate standard of review for the trial court is “reasonableness”. When an official plan includes a groundwater management plan, greater scrutiny is required; thus, the state engineer must approve the plan subject to the water court’s review, followed by the water court’s retained jurisdiction. In re Subdistrict No. 1, 270 P.3d 927 (Colo. 2011).

37-48-127. Execution of plans. The board of directors has full authority to devise, prepare for, execute, maintain, and operate all works or improvements necessary or desirable to complete, maintain, operate, and protect the works provided for by the official plan and to that end may employ and secure men and equipment under the supervision of the chief engineer or other agents or may in its discretion let contracts for such works, either as a whole or in parts.

37-48-128. Contracts. When it is determined to let the work by contract, contracts in amounts in excess of ten thousand dollars shall be advertised after notice by publication calling for bids, and the board may reject any or all bids or may let the contract to the lowest responsible bidder who gives a good and approved bond with ample security, conditioned on the carrying out of the contract. Such contract shall be in writing and shall be accompanied by or shall refer to plans and specifications for the work to be done prepared by the chief engineer. Said contract shall be approved by the board of directors and signed by the president of the district and by the contractor and shall be executed in duplicate; but, in case of sudden emergency when it is necessary in order to protect the district, the advertising of contracts may be waived upon the unanimous consent of the board of directors; but the provisions of this section shall not apply if it is determined by the board of directors that the work be done on force account.

37-48-130. Cooperation with United States or other agencies. The board of directors also has the authority to enter into contracts or other arrangements with the United States government or any department thereof, with persons, railroads, or other corporations, with public corporations, with the state government of this or other states, and with irrigation, drainage, conservation, conservancy, or other improvement districts in this or other states for cooperation or assistance in constructing, maintaining, using, and operating the works of the district or for making surveys and investigations or reports thereon. It may purchase, lease, or acquire land or other property in adjoining states in order to secure outlets or for other purposes of the subdistrict and may let contracts and spend money for securing such outlets or other works in adjoining states.

37-48-131. Access to lands - penalty. The board of directors or its employees or agents, including contractors and their employees and appraisers retained by the board and their assistants, may enter upon lands within or without the district in order to make surveys and examinations to accomplish the necessary preliminary purposes of the district or to have access to the work, being liable, however, for actual damage done; but no unnecessary damage shall be done. Any person or corporation preventing such entry commits a class 2 petty offense and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not more than fifty dollars.

37-48-132. Removal of structures. (1) For the accomplishment of the official plan, the board of directors has full power to improve in alignment, section, grade, or location, or in any other manner, any watercourse; and it may remove, widen, lengthen, lower, raise, or otherwise change any public or private road bridge or railroad bridge, any flume, aqueduct, or telephone, telegraph, gas, oil, sewer, water, or other pipeline, or any other construction over, across, in, into, under, or through any such watercourse, or it may require the same to be done. Such provisions shall apply to all such changes specified by the official plan or reasonably necessary for the accomplishment of the same; but if any such change is made necessary in any construction because of the failure of the same to permit the free flow of water in such stream in time of flood or to permit the necessary enlargement or protection of the channel, the owner of such construction shall make such change and all adjustments of grade, roadway, track, approach, or other construction incidental thereto without cost to the subdistrict and without any claim for damages against the subdistrict or district; but the subdistrict shall pay the cost of excavating the earth for the enlargement of any channel or for placing earth for the filling of any channel where such excavation or filling is required as a part of the official plan in making the changes outlined in this section. The subdistrict shall not be required to make such fill or excavation unless the same would be necessary to the official plan if the construction or work so changed did not exist.

(2) Before the removal, change, or modification of any work or construction outlined in this section, the board of directors shall give notice to the owner thereof, requiring that the same be adapted to the official plan. In case such removals, changes, or adjustments are not commenced and completed by the owner within the respective times specified therefor in such notice, which time shall be reasonable under all circumstances, such removals, changes, or adjustments may be made by the district at the expense of the owner.

37-48-133. Passing equipment through bridge or grade. In case it is necessary to pass any dredge boat or other equipment through a bridge or grade of any railroad company or other corporation, county, city, town, or other municipality, the board of directors shall give notice to the owner of said bridge or grade that the same shall be removed temporarily to allow the passage of such equipment or that an agreement be immediately entered into with regard thereto. The owner of said bridge or grade shall keep an itemized account of the cost of the removal and, if necessary, of the replacing of said bridge or grade; and the necessary and actual cost shall be paid by the subdistrict. In case the owner of said bridge or grade fails to commence or complete provision for the passage of said equipment within the time specified in the notice, the board of directors may remove such bridge or grade at the subdistrict's expense, interrupting traffic in the least degree consistent with good work and without unnecessary damage or delay. In case said board is hindered or prevented from so doing, the owner of said bridge or grade shall be liable for all damage resulting to the subdistrict therefrom.

37-48-135. Retention of personnel. If the subdistrict has a board of managers and if it is so provided in the petition or in the rules and regulations of the subdistrict, the board of managers may retain engineers, attorneys, and management and other personnel separate and apart from those employed by the district.

37-48-136. Appointment of appraisers. If the plan of financing set forth in the petition and order creating the subdistrict utilizes special improvement bonds, paid by special assessments upon the property benefited within the subdistrict, as a means of financing the execution of the official plan, then, at the time of making its order organizing the district or at any time thereafter, the court shall appoint a board of three appraisers, referred to in this article as the "board of appraisers" or the "appraisers", whose duty it shall be to appraise the lands or other property within and without the district to be acquired for rights-of-way, reservoirs, and other works of the district and to appraise all benefits and damages accruing to all land within or without the district by reason of the execution of the official plan. Each of the appraisers, before taking up his duties, shall take and subscribe to an oath that he will faithfully and impartially discharge his duties as such appraiser and that he will make a true report of such work done by him. The appraisers at their first meeting shall elect one of their own number chairman, and minutes of their meetings shall be maintained. A majority of the appraisers shall constitute a quorum, and a concurrence of the majority in any matter within their duties shall be sufficient for its determination. The court, by order, may remove any appraiser at any time and shall fill all vacancies in the board of appraisers or may appoint a new board, as occasion may require, which new board, if appointed, shall perform all the duties and exercise all the powers of the board of appraisers of the district.

37-48-137. Appraisals. (1) During the preparation of an official plan that utilizes special improvement bonds for financing, the board of appraisers shall examine and become acquainted with the nature of the plans for the improvement of the lands and other property affected thereby in order that they may be better prepared to make appraisals for the special improvement bonds.

(2) When the official plan utilizing special improvement bonds is adopted by the district, the secretary of the district shall at once notify the appraisers, and they shall thereupon proceed to appraise the benefits of every kind to all land and property within the subdistrict that will result from the special improvements to be financed by the special improvement bonds in the official plan. The appraisers shall also appraise the damages sustained and the value of the land and other property necessary to be acquired by the district in carrying out the official plan. In the progress of their work, the appraisers shall have the assistance of the attorney, engineers, secretary, and other agents and employees of the district or subdistrict.

37-48-138. Report of appraisers - special improvement bonds. (1) The board of appraisers shall prepare a tabulated report of its findings, which shall be bound in book form and which shall be known as the conservation district appraisal record for special improvement bonds. Such record shall contain the names of the owners of property appraised as they appear on the tax rolls or from the records of the office of the county clerk and recorder, a description of the property appraised, and the amount of benefits appraised. No error in the names of the owners of property or in the descriptions thereof shall invalidate said appraisal or the levy of assessments or taxes based thereon if sufficient description is given to identify such property.

(2) When the report is completed, it shall be signed by at least a majority of the appraisers and deposited with the clerk of the court, who shall file it in the original case. At the same time certified copies of that part of the report giving the appraisal of benefits in any county other than that in which the original case is pending shall be made and filed with the county clerk and recorder of such county.

37-48-139. Notice of hearing on appraisals. (1) Upon the filing of the report of the appraisers, the clerk of the court in which the original cause is pending shall, upon order of the court, give notice thereof by publication in each county in the subdistrict. It shall not be necessary for said clerk to name the parties interested, but the notice shall specify:

- (a) The whole cost of the improvement, work, or acquisition;
- (b) The share apportioned to each lot or tract of land;
- (c) That complaints or objections may be made thereto, in writing, by the owners of the lands affected and filed in the office of the clerk of the court within ten days after the publication of such notice and that the same shall be heard and determined by the court.

(2) Where lands in different counties are mentioned in said report, it shall not be necessary to publish in each county a description of all the lands in the district, but only of that part of the said lands situate in the county in which publication is made.

37-48-140. Hearing on appraisals. Any property owner may accept the appraisals of benefits as made by the appraisers and shall be construed to have done so unless, within ten days after the last publication provided for in section 37-48-139, he has filed exceptions to said report or to any appraisal of benefits. All exceptions shall be heard by the court, beginning not less than twenty days nor more than thirty days after the last publication provided for in section 37-48-139, and determined in advance of other business so as to carry out, liberally, the purposes and needs of the subdistrict. The court may, if it deems necessary, return the report to the board of appraisers for its further consideration and amendment and may enter its order to that effect. If, however, the appraisal roll as a whole is referred back to the appraisers, the court shall not resume the hearing thereon without new notice, as for an original hearing thereon; but the court may, without new notice, order the appraisers to revise and amend the roll when the order of the court specifies the changes to be made.

37-48-141. Decree on appraisals. If it appears to the satisfaction of the court, after having heard and determined all said exceptions, that the estimated cost of constructing the improvements contemplated in the official plan is less than the benefits appraised, the court shall approve and confirm said appraisers' report as so modified and amended, and such findings and appraisals shall be final and incontestable, except as provided in this article. In case the court finds that the benefits appraised are less than the estimated total cost of the execution of the official plan, exclusive of interest on deferred payments, it may at its discretion return said official plan to the directors of the district with an order directing them to prepare new or amended plans, or it may dissolve the subdistrict after having provided for the payment of all expenses theretofore incurred.

37-48-142. Filing decree. Upon the entry of the order of the court approving the report of the appraisers, the clerk of the said court in which the same is entered shall transmit to the secretary of the district a certified copy of the said decree and of the appraisals as confirmed by the court.

37-48-143. Validation of irregular proceedings. (1) Minor insubstantial irregularities in any notice or proceeding shall not make any proceeding invalid.

(2) In case it is found upon a hearing that, by reason of some irregularity or defect in the proceedings, the appraisal has not been properly made, the court may, nevertheless, on having proof that expense has been incurred which is a proper charge against the property of the complainant, render a finding as to the amount of benefits to said property and appraise the proper benefits accordingly, and thereupon said land shall be assessed as other land equally benefited.

(3) In the event that at any time, either before or after the issuance of bonds, the appraisal of benefits, either as a whole or in part, is declared by any court of competent jurisdiction to be invalid by reason of any defect or irregularity in the proceedings therefor, whether jurisdictional or otherwise, the said district court where the original case is pending is authorized, on the application of the board of directors of the said district or on the application of any holder of any bonds which may have been issued pursuant to this article, promptly and without delay to remedy all defects or irregularities, as the case may require, by causing to be made a new appraisal of the amount of benefits against the whole or any part of the lands in the said district, as the case may require.

37-48-144. Compensation of appraisers. Appraisers, when appointed under the provisions of this article, shall receive such reasonable compensation as shall be fixed by the court in its order of appointment.

37-48-145. Preliminary fund. (1) As soon as any subdistrict has been organized, the board of directors may fix the amount of assessment upon the property within the subdistrict at a level rate to be used for the purpose of paying the expenses of organization, for surveys and plans, and for other incidental expenses that may have been incurred prior to the time when money is received from the sale of bonds or otherwise. Such assessment shall not exceed five mills for every dollar of valuation for assessment of such property unless the petition for creation of the subdistrict and the order for the district court thereon provides for a higher rate. In accordance with the schedule prescribed by section 39-5-128, C.R.S., the amount of assessment for each dollar of valuation for assessment shall be certified to the boards of county commissioners of the various counties in which the district, or any portion thereof, is located and by them included in their next annual levy for state and county purposes. Said amount shall be collected for the use of such subdistrict in the same manner as are taxes for county purposes, and the revenue laws of the state for the levy and collection of ad valorem taxes on real estate for county purposes, except as modified in this article, shall be applicable for the levy and collection of the amount certified by the directors of such district as aforesaid, including the enforcement of penalties and forfeiture for delinquent taxes.

(2) All collections made by the county treasurer pursuant to such levy shall be paid to the treasurer of the district on or before the tenth day of the next succeeding calendar month. If such items of expense have already been paid in whole or in part from moneys advanced by the district for subdistrict use or from other sources, they may be repaid from the receipts of such levy, and such levy may be made even though the work proposed may have been found impracticable or for other reasons may have been abandoned. The information collected by the necessary surveys, the appraisal of benefits and damages, and other information and data are declared to constitute benefits for which an assessment may be levied. In case a district is dissolved or abandoned for any cause whatsoever before the work is constructed, the data, plans, and estimates which have been secured shall be filed with the clerk of the court in which the district was organized and shall be matters of public record available to any person interested.

37-48-146. Power to borrow money for the preliminary fund. In order to facilitate the preliminary work, the board of directors may borrow money at a net effective interest rate as determined by the board and, as evidence of the debt so contracted, may issue and sell or may issue to contractors or others negotiable evidences of debt, in this article called “warrants”, and may pledge, after it has been levied, the preliminary assessment of not exceeding five mills for the repayment thereof, or may pledge the revenue from any service charge or user fee to be levied by the subdistrict. If any warrant so issued by the board of directors is presented for payment and is not paid for want of funds in the treasury, that fact, with the date of presentation, shall be endorsed on the back of such warrant, which shall thereafter draw interest at the rate specified in the endorsement, not exceeding the net effective interest rate as when issued, until such time as there is money on hand sufficient to pay the amount of said warrant with interest.

37-48-147. Directors bound by financing plan. (1) The board of directors of the district shall be bound by the plan of financing set forth in the petition for the organization of the subdistrict and approved by the decree of the district court. The appointment of appraisers shall not be necessary if the official plan adopted does not utilize special improvement bonds as a means of financing the subdistrict official plan, but the district or the subdistrict board of managers, as the case may be, may nevertheless retain appraisers as needed to appraise the value of property to be acquired.

(2) If the plan of financing provides for the issuance of general obligation bonds of the subdistrict, such bonds shall be signed “Water Users’ Association No. .... in the Rio Grande Water Conservation District, by ....., President, Attest ....., Secretary”, or “Special Improvement District No. .... in the Rio Grande Water Conservation District, by ....., President, Attest ....., Secretary”. They shall be countersigned by the treasurer. General obligation bonds shall recite that they are obligations of the subdistrict, are issued pursuant to the provisions of this article, and are to be payable at the time, in the manner, and with the rate of interest therein specified and that the same were issued under and pursuant to a court decree and a resolution of the board of directors authorizing the issue of said obligations and referring to the date of said resolution. Said bonds shall further recite that they are payable from funds to be derived by special assessments and tax levies against the property in said subdistrict and other revenues derived from the operation of the subdistrict’s official plan, as provided by the plan of financing in the petition for organization of the subdistrict, and not otherwise, that the same are not to be deemed to be an obligation of the Rio Grande water conservation district but only an obligation of said subdistrict, and that the district itself is not to be obligated in any manner for the payment of said bonds. If there is a board of managers for the subdistrict, the resolution of the board of directors authorizing said obligations shall be approved by the board of managers before being adopted by the board of directors.

37-48-148. Special assessments - procedure in making. (1) If the proceedings for the organization of the subdistrict, including the petition and the decree entered thereon, provide for the financing of the construction or acquisition of the works or other improvements proposed and of the other steps necessary to the development and implementation of the subdistrict’s official plan by special assessments to be levied against the appraised benefits to property within said subdistrict, then the board of directors may make special assessments from time to time, as required, and, in making the assessments, the board shall be guided by the procedure for the levy of similar assessments under the conservancy law of the state of Colorado, articles 1 to 8 of this title, and particularly the provisions of said law appearing in sections 37-5-104 to 37-5-106, and the same shall apply to subdistricts created under this article.

(2) From time to time, as the affairs of the subdistrict may demand, the board of directors may levy on all property to which benefits are provided by the subdistrict’s official plan a special assessment of such portion of said benefits as may be found necessary by the board to pay the cost of any appraisal, the preparation and execution of the official plan for said subdistrict, and the superintendence of construction and administration during the period of construction, plus ten percent of the total to be added for contingencies, but not to exceed in the total of principal the appraised benefits so adjudicated. The special assessments, to be known as the “construction fund special assessment”, shall be apportioned to and levied on each tract of land or other property in the district in proportion to the benefits appraised and not in excess thereof, and in case special improvement bonds are issued, as provided in section 37-48-149, then the amount of interest that will accrue on such bonds as estimated by the board of directors shall be included in and added to the assessment, but the interest to accrue on account of the issuance of the special improvement bonds shall not be construed as a part of the cost of construction in determining whether or not the expenses and cost of making the improvement are or are not equal to or in excess of the benefits appraised.

(3) As soon as the special assessment is levied, the secretary of the subdistrict, at the expense thereof, shall prepare in duplicate an assessment of the subdistrict. It shall be in the form of a well-bound book endorsed and named “Construction Fund Special Assessment Record of Water Users’ Association No. ...., or Special Improvement District No. ...., of the Rio Grande Water Conservation District”. Said record shall be in the form of similar records for conservancy districts under the laws of this state, particularly as provided in section 37-5-104. The special assessments may be paid in the manner provided in section 37-5-105 relating to conservancy districts under the laws of this state. All proceedings provided in said sections with respect to conservancy districts shall apply to the special assessments, the records thereof, and the manner of payment of special assessments of subdistricts organized under this article.

37-48-149. Special improvement bonds. (1) The board of directors of the district may issue as obligations of the subdistrict, not as obligations of the Rio Grande water conservation district, special improvement bonds to be paid out of special improvement assessments made by the board of directors against all lands in the subdistrict benefited by the improvements financed by the bond proceeds, which special improvement assessments shall not exceed in the aggregate an amount equal to ninety percent of the amount of benefits determined to have accrued to said lands by reason of such improvements and unpaid at the time of issue of said bonds. Such bonds shall contain a recital to the effect that they are issued under and in accordance with the provisions of this article as special improvement bonds and are payable out of special improvement assessments to be levied against the property in said subdistrict and not otherwise.

(2) The special improvement bonds issued pursuant to subsection (1) of this section shall be signed "Water Users' Association No. ...., or Special Improvement District No. ...., of the Rio Grande Water Conservation District, by ....., President", and counter-signed "....., Treasurer". Otherwise said bonds shall be in such denominations and become due at such dates, with interest at such rate, payable either annually or semiannually, but not exceeding the rate of ten percent per annum, and contain such other provisions as may be fixed by the board of directors, not inconsistent with the provisions of this article. Except as otherwise expressly modified in this article, the law relating to the form and issuance of special improvement bonds of conservancy districts under the laws of this state, particularly section 37-5-106, shall apply and govern officers of the district in the issuance and sale of said bonds; and other provisions of said law with respect to the levy of assessments for the payment of said bonds with interest, particularly section 37-5-110, shall likewise be applicable to the bonds of a subdistrict organized under this article. If the subdistrict has a board of managers, the board of managers shall annually determine and certify to the board of directors of the district the total amount of the special improvement assessments to be collected; and the board of directors of the district, if it deems the amount so certified to be correct, shall order and levy the total special improvement assessments and otherwise conform to the procedure set forth in section 37-5-110.

37-48-150. Manner of collection - tax sale - certificate of purchase - tax deed. (1) Lands sold for delinquent special improvement assessments, special assessments, service charges, or user fees under this article shall be struck off to the district, or bid in for the district, in like manner and effect, including issuance of a deed therefor, as provided by law with respect to lands struck off to, or bid in for, counties, cities, or towns, as the case may be; but, when a certificate of purchase has been issued to the district with respect to any lands, no certificate of purchase for subsequent special improvement assessments, special assessments, service charges, or user fees shall be issued with respect to the same lands, except to the district, until all special improvement assessments, special assessments, service charges, or user fees represented by certificates of purchase held by the district have been redeemed or paid.

(2) No holder of such certificate of purchase, other than the district, shall be entitled to a tax deed thereon, except upon payment of all special improvement assessments, special assessments, service charges, or user fees subsequent to such certificate of purchase that are due and unpaid or unredeemed, at the time of issuance of the tax deed; and the tax deed so issued to such holder shall be subject to future unpaid special improvement assessments, special assessments, service charges, or user fees. Any such holder of a certificate of purchase may, at any time after three years after issuance thereof, present the same to the county treasurer, together with all subsequent certificates held by him or her, as evidence of subsequent payment of special improvement assessments, special assessments, service charges, or user fees, and request the county treasurer to issue one tax deed thereon; and one tax deed shall be issued accordingly in the same manner as other tax deeds.

(3) The district may, at any time after three years after issuance of any such certificate of purchase held by the district, present the same to the county treasurer, together with all subsequent certificates of purchase held by it, as evidence of unpaid subsequent special improvement assessments, special assessments, service charges, or user fees, and request the county treasurer to issue one tax deed thereon, and one deed shall be issued accordingly in the same manner as other tax deeds; but such tax deeds shall not prejudice the parity of any existing lien for general taxes. Upon the delivery of the tax deed, the conservation district shall have and enjoy all the rights of an owner in fee simple to the lands described therein; but no sale of such land shall be made by the district, except one subject to the lien of special improvement assessments, special assessments, service charges, or user fees due and unpaid subsequent to the issuance of the tax deed to the district as well as to future unpaid special improvement assessments, special assessments, service charges, or user fees, nor shall the district convey such property by deed with covenants of warranty, nor shall any sale of such property be made for less than the principal amount of the original special improvement assessments, special assessments, service charges, or user fees thereon remaining due and unpaid, unless such sale is approved by an order of the district court in which the organization proceedings of the district are filed.

(4) The district, by resolution of its board of directors, may sell, assign, and deliver any such certificates held by the district for such sum as the board of directors may determine and authorize; but no such sale or assignment shall be made that does not include all certificates held by the district with respect to the same land. Upon presentation and surrender of such certificates by the assignee thereof to the county treasurer, such officer shall accept the same in payment of the special improvement assessments, special assessments, service charges, or user fees represented thereby, unless such purchaser requests a tax deed thereon as provided in this section. No such assignment shall be made by the district for less than the principal sum represented by the certificate assigned, except upon order approving the assignment made by the district court wherein the organization proceedings of the district are pending.

37-48-151. Collection by civil action. In addition to all other remedies for collection of assessments, including special improvement assessments, special assessments, service charges, or user fees, provided by this article, and cumulative therewith, the district may, at any time after three years after the issuance of any certificate of purchase held by the district, bring civil action to foreclose the lien for special improvement assessments, special assessments, service charges, or user fees, represented by all certificates of purchase held by the district with respect to the same land and for other relief with respect to such land as provided by the Colorado rules of civil procedure then in effect for the foreclosure of liens on real property; but no statute of limitations shall be applicable to the rights of the district arising from any special improvement assessments, special assessments, service charges, or user fees, and no decree, or sale of lands thereunder, shall be made except one subject to the lien of future unpaid installments of special improvement assessments, special assessments, service charges, or user fees. The county treasurer shall be made a party to any action of the district authorized by this section.

37-48-152. Special improvement assessments constitute perpetual lien. All special improvement assessments against appraised benefits and interest thereon and penalties for default of payment thereof, together with the cost of collecting the same, from the date of the filing of the construction fund special assessment record in the office of the treasurer of the county wherein the lands and property are situate shall constitute a perpetual lien in an amount not in excess of the benefits severally appraised upon the land and other property against which said special improvement assessments have been levied and such benefits appraised; and no sale of said property to enforce any general state, county, city, town, or school tax or other lien shall extinguish the perpetual lien of said special improvement assessment. At any time, any landowner may pay the full amount of said special improvement assessment, and thereafter the property of any such landowner shall be clear and free from said lien and shall not be subject to special improvement assessment for and on account of benefits appraised against any other land or default in the payment of special improvement assessments made against any other land.

37-48-153. Directors to remedy defects - special improvement assessments - special assessments. If any special improvement assessment, special assessment, service charge, or user fee made under the provisions of this article proves invalid, the board of directors shall, by subsequent or amended acts or proceedings, promptly and without delay remedy all defects or irregularities, as the case may require, by making and providing for the collection of new special improvement assessments, special assessments, service charges, or user fees, or otherwise.

37-48-154. Records of assessments, service charges, or user fees as evidence. The record of special improvement assessments, special assessments, service charges, or user fees contained in the respective records of the district shall be prima facie evidence in all courts of all matters therein contained.

37-48-155. Defects in notice perfected. Whenever notice is provided for in this article, if the court finds that due notice was not given, jurisdiction shall not thereby be lost or the proceedings abated or held void, but the court shall continue the hearing until such time as proper notice may be given and shall thereupon proceed as though proper notice had been given in the first instance. If any appraisal, special improvement assessment, special assessment, levy, service charge, or user fee or other proceeding relating to said district is held defective, then the board of directors may file a motion in the cause in which said district was organized to perfect any such defect, and the court shall set a time for hearing thereon. If the original notice as a whole is held to be sufficient but faulty only with reference to publication as to certain particular lands or as to service as to certain persons, publication of the defective notice may be ordered as to the particular lands, or service may be made on the persons not properly served, and said notice is thereby corrected without invalidating the original notice as to other lands or persons.

37-48-156. Contracts of subdistricts. (1) When the official plan so provides, it shall be lawful for any subdistrict to make contracts as follows:

(a) A water users' association, public entity, nonprofit corporation, not-for-profit corporation, carrier ditch company, mutual ditch or reservoir company, unincorporated ditch or reservoir company, or cooperative association may bind itself to levy an annual assessment for the use of water and to secure the assessment by liens on land and water rights or in such other manner as may be provided by law.

(b) Any person or corporation landowner may create a mortgage lien upon lands or give other security satisfactory to the board or any other contracting agency, and all such contracts shall provide for forfeiture of the use of water for nonpayment of assessments or installments in the same manner and procedure as provided by statute for forfeiture of stock in a mutual ditch or reservoir company.

37-48-157. Issuance of general obligation bonds - revenue bonds. (1) (a) In the name of the subdistrict and not otherwise, when authorized by the plan of organization and decree of court organizing said subdistrict to do so, the district may issue general obligations or bonds which shall constitute a lien against the real property in said subdistrict. Said obligations shall bear interest at a rate such that the net effective interest rate of the issue does not exceed the maximum net effective interest rate authorized. Interest shall be payable semiannually, and said obligations may be made payable in series becoming due not less than five years and not more than fifty years after the date of issue. The bonds may be sold in one or more series at par, or below or above par, at public or private sale, in such manner and for such price as the district, in its discretion, shall determine. As an incidental expense of the issuance, the district, in its discretion, may employ financial and legal consultants in regard to the financing of the official plan. The district may exchange all or a part of its bonds for all or an equivalent part of property or services included in the official plan for which the bonds are issued, the exchange to be preceded by determination of the fair value of the property or services exchanged for the bonds. Such determination shall be by resolution of the board of directors and shall be conclusive.

(b) Such bonds are to be paid from assessments levied from time to time, as the bonds and interest thereon become due, against the taxable property in said subdistrict and not otherwise. Such levies shall not be limited as to rate or amount; except that they shall not exceed a rate reasonably required to yield funds needed to pay said bonds and interest as they mature, plus any other amounts required for debt service, less the amount of any other funds available to the subdistrict for payment of said bonds and debt service. The board of directors of said district shall certify, to the boards of county commissioners of the several counties in which said subdistrict or any part thereof is located, the amount of the levy necessary to be made upon the taxable property in the subdistrict to yield the required funds becoming due on all outstanding bonds at the same time that certifications of the district's mill levy assessment for general district purposes are made, and the procedure for the assessment and collection of ad valorem taxes of the county is, except as may be otherwise provided in this article, made applicable and is to be followed in the levy of assessments for payment of taxes and collection of principal and debt service on such general obligations or bonds. If the subdistrict has a board of managers, said board of managers shall certify to the district board the amount of money needed to be raised by such assessment, and the district board shall, if it deems the amount to be correct, thereupon determine the levy necessary to raise such funds and certify the same to the boards of county commissioners as provided in this section.

(2) (a) The subdistrict, in its own name, may issue revenue bonds to finance, in whole or in part, the construction of works, reservoirs, or other improvements provided for in the official plan for the beneficial use of water for the purposes for which it has been or may be appropriated, whether or not the interest on such bonds may be subject to taxation. Such revenue bonds shall be issued in such denominations and with such maximum net effective interest rate as may be fixed by the board of directors of the district and shall bear interest such that the net effective interest rate of the bonds does not exceed the maximum net effective interest rate authorized. The bonds may be sold in one or more series at par, or below or above par, at public or private sale, in such manner and for such price as the district, in its discretion, shall determine. As an incidental expense of the issuance, the subdistrict, in its discretion, may employ financial and legal consultants in regard to the financing of the official plan. The subdistrict may exchange all or a part of its bonds for all or an equivalent part of property or services included in the official plan for which the bonds are issued, the exchange to be preceded by determination of the fair value of the property or services exchanged for the bonds. Such determination shall be by resolution of the board of directors and shall be conclusive.

(b) The board of directors shall pledge only rental proceeds, service charges, user fees, and other income, or any combination thereof, from such works, plans of water management, or other improvements of the subdistrict, and neither the district nor the subdistrict shall be otherwise obligated for the payment thereof. At the time said revenue bonds are issued, the board of directors of the district shall make and enter in the minutes of the proceeding a resolution that sets out the due dates of such revenue bonds, the rates of interest thereon, the general provisions of the bonds, and a recital that the same are payable only out of the rental proceeds, service charges, and other income, or any combination thereof that are pledged for payment of the revenue bonds. In addition, the board of directors shall require the payment of rental charges, service charges, or other charges by the political subdivisions, persons, or land owners that are to use or derive benefits from the water or other services financed by the revenue bonds. Such charges shall be sufficient to pay operation and maintenance expenses of any works or improvements or any water management plan financed by the revenue bonds, to meet said revenue bond payments, and to accumulate and maintain reserve and replacement accounts pertaining thereto as set forth in such resolution. Such resolution shall be irrevocable during the time that any of the revenue bonds are outstanding and unpaid. The revenue bonds shall be signed "Water Users' Association No. .... in the Rio Grande Water Conservation District, By ....., President. Attest ....., Secretary" or "Special Improvement District No. .... in the Rio Grande Water Conservation District, By ....., President. Attest ....., Secretary", and they shall be countersigned by the treasurer.

37-48-158. Board to certify tax assessments. To maintain, operate, and preserve ditches, canals, reservoirs, or other improvements made pursuant to this article and to strengthen, repair, and restore the same, when needed, for operation of any plan of water management, and for the purpose of defraying any incidental expenses of the subdistrict, the board of directors may, at the time of certification of the general district mill levy to the boards of county commissioners of the counties in which the district is located, certify also, to the boards of county commissioners of the counties in which said subdistrict or any part thereof is located, an additional assessment upon the taxable property within the subdistrict, not to exceed five mills for every dollar of valuation for assessment within said subdistrict, for the purpose of raising funds to be used for the maintenance and operation of the subdistrict's official plan. If there is a board of managers for the subdistrict, the amount of money needed to be raised by such assessment shall be certified by the board of managers to the district board of directors in time for inclusion of the amount in the district budget for the succeeding calendar year. Assessments so certified shall be levied by the boards of county commissioners of the counties in which said subdistrict is situated on the property of said subdistrict in their respective counties, to be collected by the county treasurers of the several counties and delivered to the treasurer of the district in like manner and with like effect as is provided for the collection and return of other assessments under this article. The whole assessment shall be due and payable as and when taxes for county purposes levied in the same year are due and payable. The said assessments shall be in addition to any special improvement assessment or special assessment that has been levied against benefits appraised for and on account of construction.

37-48-176. Definition of elector. (1) An "elector", "elector of the district", or "elector of the subdistrict", or any term of similar import, means a person:

(a) Who, at the time of the election, is qualified to vote in general elections in this state; and

(b) Who either:

(I) Is a resident of the district or subdistrict proposing to incur an indebtedness at the time of the election; or

(II) Owns real property within the district or subdistrict that is subject to special improvement assessments, special assessments, or service charges of the subdistrict.

(2) Registration pursuant to the laws concerning general elections or any other laws shall not be required.

37-48-178. Election resolution. (1) The board of directors shall call any election by resolution adopted at least thirty days prior to the election.

(2) Such resolution shall recite the objects and purposes of the election, the date upon which such election shall be held, and the form of the ballot.

(3) In the case of any election not to be held concurrently with a primary or general election, the board of directors shall provide in the election resolution or by supplemental resolution for the appointment of sufficient judges and clerks of the election, who shall be electors of the district or the subdistrict holding the debt election, and in such event shall set their compensation. The election resolution or a supplemental resolution shall also then designate the precincts and polling places, but a supplemental resolution may modify such a description of precincts and polling places without repeating such description in full. The description of precincts may be made by reference to any order of the governing body of any county, municipality, or other political subdivision in which the district or subdistrict or any part thereof is situated, or by reference to any previous order or other instrument of such a governing body, or by detailed description of such precincts, or by other sufficient description.

(4) Precincts established by any such governing body may be consolidated in the election resolution by the board of directors in a sufficient number which it deems expedient for the convenience of the electors for any election not to be held concurrently with a primary or general election.

(5) If the election shall be held concurrently with a primary or general election held under the laws of this state, the judges of election for such primary or general election shall be designated as the judges of the election for the election held pursuant to this article, and they shall receive such additional compensation, if any, as the board of directors shall set by the election resolution.

37-48-179. Conduct of election. (1) Except as otherwise provided in this article, an election held pursuant to this article shall be opened and conducted in the manner then provided by the laws of this state for the conduct of general elections.

(2) If an election is held concurrently with a primary or general election, the county clerk and recorder of each county in which the district or subdistrict holding the debt election is located shall perform for the district or subdistrict election the acts provided by law to be performed by such officials. If an election is not held concurrently with a primary or general election, such acts shall be performed by the secretary of the district with the assistance of such county clerk and recorders. The board of directors and such county clerk and recorders are authorized to agree among themselves upon the division of such acts and the determination of persons to perform them.

(3) An elector of the district may vote in any election by absent voter’s ballot under such terms and conditions, and in substantially the same manner insofar as is practicable, as prescribed in article 8 of title 1, C.R.S., of the “Uniform Election Code of 1992” for general elections, except as specifically modified in this article.

(4) All acts required or permitted therein to be performed by a county clerk and recorder shall be performed by each one respectively in the event of a primary or general election and by the secretary or assistant secretary of the board of directors in the event of any other election, unless the services of the county clerk and recorder in each such county are contracted for, but no oath shall be administered by the secretary or assistant secretary unless he is also an officer authorized to administer oaths.

(5) Application may be made for an absent voter’s ballot not more than twenty days and not less than four days before the election.

(6) No consideration shall be given nor distinction made with reference to any person’s affiliation or the lack thereof.

(7) The return envelope for the absent voter’s ballot shall have printed on its face an affidavit substantially in the following form:

State of Colorado, County of ....., I, ....., being first duly sworn according to law, depose and say that my residence and post-office address is .....; that I am a person qualified to vote in general elections in the State of Colorado and am a resident of the Rio Grande Water Conservation District or Water Users’ Association No. .... or Special Improvement District No. .... in the Rio Grande Water Conservation District, as may be appropriate, at the time of this election.

(8) In any such election at which voting machines are used, the board of directors shall provide paper ballots for absent voters containing the same question as is to be submitted to the electors by the voting machines, subject to the provisions of subsection (9) of this section.

(9) The district or subdistrict may provide for mail-in voters to cast their mail-in voters’ ballots on voting machines expressly provided for that purpose, if each mail-in voter indicates by affidavit that he or she is qualified to vote at the election and will be a mail-in voter, pursuant to section 1-8-102, C.R.S., of the “Uniform Election Code of 1992” and all laws supplemental thereto.

37-48-180. Notice of election. Notice of such election shall be given by publication by three consecutive weekly insertions in at least one newspaper of general circulation in the district or subdistrict holding the election, as determined by the board of directors. No other notice of an election held under this article need be given, unless otherwise provided by the board. A supplemental notice may be given by publication at such times and places as the board may determine to be necessary or convenient for correcting or otherwise modifying the original notice of election or for any other purpose.

37-48-181. Polling places. (1) All polling places designated by resolution for an election shall be within the territorial limits of the district or subdistrict holding the election; but, if an election of the district or subdistrict is held concurrently with a primary or general election, the polling place for each precinct located wholly or partially within the district or subdistrict shall be the polling place for such precinct for the district or subdistrict election, regardless of whether or not such polling place is within the district or subdistrict.

(2) If the election of the district or subdistrict is not held concurrently with a primary or general election held under the laws of this state, there shall be one polling place in each of the election precincts which are used in the primary and general elections or in each of the consolidated precincts fixed by the board of directors.

37-48-182. Election supplies. (1) The secretary of the district shall provide at each polling place ballots or ballot labels, or both, ballot boxes or voting machines, or both, instructions, electors' affidavits, and other materials and supplies required for an election by any law; and the secretary may provide ballots and marking devices suitable for voting and for the votes on the ballots to be counted on electronic vote-tabulating devices.

(2) Election officials may require the execution of an affidavit by any person desiring to vote at any election of the district or subdistrict to evidence his qualifications to vote, which affidavit shall be prima facie evidence of the facts stated therein.

37-48-183. Election returns. (1) In the case of any election held under this article which is not held concurrently with a primary or general election, the election officials shall make their returns directly to the secretary of the district for the board of directors.

(2) In the case of any election held under this article which is consolidated with any primary or general election, the returns thereof shall be made and canvassed at the time and in the manner provided by law for the canvass of the returns of such primary or general election. Such canvassing body shall certify promptly and shall transmit to the secretary of the district for the board of directors a statement of the result of the vote upon any proposition submitted under this article.

(3) Upon receipt by the board of directors of election returns from election officials or upon receipt of such certificate from each such canvassing body, the board shall tabulate and declare the results of the election at any regular or special meeting held not earlier than five days following the date of the election.

(4) The board of directors shall cause the results of the election to be published at least one time in at least one newspaper having general circulation in the district.

37-48-184. Debt election contests. (1) Any election declared to have carried on an authorization to issue any bonds, by approval of the bond question, or otherwise to incur an indebtedness by approval of the question thereon may be contested by any elector of the district or subdistrict holding the debt election by suit against it as contestee and defendant in any district court of any county in which the district or subdistrict holding the election is wholly or partially situate:

(a) When illegal votes have been received or legal votes rejected at the polls in sufficient numbers to change the results;

(b) For any error or mistake on the part of any of the judges of election, any county clerk and recorder, the secretary of the district, or their respective officers and employees in counting or declaring the result of the election, if the error or mistake is sufficient to change the result;

(c) For malconduct, fraud, or corruption on the part of any of the judges of election, any county clerk and recorder, the secretary of the district, or their respective officers and employees, if the malconduct, fraud, or corruption is sufficient to change the result;

(d) When the bonds or other indebtedness is authorized to be issued for an invalid purpose; or

(e) For any other cause which shows that the bonds or other indebtedness is not validly authorized at the election.

(2) The style and form of process, the manner of service of process and papers, the fees of officers, and judgment for costs and execution thereon shall be according to the rules and practices of the court.

(3) Before the court shall take jurisdiction of the contest, the contestor shall file with the clerk of the court a bond, with sureties, to be approved by the judge thereof, running to the district or subdistrict holding the debt election as contestee and conditioned to pay all costs in case of failure of the contestor to maintain his contest.

(4) When the validity of any bond or other indebtedness election is contested, the plaintiff or plaintiffs, within thirty days after the returns of the election are canvassed and the results thereof declared and published, or last published, as the case may be, shall file with the clerk of the court a verified written complaint setting forth specifically:

(a) The name of the party contesting the election and a statement that the plaintiff or each plaintiff is an elector of the district or subdistrict holding the election;

(b) The proposition or propositions voted on at the election which are contested, the name of the district or the subdistrict as defendant and contestee, and the date of the election; and

(c) The particular grounds of such contest.

(5) No such contest shall be maintained and no election shall be set aside or held invalid unless such a complaint is filed within the period prescribed in subsection (4) of this section.

(6) Except as otherwise provided in this article, the election laws pertaining to contested election cases of municipal offices as provided in part 13 of article 10 of title 31, C.R.S., of the "Colorado Municipal Election Code of 1965", as from time to time amended, shall be applicable to bond or other indebtedness elections; but any such contest shall be regarded as one contesting the outcome of the vote on the proposition authorizing the issuance of securities or otherwise incurring the indebtedness, rather than election to office, and the district or subdistrict as contestee, rather than a person declared to have been elected to office, shall be regarded as the defendant.

(7) If the board of directors declares the proposition authorizing the issuance of bonds or otherwise incurring the indebtedness to have carried and no contest is duly filed or if such a contest is filed after it is favorably terminated, the board may issue the bonds or otherwise incur the indebtedness authorized at the election at one time or from time to time.

37-48-185. Covenants and other provisions in bonds. (1) Any resolution providing for the issuance of any bonds under this article payable from pledged revenues and any indenture or other instrument or proceedings pertaining thereto may at the discretion of the board of directors contain covenants or other provisions, notwithstanding that such covenants and provisions may limit the exercise of powers conferred by this article, in order to secure the payment of such bonds, in agreement with the holders of such bonds, including, without limitation, covenants or other provisions as to any one or more of the following:

(a) The pledged revenues and, in the case of general obligations, the taxes to be fixed, charged, or levied and the collection, use, and disposition thereof, including, without limitation, the foreclosure of liens for delinquencies, the discontinuance of services, facilities, or use of any properties or facilities, prohibition against free service, the collection of penalties and collection costs, and the use and disposition of any moneys of the district or subdistrict issuing bonds, derived or to be derived, from any source designated;

(b) The acquisition, improvement, or equipment of all or any part of properties pertaining to any project or any facilities;

(c) The creation and maintenance of reserves or sinking funds to secure the payment of the principal of and the interest on any bonds or of the operation and maintenance expenses of any facilities, or part thereof, and the source, custody, security, regulation, use, and disposition of any such reserves or funds, including, without limitation, the powers and duties of any trustee with regard thereto;

(d) Limitations on the powers of the district or subdistrict to acquire or operate, or permit the acquisition or operation of, any structures, facilities, or properties which may compete or tend to compete with any facilities;

(e) The vesting in a corporate or other trustee or trustees of such property, rights, powers, and duties in trust as the board of directors may determine, which may include any or all of the rights, powers, and duties of the trustee appointed by the holders of bonds, and limiting or abrogating the rights of such holders to appoint a trustee, or limiting the rights, duties, and powers of such trustee;

(f) Events of default, rights, and liabilities arising therefrom and the rights, liabilities, powers, and duties arising upon the breach by the district or subdistrict of any covenants, conditions, or obligations;

(g) The terms and conditions upon which the holders of the bonds or of a specified portion, percentage, or amount thereof, or any trustee therefor, shall be entitled to the appointment of a receiver, which receiver may enter and take possession of any facilities or service, operate and maintain the same, prescribe fees, rates, and other charges, and collect, receive, and apply all revenues thereafter arising therefrom in the same manner as the district or subdistrict itself might do;

(h) A procedure by which the terms of any resolution authorizing bonds or any other contract with any holders of district or subdistrict bonds, including, without limitation, an indenture of trust or similar instrument, may be amended or abrogated, and as to the proportion, percentage, or amount of bonds the holders of which must consent thereto, and the manner in which such consent may be given;

(i) The terms and conditions upon which any or all of the bonds shall become or may be declared due before maturity and as to the terms and conditions upon which such declaration and its consequences may be waived; and

(j) All such acts and things as may be necessary or convenient or desirable in order to secure the bonds or, in the discretion of the board of directors, tend to make the bonds more marketable, notwithstanding that such covenant, act, or thing may not be enumerated in this article, it being the intention of this article to give to the board of directors power to do in the name and on behalf of the district or subdistrict all things in the issuance of district or subdistrict bonds and for their security, except as expressly limited in this article.

37-48-186. Liens on pledged revenues. (1) Revenues pledged for the payment of any bonds, as received by or otherwise credited to the district or subdistrict issuing bonds under this article, shall immediately be subject to the lien of each such pledge without any physical delivery thereof, any filing, or any further act.

(2) The lien of each such pledge and the obligation to perform the contractual provisions made in the authorizing resolution or other instrument pertaining thereto shall have priority over any or all other obligations or liabilities of the district or subdistrict, except as may be otherwise provided in this article or in the resolution or other instrument, subject to any prior pledges and liens theretofore created.

(3) The lien of each such pledge shall be valid and binding as against all persons having claims of any kind in tort, in contract, or otherwise against the district or subdistrict, irrespective of whether or not such persons have notice thereof.

37-48-187. Rights - powers of holders of bonds - trustees. (1) Subject to any contractual limitations binding upon the holders of any issue or series of bonds of the district or subdistrict issuing bonds under this article, or the trustee therefor, including, without limitation, the restriction of the exercise of any remedy to a specified proportion, percentage, or number of such holders, and subject to any prior or superior rights of others, any holder of bonds, or the trustee therefor, shall have the right and power, for the equal benefit and protection of all holders of bonds similarly situated:

(a) By mandamus or other suit, action, or proceeding at law or in equity, to enforce his rights against the district, subdistrict, or board of directors or board of managers, or any combination thereof, or any of the officers, agents, and employees of the district or subdistrict to require and compel such district, subdistrict, or board or any of such officers, agents, or employees to perform and carry out their respective duties, obligations, or other commitments under this article and their respective covenants and agreements with the holder of any bond;

(b) By action or suit in equity, to require the district or subdistrict to account as if it were the trustee of an express trust;

(c) By action or suit in equity, to have a receiver appointed, which receiver may enter and take possession of any facilities and any pledged revenues for the payment of the bonds, prescribe sufficient fees, rates, and other charges derived from the facilities, and collect, receive, and apply all pledged revenues or other moneys pledged for the payment of the bonds in the same manner as the district or subdistrict itself might do in accordance with the obligations of the district or subdistrict; and

(d) By action or suit in equity, to enjoin any acts or things which may be unlawful or in violation of the rights of the holder of any bonds and to bring suit thereupon.

37-48-188. Investments and securities. (1) The board of directors of the district or subdistrict, respectively, issuing bonds under this article, subject to any contractual limitations from time to time imposed upon the district or subdistrict by any resolution authorizing the issuance of the outstanding bonds of the district or subdistrict or by any trust indenture or other proceedings pertaining thereto, may cause to be invested and reinvested any proceeds of taxes, any pledged revenues, and any proceeds of bonds issued under this article in securities meeting the investment requirements established in part 6 of article 75 of title 24, C.R.S., and may cause such proceeds of taxes, revenues, district or subdistrict bonds, and securities to be deposited in any trust bank or trust banks within or without or both within and without this state and secured in such manner and subject to such terms and conditions as the board of directors may determine, with or without the payment of any interest on such deposit, including, without limitation, time deposits evidenced by certificates of deposit.

(2) Any such securities and certificates of deposit thus held may, from time to time, be sold, and the proceeds may be so reinvested or redeposited as provided in this section.

(3) Sales and redemptions of any such securities and certificates of deposit thus held shall, from time to time, be made in season so that the proceeds may be applied to the purposes for which the money with which such securities and certificates of deposit were originally acquired was placed in the district or subdistrict treasury.

(4) Any gain from any such investments or reinvestments may be credited to any fund or account pledged for the payment of any district or subdistrict bonds issued under this article, including any reserve therefor, or any other fund or account pertaining to a project or any facilities, or the district's or subdistrict's general fund, subject to any contractual limitations in any proceedings pertaining to outstanding district or subdistrict bonds.

(5) It is lawful for any commercial bank incorporated under the laws of this state which may act as depository of the proceeds of any bonds issued under this article, any securities owned by the district or subdistrict, any proceeds of taxes, any pledged revenues, and any moneys otherwise pertaining to a project or any facilities, or any combination thereof, to furnish such indemnifying bonds and to pledge such securities as may be required by the board of directors.

37-48-189. Rents and charges. (1) (a) The district, any subdistrict, and any political subdivision of the state of Colorado contracting with the district or subdistrict and fixing and collecting annual rentals, service charges, user fees, and other charges, or any combination thereof, are, in supplementation of the powers provided in this article, authorized to fix and collect rents, rates, fees, tolls, and other charges, in this article sometimes referred to as "service charges", for direct or indirect connection with, or the use or services of, a water system, electrical system, joint system, or other facilities, or a plan of water management, including, without limitation, connection charges, minimum charges, water use fees, and charges for the availability of service.

(b) Such service charges may be charged to and collected in advance or otherwise by a district or subdistrict from any political subdivision, person, or owner or occupant of real property that is directly or indirectly connected with, or served or benefited by, any such facilities or plan of water management, and by any political subdivision from any person contracting for such connection or use or services or from the owner or occupant, or any combination thereof, of any real property that directly or indirectly is or has been or will be connected with or served or benefited by any such facilities or plan of water management, and the political subdivision or owner or occupant of any such real property shall be liable for and shall pay such service charges to the district, subdistrict, or political subdivision fixing the service charges at the time when and place where such service charges are due and payable.

(c) Such service charges of the district or subdistrict may accrue from any date on which the board of directors reasonably estimates, in any resolution authorizing the issuance of any securities or other instrument pertaining thereto or in any contract with any political subdivision or person, or in any plan of water management, that any facilities or project being acquired or improved and equipped or services or benefit of such plan will be available for service or use.

(2) (a) Such rents, rates, fees, tolls, and other charges, being in the nature of use or service charges, shall, as nearly as the district, subdistrict, or political subdivision fixing the service charges shall deem practicable and equitable, be reasonable, and such service charges shall be uniform throughout the district, subdistrict, or political subdivision for the same type, class, and amount of use or service of the facilities or plan of water management, and may be based or computed either on:

(I) Measurements of water, flow devices, or electric meters, duly provided and maintained by the district, subdistrict, or political subdivision, or any user as approved by the district, subdistrict, or political subdivision fixing such charges;

(II) The diversion or consumption of water or consumption of electricity in or on or in connection with the political subdivision, or by any person or owner or occupant of real property, making due allowance for commercial use of water and infiltration of groundwater and discharge of surface runoff to the facilities or property;

(III) The number and kind of water or electric outlets on or in connection with the political subdivision, person, or real property;

(IV) The water or electric fixtures or facilities in or on or in connection with the political subdivision, person, or real property;

(V) The number of persons residing or working in or on or otherwise connected or identified with the political subdivision, person, or real property;

(VI) The capacity of the improvements in or on or connected with the political subdivision, person, or real property;

(VII) The availability of service or readiness to serve by the facilities;

(VIII) The amount of surface or groundwater usage by or in connection with or for the benefit of the political subdivision, person, or owner or occupant of real property;

(IX) Any other factors determining the type, class, and amount of use or service of the facilities; or

(X) Any combination of any such factors.

(b) Reasonable penalties may be fixed for any delinquencies, including, without limitation, interest on delinquent service charges from any date due at a rate of not exceeding one percent per month or fraction thereof, reasonable attorney fees, and other costs of collection.

(3) The district, subdistrict, or political subdivision fixing the service charges shall prescribe and, from time to time when necessary, revise a schedule of such service charges, which shall comply with the terms of any contract of the district, subdistrict, or political subdivision fixing the service charges.

(4) The general assembly has determined and declared that the obligations, arising from time to time, of the district, any subdistrict, any political subdivision, or any person to pay service charges fixed in connection with any facilities shall constitute general obligations of the district, subdistrict, political subdivision, or person charged with their payment; but, as such obligations accrue for current services and benefits from, and the use of, any such facilities or plan, the obligations shall not constitute an indebtedness of the district, any subdistrict, or any political subdivision within the meaning of any constitutional, charter, or statutory limitation or any other provision restricting the incurrence of any debt.

(5) No board, agency, bureau, commission, or official, other than the board of directors or the board of managers of the district or subdistrict, respectively, or the governing body of the political subdivision fixing the service charges, has authority to fix, prescribe, levy, modify, supervise, or regulate the making of service charges or to prescribe, supervise, or regulate the performance of services pertaining to the facilities thereof, as authorized by this article; but this subsection (5) shall not be construed to be a limitation on the contracting powers of the board of directors or the board of managers of the district, respectively, or any subdistrict or the governing body of any such political subdivision.

(6) Any service charges payable by the owners or occupants of real property and any penalties for delinquency may be certified to the boards of county commissioners of the respective counties in which the real property is located and shall then be included by them in their next annual levy for state and county purposes. Such amount so certified shall be collected in the same manner as provided in section 37-48-110 (2). The proceeds of such levy shall be paid to the district as provided in section 37-48-107 (3).

37-48-190. Miscellaneous powers. (1) The district and any subdistrict thereof shall also have the following powers:

(a) To pay or otherwise defray and to contract to pay or defray, for any term not exceeding seventy-five years, without an election, except as otherwise provided in this article, the principal of, any prior redemption premiums due in connection with, any interest on, and any other charges pertaining to any securities or other obligations of the federal government, any subdistrict or the district, respectively, any political subdivision, or any person which were incurred in connection with any property thereof subsequently acquired by the district or any subdistrict and relating to either's facilities;

(b) To establish, operate, and maintain facilities within the district or any subdistrict or elsewhere, across or along any public street, highway, bridge, or viaduct or any other public right-of-way or in, upon, under, or over any vacant public lands, which public lands now are, or may become, the property of a political subdivision of this state, without first obtaining a franchise from the political subdivision having jurisdiction over the same; but the district or subdistrict shall cooperate with any political subdivision having such jurisdiction, shall promptly restore any such public street, highway, bridge, or viaduct or any such other public right-of-way to its former state of usefulness as nearly as may be and shall not use the same in such manner as permanently to impair completely or materially the usefulness thereof;

(c) To adopt, amend, repeal, enforce, and otherwise administer such reasonable resolutions, rules, regulations, and orders as the district or subdistrict shall deem necessary or convenient for the operation, maintenance, management, government, and use of the facilities or any plan of water management of the district or subdistrict, as the case may be, and any other facilities under its control, whether situated within or without or both within and without the territorial limits of the district or subdistrict; and

(d) (I) To adopt, amend, repeal, enforce, and otherwise administer under the police power such reasonable resolutions, rules, regulations, and orders pertaining to water or electric services performed by any person through the district's or subdistrict's facilities, plan of water management, or pertaining to such facilities or plans of the district or subdistrict, any political subdivision, or any person, or any combination thereof, reasonably affecting the activities of the district or subdistrict, directly or indirectly, as the board of directors may from time to time deem necessary or convenient.

(II) No such resolution, rule, regulation, or order shall be adopted or amended except by action of the board of directors on the behalf and in the name of the district or subdistrict, respectively, after a public hearing thereon is held by the board of directors, in connection with which any political subdivision owning or authorizing any facilities comparable to facilities of the district or subdistrict, as the case may be, whether therein or thereout, or both therein and thereout, and other persons of interest have an opportunity to be heard, after mailed notice of the hearing is given at least thirty days prior to the hearing by the secretary to each such political subdivision wholly or partly within the district or subdistrict proceeding under this article, and after notice of such hearing is given by publication at least once a week for three consecutive weeks in at least one newspaper of general circulation in the district or such subdistrict by the secretary to persons of interest, both known and unknown, the first publication to be made at least thirty days prior to the hearing.

37-48-191. Cooperative powers. (1) The district and any subdistrict have the power to utilize and may utilize private industry, by contract, to carry out the design, construction, operation, management, manufacturing, marketing, planning, and research and development functions of the district or any subdistrict proceeding under this article, unless the district or subdistrict determines that it is in the public interest to adopt another course of action. The district or subdistrict, or both, may enter into long-term contracts with private persons, not exceeding a term of seventy-five years, without an election, for the performance of any such functions of the district or subdistrict, which, in the opinion of the district or subdistrict, can desirably and conveniently be carried out by a private person under contract; but any such contract shall contain such terms and conditions as shall enable the district or subdistrict to retain reasonable supervision and control of such functions to be carried out or performed by such private persons pursuant to such contract.

(2) Subject to the provisions of section 37-48-175, the district and any subdistrict have the following powers:

(a) To accept contributions, grants, or loans from the state and the federal government for the purpose of financing the planning, acquisition, improvement, equipment, maintenance, and operation of any enterprise in which the district or subdistrict, or both, are authorized to engage, and to enter into contracts and cooperate with, and accept cooperation from, the federal government, the state, the subdistrict or the district, respectively, any political subdivision, any private firm, and any other person, or any combination thereof, in the planning, acquisition, improvement, equipment, maintenance, and operation, and in financing the planning, acquisition, improvement, equipment, maintenance, and operation of any such enterprise in accordance with any legislation which the general assembly, congress, the governing body of any political subdivision, the board of directors or other governing body of any private firm, any other person, or any combination thereof may have adopted prior to the adoption of this article or may thereafter adopt, under which aid, assistance, and cooperation may be furnished by such cooperating entity or entities or other persons in the planning, acquisition, improvement, equipment, maintenance, and operation, or in financing the planning, acquisition, improvement, equipment, maintenance, and operation of any such enterprise, including, without limitation, costs of engineering, architectural, and economic investigations and studies, surveys, designs, plans, working drawings, specifications, procedures, and other action preliminary to the acquisition, improvement, or equipment of any facilities, or any part thereof, and to do any and all things necessary in order to avail itself of such aid, assistance, and cooperation under any state, federal, or other legislation;

(b) To enter into, without any election, joint operating or service contracts and agreements; acquisition, improvement, equipment, or disposal contracts; or other arrangements for any term not exceeding seventy-five years, with the federal government, the state, the subdistrict or the district, respectively, any political subdivision, any private firm, or any other person, or any combination thereof, concerning the facilities, and any project or property pertaining thereto, whether acquired or undertaken by the district, by the subdistrict, by the federal government, by this state, by any political subdivision of this state or any other state, or by any person; and to accept contributions, grants, or loans from the cooperating entity or entities or other persons in connection therewith;

(c) To enter into and perform without any election, when determined by the board of directors to be in the public interest, contracts and agreements, for any term not exceeding seventy-five years, with the federal government, the subdistrict or the district, respectively, the state, any political subdivision, or any person, or any combination thereof, for the provision and operation by the subdistrict or the district, respectively, of any facilities pertaining to such facilities of the district or subdistrict, as the case may be, any part thereof, or any project relating thereto, and the payment periodically thereby to the district or subdistrict of amounts at least sufficient, if any, in the determination of the board, to compensate the district or subdistrict for the cost of providing, operating, and maintaining such facilities serving the federal government, the subdistrict or the district, respectively, the state, any political subdivision, or such other person, or any combination thereof, or otherwise;

(d) To enter into and perform, without any election, contracts and agreements, on a public bid basis, a competitive basis, or a negotiated basis, as the board of directors may determine, with the federal government, the subdistrict or the district, respectively, the state, any political subdivision, any private firm, or any other person, or any combination thereof, for or concerning the planning, construction, lease, other acquisition, improvement, equipment, operation, maintenance, disposal, and financing of any property pertaining to the facilities of the district or subdistrict or to any project of the district or subdistrict, including, without limitation, any contract or agreement for any term not exceeding seventy-five years, pertaining to the joint ownership of the facilities as tenants in common thereamong, providing for the exchange of water or electric power, for backup water or power, pooling of resources, the designation of a manager for any such project or facilities supervised by an engineering and operating committee of co-owners, or otherwise supervised; and otherwise to contract with water or power producers or users, or both;

(e) To cooperate with and act in conjunction with the federal government or any of its engineers, officers, boards, commissions, or departments, or with the state or any of its engineers, officers, boards, commissions, or departments, or with any political subdivision or any person in the acquisition, improvement, and equipment of any facilities or any part thereof authorized for the district or subdistrict or for any other works, acts, or purposes provided for in this article and to adopt and carry out any definite plan or system of work for any such purpose;

(f) To cooperate with the federal government, the subdistrict or district, respectively, the state, any political subdivision, or any person, or any combination thereof, by an agreement therewith by which the district or the subdistrict may:

(I) Acquire and provide, without cost to the cooperating entity or entities, the land, easements, and rights-of-way necessary for the acquisition, improvement, and equipment of any properties;

(II) Hold the cooperating entity or entities free from and save it or them harmless from any claim for damages arising from the acquisition, improvement, equipment, maintenance, and operation of any facilities;

(III) Maintain and operate any facilities in accordance with regulations prescribed by the cooperating entity or entities; and

(IV) Establish and enforce regulations, if any, concerning the facilities which are satisfactory to the cooperating entity or entities;

(g) To provide, by any contract for any term not exceeding seventy-five years, or otherwise, without an election:

(I) For the joint use of personnel, equipment, and facilities of the district, the subdistrict, the state, any political subdivision, or any person, or any combination thereof, including, without limitation, public buildings constructed by or under the supervision of the board of directors, the state, the governing body of the political subdivision, or the board of directors or other governing body of a private firm or other person concerned, upon such terms and agreements and within such areas within the district or subdistrict, or otherwise, as may be determined, for the promotion and protection of health, comfort, safety, life, welfare, and property of the inhabitants of the district or subdistrict and any such political subdivision and any other persons of interest, and for water or electric services;

(II) For the joint employment of clerks, stenographers, and other employees pertaining to the facilities or any project, now existing or hereafter established, upon such terms and conditions as may be determined for the equitable apportionment of the expenses resulting therefrom;

(h) To provide for comprehensive planning and, where possible, coordinate operations of the district or subdistrict with the subdistrict or district, respectively, any and all such political subdivisions, private firms, and other persons, or any combination thereof, pertaining to water conservation and use and to the generation and use of electricity.

37-48-193. Correlative powers of political subdivisions. Any political subdivision of this state has the correlative powers to enable it to participate in cooperation with the district or any subdistrict in either's exercise of powers granted thereto by this article or otherwise granted by law.

37-48-194. Refunding. (1) Any revenue bonds issued under the provisions of this article and at any time outstanding may, at any time and from time to time, be refunded by the district by the issuance of its refunding bonds in such amount as the board of directors may deem necessary to refund the principal of the bonds to be refunded, any unpaid interest thereon, and any premiums and incidental expenses necessary to be paid in connection therewith.

(2) Any such refunding may be effected, whether the bonds to be refunded have matured or shall thereafter mature, either by sale of the refunding bonds and the application of the proceeds thereof, directly or indirectly, to the payment of the bonds to be refunded thereby or by exchange of the refunding bonds for the bonds to be refunded thereby, but the holders of any bonds to be so refunded shall not be compelled, without their consent, to surrender their bonds for payment or exchange prior to the date on which they are payable by maturity date, option to redeem, or otherwise or if they are called for redemption prior to the date on which they are by their terms subject to redemption by option or otherwise. Except to the extent expressly or by implication inconsistent with the terms of this article, article 54 of title 11, C.R.S., shall govern the issuance of such refunding bonds and the establishment of any escrow in connection therewith.

(3) All refunding bonds issued under authority of this article shall be payable solely from revenues out of which bonds to be refunded thereby are payable or from revenues out of which bonds of the same character may be made payable under this article or any other law in effect at the time of the refunding.

37-48-195. Costs - board of managers to concur. (1) To the extent that the costs of the proceedings for the issuance of revenue bonds are not paid by the proceeds of the bonds, they shall be budgeted and paid out of the subdistrict preliminary fund, or from funds derived from subdistrict revenues, or from the separate subdistrict mill levy.

(2) If there is a board of managers for the subdistrict, the district shall not exercise its authority to issue revenue bonds until requested by the board of managers to do so, but the board of directors of the district may, at the request of the board of managers, make the necessary determinations and conduct the necessary proceedings to authorize the issuance of such bonds prior to receipt of the request for the issuance thereof.

37-50-101. Legislative declaration. The conservation of the water of the Republican river, its tributaries, and that portion of the Ogallala aquifer underlying the district for compliance with the Republican river compact are of vital importance to the growth and development of the entire area and the welfare of all its inhabitants. To promote the health and general welfare of this state, an appropriate agency should be established for the conservation, use, and development of the water resources of the Republican river, its tributaries, and that portion of the Ogallala aquifer underlying the district to cooperate with and assist this state to carry out the state's duty to comply with the limitations and duties imposed upon the state by the Republican river compact and given such powers as may be necessary to safeguard for Colorado all waters to which the state is equitably entitled.

37-50-102. Definitions. As used in this article, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Board" means the board of directors of the Republican river water conservation district created pursuant to section 37-50-104.

(2) "District" means the Republican river water conservation district created pursuant to this article.

(3) "Person" means a person, firm, partnership, association, or corporation.

(4) "Property", as used in sections 37-50-109 and 37-50-111, includes both real and personal property. In other parts of this article relating to special assessments, unless otherwise specified, "property" means real estate as defined in section 2-4-401 (5), C.R.S., and includes all railroads; tram roads; electric railroads; state and interurban railroads; highways; telephone, telegraph, and transmission lines; water systems, water rights, pipelines, and rights-of-way of public service corporations; and all other real property, whether held for public or private use.

(5) "Republican river basin" means that area shown upon the map titled: "Boundaries of the Republican River Basin and Republican River Water Conservation District". The map shall be kept on file in the office of the state engineer, the Colorado ground water commission, and the district and shall be available for public inspection.

(6) "Republican river compact" means the compact entered into between the states of Colorado, Kansas, and Nebraska and approved by the United States congress as codified in article 67 of this title and as further defined by the final settlement stipulation dated December 15, 2002, and filed in Kansas v. Colorado and Nebraska, No. 126 Original.

Source: L. 2004: Entire article added, p. 1905, § 1, effective August 4.

37-50-103. Creation and name of district. (1) There is hereby created a water conservation district to be known and designated as the "Republican river water conservation district". The district is hereby declared to be a body corporate under the laws of Colorado. The district shall comprise the following area and territory of the state of Colorado: Phillips and Yuma counties and those portions of Kit Carson, Lincoln, Logan, Sedgwick, and Washington counties within the Republican river basin.

(2) The creation of the Republican river water conservation district shall not affect the existence or powers of public irrigation districts created pursuant to articles 41 to 43 of this title or ground water management districts created pursuant to article 90 of this title before August 4, 2004.

37-50-104. Board of directors. (1) The district shall be managed and controlled by a board of fifteen directors. The members of the board shall hold their offices for terms of three years and until their successors are appointed and qualified. A director may serve one or more terms. The boards of county commissioners of the counties of Yuma, Phillips, Kit Carson, Washington, Sedgwick, Lincoln, and Logan shall each appoint one director, who shall be a resident of the respective county. One member of the board shall be appointed by each of the boards of the Marks Butte, Frenchman, W-Y, Sand Hills, Central Yuma, Arikaree, and Plains ground water management districts. One member of the board shall be appointed by the Colorado ground water commission and shall be a member of the Colorado ground water commission. Each director shall be, at the time of the director's appointment, a resident and owner of real property within the county or ground water management district from which he or she is appointed or, if only a part of the county or ground water management district is included within the boundaries of the district, a resident and owner of real property within such included part. The director appointed by the Colorado ground water commission shall, at the time of appointment, reside within the district. Each director shall be appointed by either the board of county commissioners of the county in which the director resides or by the ground water management district in which the director resides. The director may be a member of the board of county commissioners of such county or the board of directors of such ground water management district. Such appointments shall be made at the first meeting of the board of county commissioners, ground water management district, or Colorado ground water commission after the establishment of the district. The members of the board shall annually select one of their number to act as president and one of their number to act as vice-president, each to hold office for one year or until a successor is duly selected.

(2) The office of a director shall become vacant when the director ceases to reside in the county or ground water management district from which he or she was appointed, or in the case of the director appointed by the Colorado ground water commission when the director ceases to reside in the district or is no longer a member of the Colorado ground water commission, or when declared vacant by a majority vote of all of the members of the board when a director has failed to attend two consecutive regular meetings without having been excused from attendance by the president. If a vacancy occurs in the office by reason of death, resignation, removal, or otherwise, it shall be filled for the remainder of the unexpired term by the board of county commissioners of the county, or the ground water management district from which the director was originally appointed. Before entering upon the discharge of his or her duties, each director shall take an oath to support and defend the constitutions of the United States and of this state and to impartially, without fear or favor, discharge the duties of a director of the district.

(3) (a) Upon creation of the district, the directors shall be appointed by the respective boards of county commissioners or ground water management districts as provided in this section for the following terms of office:

(I) The directors from the counties of Phillips and Kit Carson and from the Marks Butte and Arikaree ground water management districts, whose terms of office shall expire on the date of the regular quarterly meeting of the board to be held in October 2005, or as soon thereafter as their respective successors are appointed and qualified;

(II) The directors from the counties of Washington, Sedgwick, and Lincoln and from the W-Y, Central Yuma, and Plains ground water management districts, whose terms of office shall expire on the date of the regular quarterly meeting to be held in October 2006, or as soon thereafter as their respective successors are appointed and qualified; and

(III) The directors from the counties of Yuma and Logan, the directors from the Frenchman and Sand Hills ground water management districts, and the director appointed by the ground water commission, whose terms of office shall expire on the date of the regular quarterly meeting to be held in October 2007, or as soon thereafter as their respective successors are appointed and qualified.

(b) Thereafter, each director shall be appointed for a term of three years, and the term shall expire on the date of the regular quarterly meeting to be held in October of the year that commences during the third year of the director's term, or as soon thereafter as a successor is duly appointed and qualified. For the purpose of determining such expiration date, the term of the director shall be taken as having begun on the date of the first regular October quarterly meeting at which the term of a predecessor would have expired had the director then been duly appointed and qualified.

37-50-105. Compensation of directors. The directors of the district shall receive as compensation a sum not to exceed one hundred dollars per day while actually engaged in the business of the district, and, in addition, the directors shall be entitled to their actual traveling and transportation expenses when away from their respective places of residence on district business.

Source: L. 2004: Entire article added, p. 1908, § 1, effective August 4. L. 2007: Entire section amended, p. 358, § 4, effective April 2.

37-50-106. Employees. The board shall appoint a secretary and a treasurer. The same individual may, at the election of the board, hold both offices. The board shall likewise hire such other employees, including engineers and attorneys, as may be required to properly transact the business of the district, and is authorized to provide for the compensation of the secretary and treasurer and other appointees. The treasurer shall be required by the board to give bond with a corporate surety in such amount as the board may fix and that it deems sufficient to protect the funds in the hands of the treasurer or under the treasurer's control. Such bond is subject to the approval of the board.

37-50-107. General powers. (1) The district is formed for the purpose of cooperating with and assisting this state to carry out its duty to comply with the limitations and duties imposed upon the state by the Republican river compact, and, in furtherance of that purpose and in its corporate capacity, the district shall have power to:

(a) Sue and be sued in the name of the Republican river water conservation district and otherwise to participate in litigation;

(b) Acquire, operate, and hold in the name of the district such real and personal property as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this article and sell and convey such property or its products as provided in this article or when the property is no longer needed for the purposes of the district;

(c) Borrow money and incur indebtedness and issue bonds or other evidence of such indebtedness;

(d) Accept gifts, grants, or donations of personal or real property or moneys;

(e) Make surveys and conduct investigations to determine the best manner of utilizing stream flows within the district and the amount of such stream flow or other water supply, including groundwater; locate ditches, irrigation works, wells, pipelines, and reservoirs to store or utilize water for compact compliance purposes; make filings upon such water; initiate appropriations for compact compliance purposes; and do and perform all acts and things necessary or advisable to protect existing beneficial uses of water within the district through compliance with the Republican river compact;

(f) Make contracts with respect to the relative rights of the district under its claims and filings and the rights of any other person seeking to divert water from any of the streams within the district;

(g) Contract with any agencies, officers, bureaus, and departments of this state and the United States, including the department of corrections, to obtain services or labor for the initiation or construction of irrigation works, canals, reservoirs, wells, pipelines, or retaining ponds within the district;

(h) Enter upon privately owned land or other real property for the purpose of making surveys or obtaining other information, without obtaining an order to do so, if the same can be done without damage to the lands, crops, or improvements thereon;

(i) Enter into contracts, agreements, or other arrangements with the United States government or any department thereof; with persons, railroads, or other entities; with public corporations; with the state government or a political subdivision of this or other states; with irrigation, drainage, conservation, conservancy, or other improvement districts in this or other states; with ground water management districts; or with the ground water commission for cooperation or assistance in constructing, maintaining, using, and operating the works of the district, for making surveys and investigations or related reports, or for any other purpose authorized by this article. The district may purchase, lease, or acquire land or other property in adjoining states in order to secure outlets or for other purposes of the district and may enter into contracts and spend money for securing such outlets or other works in adjoining states.

(j) Have and exercise the power of eminent domain to acquire ditches, reservoirs, or other works, lands, or rights-of-way therefor that the district may need to carry out the plans of the district and in general to exercise any and all rights and powers of eminent domain conferred upon other agencies, as provided in articles 1 to 7 of title 38, C.R.S.;

(k) Establish a water enterprise pursuant to article 45.1 of this title;

(l) Make loans or grants to any public entity, nonprofit corporation, not-for-profit corporation, carrier ditch company, mutual ditch or reservoir company, unincorporated ditch or reservoir company, or cooperative association within the boundaries of the district to carry out the purposes of the district;

(m) Impose a use fee on the diversion of water within the district or establish an annual levy for the use of water;

(n) Establish a nonprofit or charitable land trust;

(o) Purchase, rent, lease, and accept donations of, or cooperate in the creation of, conservation easements;

(p) Cooperate in the creation of conservation reserve programs and other similar programs;

(q) Exercise such implied powers and perform such other acts as may be necessary to carry out and effect any of the express powers hereby conferred upon such district as set forth in this article.

(2) The district, in its own name, may issue revenue bonds to finance, in whole or in part, the construction of works, reservoirs, wells, pipelines, or other improvements for the beneficial use of water for the purposes for which it has been or may be appropriated and to further the purposes of the district, whether or not the interest on such bonds may be subject to taxation. Such revenue bonds shall be issued in such denominations and with such maximum net effective interest rate as may be fixed by the board and shall bear interest such that the net effective interest rate of the bonds does not exceed the maximum net effective interest rate authorized. The board shall pledge only rental proceeds, service charges, and other income, or any combination thereof, from such works or other improvements, and the district shall not be otherwise obligated for the payment thereof. At the time such revenue bonds are issued, the board shall make and enter in the minutes of the proceeding a resolution in which are set forth the due dates of such revenue bonds, the rates of interest thereon, the general provisions of the bonds, and a statement that the same are payable only out of rental proceeds, service charges, and other income, or any combination thereof. In addition, the board shall require the payment of rental charges, service charges, or other charges by the political subdivisions or persons who are to use or derive benefits from the water or other services furnished by such works or improvements. Such charges shall be sufficient to pay operation and maintenance expenses thereof, to meet the bond payments, and to accumulate and maintain reserve and replacement accounts pertaining thereto as set forth in such resolution. Such resolution shall be irrevocable during the time that any of the revenue bonds are outstanding and unpaid. The revenue bonds shall be signed "Republican River Water Conservation District, By ....., president. Attest ....., secretary", and they shall be countersigned by the treasurer.

(3) The district is authorized and required to prepare and adopt as the official plan for the district a comprehensive, detailed plan showing the nature of the improvements or works, including all canals, reservoirs, ditches, wells, and pipelines, whether within or without the district, and the estimated cost of each principal part of such system or works.

(4) The board has full authority to devise, prepare for, execute, maintain, and operate all works or improvements necessary or desirable to complete, maintain, operate, and protect the works provided for by the official plan, and to that end may employ and secure persons and equipment under the supervision of the chief engineer or other agents or may enter into contracts for such works, either as a whole or in parts.

Source: L. 2004: Entire article added, p. 1908, § 1; effective August 4.

37-50-108. Principal office - meetings. The board shall designate a place within the district where the principal office is to be maintained and may change such place from time to time. Regular quarterly meetings of the board shall be held at the office on the second Thursday in the months of January, April, July, and October. The board may hold such special meetings as may be required for the proper transaction of business. All special meetings of the board shall be held at locations that are within the boundaries of the district or that are within the boundaries of any county in which the district is located, in whole or in part, or in any county if the meeting location is within Colorado and does not exceed twenty miles from the district boundaries. The provisions of this section governing the location of meetings may be waived only if the proposed change of location of a meeting of the board appears on the agenda of a regular or special meeting of the board and if a resolution is adopted by the board stating the reason for which a meeting of the board is to be held in a location other than under the provisions of this section and further stating the date, time, and place of such meeting. Special meetings may be called by the president of the board or by any four directors. Meetings of the board shall be public, and proper minutes of the proceedings of the board shall be preserved and shall be open to inspection by any elector of the district during business hours.

37-50-109. Authority of the board to levy taxes. (1) In addition to other means of providing revenue for the district, the board has the power to fix the amount of an assessment upon the property within the district, as a level or general levy to be used for the purpose of paying the expenses of organization, for surveys and plans, to pay the salary of officers for, the per diem allowed to directors and their expenses, for expenses that may be incurred in the administration of the affairs of the district, and for all other lawful purposes of the district including capital construction.

(2) The amount of assessment on each dollar of valuation for assessment shall, in accordance with the schedule prescribed by section 39-5-128, C.R.S., be certified to boards of county commissioners of the various counties in which the district is located and by them included in their next annual levy for state and county purposes. Such amount so certified shall be collected for the use of such district in the same manner as are taxes for county purposes, and the revenue laws of the state for the levy and collection of taxes on real estate for county purposes, except as modified in this article, shall be applicable to the levy and collection of the amount certified by the board as provided in this section, including the enforcement of penalties, forfeiture, and sale for delinquent taxes.

(3) All collections made by the county treasurer pursuant to such levy shall be paid to the treasurer of the district on or before the tenth day of the next succeeding calendar month. Items of expense that have already been paid in whole or in part from any other sources by the district may be repaid from receipts of such levy. Such levy may be made regardless of whether the work proposed, or any part thereof, may have been found impracticable or for other reasons abandoned. The collection of data and the payment of expenses therefor, including salaries of engineers, attorneys, and others, to assist this state to carry out its duty to comply with limitations and duties imposed upon the state by the Republican river compact, is hereby declared to be a matter of general benefit to the public welfare, such that a tax for such purposes may be properly imposed.

37-50-110. Levy and collection of uniform sales and use tax. (1) (a) In addition to other means of providing revenue for the district, the board, in the name of the district, has the power to levy and collect a uniform sales and use tax throughout the entire geographical area of the district, notwithstanding any provision of article 2 of title 29, C.R.S., to the contrary, and upon the approval of the eligible electors in the district at an election held in accordance with section 20 of article X of the state constitution and articles 1 to 13 of title 1, C.R.S.

(b) Such uniform sales tax rate shall not exceed one percent upon every transaction or other incident with respect to which a sales and use tax is levied by the state pursuant to the provisions of article 26 of title 39, C.R.S.

(c) The sales and use tax imposed pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) shall not be levied on:

(I) The sale of tangible personal property delivered by a retailer, by a retailer's agent, or to a common carrier for delivery to a destination outside the district; or

(II) The sale of tangible personal property on which a specific ownership tax has been paid or is payable when such sale meets the following conditions:

(A) The purchaser does not reside in the district or the purchaser's principal place of business is outside the district; and

(B) The personal property is registered or required to be registered outside the geographical boundaries of the district under the laws of this state.

(d) The sales and use tax imposed pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) is in addition to any other sales and use tax imposed pursuant to law.

(2) (a) The collection, administration, and enforcement of the sales and use tax shall be performed by the executive director of the department of revenue in the same manner as that for the collection, administration, and enforcement of the state sales and use tax imposed pursuant to article 26 of title 39, C.R.S., including, without limitation, the retention by a vendor of the percentage of the amount remitted to cover the vendor's expense in the collection and remittance of the sales tax as provided in section 39-26-105, C.R.S. The executive director shall make monthly distributions of sales tax collections to the district. The district shall pay the net incremental cost incurred by the department in the administration and collection of the sales and use tax.

(b) (I) A qualified purchaser may provide a direct payment permit number issued pursuant to section 39-26-103.5, C.R.S., to any vendor or retailer that is liable and responsible for collecting and remitting any sales tax levied on any sale made to the qualified purchaser pursuant to the provisions of this section. A vendor or retailer that has received a direct payment permit number in good faith from a qualified purchaser shall not be liable or responsible for collection and remittance of any sales tax imposed on the sale that is paid for directly from the qualified purchaser's funds and not the personal funds of any individual.

(II) A qualified purchaser that provides a direct payment permit number to a vendor or retailer shall be liable and responsible for the amount of sales tax levied on any sale made to the qualified purchaser pursuant to this section in the same manner as liability would be imposed on a qualified purchaser for state sales tax pursuant to section 39-26-105 (3), C.R.S.

(c) (I) The board shall designate a financial officer who shall coordinate with the department of revenue regarding the collection of a sales and use tax. This coordination shall include, but not be limited to, the financial officer identifying those businesses eligible to collect the sales and use tax and any other administrative details identified by the department.

(II) Any sales and use tax authorized pursuant to this article shall become effective on July 1 following the electors' approval of the tax.

(3) The district shall use the revenues generated from the sales and use tax imposed pursuant to this article to assure compliance with the Republican river compact.

37-50-111. Limitations on power to levy and contract. (1) The district has no power of taxation or right to levy or assess taxes pursuant to section 37-50-109, except an annual levy. The district has no power to contract or incur any obligation or indebtedness except as expressly provided in this article.

(2) All property taxes and assessments under this article shall be collected by the county treasurers of the respective counties in which real estate is situated at the same time and in the same manner as is provided by law for the collection of taxes for county and state purposes, and, if the assessments are not paid, the real estate shall be sold at regular tax sales for the payment of the assessments, interest, and penalties in the manner provided by the laws of this state for selling property for the payment of general taxes. If there are no bids at the tax sales for the property so offered, the tax certificates shall be issued in the name of the district; and the board has the same power with reference to the sale of the tax certificates as is now vested in county commissioners and county treasurers when a tax certificate is issued in the name of a county.

(3) Tax deeds may be issued, based upon the certificates of sale, in the same manner that deeds are executed on tax sales on general state and county taxes.

37-50-112. Investment of unexpended revenues. The board may invest any unexpended revenues of the district, including any amounts in the construction fund not needed for immediate use, to pay the cost of construction of any project, or to pay bonds or coupons or to meet current expenses, in securities meeting the investment requirements established in part 6 of article 75 of title 24, C.R.S. The board may require any revenues of the district to be deposited with such depository or bank as may be designated by the board and likewise has authority to require the treasurer of the district to take from such depository a bond with corporate surety to ensure payment of any such deposit, or to require such depository to ensure payment of any such deposit, or to require such depository to pledge securities of the same kind as those in which the district is authorized to invest its funds to ensure payment of any such deposit.

37-50-113. Appointment and compensation of appraisers. (1) As soon as the official plan has been prepared and adopted pursuant to section 37-50-107 (3) and is on file in the office of the district, upon petition of the district, the board may, if the official plan includes the utilization of special improvement bonds paid by special assessments upon the property benefitted within the district, appoint a board of appraisers consisting of three members. The qualifications of the appraisers and all proceedings before them shall be in accordance with the provisions of the law pertaining to the duties and qualifications of appraisers under the conservancy law of this state as set forth in article 4 of this title.

(2) Appraisers appointed under this section shall receive compensation set by the board for the performance of their duties.

37-50-114. Assessments - procedure in making. (1) If the board provides for the financing of the construction or acquisition of the works or other improvements proposed and of the other steps necessary to the development and implementation of the district's official plan by special assessments to be levied against the appraised benefits to property within the district, then the board may make assessments from time to time, as required, and, in making the assessments, the board shall be guided by the procedure for the levy of similar assessments under the conservancy law of this state, articles 1 to 8 of this title, and particularly sections 37-5-104 to 37-5-106.

(2) From time to time, as the affairs of the district may demand, the board may levy on all property upon which benefits have been appraised an assessment of such portion of benefits as may be found necessary by the board to pay the cost of the appraisal, the preparation and execution of the official plan for the district, and the superintendence of construction and administration during the period of construction, plus ten percent of the total to be added for contingencies, but not to exceed in the total of principal the appraised benefits so adjudicated. The assessments, to be known as the "construction fund assessment", shall be apportioned to and levied on each tract of land or other property in the district in proportion to the benefits appraised and not in excess thereof, and in case bonds are issued, then the amount of interest that will accrue on such bonds as estimated by the board shall be included in and added to the assessment; except that the interest to accrue on account of the issuance of bonds shall not be construed as a part of the cost of construction in determining whether the expenses and cost of making the improvement are equal to or in excess of the benefits appraised.

(3) As soon as the assessment is levied, the secretary of the district, at the expense thereof, shall prepare in duplicate an assessment of the district. The assessment shall be in the form of a well-bound book endorsed and named "Construction Fund Assessment Record of the Republican River Water Conservation District". The record shall be in the form of similar records for conservancy districts under the laws of this state, particularly section 37-5-104. Assessments may be paid in the manner provided in section 37-5-105 relating to conservancy districts under the laws of this state. All proceedings provided in such sections with respect to conservancy districts shall apply to the assessments, the records thereof, and the manner of payment of assessments of the district.

37-50-115. Collection by civil action. In addition to all other remedies for collection of assessments provided by this article, the district may, at any time after three years after the issuance of any certificate of purchase held by the district, bring civil action to foreclose the lien for assessments represented by all certificates of purchase held by the district with respect to the same land and for other relief with respect to such land as provided by the Colorado rules of civil procedure then in effect for the foreclosure of liens on real property. No statute of limitations shall be applicable to the rights of the district arising from any assessment. No decree, or sale of lands thereunder, shall be made except one subject to the lien of future unpaid installments of assessments. The county treasurer shall be made a party to any action of the district authorized by this section.

37-50-116. Assessments perpetual lien. All assessments on account of special improvements against appraised benefits and interest thereon and penalties for default of payment thereof, together with the cost of collecting the same, from the date of the filing of the construction fund and the assessment record in the office of the treasurer of the county in which the lands and property are situated, shall constitute a perpetual lien in an amount not in excess of the benefits severally appraised upon the land and other property against which assessments have been levied and such benefits appraised. No sale of the property to enforce any general state, county, city, town, or school tax or other lien shall extinguish the perpetual lien of the assessment. At any time, a landowner may pay the full amount of the assessment, and thereafter the property of the landowner shall be clear and free from lien and shall not be subject to assessment for and on account of benefits appraised against any other land or default in the payment of assessments made against any other land.

37-50-117. Directors to remedy defects in assessments. If any assessment made under the provisions of this article proves invalid, the board, by subsequent or amended acts or proceedings, promptly and without delay, shall remedy all defects or irregularities, as the case may require, by making and providing for the collection of new assessments or otherwise.

37-50-118. Assessment record as evidence. The record of assessments contained in the respective assessment records of the district shall be prima facie evidence in all courts of all matters contained in the record.

37-50-119. Defects in notice perfected. Whenever in this article notice is provided for, if the court finds that due notice was not given, jurisdiction shall not be lost nor the proceedings abated or held void, but the court shall continue the hearing until proper notice has been given and then shall proceed as though proper notice had been given in the first instance. If any appraisal, assessment, levy, or other proceeding relating to the district is held defective, then the board may file a motion in the cause in which the district was organized to perfect any such defect, and the court shall set a time to hear the motion. If the original notice as a whole is held to be sufficient, but faulty only with reference to publication as to certain particular lands or as to service as to certain persons, publication of the defective notice may be ordered as to the particular lands or service may be made on the persons not properly served, and the notice is thereby corrected without invalidating the original notice as to other lands or persons.

37-50-120. Issuance of general obligation bonds. (1) In the name of the district, the district may issue general obligations or bonds that shall constitute a lien against the real property in the district. Obligations shall bear interest at a rate such that the net effective interest rate of the issue does not exceed the maximum net effective interest rate authorized. Interest shall be payable semiannually, and obligations may be made payable in series becoming due not less than five years and not more than fifty years after the date of issue. The bonds may be sold in one or more series at par, or below or above par, at public or private sale, in such manner and for such price as the district, in its discretion, shall determine. As an incidental expense of the issuance, the district may employ financial and legal consultants in regard to the financing of the official plan. The district may exchange all or a part of its bonds for all or an equivalent part of property or services included in the official plan for which the bonds are issued, if the exchange is preceded by determination of the fair value of the property or services exchanged for the bonds. Such determination shall be by resolution of the board and shall be conclusive.

(2) Such bonds are to be paid from assessments levied from time to time, as the bonds and interest thereon become due, against the taxable property in the district and not otherwise. Such levies shall not be limited as to rate or amount; except that they shall not exceed a rate reasonably required to yield revenues needed to pay bonds and interest as they mature, plus any other amounts required for debt service, less the amount of any other revenues available to the district for payment of bonds and debt service. The board shall certify, to the boards of county commissioners of the several counties in which the district or any part thereof is located, the amount of the levy necessary to be made upon the taxable property in the district to yield the required revenues becoming due on all outstanding bonds at the same time that certifications of the district's mill levy assessment for general district purposes are made. The procedure for the assessment and collection of ad valorem taxes of the county is, except as may be otherwise provided in this article, made applicable and is to be followed in the levy of assessments for payment of taxes and collection of principal and debt service on such general obligations or bonds.

37-50-123. Court confirmation. (1) (a) The board, on behalf and in the name of the district, may file a petition at any time, in the district court in and for the county in which the district's principal office is maintained, for a judicial examination and determination of any power conferred or of any taxes or rates or other charges levied, or of any act, proceeding, or contract of the district, whether or not the contract has been executed, including, without limitation, proposed contracts for the acquisition, improvement, equipment, maintenance, operation, or disposal of any properties or facilities for the benefit of the district, and so including a proposed issue of revenue warrants, revenue bonds, special assessment bonds, or general obligation bonds, issued or to be issued on behalf of any such entity. The petition shall set forth the facts on which the validity of such power, tax, assessment, charge, act, proceeding, or contract is founded and shall be verified by the president of the board.

(b) An action taken pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) shall be in the nature of a proceeding in rem, and jurisdiction of all parties interested may be had by publication, mail, and posting, as provided in this article. Notice of the filing of the petition shall be given by the clerk of the court, under the seal of the court, stating in brief outline the contents of the petition and also stating where a full copy of any contract mentioned in the petition may be examined. The notice shall be served by publication at least once a week for five consecutive weeks in a daily or a weekly newspaper of general circulation published in the county in which the principal office of the district is located by mailing copies of the notice by registered or certified mail, return receipt requested, to the boards of county commissioners of the several counties in which the parties in interest in such action are located, wholly or in part, and by posting the notice in the office of the district at least thirty days before the date fixed in the notice for the hearing on the petition. Jurisdiction shall be complete after such publication, mailing, and posting.

(c) Any owner of property in the district filing a petition pursuant to this subsection (1) or any person interested in the petition, contract, or proposed contract may appear and move to dismiss or answer the petition at any time before the date fixed for the hearing or within such further time as may be allowed by the court. All persons who fail to appear shall be deemed to have consented to the petition.

(2) The petition and notice shall be sufficient to give the court jurisdiction. Upon hearing the petition, the court shall examine and determine all matters and things affecting the question submitted and shall make such findings and render such judgment and decree as the case warrants. Costs may be divided or apportioned among any contesting parties in the discretion of the trial court. Review of the judgment of the court may be had as in other similar cases; except that such review shall be applied for within thirty days after the time of the rendition of such judgment or within such additional time as may be allowed by the court within thirty days. The Colorado rules of civil procedure shall govern in matters of pleading and practice where not otherwise specified in this article. The court shall disregard any error, irregularity, or omission that does not affect the substantial rights of the parties.

37-50-124. Election to authorize debt. Except for the issuance of refunding bonds or other funding or refunding of obligations that does not increase the net indebtedness of the district, no indebtedness shall be incurred by the issuance of general obligation bonds of the district or by any contract by which the district agrees to repay as general obligations or other obligations constituting a "general obligation debt by loan in any form", as such term is used in section 6 of article XI of the state constitution, of the district to the federal government, the state, a political subdivision, or a person over a term not limited to the then current fiscal year any project costs advanced thereby under any contract for the acquisition or improvement of the facilities or any interest in the facilities, or for any project, advanced by the issuance of securities of such a political subdivision or person to defray any cost of the project or of the facilities or an interest in the project or facilities acquired and becoming a part of the facilities of the district, or otherwise advanced, unless a proposal for issuing the district's general obligation bonds or of incurring an indebtedness by the district by making such a contract is submitted to the electors of the district and is approved by a majority of such electors voting on the proposal at an election held for that purpose in accordance with this article.

37-50-125. Definition of elector. (1) An "elector" or "elector of the district", or any term of similar import, means a person who:

- (a) At the time of the election, is qualified to vote in general elections in this state; and
- (b) Either:
  - (I) Has been a resident of the district for not less than thirty-two days at the time of the election; or
  - (II) Owns or whose spouse owns taxable real or personal property within the district.
- (2) Registration pursuant to the laws concerning general elections or any other laws shall not be required.

37-50-126. Elections. Whenever in this article an election of the electors of the district is permitted or required, the election may be held separately at a special election or may be held concurrently with any primary, general, or other election held under the laws of this state.

Source: L. 2004: Entire article added, p. 1919, § 1, effective August 4.

37-50-127. Election resolution. (1) The board shall call any election by resolution adopted at least thirty days before the election.

(2) The resolution shall state the objects and purposes of the election, the date upon which such election shall be held, and the form of the ballot.

(3) In the case of an election not to be held concurrently with a primary or general election, the board shall provide in the election resolution or by supplemental resolution for the appointment of sufficient judges and clerks of the election, who shall be electors of the district holding the debt election, and shall set their compensation. The election resolution or a supplemental resolution shall designate the precincts and polling places, but a supplemental resolution may modify the description of precincts and polling places without repeating the description in full. The description of precincts may be made by reference to any order of the governing body of any county, municipality, or other political subdivision in which the district or any part thereof is situated, by reference to any previous order or other instrument of the governing body, by detailed description of the precincts, or by other sufficient description.

(4) Precincts established by the governing body may be consolidated in the election resolution by the board in a sufficient number that it deems expedient for the convenience of the electors for any election not to be held concurrently with a primary or general election.

(5) If the election is held concurrently with a primary or general election held under the laws of this state, the judges of election for the primary or general election shall be designated as the judges of the election for the election held pursuant to this article, and they shall receive such additional compensation, if any, as the board shall set by the election resolution.

(6) If there is a direct conflict between this section and the provisions governing elections in section 20 of article X of the state constitution, section 20 of article X of the state constitution shall prevail.

Source: L. 2004: Entire article added, p. 1919, § 1, effective August 4.

37-50-128. Conduct of election. (1) Except as otherwise provided in this article, an election held pursuant to this article shall be opened and conducted in the manner then provided by the laws of this state for the conduct of general elections.

(2) If an election is held concurrently with a primary or general election, the county clerk and recorder of each county in which the district holding the election is located shall perform for the district election the acts provided by law to be performed by such officials. If an election is not held concurrently with a primary or general election, such acts shall be performed by the secretary of the district with the assistance of the county clerk and recorders. The board and county clerk and recorders are authorized to agree among themselves upon the division of such acts and the determination of persons to perform them.

(3) An elector of the district may vote in an election by absent voter's ballot under such terms and conditions, and in substantially the same manner insofar as is practicable, as prescribed in article 8 of title 1, C.R.S., of the "Uniform Election Code of 1992", for general elections, except as specifically modified in this article.

(4) All acts required or permitted to be performed by a county clerk and recorder shall be performed by each one respectively in the event of a primary or general election and by the secretary or assistant secretary of the board in the event of any other election, unless the services of the county clerk and recorder in each such county are contracted for, but no oath shall be administered by the secretary or assistant secretary unless he or she is also an officer authorized to administer oaths.

(5) Application may be made for an absent voter's ballot not more than twenty days and not less than four days before the election.

(6) No consideration shall be given nor distinction made with reference to any person's affiliation or the lack thereof.

(7) The return envelope for the absent voter's ballot shall have printed on its face an affidavit substantially in the following form:

State of Colorado, county of ....., I, ....., being first duly sworn according to law, depose and say that the address of my residence is .....; that I am a person qualified to vote in general elections in the state of Colorado and am a resident of the Republican river water conservation district at the time of this election.

.....

Title of office

(8) In any such election at which voting machines are used, the board shall provide paper ballots for absent voters containing the same question as will be submitted to the electors by the voting machines, subject to subsection (9) of this section.

(9) The district may provide for mail-in voters to cast their mail-in voters' ballots on voting machines expressly provided for that purpose, if each mail-in voter indicates by affidavit that he or she is qualified to vote at the election and will be a mail-in voter, pursuant to section 1-8-102, C.R.S.

(10) If there is a direct conflict between this section and the provisions governing elections in section 20 of article X of the state constitution, section 20 of article X of the state constitution shall prevail.

37-50-129. Notice of election. Notice of an election held pursuant to this article shall be given by publication by three consecutive weekly insertions in at least one newspaper of general circulation in each county wholly or partially within the district, as determined by the board. No other notice of an election held under this article need be given, unless otherwise provided by the board. A supplemental notice may be given by publication at such times and places as the board may determine to be necessary or convenient for correcting or otherwise modifying the original notice of election or for any other purpose.

37-50-130. Polling places. (1) All polling places designated by resolution for an election shall be within the territorial limits of the district; except that, if an election of the district is held concurrently with a primary or general election, the polling place for each precinct located wholly or partially within the district shall be the polling place for such precinct for the district election, regardless of whether such polling place is within the district.

(2) If the election of the district is not held concurrently with a primary or general election held under the laws of this state, there shall be one polling place in each of the election precincts that are used in the primary and general elections or in each of the consolidated precincts fixed by the board, as the case may be.

37-50-131. Election supplies. (1) The secretary of the district shall provide at each polling place ballots or ballot labels, or both, ballot boxes or voting machines, or both, instructions, electors' affidavits, and other materials and supplies required for an election by any law; and the secretary may provide ballots and marking devices suitable for voting and for the votes on the ballots to be counted on electronic vote-tabulating devices.

(2) Election officials may require the execution of an affidavit by any person desiring to vote at any election of the district to evidence such person's qualifications to vote. The affidavit shall be prima facie evidence of the facts it states.

37-50-132. Election returns. (1) In the case of any election held under this article that is not held concurrently with a primary or general election, the election officials shall make their returns directly to the secretary of the district for the board.

(2) In the case of an election held under this article that is consolidated with any primary or general election, the returns shall be made and canvassed at the time and in the manner provided by law for the canvass of the returns of such primary or general election. The canvassing body shall certify promptly and shall transmit to the secretary of the district for the board a statement of the result of the vote upon any proposition submitted under this article.

(3) Upon receipt by the board of election returns from election officials or upon receipt of such certificate from each such canvassing body, the board shall tabulate and declare the results of the election at any regular or special meeting held not earlier than five days following the date of the election.

(4) The board shall cause the results of the election to be published at least one time in at least one newspaper having general circulation in the district.

37-50-133. Debt and tax levy election contests. (1) An election declared to have approved an authorization to levy any tax or issue any bonds, by approval of the tax levy or bond question, or otherwise to incur an indebtedness may be contested by any elector of the district by suit against it as contestee and defendant in any district court of any county in which the district is wholly or partially situate:

(a) When illegal votes have been received or legal votes rejected at the polls in sufficient numbers to change the results;

(b) For any error or mistake on the part of any of the judges of election, any county clerk and recorder, the secretary of the district, or their respective officers and employees in counting or declaring the result of the election, if the error or mistake is sufficient to change the result;

(c) For misconduct, fraud, or corruption on the part of any of the judges of election, any county clerk and recorder, the secretary of the district, or their respective officers and employees, if the misconduct, fraud, or corruption is sufficient to change the result;

(d) When the tax levy or bonds or other indebtedness is authorized to be issued for an invalid purpose; or

(e) For any other cause that shows that the tax levy or bonds or other indebtedness is not validly authorized at the election.

(2) The style and form of process, the manner of service of process and papers, the fees of officers, and judgment for costs and execution of the judgment shall be according to the rules and practices of the court.

(3) Before the court takes jurisdiction of the contest, the contestor shall file with the clerk of the court a bond, with sureties, to be approved by the judge, running to the district as contestee and conditioned to pay all costs in case of failure of the contestor to maintain the contest.

(4) When the validity of any tax levy or bond or other indebtedness election is contested, the plaintiff or plaintiffs, within thirty days after the returns of the election are canvassed and the results declared and published, or last published, as the case may be, shall file with the clerk of the court a verified written complaint setting forth specifically:

(a) The name of the party contesting the election and a statement that the plaintiff or each plaintiff is an elector of the district;

(b) The proposition or propositions voted on at the election that are contested, the name of the district as defendant and contestee, and the date of the election; and

(c) The particular grounds of the contest.

(5) No such contest shall be maintained and no election shall be set aside or held invalid unless such a complaint is filed within the period prescribed in subsection (4) of this section.

(6) Except as otherwise provided in this article, the election laws pertaining to contested election cases of municipal offices as provided in part 13 of article 10 of title 31, C.R.S., of the "Colorado Municipal Election Code of 1965", shall apply to tax levy or bond or other indebtedness elections; except that any such contest shall be regarded as one contesting the outcome of the vote on the proposition authorizing the tax levy or issuance of securities or otherwise incurring the indebtedness, rather than election to office, and the district as contestee, rather than a person declared to have been elected to office, shall be regarded as the defendant.

(7) If the board declares the proposition authorizing the tax levy or issuance of bonds or otherwise incurring the indebtedness to have carried and no contest is duly filed or if such a contest is filed after it is favorably terminated, the board may issue the bonds or otherwise incur the tax levy or indebtedness authorized at the election at one time or from time to time.

37-50-134. Covenants and other provisions in bonds. (1) A resolution providing for the issuance of bonds under this article, payable from pledged revenues and an indenture or other related instrument or proceedings, may at the discretion of the board contain covenants or other provisions, notwithstanding that such covenants and provisions may limit the exercise of powers conferred by this article, in order to secure the payment of such bonds, in agreement with the holders of such bonds, including, without limitation, covenants or other provisions as to any one or more of the following:

(a) The pledged revenues and, in the case of general obligations, the taxes to be fixed, charged, or levied and their collection, use, and disposition, including, without limitation, the foreclosure of liens for delinquencies; the discontinuance of services, facilities, or use of any properties or facilities; prohibition against free service; the collection of penalties and collection costs; and the use and disposition of any moneys of the district, derived or to be derived, from any source designated;

(b) The acquisition, improvement, or equipment of all or any part of properties pertaining to any project or any facilities;

(c) The creation and maintenance of reserves or sinking funds to secure the payment of the principal and interest on any bonds or of the operation and maintenance expenses of any facilities, or part thereof, and the source, custody, security, regulation, use, and disposition of any such reserves or funds, including, without limitation, the related powers and duties of any trustee;

(d) Limitations on the powers of the district to acquire or operate, or permit the acquisition or operation of, structures, facilities, or properties that may compete or tend to compete with any facilities;

(e) The vesting in a corporate or other trustee or trustees of such property, rights, powers, and duties in trust as the board may determine, which may include any or all of the rights, powers, and duties of the trustee appointed by the holders of bonds, and limiting or abrogating the rights of such holders to appoint a trustee, or limiting the rights, duties, and powers of such trustee;

(f) Events of default, rights, and liabilities arising from events of default and the rights, liabilities, powers, and duties arising upon the breach by the district of any covenants, conditions, or obligations;

(g) The terms and conditions upon which the holders of the bonds or of a specified portion, percentage, or amount of the bonds, or any trustee for the holders, shall be entitled to the appointment of a receiver, which receiver may enter, take possession of, operate, and maintain any facilities or service; prescribe fees, rates, and other charges; and collect, receive, and apply all resulting revenues in the same manner as the district itself might do;

(h) A procedure by which the terms of any resolution authorizing bonds or any other contract with any holders of district bonds, including, without limitation, an indenture of trust or similar instrument, may be amended or abrogated, and as to the proportion, percentage, or amount of bonds the holders of which must consent thereto, and the manner in which such consent may be given;

(i) The terms and conditions upon which any or all of the bonds shall become or may be declared due before maturity and as to the terms and conditions upon which such declaration and its consequences may be waived; and

(j) All such acts and things as may be necessary, convenient, or desirable in order to secure the bonds or, in the discretion of the board, tend to make the bonds more marketable, notwithstanding that such covenant, act, or thing may not be enumerated in this article, it being the intention of this article to give to the board power to do in the name and on behalf of the district all things in the issuance of district bonds and for their security, except as expressly limited in this article.

37-50-135. Liens on pledged revenues. (1) Revenues pledged for the payment of bonds, as received by or otherwise credited to the district under this article, shall immediately be subject to the lien of each such pledge without any physical delivery, filing, or further act.

(2) The lien of each such pledge and the obligation to perform the contractual provisions made in the authorizing resolution or other related instrument shall have priority over all other obligations or liabilities of the district, except as may be otherwise provided in this article or in the resolution or other instrument, and subject to any prior pledges and liens previously created.

(3) The lien of each such pledge shall be valid and binding as against all persons having claims of any kind in tort, in contract, or otherwise against the district, irrespective of whether such persons have notice of the lien.

37-50-136. Rights - powers of holders of bonds - trustees. (1) Subject to any contractual limitations binding upon the holders of any issue or series of bonds of the district issuing bonds under this article, or the holders' trustee, including, without limitation, the restriction of the exercise of any remedy to a specified proportion, percentage, or number of such holders, and subject to any prior or superior rights of others, a holder of bonds, or the holder's trustee, shall have the right and power, for the equal benefit and protection of all holders of bonds similarly situated:

(a) By mandamus or other suit, action, or proceeding at law or in equity, to enforce the holder's rights against the district, board, or any combination, or the officers, agents, and employees of the district to compel the district, board, or such officers, agents, or employees to perform their respective duties, obligations, or other commitments under this article and their respective covenants and agreements with the holder of a bond;

(b) By action or suit in equity, to require the district to account as if it were the trustee of an express trust;

(c) By action or suit in equity, to have a receiver appointed, which receiver may enter and take possession of facilities and pledged revenues for the payment of the bonds; prescribe sufficient fees, rates, and other charges derived from the facilities; and collect, receive, and apply all pledged revenues or other moneys pledged for the payment of the bonds in the same manner as the district itself might do in accordance with the obligations of the district; and

(d) By action or suit in equity, to enjoin any acts or things that may be unlawful or in violation of the rights of the holder of any bonds.

37-50-137. Investments and securities. (1) The board, subject to contractual limitations from time to time imposed upon the district by a resolution authorizing the issuance of the outstanding bonds of the district, a trust indenture, or other related proceedings, may invest and reinvest proceeds of taxes, pledged revenues, and proceeds of bonds issued under this article in securities meeting the investment requirements established in part 6 of article 75 of title 24, C.R.S., and may deposit such proceeds in any trust bank, secured in such manner and subject to such terms and conditions as the board may determine, with or without the payment of any interest on such deposit, including, without limitation, time deposits evidenced by certificates of deposit.

(2) Such securities and certificates of deposit thus held may, from time to time, be sold and the proceeds may be so reinvested or redeposited as provided in this section.

(3) Sales and redemptions of such securities and certificates of deposit thus held shall, from time to time, be made so that the proceeds may be applied to the purposes for which the money with which such securities and certificates of deposit were originally acquired.

(4) Gains from such investments or reinvestments may be credited to any fund or account pledged for the payment of district bonds issued under this article, including any applicable reserve, any other fund or account pertaining to a project or facility, or the district's general fund, subject to contractual limitations in a proceeding pertaining to outstanding district bonds.

(5) It is lawful for a commercial bank incorporated under the laws of this state that may act as depository of the proceeds of bonds issued under this article, securities owned by the district, proceeds of taxes, pledged revenues, and moneys otherwise pertaining to a project, facilities, or any combination, to furnish such indemnifying bonds and to pledge such securities as may be required by the board.

37-50-138. Rents and charges. (1) (a) The district and any political subdivision of the state of Colorado contracting with the district and fixing and collecting annual rentals, service charges, other charges, or any combination thereof are authorized to fix and collect rents, rates, fees, tolls, and other charges, in this article sometimes referred to as "service charges", for direct or indirect connection with, or the use or services of, a water system, joint system, or other facilities, including, without limitation, connection charges, minimum charges, and charges for the availability of service.

(b) Such service charges may be charged to and collected in advance or otherwise by a district from a political subdivision or person and by a political subdivision from a person contracting for such connection, use, or services or from the owner, occupant, or any combination, of real property that directly or indirectly is, has been, or will be connected with such facilities. The political subdivision, owner, or occupant of such real property shall be liable for and shall pay such service charges to the district or political subdivision fixing the service charges at the time and place such service charges are due and payable.

(c) Service charges of the district may accrue from a date on which the board reasonably estimates, in a resolution authorizing the issuance of securities, other related instruments, or in a contract with any political subdivision or person, that facilities or projects being acquired or improved and equipped will be available for service or use.

(2) (a) Such rents, rates, fees, tolls, and other charges, being in the nature of use or service charges, shall, as nearly as the district shall deem practicable and equitable, be reasonable, and such service charges shall be uniform throughout the district for the same type, class, and amount of use or service of the facilities and may be based or computed either on:

(I) Measurements of water or flow devices that are duly provided and maintained by the district or any user as approved by the district;

(II) The consumption of water in, on, or in connection with the political subdivision, person, or real property, making due allowance for commercial use of water, infiltration of groundwater, and discharge of surface runoff to the facilities;

(III) The number and kind of water fixtures or facilities on or in connection with the political subdivision, person, or real property;

(IV) The water facilities in, on, or in connection with the political subdivision, person, or real property;

(V) The number of persons residing or working in, on, or otherwise connected or identified with the political subdivision, person, or real property;

(VI) The capacity of the improvements in, on, or connected with the political subdivision, person, or real property;

(VII) The availability of service or readiness to serve by the facilities;

(VIII) Any other factors determining the type, class, and amount of use or service of the facilities; or

(IX) Any combination of any such factors.

(b) Reasonable penalties may be fixed for delinquencies, including, without limitation, interest on delinquent service charges from the due date at a rate not exceeding one percent per month or monthly fraction, reasonable attorney fees, and other costs of collection.

(3) The district shall prescribe and, from time to time when necessary, revise a schedule of such service charges, which shall comply with the terms of any contract of the district or political subdivision fixing the service charges.

(4) The general assembly has determined and declared that the obligations, arising from time to time, of the district, any political subdivision, or any person to pay service charges fixed in connection with any facilities shall constitute general obligations of the district, political subdivision, or person charged with their payment; except that, as such obligations accrue for current services and benefits from, and the use of, such facilities, the obligations shall not constitute an indebtedness of the district or any political subdivision within the meaning of constitutional, charter, or statutory limitation or other provision restricting the incurrence of debt.

(5) No board, agency, bureau, commission, or official, other than the board of directors of the district, has authority to fix, prescribe, levy, modify, supervise, or regulate the making of service charges or to prescribe, supervise, or regulate the performance of services pertaining to the district's facilities, as authorized by this article; except that this subsection (5) shall not be construed to be a limitation on the contracting powers of the board.

37-50-139. Miscellaneous powers. (1) The district shall also have the following powers:

(a) To pay or otherwise defray and to contract to pay or defray, for a term not exceeding seventy-five years, without an election, except as otherwise provided in this article, the principal of, prior redemption premiums due in connection with, interest on, and other charges pertaining to securities or other obligations of the federal government, the district, a political subdivision, or a person that were incurred in connection with related property subsequently acquired by the district and relating to the district's facilities;

(b) To establish, operate, and maintain facilities within the district or elsewhere, across or along any public street, highway, bridge, or viaduct or other public right-of-way or in, upon, under, or over any vacant public lands, which public lands now are, or may become, the property of a political subdivision of this state, without first obtaining a franchise from the political subdivision having jurisdiction over the lands; except that the district shall cooperate with any political subdivision having such jurisdiction; shall promptly restore any such public street, highway, bridge, viaduct, or other public right-of-way to its former state of usefulness as nearly as may be; and shall not permanently impair completely or materially the usefulness of the right-of-way;

(c) To adopt, amend, repeal, enforce, and otherwise administer such reasonable resolutions, rules, regulations, and orders as the district shall deem necessary or convenient for the conduct of its business, including, but not limited to, the operation, maintenance, management, government, and use of the facilities of the district and any other facilities under its control, whether situated within, without, or both within and without the territorial limits of the district.

37-50-140. Joint action entity. (1) The district and another cooperating entity or entities relating to a project or facilities in which the district is a party in interest may create a joint action entity, which shall be a separate body corporate, for the planning, construction, lease, other acquisition, improvement, equipment, operation, maintenance, disposal, and financing of any enterprise or properties relating to such project or facilities.

(2) A joint action entity may exercise the powers granted to the district by this article, other than the levy or fixing and collection of taxes, assessments, and service charges and the making and revising of rules and regulations under the police power.

37-50-141. Refunding. (1) Any revenue bonds issued under this article and at any time outstanding may, at any time and from time to time, be refunded by the district by the issuance of its refunding bonds in such amount as the board may deem necessary to refund the principal of the bonds to be refunded, unpaid interest, premiums, and necessary incidental expenses.

(2) Any such refunding may be effected, whether the bonds to be refunded have matured or shall mature later, either by sale of the refunding bonds and the application of the proceeds, directly or indirectly, to the payment of the bonds to be refunded or by exchange of the refunding bonds for the bonds to be refunded, but the holders of bonds to be so refunded shall not be compelled, without their consent, to surrender their bonds for payment or exchange before the date on which they are payable by maturity date, option to redeem, or otherwise or if they are called for redemption before the date on which they are, by their terms, subject to redemption by option or otherwise. Except to the extent expressly or by implication inconsistent with the terms of this article, article 54 of title 11, C.R.S., shall govern the issuance of such refunding bonds and the establishment of any related escrow.

(3) Refunding bonds issued under authority of this article shall be payable solely from revenues out of which bonds to be refunded are payable or from revenues out of which bonds of the same character may be made payable under this article or other law in effect at the time of the refunding.

ANNOTATION

This section provides for the creation of the Colorado water conservation board for the purpose of aiding in the protection and development of water for the benefit of the present and future inhabitants of the state. Williamson v. Union Oil Co., 125 F. Supp. 570 (D. Colo. 1954).

The board is an agency of the state. The Colorado water conservation board is declared to be an agency of the state whose functions authorized by statute are declared to be governmental functions. Williamson v. Union Oil Co., 125 F. Supp. 570 (D. Colo. 1954).

37-60-103. Organization. The board shall elect from the appointed members a chairman and a vice-chairman to serve at the pleasure of the board. The director of the board shall serve as secretary.

Source: L. 37: p. 1301, § 4. CSA: C. 173B, § 4. CRS 53: § 148-1-4. C.R.S. 1963: § 149-1-4. L. 67: p. 293, § 2.

37-60-104. Personnel. (1) The board shall consist of fifteen members. The executive director of the department of natural resources shall be a voting member ex officio. The attorney general, state engineer, director of the division of parks and wildlife, commissioner of agriculture or designee, and director of said board shall be nonvoting members ex officio. The nine remaining members shall be qualified electors of the state, well versed in water matters, and shall be appointed by the governor, by and with the consent of the senate, for terms of three years; except that no appointment shall be made that does not conform to the requirements of subsections (3) and (4) of this section. Members of the board may not vote by proxy. Pursuant to section 1 of article XII of the state constitution, unless removed according to law, members of the board shall exercise the duties of their office until a successor is duly appointed, qualified, and confirmed. Pursuant to section 6 (1) of article IV of the state constitution, no person appointed by the governor pursuant to this section to a vacancy occurring while the senate is in session may take office until confirmed by the senate. The appointments shall be made in such a manner that the terms of three members shall expire on February 12 of each year. In case any vacancy occurs in the appointed membership of the board, the governor shall appoint a successor to serve the unexpired term of any member of the board within thirty days after the creation of such vacancy.

(2) The appointed members of said board shall be chosen geographically as follows: Four from the western slope and five from the eastern slope; but, of the five members to be appointed from the eastern slope, one shall be from the Rio Grande drainage basin, one from the North Platte drainage basin, one from the Arkansas drainage basin, one from the South Platte drainage basin outside of the city and county of Denver, and one from the city and county of Denver and intimately familiar with its water problems; and that of the four members to be appointed from the western slope, one shall be from the Yampa-White drainage basin, one from the main Colorado drainage basin, one from the Gunnison-Uncompahgre drainage basin, and one from the San Miguel-Dolores-San Juan drainage basins. Before entering upon the discharge of his duties, each appointed member shall make, subscribe, and file with the secretary of state the oath prescribed by the constitution.

(3) To the extent possible, appointments to the board shall include persons representing the following areas of experience and expertise: Water resource management; water project financing; engineering, planning, and development of water projects; water law; and irrigated farming or ranching. Members of the board shall be residents of the geographic area they represent.

(4) No more than five appointees to the board shall be members of the same political party.

(5) The requirements set forth in subsections (3) and (4) of this section shall be implemented over a three-year period beginning February 12, 1993, so that upon making the appointments for the vacancies which occur on February 12, 1995, all requirements set forth in this section shall have been met.

Editor's note: Amendments to subsection (1) by House Bill 04-1035 and Senate Bill 04-013 were harmonized.

37-60-105. Employment of temporary personnel. The Colorado water conservation board is authorized to employ any persons and enter into any cooperative undertakings with agencies of government as it may deem advisable for carrying out the work outlined in section 37-60-115. The employment in this section referred to is of such persons as the Colorado water conservation board finds necessary to meet an emergency by employing temporary personnel to supplement the work of regular state employees, it being the purpose of this law to provide for the utmost speed in accomplishing its purposes. The Colorado water conservation board may grant such authority as it deems necessary or proper to the persons it designates to carry out the provisions of this section and section 37-60-116.

37-60-106. Duties of the board. (1) It is the duty of the board to promote the conservation of the waters of the state of Colorado in order to secure the greatest utilization of such waters and the utmost prevention of floods; and in particular, and without limiting the general character of this section, the board has the power and it is its duty:

(a) To foster and encourage irrigation districts, public irrigation districts, water users' associations, conservancy districts, drainage districts, mutual reservoir companies, mutual irrigation companies, grazing districts, and any other agencies which are formed under the laws of the state of Colorado, or of the United States, for the conservation, development, and utilization of the waters of Colorado;

(b) To assist any such agencies in their financing, but not to lend or pledge the credit or faith of the state of Colorado in aid thereof, or to attempt to make the state responsible for any of the debts, contracts, obligations, or liabilities thereof;

(c) To devise and formulate methods, means, and plans for bringing about the greater utilization of the waters of the state and the prevention of flood damages therefrom, and to designate and approve storm or floodwater runoff channels or basins, and to make such designations available to legislative bodies of cities and incorporated towns, to county planning commissions, and to boards of adjustment of cities, incorporated towns, and counties of this state;

(d) To gather data and information looking toward the greater utilization of the waters of the state and the prevention of floods and for this purpose to make investigations and surveys;

(e) To cooperate with the United States and the agencies thereof, and with other states for the purpose of bringing about the greater utilization of the waters of the state of Colorado and the prevention of flood damages;

(f) To cooperate with the United States, or any of the agencies thereof, in the making of preliminary surveys, and sharing the expense thereof, when necessary, respecting the engineering and economic feasibility of any proposed water conservation or flood control project within the state of Colorado, designed for the purpose of bringing about greater utilization of the waters of this state;

(g) To formulate and prepare drafts of legislation, state and federal, designed to assist in securing greater beneficial use and utilization of the waters of the state and protection from flood damages;

(h) To investigate and assist in formulating a response to the plans, purposes, procedures, requirements, laws, proposed laws, or other activities of the federal government and other states which affect or might affect the use or development of the water resources of this state;

(i) To confer with and appear before the officers, representatives, boards, bureaus, committees, commissions, or other agencies of other states, or of the federal government, for the purpose of protecting and asserting the authority, interests, and rights of the state of Colorado and its citizens with respect to the waters of the interstate streams in this state;

(j) To acquire by grant, purchase, bequest, devise, or lease, any real property or interest therein for the purpose of the prevention or control of floods, or to acquire by eminent domain any real property or interest therein with respect to any project specifically authorized by the United States congress for the prevention or control of floods, including but not limited to easements and rights-of-way for ingress into and egress from such project, with the power in either event to lease such lands or interest therein to agencies of the federal government or to the state or any agency or political subdivision thereof for the construction, operation, or maintenance of flood control and prevention facilities;

(k) In general, to take such action and have such powers as are incidental to the foregoing specific provisions and to the general purposes of this article;

(l) To enter into contracts as provided in sections 37-60-119 to 37-60-122 for the construction of conservation projects which, as authorized by the general assembly under procedures set forth in section 37-60-122, will conserve and utilize for the best advantage of the people of this state the water and power resources of the state, including projects beyond the boundaries of the state of Colorado located on interstate waters when the benefit of such project accrues to the citizens of the state of Colorado, upon application under such rules and regulations as the board shall establish;

(m) To file applications in the name of the department of natural resources for the appropriation of water;

(n) To take all action necessary to acquire or perfect water rights for projects sponsored by the board;

(o) To sell or otherwise dispose of property owned by the board, in the name of the state of Colorado, as a result of expenditures from the Colorado water conservation board construction fund in such manner as to be most advantageous to the state. Proceeds from such sale or disposal shall accrue to the Colorado water conservation board construction fund and shall not revert to the general fund at the close of any fiscal year.

(p) To make grants pursuant to the provisions of section 37-60-122.2 (2) for fish and wildlife resources;

(q) To make a mitigation recommendation pursuant to the provisions of section 37-60-122.2 (1) constituting the official position of the state of Colorado regarding mitigation to maintain a balance between the development of the state's water resources and the protection of the state's fish and wildlife resources;

(r) To foster the conservation of the water of the state of Colorado by the promotion and implementation of sound measures to enhance water use efficiency in order to serve all the water needs of the state, to assure the availability of adequate supplies for future uses, and to assure that necessary water services are provided at a reasonable cost;

(s) Repealed.

(t) To enter into one or more agreements with the Colorado water resources and power development authority and any other entities to assist in the development of the water resources of the state.

(2) The board may coordinate with the United States secretary of the interior and the United States secretary of agriculture to develop plans that conserve and develop water resources consistent with this article for federal lands pursuant to 16 U.S.C. sec. 530, 16 U.S.C. sec. 1604, and 43 U.S.C. sec. 1712.

ANNOTATION

The statutory duties of the Colorado water conservation board as set out in this section are to foster the development and utilization of waters of Colorado, to gather data looking toward the greater utilization of the waters of the state and the prevention of floods and for this purpose to make investigation and surveys, to cooperate with the United States and the agencies thereof for the purpose of bringing about the greater utilization of the waters of the state of Colorado and the prevention of flood damages, and in general to take such action and have such powers as may be incidental to the powers specifically granted. Williamson v. Union Oil Co., 125 F. Supp. 570 (D. Colo. 1954).

There is implied authority to publish reports. Having authority to make field investigation, not only as a basis for its own policies and action, but to foster and encourage the conservation, development and utilization of the waters of the state by public and private agencies, the authority of the Colorado water conservation board to publish the results of such investigation alone, or in cooperation with agencies of the federal government, would seem to follow by implication. Williamson v. Union Oil Co., 125 F. Supp. 570 (D. Colo. 1954).

37-60-107. Meetings - notice. The board may provide for the holding of regular meetings and may hold a special meeting at any time and place in the state upon the call of the chairman or vice-chairman or of any two voting members. Notice of all special meetings shall be given by telegram at least forty-eight hours, or by registered mail at least four days, before any special meeting. Six voting members shall constitute a quorum, and the affirmative or negative vote of at least six voting members is necessary to bind the board. Any business may be transacted at a special meeting which could be transacted at a regular meeting.

37-60-109. Commissioner. (1) The governor from time to time, with the approval of the board, shall appoint a commissioner, who shall represent the state of Colorado upon joint commissions to be composed of commissioners representing the state of Colorado and another state or other states for the purpose of negotiating and entering into compacts or agreements between said states, with the consent of the congress when necessary, ascertaining and declaring the authority, interest, or right of the several signatory states, or any of them, over, in, and to interstate waters, all to the end that such waters may be used and disposed of by the several states and their respective citizens in accordance with an equitable apportionment or division thereof made between the signatory states by the terms of the compact or agreement; except that any compact or agreement so entered into on behalf of said states shall not be binding or obligatory upon any of said states or the citizens thereof until the same has been ratified and approved by the legislatures of all of said signatory states and by the congress of the United States when necessary.

(2) The board shall furnish such commissioners with such legal, engineering, clerical, and other assistants as the board may deem advisable and necessary, all legal assistants to be employed with the consent of the attorney general. Such commissioners shall serve at the pleasure of the governor at a compensation to be fixed by him. The compensation of the legal, engineering, and other assistants of said commissioners shall be fixed by the board, and all such compensation and necessary traveling expenses of such commissioners and their assistants shall be paid out of the funds appropriated for carrying out the purposes of this article.

37-60-111. Compensation of members - director - employees. (1) Each appointed member of the board not otherwise in full-time employment of the state shall receive a per diem allowance of fifty dollars for each day actually and necessarily spent in the discharge of official duties, and all members shall receive traveling and other necessary expenses actually incurred in the performance of official duties. Per diem and other expenses paid under this section shall be from moneys appropriated from the Colorado water conservation board construction fund.

(2) The office of director of the water conservation board is hereby created. The board shall appoint a person who is well versed in water matters and qualified by experience, knowledge, and personality to represent the board and carry out its functions. The director shall be the chief administrative head of the board under the direction and supervision of the board and shall have general supervision and control of all its activities, functions, and employees. The appointment or removal of such director shall be subject to section 13 of article XII of the state constitution and statutes enacted pursuant thereto relating to the state personnel system. He shall be reimbursed for all actual and necessary traveling and other expenses incurred by him in the discharge of his official duties.

(3) Pursuant to section 13 of article XII of the state constitution, the board may employ such technical, clerical, and other personnel necessary to enable it to perform its duties and carry out the purposes of this article. Such personnel shall be reimbursed for all actual and necessary traveling and other expenses incurred by them in the discharge of their official duties.

37-60-115. Water studies - rules - repeal. (1) (a) The Colorado water conservation board is authorized to forthwith make, or cause to be made, a continuous study of the water resources of the state of Colorado, and a continuous study of the present and potential uses thereof to the full extent necessary to a unified and harmonious development of all waters for beneficial use in Colorado to the fullest extent possible under the law, including the law created by compacts affecting the use of said water. The studies to be made shall include analyses of the extent to which water may be transferred from one watershed to another within the state without injury to the potential economic development of the natural watershed from which water might be diverted for the development of another watershed.

(b) In order to assure that the state of Colorado protects its allocation of interstate waters for current and future beneficial purposes, to achieve optimum development of such waters under significant constraints imposed by federal law and policy, and to achieve efficient and effective management of river systems for recognized beneficial purposes, the board is authorized to expend such moneys as may be allocated, appropriated, or otherwise credited to the Colorado water conservation board construction fund for such projects and programs as may be specifically authorized by the general assembly, including but not limited to development of river basin models within and without the state, policy formulation, interstate negotiations, and water management within the state.

(2) (Deleted by amendment, L. 96, p. 1223, § 24, effective August 7, 1996.)

(3) The Colorado water conservation board is further authorized and directed, after consultation with the agriculture, livestock, and natural resources committee of the house of representatives and the agriculture, natural resources, and energy committee of the senate and consistent with its duties set forth in section 37-90-117 and the provisions of subsections (1) and (2) of this section, to study the state's groundwater resource, particularly that water that may prove to be nontributary, both within the Denver basin and throughout the state, including nontributary groundwater quality.

(4) (a) The Colorado water conservation board shall compile an inventory of potential dam and reservoir sites within the state of Colorado.

(b) The inventory shall be based upon a review of the state engineer's water rights tabulation and a review of all publicly available published information. Original engineering work or field investigations shall not be performed by the board for the inventory. The inventory shall be compiled and maintained on a computerized information retrieval system which is either a part of or otherwise compatible with the water data bank maintained by the state engineer.

(c) The following information concerning potential dam and reservoir sites within the state of Colorado having a capacity of twenty thousand acre-feet or more, or concerning such other sites as the board deems important, shall be included in the inventory:

(I) The location of a dam site, by river, county, and reference to surveyed section corners;

(II) The name of a dam and reservoir site if one is commonly ascribed to it;

(III) Basic data about a potential dam to the extent such is readily available;

(IV) The conditional water rights decreed to a site, if any, and their dates of adjudication and basin ranks;

(V) If available, an estimate of a reservoir's total active capacity;

(VI) The potential uses of the water supply which would be developed; and

(VII) Citations to reference materials and sources for the information specified in this paragraph (c).

(d) Utilizing the inventory, the board shall identify potential dam and reservoir sites, the development of which may be stopped because of ongoing land uses which are encroaching upon needed lands or because of other circumstances.

(e) The board is authorized to pay for the expenses of periodically updating and maintaining the inventory of potential dam and reservoir sites for which this section calls using moneys appropriated, allocated, or otherwise credited to the Colorado water conservation board construction fund.

(5) Repealed.

(6) Precipitation harvesting pilot projects. (a) The board shall, in consultation with the state engineer, select the sponsors of up to ten new residential or mixed-use developments that will conduct individual pilot projects to collect precipitation from rooftops and impermeable surfaces for nonpotable uses. The purpose of the pilot projects shall be to:

(I) Evaluate the technical ability to reasonably quantify the site-specific amount of precipitation that, under preexisting, natural vegetation conditions, accrues to the natural stream system via surface and groundwater return flows;

(II) Create a baseline set of data and sound, transferable methodologies for measuring local weather and precipitation patterns that account for variations in hydrology and precipitation event intensity, frequency, and duration, quantifying preexisting, natural vegetation consumption, measuring precipitation return flow amounts, identifying surface versus groundwater return flow splits, and identifying delayed groundwater return flow timing to receiving streams;

(III) Evaluate a variety of precipitation harvesting system designs;

(IV) Measure precipitation capture efficiencies;

(V) Quantify the amount of precipitation that must be augmented to prevent injury to decreed water rights;

(VI) Compile and analyze the data collected; and

(VII) Provide data to allow sponsors to adjudicate permanent augmentation plans as specified in paragraph (c) of this subsection (6).

(b) An applicant for a development permit, as that term is defined in section 29-20-103, C.R.S., for a new planned unit development or new subdivision of residential housing or mixed uses may submit an application to the board to become a sponsor of one or more of the ten pilot projects authorized by this section. The board shall establish criteria and guidelines for applications and the selection of pilot projects, including the following:

(I) An application fee and, for pilot projects that are selected, an annual review fee;

(II) The information to be included in the application, including a description of the proposed development and the proposed precipitation harvesting system;

(III) Selection of pilot projects to represent a range of project sizes and geographic and hydrologic areas in the state, with no more than three pilot projects being located within any single water division established in section 37-92-201;

(IV) The requirement that the proposed development meet any applicable local government water supply requirement through sources other than precipitation harvesting;

(V) Giving priority to pilot projects that:

(A) Are located in areas that face renewable water supply challenges; and

(B) Promote water conservation.

(c) Notwithstanding any limitations regarding phreatophytes or impermeable surfaces that would otherwise apply pursuant to section 37-92-103 (9) or 37-92-501 (4) (b) (III), each of the ten pilot projects shall:

(I) During the term of the pilot project, operate according to a substitute water supply plan, if approved annually by the state engineer pursuant to section 37-92-308 (4) or (5). Until the pilot project sponsor applies to the water court for a permanent augmentation plan, the pilot project shall be required to replace an amount of water equal to the amount of precipitation captured and measured from rooftops and impermeable surfaces for nonpotable uses.

(II) (A) Apply to the appropriate water court for a permanent augmentation plan prior to completion of the pilot project or file a plan with the state engineer to permanently retire the rainwater collection system, which plan shall be reviewed and approved prior to the cessation of augmentation. As a condition of approving the retirement of a pilot project, the state engineer shall have the authority to require the project sponsor to replace any ongoing delayed depletions caused by the pilot project after the project has ceased. Any such permanent augmentation plan shall entitle the sponsor to consume without replacement only that portion of the precipitation that the sponsor proves by a preponderance of the evidence would not have accrued to a natural stream under preexisting, natural vegetation conditions. The sponsor shall be required to fully augment any precipitation captured out of priority that would otherwise have accrued to a natural stream.

(B) After a minimum of two years of data collection and upon application to the appropriate water court for a permanent augmentation plan, the pilot project sponsor shall file an application for approval of a substitute water supply plan pursuant to section 37-92-308 (4). For any substitute supply plan application filed under section 37-92-308 (4), a pilot project sponsor may seek approval from the state engineer based on replacing only the net depletion caused by the capture of precipitation. The net depletion shall be calculated as the amount of precipitation captured minus the historical consumptive use from preexisting, natural vegetation cover on the impermeable area as demonstrated by analysis of the data collected by the sponsor during the pilot project.

(d) Each sponsor shall submit an annual preliminary report to the board and the state engineer summarizing the information set forth in paragraph (a) of this subsection (6). The board and the state engineer shall brief the water resources review committee created in section 37-98-102 on the reported results of the pilot projects by July 1, 2014. Each sponsor shall submit a final report to the board and the state engineer by January 15, 2019. The board and the state engineer shall provide a final briefing to the water resources review committee by July 1, 2019.

(e) This paragraph (e), paragraphs (a), (b), and (d), and subparagraph (I) of paragraph (c) of this subsection (6) are repealed, effective July 1, 2020.

(7) South Platte river alluvial aquifer study - study authorized. (a) The board shall, in consultation with the state engineer and the Colorado water institute, established in section 23-31-801, C.R.S., and also referred to in this section as the “institute”, conduct a comprehensive study to compile and evaluate available historical hydrologic data through water year 2011. The study’s objectives are:

(I) To evaluate whether current laws and rules that guide water administration in the South Platte river basin achieve the dual goals of protecting senior water rights and maximizing the beneficial use of both surface water and groundwater within the basin;

(II) To identify and delineate areas within the basin adversely impacted by high groundwater levels and to conduct a feasibility-level evaluation of the causes of high groundwater levels in the affected areas;

(III) To provide information to use as a basis for implementation of measures to mitigate adverse impacts in areas experiencing high groundwater levels; and

(IV) To provide information to the general assembly, the board, and the state engineer to facilitate the long-term sustainable use of South Platte water supplies.

(b) The board shall enter into a contract with the institute, using existing procurement mechanisms and agreements between the board and the institute, to conduct, oversee, and coordinate all aspects of the study. The board shall fund the study from existing research resources at levels agreed to between the board and the institute.

(c) The institute shall conduct the study independently using relevant, available, current, and historical hydrologic data and documents. The study must examine water use in water districts 1, 2, and 64 within water division 1. In conducting the study, the institute shall consider the impacts to all water rights and interstate obligations in water division 1 and shall investigate, compile, and evaluate hydrologic variables and factors, including:

(I) The number and location of alluvial wells that are currently withdrawing groundwater;

(II) The number and location of alluvial wells that are currently curtailed from pumping, either fully or partially;

(III) The number and location of existing artificial recharge facilities and the historical volume of water recharged;

(IV) Historical volumes of water pumped for each high-capacity irrigation, municipal, industrial, or other well not exempted under section 37-92-602;

(V) Historical amounts of water leaving the state in excess of the requirements of river compacts and of the “Platte River Cooperative Agreement” of 1997;

(VI) Historical water deliveries to surface water rights;

(VII) Groundwater level data available from existing observation wells and the historical fluctuations of groundwater levels based on the data;

(VIII) The South Platte decision support system’s existing phreatophyte groundwater evapotranspiration module and, using available data, the relationship between high groundwater levels and nonbeneficial consumptive use by phreatophytes from 2001 through 2011;

(IX) The number and size of augmentation plans in operation in the study area; and

(X) The impact of transbasin supplies, reuse of fully consumable supplies, conservation practices, and the installation of lined storage facilities in the alluvium.

(d) The institute shall evaluate and report its findings and conclusions to the board and the general assembly regarding specific issues including to what extent depletions caused by past pumping of wells have delayed impacts on surface streams and, if so, the most appropriate methods for quantifying the impacts.

(e) In addition, and without expending additional funds, the institute shall evaluate and report its findings and conclusions to the board and the general assembly regarding:

(I) To what extent augmentation plans are preventing injury to other water rights holders or potentially causing over-augmentation of well depletions;

(II) Whether additional usage of the alluvial aquifers could be permitted in a manner consistent with protecting senior surface water rights; and

(III) Whether, and to what extent, the use of water in the basin could be improved or maximized by affording the state engineer additional authority to administer water rights while ensuring protection of senior surface water rights.

(f) The board shall commission the study as soon as practicable. The institute shall prepare a final report, including its conclusions, and present it to the general assembly no later than December 31, 2013. The institute shall prepare a progress report and present it to a joint meeting of the house of representatives committee on agriculture, livestock, and natural resources and the senate committee on agriculture, natural resources, and energy, or their successor committees, during the first regular session of the sixty-ninth general assembly in 2013. The institute shall present the final report to a joint meeting of the house of representatives committee on agriculture, livestock, and natural resources and the senate committee on agriculture, natural resources, and energy, or their successor committees, during the second regular session of the sixty-ninth general assembly in 2014.

37-60-118. Assent to water resources planning act. (1) The state of Colorado, by and through the Colorado water conservation board, hereby assents to the provisions of the act of congress entitled "Water Resources Planning Act", approved July 22, 1965. The Colorado water conservation board is authorized, empowered, and directed to perform such acts as may be necessary to the conduct and establishment of a comprehensive water planning program as defined in title III of said act and in conformity with such rules and regulations as may be promulgated by the water resources council pursuant to said act.

(2) There is hereby created a fund designated as "federal aid water planning fund" to which shall be deposited all sums contributed to the state of Colorado by the federal government pursuant to title III of the water resources planning act. All moneys deposited under the provisions of this section are hereby specifically appropriated to the Colorado water conservation board for the purposes specified in said act of congress and no such moneys shall be expended for any other purpose.

37-60-119. Construction of water and power facilities - contracts with and charges against users. (1) (a) In order to promote the general welfare and safety of the citizens of this state and to protect the allocation of interstate waters to the state, the board may, subject to the provisions in section 37-60-122, construct, rehabilitate, enlarge, or improve, or loan moneys to enable the construction, rehabilitation, enlargement, or improvement of, such flood control, water supply, and hydroelectric energy facilities, excluding domestic water treatment and distribution systems, together with related recreational facilities, in whole or in part, as will, in the opinion of the board, abate floods or conserve, effect more efficient use of, develop, or protect the water and hydroelectric energy resources and supplies of the state of Colorado.

(b) In carrying out this subsection (1), the board shall place special emphasis upon the adoption and incorporation of measures that will encourage the conservation and more efficient use of water, including the installation of water meters or such other measuring and control devices as the board deems appropriate in each particular case.

(2) The board may, subject to the provisions in section 37-60-122, enter into contracts for the use of, or to loan moneys to enable the construction, rehabilitation, enlargement, or improvement of, said flood control, water, power, and any related recreational facilities, excluding domestic water treatment and distribution systems, with any agency or political subdivision of this state or the federal government, individuals, corporations, or organizations composed of citizens of this state. Any such contracts may provide for such charges to the using entity as, in the opinion of the board, are necessary and reasonable to recover the board's capital investment, together with operational, maintenance, and interest charges over the term of years agreed upon by contract. Interest charges shall be recommended by the board at between zero and seven percent on the basis of the project sponsor's ability to pay and the significance of the project to the development and protection of the water supplies of the state. Interest charges shall be credited to and made a part of the Colorado water conservation board construction fund. Any other charges, as determined appropriate by the board, shall be continuously appropriated to the Colorado water conservation board for supplemental operational expenditures.

37-60-120. Control of projects - contractual powers of board. (1) The state of Colorado shall have the ownership and control of such portions of said projects, or shall take a sufficient security interest in property or take such bonds, notes, or other securities evidencing an obligation, as will assure repayment of funds made available by section 37-60-119. Any security interest in property taken under this subsection (1) may be perfected and enforced in the same manner as security interests under article 9 of title 4, C.R.S. The board is empowered to enter into contracts that are, in its opinion, necessary for the maintenance and continued operation of such projects.

(2) If a sponsor fails to comply with the board's procedures and requirements, the board may, at its discretion, withhold or terminate all or a portion of the board's financial contribution to or loan for a project, notwithstanding the authorization of the same by the general assembly, or the board may require such assurances from the project sponsor as the board deems necessary in order to adequately protect the board's investment in a project.

(3) The board may adjust the authorized interest rate, extend the authorized repayment period for any project, or defer one or more annual payments if, in the board's opinion, the entity requesting such adjustment, extension, and deferment demonstrates that it has encountered significant and unexpected financial difficulties and that it has been duly diligent in its efforts to comply with the repayment provisions of its contract with the board.

37-60-120.1. Chatfield reservoir reallocation project - authority - repeal. (1) In order to promote the general welfare and safety of the citizens of this state and utilize reallocated storage space available in the federal flood control project known as Chatfield reservoir, the board has undertaken the Chatfield reservoir reallocation project, referred to in this section as the "project", in coordination and cooperation with a local coalition and with participants who have executed letters of commitment with the board. The implementation of the project will result in benefits to South Platte river water users and the downstream environment without adversely impacting other river basins. The implementation of the project will require the board to contract with the United States Army corps of engineers, referred to in this section as the "corps", to hold and allocate storage space in the reservoir and to undertake substantial activities related to the mitigation of environmental and recreation impacts caused by the increase in reservoir water levels.

(2) The board is hereby authorized to act as an agent of the project parties to implement this section. Through an agency fund the board may collect and disburse money from any entity to implement the project and to meet the obligations contained in an intergovernmental agreement, project partnership agreement, or other contract, referred to in this section as an "agreement", with the corps or other entity that is required to implement the project. Notwithstanding any other law, including section 24-30-1303, C.R.S., the board and the department of natural resources acting through its agencies shall have the authority to enter into any agreement with the corps or other entities, including consultants and contractors, that in the board's discretion is necessary to implement the project; however, sufficient funds shall have been made available to the board for such purposes. The authority granted by this subsection (2) includes: The ability to hold storage space in the reservoir; to contract with, and allocate storage to, local entities who will utilize the reservoir storage space; to undertake mitigation and long-term operation and maintenance of the project; to pay the costs of storage or other necessary expenses; and to otherwise implement the project. The board has the express authority, in equitable partnership with the participants, to undertake such action as is necessary, including the award of contracts to public and private entities, to undertake mitigation construction and long-term operation and maintenance and related activities; to lease, sublease, or assign storage space rights; and to otherwise effectuate the storage of water in the reservoir. In the event of a conflict between the application of state or federal law or rules, including chapter 3 of the state fiscal rules in existence as of May 29, 2008, federal laws and rules shall apply.

(3) This section is repealed, effective at the end of the project. Such repeal shall not affect the validity of any action taken pursuant to this section. The director of the board shall, in writing, promptly notify the state treasurer and the revisor of statutes when the project is completed.

Editor's note: Subsection (3) provides for the repeal of this section, effective at the end of the Chatfield reservoir reallocation project, and requires the director of the Colorado water conservation board to promptly notify, in writing, the revisor of statutes when the project is completed. As of publication date, no such notice had been received.

37-60-121. Colorado water conservation board construction fund - creation of - nature of fund - funds for investigations - contributions - use for augmenting the general fund - funds created - repeal. (1) (a) There is hereby created a fund to be known as the Colorado water conservation board construction fund, which shall consist of all moneys which may be appropriated thereto by the general assembly or which may be otherwise made available to it by the general assembly and such charges that may become a part thereof under the terms of section 37-60-119. All interest earned from the investment of moneys in the fund shall be credited to the fund and become a part thereof. Such fund shall be a continuing fund to be expended in the manner specified in section 37-60-122 and shall not revert to the general fund of the state at the end of any fiscal year.

(b) In the consideration of making expenditures from the fund, the board shall be guided by the following criteria:

(I) The first priority of the moneys available to the fund shall be devoted to projects which will increase the beneficial consumptive use of Colorado's undeveloped compact entitled waters;

(II) The balance of the moneys available to the fund shall be devoted to projects for the repair and rehabilitation of existing water storage and delivery systems, controlled maintenance of the satellite monitoring system authorized pursuant to section 37-80-102 (10), and for investment in water management activities and studies;

(III) The board's participation in the construction cost of a project shall be repaid and the board's costs or its participation in any feasibility studies shall be repaid to the board when construction on a project commences;

(IV) The board shall participate in only those projects that can repay the board's investment. Service charges and other terms of repayment shall be established by the board. Grants shall not be made, unless specifically authorized by the general assembly acting by bill; however, the board shall have the authority to deauthorize such grants and use any remaining funds for other statutorily authorized purposes if the grant project has been completed or is no longer feasible.

(V) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2002, p. 457, § 31, effective May 23, 2002.)

(VI) After July 1, 1981, domestic water treatment and distribution systems shall not be recommended by the board to the general assembly;

(VII) The board may recommend to loan funds on floodplain projects;

(VIII) For all feasibility studies, the board shall ensure that the scope of the study is confined as nearly as possible to a single integrated project; and

(IX) Any feasibility study of a proposed project shall include, to the extent deemed necessary by the board, an evaluation of:

(A) The water rights available to a proposed project and the yield thereof;

- (B) The engineering and economic feasibility of a proposed project; and
- (C) The anticipated economic, social, and environmental effects of a proposed project.
- (c) and (d) Repealed.

(2) The board, in addition to the amount allocated to a project to cover the actual cost of construction, may allocate to the project constructed by it, under contract or otherwise, such amounts as may be determined by it for investigating, engineering, inspection, and other expenses and may provide for the repayment of the same out of the first moneys repayable from the project under the contract for its construction, and such moneys so repaid shall be accounted for within the purpose of making investigations for the development of the water resources of the state.

(2.5) (a) The board is authorized to expend, pursuant to continuous appropriation and subject to the requirements of paragraph (b) of this subsection (2.5), a total sum not to exceed the balance of the litigation fund, which is hereby created, for the purpose of engaging in litigation:

(I) In support of water users whose water supply yield is or may be diminished or the cost of said yield is or may be materially increased as a result of conditions imposed or that may be imposed, including but not limited to by-pass flows, by any agency of the United States on permits for existing or reconstructed water facilities located on federally owned lands;

(II) To oppose an application of a federal agency for an instream flow right that is not in compliance with Colorado law for establishing instream flow rights;

(III) To defend and protect Colorado's allocations of water in interstate streams and rivers; and

(IV) To ensure the maximum beneficial use of water for present and future generations by addressing important questions of federal law.

(b) Pursuant to the spending authority set forth in paragraph (a) of this subsection (2.5), moneys may be expended from the litigation fund at the discretion of the board if:

(I) With respect to litigation, the Colorado attorney general requests that the board authorize the expenditure of moneys in a specified amount not to exceed the balance of the fund for the costs of litigation associated with one or more specifically identified lawsuits meeting the criteria set forth in paragraph (a) of this subsection (2.5).

(II) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2003, p. 1769, § 19, effective May 19, 2003.)

(c) Any interest earned on the moneys in the litigation fund shall be credited on an annual basis to the litigation fund created in paragraph (a) of this subsection (2.5).

(d) The board, in conjunction with the attorney general, shall report annually to the senate agriculture, natural resources, and energy committee and the house of representatives agriculture, livestock, and natural resources committee on any litigation that involves the use of any moneys from the litigation fund created in paragraph (a) of this subsection (2.5).

(e) Any moneys remaining in the litigation fund at such time as the general assembly acts to close the fund shall be credited to the Colorado water conservation board construction fund created in subsection (1) of this section.

(f) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2001, p. 690, 27, effective May 30, 2001.)

(3) (a) The board may receive and expend contributions of money, property, or equipment from any source for use in making investigations, contracting projects, or otherwise carrying out the purposes of sections 37-60-119 to 37-60-122.

(b) The board may accept, allocate, expend, and otherwise use contributions and donations of money, property, or equipment from any source to carry out the purposes of this article, article 20 of title 36, C.R.S., and section 37-92-102 (3). Such contributions are hereby continuously appropriated to the board for the purposes established by this section.

(4) (a) The personal services, operating, travel and subsistence, and capital expenses of administering and managing the feasibility studies, engineering and design work, and construction activities associated with projects which are funded using moneys appropriated, allocated, or otherwise credited to the Colorado water conservation board construction fund may be paid from such moneys.

(b) Repealed.

(c) The legal services expenses, including the expenses of legal counsel employed by the board with the consent of the attorney general pursuant to section 37-60-114, of negotiating and preparing contracts for the disbursement of moneys from the construction fund for the study, design, and construction of projects which are funded using moneys appropriated, allocated, or otherwise credited to the Colorado water conservation board construction fund may be paid from such moneys.

(d) (I) Notwithstanding any provision of this section to the contrary, the board may expend up to seventy-five thousand eight hundred fifty-seven dollars for the personal service expenses of the division of water resources in managing the national hydrography dataset and providing geographic information system analysis support for activities of the division of water resources.

(II) This paragraph (d) is repealed, effective June 30, 2013.

(5) Repealed.

(6) As of July 1, 1988, and July 1 of each year thereafter through July 1, 1996, fifty percent of the sum specified in this subsection (6) shall accrue to the fish and wildlife resources fund, which fund is hereby created, twenty-five percent of such sum shall accrue to the Colorado water conservation board construction fund, and twenty-five percent of such sum shall accrue to the Colorado water resources and power development authority. The state treasurer and the controller shall transfer such sum out of the general fund and into said fish and wildlife resources fund and to the authority as moneys become available in the general fund during the fiscal year beginning on said July 1. Transfers between funds pursuant to this subsection (6) and subsection (7) of this section shall not be deemed to be appropriations subject to the limitations of section 24-75-201.1, C.R.S. Subject to the provisions of subsection (7) of this section, the amount that shall accrue pursuant to this subsection (6) shall be as follows:

(a) On July 1, 1988, five million dollars;

(b) and (c) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2001, p. 690, § 27, effective May 30, 2001.)

(d) On July 1, 1994, thirty million dollars. In distributing said sum, the formula in the introductory portion to this subsection (6) shall not apply, and said sum shall accrue as follows:

(I) Ten million five hundred thousand dollars to the Colorado water conservation board construction fund;

(II) (A) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2001, p. 690, § 27, effective May 30, 2001.)

(B) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2003, p. 1769, § 19, effective May 19, 2003.)

(III) One million five hundred thousand dollars to the Colorado water resources and power development authority;

(IV) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2001, p. 1277, § 49, effective June 5, 2001.)

(V) Two million eight hundred thousand dollars to the Colorado water conservation board construction fund for a portion of the construction costs of the ridges basin dam of the Animas-La Plata project;

(VI) Four hundred forty-seven thousand forty dollars to the Colorado water conservation board construction fund for activities relating to the Arkansas river litigation.

(VII) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2001, p. 690, § 27, effective May 30, 2001.)

(6.1) Repealed.

(7) As of July 1, 1988, the state treasurer and the controller shall transfer the five million dollars specified in paragraph (a) of subsection (6) of this section to the water rights final settlement fund, which fund is hereby created. The moneys transferred to the water rights final settlement fund are hereby continuously appropriated to the board solely for the purpose of providing moneys for the tribal development funds for the Southern Ute Indian tribe and the Ute Mountain Ute Indian tribe as provided for in the Colorado Ute Indian water rights final settlement agreement of December 10, 1986. Interest earned from the investment of the moneys in such fund prior to its deposit in the tribal development funds shall be credited to the Colorado water conservation board construction fund and to the Colorado water resources and power development authority at the end of each fiscal year. Of such interest, fifty percent shall be credited to the Colorado water conservation board construction fund and fifty percent shall be transferred to the Colorado water resources and power development authority. The board shall deposit the moneys from the water rights final settlement fund in the tribal development funds, as provided for in the settlement agreement, no later than thirty days after the deposit of federal moneys in such funds as required by the settlement agreement; except that no such moneys shall be available for disbursement from the tribal development funds until such time as the final consent decree contemplated by the settlement agreement is entered; and, except that if such final consent decree is not entered by December 31, 1991, then the moneys so deposited shall be returned, together with the interest earned thereon, to the water rights final settlement fund. If the first installment of federal moneys is not deposited in the tribal development funds before June 1, 1990, or if the state's moneys have been returned from the tribal development funds to the water rights final settlement fund because the final consent decree is not entered by December 31, 1991, then the board shall transfer fifty percent of the moneys in the water rights final settlement fund to the Colorado water resources and power development authority and fifty percent of the moneys in the water rights final settlement fund to the Colorado water conservation board construction fund.

(8) Notwithstanding any provision in this section or section 37-60-122 to the contrary, the state treasurer shall deduct five hundred thousand dollars from the Colorado water conservation board construction fund and transfer such sum to the capital account of the species conservation trust fund created in section 24-33-111 (2), C.R.S.

(9) Notwithstanding any provision of this section or of section 37-60-122 to the contrary, on April 20, 2009, the state treasurer shall deduct ten million two hundred fifty thousand dollars from the Colorado water conservation board construction fund and transfer such sum to the general fund.

37-60-121.1. Reserved rights litigation fund. (1) The general assembly hereby recognizes that the claims of various agencies and organizations of the federal government to waters of the state of Colorado represent a claim to waters heretofore claimed by appropriators of the state of Colorado who have relied on the doctrine of prior appropriation to protect their property rights in and to those waters lawfully appropriated or acquired. The general assembly recognizes the need to take all actions necessary to protect such valuable property rights of its citizens, including the establishment of the fund as set forth in this section.

(2) (a) There is hereby established a reserved rights litigation fund in the office of the state treasurer to be utilized by the department of law for resolution of reserved rights claims. Moneys credited to said fund shall be expended by the attorney general only upon authorization by the general assembly and consistent with the provisions of this section. The controller, upon presentation of vouchers properly drawn and signed by the attorney general or an authorized employee of the department of law, shall issue warrants drawn on said fund. All moneys so deposited in the reserved rights litigation fund shall remain in said fund to be used for the purposes set forth in this section and shall not revert to the Colorado water conservation board construction fund, the general fund, or any other fund at the end of the year, except as directed by the general assembly. All interest earned from the investment of moneys in the reserved rights litigation fund shall be credited to and become a part of the Colorado water conservation board construction fund created by section 37-60-121.

37-60-122. General assembly approval. (1) Moneys in the Colorado water conservation board construction fund shall be expended in the following manner and under the following circumstances:

(a) Repealed.

(b) The general assembly may authorize such projects as it deems to be to the advantage of the people of the state of Colorado and shall direct the board to proceed with said projects in the priorities established by the general assembly under terms approved by the general assembly. The board is authorized to make loans without general assembly approval in amounts not to exceed ten million dollars. The unappropriated balance of moneys in the Colorado water conservation board construction fund and the state severance tax trust fund perpetual base account shall be available and continuously appropriated for this purpose. The board shall submit a written determination of the basis for such project loans to the general assembly by January 15 of the year following the year in which the loan was made.

(c) In order to determine the economic and engineering feasibility of any project proposed to be constructed from funds provided in whole or in part from the Colorado water conservation board construction fund, the board shall cause a feasibility report to be prepared on such proposed project if, in the discretion of the board, it appears to qualify for consideration under section 37-60-119. The board may also cause a feasibility report to be prepared on any other water project proposed in this state whether funded by the Colorado water conservation board construction fund or by any other source or entity or federal or state agency, and the board shall cooperate with any such entity or federal or state agency in the planning of such project. The board shall also cause any feasibility study to be made at the direction of the general assembly. For all such feasibility investigations, the board is authorized to loan, grant, or otherwise expend on a continuing basis the moneys appropriated to the construction fund authorized by section 37-60-121, in accordance with policies adopted by the board.

(2) When a feasibility report prepared pursuant to paragraph (c) of subsection (1) of this section is funded in part by an entity or agency other than the board, then the board may, at its discretion and subject to such procedures as it deems appropriate, have such entity or agency select an engineer to provide the professional services needed to prepare such report, notwithstanding the provisions of part 14 of article 30 of title 24, C.R.S.

(3) When design and construction of a project authorized pursuant to paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of this section is funded in part by an entity or agency other than the board, then the board may, at its discretion and subject to such procedures as it deems appropriate, have such entity or agency select an engineer to provide the professional services needed for the construction management of the project, notwithstanding the provisions of part 14 of article 30 of title 24, C.R.S.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Principles and Law of Colorado's Nontributary Ground Water", see 62 Den. U. L. Rev. 809 (1985).

37-60-122.2. Fish and wildlife resources - legislative declaration - fund - authorization. (1) (a) The general assembly hereby recognizes the responsibility of the state for fish and wildlife resources found in and around state waters which are affected by the construction, operation, or maintenance of water diversion, delivery, or storage facilities. The general assembly hereby declares that such fish and wildlife resources are a matter of statewide concern and that impacts on such resources should be mitigated by the project applicants in a reasonable manner. It is the intent of the general assembly that fish and wildlife resources that are affected by the construction, operation, or maintenance of water diversion, delivery, or storage facilities should be mitigated to the extent, and in a manner, that is economically reasonable and maintains a balance between the development of the state's water resources and the protection of the state's fish and wildlife resources.

(b) Except as provided in this paragraph (b), the applicant for any water diversion, delivery, or storage facility which requires an application for a permit, license, or other approval from the United States shall inform the Colorado water conservation board, parks and wildlife commission, and division of parks and wildlife of its application and submit a mitigation proposal pursuant to this section. Exempted from such requirement are the Animas-La Plata project, the Two Forks dam and reservoir project, and the Homestake water project for which definite plan reports and final environmental impact statements have been approved or which are awaiting approval of the same, applicants for site specific dredge and fill permits for operations not requiring construction of a reservoir, and applicants for section 404 federal nationwide permits. If an applicant that is subject to the provisions of this section and the commission agree upon a mitigation plan for the facility, the commission shall forward such agreement to the Colorado water conservation board, and the board shall adopt such agreement at its next meeting as the official state position on the mitigation actions required of the applicant. In all cases the commission shall proceed expeditiously and, no later than sixty days from the applicant's notice, unless extended in writing by the applicant, make its evaluation regarding the probable impact of the proposed facility on fish and wildlife resources and their habitat and to make its recommendation regarding such reasonable mitigation actions as may be needed.

(c) The commission's evaluation and proposed mitigation recommendation shall be transmitted to the Colorado water conservation board. The board within sixty days, unless extended in writing by the applicant, shall either affirm the mitigation recommendation of the commission as the official state position or shall make modifications or additions thereto supported by a memorandum that sets out the basis for any changes made. Whenever modifications or additions are made by the board in the commission's mitigation recommendation, the governor, within sixty days, shall affirm or modify the mitigation recommendation which shall then be the official state position with respect to mitigation. The official state position, established pursuant to this subsection (1) shall be communicated to each federal, state, or other governmental agency from which the applicant must obtain a permit, license, or other approval.

(2) (a) Moneys transferred to the fish and wildlife resources fund pursuant to the provisions of section 37-60-121 (6) are hereby continuously appropriated to the Colorado water conservation board for the purpose of making grants pursuant to this subsection (2) and for offsetting the direct and indirect costs of the board for administering the grants. The interest earned from the investment of the moneys in the fund shall be credited to the fund.

(b) To the extent that the cost of implementing the mitigation recommendation made pursuant to subsection (1) of this section exceeds five percent of the costs of a water diversion, delivery, or storage facility, the board shall, upon the application of the applicant, make a mitigation grant to the applicant. The amount of the grant shall be sufficient to pay for the mitigation recommendation as determined by this section to the extent required above the applicant's five percent share. Any additional enhancement shall be at the discretion and within the means of the board. Under no circumstance shall the total amount of the grant exceed five percent of the construction costs of the project, or be disbursed in installments that exceed seventy percent of the amount of the grant during any fiscal year. Any mitigation cost in excess of ten percent of the construction costs of a project shall be borne by the applicant.

(c) An applicant may apply for an enhancement grant by submitting to the commission and the board an enhancement proposal for enhancing fish and wildlife resources over and above the levels existing without such facilities. The commission shall submit its recommendations on the proposal to the board for its consideration. The board, with the concurrence of the commission, may award a grant for fish and wildlife enhancement. Any such enhancement grant will be shared equally by the Colorado water conservation board's fish and wildlife resources fund and the division of parks and wildlife's wildlife cash funds and other funds available to the division.

(d) For the purpose of this subsection (2), construction costs means the best estimate of the physical construction costs as fixed by the Colorado water conservation board as of the date of the grant application. Costs should be limited to design, engineering and physical construction and will not include the costs of planning, financing, and environmental documentation, mitigation costs, legal expenses, site acquisition or water rights.

(e) Species recovery grants from the fish and wildlife resources fund may be made for the purpose of responding to needs of declining native species and to those species protected under the federal "Endangered Species Act of 1973", 16 U.S.C. sec. 1531, et seq., as amended, in a manner that will carry out the state water policy.

(f) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2001, p. 692, § 28, effective May 30, 2001.)

(3) Decisions relating to the official state mitigation position made pursuant to paragraph (c) of subsection (1) of this section shall not be subject to judicial review.

(4) The board shall distribute mitigation and enhancement grants reasonably and equitably among water basins toward the end that those projects sponsored by beneficiaries east of the continental divide receive fifty percent of the money granted and those projects sponsored by beneficiaries west of the continental divide receive fifty percent of the money granted under this section.

(5) The general assembly hereby recognizes the role instream flows and river restoration projects play in mitigating the effects of the construction, operation, and maintenance of water diversion, delivery, and storage facilities. Therefore, the Colorado water conservation board and the operators of existing water diversion, delivery, or storage facilities projects are hereby authorized to apply directly to the board for moneys for projects to carry out the purposes of this section. The board is authorized to grant such moneys if it finds that such projects will further the purposes of this section.

37-60-122.3. Wild and scenic rivers fund - created. There is hereby created in the state treasury the wild and scenic rivers fund, referred to in this section as the “fund”. The state treasurer shall transfer four hundred thousand dollars from previously unappropriated Colorado water conservation board construction fund moneys to the fund. The moneys in the fund are hereby continuously appropriated to the board to work with stakeholders within the state of Colorado to develop protection of river-dependent resources as an alternative to wild and scenic river designation under the federal “Wild and Scenic Rivers Act”, 16 U.S.C. sec. 1271 et seq. In addition to any remaining balance in the fund at the end of any fiscal year, the board is hereby authorized to annually provide, from the Colorado water conservation board construction fund, up to four hundred thousand dollars in order to restore the unencumbered balance in the fund up to four hundred thousand dollars. All interest derived from the investment of moneys in the fund shall be credited to the Colorado water conservation board construction fund. The board shall review the purpose of the fund annually and is hereby authorized to cease providing moneys in the following year if, in its discretion, the board determines that the purposes for which the fund was established have ceased. The board may set terms and conditions as it deems appropriate concerning the annual expenditures of moneys from the fund.

The state treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to transfer moneys from the Colorado water conservation board construction fund to the emergency dam repair cash fund in such amounts and at such times as determined by the Colorado water conservation board. Such transfers shall not exceed fifty thousand dollars. The moneys in the emergency dam repair cash fund are hereby continuously appropriated to the Colorado water conservation board for the emergency repair of dams pursuant to section 37-87-108.5. All moneys collected by the state engineer pursuant to section 37-87-108.5 shall be transmitted to the state treasurer who shall credit such moneys to the Colorado water conservation board construction fund. All interest derived from the investment of moneys in the emergency dam repair cash fund shall be credited to the Colorado water conservation board construction fund. Any balance remaining in the emergency dam repair cash fund at the end of any fiscal year shall remain in the fund.

37-60-122.7. Feasibility study small grant fund - creation.

(1) to (4) Repealed.

(5) (a) There is hereby created in the state treasury the feasibility study small grant fund for the purpose of making small grants to help pay the costs of preparing water project feasibility studies. The Colorado water conservation board shall approve small feasibility study grants based solely on criteria adopted by the board.

(b) The state treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to transfer two hundred thousand dollars from the Colorado water conservation board construction fund to the feasibility study small grant fund. The moneys in the feasibility study small grant fund are hereby continuously appropriated to the board for grants in compliance with this subsection (5). All interest derived from the investment of moneys in the feasibility study small grant fund shall be credited to the Colorado water conservation board construction fund. Any balance remaining in the feasibility study small grant fund at the end of any fiscal year shall remain in the fund and shall not revert to the Colorado water conservation board construction fund.

37-60-122.8. Publications fund. (1) There is hereby created in the state treasury the publications fund. The fund shall consist of moneys paid to the board from persons outside the board for copies of public records or publications provided by the board. The moneys in the fund may be expended by the board to pay for the cost of providing copies of public records or publications to persons outside the board. The moneys in the fund are hereby continuously appropriated to the board for the purposes established in this section.

(2) The publications fund shall have no more than ten thousand dollars in it and any amount in excess shall be credited to the Colorado water conservation board construction fund. All interest derived from the investment of moneys in the publications fund shall be credited to the publications fund.

(3) The state treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to transfer five thousand dollars from the Colorado water conservation board construction fund to the publications fund.

37-60-122.9. Colorado river recovery program loan fund - creation. (1) There is hereby created in the state treasury the Colorado river recovery program loan fund for the purpose of making loans to the Colorado river and San Juan river recovery programs for the construction or improvement of certain water related projects in Colorado, under agreements with power users of the federal Colorado river storage project, required to recover the four endangered fish species of the upper Colorado river, including the San Juan river.

(2) The Colorado water conservation board shall recommend loans from the Colorado river recovery program loan fund to the general assembly pursuant to section 37-60-122 (1) (b). The loans shall be subject to an interest rate and repayment provisions to be determined by the Colorado water conservation board.

(3) The state treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to transfer to the Colorado river recovery program loan fund, created in subsection (1) of this section, out of any moneys in the Colorado water conservation board construction fund not otherwise appropriated, the sum of two million dollars. Interest earned on the funds in the Colorado river recovery program loan fund shall be credited to the Colorado water conservation board construction fund, created in section 37-60-121 (1).

37-60-123.1. Loan foreclosure fund - created. There is hereby created in the state treasury the loan foreclosure fund, referred to in this section as the "foreclosure fund". The state treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to transfer one hundred thousand dollars from the Colorado water conservation board construction fund to the foreclosure fund. The Colorado water conservation board is authorized to provide funding to cover the direct costs associated with completing foreclosure proceedings against a delinquent borrower from either the Colorado water conservation board construction fund or the severance tax trust fund perpetual base account. The moneys in the foreclosure fund are hereby continuously appropriated to the board for loan foreclosure proceedings, including, but not limited to, property management costs, appraisals, assessments, taxes, local government fees, insurance costs, court costs, and legal fees. All interest derived from the investment of moneys in the foreclosure fund shall be credited to the Colorado water conservation board construction fund. Any balance remaining in the foreclosure fund at the end of any fiscal year shall remain in the fund.

37-60-123.2. Flood and drought response fund - created. There is hereby created in the state treasury the flood and drought response fund, referred to in this section as the "response fund". The state treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to transfer three hundred thousand dollars from the Colorado water conservation board construction fund to the response fund. The board is authorized to provide funding for flood and drought preparedness and for response and recovery activities following flood or drought events and disasters. The moneys in the response fund are hereby continuously appropriated to the board for flood and drought response purposes, including the immediate availability of funds for aerial photography of flooded areas, flood and drought documentation and identification of specific hazards, evaluations and revisions of floodplain designations and drought-prone areas, flood and drought forecasting and preparation, and development of disaster and recovery mitigation plans. The state treasurer shall credit all interest derived from the investment of moneys in the response fund to the Colorado water conservation board construction fund. Any balance remaining in the response fund at the end of any fiscal year remains in the fund.

37-60-123.5. Agricultural emergency drought response. (1) If, pursuant to federal or state law, any portion of Colorado has received emergency drought designation or a disaster emergency has been proclaimed due to drought, notwithstanding the provisions of section 39-29-109 (1), C.R.S., in addition to any other moneys appropriated from the perpetual base account of the severance tax trust fund, created by section 39-29-109 (2) (a), C.R.S., up to one million dollars in the perpetual base account of the severance tax trust fund are continuously appropriated annually to the director of the Colorado water conservation board and the state engineer for any such designation or proclamation to make loans and grants to agricultural organizations for emergency drought-related water augmentation purposes.

(2) The director of the Colorado water conservation board and the state engineer shall consult with the commissioner of agriculture and the executive director of the department of natural resources before making any loans or grants pursuant to this section. Within three months after the end of any fiscal year during which the spending authority created pursuant to this section is exercised, the director and the state engineer shall report to the general assembly regarding how such spending authority was exercised.

37-60-123.7. Acquisitions of water for instream flows. (1) In addition to any other moneys appropriated from the Colorado water conservation board construction fund, up to one million dollars in the fund are continuously appropriated to the board annually to pay for the costs of acquiring water, water rights, and interests in water for instream flow use. The total amount of such continuous appropriation that is unencumbered in any fiscal year shall not exceed one million dollars. The primary priority for expenditures of these revenues shall be the costs of water acquisitions for existing or new instream flow water rights to preserve the natural environment to a reasonable degree. These revenues also may be used in limited circumstances for the costs of water acquisitions to preserve the natural environment of species that have been listed as threatened or endangered under state or federal law, or are candidate species or are likely to become candidate species, support wild and scenic alternative management plans, or provide federal regulatory certainty.

(1.5) In any year that the board expends all of the moneys available for the costs of acquiring water, water rights, and interests in water for instream flow use from the moneys that have been appropriated for the current fiscal year from the Colorado water conservation board construction fund pursuant to this section, the board shall apply to the parks and wildlife commission for all or any portion of the five hundred thousand dollars from habitat stamp moneys made available pursuant to section 33-4-102.7 (4) (a) (II), C.R.S. Any habitat stamp moneys received shall be used to acquire water, water rights, or interests in water pursuant to section 37-92-102 (3), subject to the limitations set forth in this section.

(2) Prior to any expenditure of funds under this section, the board shall adopt criteria and guidelines regarding its implementation of this spending authority. The board shall approve any expenditure of funds pursuant to this section. Within three months after the end of any fiscal year during which the spending authority created pursuant to this section is exercised, the board shall report to the general assembly regarding how such spending authority was exercised.

37-60-124. Office of water conservation and drought planning - creation - powers and duties. (1) There is hereby created as an office under the Colorado water conservation board the office of water conservation and drought planning. The office shall have such staff as are necessary and appropriate to carry out the duties established for the office.

(2) The office of water conservation and drought planning shall promote water conservation and drought mitigation planning by performing, to the degree feasible, duties including, but not limited to, the following:

(a) Participating as a member or chairperson of any state water availability task forces established to monitor, forecast, mitigate, or prepare for drought;

(b) Acting as a repository for water conservation and drought mitigation planning information;

(c) Disseminating water conservation, drought mitigation planning, and related information to water providers and the general public;

(d) Providing technical assistance to and working with municipal, industrial, agricultural, and other water providers and state agencies as they plan for, evaluate, and implement water conservation plans and programs, drought mitigation plans, or both;

(e) Coordination of the planning for and assistance in the implementation of water conservation plans by state agencies pursuant to section 37-96-103 (4);

(f) Administration of financial assistance for water conservation and drought mitigation planning and implementation measures and programs; and

(g) Evaluating water conservation and drought mitigation plans related to the use of such plans by water providers to address water needs and to prepare for water-related emergencies based upon policies and guidelines adopted by the board pursuant to section 37-60-126.

(3) The personal services, operating, travel and subsistence, capital, and legal services expenses of administering the office of water conservation and drought planning and the programs and activities authorized by subsection (2) of this section may be paid from such moneys as are appropriated, allocated, or otherwise credited to the Colorado water conservation board construction fund.

37-60-124.4. Stream gauge fund - created. There is hereby created in the state treasury the stream gauge fund, referred to in this section as the “gauge fund”. The state treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to transfer two hundred fifty thousand dollars from the Colorado water conservation board construction fund to the gauge fund. The moneys in the gauge fund are hereby continuously appropriated to the board for stream gaging and data collection efforts related to instream flow monitoring, compact protection, decision support systems, and flood forecasting and analysis. In addition to any remaining balance in the gauge fund at the end of any fiscal year, the board is hereby authorized, from the water conservation board construction fund, to annually provide up to two hundred fifty thousand dollars in order to restore the unencumbered balance in the gauge fund to two hundred fifty thousand dollars. All interest derived from the investment of moneys in the gauge fund shall be credited to the Colorado water conservation board construction fund. The board shall review the purposes of the gauge fund annually and is hereby authorized to cease providing moneys in the following year if, in its discretion, the board determines that the purposes for which the gauge fund was established have ceased. The board may set terms and conditions as it deems appropriate concerning the annual expenditures of moneys from the gauge fund.

37-60-125. Authorizations for expenditures from Colorado water conservation board construction fund for demonstration of benefits of water efficiency. (1) The Colorado water conservation board is hereby authorized to expend five hundred thousand dollars from the Colorado water conservation board construction fund, notwithstanding the requirements of sections 37-60-119 to 37-60-122, for the purpose of a pilot program demonstrating the benefits of water efficiency measures by providing incentive grants, not to exceed fifty thousand dollars to any public agency, established under Colorado law, that requests assistance in the design and implementation of pilot water efficiency and conservation measures.

(2) The board is further authorized to expend eighty thousand dollars and 1.5 FTE for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1991, for personal services, operating, travel and subsistence, capital, and legal services expenses of administering the pilot program authorized in subsection (1) of this section from the Colorado water conservation board construction fund.

(3) The board shall develop guidelines for the range of potentially eligible projects for the pilot program authorized in subsection (1) of this section by October 1, 1991, and shall establish such criteria and feasibility measures as will assure that a range of potentially beneficial projects are demonstrated as part of the pilot program.

37-60-126. Water conservation and drought mitigation planning - programs - relationship to state assistance for water facilities - guidelines - water efficiency grant program - repeal. (1) As used in this section and section 37-60-126.5, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Agency" means a public or private entity whose primary purpose includes the promotion of water resource conservation.

(b) "Covered entity" means each municipality, agency, utility, including any privately owned utility, or other publicly owned entity with a legal obligation to supply, distribute, or otherwise provide water at retail to domestic, commercial, industrial, or public facility customers, and that has a total demand for such customers of two thousand acre-feet or more.

(c) "Grant program" means the water efficiency grant program established pursuant to subsection (12) of this section.

(d) "Office" means the office of water conservation and drought planning created in section 37-60-124.

(e) "Plan elements" means those components of water conservation plans that address water-saving measures and programs, implementation review, water-saving goals, and the actions a covered entity shall take to develop, implement, monitor, review, and revise its water conservation plan.

(f) "Public facility" means any facility operated by an instrument of government for the benefit of the public, including, but not limited to, a government building; park or other recreational facility; school, college, university, or other educational institution; highway; hospital; or stadium.

(g) “Water conservation” means water use efficiency, wise water use, water transmission and distribution system efficiency, and supply substitution. The objective of water conservation is a long-term increase in the productive use of water supply in order to satisfy water supply needs without compromising desired water services.

(h) “Water conservation plan”, “water use efficiency plan”, or “plan” means a plan adopted in accordance with this section.

(i) “Water-saving measures and programs” includes a device, a practice, hardware, or equipment that reduces water demands and a program that uses a combination of measures and incentives that allow for an increase in the productive use of a local water supply.

(2) (a) Each covered entity shall, subject to section 37-60-127, develop, adopt, make publicly available, and implement a plan pursuant to which such covered entity shall encourage its domestic, commercial, industrial, and public facility customers to use water more efficiently. Any state or local governmental entity that is not a covered entity may develop, adopt, make publicly available, and implement such a plan.

(b) The office shall review previously submitted conservation plans to evaluate their consistency with the provisions of this section and the guidelines established pursuant to paragraph (a) of subsection (7) of this section.

(c) On and after July 1, 2006, a covered entity that seeks financial assistance from either the board or the Colorado water resources and power development authority shall submit to the board a new or revised plan to meet water conservation goals adopted by the covered entity, in accordance with this section, for the board’s approval prior to the release of new loan proceeds.

(3) The manner in which the covered entity develops, adopts, makes publicly available, and implements a plan established pursuant to subsection (2) of this section shall be determined by the covered entity in accordance with this section. The plan shall be accompanied by a schedule for its implementation. The plans and schedules shall be provided to the office within ninety days after their adoption. For those entities seeking financial assistance, the office shall then notify the covered entity and the appropriate financing authority that the plan has been reviewed and whether the plan has been approved in accordance with this section.

(4) A plan developed by a covered entity pursuant to subsection (2) of this section shall, at a minimum, include a full evaluation of the following plan elements:

(a) The water-saving measures and programs to be used by the covered entity for water conservation. In developing these measures and programs, each covered entity shall, at a minimum, consider the following:

(I) Water-efficient fixtures and appliances, including toilets, urinals, clothes washers, showerheads, and faucet aerators;

(II) Low water use landscapes, drought-resistant vegetation, removal of phreatophytes, and efficient irrigation;

(III) Water-efficient industrial and commercial water-using processes;

(IV) Water reuse systems;

(V) Distribution system leak identification and repair;

(VI) Dissemination of information regarding water use efficiency measures, including by public education, customer water use audits, and water-saving demonstrations;

(VII) (A) Water rate structures and billing systems designed to encourage water use efficiency in a fiscally responsible manner.

(B) The department of local affairs may provide technical assistance to covered entities that are local governments to implement water billing systems that show customer water usage and that implement tiered billing systems.

(VIII) Regulatory measures designed to encourage water conservation;

(IX) Incentives to implement water conservation techniques, including rebates to customers to encourage the installation of water conservation measures;

(b) A section stating the covered entity’s best judgment of the role of water conservation plans in the covered entity’s water supply planning;

(c) The steps the covered entity used to develop, and will use to implement, monitor, review, and revise, its water conservation plan;

(d) The time period, not to exceed seven years, after which the covered entity will review and update its adopted plan; and

(e) Either as a percentage or in acre-foot increments; an estimate of the amount of water that has been saved through a previously implemented conservation plan and an estimate of the amount of water that will be saved through conservation when the plan is implemented.

(4.5) (a) On an annual basis starting no later than June 30, 2014, covered entities shall report water use and conservation data, to be used for statewide water supply planning, following board guidelines pursuant to paragraph (b) of this subsection (4.5), to the board by the end of the second quarter of each year for the previous calendar year.

(b) No later than February 1, 2012, the board shall adopt guidelines regarding the reporting of water use and conservation data by covered entities and shall provide a report to the senate agriculture and natural resources committee and the house of representatives agriculture, livestock, and natural resources committee, or their successor committees, regarding the guidelines. These guidelines shall:

(I) Be adopted pursuant to the board's public participation process and shall include outreach to stakeholders from water providers with geographic and demographic diversity, nongovernmental organizations, and water conservation professionals; and

(II) Include clear descriptions of: Categories of customers, uses, and measurements; how guidelines will be implemented; and how data will be reported to the board.

(c) (I) No later than February 1, 2019, the board shall report to the senate agriculture and natural resources committee and the house of representatives agriculture, livestock, and natural resources committee, or their successor committees, on the guidelines and data collected by the board under the guidelines.

(II) This paragraph (c) is repealed, effective July 1, 2020.

(5) Each covered entity and other state or local governmental entity that adopts a plan shall follow the entity's rules, codes, or ordinances to make the draft plan available for public review and comment. If there are no rules, codes, or ordinances governing the entity's public planning process, then each entity shall publish a draft plan, give public notice of the plan, make such plan publicly available, and solicit comments from the public for a period of not less than sixty days after the date on which the draft plan is made publicly available. Reference shall be made in the public notice to the elements of a plan that have already been implemented.

(6) The board is hereby authorized to recommend the appropriation and expenditure of such revenues as are necessary from the unobligated balance of the five percent share of the operational account of the severance tax trust fund designated for use by the board for the purpose of the office providing assistance to covered entities to develop water conservation plans that meet the provisions of this section.

(7) (a) The board shall adopt guidelines for the office to review water conservation plans submitted by covered entities and other state or local governmental entities. The guidelines shall define the method for submitting plans to the office, the methods for office review and approval of the plans, and the interest rate surcharge provided for in paragraph (a) of subsection (9) of this section.

(b) If no other applicable guidelines exist as of June 1, 2007, the board shall adopt guidelines by July 31, 2007, for the office to use in reviewing applications submitted by covered entities, other state or local governmental entities, and agencies for grants from the grant program and from the grant program established in section 37-60-126.5 (3). The guidelines shall establish deadlines and procedures for covered entities, other state or local governmental entities, and agencies to follow in applying for grants and the criteria to be used by the office and the board in prioritizing and awarding grants.

(8) A covered entity may at any time adopt changes to an approved plan in accordance with this section after notifying and receiving concurrence from the office. If the proposed changes are major, the covered entity shall give public notice of the changes, make the changes available in draft form, and provide the public an opportunity to comment on such changes before adopting them in accordance with subsection (5) of this section.

(9) (a) Neither the board nor the Colorado water resources and power development authority shall release grant or loan proceeds to a covered entity unless the covered entity provides a copy of the water conservation plan adopted pursuant to this section; except that the board or the authority may release the grant or loan proceeds notwithstanding a covered entity's failure to comply with the reporting requirements of subsection (4.5) of this section or if the board or the authority, as applicable, determines that an unforeseen emergency exists in relation to the covered entity's loan application, in which case the board or the authority, as applicable, may impose a grant or loan surcharge upon the covered entity that may be rebated or reduced if the covered entity submits and adopts a plan in compliance with this section in a timely manner as determined by the board or the authority, as applicable.

(b) The board and the Colorado water resources and power development authority, to which any covered entity has applied for financial assistance for the construction of a water diversion, storage, conveyance, water treatment, or wastewater treatment facility, shall consider any water conservation plan filed pursuant to this section in determining whether to render financial assistance to such entity. Such consideration shall be carried out within the discretion accorded the board and the Colorado water resources and power development authority pursuant to which such board and authority render such financial assistance to such covered entity.

(c) The board and the Colorado water resources and power development authority may enter into a memorandum of understanding with each other for the purposes of avoiding delay in the processing of applications for financial assistance covered by this section and avoiding duplication in the consideration required by this subsection (9).

(10) Repealed.

(11) (a) Any section of a restrictive covenant that prohibits or limits xeriscape, prohibits or limits the installation or use of drought-tolerant vegetative landscapes, or requires cultivated vegetation to consist exclusively or primarily of turf grass is hereby declared contrary to public policy and, on that basis, that section of the covenant shall be unenforceable.

(b) As used in this subsection (11):

(I) "Executive board policy or practice" includes any additional procedural step or burden, financial or otherwise, placed on a unit owner who seeks approval for a landscaping change by the executive board of a unit owners' association, as defined in section 38-33.3-103, C.R.S., and not included in the existing declaration or bylaws of the association. An "executive board policy or practice" includes, without limitation, the requirement of:

- (A) An architect's stamp;
- (B) Preapproval by an architect or landscape architect retained by the executive board;
- (C) An analysis of water usage under the proposed new landscape plan or a history of water usage under the unit owner's existing landscape plan; and
- (D) The adoption of a landscaping change fee.

(II) "Restrictive covenant" means any covenant, restriction, bylaw, executive board policy or practice, or condition applicable to real property for the purpose of controlling land use, but does not include any covenant, restriction, or condition imposed on such real property by any governmental entity.

(III) "Turf grass" means continuous plant coverage consisting of hybridized grasses that, when regularly mowed, form a dense growth of leaf blades and roots.

(IV) "Xeriscape" means the application of the principles of landscape planning and design, soil analysis and improvement, appropriate plant selection, limitation of turf area, use of mulches, irrigation efficiency, and appropriate maintenance that results in water use efficiency and water-saving practices.

(c) Nothing in this subsection (11) shall preclude the executive board of a common interest community from taking enforcement action against a unit owner who allows his or her existing landscaping to die; except that:

(I) Such enforcement action shall be suspended during a period of water use restrictions declared by the jurisdiction in which the common interest community is located, in which case the unit owner shall comply with any watering restrictions imposed by the water provider for the common interest community;

(II) Enforcement shall be consistent within the community and not arbitrary or capricious; and

(III) Once the drought emergency is lifted, the unit owner shall be allowed a reasonable and practical opportunity, as defined by the association's executive board, with consideration of applicable local growing seasons or practical limitations, to reseed and revive turf grass before being required to replace it with new sod.

(12) (a) (I) There is hereby created the water efficiency grant program for purposes of providing state funding to aid in the planning and implementation of water conservation plans developed in accordance with the requirements of this section and to promote the benefits of water efficiency. The board is authorized to distribute grants to covered entities, other state or local governmental entities, and agencies in accordance with its guidelines from the moneys transferred to and appropriated from the water efficiency grant program cash fund, which is hereby created in the state treasury.

(II) Moneys in the water efficiency grant program cash fund are hereby continuously appropriated to the board for the purposes of this subsection (12) and shall be available for use until the programs and projects financed using the grants have been completed.

(III) For each fiscal year beginning on or after July 1, 2010, the general assembly shall appropriate from the fund to the board up to five hundred thousand dollars annually for the purpose of providing grants to covered entities, other state and local governmental entities, and agencies in accordance with this subsection (12). Commencing July 1, 2008, the general assembly shall also appropriate from the fund to the board fifty thousand dollars each fiscal year to cover the costs associated with the administration of the grant program and the requirements of section 37-60-124. Moneys appropriated pursuant to this subparagraph (III) shall remain available until expended or until June 30, 2020, whichever occurs first.

(IV) Any moneys remaining in the fund on June 30, 2020, shall be transferred to the operational account of the severance tax trust fund described in section 39-29-109 (2) (b), C.R.S.

(b) Any covered entity or state or local governmental entity that has adopted a water conservation plan and that supplies, distributes, or otherwise provides water at retail to customers may apply for a grant to aid in the implementation of the water efficiency goals of the plan. Any agency may apply for a grant to fund outreach or education programs aimed at demonstrating the benefits of water efficiency. The office shall review the applications and make recommendations to the board regarding the awarding and distribution of grants to applicants who satisfy the criteria outlined in this subsection (12) and the guidelines developed pursuant to subsection (7) of this section.

(c) This subsection (12) is repealed, effective July 1, 2020.

37-60-126.5. Drought mitigation planning - programs - relationship to state assistance. (1) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires, “drought mitigation” means the planning and implementation of actions and programs used in periods of unusual water scarcity, with a combination of actions and programs taken before a drought to reduce the occurrence and severity of water supply shortages, and actions and programs taken during a drought to manage water supplies and water demand appropriately.

(2) The office shall develop programs to provide technical assistance to covered entities and other state or local governmental entities in the development of drought mitigation plans.

(3) The board is hereby authorized to expend revenues from the water efficiency grant program cash fund and to recommend the appropriation and expenditure of such revenues as is necessary from the unobligated balance of the five-percent share of the operational account of the severance tax trust fund designated for use by the board for the purpose of assisting covered entities and other state or local governmental entities to develop drought mitigation plans identified as sufficient by the office.

(4) The board shall adopt guidelines for the office to use in reviewing, evaluating, and approving drought mitigation plans submitted by covered entities or other state or local governmental entities in accordance with this section.

(1) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2004, p. 884, § 16, effective May 21, 2004.)

(2) The board is hereby authorized to make loans from unreserved cash in the Colorado water conservation board construction fund to organizations or entities for the purchase of augmentation water or the rights to such water to replace out-of-priority depletions to surface water rights and to prevent material depletions of stateline flows that might result in violation of compacts or interstate decrees.

(3) The board shall approve or deny applications for loans based upon criteria including, but not limited to, whether the:

- (a) Source of augmentation water is from a reliable, permanent supply;
- (b) Applicant has adequate security or collateral to assure repayment;
- (c) Applicant has the ability to repay the loan at an interest rate and over a period of time as set by the board;
- (d) Applicant is able to collect payments for the augmented water from its members;
- (e) Loan will serve the needs of a broad group of users rather than a specific user;
- (f) Loan will assist in maintaining the agricultural viability of the area served;
- (g) Applicant obtains commitments from its members that any such member who fails to make payments in accordance with the loan agreement shall cease pumping water; and
- (h) Applicant obtains commitments from its members to comply with any rules or changes to rules as promulgated or amended by the state engineer that govern the measurement of groundwater withdrawals and the use of such groundwater.

(4) (a) The state engineer shall promptly and completely curtail the use of a well by the owner of such well if such owner has accepted the benefit of a well augmentation loan and fails to make a payment required pursuant to the terms of subsection (3) of this section.

(b) This section shall apply regardless of whether the well owner accepts the benefit of the well augmentation loan directly or through membership in a participating association or organization.

(c) Curtailment pursuant to this subsection (4) shall remain in effect for as long as any payment remains past due.

37-61-101. Colorado River compact. The General Assembly hereby approves the compact, designated as the “Colorado River Compact”, signed at the City of Santa Fe, State of New Mexico, on the 24th day of November, A.D. 1922, by Delph E. Carpenter, as the Commissioner for the State of Colorado, under authority of and in conformity with the provisions of an act of the General Assembly of the State of Colorado, approved April 2, 1921, entitled “An Act providing for the appointment of a Commissioner on behalf of the State of Colorado to negotiate a compact and agreement between the States of Arizona, California, Colorado, Nevada, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming and between said States and the United States respecting the use and distribution of the waters of the Colorado River and the rights of said States and the United States thereto, and making an appropriation therefor.”, the same being Chapter 246 of the Session Laws of Colorado, 1921, and signed by the Commissioners for the States of Arizona, California, Nevada, New Mexico, Utah, and Wyoming, under legislative authority, and signed by the Commissioners for said seven States and approved by the Representative of the United States of America under authority and in conformity with the provisions of an Act of the Congress of the United States, approved August 19, 1921, entitled “An Act to permit a compact or agreement between the States of Arizona, California, Colorado, Nevada, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming, respecting the disposition and apportionment of the waters of the Colorado River, and for other purposes.”, which said compact is as follows:

Colorado River Compact

The States of Arizona, California, Colorado, Nevada, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming, having resolved to enter into a compact, under the Act of the Congress of the United States of America approved August 19, 1921, (42 Statutes at Large, page 171), and the Acts of the legislatures of the said states, have through their Governors appointed as their commis- sioners:

- W. S. Norviel, for the State of Arizona;
  - W. F. McClure, for the State of California;
  - Delph E. Carpenter, for the State of Colorado;
  - J. G. Scrugham, for the State of Nevada;
  - Stephen B. Davis, Jr., for the State of New Mexico;
  - R. E. Caldwell, for the State of Utah;
  - Frank C. Emerson, for the State of Wyoming;
- who, after negotiations participated in by Herbert Hoover appointed by the President as the representative of the United States of America, have agreed upon the following articles:

Article I

The major purposes of this compact are to provide for the equitable division and apportionment of the use of the waters of the Colorado River System; to establish the relative importance of different beneficial uses of water; to promote interstate comity; to remove causes of present and future controversies; and to secure the expeditious agricul- tural and industrial development of the Colorado River Basin, the storage of its waters and the protection of life and property from floods. To these ends the Colorado River Basin is divided into two Basins, and an apportionment of the use of part of the water of the Colorado River System is made to each of them with the provision that further equitable apportionments may be made.

Article II

As used in this Compact: -

(a) The term "Colorado River System" means that portion of the Colorado River and its tributaries within the United States of America.

(b) The term "Colorado River Basin" means all of the drainage area of the Colorado River System and all other territory within the United States of America to which the waters of the Colorado River System shall be beneficially applied.

(c) The term "States of the Upper Division" means the States of Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming.

(d) The term "States of the Lower Division" means the States of Arizona, California and Nevada.

(e) The "Lee Ferry" means a point in the main stream of the Colorado River one mile below the mouth of the Paria River.

(f) The term "Upper Basin" means those parts of the States of Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming within and from which waters naturally drain into the Colorado River System above Lee Ferry, and also all parts of said States located without the drainage area of the Colorado River System which are now or shall hereafter be beneficially served by waters diverted from the System above Lee Ferry.

(g) The term "Lower Basin" means those parts of the States of Arizona, California, Nevada, New Mexico and Utah within and from which waters naturally drain into the Colorado River System below Lee Ferry, and also all parts of said States located without the drainage area of the Colorado River System which are now or shall hereafter be beneficially served by waters diverted from the System below Lee Ferry.

(h) The term "domestic use" shall include the use of water for household, stock, municipal, mining, milling, industrial and other like purposes, but shall exclude the generation of electrical power.

Article III

(a) There is hereby apportioned from the Colorado River System in perpetuity to the Upper Basin and to the Lower Basin respectively the exclusive beneficial consumptive use of 7,500,000 acre feet of water per annum, which shall include all water necessary for the supply of any rights which may now exist.

(b) In addition to the apportionment in paragraph (a) the Lower Basin is hereby given the right to increase its beneficial consumptive use of such waters by one million acre per annum.

(c) If, as a matter of international comity, the United States of America shall hereafter recognize in the United States of Mexico any right to the use of any waters of the Colorado River System, such waters shall be supplied first from the waters which are surplus over and above the aggregate of the quantities specified in paragraphs (a) and (b); and if such surplus shall prove insufficient for this purpose, then, the burden of such deficiency shall be equally borne by the Upper Basin and the Lower Basin, and whenever necessary the States of the Upper Division shall deliver at Lee Ferry water to supply one-half of the deficiency so recognized in addition to that provided in paragraph (d).

(d) The states of the Upper Division will not cause the flow of the river at Lee Ferry to be depleted below an aggregate of 75,000,000 acre feet for any period of ten consecutive years reckoned in continuing progressive series beginning with the first day of October next succeeding the ratification of this compact.

(e) The States of the Upper Division shall not withhold water, and the States of the Lower Division shall not require the delivery of water, which cannot reasonably be applied to domestic and agricultural uses.

(f) Further equitable apportionment of the beneficial uses of the waters of the Colorado River System unapportioned by paragraphs (a), (b) and (c) may be made in the manner provided in paragraph (g) at any time after October first, 1963, if and when either basin shall have reached its total beneficial consumptive use as set out in paragraphs (a) and (b).

(g) In the event of a desire for a further apportionment as provided in paragraph (f) any two signatory States, acting through their Governors, may give joint notice of such desire to the Governors of the other signatory States and to the President of the United States of America, and it shall be the duty of the Governor of the signatory states and of the President of the United States of America forthwith to appoint representatives, whose duty it shall be to divide and apportion equitably between the Upper Basin and Lower Basin the beneficial use of the unapportioned water of the Colorado River System as mentioned in paragraph (f), subject to the Legislative ratification of the signatory States and the Congress of the United States of America.

Article IV

(a) Inasmuch as the Colorado River has ceased to be navigable for commerce and the reservation of its waters for navigation would seriously limit the development of its Basin, the use of its waters for purpose of navigation shall be subservient to the uses of such waters for domestic, agricultural and power purposes. If the Congress shall not consent to this paragraph, the other provisions of this compact shall nevertheless remain binding.

(b) Subject to the provisions of this compact, water of the Colorado River System may be impounded and used for the generation of electrical power, but such impounding and use shall be subservient to the use and consumption of such water for agricultural and domestic purposes and shall not interfere with or prevent use for such dominant purposes.

(c) The provisions of this article shall not apply to or interfere with the regulation and control by any state within its boundaries of the appropriation, use and distribution of water.

Article V

The Chief Official of each signatory State charged with the administration of water rights, together with the Director of the United States Reclamation Service and the Director of the United States Geological Survey shall co-operate, ex officio:

(a) To promote the systematic determination and coordination of the facts as to flow, appropriation, consumption and use of water in the Colorado River Basin, and the interchange of available information in such matters.

(b) To secure the ascertainment and publication of the annual flow of the Colorado River at Lee Ferry.

(c) To perform such other duties as may be assigned by mutual consent of the signatories from time to time.

Article VI

Should any claim or controversy arise between any two or more of the signatory States: (a) with respect to the waters of the Colorado River System not covered by the terms of this compact; (b) over the meaning or performance of any of the terms of this compact; (c) as to the allocation of the burdens incident to the performance of any article of this compact or the delivery of waters as herein provided; (d) as to the construction or operation of works within the Colorado River Basin to be situated in two or more States, or to be constructed in one State for the benefit of another State; or (e) as to the diversion of water in one State for the benefit of another State; the Governors of the States affected, upon the request of one of them, shall forthwith appoint Commissioners with power to consider and adjust such claim or controversy, subject to ratification by the Legislatures of the States so affected.

Nothing herein contained shall prevent the adjustment of any such claim or controversy by any present method or by direct future legislative action of the interested States.

Article VII

Nothing in this compact shall be construed as affecting the obligations of the United States of America to Indian tribes.

Article VIII

Present perfected rights to the beneficial use of waters of the Colorado River System are unimpaired by this compact. Whenever storage capacity of 5,000,000 acre feet shall have been provided on the main Colorado River within or for the benefit of the Lower Basin, then claims of such rights, if any, by appropriators or users of waters in the Lower Basin, against appropriators or users of water in the Upper Basin shall attach to and be satisfied from water that may be stored not in conflict with Article III.

All other rights to beneficial use of waters of the Colorado River System shall be satisfied solely from the water apportioned to that Basin in which they are situate.

Article IX

Nothing in this compact shall be construed to limit or prevent any State from instituting or maintaining any action or proceeding, legal or equitable, for the protection of any right under this compact or the enforcement of any of its provisions.

Article X

This compact may be terminated at any time by the unanimous agreement of the signatory States. In the event of such termination all rights established under it shall continue unimpaired.

Article XI

This compact shall become binding and obligatory when it shall have been approved by the Legislatures of each of the signatory States and by the Congress of the United States. Notice of approval by the Legislatures shall be given by the Governor of each signatory State to the Governors of the other signatory States and to the President of the United States, and the President of the United States is requested to give notice to the Governors of the signatory States of approval by the Congress of the United States.

In Witness Whereof, The Commissioners have signed this compact in a single original, which shall be deposited in the archives of the Department of State of the United States of America and of which a duly certified copy shall be forwarded to the Governor of each of the signatory States.

Upper Colorado River Compact

37-62-101.	Upper Colorado River compact.	37-62-105.	member of commission. Payment of expenses of commission.
37-62-102.	When compact operative.	37-62-106.	Administrative code inapplicable.
37-62-103.	Interstate agency created by compact.
37-62-104.	Appointment of Colorado

37-62-101. Upper Colorado River compact. The general assembly hereby ratifies the compact among the states of Colorado, New Mexico, Utah, Wyoming, and Arizona, designated as the “Upper Colorado river basin compact” and signed in the city of Santa Fe, state of New Mexico, on the 11th day of October, A. D. 1948, by Clifford H. Stone, commissioner for the state of Colorado, Fred E. Wilson, commissioner for the state of New Mexico, Edward H. Watson, commissioner for the state of Utah, L. C. Bishop, commissioner for the state of Wyoming, Charles A. Carson, commissioner for the state of Arizona, and approved by Harry W. Bashore, representative of the United States of America. Said compact is as follows:

Article I

(a) The major purposes of this compact are to provide for the equitable division and apportionment of the use of the waters of the Colorado river system, the use of which was apportioned in perpetuity to the upper basin by the Colorado river compact; to establish the obligations of each state of the upper division with respect to the deliveries of water required to be made at Lee ferry by the Colorado river compact; to promote interstate comity; to remove causes of present and future controversies; to secure the expeditious agricultural and industrial development of the upper basin, the storage of water and to protect life and property from floods.

(b) It is recognized that the Colorado river compact is in full force and effect and all of the provisions hereof are subject thereto.

Article II

As used in this compact:

(a) The term "Colorado river system" means that portion of the Colorado river and its tributaries within the United States of America.

(b) The term "Colorado river basin" means all of the drainage area of the Colorado river system and all other territory within the United States of America to which the waters of the Colorado river system shall be beneficially applied.

(c) The term "states of the upper division" means the states of Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming.

(d) The term "states of the lower division" means the states of Arizona, California and Nevada.

(e) The term "Lee ferry" means a point in the main stream of the Colorado river one mile below the mouth of the Paria river.

(f) The term "upper basin" means those parts of the states of Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming within and from which waters naturally drain into the Colorado river system above Lee ferry, and also all parts of said states located without the drainage area of the Colorado river system which are now or shall hereafter be beneficially served by waters diverted from the Colorado river system above Lee ferry.

(g) The term "lower basin" means those parts of the states of Arizona, California, Nevada, New Mexico and Utah within and from which waters naturally drain into the Colorado river system below Lee ferry, and also all parts of said states located without the drainage area of the Colorado river system which are now or shall hereafter be beneficially served by waters diverted from the Colorado river system below Lee ferry.

(h) The term "Colorado river compact" means the agreement concerning the apportionment of the use of the waters of the Colorado river system dated November 24, 1922, executed by commissioners for the states of Arizona, California, Colorado, Nevada, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming, approved by Herbert Hoover, representative of the United States of America, and proclaimed effective by the President of the United States of America, June 25, 1929.

(i) The term "Upper Colorado river system" means that portion of the Colorado river system above Lee ferry.

(j) The term "Commission" means the administrative agency created by article VIII of this compact.

(k) The term "water year" means that period of twelve months ending September 30 of each year.

- (l) The term “acre-foot” means the quantity of water required to cover an acre to the depth of one foot and is equivalent to 43,560 cubic feet.
- (m) The term “domestic use” shall include the use of water for household, stock, municipal, mining, milling, industrial and other like purposes, but shall exclude the generation of electrical power.
- (n) The term “virgin flow” means the flow of any stream undepleted by the activities of man.

Article III

(a) Subject to the provisions and limitations contained in the Colorado river compact and in this compact, there is hereby apportioned from the upper Colorado river system in perpetuity to the states of Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming, respectively, the consumptive use of water as follows:

- (1) To the state of Arizona the consumptive use of 50,000 acre-feet of water per annum.
- (2) To the states of Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming, respectively, the consumptive use per annum of the quantities resulting from the application of the following percentages to the total quantity of consumptive use per annum appropriated in perpetuity to and available for use each year by upper basin under the Colorado river compact and remaining after the deduction of the use, not to exceed 50,000 acre-feet per annum, made in the state of Arizona.

State of Colorado .....	51.75 per cent,
State of New Mexico .....	11.25 per cent,
State of Utah .....	23.00 per cent,
State of Wyoming .....	14.00 per cent.

(b) The apportionment made to the respective states by paragraph (a) of this article is based upon, and shall be applied in conformity with, the following principles and each of them:

- (1) The apportionment is of any and all man-made depletions;
- (2) Beneficial use is the basis, the measure and the limit of the right to use;
- (3) No state shall exceed the apportioned use in any water year when the effect of such excess use, as determined by the commission, is to deprive another signatory state of its apportioned use during the water year; provided, that this subparagraph (b) (3) shall not be construed as:
  - (i) Altering the apportionment of use, or obligations to make deliveries as provided in article XI, XII, XIII or XIV of this compact;
  - (ii) Purporting to apportion among the signatory states of such uses of water as the upper basin may be entitled to under paragraphs (f) and (g) of article III of the Colorado river compact; or
  - (iii) Countenancing average uses by any signatory state in excess of its apportionment.
- (4) The apportionment to each state includes all water necessary for the supply of any rights which now exist.
- (c) No apportionment is hereby made, or intended to be made of such use of water as the upper basin may be entitled to under paragraphs (f) and (g) of article III of the Colorado river compact.
- (d) The apportionment made by this article shall not be taken as any basis for the allocation among the signatory states of any benefits resulting from the generation of power.

Article IV

In the event curtailment of use of water by the states of the upper division at any time shall become necessary in order that the flow at Lee ferry shall not be depleted below that required by article III of the Colorado river compact, the extent of curtailment by each state of the consumptive use of water apportioned to it by article III of this compact shall be in such quantities and at such times as shall be determined by the commission upon the application of the following principles:

(a) The extent and times of curtailment shall be such as to assure full compliance with article III of the Colorado river compact;

(b) If any state or states of the upper division, in the ten years immediately preceding the water year in which curtailment is necessary, shall have consumptively used more water than it was or they were, as the case may be, entitled to use under the apportionment made by article III of this compact, such state or states shall be required to supply at Lee ferry a quantity of water equal to its, or the aggregate of their, overdraft or the proportionate part of such overdraft, as may be necessary to assure compliance with article III of the Colorado river compact, before demand is made on any other state of the upper division;

(c) Except as provided in subparagraph (b) of this article, the extent of curtailment by each state of the upper division of the consumptive use of water apportioned to it by article III of this compact shall be such as to result in the delivery at Lee ferry of a quantity of water which bears the same relation to the total required curtailment of use by the states of the upper division as the consumptive use of the upper Colorado river system water which was made by each such state during the water year immediately preceding the year in which the curtailment becomes necessary bears to the total consumptive use of such water in the states of the upper division during the same water year; provided, that in determining such relation the uses of water under rights perfected prior to November 24, 1922, shall be excluded.

Article V

(a) All losses of water occurring from or as the result of the storage of water in reservoirs constructed prior to the signing of this compact shall be charged to the state in which such reservoir or reservoirs are located. Water stored in reservoirs covered by this paragraph (a) shall be for the exclusive use of and shall be charged to the state in which the reservoir or reservoirs are located.

(b) All losses of water occurring from or as a result of the storage of water in reservoirs constructed after the signing of this compact shall be charged as follows:

(1) If the commission finds that the reservoir is used, in whole or in part, to assist the states of the upper division in meeting their obligations to deliver water at Lee ferry imposed by article III of the Colorado river compact, the commission shall make findings, which in no event shall be contrary to the laws of the United States of America under which any reservoir is constructed, as to the reservoir capacity allocated for that purpose. The whole or that proportion, as the case may be, of reservoir losses as found by the commission to be reasonably and properly chargeable to the reservoir or reservoir capacity utilized to assure deliveries at Lee ferry shall be charged to the states of the upper division in the proportion which the consumptive use of water in each state of the upper division during the water year in which the charge is made bears to the total consumptive use of water in all states of the upper division during the same water year. Water stored in reservoirs or in reservoir capacity covered by this subparagraph (b) (1) shall be for the common benefit of all of the states of the upper division.

(2) If the commission finds that the reservoir is used, in whole or in part, to supply water for use in a state of the upper division, the commission shall make findings, which in no event shall be contrary to the laws of the United States of America under which any reservoir is constructed, as to the reservoir or reservoir capacity utilized to supply water for use and the state in which such water will be used. The whole or that proportion, as the case may be, of reservoir losses as found by the commission to be reasonably and properly chargeable to the state in which such water will be used shall be borne by that state. As determined by the commission, water stored in reservoirs covered by this subparagraph (b) (2) shall be earmarked for and charged to the state in which the water will be used.

(c) In the event the commission finds that a reservoir site is available both to assure deliveries at Lee ferry and to store water for consumptive use in a state of the upper division, the storage of water for consumptive use shall be given preference. Any reservoir or reservoir capacity hereafter used to assure deliveries at Lee ferry shall by order of the commission be used to store water for consumptive use in a state, provided the commission finds that such storage is reasonably necessary to permit such state to make the use of the water apportioned to it by this compact.

Article VI

The commission shall determine the quantity of the consumptive use of water, which use is apportioned by article III hereof, for the upper basin and for each state of the upper basin by the inflow-outflow method in terms of man-made depletions of the virgin flow at Lee ferry, unless the commission, by unanimous action, shall adopt a different method of determination.

Article VII

The consumptive use of water by the United States of America or any of its agencies, instrumentalities or wards shall be charged as a use by the state in which the use is made; provided, that such consumptive use incident to the diversion, impounding, or conveyance of water in one state for use in another shall be charged to such latter state.

Article VIII

(a) There is hereby created an interstate administrative agency to be known as the "Upper Colorado river commission." The commission shall be composed of one commissioner representing each of the states of the upper division, namely, the states of Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming, designated or appointed in accordance with the laws of each such state and, if designated by the President, one commissioner representing the United States of America. The President is hereby requested to designate a commissioner. If so designated the commissioner representing the United States of America shall be the presiding officer of the commission and shall be entitled to the same powers and rights as the commissioner of any state. Any four members of the commission shall constitute a quorum.

(b) The salaries and personal expenses of each commissioner shall be paid by the government which he represents. All other expenses which are incurred by the commission incident to the administration of this compact, and which are not paid by the United States of America, shall be borne by the four states according to the percentage of consumptive use apportioned to each. On or before December 1 of each year, the commission shall adopt and transmit to the governors of the four states and to the President a budget covering an estimate of its expenses for the following year, and of the amount payable by each state. Each state shall pay the amount due by it to the commission on or before April 1 of the year following. The payment of the expenses of the commission and of its employees shall not be subject to the audit and accounting procedures of any of the four states; however, all receipts and disbursements of funds handled by the commission shall be audited yearly by a qualified independent public accountant and the report of the audit shall be included in and become a part of the annual report of the commission.

(c) The commission shall appoint a secretary, who shall not be a member of the commission, or an employee of any signatory state or of the United States of America while so acting. He shall serve for such term and receive such salary and perform such duties as the commission may direct. The commission may employ such engineering, legal, clerical and other personnel as, in its judgment, may be necessary for the performance of its functions under this compact. In the hiring of employees, the commission shall not be bound by the civil service laws of any state.

(d) The commission, so far as consistent with this compact, shall have the power to:

- (1) Adopt rules and regulations;
- (2) Locate, establish, construct, abandon, operate and maintain water gauging stations;
- (3) Make estimates to forecast water run-off on the Colorado river and any of its tributaries;

(4) Engage in co-operative studies of water supplies of the Colorado river and its tributaries;

(5) Collect, analyze, correlate, preserve and report on data as to the stream flows, storage, diversions and use of the waters of the Colorado river, and any of its tributaries;

(6) Make findings as to the quantity of water of the upper Colorado river system used each year in the upper Colorado river basin and in each state thereof;

(7) Make findings as to the quantity of water deliveries at Lee ferry during each water year;

(8) Make findings as to the necessity for and the extent of the curtailment of use, required, if any, pursuant to article IV hereof;

(9) Make findings as to the quantity of reservoir losses and as to the share thereof chargeable under article V hereof to each of the states;

(10) Make findings of fact in the event of the occurrence of extraordinary drought or serious accident to the irrigation system in the upper basin, whereby deliveries by the upper basin of water which it may be required to deliver in order to aid in fulfilling obligations of the United States of America to the United Mexican States arising under the treaty between the United States of America and the United Mexican States, dated February 3, 1944 (Treaty Series 994) become difficult, and report such findings to the governors of the upper basin states, the President of the United States of America, the United States section of the international boundary and water commission, and such other federal officials and agencies as it may deem appropriate to the end that the water allotted to Mexico under division III of such treaty may be reduced in accordance with the terms of such treaty;

(11) Acquire and hold such personal and real property as may be necessary for the performance of its duties hereunder and to dispose of the same when no longer required;

(12) Perform all functions required of it by this compact and do all things necessary, proper or convenient in the performance of its duties hereunder, either independently or in co-operation with any state or federal agency;

(13) Make and transmit annually to the governors of the signatory states and the President of the United States of America, with the estimated budget, a report covering the activities of the commission for the preceding water year.

(e) Except as otherwise provided in this compact the concurrence of four members of the commission shall be required in any action taken by it.

(f) The commission and its secretary shall make available to the governor of each of the signatory states any information within its possession at any time, and shall always provide free access to its records by the governors of each of the states, or their representatives or authorized representatives of the United States of America.

(g) Findings of fact made by the commission shall not be conclusive in any court, or before any agency or tribunal, but shall constitute prima facie evidence of the facts found.

(h) The organization meeting of the commission shall be held within four months from the effective date of this compact.

Article IX

(a) No state shall deny the right of the United States of America and, subject to the conditions hereinafter contained, no state shall deny the right of another signatory state, any person, or entity of any signatory state to acquire rights to the use of water, or to construct or participate in the construction and use of diversion works and storage reservoirs with appurtenant works, canals and conduits in one state for the purpose of diverting, conveying, storing, regulating and releasing water to satisfy the provisions of the Colorado river compact relating to the obligation of the states of the upper division to make deliveries of water at Lee ferry, or for the purpose of diverting, conveying, storing or regulating water in an upper signatory state for consumptive use in a lower signatory state, when such use is within the apportionment to such lower state made by this compact. Such rights shall be subject to the rights of water users, in a state in which such reservoir or works are located, to receive and use water, the use of which is within the apportionment to such state by this compact.

(b) Any signatory state, any person or any entity of any signatory state shall have the right to acquire such property rights as are necessary to the use of water in conformity with this compact in any other signatory state by donation, purchase or through the exercise of the power of eminent domain. Any signatory state, upon the written request of the governor of any other signatory state, for the benefit of whose water users property is to be acquired in the state to which such written request is made, shall proceed expeditiously to acquire the desired property either by purchase at a price satisfactory to the requesting state, or, if such purchase cannot be made, then through the exercise of its power of eminent domain and shall convey such property to the requesting state or such entity as may be designated by the requesting state; provided, that all costs of acquisition and expenses of every kind and nature whatsoever incurred in obtaining the requested property shall be paid by the requesting state at the time and in the manner prescribed by the state requested to acquire the property.

(c) Should any facility be constructed in a signatory state by and for the benefit of another signatory state or states or the water users thereof, as above provided, the construction, repair, replacement, maintenance and operation of such facility shall be subject to the laws of the state in which the facility is located, except that, in the case of a reservoir constructed in one state for the benefit of another state or states, the water administration officials of the state in which the facility is located shall permit the storage and release of any water which, as determined by findings of the commission, falls within the apportionment of the state or states for whose benefit the facility is constructed. In the case of a regulating reservoir for the joint benefit of all states in making Lee ferry deliveries, the water administration officials of the state in which the facility is located, in permitting the storage and release of water, shall comply with the findings and orders of the commission.

(d) In the event property is acquired by a signatory state in another signatory state for the use and benefit of the former, the users of water made available by such facilities, as a condition precedent to the use thereof, shall pay to the political subdivisions of the state in which such works are located, each and every year during which such rights are enjoyed for such purposes, a sum of money equivalent to the average annual amount of taxes levied and assessed against the land and improvements thereon during the ten years preceding the acquisition of such land. Said payments shall be in full reimbursement for the loss of taxes in such political subdivisions of the state, and in lieu of any and all taxes on said property, improvements and rights. The signatory states recommend to the President and the congress that, in the event the United States of America shall acquire property in one of the signatory states for the benefit of another signatory state, or its water users, provision be made for like payment in reimbursement of loss of taxes.

Article X

(a) The signatory states recognize La Plata river compact entered into between the states of Colorado and New Mexico, dated November 27, 1922, approved by the congress on January 29, 1925 (43 Stat. 796), and this compact shall not affect the apportionment therein made.

(b) All consumptive use of water of La Plata river and its tributaries shall be charged under the apportionment of article III hereof to the state in which the use is made; provided, that consumptive use incident to the diversion, impounding or conveyance of water in one state for use in the other shall be charged to the latter state.

Article XI

Subject to the provisions of this compact, the consumptive use of the water of the Little Snake river and its tributaries is hereby apportioned between the states of Colorado and Wyoming in such quantities as shall result from the application of the following principles and procedures:

(a) Water used under rights existing prior to the signing of this compact.

(1) Water diverted from any tributary of the Little Snake river or from the main stem of the Little Snake river above a point one hundred feet above the confluence of Savery creek and the Little Snake river shall be administered without regard to rights covering the diversion of water from any down-stream points.

(2) Water diverted from the main stem of the Little Snake river below a point one hundred feet below the confluence of Savery creek and the Little Snake river shall be administered on the basis of an interstate priority schedule prepared by the commission in conformity with priority dates established by the laws of the respective states.

(b) Water used under rights initiated subsequent to the signing of this compact.

(1) Direct flow diversions shall be so administered that, in time of shortage, the curtailment of use on each acre of land irrigated thereunder shall be as nearly equal as may be possible in both of the states.

(2) The storage of water by projects located in either state, whether of supplemental supply or of water used to irrigate land not irrigated at the date of the signing of this compact, shall be so administered that in times of water shortage the curtailment of storage of water available for each acre of land irrigated thereunder shall be as nearly equal as may be possible in both states.

(c) Water users under the apportionment made by this article shall be in accordance with the principle that beneficial use shall be the basis, measure and limit of the right to use.

(d) The states of Colorado and Wyoming each assent to diversions and storage of water in one state for use in the other state, subject to compliance with article IX of this compact.

(e) In the event of the importation of water to the Little Snake river basin from any other river basin, the state making the importation shall have the exclusive use of such imported water unless by written agreement, made by the representatives of the states of Colorado and Wyoming on the commission, it is otherwise provided.

(f) Water use projects initiated after the signing of this compact, to the greatest extent possible, shall permit the full use within the basin in the most feasible manner of the waters of the Little Snake river and its tributaries, without regard to the state line; and, so far as is practicable, shall result in an equal division between the states of the use of water not used under rights existing prior to the signing of this compact.

(g) All consumptive use of the waters of the Little Snake river and its tributaries shall be charged under the apportionment of article III hereof to the state in which the use is made; provided, that consumptive use incident to the diversion, impounding or conveyance of water in one state for use in the other shall be charged to the latter state.

Article XII

Subject to the provisions of this compact, the consumptive use of the waters of Henry's fork, a tributary of Green river originating in the state of Utah and flowing into the state of Wyoming and thence into the Green river in the state of Utah; Beaver creek, originating in the state of Utah and flowing into Henry's fork in the state of Wyoming; Burnt fork, a tributary of Henry's fork, originating in the state of Utah and flowing into Henry's fork in the state of Wyoming; Birch creek, a tributary of Henry's fork originating in the state of Utah and flowing into Henry's fork in the state of Wyoming; and Sheep creek, a tributary of Green river in the state of Utah and their tributaries, are hereby apportioned between the states of Utah and Wyoming in such quantities as will result from the application of the following principles and procedures:

(a) Waters used under rights existing prior to the signing of this compact.

Waters diverted from Henry's fork, Beaver creek, Burnt fork, Birch creek and their tributaries, shall be administered without regard to the state line on the basis of an interstate priority schedule to be prepared by the states affected and approved by the commission in conformity with the actual priority of right of use, the water requirements of the land irrigated and the acreage irrigated in connection therewith.

(b) Waters used under rights from Henry's fork, Beaver creek, Burnt fork, Birch creek and their tributaries, initiated after the signing of this compact shall be divided fifty per cent to the state of Wyoming and fifty per cent to the state of Utah and each state may use said waters as and where it deems advisable.

(c) The state of Wyoming assents to the exclusive use by the state of Utah of the water of Sheep creek, except that the lands, if any, presently irrigated in the state of Wyoming from the water of Sheep creek shall be supplied with water from Sheep creek in order of priority and in such quantities as are in conformity with the laws of the state of Utah.

(d) In the event of the importation of water to Henry's fork, or any of its tributaries, from any other river basin, the state making the importation shall have the exclusive use of such imported water unless by written agreement made by the representatives of the states of Utah and Wyoming on the commission, it is otherwise provided.

(e) All consumptive use of waters of Henry's fork, Beaver creek, Burnt fork, Birch creek, Sheep creek, and their tributaries shall be charged under the apportionment of article III hereof to the state in which the use is made; provided, that consumptive use incident to the diversion, impounding or conveyance of water in one state for use in the other shall be charged to the latter state.

(f) The states of Utah and Wyoming each assent to the diversion and storage of water in one state for use in the other state, subject to compliance with article IX of this compact. It shall be the duty of the water administrative officials of the state where the water is stored to release said stored water to the other state upon demand. If either the state of Utah or the state of Wyoming shall construct a reservoir in the other state for use in its own state, the water users of the state in which said facilities are constructed may purchase at cost a portion of the capacity of said reservoir sufficient for the irrigation of their lands thereunder.

(g) In order to measure the flow of water diverted, each state shall cause suitable measuring devices to be constructed, maintained and operated at or near the point of diversion into each ditch.

(h) The state engineers of the two states jointly shall appoint a special water commissioner who shall have authority to administer the water in both states in accordance with the terms of this article. The salary and expenses of such special water commissioner shall be paid, thirty per cent by the state of Utah and seventy per cent by the state of Wyoming.

Article XIII

Subject to the provisions of this compact, the rights to the consumptive use of the water of the Yampa river, a tributary entering the Green river in the state of Colorado, are hereby apportioned between the states of Colorado and Utah in accordance with the following principles:

(a) The state of Colorado will not cause the flow of the Yampa river at the Maybell gauging station to be depleted below an aggregate of 5,000,000 acre-feet for any period of ten consecutive years reckoned in continuing progressive series beginning with the first day of October next succeeding the ratification and approval of this compact. In the event any diversion is made from the Yampa river or from tributaries entering the Yampa river above the Maybell gauging station for the benefit of any water use project in the state of Utah, then the gross amount of all such diversions for use in the state of Utah, less any returns from such diversions to the river above Maybell, shall be added to the actual flow at the Maybell gauging station to determine the total flow at the Maybell gauging station.

(b) All consumptive use of the waters of the Yampa river and its tributaries shall be charged under the apportionment of article III hereof to the state in which the use is made; provided, that consumptive use incident to the diversion, impounding or conveyance of water in one state for use in the other shall be charged to the latter state.

Article XIV

Subject to the provisions of this compact, the consumptive use of the waters of the San Juan river and its tributaries is hereby apportioned between the states of Colorado and New Mexico as follows:

The state of Colorado agrees to deliver to the state of New Mexico from the San Juan river and its tributaries which rise in the state of Colorado a quantity of water which shall be sufficient, together with water originating in the San Juan basin in the state of New Mexico, to enable the state of New Mexico to make full use of the water apportioned to the state of New Mexico by article III of this compact, subject, however, to the following:

- (a) A first and prior right shall be recognized as to:
  - (1) All uses of water made in either state at the time of the signing of this compact; and
  - (2) All uses of water contemplated by projects authorized, at the time of the signing of this compact under the laws of the United States of America whether or not such projects are eventually constructed by the United States of America or by some other entity.
- (b) The state of Colorado assents to diversions and storage of water in the state of Colorado for use in the state of New Mexico, subject to compliance with article IX of this compact.
- (c) The uses of the waters of the San Juan river and any of its tributaries within either state which are dependent upon a common source of water and which are not covered by (a) hereof, shall in times of water shortages be reduced in such quantity that the resulting consumptive use in each state will bear the same proportionate relation to the consumptive use made in each state during times of average water supply as determined by the commission; provided, that any preferential uses of water to which Indians are entitled under article XIX shall be excluded in determining the amount of curtailment to be made under this paragraph.
- (d) The curtailment of water use by either state in order to make deliveries at Lee ferry as required by article IV of this compact shall be independent of any and all conditions imposed by this article and shall be made by each state, as and when required, without regard to any provision of this article.
- (e) All consumptive use of the waters of the San Juan river and its tributaries shall be charged under the apportionment of article III hereof to the state in which the use is made; provided, that consumptive use incident to the diversion, impounding or conveyance of water in one state for use in the other shall be charged to the latter state.

Article XV

(a) Subject to the provisions of the Colorado river compact and of this compact, water of the upper Colorado river system may be impounded and used for the generation of electrical power, but such impounding and use shall be subservient to the use and consumption of such water for agricultural and domestic purposes and shall not interfere with or prevent use for such dominant purposes.

(b) The provisions of this compact shall not apply to or interfere with the right or power of any signatory state to regulate within its boundaries the appropriation, use and control of water, the consumptive use of which is apportioned and available to such state by this compact.

Article XVI

The failure of any state to use the water, or any part thereof, the use of which is apportioned to it under the terms of this compact, shall not constitute a relinquishment of the right to such use to the lower basin or to any other state, nor shall it constitute a forfeiture or abandonment of the right to such use.

Article XVII

The use of any water now or hereafter imported into the natural drainage basin of the upper Colorado river system shall not be charged to any state under the apportionment of consumptive use made by this compact.

Article XVIII

(a) The state of Arizona reserves its rights and interest under the Colorado river compact as a state of the lower division and as a state of the lower basin.

(b) The state of New Mexico and the state of Utah reserve their respective rights and interests under the Colorado river compact as states of the lower basin.

Article XIX

Nothing in this compact shall be construed as:

- (a) Affecting the obligations of the United States of America to Indian tribes;
- (b) Affecting the obligations of the United States of America under the treaty with the United Mexican States (Treaty Series 994);
- (c) Affecting any rights or powers of the United States of America, its agencies or instrumentalities, in or to the waters of the upper Colorado river system, or its capacity to acquire rights in and to the use of said water;
- (d) Subjecting any property of the United States of America, its agencies or instrumentalities, to taxation by any state or subdivision thereof, or creating any obligation on the part of the United States of America, its agencies or instrumentalities, by reason of the acquisition, construction or operation of any property or works of whatever kind, to make any payment to any state or political subdivision thereof, state agency, municipality or entity whatsoever, in reimbursement for the loss of taxes;
- (e) Subjecting any property of the United States of America, its agencies or instrumentalities, to the laws of any state to an extent other than the extent to which such laws would apply without regard to this compact.

Article XX

This compact may be terminated at any time by the unanimous agreement of the signatory states. In the event of such termination, all rights established under it shall continue unimpaired.

Article XXI

This compact shall become binding and obligatory when it shall have been ratified by the legislatures of each of the signatory states and approved by the congress of the United States of America. Notice of ratification by the legislatures of the signatory states shall be given by the governor of each signatory state to the governor of each of the other signatory states and to the President of the United States of America, and the President is hereby requested to give notice to the governor of each of the signatory states of approval by the congress of the United States of America.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the commissioners have executed six counterparts hereof each of which shall be and constitute an original, one of which shall be deposited in the archives of the department of state of the United States of America, and one of which shall be forwarded to the governor of each of the signatory states.

ARTICLE 63*La Plata River Compact

37-63-101. The La Plata River compact. 37-63-102. Approval of compact.

37-63-101. The La Plata River compact. The General Assembly hereby approves the compact, designated as the "La Plata River Compact", signed at the City of Santa Fe, State of New Mexico, on the 27th day of November, A. D. 1922, by Delph E. Carpenter as the Commissioner for the State of Colorado, under authority of and in conformity with the provisions of an Act of the General Assembly of the State of Colorado, approved April 2, 1921, entitled "An Act providing for the appointment of a commissioner on behalf of the State of Colorado to negotiate a compact or agreement between the States of Colorado and New Mexico respecting the use and distribution of the waters of the La Plata River and the rights of said States thereto, and making an appropriation therefor.", the same being Chapter 244 of the Session Laws of Colorado, 1921, and signed by Stephen B. Davis, Jr., as the Commissioner for the State of New Mexico, under legislative authority, which said compact is as follows:

La Plata River Compact

The State of Colorado and the State of New Mexico, desiring to provide for the equitable distribution of the waters of the La Plata River and to remove all causes of present and future controversy between them with respect thereto, and being moved by considerations of interstate comity, pursuant to Acts of their respective Legislatures, have resolved to conclude a compact for these purposes and have named as their commissioners:

Delph E. Carpenter, for the State of Colorado; and Stephen B. Davis, Jr., for the State of New Mexico; who have agreed upon the following Articles:

Article I

The State of Colorado, at its own expense, shall establish and maintain two permanent stream-gauging stations upon the La Plata River for the purpose of measuring and recording its flow, which shall be known as the Hesperus Station and the Interstate Station, respectively.

The Hesperus Station shall be located at some convenient place near the village of Hesperus, Colorado. Suitable devices for ascertaining and recording the volume of all diversions from the river above Hesperus Station, shall be established and maintained (without expense to the State of New Mexico), and whenever in this compact reference is made to the flow of the river at Hesperus Station, it shall be construed to include the amount of the concurrent diversions above said station.

The Interstate Station shall be located at some convenient place within one mile of, and above or below, the interstate line. Suitable devices for ascertaining and recording the volume of water diverted by the Enterprise and Pioneer Canals, now serving approximately equal areas in both States, shall be established and maintained (without expense to the State of New Mexico), and whenever in this compact reference is made to the flow of the river at the Interstate Station, it shall be construed to include one-half the volume of the concurrent diversions by such canals, and also the volume of any other water which may hereafter be diverted from said river in Colorado for use in New Mexico.

Each of said stations shall be equipped with suitable devices for recording the flow of water in said river at all times between the 15th day of February and the 1st day of December of each year. The State Engineers of the signatory States shall make provision for co-operating gauging at the two stations, for the details of the operation, exchange of records and data, and publication of the facts.

Article II

The waters of the La Plata River are hereby equitably apportioned between the signatory States, including the citizens thereof, as follows:

1. At all times between the first day of December and the fifteenth day of the succeeding February, each State shall have the unrestricted right to use of all water which may flow within its boundaries.

2. By reason of the usual annual rise and fall, the flow of said river between the fifteenth day of February and the first day of December of each year, shall be apportioned between the States in the following manner:

(a) Each State shall have the unrestricted right to use all the waters within its boundaries on each day when the mean daily flow at the Interstate Station is one hundred cubic feet per second, or more.

(b) On all other days the State of Colorado shall deliver at the Interstate Station a quantity of water equivalent to one-half of the mean flow at the Hesperus Station for the preceding day, but not to exceed one hundred cubic feet per second.

3. Whenever the flow of the river is so low that in the judgment of the State Engineers of the States, the greatest beneficial use of its waters may be secured by distributing all of its waters successively to the land in each State in alternating periods, in lieu of delivery of water as provided in the second paragraph of this article the use of the waters may be so rotated between the two States in such manner for such periods, and to continue for such time as the State Engineers may jointly determine.

4. The State of New Mexico shall not at any time be entitled to receive nor shall the State of Colorado be required to deliver any water not then necessary for beneficial use in the State of New Mexico.

5. A substantial delivery of water under the terms of this Article shall be deemed a compliance with its provisions and minor and compensating irregularities in flow or delivery shall be disregarded.

Article III

The State Engineers of the States by agreement, from time to time, may formulate rules and regulations for carrying out the provisions of this compact, which, when signed and promulgated by them, shall be binding until amended by agreement between them or until terminated by written notice from one to the other.

Article IV

Whenever any official of either State is designated to perform any duty under this compact, such designation shall be interpreted to include the State official or officials upon whom the duties now performed by such official may hereafter devolve.

Article V

The physical and other conditions peculiar to the La Plata River and the territory drained and served thereby constitute the basis for this compact, and neither of the signatory States concedes the establishment of any general principle or precedent by the concluding of this compact.

Article VI

This compact may be modified or terminated at any time by mutual consent of the signatory States and upon such termination all rights then established hereunder shall continue unimpaired.

Article VII

This compact shall become operative when approved by the Legislature of each of the signatory States and by the Congress of the United States. Notice of approval by the Legislatures shall be given by the Governor of each State to the Governor of the other State, and the President of the United States is requested to give notice to the Governors of the signatory States of approval by the Congress of the United States.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, The commissioners have signed this compact in duplicate originals, one of which shall be deposited with the Secretary of State of each of the signatory States.

Done at the city of Santa Fe, in the State of New Mexico, this 27th day of November, in the year of our Lord One Thousand Nine Hundred and Twenty-Two.

Animas-La Plata Project Compact

37-64-101. Animas-La Plata project compact.

37-64-101. Animas-La Plata project compact. The general assembly hereby ratifies the compact designated as the "Animas-La Plata Project Compact" to which the consent of congress was given by Public Law 90-537, section 501 (c), approved September 30, 1968, by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America. Said compact is as follows:

ANIMAS-LA PLATA PROJECT COMPACT

The State of Colorado and the State of New Mexico, in order to implement the operation of the Animas-La Plata Federal Reclamation Project, Colorado-New Mexico, a proposed participating project under the Colorado River Storage Project Act (70 Stat. 105; 43 U.S.C. 620) and being moved by considerations of interstate comity, have resolved to conclude a compact for these purposes and have agreed upon the following articles:

ARTICLE I

A. The right to store and divert water in Colorado and New Mexico from the La Plata and Animas River systems, including return flow to the La Plata River from Animas River diversions, for uses in New Mexico under the Animas-La Plata Federal Reclamation Project shall be valid and of equal priority with those rights granted by decree of the Colorado state courts for the uses of water in Colorado for that project providing such uses in New Mexico are within the allocation of water made to that state by articles III and XIV of the Upper Colorado River Basin Compact (63 Stat. 31).

B. The restrictions of the last sentence of Section (a) of Article IX of the Upper Colorado River Basin Compact shall not be construed to vitiate paragraph A of this article.

ARTICLE II

This Compact shall become binding and obligatory when it shall have been ratified by the legislatures of each of the signatory States.

ARTICLE 65

South Platte River Compact

37-65-101. South Platte River compact.

37-65-101. South Platte River compact. The General Assembly hereby approves the compact, designated as the "South Platte River Compact", between the states of Colorado and Nebraska, signed at the City of Lincoln, State of Nebraska, on the 27th day of April, A.D. 1923, by Delph E. Carpenter as the Commissioner for the State of Colorado, under authority of Chapter 243, Session Laws of Colorado, 1921, and Chapter 190, Session Laws of Colorado, 1923, and by Robert H. Willis as the Commissioner for the State of Nebraska, thereunto duly authorized, which said compact is as follows:

South Platte River Compact Between The States Of Colorado And Nebraska

The State of Colorado and the State of Nebraska, desiring to remove all causes of present and future controversy between said States, and between citizens of one against citizens of the other, with respect to the waters of the South Platte River, and being moved by considerations of interstate comity, have resolved to conclude a compact for these purposes and, through their respective Governors, have named as their commissioners:

Delph E. Carpenter, for the State of Colorado; and Robert H. Willis, for the State of Nebraska; who have agreed upon the following articles:

Article I

In this compact:

1. The State of Colorado and the State of Nebraska are designated, respectively, as "Colorado" and "Nebraska".

2. The provisions hereof respecting each signatory State, shall include and bind its citizens and corporations and all others engaged or interested in the diversion and use of the waters of the South Platte River in that State.

3. The term "Upper Section" means that part of the South Platte River in the State of Colorado above and westerly from the west boundary of Washington County, Colorado.

4. The term "Lower Section" means that part of the South Platte River in the State of Colorado between the west boundary of Washington County and the intersection of said river with the boundary line common to the signatory States.

5. The term "Interstate Station" means that streams gauging station described in Article II.

6. The term "flow of the river" at the Interstate Station means the measured flow of the river at said station plus all increment to said flow entering the river between the Interstate Station and the diversion works of the Western Irrigation District in Nebraska.

Article II

1. Colorado and Nebraska, at their joint expense, shall maintain a stream gauging station upon the South Platte River at the river bridge near the town of Julesburg, Colorado, or at a convenient point between said bridge and the diversion works of the canal of the Western Irrigation District in Nebraska, for the purpose of ascertaining and recording the amount of water flowing in said river from Colorado into Nebraska and to said diversion works at all times between the first day of April and the fifteenth day of October of each year. The location of said station may be changed from year to year as the river channels and water flow conditions of the river may require.

2. The State Engineer of Colorado and the Secretary of the Department of Public Works of Nebraska shall make provision for the co-operative gauging at and the details of operation of said station and for the exchange and publication of records and data. Said state officials shall ascertain the rate of flow of the South Platte River through the Lower Section in Colorado and the time required for increases or decreases of flow, at points within said Lower Section, to reach the Interstate Station. In carrying out the provisions of Article IV of this compact, Colorado shall always be allowed sufficient time for any increase in flow (less permissible diversions) to pass down the river and be recorded at the Interstate Station.

Article III

The waters of Lodgepole Creek, a tributary of the South Platte River flowing through Nebraska and entering said river within Colorado, hereafter shall be divided and apportioned between the signatory States as follows:

1. The point of division of the waters of Lodgepole Creek shall be located on said creek two miles north of the boundary line common to the signatory states.

2. Nebraska shall have the full and unmolested use and benefit of all waters flowing in Lodgepole Creek above the point of diversion and Colorado waives all present and future claims to the use of said waters. Colorado shall have the exclusive use and benefit of all waters flowing at or below the point of division.

3. Nebraska may use the channel of Lodgepole Creek below the point of division and the channel of the South Platte River between the mouth of Lodgepole Creek and the Interstate Station, for the carriage of any waters of Lodgepole Creek which may be stored in Nebraska above the point of division and which Nebraska may desire to deliver to ditches from the South Platte River in Nebraska, and any such waters so carried shall be free from interference by diversions in Colorado and shall not be included as a part of the flow of the South Platte River to be delivered by Colorado at the Interstate Station in compliance with Article IV of this compact, provided, however, that such runs of stored water shall be made in amounts of not less than ten cubic feet per second of time and for periods of not less than twenty-four hours.

Article IV

The waters of the South Platte River hereafter shall be divided and apportioned between the signatory States as follows:

1. At all times between the fifteenth day of October of any year and the first day of April of the next succeeding year, Colorado shall have the full and uninterrupted use and benefit of the waters of the river flowing within the boundaries of the State, except as otherwise provided by Article VI.

2. Between the first day of April and the fifteenth day of October of each year, Colorado shall not permit diversions from the Lower Section of the river, to supply Colorado appropriations having adjudicated dates of priority subsequent to the fourteenth day of June, 1897, to an extent that will diminish the flow of the river at the Interstate Station, on any day, below a mean flow of 120 cubic feet of water per second of time, except as limited in paragraph three (3) of this Article.

3. Nebraska shall not be entitled to receive and Colorado shall not be required to deliver, on any day, any part of the flow of the river to pass the Interstate Station, as provided by paragraph two (2) of this Article, not then necessary for beneficial use by those entitled to divert water from said river within Nebraska.

4. The flow of the river at the Interstate Station shall be used by Nebraska to supply the needs of present perfected rights to the use of water from the river within said State before permitting diversions from the river by other claimants.

5. It is recognized that variable climatic conditions, the regulation and administration of the stream in Colorado, and other causes, will produce diurnal and other unavoidable variations and fluctuations in the flow of the river at the Interstate Station, and it is agreed that, in the performance of the provisions of said paragraph two (2), minor or compensating irregularities and fluctuations in the flow at the Interstate Station shall be permitted; but where any deficiency of the mean daily flow at the Interstate Station may have been occasioned by neglect, error or failure in the performance of duty by the Colorado water officials having charge of the administration of diversions from the Lower Section of the river in that state, each such deficiency shall be made up, within the next succeeding period of seventy-two hours, by delivery of additional flow at the Interstate Station, over and above the amount specified in paragraph two (2) of this Article, sufficient to compensate for such deficiency.

6. Reductions in diversions from the Lower Section of the river, necessary to the performance of paragraph two (2) of this Article by Colorado, shall not impair the rights of appropriators in Colorado (not to include the proposed Nebraska canal described in Article VI), whose supply has been so reduced, to demand and receive equivalent amounts of water from other parts of the stream in that State according to its Constitution, laws, and the decisions of its courts.

7. Subject to compliance with the provisions of this Article, Colorado shall have and enjoy the otherwise full and uninterrupted use and benefit of the waters of the river which hereafter may flow within the boundaries of that State from the first day of April to the fifteenth day of October in each year, but Nebraska shall be permitted to divert, under and subject to the provisions and conditions of Article VI, any surplus waters which otherwise would flow past the Interstate Station.

Article V

1. Colorado shall have the right to maintain, operate, and extend, within Nebraska, the Peterson Canal and other canals of the Julesburg Irrigation District which now are or may hereafter be used for the carriage of water from the South Platte River for the irrigation of lands in both states, and Colorado shall continue to exercise control and jurisdiction of said canals and the carriage and delivery of water thereby. This Article shall not excuse Nebraska water users from making reports to Nebraska officials in compliance with the Nebraska laws.

2. Colorado waives any objection to the delivery of water for irrigation of lands in Nebraska by the canals mentioned in paragraph one (1) of this Article, and agrees that all interests in said canals and the use of waters carried thereby, now or hereafter acquired by owners of lands in Nebraska, shall be afforded the same recognition and protection as are the interests of similar land owners served by said canals within Colorado; provided, however, that Colorado reserves to those in control of said canals the right to enforce the collection of charges or assessments, hereafter levied or made against such interest of owners of the lands in Nebraska, by withholding the delivery of water until the payment of such charges or assessments; provided, however, such charges or assessments shall be the same as those levied against similar interests of owners of lands in Colorado.

3. Nebraska grants to Colorado the right to acquire by purchase, prescription, or the exercise of eminent domain, such rights-of-way, easements or lands as may be necessary for the construction, maintenance, operation, and protection of those parts of the above mentioned canals which now or hereafter may extend into Nebraska.

Article VI

It is the desire of Nebraska to permit its citizens to cause a canal to be constructed and operated for the diversion of water from the South Platte River within Colorado for irrigation of lands in Nebraska; that said canal may commence on the south bank of said river at a point southwesterly from the town of Ovid, Colorado, and may run thence easterly through Colorado along or near the line of survey of the formerly proposed "Perkins County Canal" (sometimes known as the "South Divide Canal") and into Nebraska, and that said project shall be permitted to divert waters of the river as hereinafter provided. With respect to such proposed canal it is agreed:

1. Colorado consents that Nebraska and its citizens may hereafter construct, maintain, and operate such a canal and thereby may divert water from the South Platte River within Colorado for use in Nebraska, in the manner and at the time in this Article provided, and grants to Nebraska and its citizens the right to acquire by purchase, prescription, or the exercise of eminent domain such rights-of-way, easements or lands as may be necessary for the construction, maintenance, and operation of said canal; subject, however, to the reservations and limitations and upon the conditions expressed in this Article which are and shall be limitations upon and reservations and conditions running with the rights and privileges hereby granted, and which shall be expressed in all permits issued by Nebraska with respect to said canal.

2. The net future flow of the Lower Section of the South Platte River, which may remain after supplying all present and future appropriations from the Upper Section, and after supplying all appropriations from the Lower Section perfected prior to the seventeenth day of December, 1921, and after supplying the additional future appropriations in the Lower Section for the benefit of which a prior and preferred use of thirty-five thousand acre-feet of water is reserved by subparagraph (a) of this Article, may be diverted by said canal between the fifteenth day of October of any year and the first day of April of the next succeeding year subject to the following reservations, limitations and conditions:

(a) In addition to the water now diverted from the Lower Section of the river by present perfected appropriations, Colorado hereby reserves the prior, preferred and superior right to store, use and to have in storage in readiness for use on and after the first day of April in each year, an aggregate of thirty-five thousand acre-feet of water to be diverted from the flow of the river in the Lower Section between the fifteenth day of October of each year and the first day of April of the next succeeding year, without regard to the manner or time of making such future uses, and diversions of water by said Nebraska canal shall in no manner impair or interfere with the exercise by Colorado of the right of future use of the water hereby reserved.

(b) Subject at all times to the reservation made by subparagraph (a) and to the other provisions of this Article, said proposed canal shall be entitled to divert five hundred cubic feet of water per second of time from the flow of the river in the Lower Sections, as of priority of appropriation of date December 17, 1921, only between the fifteenth day of October of any year and the first day of April of the next succeeding year upon the express condition that the right to so divert water is and shall be limited exclusively to said annual period and shall not constitute the basis for any claim to water necessary to supply all present and future appropriations in the Upper Section or present appropriations in the Lower Section and those hereafter to be made therein as provided in subparagraph (a).

3. Neither this compact nor the construction and operation of such a canal nor the diversion, carriage and application of water thereby shall vest in Nebraska, or in those in charge or control of said canal or in the users of water therefrom, any prior, preferred or superior servitude upon or claim or right to the use of any water of the South Platte River in Colorado from the first day of April to the fifteenth day of October of any year or against any present or future appropriator or use of water from said river in Colorado during said period of every year, and Nebraska specifically waives any such claims and agrees that the same shall never be made or asserted. Any surplus waters of the river, which otherwise would flow past the Interstate Station during such period of any year after supplying all present and future diversions by Colorado, may be diverted by such a canal, subject to the other provisions and conditions of this Article.

4. Diversion of water by said canal shall not diminish the flow necessary to pass the Interstate Station to satisfy superior claims of users of water from the river in Nebraska.

5. No appropriations of water from the South Platte River by any other canal within Colorado shall be transferred to said canal or be claimed or asserted for diversion and carriage for use on lands in Nebraska.

6. Nebraska shall have the right to regulate diversions of water by said canal for the purposes of protecting other diversions from the South Platte River within Nebraska and of avoiding violations of the provisions of Article IV; but Colorado reserves the right at all times to regulate and control the diversions by said canal to the extent necessary for the protection of all appropriations and diversions within Colorado or necessary to maintain the flow at the Interstate Stations as provided by Article IV of this compact.

Article VII

Nebraska agrees that compliance by Colorado with the provisions of this compact and the delivery of water in accordance with its terms shall relieve Colorado from any further or additional demand or claim by Nebraska upon the waters of the South Platte River within Colorado.

Article VIII

Whenever any official of either State is designated herein to perform any duty under this compact, such designation shall be interpreted to include the state official or officials upon whom the duties now performed by such official may hereafter devolve, and it shall be the duty of the officials of the State of Colorado charged with the duty of the distribution of the waters of the South Platte River for irrigation purposes, to make deliveries of water at the Interstate Station in compliance with this compact without necessity of enactment of special statutes for such purposes by the General Assembly of the State of Colorado.

Article IX

The physical and other conditions peculiar to the South Platte River and to the territory drained and served thereby constitute the basis for this compact and neither of the signatory States hereby concedes the establishment of any general principle or precedent with respect to other interstate streams.

Article X

This compact may be modified or terminated at any time by mutual consent of the signatory States, but, if so terminated and Nebraska or its citizens shall seek to enforce any claims of vested rights in the waters of the South Platte River, the statutes of limitation shall not run in favor of Colorado or its citizens with reference to claims of the Western Irrigation District to the water of the South Platte River from the sixteenth day of April, 1916, and as to all other present claims from the date of the approval of this compact to the date of such termination, and the State of Colorado and its citizens who may be made defendants in any action brought for such purpose shall not be permitted to plead the statutes of limitation for such period of time.

Article XI

This compact shall become operative when approved by the Legislature of each of the signatory States and by the Congress of the United States. Notice of approval by the Legislature shall be given by the Governor of each State to the Governor of the other State and to the President of the United States, and the President of the United States is requested to give notice to the Governors of the signatory States of the approval by the Congress of the United States.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the Commissioners have signed this compact in duplicate originals, one of which shall be deposited with the Secretary of State of each of the Signatory States.

Done at Lincoln, in the State of Nebraska, this 27th day of April, in the year of our Lord One Thousand Nine Hundred and Twenty-three.

ANNOTATION

State engineer may make supplementary rules. As a result of changed conditions that have occurred since the South Platte river compact was created, the compact is deficient in establishing standards for administration within Colorado. Therefore, the compact is no longer self-executing, and the state engineer may adopt rules as necessary to ensure compliance, subject to the statutory conditions imposed by § 37-92-308 and other applicable sections. Simpson v. Bijou Irrigation Co., 69 P.3d 50 (Colo. 2003).

ARTICLE 66

Rio Grande River Compact

37-66-101. Rio Grande River compact. 37-66-102. Compact to be ratified.

37-66-101. Rio Grande River compact. The general assembly hereby approves the compact between the states of Colorado, New Mexico, and Texas, designated as the "Rio Grande compact", signed at the city of Santa Fe, state of New Mexico, on the 18th day of March, A. D. 1938, by M. C. Hinderlinder, commissioner for the state of Colorado; Thomas M. McClure, commissioner for the state of New Mexico; Frank B. Clayton, commissioner for the state of Texas, and approved by S. O. Harper, representative of the President of the United States, which said compact is as follows:

Rio Grande Compact

The state of Colorado, the state of New Mexico, and the state of Texas, desiring to remove all causes of present and future controversy among these states and between citizens of one of these states and citizens of another state with respect to the use of the waters of the Rio Grande above Fort Quitman, Texas, and being moved by considerations of interstate comity, and for the purpose of effecting an equitable apportionment of such waters, have resolved to conclude a compact for the attainment of these purposes, and to that end, through their respective governors, have named as their respective commissioners:

For the state of Colorado—M. C. Hinderlinder

For the state of New Mexico—Thomas M. McClure

For the state of Texas—Frank B. Clayton who, after negotiations participated in by S. O. Harper, appointed by the President as the representative of the United States of America, have agreed upon the following articles, to-wit:

Article I

(a) The state of Colorado, the state of New Mexico, the state of Texas, and the United States of America, are hereinafter designated "Colorado," "New Mexico," "Texas," and the "United States," respectively.

(b) "The commission" means the agency created by this compact for the administration thereof.

(c) The term "Rio Grande basin" means all of the territory drained by the Rio Grande and its tributaries in Colorado, in New Mexico, and in Texas above Fort Quitman, including the closed basin in Colorado.

(d) The "closed basin" means that part of the Rio Grande basin in Colorado where the streams drain into the San Luis lakes and adjacent territory, and do not normally contribute to the flow of the Rio Grande.

(e) The term "tributary" means any stream which naturally contributes to the flow of the Rio Grande.

(f) "Transmountain diversion" is water imported into the drainage basin of the Rio Grande from any stream system outside of the Rio Grande basin, exclusive of the closed basin.

(g) "Annual debits" are the amounts by which actual deliveries in any calendar year fall below scheduled deliveries.

(h) "Annual credits" are the amounts by which actual deliveries in any calendar year exceed scheduled deliveries.

(i) "Accrued debits" are the amounts by which the sum of all annual debits exceeds the sum of all annual credits over any common period of time.

(j) "Accrued credits" are the amounts by which the sum of all annual credits exceeds the sum of all annual debits over any common period of time.

(k) "Project storage" is the combined capacity of Elephant Butte reservoir and all other reservoirs actually available for the storage of usable water below Elephant Butte and above the first diversion to lands of the Rio Grande project, but not more than a total of 2,638,860 acre-feet.

(l) "Usable water" is all water, exclusive of credit water, which is in project storage and which is available for release in accordance with irrigation demands, including deliveries to Mexico.

(m) "Credit water" is that amount of water in project storage which is equal to the accrued credit of Colorado, or New Mexico, or both.

(n) "Unfilled capacity" is the difference between the total physical capacity of project storage and the amount of usable water then in storage.

(o) "Actual release" is the amount of usable water released in any calendar year from the lowest reservoir comprising project storage.

(p) "Actual spill" is all water which is actually spilled from Elephant Butte reservoir, or is released therefrom for flood control, in excess of the current demand on project storage and which does not become usable water by storage in another reservoir; provided, that actual spill of usable water cannot occur until all credit water shall have been spilled.

(q) "Hypothetical spill" is the time in any year at which usable water would have spilled from project storage if 790,000 acre-feet had been released therefrom at rates proportional to the actual release in every year from the starting date to the end of the year in which hypothetical spill occurs, in computing hypothetical spill the initial condition shall be the amount of usable water in project storage at the beginning of the calendar year following the effective date of this compact, and thereafter the initial condition shall be the amount of usable water in project storage at the beginning of the calendar year following each actual spill.

Article II

The commission shall cause to be maintained and operated a stream gauging station equipped with an automatic water stage recorder at each of the following points, to-wit:

- (a) On the Rio Grande near Del Norte above the principal points of diversion to the San Luis valley;
- (b) On the Conejos river near Mogote;
- (c) On the Los Pinos river near Ortiz;
- (d) On the San Antonio river at Ortiz;
- (e) On the Conejos river at its mouths near Los Sauces;
- (f) On the Rio Grande near Lobatos;
- (g) On the Rio Chama below El Vado reservoir;
- (h) On the Rio Grande at Otowi bridge near San Ildefonso;
- (i) On the Rio Grande near San Acacia;
- (j) On the Rio Grande at San Marcial;
- (k) On the Rio Grande below Elephant Butte reservoir;
- (l) On the Rio Grande below Caballo reservoir.

Similar gauging stations shall be maintained and operated below any other reservoir constructed after 1929, and at such other points as may be necessary for the securing of records required for the carrying out of the compact; and automatic water stage recorders shall be maintained and operated on each of the reservoirs mentioned, and on all others constructed after 1929.

Such gauging stations shall be equipped, maintained and operated by the commission directly or in co-operation with an appropriate federal or state agency, and the equipment, method and frequency of measurement at such stations shall be such as to produce reliable records at all times.

Article III

The obligation of Colorado to deliver water in the Rio Grande at the Colorado-New Mexico state line, measured at or near Lobatos, in each calendar year, shall be ten thousand acre-feet less than the sum of those quantities set forth in the two following tabulations of relationship, which correspond to the quantities at the upper index stations:

Discharge of Conejos River
Quantities in thousands of acre-feet

Conejos Index Supply (1)	Conejos River at Mouths (2)
100	0
150	20
200	45
250	75
300	109

450	232
500	278
550	326
600	376
650	426
700	476

- Intermediate quantities shall be computed by proportional parts.
- (1) Conejos index supply is the natural flow Conejos river at the U. S. G. S. gauging station near Mogote during the calendar year, plus the natural flow of Los Pinos river at the U. S. G. S. gauging station near Ortiz and the natural flow of San Antonio river at the U. S. G. S. gauging station at Ortiz, both during the months of April to October, inclusive.
  - (2) Conejos river at mouths is the combined discharge of branches of this river at the U. S. G. S. gauging stations near Los Sauces during the calendar year.

Discharge of Rio Grande Exclusive of Conejos River
Quantities in thousands of acre-feet

Rio Grande at Del Norte (3)	Rio Grande at Lobatos less Conejos at Mouths (4)

1,000	430
1,100	540
1,200	640
1,300	740
1,400	840

Intermediate quantities shall be computed by proportional parts.

(4) Rio Grande at Lobatos less Conejos at mouths is the total flow of the Rio Grande at the U. S. G. S. gauging station near Lobatos, less the discharge of Conejos river at its mouths, during the calendar year.

The application of these schedules shall be subject to the provisions hereinafter set forth and appropriate adjustments shall be made for (a) any change in location of gauging stations; (b) any new or increased depletion of the runoff above inflow index gauging stations; and (c) any transmountain diversions into the drainage basin of the Rio Grande above Lobatos.

In event any works are constructed after 1937 for the purpose of delivering water into the Rio Grande from the closed basin, Colorado shall not be credited with the amount of such water delivered, unless the proportion of sodium ions shall be less than forty-five per cent of the total positive ions in that water when the total dissolved solids in such water exceeds three hundred fifty parts per million.

Article IV

The obligation of New Mexico to deliver water in the Rio Grande at San Marcial, during each calendar year, exclusive of the months of July, August and September, shall be that quantity set forth in the following tabulation of relationship, which corresponds to the quantity at the upper index station:

Discharge of Rio Grande at Otowi Bridge
And at San Marcial Exclusive of July,
August and September
Quantities in thousands of acre-feet

Otowi Index Supply (5)	San Marcial Index Supply (6)
100	0

1800	1608
1900	1730
2000	1856
2100	1985
2200	2117
2300	2253

Intermediate quantities shall be computed by proportional parts.

(6) San Marcial index supply is the recorded flow of the Rio Grande at the gauging station at San Marcial during the calendar year exclusive of the flow during the months of July, August and September.

The application of this schedule shall be subject to the provisions hereinafter set forth and appropriate adjustments shall be made for (a) any change in location of gauging stations; (b) depletion after 1929 in New Mexico at any time of the year of the natural runoff at Otowi Bridge; (c) depletion of the runoff during July, August and September of tributaries between Otowi Bridge and San Marcial, by works constructed after 1937; and (d) any transmountain diversions into the Rio Grande between Lobatos and San Marcial.

Concurrent records shall be kept of the flow of the Rio Grande at San Marcial, near San Acacia, and of the release from Elephant Butte reservoir, to the end that the records at these three stations may be correlated.

Article V

If at any time it should be the unanimous finding and determination of the commission that because of changed physical conditions, or for any other reason, reliable records are not obtainable, or cannot be obtained, at any of the stream gauging stations herein referred to, such stations may, with the unanimous approval of the Commission, be abandoned, and with such approval another station, or other stations, shall be established and new measurements shall be substituted which, in the unanimous opinion of the commission, will result in substantially the same results, so far as the rights and obligations to deliver water are concerned, as would have existed if such substitution of stations and measurements had not been so made.

Article VI

Commencing with the year following the effective date of this compact, all credits and debits of Colorado and New Mexico shall be computed for each calendar year; provided, that in a year of actual spill no annual credits nor annual debits shall be computed for that year.

In the case of Colorado, no annual debit nor accrued debit shall exceed 100,000 acre-feet, except as either or both may be caused by holdover storage of water in reservoirs constructed after 1937 in the drainage basin of the Rio Grande above Lobatos. Within the physical limitations of storage capacity in such reservoirs, Colorado shall retain water in storage at all times to the extent of its accrued debit.

In the case of New Mexico, the accrued debit shall not exceed 200,000 acre-feet at any time, except as such debit may be caused by holdover storage of water in reservoirs constructed after 1929 in the drainage basin of the Rio Grande between Lobatos and San Marcial. Within the physical limitations of storage capacity in such reservoirs, New Mexico shall retain water in storage at all times to the extent of its accrued debit. In computing the magnitude of accrued credits or debits, New Mexico shall not be charged with any greater debt in any one year than the sum of 150,000 acre-feet and all gains in the quantity of water in storage in such year.

The commission by unanimous action may authorize the release from storage of any amount of water which is then being held in storage by reason of accrued debits of Colorado or New Mexico; provided, that such water shall be replaced at the first opportunity thereafter.

In computing the amount of accrued credits and accrued debits of Colorado or New Mexico, any annual credits in excess of 150,000 acre-feet shall be taken as equal to that amount.

In any year in which actual spill occurs, the accrued credits of Colorado, or New Mexico, or both, at the beginning of the year shall be reduced in proportion to their respective credits by the amount of such actual spill; provided, that the amount of actual spill shall be deemed to be increased by the aggregate gain in the amount of water in storage, prior to the time of spill, in reservoirs above San Marcial constructed after 1929; provided, further, that if the commissioners for the states having accrued credits authorized the release of part, or all, of such credits in advance of spill, the amount so released shall be deemed to constitute actual spill.

In any year in which there is actual spill of usable water, or at the time of hypothetical spill thereof, all accrued debits of Colorado, or New Mexico, or both, at the beginning of the year shall be cancelled.

In any year in which the aggregate of accrued debits of Colorado and New Mexico exceeds the minimum unfilled capacity of project storage, such debits shall be reduced proportionally to an aggregate amount equal to such minimum unfilled capacity.

To the extent that accrued credits are impounded in reservoirs between San Marcial and Courchesne, and to the extent that accrued debits are impounded in reservoirs above San Marcial, such credits and debits shall be reduced annually to compensate for evaporation losses in the proportion that such credits or debits bore to the total amount of water in such reservoirs during the year.

Article VII

Neither Colorado nor New Mexico shall increase the amount of water in storage in reservoirs constructed after 1929 whenever there is less than 400,000 acre-feet of usable water in project storage; provided, that if the actual releases of usable water from the beginning of the calendar year following the effective date of this compact, or from the beginning of the calendar year following actual spill, have aggregated more than an average of 790,000 acre-feet per annum, the time at which such minimum stage is reached shall be adjusted to compensate for the difference between the total actual release and releases at such average rate; provided, further, that Colorado or New Mexico, or both, may relinquish accrued credits at any time, and Texas may accept such relinquished water, and in such event the state, or states, so relinquishing shall be entitled to store water in the amount of the water so relinquished.

Article VIII

During the month of January of any year the commissioner for Texas may demand of Colorado and New Mexico, and the commissioner for New Mexico may demand of Colorado, the release of water from storage reservoirs constructed after 1929 to the amount of the accrued debits of Colorado and New Mexico, respectively, and such releases shall be made by each at the greatest rate practicable under the conditions then prevailing, and in proportion to the total debit of each, and in amounts, limited by their accrued debits, sufficient to bring the quantity of usable water in project storage to 600,000 acre-feet by March first and to maintain this quantity in storage until April thirtieth, to the end that a normal release of 790,000 acre-feet may be made from project storage in that year.

Article IX

Colorado agrees with New Mexico that in event the United States or the state of New Mexico decides to construct the necessary works for diverting the waters of the San Juan river, or any of its tributaries, into the Rio Grande, Colorado hereby consents to the construction of said works and the diversion of waters from the San Juan river, or the tributaries thereof, into the Rio Grande in New Mexico, provided the present and prospective uses of water in Colorado by other diversions from the San Juan river, or its tributaries are protected.

Article X

In the event water from another drainage basin shall be imported into the Rio Grande basin by the United States or Colorado or New Mexico, or any of them jointly, the state having the right to the use of such water shall be given proper credit therefor in the application of the schedules.

Article XI

New Mexico and Texas agree that upon the effective date of this compact all controversies between said states relative to the quantity or quality of the water of the Rio Grande are composed and settled; however, nothing herein shall be interpreted to prevent recourse by a signatory state to the supreme court of the United States for redress should the character or quality of the water, at the point of delivery, be changed hereafter by one signatory state to the injury of another. Nothing herein shall be construed as an admission by any signatory state that the use of water for irrigation causes increase of salinity for which the user is responsible in law.

Article XII

To administer the provisions of this compact there shall be constituted a commission composed of one representative from each state, to be known as the Rio Grande compact commission. The state engineer of Colorado shall be ex officio the Rio Grande compact commissioner for Colorado. The state engineer of New Mexico shall be ex officio the Rio Grande compact commissioner for New Mexico. The Rio Grande compact commissioner for Texas shall be appointed by the governor of Texas. The President of the United States shall be requested to designate a representative of the United States to sit with such commission, and such representative of the United States, if so designated by the President, shall act as chairman of the commission without vote.

The salaries and personal expenses of the Rio Grande compact commissioners for the three states shall be paid by their respective states, and all other expenses incident to the administration of this compact, not borne by the United States, shall be borne equally by the three states.

In addition to the powers and duties hereinbefore specifically conferred upon such commission, and the members thereof, the jurisdiction of such commission shall extend only to the collection, correlation and presentation of factual data and the maintenance of records having a bearing upon the administration of this compact, and, by unanimous action, to the making of recommendations to the respective states upon matters connected with the administration of this compact. In connection therewith, the commission may employ such engineering and clerical aid as may be reasonably necessary within the limit of funds provided for that purpose by the respective states. Annual reports compiled for each calendar year shall be made by the commission and transmitted to the governors of the signatory states on or before March first following the year covered by the report. The commission may, by unanimous action, adopt rules and regulations consistent with the provisions of this compact to govern their proceedings.

The findings of the Commission shall not be conclusive in any court or tribunal which may be called upon to interpret or enforce this compact.

Article XIII

At the expiration of every five year period after the effective date of this compact, the commission may, by unanimous consent, review any provisions hereof which are not substantive in character and which do not affect the basic principles upon which the compact is founded, and shall meet for the consideration of such questions on the request of any member of the commission; provided, however, that the provisions hereof shall remain in full force and effect until changed and amended within the intent of the compact by unanimous action of the commissioners, and until any changes in this compact are ratified by the legislatures of the respective states and consented to by the congress, in the same manner as this compact is required to be ratified to become effective.

Article XIV

The schedules herein contained and the quantities of water herein allocated shall never be increased nor diminished by reason of any increase or diminution in the delivery or loss of water to Mexico.

Article XV

The physical and other conditions characteristic of the Rio Grande and peculiar to the territory drained and served thereby, and to the development thereof, have actuated this compact and none of the signatory states admits that any provisions herein contained establishes any general principle or precedent applicable to other interstate streams.

Article XVI

Nothing in this compact shall be construed as affecting the obligations of the United States of America to Mexico under existing treaties, or to the Indian tribes, or as impairing the rights of the Indian tribes.

Article XVII

This compact shall become effective when ratified by the legislatures of each of the signatory states and consented to by the congress of the United States. Notice of ratification shall be given by the governor of each state to the governors of the other states and to the President of the United States, and the President of the United States is requested to give notice to the governors of each of the signatory states of the consent of the congress of the United States.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the commissioners have signed this compact in quadruplicate original, one of which shall be deposited in the archives of the Department of State of the United States of America and shall be deemed the authoritative original, and of which a duly certified copy shall be forwarded to the governor of each of the signatory states.

Done at the city of Santa Fe, in the state of New Mexico, on the 18th day of March, in the year of our Lord, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Thirty-eight.

ARTICLE 67

Republican River Compact

37-67-101. Ratification, purpose, and articles of compact.

37-67-102. When compact binding.

37-67-101. Ratification, purpose, and articles of compact. The general assembly hereby ratifies the compact between the states of Colorado, Kansas, and Nebraska, designated as the "Republican River Compact", signed in the city of Lincoln, state of Nebraska, on the 31st day of December, A. D. 1942, by M. C. Hinderlider, commissioner for the state of Colorado; George S. Knapp, commissioner for the state of Kansas; Wardner G. Scott, commissioner for the state of Nebraska, which said compact is as follows:

Republican River Compact

The states of Colorado, Kansas, and Nebraska, parties signatory to this compact (hereinafter referred to as Colorado, Kansas, and Nebraska, respectively, or individually as a state, or collectively as the states), having resolved to conclude a compact with respect to the waters of the Republican River Basin, and being duly authorized therefor by the Act of the Congress of the United States of America, approved August 4, 1942, (Public No. 696, 77th Congress, chapter 545, 2nd Session) and pursuant to acts of their respective legislatures have, through their respective governors, appointed as their commissioners:

M. C. Hinderlider, for Colorado

George S. Knapp, for Kansas

Wardner G. Scott, for Nebraska who, after negotiations participated in by Glenn L. Parker, appointed by the President as the representative of the United States of America, have agreed upon the following articles:

Article I

The major purposes of this compact are to provide for the most efficient use of the waters of the Republican River Basin (hereinafter referred to as the "Basin") for multiple purposes; to provide for an equitable division of such waters; to remove all causes, present and future, which might lead to controversies; to promote interstate comity; to recognize that the most efficient utilization of the waters within the Basin is for beneficial consumptive use; and to promote joint action by the states and the United States in the efficient use of water and the control of destructive floods.

The physical and other conditions peculiar to the Basin constitute the basis for this compact, and none of the states hereby, nor the Congress of the United States by its consent, concedes that this compact establishes any general principle or precedent with respect to any other interstate stream.

Article II

The Basin is all the area in Colorado, Kansas, and Nebraska, which is naturally drained by the Republican River, and its tributaries, to its junction with the Smoky Hill River in Kansas. The main stem of the Republican River extends from the junction near Haigler, Nebraska, of its North Fork and the Arikaree River, to its junction with Smoky Hill River near Junction City, Kansas. Frenchman Creek (River) in Nebraska is a continuation of Frenchman Creek (River) in Colorado. Red Willow Creek in Colorado is not identical with the stream having the same name in Nebraska. A map of the Basin approved by the commissioners is attached and made a part hereof.

The term "Acre-foot," as herein used, is the quantity of water required to cover an acre to the depth of one foot and is equivalent to forty-three thousand, five hundred sixty (43,560) cubic feet.

The term "Virgin Water Supply," as herein used, is defined to be the water supply within the Basin undepleted by the activities of man.

The term "Beneficial Consumptive Use" is herein defined to be that use by which the water supply of the Basin is consumed through the activities of man, and shall include water consumed by evaporation from any reservoir, canal, ditch, or irrigated area.

Beneficial consumptive use is the basis and principle upon which the allocations of water hereinafter made are predicated.

Article III

The specific allocations in acre-feet hereinafter made to each state are derived from the computed average annual virgin water supply originating in the following designated drainage basins, or parts thereof, in the amounts shown:

North Fork of the Republican River drainage basin in Colorado, 44,700 acre-feet;

Arikaree River drainage basin, 19,610 acre-feet;

Buffalo Creek drainage basin, 7,890 acre-feet;

Rock Creek drainage basin, 11,000 acre-feet;

South Fork of the Republican River drainage basin, 57,200 acre-feet;

Frenchman Creek (River) drainage basin in Nebraska, 98,500 acre-feet;

Blackwood Creek drainage basin, 6,800 acre-feet;

Driftwood Creek drainage basin, 7,300 acre-feet;

Red Willow Creek drainage basin in Nebraska, 21,900 acre-feet;

Medicine Creek drainage basin, 50,800 acre-feet;

Beaver Creek drainage basin, 16,500 acre-feet;

Sappa Creek drainage basin, 21,400 acre-feet;

Prairie Dog Creek drainage basin, 27,600 acre-feet;

The North Fork of the Republican River in Nebraska and the main stem of the Republican River between the junction of the North Fork and Arikaree River and the lowest crossing of the river at the Nebraska-Kansas state line and the small tributaries thereof, 87,700 acre-feet.

Should the future computed virgin water supply of any source vary more than ten (10) per cent from the virgin water supply as hereinabove set forth, the allocations hereinafter made from such source shall be increased or decreased in the relative proportions that the future computed virgin water supply of such source bears to the computed virgin water supply used herein.

Article IV

There is hereby allocated for beneficial consumptive use in Colorado, annually, a total of fifty-four thousand, one hundred (54,100) acre-feet of water. This total is to be derived from the sources and in the amounts hereinafter specified and is subject to such quantities being physically available from those sources:

North Fork of the Republican River drainage basin, 10,000 acre-feet;

Arikaree River drainage basin, 15,400 acre-feet;

South Fork of the Republican River drainage basin, 25,400 acre-feet;

Beaver Creek drainage basin, 3,300 acre-feet; and

In addition, for beneficial consumptive use in Colorado annually, the entire water supply of the Frenchman Creek (River) drainage basin in Colorado and the Red Willow Creek drainage basin in Colorado.

There is hereby allocated for beneficial consumptive use in Kansas, annually, a total of one hundred ninety thousand, three hundred (190,300) acre-feet of water. This total is to be derived from the sources and in the amounts hereinafter specified and is subject to such quantities being physically available from those sources:

Arikaree River drainage basin, 1,000 acre-feet;

South Fork of the Republican River drainage basin, 23,000 acre-feet;

Driftwood Creek drainage basin, 500 acre-feet;

Beaver Creek drainage basin, 6,400 acre-feet;

Sappa Creek drainage basin, 8,800 acre-feet;

Prairie Dog Creek drainage basin, 12,600 acre-feet;

From the main stem of the Republican River upstream from the lowest crossing of the river at the Nebraska-Kansas state line and from water supplies of upstream basins otherwise unallocated herein, 138,000 acre-feet; provided, that Kansas shall have the right to divert all or any portion thereof at or near Guide Rock, Nebraska; and

In addition there is hereby allocated for beneficial consumptive use in Kansas, annually, the entire water supply originating in the Basin downstream from the lowest crossing of the river at the Nebraska-Kansas state line.

There is hereby allocated for beneficial consumptive use in Nebraska, annually, a total of two hundred thirty-four thousand, five hundred (234,500) acre-feet of water. This total is to be derived from the sources and in the amounts hereinafter specified and is subject to such quantities being physically available from those sources:

North Fork of the Republican River drainage basin in Colorado, 11,000 acre-feet;

Frenchman Creek (River) drainage basin in Nebraska, 52,800 acre-feet;

Rock Creek drainage basin, 4,400 acre-feet;

Arikaree River drainage basin, 3,300 acre-feet;

Buffalo Creek drainage basin, 2,600 acre-feet;

South Fork of the Republican River drainage basin, 800 acre-feet;

Driftwood Creek drainage basin, 1,200 acre-feet;

Red Willow Creek drainage basin in Nebraska, 4,200 acre-feet;

Medicine Creek drainage basin, 4,600 acre-feet;

Beaver Creek drainage basin, 6,700 acre-feet;

Sappa Creek drainage basin, 8,800 acre-feet;

Prairie Dog Creek drainage basin, 2,100 acre-feet;

From the North Fork of the Republican River in Nebraska, the main stem of the Republican River between the junction of the North Fork and Arikaree River and the lowest crossing of the river at the Nebraska-Kansas state line, from the small tributaries thereof, and from water supplies of upstream basins otherwise unallocated herein, 132,000 acre-feet.

The use of the waters hereinabove allocated shall be subject to the laws of the state, for use in which the allocations are made.

Article V

The judgment and all provisions thereof in the case of Adelbert A. Weiland, as state engineer of Colorado, et al. v. The Pioneer Irrigation Company, decided June 5, 1922, and reported in 259 U. S. 498, affecting the Pioneer irrigation ditch or canal, are hereby recognized as binding upon the states; and Colorado, through its duly authorized officials, shall have the perpetual and exclusive right to control and regulate diversions of water at all times by said canal in conformity with said judgment.

The water heretofore adjudicated to said Pioneer Canal by the district court of Colorado, in the amount of fifty (50) cubic feet per second of time is included in and is a part of the total amounts of water hereinbefore allocated for beneficial consumptive use in Colorado and Nebraska.

Article VI

The right of any person, entity, or lower state to construct, or participate in the future construction and use of any storage reservoir or diversion works in an upper state for the purpose of regulating water herein allocated for beneficial consumptive use in such lower state, shall never be denied by an upper state; provided, that such right is subject to the rights of the upper state.

Article VII

Any person, entity, or lower state shall have the right to acquire necessary property rights in an upper state by purchase, or through the exercise of the power of eminent domain, for the construction, operation and maintenance of storage reservoirs, and of appurtenant works, canals and conduits, required for the enjoyment of the privileges granted by Article VI; provided, however, that the grantees of such rights shall pay to the political subdivisions of the state in which such works are located, each and every year during which such rights are enjoyed for such purposes, a sum of money equivalent to the average annual amount of taxes assessed against the lands and improvements during the ten years preceding the use of such lands, in reimbursement for the loss of taxes to said political subdivisions of the state.

Article VIII

Should any facility be constructed in an upper state under the provisions of Article VI, such construction and the operation of such facility shall be subject to the laws of such upper state.

Any repairs to or replacements of such facility shall also be made in accordance with the laws of such upper state.

Article IX

It shall be the duty of the three states to administer this compact through the official in each state who is now or may hereafter be charged with the duty of administering the public water supplies, and to collect and correlate through such officials the data necessary for the proper administration of the provisions of this compact. Such officials may, by unanimous action, adopt rules and regulations consistent with the provisions of this compact.

The United States geological survey, or whatever federal agency may succeed to the functions and duties of that agency, in so far as this compact is concerned, shall collaborate with the officials of the states charged with the administration of this compact in the execution of the duty of such officials in the collection, correlation, and publication of water facts necessary for the proper administration of this compact.

Article X

Nothing in this compact shall be deemed:

(a) To impair or affect any rights, powers or jurisdiction of the United States, or those acting by or under its authority, in, over, and to the waters of the Basin; nor to impair or affect the capacity of the United States, or those acting by or under its authority, to acquire rights in and to the use of waters of the Basin;

(b) To subject any property of the United States, its agencies or instrumentalities, to taxation by any state, or subdivision thereof, nor to create an obligation on the part of the United States, its agencies or instrumentalities, by reason of the acquisition, construction, or operation of any property or works of whatsoever kind, to make any payments to any state or political subdivision thereof, state agency, municipality, or entity whatsoever in reimbursement for the loss of taxes;

(c) To subject any property of the United States, its agencies or instrumentalities, to the laws of any state to any extent other than the extent these laws would apply without regard to this compact.

Article XI

This compact shall become operative when ratified by the legislature of each of the states, and when consented to by the Congress of the United States by legislation providing, among other things, that:

(a) Any beneficial consumptive uses by the United States, or those acting by or under its authority, within a state, of the waters allocated by this compact, shall be made within the allocations hereinabove made for use in that state and shall be taken into account in determining the extent of use within that state.

(b) The United States, or those acting by or under its authority, in the exercise of rights or powers arising from whatever jurisdiction the United States has in, over and to the waters of the Basin shall recognize, to the extent consistent with the best utilization of the waters for multiple purposes, that beneficial consumptive use of the waters within the Basin is of paramount importance to the development of the Basin; and no exercise of such power or right thereby that would interfere with the full beneficial consumptive use of the waters within the Basin shall be made except upon a determination, giving due consideration to the objectives of this compact and after consultation with all interested federal agencies and the state officials charged with the administration of this compact, that such exercise is in the interest of the best utilization of such waters for multiple purposes.

(c) The United States, or those acting by or under its authority, will recognize any established use, for domestic and irrigation purposes, of the waters allocated by this compact which may be impaired by the exercise of federal jurisdiction in, over, and to such waters; provided, that such use is being exercised beneficially, is valid under the laws of the appropriate state and in conformity with this compact at the time of the impairment thereof, and was validly initiated under state law prior to the initiation or authorization of the federal program or project which causes such impairment.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the commissioners have signed this compact in quadruplicate original, one of which shall be deposited in the archives of the department of state of the United States of America and shall be deemed the authoritative original, and of which a duly certified copy shall be forwarded to the governor of each of the states.

Done in the city of Lincoln, in the state of Nebraska, on the 31st day of December, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred forty-two.

M. C. Hinderlider
Commissioner for Colorado
George S. Knapp
Commissioner for Kansas
Wardner G. Scott
Commissioner for Nebraska

I have participated in the negotiations leading to this proposed compact and propose to report to the Congress of the United States favorably thereon.

37-68-101. Amended Costilla Creek compact. The general assembly hereby ratifies the amended compact between the state of Colorado and the state of New Mexico, designated as the "Amended Costilla Creek Compact", signed in the city of Santa Fe, state of New Mexico, on the seventh day of February, A. D. 1963, by J. E. Whitten, commissioner for the state of Colorado, and S. E. Reynolds, commissioner for the state of New Mexico, which said amended compact is as follows:

Amended Costilla Creek Compact

The state of Colorado and the state of New Mexico, parties signatory to this compact (hereinafter referred to as "Colorado" and "New Mexico," respectively, or individually as a "state," or collectively as the "states"), having on September 30, 1944 concluded, through their duly authorized commissioners, to-wit: Clifford H. Stone for Colorado and Thomas M. McClure for New Mexico, a compact with respect to the water of Costilla Creek, an interstate stream, which compact was ratified by the states in 1945 and was approved by the congress of the United States in 1946; and

The states, having resolved to conclude an amended compact with respect to the waters of Costilla Creek, have designated, pursuant to the acts of their respective legislatures and through their appropriate executive agencies, as their commissioners:

J. E. Whitten, for Colorado

S. E. Reynolds, for New Mexico who, after negotiations, have agreed upon these articles:

Article I

The major purposes of this compact are to provide for the equitable division and apportionment of the use of the waters of Costilla Creek; to promote interstate comity; to remove causes of present and future interstate controversies; to assure the most efficient utilization of the waters of Costilla Creek; to provide for the integrated operation of existing and prospective irrigation facilities on the stream in the two states; to adjust the conflicting jurisdictions of the two states over irrigation works and facilities diverting and storing waters in one state for use in both states; to equalize the benefits of water from Costilla Creek, used for the irrigation of contiguous lands lying on either side of the Boundary, between the citizens and water users of one state and those of the other; and to place the beneficial application of water diverted from Costilla Creek for irrigation by the water users of the two states on a common basis.

The physical and other conditions peculiar to the Costilla Creek and its basin, and the nature and location of the irrigation development and the facilities in connection therewith, constitute the basis for this compact; and neither of the States hereby, nor the Congress of the United States by its consent, concedes that this compact establishes any general principle or precedent with respect to any other interstate stream.

Article II

As used in this compact, the following names, terms and expressions are described, defined, applied and taken to mean as in this article set forth:

(a) "Costilla Creek" is a tributary of the Rio Grande which rises on the west slope of the Sangre de Cristo range in the extreme southeastern corner of Costilla County in Colorado and flows in a general westerly direction crossing the boundary three times above its confluence with the Rio Grande in New Mexico.

(b) The "Canyon Mouth" is that point on Costilla Creek in New Mexico where the stream leaves the mountains and emerges into the San Luis Valley.

(c) The "Amalia Area" is that irrigated area in New Mexico above the Canyon Mouth and below the Costilla Reservoir which is served by decreed direct flow water rights.

(d) The "Costilla-Garcia Area" is that area extending from the Canyon Mouth in New Mexico to a point in Colorado about four miles downstream from the boundary, being a compact body of irrigated land on either side of Costilla Creek served by decreed direct flow water rights.

(e) The "Eastdale Reservoir No. 1" is that off-channel reservoir located in Colorado in sections 7, 8 and 18, township 1 north, range 73 west, and sections 12 and 13, township 1 north, range 74 west, of the Costilla Estates survey, with a nominal capacity of three thousand four hundred sixty-eight (3,468) acre-feet and a present usable capacity of two thousand (2,000) acre-feet.

(f) The "Eastdale Reservoir No. 2" is that off-channel reservoir located in Colorado in sections 3, 4, 9 and 10, township 1 north, range 73 west, of the Costilla Estates survey, with nominal capacity of three thousand forty-one (3,041) acre-feet.

(g) The "Costilla Reservoir" is that channel reservoir, having a nominal capacity of fifteen thousand seven hundred (15,700) acre-feet, located in New Mexico near the headwaters of Costilla Creek. The present usable capacity of the reservoir is eleven thousand (11,000) acre-feet, subject to future adjustment by the state engineer of New Mexico. The condition of Costilla Dam may be such that the state engineer of New Mexico will not permit storage above a determined stage except for short periods of time.

(h) The "Cerro Canal" is that irrigation canal which diverts water from the left bank of Costilla Creek in New Mexico near the southwest corner of section 12, township 1 south, range 73 west, of the Costilla Estates survey, and runs in a northwesterly direction to the boundary near Boundary Monument No. 140.

(i) The "boundary" is the term used herein to describe the common boundary line between Colorado and New Mexico.

(j) The term "Costilla Reservoir System" means and includes the Costilla Reservoir and the Cerro Canal, the permits for the storage of water in Costilla Reservoir, the twenty-four and fifty-two hundredths (24.52) cubic feet per second of time of direct flow water rights transferred to the Cerro Canal, and the permits for the diversion of direct flow water by the Cerro Canal as adjusted herein to seventy-five and forty-eight hundredths (75.48) cubic feet per second of time.

(k) The term "Costilla Reservoir System Safe Yield" means that quantity of usable water made available each year by the Costilla Reservoir System. The safe yield represents the most beneficial operation of the Costilla Reservoir System through the use, first, of the total usable portion of the yield of the twenty-four and fifty-two hundredths (24.52) cubic feet per second of time of direct flow rights transferred to the Cerro Canal, second, of the total usable portion of the yield of the direct flow Cerro Canal permits, and third, of that portion of the water stored in Costilla Reservoir required to complete such safe yield.

(l) The term "usable capacity" is defined and means that capacity of Costilla Reservoir at the stage above which the state engineer of New Mexico will not permit storage except for short periods of time.

(m) The term "temporary storage" is defined and means the water permitted by the state engineer of New Mexico to be stored in Costilla Reservoir for short periods of time above the usable capacity of that reservoir.

(n) The term "additional storage facilities" is defined and means storage capacity which may be provided in either state to impound waters of Costilla Creek and its tributaries in addition to the nominal capacity of Costilla Reservoir and the Costilla Creek complement of the Eastdale Reservoir No. 1 capacity.

(o) The term "duty of water" is defined as the rate in cubic feet per second of time at which water may be diverted at the headgate to irrigate a specified acreage of land during the period of maximum requirement.

(p) The term "surplus water" is defined and means water which cannot be stored in operating reservoirs during the storage season or water during the irrigation season which cannot be stored in operating reservoirs and which is in excess of the aggregate direct flow rights and permits recognized by this compact.

(q) The term "irrigation season" is defined and means that period of each calendar year from May 16 to September 30, inclusive.

(r) The term "storage season" is defined and means that period of time extending from October 1 of one year to May 15 of the succeeding year, inclusive.

(s) The term "points of interstate delivery" means and includes (1) the Acequia Madre where it crosses the boundary; (2) the Costilla Creek where it crosses the boundary; (3) the Cerro Canal where it reaches the boundary; and (4) any other interstate canals which might be constructed with the approval of the commission at the point or points where they cross the boundary.

(t) The term "water company" means The San Luis Power and Water Company, a Colorado corporation, or its successor.

(u) The word "commission" means the Costilla Creek Compact commission created by Article VIII of this compact for the administration thereof.

Article III

1. To accomplish the purposes of this compact, as set forth in Article I, the following adjustments in the operation of irrigation facilities on Costilla Creek, and in the use of water diverted, stored and regulated thereby, are made:

(a) The quantity of water delivered for use in the two states by direct flow ditches in the Costilla-Garcia Area and by the Cerro Canal is based on a duty of water of one cubic foot per second of time for each eighty (80) acres, to be applied in the order of priority; provided, however, that this adjustment in each instance is based on the acreage as determined by the court in decreeing the water rights for the Costilla-Garcia Area, and in the case of the Cerro Canal such basis shall apply to eight thousand (8,000) acres of land. In order to better maintain a usable head for the diversion of water for beneficial consumptive use the adjusted maximum diversion rate under the water right of each of the ditches supplying water for the Costilla-Garcia Area in Colorado is not less than one cubic foot per second of time.

(b) There is transferred from certain ditches in the Costilla-Garcia Area twenty-four and fifty-two hundredths (24.52) cubic feet per second of time of direct flow water rights, which rights of use are held by the water company or its successors in title, to the headgate of the Cerro Canal. The twenty-four and fifty-two hundredths (24.52) cubic feet of water per second of time hereby transferred represents an evaluation of these rights after adjustment in the duty of water, pursuant to subsection (a) of this Article, and includes a reduction thereof to compensate for increased use of direct flow water which otherwise would have been possible under these rights by this transfer.

(c) Except for the rights to store water from Costilla Creek in Eastdale Reservoir No. 1 as hereinafter provided, all diversion and storage rights from Costilla Creek for Eastdale Reservoirs No. 1 and No. 2 are relinquished and the water decreed thereunder is returned to the creek for use in accordance with the plan of integrated operation effectuated by this compact.

(d) The Cerro Canal direct flow permit shall be seventy-five and forty-eight hundredths (75.48) cubic feet per second of time.

(e) There is transferred to and made available for the irrigation of lands in Colorado a portion of the Costilla Reservoir complement of the Costilla Reservoir System Safe Yield in order that the storage of water in that reservoir may be made for the benefit of water users in both Colorado and New Mexico under the provisions of this compact for the allocations of water and the operation of facilities.

2. Each state grants for the benefit of the other and its water users the rights to change the points of diversion of water from Costilla Creek, to divert water from the stream in one state for use in the other and to store water in one state for the irrigation of lands in the other, insofar as the exercise of such rights may be necessary to effectuate the provisions of this Article and to comply with the terms of this compact.

3. The water company has consented to and approved the adjustments contained in this Article; and such consent and approval shall be evidenced in writing and filed with the commission.

Article IV

The apportionment and allocation of the use of Costilla Creek water shall be as follows:

(a) There is allocated for diversion from the natural flow of Costilla Creek and its tributaries sufficient water for beneficial use on meadow and pasture lands above Costilla Reservoir in New Mexico to the extent and in the manner now prevailing in that area.

(b) There is allocated for diversion from the natural flow of Costilla Creek and its tributaries thirteen and forty-two hundredths (13.42) cubic feet of water per second of time for beneficial use on lands in the Amalia Area in New Mexico.

(c) In addition to allocations made in subsections (e), (f) and (g) of this Article, there is allocated for diversion from the natural flow of Costilla Creek fifty and sixty-two hundredths (50.62) cubic feet of water per second of time for Colorado and eighty-nine and eight hundredths (89.08) cubic feet of water per second of time for New Mexico, subject to adjustment as provided in Article V (e), and such water shall be delivered for beneficial use in the two states in accordance with the schedules and under the conditions set forth in Article V.

(d) There is allocated for diversion from the natural flow of Costilla Creek sufficient water to provide each year one thousand (1,000) acre-feet of stored water in Eastdale Reservoir No. 1, such water to be delivered as provided in Article V.

(e) There is allocated for diversion to Colorado thirty-six and five-tenths per cent (36.5%) and to New Mexico sixty-three and five-tenths per cent (63.5%) of the water stored by Costilla Reservoir for release therefrom for irrigation purposes each year, subject to adjustment as provided in Article V (e) and such water shall be delivered for beneficial use in the two states on a parity basis in accordance with the provisions of Article V. By "parity basis" is meant that neither state shall enjoy a priority of right of use.

(f) There is allocated for beneficial use in each of the states of Colorado and New Mexico one-half of the surplus water, as defined in Article II (p), to be delivered as provided in Article V.

(g) There is allocated for beneficial use in each of the states of Colorado and New Mexico one-half of any water made available and usable by additional storage facilities which may be constructed in the future.

Article V

The operation of the facilities of Costilla Creek and the delivery of water for the irrigation of land in Colorado and New Mexico, in accordance with the allocations made in Article IV, shall be as follows:

(a) Diversions of water for use on lands in the Amalia Area shall be made as set forth in Article IV (b) in the order of decreed priorities in New Mexico and of relative priority dates in the two states, subject to the right of New Mexico to change the points of diversion and places of use of any of such water to other points of diversion and places of use; provided, however, that the rights so transferred shall be limited in each instance to the quantity of water actually consumed on the lands from which the right is transferred.

(b) Deliveries to Colorado of direct flow water below the Canyon Mouth shall be made by New Mexico in accordance with the following schedule:

Usable Discharge of Creek at Canyon Mouth Gaging Station (C.F.S.)	Incremental Allocations to Colorado (C.F.S.)	Points of Interstate Delivery	Cumulative Allocations to Colorado (C.F.S.)	Remarks
(1)	(2A) (2B)	(3)	(4)	(5)
25.00	1.05	Acequia Madreof		Incremental allocation is 4.2% the usable discharge when usable discharge is less than 25.00 C.F.S.
	2.53	Cerro Canal		Incremental allocation is 10.13% of the usable discharge when usable discharge is less than 25.00 C.F.S.
	4.70	Cerro Canal	8.28	This 4.70 C.F.S. is not a part of the Colorado allocation of the direct flow water of the Costilla Reservoir System and is not subject to adjustment in the event of a change in the usable capacity of Costilla Reservoir. Incremental allocation is 18.8% of the usable discharge when usable discharge is less than 25.00 C.F.S. This 4.70 C.F.S. allocated to Colorado for delivery through the Cerro Canal is 5.50 C.F.S. of the original 6.55 C.F.S. allocated to Colorado for delivery through the Acequia Madre less 0.8 C.F.S. correction for losses.
36.88	.38	Cerro Canal		This 0.38 C.F.S. is not a part of the Colorado allocation of the direct flow water of the Costilla Reservoir System and is not subject to adjustment in the event of a change in the usable capacity of Costilla Reservoir. Incremental allocation is 3.26% of the usable discharge in excess of 25.38 C.F.S. and less than 36.88 C.F.S.
	4.04	Cerro Canal	12.70	Incremental allocation is 35.11% of the usable discharge in excess of 25.38 C.F.S. and less than 36.88 C.F.S.
38.62	1.00	Creek	13.70	Incremental allocation is 100% of the usable discharge in excess of 37.62 C.F.S. and less than 38.62 C.F.S.

Usable Discharge of Creek at Canyon Mouth Gaging Station (C.F.S.)	Incremental Allocations to Colorado (C.F.S.)		Points of Interstate Delivery	Cumulative Allocations to Colorado (C.F.S.)	Remarks
(1)	(2A)	(2B)	(3)	(4)	(5)
44.76	2.24		Cerro Canal	15.94	Incremental allocation is 36.5% of the usable discharge in excess of 38.62 C.F.S. and less than 44.76 C.F.S.
50.91		6.00	Creek	21.94	Incremental allocation is 100% of the usable discharge in excess of 44.91 C.F.S. and less than 50.91 C.F.S.
56.48	.13		Cerro Canal	22.07	Incremental allocation is 11.18% of the usable discharge in excess of 55.35 C.F.S. and less than 56.48 C.F.S.
61.48		1.00	Creek	23.07	Incremental allocation is 100% of the usable discharge in excess of 60.48 C.F.S. and less than 61.48 C.F.S.
64.22					At usable creek discharge of 64.22 C.F.S. the Cerro Canal direct flow permit becomes operative after 1,000 acre-feet has been stored in Eastdale Reservoir No. 1.
139.70	27.55		Cerro Canal	50.62	Incremental allocation is 36.5% of the usable discharge in excess of 64.22 C.F.S. and less than 139.70 C.F.S.

The actual discharges of Costilla Creek at the Canyon Mouth Gaging Station at which the various blocks of direct flow water become effective shall equal the flows set forth in column (1) increased by the transmission losses necessary to deliver those flows to the headgates of the respective direct flow ditches diverting in New Mexico.

The delivery of ditch water at the boundary shall equal the allocation set forth in columns (2a) and (2b) reduced by the transmission losses between the headgate of the ditch and the point where the ditch crosses the boundary. The allocations to be delivered to Colorado through the Cerro Canal represent, except as otherwise indicated in column (5) of the table above, 36.5 percent of those blocks of direct flow water of the Costilla Reservoir System which are subject to adjustment as provided in subsection (e) of this article.

The provisions of article III (1) (a) shall not be applicable to the Colorado allocation of 5.08 C.F.S. which is transferred from the Acequia Madre to the Cerro Canal by this amendment to the Costilla Creek compact and shall not be applicable to the 0.8 C.F.S. which is transferred from Colorado to New Mexico by this amendment to the Costilla Creek compact.

The above table is compiled on the basis of the delivery to Colorado at the boundary of thirty-six and five-tenths percent (36.5%) of all direct flow water of the Costilla Reservoir System diverted by the Cerro Canal and the delivery at the boundary of all other direct flow water allocated to Colorado, in the order of priority, all such deliveries to be adjusted for transmission losses. In the event of change in the usable capacity of the Costilla Reservoir, Colorado's share of all direct flow water of the Costilla Reservoir System diverted by the Cerro Canal, to be delivered at the boundary and adjusted for transmission losses, shall be determined by the percentages set forth in column (4) of the table which appears in subsection (e) of this article.

(c) During the storage season, no water shall be diverted under direct flow rights unless there is water in excess of the demand of all operating reservoirs for water from Costilla Creek for storage.

(d) In order to assure the most efficient utilization of the available water supply, the filling of Eastdale Reservoir No. 1 from Costilla Creek shall be commenced as early in the spring as possible and shall be completed as soon thereafter as possible. The Cerro Canal or any other ditch which may be provided for that purpose shall be used, insofar as practicable, to convey the water from the Canyon Mouth to Eastdale Reservoir No. 1. During any season when the commission determines that there will be no surplus water, any diversions, waste or spill from any canal or canals supplying Eastdale Reservoir No. 1 will be charged to the quantity of water diverted for delivery to said reservoir.

(e) The commission shall estimate each year the safe yield of Costilla Reservoir System and its component parts as far in advance of the irrigation season as possible, and shall review and revise such estimates from time to time as may be necessary.

In the event the usable capacity of the Costilla Reservoir changes, the average safe yield and the equitable division thereof between the states shall be determined in accordance with the following table:

Usable Capacity of Costilla Reservoir (1)	Average Annual Safe Yield (acre-feet) (2)	Division of Safe Yield
		Colorado (acre-feet) (3)	(percent) (4)	New Mexico (acre-feet) (5)	(percent) (6)

Intermediate quantities shall be computed by proportionate parts.

In the event of change in the usable capacity of the Costilla Reservoir, the Costilla Reservoir complement of the Costilla Reservoir System Safe Yield shall be divided between Colorado and New Mexico in accordance with the percentages given in columns 4 and 6, respectively, of the above table.

Each state may draw from the reservoir in accordance with the allocations made herein, up to its proportion of the Costilla Reservoir complement of the Costilla Reservoir System Safe Yield and its proportion of temporary storage and no more. Colorado may call for the delivery of its share thereof at any of the specified points of interstate delivery.

Deliveries of water from Costilla Reservoir to the Canyon Mouth shall be adjusted for transmission losses, if any, between the two points. Deliveries to Colorado at the boundary shall be further adjusted for transmission losses from the Canyon Mouth to the respective points of interstate delivery.

Water stored in Costilla Reservoir and not released during the current season shall not be held over to the credit of either state but shall be apportioned when the safe yield is subsequently determined.

(f) The Colorado apportionment of surplus water, as allocated in Article IV (f), shall be delivered by New Mexico at such points of interstate delivery and in the respective quantities, subject to transmission losses, requested by the Colorado member of the commission.

(g) In the event that additional water becomes usable by the construction of additional storage facilities, such water shall be made available to each state in accordance with rules and regulations to be prescribed by the commission.

(h) When it appears to the commission that any part of the water allocated to one state for use in a particular year will not be used by that state, the commission may permit its use by the other state during that year, provided that a permanent right to the use of such water shall not thereby be established.

Article VI

The desirability of consolidating various of the direct flow ditches serving the Costilla-Garcia Area, which are now or which would become interstate in character by consolidation, and diverting the water available to such ditches through a common headgate is recognized. Should the owners of any of such ditches, or a combination of them, desire to effectuate a consolidation and provide for a common headgate diversion, application therefor shall be made to the commission which, after review of the plans submitted, may grant permission to make such consolidation.

Article VII

The commission shall cause to be maintained and operated a streamgaging-station, equipped with an automatic water-stage recorder, at each of the following points, to-wit:

- (a) On Costilla Creek immediately below Costilla Reservoir.
- (b) On Costilla Creek at or near the Canyon Mouth above the headgate of Cerro Canal and below the Amalia Area.
- (c) On Costilla Creek at or near the boundary.
- (d) On the Cerro Canal immediately below its headgate.
- (e) On the Cerro Canal at or near the boundary.
- (f) On the intake from Costilla Creek to the Eastdale Reservoir No. 1, immediately above the point where the intake discharges into the reservoir.
- (g) On the Acequia Madre immediately below its headgate.
- (h) On the Acequia Madre at the boundary.
- (i) Similar gaging stations shall be maintained and operated at such other points as may be necessary in the discretion of the commission for the securing of records required for the carrying out of the provisions of the compact.

Such gaging stations shall be equipped, maintained, and operated by the commission directly or in cooperation with an appropriate federal or state agency, and the equipment, method, and frequency of measurement at such stations shall be such as to produce reliable records at all times.

Article VIII

The two states shall administer this compact through the official in each state who is now or may hereafter be charged with the duty of administering the public water supplies, and such officials shall constitute the Costilla Creek Compact Commission. In addition to the powers and duties hereinbefore specifically conferred upon such commission, the commission shall collect and correlate factual data and maintain records having a bearing upon the administration of this compact. In connection therewith, the commission may employ such engineering and other assistance as may be reasonably necessary within the limits of funds provided for that purpose by the states. The commission may, by unanimous action, adopt rules and regulations consistent with the provisions of this compact to govern its proceedings. The salaries and expenses of the members of the commission shall be paid by their respective states. Other expenses incident to the administration of the compact, including the employment of engineering or other assistance and the establishment and maintenance of compact gaging stations, not borne by the United States shall be assumed equally by the two states and paid directly to the commission upon vouchers submitted for that purpose.

The United States geological survey, or whatever federal agency may succeed to the functions and duties of that agency, shall collaborate with the commission in the correlation and publication of water facts necessary for the proper administration of this compact.

Article IX

This amended compact shall become operative when ratified by the legislatures of the signatory states and consented to by the Congress of the United States; provided, that, except as changed herein, the provisions, terms, conditions and obligations of the Costilla Creek Compact executed on September 30, 1944, continue in full force and effect.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the commissioners have signed this compact in triplicate original, one copy of which shall be deposited in the archives of the department of state of the United States of America, and one copy of which shall be forwarded to the governor of each of the signatory states.

Done in the city of Santa Fe, New Mexico, on the 7th day of February, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and sixty-three.

(Signed) J. E. Whitten,
Commissioner for Colorado.

(Signed) S. E. Reynolds,
Commissioner for New Mexico.

When compact operative. (1) Said compact shall not become operative unless and until the same has been ratified by the legislature of each of the signatory states and consented to by the congress of the United States, in the manner provided by, and in conformity with, said compact, and the governor of the state of Colorado shall give notice of the approval of said compact, by this act, to the governor of the state of New Mexico and to the president of the United States.

(2) The amendments to said compact shall not become operative unless and until the same shall have been ratified by the legislature of each of the signatory states and consented to by the congress of the United States, in the manner provided by, and in conformity with, said compact, and the governor of the state of Colorado shall give notice of the approval of said compact, by this article, to the governor of the state of New Mexico and to the president of the United States.

37-69-101. Arkansas River compact. The general assembly hereby ratifies the compact between the state of Colorado and the state of Kansas designated as the "Arkansas river compact" signed in the city of Denver, state of Colorado, on the 14th day of December, A. D. 1948, by Henry C. Vidal, Gail L. Ireland, and Harry B. Mendenhall, commissioners for the state of Colorado, and George S. Knapp, Edward F. Arn, William E. Leavitt, and Roland H. Tate, commissioners for the state of Kansas, and approved by Hans Kramer, representative of the United States of America. Said compact is as follows:

Arkansas River Compact

The state of Colorado and the state of Kansas, parties signatory to this compact (hereinafter referred to as "Colorado" and "Kansas," respectively, or individually as a "state," or collectively as the "states") having resolved to conclude a compact with respect to the waters of the Arkansas river, and being moved by considerations of interstate comity, having appointed commissioners as follows:

Henry C. Vidal, Gail L. Ireland, and Harry B. Mendenhall, for Colorado; and George S. Knapp, Edward F. Arn, William E. Leavitt, and Roland H. Tate, for Kansas; and the consent of the congress of the United States to negotiate and enter into an interstate compact not later than January 1, 1950, having been granted by Public Law 34, 79th Congress, 1st Session, and pursuant thereto the President having designated Hans Kramer as the representative of the United States, the said commissioners for Colorado and Kansas, after negotiations participated in by the representative of the United States, have agreed as follows:

Article I

The major purposes of this compact are to:

A. Settle existing disputes and remove causes of future controversy between the states of Colorado and Kansas, and between citizens of one and citizens of the other state, concerning the waters of the Arkansas river and their control, conservation and utilization for irrigation and other beneficial purposes.

B. Equitably divide and apportion between the states of Colorado and Kansas the waters of the Arkansas river and their utilization as well as the benefits arising from the construction, operation and maintenance by the United States of John Martin reservoir project for water conservation purposes.

Article II

The provisions of this compact are based on (1) the physical and other conditions peculiar to the Arkansas river and its natural drainage basin, and the nature and location of irrigation and other developments and facilities in connection therewith; (2) the opinion of the United States supreme court entered December 6, 1943, in the case of Colorado v. Kansas (320 U. S. 383) concerning the relative rights of the respective states in and to the use of waters of the Arkansas river; and (3) the experience derived under various interim executive agreements between the two states apportioning the waters released from the John Martin reservoir as operated by the corps of engineers.

Article III

As used in this compact:

A. The word "stateline" means the geographical boundary line between Colorado and Kansas.

B. The term "waters of the Arkansas river" means the waters originating in the natural drainage basin of the Arkansas river, including its tributaries, upstream from the stateline, and excluding waters brought into the Arkansas river basin from other river basins.

C. The term "stateline flow" means the flow of waters of the Arkansas river as determined by gauging stations located at or near the stateline. The flow as determined by such stations, whether located in Colorado or Kansas, shall be deemed to be the actual stateline flow.

D. "John Martin reservoir project" is the official name of the facility formerly known as Caddoa reservoir project, authorized by the Flood Control Act of 1936, as amended, for construction, operation and maintenance by the war department, corps of engineers, later designated as the corps of engineers, department of the army, and herein referred to as the "corps of engineers." "John Martin reservoir" is the water storage space created by "John Martin dam".

E. The "flood control storage" is that portion of the total storage space in John Martin reservoir allocated to flood control purposes.

F. The "conservation pool" is that portion of the total storage space in John Martin reservoir lying below the flood control storage.

G. The "ditches of Colorado water district 67" are those ditches and canals which divert water from the Arkansas river or its tributaries downstream from John Martin dam for irrigation use in Colorado.

H. The term "river flow" means the sum of the flows of the Arkansas and the Purgatoire rivers into John Martin reservoir as determined by gauging stations appropriately located above said reservoir.

I. The term "the administration" means the Arkansas river compact administration established under article VIII.

Article IV

Both states recognize that:

A. This compact deals only with the waters of the Arkansas river as defined in article III.

B. This compact is not concerned with the rights, if any, of the state of New Mexico or its citizens in and to the use in New Mexico of waters of Trinchera creek or other tributaries of the Purgatoire river, a tributary of the Arkansas river.

C. (1) John Martin dam will be operated by the corps of engineers to store and release the waters of the Arkansas river in and from John Martin reservoir for its authorized purposes.

(2) The bottom of the flood control storage is presently fixed by the chief of engineers, U. S. Army, at elevation 3,851 feet above mean sea level. The flood control storage will be operated for flood control purposes and to those ends will impound or regulate the streamflow volumes that are in excess of the then available storage capacity of the conservation pool. Releases from the flood control storage may be made at times and rates determined by the corps of engineers to be necessary or advisable without regard to ditch diversion capacities or requirements in either or both states.

(3) The conservation pool will be operated for the benefit of water users in Colorado and Kansas, both upstream and downstream from John Martin dam, as provided in this compact. The maintenance of John Martin dam and appurtenance works may at times require the corps of engineers to release waters then impounded in the conservation pool or to prohibit the storage of water therein until such maintenance work is completed. Flood control operation may also involve temporary utilization of conservation storage.

D. This compact is not intended to impede or prevent future beneficial development of the Arkansas river basin in Colorado and Kansas by federal or state agencies, by private enterprise, or by combinations thereof, which may involve construction of dams, reservoirs and other works for the purposes of water utilization and control, as well as the improved or prolonged functioning of existing works: Provided, that the waters of the Arkansas river, as defined in article III, shall not be materially depleted in usable quantity or availability for use to the water users in Colorado and Kansas under this compact by such future development or construction.

Article V

Colorado and Kansas hereby agree upon the following basis of apportionment of the waters of the Arkansas river:

A. Winter storage in John Martin reservoir shall commence on November 1st of each year and continue to and include the next succeeding March 31st. During said period all water entering said reservoir up to the limit of the then available conservation capacity shall be stored: Provided, that Colorado may demand releases of water equivalent to the river flow, but such releases shall not exceed 100 c.f.s. (cubic feet per second) and water so released shall be used without avoidable waste.

B. Summer storage in John Martin reservoir shall commence on April 1st of each year and continue to and include the next succeeding October 31st. During said period, except when Colorado water users are operating under decreed priorities as provided in paragraphs F and G of this article, all water entering said reservoir up to the limit of the then available conservation capacity shall be stored: Provided, that Colorado may demand releases of water equivalent to the river flow up to 500 c.f.s., and Kansas may demand releases of water equivalent to that portion of the river flow between 500 c.f.s. and 750 c.f.s., irrespective of releases demanded by Colorado.

C. Releases of water stored pursuant to the provisions of paragraphs A and B of this article shall be made upon demands by Colorado and Kansas concurrently or separately at any time during the summer storage period. Unless increases to meet extraordinary conditions are authorized by the administration, separate releases of stored water to Colorado shall not exceed 750 c.f.s., separate releases of stored water to Kansas shall not exceed 500 c.f.s., and concurrent releases of stored water shall not exceed a total of 1250 c.f.s.: Provided, that when water stored in the conservation pool is reduced to a quantity less than 20,000 acre-feet, separate releases of stored water to Colorado shall not exceed 600 c.f.s., and separate releases of stored water to Kansas shall not exceed 400 c.f.s., and concurrent releases of stored water shall not exceed 1,000 c.f.s.

D. Releases authorized by paragraphs A, B, and C of this article, except when all Colorado water users are operating under decree priorities as provided in paragraphs F and G of this article, shall not impose any call on Colorado water users that divert waters of the Arkansas river upstream from John Martin dam.

E. (1) Releases of stored water and releases of river flow may be made simultaneously upon the demands of either or both states.

(2) Water released upon concurrent or separate demands shall be applied promptly to beneficial use unless storage thereof downstream is authorized by the administration.

(3) Releases of river flow and of stored water to Colorado shall be measured by gauging stations located at or near John Martin dam and the releases to which Kansas is entitled shall be satisfied by an equivalent in state line flow.

(4) When water is released from John Martin reservoir appropriate allowances as determined by the administration shall be made for the intervals of time required for such water to arrive at the points of diversion in Colorado and at the state line.

(5) There shall be no allowance or accumulation of credits or debits for or against either state.

(6) Storage, releases from storage and releases of river flow authorized in this article shall be accomplished pursuant to procedures prescribed by the administration under the provisions of article VIII.

F. In the event the administration finds that within a period of fourteen days the water in the conservation pool will be or is liable to be exhausted, the administration shall forthwith notify the state engineer of Colorado, or his duly authorized representative, that commencing upon a day certain within said fourteen day period, unless a change of conditions justifies cancellation or modification of such notice, Colorado shall administer the decreed rights of water users in Colorado water district 67 as against each other and as against all rights now or hereafter decreed to water users diverting upstream from John Martin dam on the basis of relative priorities in the same manner in which their respective priority rights were administered by Colorado before John Martin reservoir began to operate and as though John Martin dam had not been constructed. Such priority administration by Colorado shall be continued until the administration finds that water is again available in the conservation pool for release as provided in this compact, and timely notice of such finding shall be given by the administration to the state engineer of Colorado or his duly authorized representative; provided, that except as controlled by the operation of the preceding provisions of this paragraph and other applicable provisions of this compact, when there is water in the conservation pool the water users upstream from John Martin reservoir shall not be affected by the decrees to the ditches in Colorado water district 67. Except when administration in Colorado is on a priority basis the water diversions in Colorado water district 67 shall be administered by Colorado in accordance with distribution agreements made from time to time between the water users in such district and filed with the administration and with the state engineer of Colorado or, in the absence of such agreement, upon the basis of the respective priority decrees, as against each other, in said district.

G. During periods when Colorado reverts to administration of decree priorities, Kansas shall not be entitled to any portion of the river flow entering John Martin reservoir. Waters of the Arkansas river originating in Colorado which may flow across the state line during such periods are hereby apportioned to Kansas.

H. If the usable quantity and availability for use of the waters of the Arkansas river to water users in Colorado water district 67 and Kansas will be thereby materially depleted or adversely affected, (1) priority rights now decreed to the ditches of Colorado water district 67 shall not hereafter be transferred to other water districts in Colorado or to points of diversion or places of use upstream from John Martin dam; and (2) the ditch diversion rights from the Arkansas river in Colorado water district 67 and of Kansas ditches between the state line and Garden City shall not hereafter be increased beyond the total present rights of said ditches, without the administration, in either case (1) or (2), making findings of fact that no such depletion or adverse effect will result from such proposed transfer or increase. Notice of legal proceedings for any such proposed transfer or increase shall be given to the administration in the manner and within the time provided by the laws of Colorado or Kansas in such cases.

Article VI

A. (1) Nothing in this compact shall be construed as impairing the jurisdiction of Kansas over the waters of the Arkansas river that originate in Kansas and over the waters that flow from Colorado across the state line into Kansas.

(2) Except as otherwise provided, nothing in this compact shall be construed as supplanting the administration by Colorado of the rights of appropriators of waters of the Arkansas river in said state as decreed to said appropriators by the courts of Colorado, nor as interfering with the distribution among said appropriators by Colorado, nor as curtailing the diversion and use for irrigation and other beneficial purposes in Colorado of the waters of the Arkansas river.

B. Inasmuch as the Frontier canal diverts waters of the Arkansas river in Colorado west of the state line for irrigation uses in Kansas only, Colorado concedes to Kansas and Kansas hereby assumes exclusive administrative control over the operation of the Frontier canal and its headworks for such purposes, to the same extent as though said works were located entirely within the state of Kansas. Water carried across the state line in Frontier canal or any other similarly situated canal shall be considered to be part of the state line flow.

Article VII

A. Each state shall be subject to the terms of this compact. Where the name of the state or the term "state" is used in this compact these shall be construed to include any person or entity of any nature whatsoever using, claiming or in any manner asserting any right to the use of the waters of the Arkansas river under the authority of that state.

B. This compact establishes no general principle or precedent with respect to any other interstate stream.

C. Wherever any state or federal official agency is referred to in this compact such reference shall apply to the comparable official or agency succeeding to their duties and functions.

Article VIII

A. To administer the provisions of this compact there is hereby created an interstate agency to be known as the Arkansas river compact administration herein designated as "the administration".

B. The administration shall have power to:

(1) Adopt, amend and revoke by-laws, rules and regulations consistent with the provisions of this compact;

(2) Prescribe procedures for the administration of this compact: Provided, that where such procedures involve the operation of John Martin reservoir project they shall be subject to the approval of the district engineer in charge of said project;

(3) Perform all functions required to implement this compact and to do all things necessary, proper or convenient in the performance of its duties.

C. The membership of the administration shall consist of three representatives from each state who shall be appointed by the respective governors for a term not to exceed four years. One Colorado representative shall be a resident of and water right owner in water districts 14 or 17, one Colorado representative shall be a resident of and water right owner in water district 67, and one Colorado representative shall be the director of the Colorado water conservation board. Two Kansas representatives shall be residents of and water right owners in the counties of Finney, Kearny or Hamilton, and one Kansas representative shall be the chief state official charged with the administration of water rights in Kansas. The President of the United States is hereby requested to designate a representative of the United States, and if a representative is so designated he shall be an ex officio member and act as chairman of the administration without vote.

D. The state representatives shall be appointed by the respective governors within thirty days after the effective date of this compact. The administration shall meet and organize within sixty days after such effective date. A quorum for any meeting shall consist of four members of the administration: Provided, that at least two members are present from each state. Each state shall have but one vote in the administration and every decision, authorization or other action shall require unanimous vote. In case of a divided vote on any matter within the purview of the administration, the administration may, by subsequent unanimous vote, refer the matter for arbitration to the representative of the United States or other arbitrator or arbitrators, in which event the decision made by such arbitrator or arbitrators shall be binding upon the administration.

E. (1) The salaries, if any, and the personal expenses of each member shall be paid by the government which he represents. All other expenses incident to the administration of this compact which are not paid by the United States shall be borne by the states on the basis of 60 per cent by Colorado and 40 per cent by Kansas.

(2) In each even numbered year the administration shall adopt and transmit to the governor of each state its budget covering anticipated expenses for the forthcoming biennium and the amount thereof payable by each state. Each state shall appropriate and pay the amount due by it to the administration.

(3) The administration shall keep accurate accounts of all receipts and disbursements and shall include a statement thereof, together with a certificate of audit by a certified public accountant, in its annual report. Each state shall have the right to make an examination and audit of the accounts of the administration at any time.

F. Each state shall provide such available facilities, equipment and other assistance as the administration may need to carry out its duties. To supplement such available assistance the administration may employ engineering, legal, clerical and other aid as in its judgment may be necessary for the performance of its functions. Such employees shall be paid by and be responsible to the administration, and shall not be considered to be employees of either state.

G. (1) The administration shall co-operate with the chief official of each state charged with the administration of water rights and with federal agencies in the systematic determination and correlation of the facts as to the flow and diversion of the waters of the Arkansas river and as to the operation and siltation of John Martin reservoir and other related structures. The administration shall co-operate in the procurement, interchange, compilation and publication of all factual data bearing upon the administration of this compact without, in general, duplicating measurements, observations or publications made by state or federal agencies. State officials shall furnish pertinent factual data to the administration upon its request. The administration shall, with the collaboration of the appropriate federal and state agencies, determine as may be necessary from time to time, the location of gauging stations required for the proper administration of this compact and shall designate the official records of such stations for its official use.

(2) The director, U. S. geological survey, the commissioner of reclamation and the chief of engineers, U. S. Army, are hereby requested to collaborate with the administration and with appropriate state officials in the systematic determination and correlation of data referred to in paragraph G (1) of this article and in the execution of other duties of such officials which may be necessary for the proper administration of this compact.

(3) If deemed necessary for the administration of this compact, the administration may require the installation and maintenance, at the expense of water users, of measuring devices of approved type in any ditch or group of ditches diverting water from the Arkansas river in Colorado or Kansas. The chief official of each state charged with the administration of water rights shall supervise the execution of the administration's requirements for such installations.

H. Violation of any of the provisions of this compact or other actions prejudicial thereto which come to the attention of the administration shall be promptly investigated by it. When deemed advisable as the result of such investigation, the administration may report its findings and recommendations to the state official who is charged with the administration of water rights for appropriate action, it being the intent of this compact that enforcement of its terms shall be accomplished in general through the state agencies and officials charged with the administration of water rights.

I. Findings of fact made by the administration shall not be conclusive in any court or before any agency or tribunal but shall constitute prima facie evidence of the facts found.

J. The administration shall report annually to the governors of the states and to the President of the United States as to matters within its purview.

Article IX

A. This compact shall become effective when ratified by the legislature of each state and when consented to by the congress of the United States by legislation providing substantially, among other things, as follows:

Nothing contained in this act or in the compact herein consented to shall be construed as impairing or affecting the sovereignty of the United States or any of its rights or jurisdiction in and over the area or waters which are the subject of such compact: Provided, that the chief of engineers is hereby authorized to operate the conservation features of the John Martin reservoir project in a manner conforming to such compact with such exceptions as he and the administration created pursuant to the compact may jointly approve.

B. This compact shall remain in effect until modified or terminated by unanimous action of the states and in the event of modification or termination all rights then established or recognized by this compact shall continue unimpaired.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the commissioners have signed this compact in triplicate original, one of which shall be forwarded to the secretary of state of the United States of America and one of which shall be forwarded to the governor of each signatory state.

Done in the city and county of Denver, in the state of Colorado, on the fourteenth day of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and forty-eight.

37-75-102. Water rights - protections. (1) It is the policy of the general assembly that the current system of allocating water within Colorado shall not be superseded, abrogated, or otherwise impaired by this article. Nothing in this article shall be interpreted to repeal or in any manner amend the existing water rights adjudication system. The general assembly affirms the state constitution’s recognition of water rights as a private usufructuary property right, and this article is not intended to restrict the ability of the holder of a water right to use or to dispose of that water right in any manner permitted under Colorado law.

(2) The general assembly affirms the protections for contractual and property rights recognized by the contract and takings protections under the state constitution and related statutes. This article shall not be implemented in any way that would diminish, impair, or cause injury to any property or contractual right created by intergovernmental agreements, contracts, stipulations among parties to water cases, terms and conditions in water decrees, or any other similar document related to the allocation or use of water. This article shall not be construed to supersede, abrogate, or cause injury to vested water rights or decreed conditional water rights. The general assembly affirms that this article does not impair, limit, or otherwise affect the rights of persons or entities to enter into agreements, contracts, or memoranda of understanding with other persons or entities relating to the appropriation, movement, or use of water under other provisions of law.

37-75-103. Director of compact negotiations. (1) Within thirty days after June 7, 2005, the governor shall appoint a director of compact negotiations, which office is hereby created in the office of the governor. The director of compact negotiations shall act as the overseer and caretaker of the compact negotiations process established in this article.

(2) The director of compact negotiations shall have the following responsibilities:

(a) Provide support and assistance to applicable local stakeholders in the formation of permanent basin roundtables established pursuant to section 37-75-104;

(b) Oversee and direct the expenditure of moneys appropriated pursuant to this article; and

(c) Serve as the chairperson of the interbasin compact committee and oversee implementation of the interbasin compact committee's responsibilities consistent with section 37-75-105, including the timely completion and referral of the interbasin compact charter.

Source: L. 2005: Entire article added, p. 1473, § 1, effective June 7. L. 2006: (1) amended, p. 1283, § 4, effective May 26.

37-75-104. Basin roundtables. (1) (a) To facilitate continued discussions within and between basins on water management issues, and to encourage locally driven collaborative solutions to water supply challenges, permanent basin roundtables are hereby created in Colorado's eight water basins and in a demographically unique subregion within water division 1 as specified in subsection (3) of this section.

(b) The executive director of the department of natural resources shall take such actions as may be necessary to ensure proper integration and nonduplication of activities occurring pursuant to the statewide water supply initiative and this article.

(2) Each basin roundtable shall have the following powers and responsibilities:

(a) (I) As soon as practicable following June 7, 2005, each basin roundtable shall establish bylaws, operating procedures, goals, and objectives to govern the actions and decisions of the applicable roundtable. Basin roundtables and their representatives on the interbasin compact committee may opt out of the procedures established in this article at any time.

(II) As deemed appropriate by the executive director, the roundtables established pursuant to this section may take on the duties and functions of the roundtables created pursuant to the statewide water supply initiative.

(b) Select two basin representatives to represent the views and interests of the basin on the interbasin compact committee established pursuant to section 37-75-105. Basin representatives need not be members of the basin roundtable.

(c) Using data and information from the statewide water supply initiative and other appropriate sources and in cooperation with the on-going statewide water supply initiative, develop a basin-wide consumptive and nonconsumptive water supply needs assessment, conduct an analysis of available unappropriated waters within the basin, and propose projects or methods, both structural and nonstructural, for meeting those needs and utilizing those unappropriated waters where appropriate. Basin roundtables shall actively seek the input and advice of affected local governments, water providers, and other interested stakeholders and persons in establishing its needs assessment, and shall propose projects or methods for meeting those needs. Recommendations from this assessment shall be forwarded to the interbasin compact committee and other basin roundtables for analysis and consideration after the general assembly has approved the interbasin compact charter.

(d) Serve as a forum for education and debate regarding methods for meeting water supply needs; and

(e) As needed, establish roundtable subcommittees or other mechanisms to facilitate dialogue and resolution of issues and conflicts within the basin.

(3) (a) As used in this subsection (3), unless the context otherwise requires:

(I) "Water division" has the same meaning as set forth in section 37-92-201.

(II) "Water management district" means those districts established by the division of water resources and depicted on maps published by the division.

(b) The following basin roundtables are hereby created:

(I) The South Platte basin roundtable, consisting of water division 1 excepting those portions of water division 1 listed in subparagraphs (VIII) and (IX) of this paragraph (b);

(II) The Arkansas basin roundtable, consisting of water division 2;

(III) The Rio Grande basin roundtable, consisting of water division 3;

(IV) The Gunnison basin roundtable, consisting of water division 4 excepting water management districts 60, 61, and 63;

(V) The Colorado basin roundtable, consisting of water division 5;

(VI) The Yampa-White roundtable, consisting of water division 6 excepting water management district 47;

(VII) The Dolores, San Miguel, and San Juan basins roundtable, consisting of water division 7 and water management districts 60, 61, and 63;

(VIII) The metro roundtable, consisting of the following areas in water division 1: Those portions of water management districts 7 to 9 that lie east of the boundary between ranges 71 and 72 west and that portion of water management district 2 that lies south of the boundary between township 1 north and township 1 south; and

(IX) The North Platte roundtable, consisting of water management districts 47, 48, and 76.

(4) (a) Each basin roundtable shall consist of the following members, each of whom shall reside within the borders of the roundtable, except as otherwise provided in this paragraph (a):

(I) One member appointed by the governing body of each county or city and county within the borders of the basin roundtable. A county or city and county shall be entitled to a member on each basin roundtable that overlaps its boundaries.

(II) One municipal member for each county located in whole or in part within the basin roundtable, who shall be appointed jointly by the governing bodies of all municipalities within that portion of the county that is located within the roundtable;

(III) One member appointed by the board of directors of each water conservancy and water conservation district within the borders of the roundtable. A water conservancy or water conservation district shall be entitled to one member on each basin roundtable that overlaps its jurisdiction.

(IV) One member appointed by mutual agreement of the chairperson of the house agriculture, livestock, and natural resources committee and the chairperson of the senate agriculture, natural resources, and energy committee;

(V) Ten at large members appointed by the roundtable members appointed pursuant to subparagraphs (I) to (IV) of this paragraph (a) in consultation with the director of compact negotiations, one of whom shall represent environmental interests and who shall be selected from nominees submitted by one or more regionally, state-wide, or nationally recognized environmental conservation organizations that have operated in Colorado for at least five years, one of whom shall represent agricultural interests, one of whom shall represent recreation interests, one of whom shall represent local domestic water provider interests, one of whom shall represent industrial interests, and at least five of whom shall own adjudicated water rights, including owners of shares in a ditch or reservoir company or their agents, or shall have a contract for water with the federal bureau of reclamation or their agents. Any such agent shall be appointed by the member the agent represents and shall reside within the borders of the member's roundtable.

(VI) (A) Three nonvoting members shall be selected by the roundtable members appointed pursuant to subparagraphs (I) to (V) of this paragraph (a), who shall represent entities outside of the basin that own water rights within the basin. Members appointed pursuant to this subparagraph (VI) shall not be required to reside within the borders of the roundtable.

(B) If no one qualifies for selection pursuant to sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (VI), three nonvoting members shall be selected from outside the basin who have interests in and are knowledgeable about water matters.

(b) Members shall serve for a term of five years; except that initial terms shall be staggered pursuant to each roundtable's bylaws. Vacancies shall be filled pursuant to the same criteria as the original appointment.

(c) The member of the Colorado water conservation board who resides within the borders of the basin roundtable shall act as the board's liaison to the basin roundtable and to the interbasin compact committee for the purpose of ensuring the proper coordination of Colorado water conservation board information, policies, and resources. Such coordination shall be subject to available staff resources as determined by the director of the board and the executive director of the department of natural resources.

(5) A basin roundtable shall be deemed to be a local public body for purposes of the open meetings law, part 4 of article 6 of title 24, C.R.S.

37-75-105. Interbasin compact committee - report. (1) (a) To facilitate the process of interbasin compact negotiations, a twenty-seven-member interbasin compact committee is hereby created. The interbasin compact committee shall include two representatives from each basin roundtable, at least one of whom shall reside within the borders of the roundtable and at least one of whom shall own adjudicated water rights, including owners of shares in a ditch or reservoir company or their agents, six at-large members appointed by the governor, one member appointed by the chairperson of the house agriculture, livestock, and natural resources committee, one member appointed by the chairperson of the senate agriculture, natural resources, and energy committee, and the director of compact negotiations. The governor's appointments shall come from geographically diverse parts of the state and shall include individuals with expertise in environmental, recreational, local governmental, industrial, and agricultural matters. No more than three of the governor's appointees shall be affiliated with the same political party. Any such agent shall be appointed by the member the agent represents and shall reside within the borders of the member's roundtable.

(b) As soon as practicable following June 7, 2005, the committee shall establish bylaws to govern its actions, including a procedure whereby basin roundtables that opt out of the procedures established in this article are no longer represented on the committee but may opt back in.

(2) (a) Not later than July 1, 2006, the interbasin compact committee shall establish and refer to the general assembly an interbasin compact charter that shall govern and guide all negotiations between basin roundtables under this article. Upon receipt, consideration, and approval of the charter by the general assembly acting by bill, negotiations between basin roundtables may commence. Any compact or other agreement established using the procedures established in this article shall fully comply with the terms, requirements, and procedures established in the interbasin compact charter as approved pursuant to this subsection (2).

(b) The general assembly hereby approves the interbasin compact charter as submitted to the general assembly on April 6, 2006, by the interbasin compact committee. The revisor of statutes shall publish the full text of the charter in the Colorado Revised Statutes as nonstatutory matter in accordance with section 2-5-102 (9), C.R.S.

(3) At a minimum, the interbasin compact charter shall include the following:

(a) A negotiating framework and foundational principles to guide voluntary negotiations between basin roundtables, including present and future consumptive and nonconsumptive water uses and such policies as may be necessary to ensure that compacts or other agreements between roundtables do not conflict or otherwise not conform with one another;

(b) Subject to the principles established in section 37-75-102, procedures for ratifying compacts or other agreements between basin roundtables, including the requirement that every basin roundtable whose waters are affected by a proposed compact or other agreement shall provide its affirmative support for such proposed compact or other agreement before such compact or agreement is final or binding;

(c) As deemed appropriate by the interbasin compact committee but subject to the principles established in section 37-75-102, authorities and procedures for making compacts or other agreements between roundtables legally binding and enforceable; and

(d) As deemed appropriate by the interbasin compact committee, procedures for integrating the processes established in this article with existing planning, permitting, and public participation processes related to the conservation and development of water within Colorado; except that no provision of the charter shall supercede, impair, or otherwise modify the authority, jurisdiction, or permitting powers of counties or other local government entities.

(4) Commencing in 2006, the committee shall submit an annual report to the house of representatives committee on agriculture, livestock, and natural resources and the senate committee on agriculture, natural resources, and energy, or their successor committees, by October 31 concerning the status of compact negotiations and, in consultation with the Colorado water conservation board created in section 37-60-102, how moneys from the water supply reserve fund created in section 39-29-109 (2) (c), C.R.S., were allocated during the previous twelve months for water activities approved by basin roundtables.

(5) The committee shall be deemed to be a state public body for purposes of the open meetings law, part 4 of article 6 of title 24, C.R.S.

Editor's note: Subsection (2) provides that the revisor of statutes shall publish the full text of the "Colorado Water for the 21st Century Interbasin Compact Committee Charter" in the Colorado Revised Statutes as nonstatutory matter in accordance with section 2-5-102 (9), Colorado Revised Statutes. The charter is as follows:

The Colorado Water for the 21st Century Interbasin Compact Committee Charter

I. Preamble

The Colorado Water for the 21st Century Act creates a voluntary, collaborative process to help the state address its water challenges. The process is based upon the premise that Coloradans can work together to address the water needs within the state. The Act sets up a framework that provides a permanent forum for broad-based water discussions. It creates nine Basin Roundtables and the Interbasin Compact Committee (IBCC), a statewide committee that will guide discussions and voluntary negotiations between basins.

The IBCC is mandated to: 1) Establish bylaws to govern its actions, 2) Establish and refer to the general assembly an interbasin compact charter that shall govern and guide all negotiations between Basin Roundtables, 3) Submit an annual report to the legislature concerning the status of compact negotiations, and 4) Develop a public education, participation, and outreach working group.

HB 05-1177 states that the IBCC Charter should contain a negotiating framework and foundational principles to guide voluntary negotiations between Basin Roundtables, including present and future consumptive and nonconsumptive water uses and such policies as may be necessary to ensure that compacts or other agreements between Roundtables do not conflict or otherwise not conform with one another.

II. Foundational Legal Principles

The following foundational legal principles are drawn from the text of the legislation.

1. The current system of allocating water within Colorado shall not be superseded, abrogated, or otherwise impaired by this article.

2. Nothing in HB 05-1177 shall be interpreted to repeal or in any manner amend the existing water rights adjudication system.

3. HB 05-1177 affirms the state constitution's recognition of water rights as a private usufructuary property right, and is not intended to restrict the ability of the holder of a water right to use or to dispose of that water right in any manner permitted under Colorado law.

4. HB 05-1177 affirms the protections for contractual and property rights recognized by the contract and takings protections under the state constitution and related statutes.

5. HB 05-1177 shall not be implemented in any way that would diminish, impair, or cause injury to any property or contractual right created by intergovernmental agreements, contracts, stipulations among parties to water cases, terms and conditions in water decrees, or any other similar document related to the allocation or use of water.

6. HB 05-1177 shall not be construed to supersede, abrogate, or cause injury to vested water rights or decreed conditional water rights.

7. HB 05-1177 does not impair, limit, or otherwise affect the rights of persons or entities to enter into agreements, contracts, or memoranda of understanding with other persons or entities relating to the appropriation, movement, or use of water under other provisions of law.

III. Foundational Guiding Principles

The IBCC is informed and guided by the following foundational principles, which will provide a framework for future discussions.

1. All Colorado water users must share in solving Colorado's water resource problems.

2. The State of Colorado should provide assistance, when requested, for local water supply planning and assist in the implementation of consensus-based water resource solutions that respect local authorities, private property and water rights.

3. During the process of planning to meet future needs, water suppliers and utilities should give preference to development of economically viable local water sources and demand management as they consider other options, including development of new water transfers.

4. Additional water storage should be pursued through the improvement and rehabilitation of existing structures and the development of new structures. These activities should be accomplished with local consensus.

5. The right of water rights owners to market their water rights must be protected.

a. Colorado must fully explore flexible, market-based approaches to water supply management, including interruptible water contracts, water banking, in-state water leasing and groundwater recharge management.

b. Those seeking to transfer agricultural water to another use should consider leasing or other temporary arrangements for transfer of water, rather than relying exclusively on the purchase of water rights. Leasing or other such temporary arrangements could allow for reversion of the water to agricultural purposes under certain conditions.

c. In the event that agricultural water is transferred, the transaction must adequately address the need for maintaining the existing tax base, protecting the remaining water rights in the area, and maintaining the proper stewardship of the land including revegetation and weed control.

6. Appropriate recognition should be given to preservation of flows necessary to support recreational, hydroelectric and environmental needs concurrent with development of water for beneficial consumptive uses.

7. Adverse economic, environmental, and social impacts of future water projects and water transfers should be minimized; unavoidable adverse impacts must be reasonably mitigated; all communities involved should commit themselves to identifying and implementing reasonable mitigation measures as an integral part of future water projects or transfers.

8. Future water supply solutions must benefit both the area of origin and the area of use.

9. Water conservation measures that do not injure other water rights should be aggressively pursued.

10. There must be an ongoing, concerted effort to educate all Coloradans on the importance of water, and the need to conserve, manage, and plan for the needs of this and future generations.

IV. Roles of the Committee

The IBCC will:

1. Provide a forum to develop and disseminate information, create a positive environment for a statewide perspective, and develop a vision for statewide water negotiations;
2. Serve as a forum for discussing and addressing the socio-economic, recreation and environmental impacts of water development and management, as well as potential impacts on the ability of the state to use its entitlements and meet its Interstate Compact requirements.
3. Assist in finding resources to enable Roundtables to develop basin-wide visions;
4. Encourage development of a common technical platform upon which negotiations can be based;
5. Guide the process of negotiating interbasin compacts and other agreements by providing a framework that creates incentives for successful deliberations, agreements, and their implementation; and
6. Perform all other roles and functions of the IBCC identified in legislation.

V. Use of the Negotiation Charter

1. Discussions or negotiations conducted under the framework of the IBCC offer an opportunity for parties with water rights, project proponents, others concerned about water issues and Basin Roundtables to collaboratively search for solutions that hold mutual benefit, avoid litigation, and are sustainable and stable.
2. While all negotiations are voluntary and may be conducted directly between the parties with water rights, project proponents, others concerned about water issues and Basin Roundtables involved, parties are encouraged but not compelled to use the IBCC framework as a forum for discussions and as a way to keep all parties informed.
3. Should the Basin Roundtables feel it necessary or beneficial to bring discussion of a particular topic, issue, or proposal of interest to one or more basins before the entire IBCC, the committee members representing the basin(s) may raise the issue during a meeting of the IBCC. The IBCC will then decide on a procedure that will be utilized by the IBCC for discussing the issue or proposal.
4. Every Basin Roundtable whose waters are affected by a proposed compact or other agreement negotiated under the framework of the IBCC and Basin Roundtables, must provide its affirmative support for such proposed compact or other agreement before such compact or other agreement can be approved or ratified by the IBCC.

VI. Negotiating Framework

1. The IBCC, in helping Roundtables reach agreements, will encourage the use of a collaborative decision making process. Collaborative decision making processes may include but are not limited to:
  - a. Unassisted cooperative problem solving and/or negotiation.
  - b. Assisted cooperative problem solving and/or negotiation by facilitation and/or mediation.
  - c. Adaptive management.
  - d. Any other procedures on which Roundtables can mutually agree.
2. Informed constituencies will enhance the prospects for acceptance of compacts or other agreements negotiated by the Roundtables or decisions made by the IBCC.
  - a. Members of the IBCC who represent constituencies or agencies will inform their constituents and solicit their opinions about the issues under discussion. They will represent the interests of their constituent group and bring their constituents' concerns and ideas to the deliberations.
  - b. Members of the IBCC may elect to hold regular meetings with their constituent group (a formal caucus), to provide copies of work session minutes to their constituents and request comments, and to communicate informally with their constituents.
  - c. Prior to any decision being made by the IBCC, representatives will have adequate time to consult with their constituents or other relevant officials to explain deliberations and gain their input and/or approval.
  - d. IBCC meetings will be open to the public. In order for the IBCC to achieve its mission, discussion and deliberation at work sessions must be focused and manageable. Participation by non-members of the IBCC will be at the discretion of the Director of Compact Negotiations. IBCC will include a period for public comment at each of its meetings.

VII. Agreements Between Roundtables

1. Basin Roundtables choosing to enter into agreements with other Basin Roundtables are responsible for the form and structure of those agreements. Where appropriate and in a mutually agreed upon manner, agreements will have authorities and procedures addressing the extent to which the agreements are legally binding and enforceable.

VIII. Integration with other Processes

1. The IBCC will coordinate as appropriate with existing planning, permitting, and public participation processes related to the conservation and development of water within Colorado. No provision of this Charter is intended to supersede, impair, or otherwise modify the authority, jurisdiction, planning or permitting powers of counties or other local government entities.

IX. Ratification of Negotiated Agreements

1. Every Basin Roundtable whose waters are affected by a proposed compact or other agreement negotiated under the framework of the IBCC and Basin Roundtables must provide its affirmative support for such proposed compact or other agreement before such compact or other agreement can be approved or ratified by the IBCC.

2. The IBCC will review from a statewide perspective all compacts or other agreements reached by Basin Roundtables or other concerned parties, which are referred to it for assessment and ratification. If questions or concerns arise during the IBCC's review and approval process, the Committee will communicate its questions or concerns to involved Roundtables or parties through appropriate Basin representatives to the IBCC. The IBCC may choose to defer further discussion of a compact or other agreement until its questions or concerns have been adequately addressed.

3. When reviewing or ratifying compacts or other agreements reached by Basin Roundtables or other concerned parties, the IBCC will first use a decision making process that seeks to identify and positively affirm a broad general level of support for or approval of the issue or proposal in question by all Committee members. An agreement will be considered to have been reached when either the facilitator or a group member has articulated the proposed agreement, and all IBCC members either verbally affirm their support for it, or at a minimum agree not to actively oppose or subvert it. The above process does not require all Committee members to support a proposal or ultimate agreement to the same degree for an agreement to have been reached. Some members may strongly endorse an agreement, while others may believe it to be not ideal, but ultimately workable and acceptable.

4. When a decision is being made using the above process, any IBCC member may request a non-binding poll of Committee members to determine their views. Members may voice affirmative support for a proposal or agreement, remain silent and allow the agreement to be approved without objection, or state that a broad general level of agreement has not been reached, and request the committee to continue deliberations.

5. If the IBCC cannot reach a mutually acceptable agreement on a proposed compact or other agreement that has been brought to it for review and ratification, its members will use the following procedure. After a complete discussion of the issue(s) in question has occurred at three or more IBCC meetings, and all members have had an opportunity to consult their Basin Roundtables and been given a fair opportunity to present their views and be heard, the Committee may change its decision making process from one seeking broad support for or agreement on an issue or proposal in question, to a majority/minority vote. The shift from one decision making procedure to another will require a 75% or greater majority of the members attending the meeting in favor of the shift. In addition, all IBCC members must have been given the opportunity to be present at the meeting at which the vote to shift decision making procedures is taken, and properly notified of the proposed action.

6. If a 75% majority of IBCC members attending the meeting do not approve changing the decision making process, the issue(s) under consideration along with IBCC members questions or concerns will be returned to concerned Roundtables or parties for further clarification and/or to be addressed by the Roundtables or parties.

7. If a 75% majority of IBCC members attending the meeting vote to shift the IBCC's decision making process to voting, a decision by vote may be made at the next regularly scheduled IBCC meeting. A compact or other agreement will be considered to have been approved or ratified by the IBCC if a 75% majority of IBCC members attending the meeting vote to approve it. All IBCC members must have been given the opportunity to be present at the meeting at which the vote is taken, and properly notified of the proposed action. Following the vote, majority and minority reports will be prepared. Reports will indicate the number of IBCC members that support each view. Reports will be forwarded to concerned parties and made available to the general public.

X. Provisions for Modification of the Charter

1. Proposals for revision of the Charter can be raised by any IBCC member at any time.

2. Final revisions to the IBCC Charter can only be made after discussions of revisions have occurred at two consecutive regularly scheduled meetings. This procedure will allow time for members to deliberate and consult other parties as appropriate. If an agreement cannot be reached in two meetings, a third may be allowed.

3. When revising the IBCC's Charter, the Committee will first use a decision making process similar to the one described above for review and approval of compacts or agreements between Basin Roundtables or other concerned parties. The process will seek to identify and positively affirm a broad general level of support for or approval of a proposed change to the Charter by all Committee members. An agreement will be considered to have been reached when either the facilitator or a group member has articulated the proposed change in the Charter, and all IBCC members either verbally affirm their support for it, or at a minimum agree not to actively oppose or subvert it.

4. When a decision is being made using the above process, any IBCC member may request a non-binding poll of Committee members to determine their views on the proposed change to the Charter.

5. If the IBCC cannot reach a mutually acceptable agreement on a proposed change to the Charter, Committee members will use the following procedure. After a complete discussion of issue(s) in question has occurred at two or more IBCC meetings, and all members have had an opportunity to consult their Basin Roundtables and been given a fair opportunity to present their views and be heard, the Committee may change its decision making process from one seeking broad support for or agreement on a proposal, to a majority/minority vote. The shift from one decision making procedure to another will require a 75% or greater majority of IBCC members present at the meeting in favor of the shift. All IBCC members must have been given the opportunity to be present at the meeting at which the vote to shift decision making procedures is taken, and properly notified of the proposed change.

6. If a 75% majority of IBCC members present at the meeting do not approve a shift in the decision making procedure, the charter modification under consideration may be dropped. Alternatively, the IBCC may continue to discuss the proposed change with the goal of developing either a broad level of support for it or another mutually acceptable option, or the issue may be deferred until such time as a 75% majority of Committee members agree to change the decision making process.

7. If a 75% majority vote to shift the IBCC's decision has been attained, the proposal for a change may be voted on at the Committee's next regularly scheduled meeting. Approval of proposed changes will require a 75% majority of IBCC members. All IBCC members must have been given the opportunity to be present at the meeting at which the vote to change the Charter is taken, and properly notified of the proposed change.

ANNOTATION

Proposed initiative contains at least two subjects in violation of article V, § 1(5.5) by:

(1) Creating and administering a beverage container tax, and (2) prohibiting the general assembly from exercising its legislative authority over the basin roundtables and interbasin compact committee until the year 2015, while embedding these entities within the water sections of the constitution and vesting them with significant new authority. Submission Clause for 2009-2010 No. 91, 235 P.3d 1071 (Colo. 2010).

There is no necessary and proper connection between the establishment and administration of a beverage container tax and a prolonged prohibition on the exercise of the general assembly's authority over the basin roundtables and the interbasin compact committee. Submission Clause for 2009-2010 No. 91, 235 P.3d 1071 (Colo. 2010).

37-75-106. Public education - outreach. (1) The interbasin compact committee shall develop a public education, participation, and outreach working group.

(2) The public education, participation, and outreach working group shall:

(a) Create a process to inform, involve, and educate the public on the interbasin compact committee's activities and progress of the interbasin compact negotiations; and

(b) Create a mechanism by which public input and feedback can be relayed to the interbasin compact committee and compact negotiators.

37-75-107. Interbasin compact committee operation fund - creation. There is hereby created in the state treasury the interbasin compact committee operation fund, which shall be administered by the Colorado water conservation board and shall consist of all moneys transferred by the treasurer as specified in section 39-29-109.3 (2) (i), C.R.S. All moneys in the fund are continuously appropriated to the Colorado water conservation board for the purposes stated in this article. All moneys in the fund at the end of each fiscal year shall be retained in the fund and shall not revert to the general fund or any other fund.

37-80-101. State engineer. The governor shall appoint a state engineer, pursuant to section 13 of article XII of the state constitution. The state engineer shall have his office at the state capital, in suitable rooms to be provided for him with suitable furniture, postage, and such proper and necessary stationery, books, and instruments as are required to best enable him to discharge the duties of his office. The state engineer, before entering on the discharge of his duties, shall take and subscribe to an oath, before the judge of a state court of record, to faithfully perform the duties of his office and file said oath with the secretary of state, together with his official bond, in the penal sum of ten thousand dollars, said bond to be executed by a responsible surety company authorized to do business within the state, and conditioned upon the faithful discharge of the duties of his office and for delivering to his successor or other officer authorized by the governor to receive the same all moneys, books, instruments, and other property belonging to the state then in his possession or under his control, or with which he may be legally chargeable as such state engineer.

37-80-102. General duties of state engineer - supervision and utilization of employees - satellite monitoring system. (1) The state engineer is the executive officer in charge of supervising the work of all division engineers and may direct their supervision of their employees. The state engineer has executive responsibility and authority with respect to:

(a) Discharge of the obligations of the state of Colorado imposed by compact or judicial order on the office of the state engineer;

(b) Securing and implementing legal opinions and assistance regarding the work within his jurisdiction;

(c) Coordinating the work of the division of water resources with other departments of the state government, including executive departments, the general assembly, educational institutions, and also related local government authorities and municipal and quasi-municipal corporations, subject to the provisions of subsection (6) of this section;

(d) The supervision of employees in the office of the division of water resources, together with defining their duties so that all obligations of the division of water resources will be efficiently discharged;

(e) Construction contracts, professional and technical consultants, and other contracts related to the operation of the division of water resources;

(f) The keeping and preparation of records and investigations as related to carrying out the functions of the division of water resources, including water well licensing;

(g) Rule-making for the division of water resources;

(h) General supervisory control over measurement, record-keeping, and distribution of the public waters of the state;

(i) Collection and distribution of data on snowfall and prediction of probable runoff therefrom;

(j) The making and implementing of contracts with public and private agencies and with individuals and corporations necessary or incidental to the operation of the division of water resources and performance of the duties of his office;

(k) Such other acts as may be reasonably necessary to enable him to secure the effective and efficient operation of the division of water resources, including power and authority to make and enforce such rules or regulations as he may find necessary or desirable to effectuate the performance of his duties. The making of such rules or regulations shall not be a prerequisite to control of personnel of the division of water resources or the performance of his duties under the constitution or laws of Colorado or any compact, treaty, or judicial decree or decision which does not, by its specific terms, require implementation by such rule or regulation.

(l) Receiving and expending grants and distributions of money, property, and equipment from the Colorado water conservation board for use in making investigations, contracting projects, or otherwise carrying out the purposes of this article. The grants and distributions from the Colorado water conservation board are continuously appropriated to the state engineer for the purposes set forth in this section.

(2) The state engineer has authority to delegate to any other person the obligation to discharge one or more portions of the duties imposed upon him, but no such delegation shall relieve the state engineer of ultimate responsibility for proper and efficient conduct of his office or the duties devolving upon him. The state engineer may reassign or delegate duties and responsibilities as he may find necessary or desirable.

(3) In addition to statutory duties devolving upon division engineers and others who are within the general supervision of the state engineer, their duties may be enlarged by the state engineer who shall collaborate with those having statutory duties so as to provide sufficient ancillary assistance to them so as to enable them to efficiently discharge their duties and obligations as state officers or employees. Insofar as reasonably possible, duties and lines of authority shall be established in written form and related to particular offices or employment.

(4) Employees within each general classification shall be deployed by the state engineer to work in such locations and according to patterns of accomplishment to be established from time to time by the state engineer. The state engineer shall avoid unnecessary or unreasonable changes in location of the place of performance of duties of those under his authority, but, within limits of the exercise of reasonable judgment, he has full, final, and complete authority to require persons within the division of water resources, temporarily or on a basis of relative permanence, to perform their duties in those areas which the state engineer finds necessary or desirable for the most efficient or effective operation and discharge of the functions under his authority.

(5) To such extent as is reasonably necessary to keep employees of the division of water resources abreast of developments and knowledge in the field of their duties, the state engineer has authority to make necessary arrangements for educational opportunities and experiences for the various employees in the division of water resources including himself, in order that all personnel of the division of water resources may be qualified to effectively meet their responsibilities.

(6) (a) The state engineer and those under his supervision shall be subject to the direction of the executive director of the department of natural resources with respect to those matters concerning the division of water resources which require coordination with other branches of the department of natural resources.

(b) Repealed.

(7) Under the control and direction of the state engineer, and in cooperation with the Colorado water conservation board, there shall be a water supply section, which has the duty to collect and study data and distribute such information on the water supplies, both surface and groundwater, of the state of Colorado in order to make a more efficient administration of the uses thereof. The state engineer shall employ such hydrologists and hydraulic engineers as are necessary to determine sources of water supply, forecast runoff, define characteristics and amounts of return flows, and determine diversion requirements, transmission losses, evaporation losses, historic usage, and general stream regimen.

(8) The state engineer shall use in all his calculations; measurements, records, and reports the cubic foot per second as the unit of measurement of flowing water and the cubic foot or acre-foot as the unit of measurement of volume.

(9) Repealed.

(10) The state engineer is authorized to accept, operate, and house in the Centennial Building at 1313 Sherman Street, Denver, Colorado, automated data processing equipment and programs associated with a satellite monitoring system to be acquired by the Colorado water resources and power development authority and dedicated to the state of Colorado for operation and use by the Colorado state engineer.

37-80-103. Additional duties of engineer. The state engineer shall perform all duties imposed upon him by law and, when called upon by the governor, shall give his counsel and services to any state department or institution. He shall be allowed all actual traveling and other necessary expenses and the actual cost of preparing necessary maps and drawings, which actual expenses shall be paid by the department or institution requiring his services.

37-80-104. Compact requirements - state engineer's duties. The state engineer shall make and enforce such regulations with respect to deliveries of water as will enable the state of Colorado to meet its compact commitments. In those cases where the compact is deficient in establishing standards for administration within Colorado to provide for meeting its terms, the state engineer shall make such regulations as will be legal and equitable to regulate distribution among the appropriators within Colorado obligated to curtail diversions to meet compact commitments, so as to restore lawful use conditions as they were before the effective date of the compact insofar as possible.

ANNOTATION

Applicability of section. A compact that was not deficient in establishing standards for administration of water rights in Colorado precluded the application of this section other than as the source of the compact rule power. Alamosa-La Jara Water Users Prot. Ass'n v. Gould, 674 P.2d 914 (Colo. 1983).

Where a compact had become deficient in establishing standards for administration of water rights within Colorado, this section was held to authorize the state engineer to adopt rules as necessary to ensure compliance with the compact. However, in adopting such rules, the state engineer is subject to all statutory conditions imposed upon exercise of the water rule power. Simpson v. Bijou Irrigation Co., 69 P.3d 50 (Colo. 2003).

State engineer's authority to apply compact tributary rule. A compact requiring administration of the Rio Grande mainstem and Conejos river according to delivery schedules that did not include the contributions of three creeks as significant to the delivery obligation did away with the state engineer's authority to apply the tributary rule of the compact to the three creeks. Alamosa-La Jara Water Users Prot. Ass'n v. Gould, 674 P.2d 914 (Colo. 1983).

Stream administration. Streams independently appropriated remain independent under the doctrine of prior appropriation unless the water of those streams becomes subject to equitable apportionment by compact, in which case the streams must be administered as mandated by the compact or statutory provisions for priority administration of water rights. Alamosa-La Jara Water Users Prot. Ass'n v. Gould, 674 P.2d 914 (Colo. 1983).

State engineer may promulgate and enforce appropriate rules. In order to promulgate and enforce rules for compliance with Rio Grande river compact commitments, the state engineer may promulgate and enforce appropriate rules for the administration of water rights. In re Rules & Regulations Governing Water Rights, 196 Colo. 197, 583 P.2d 910 (1978).

Procedures specified in other statutes. This section vests the state engineer with power to administer water use within the state and also with a duty to ensure compliance with Colorado's interstate obligations. However, where neither the compact nor this section set forth specific procedures, the state engineer must necessarily promulgate and enforce rules pursuant to the water rule power granted in § 37-92-501. Simpson v. Bijou Irrigation Co., 69 P.3d 50 (Colo. 2003).

37-80-105. Supervision over division engineers. The state engineer shall have general charge over the work of the division engineers; shall furnish them with all the data and information necessary for the proper and intelligent discharge of the duties of their offices; shall require them to report to him at suitable times their official actions; and shall require of them annual statements, on blanks to be furnished by him, of the amount of water diverted from the public streams in their respective divisions and such other statistics as, in the judgment of the state engineer, will be of benefit to the state.

ANNOTATION

The state engineer and those working under him act within their authority in regulating the waters stored in the reservoirs and,

whenever it is made to appear that a reservoir interferes with the use by prior appropriators of such water, their authority extends to requiring that such waters be released for application to proper beneficial use by such appropriators. Cline v. Whitten, 150 Colo. 179, 372 P.2d 145 (1962).

The accuracy and completeness of the reports required by this section will constitute their value, and under this section, therefore, the commissioner must do enough work to answer the demands of the state engineer, and that seems to require him at least to be able to state at all times the amount of water being taken from the public streams in his district. Cutler v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 75 Colo. 248, 225 P. 211 (1924).

37-80-106. Appointment of deputies. (1) The state engineer may appoint one or more deputies as he may deem proper for assisting him in the discharge of the duties of his office, or he may deputize any person to do a particular service, and he has the power to revoke such appointments when, in his judgment, there is no further need for the services of anyone so appointed or deputized. Such appointments and revocations thereof shall be in writing over the signature and official seal of the state engineer, the original of which shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state. All persons so appointed or deputized shall take and subscribe to an oath, before a judge of a court of record, to faithfully perform the duties of the office to which he is appointed or required to perform; and such oath shall be filed with his appointment in the office of the secretary of state. All such persons so appointed or deputized by the state engineer shall furnish an official bond with surety executed by a responsible surety company, authorized to do business within the state, in the penal sum of not less than one thousand dollars nor more than five thousand dollars. The cost of such bonds shall be paid by said deputies.

(2) In addition to the deputies provided for in this section, the state engineer may employ, pursuant to section 13 of article XII of the state constitution, such assistants in performing the duties of his office as he may deem necessary.

37-80-108. Appoint deputy for special work. The state engineer, on request of any party interested and on payment of his per diem charges and reasonable expenses, shall appoint a deputy to measure, compute, and ascertain all necessary data of any canal, dam, reservoir, or other construction, as required or as may be desired to establish court decrees, or for filing statements in compliance with law in the county clerk and recorder's records.

37-80-109. State engineer's authority to contract for services. (1) The state engineer shall secure the limited or temporary services of persons necessary to implement carrying out the duties or functions of the division of water resources in those cases where performance by regular state employees is infeasible or impractical and more especially in the following instances:

(a) In which work is of such a nature as to require such special training or aptitudes and is of such limited application that the full-time regular employment normally expected of state employees would be unduly expensive;

(b) In nonrecurring situations of such limited duration as to make the use of regular employees infeasible where the situation can be concluded within a reasonable time by the securing of special assistants but could not be concluded without such assistance so as to fulfill the proper functions of the division of water resources;

(c) To meet emergencies which reasonable foresight could not have anticipated;

(d) To furnish services which may be required by the state engineer of those dealing with his office and who will fully reimburse the state engineer for the services.

(2) During any period when there are more hearings or determinations before the state engineer and the division engineers than can be acted upon promptly, the state engineer shall employ and maintain adequate personnel to assist him and the division engineers in arriving at required determinations. Such personnel may be regular employees or, in those cases falling within the purview of subsection (1) of this section, may be temporary employees on a contract basis and may perform their work jointly or severally as directed by the state engineer.

(3) In the same manner as is provided for a hearings section in subsection (2) of this section, the state engineer may provide personnel as required to adequately staff any water conservation project provided for by law.

(4) The state engineer shall provide appropriate personnel for keeping records and making investigations respecting the performance of the functions of his office and shall provide similar personnel to function under the general direction of his office in the offices of each of the division engineers.

Law reviews. For article, "A Review of Recent Activity in Colorado Water Law", see 47 Den. L.J. 181 (1970).

37-80-110. Fees collected by state engineer. (1) Fees shall be collected by the state engineer for work done in his office, as follows:

(a) For examination and filing of each map and statement describing a claim to a water right, twenty dollars if the amount of water claimed does not exceed twenty cubic feet per second of time and an additional one dollar for each cubic foot per second of time claimed in excess of twenty; but the total collected for examination and filing of each claim shall not exceed the sum of one hundred fifty dollars;

(b) For examination and filing of each map and statement describing a claim to water for storage, twenty dollars for each one thousand acre-feet or fraction thereof of storage capacity claimed; but no fees shall be charged for amended maps and statements where no additional capacity is claimed, and, where additional capacity is claimed, the fees shall be charged for such additional capacity as for original filings; but the total amount of fees collected for examination and filing of each claim on any original or amended map and statement shall not exceed the sum of one hundred fifty dollars. In cases where no fee is charged for filing a map and statement describing a claim to water, the claimant shall pay the required fee for all blueprints or other reproductions.

(c) For filing each judicial decree ordering the transfer of a water right or the change of a point of diversion, two dollars;

(d) For each certificate, other than those which may be required in the case of original filings of claims to water rights, requiring official signature and seal, two dollars;

(e) For the examination and filing of each set of plans and specifications required by law to be filed in the office of the state engineer, three dollars for each one thousand dollars or fraction thereof of the estimated cost thereof; but the total amount of fees for examination and filing of each set of plans and specifications shall not be less than one hundred dollars nor more than three thousand dollars;

(f) For copies of maps, two dollars for each hour or fraction thereof necessary for the making of such copies;

- (g) For each blueprint of a tracing forming a public record, two dollars;
- (h) For copies of records, fifty cents a folio;
- (i) For rating any ditch, canal, reservoir inlet or outlet, at the request of the owner thereof or of any agent or employee having control of the same, twenty-five dollars per day and actual expenses for each day actually and necessarily employed by the engineers in making such rating.
- (2) The provisions of this section shall not apply to operations conducted under the supervision of the United States for irrigation of lands entirely within the state of Colorado.

37-80-111.5. Fees - satellite monitoring system cash fund - well inspection cash fund - created.

- (1) (a) and (b) Repealed.
- (c) The state engineer shall set and collect fees by rule and regulation for the use of the equipment and programs of the satellite monitoring system authorized pursuant to section 37-80-102 (10). All such fees collected by the state engineer and all other moneys received from whatever source for the satellite monitoring system shall be transmitted to the satellite monitoring system cash fund, which fund is hereby created. Moneys in the satellite monitoring system cash fund may be expended by the state engineer for the purposes of section 37-80-102 (10) and this paragraph (c), subject to appropriation by the general assembly.
- (d) Of each fee collected pursuant to sections 37-90-105 (3) (a) (I) and (4) (a), 37-90-107 (7) (d) (I), 37-90-116 (1) (a), (1) (c), and (1) (h), 37-90-137 (2) (a), and 37-92-602 (3) (a) and (5), forty dollars shall be credited to the well inspection cash fund, which fund is hereby created. Moneys in the well inspection cash fund shall be appropriated to and expended by the state engineer for the purposes established in section 37-91-113. Any moneys credited to the well inspection cash fund and unexpended at the end of any given fiscal year remain in the fund and do not revert to the general fund. All interest derived from the deposit and investment of this fund remain in the fund and do not revert to the general fund.
- (2) Repealed.
- (3) Nothing in this section shall be interpreted to require the purchase of any publication referred to in this section.
- (4) Repealed.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Substitute Supply Plans: Recent Water Law Developments", see 31 Colo. Law. 67 (August 2002).

37-80-111.7. Water resources cash fund - created - uses. (1) There is hereby created in the state treasury the water resources cash fund, referred to in this section as the "fund". Revenues credited to the fund and unexpended at the end of each fiscal year remain in the fund and do not revert to the general fund. All interest derived from the deposit and investment of revenues in the fund remain in the fund and do not revert to the general fund.

(2) The state engineer shall collect the following fees and transmit them to the state treasurer, who shall credit them to the fund, except as specified in paragraph (b) of this subsection (2):

(a) The state engineer shall set fees by rule for:

(I) The distribution of data generated, collected, studied, and compiled about the water supplies of this state, which fees shall reflect the direct and indirect costs of such distribution;

(II) The sale of publications of the division of water resources, which fees shall reflect the direct and indirect costs of such publications;

(b) The state engineer shall collect fees pursuant to sections 37-90-105 (3) (a) and (4); 37-90-107 (7) (c) (I) and (7) (d) (I); 37-90-108 (4) and (6); 37-90-116 (1) (a), (1) (c), (1) (h), and (1) (i); 37-90-137 (2), (3) (a), and (3) (c); 37-90.5-106; 37-92-305 (17); 37-92-308; and 37-92-602 (1) (g) (III) (C), (3) (a), and (5). The treasurer shall credit the fees collected pursuant to this paragraph (b) to the fund except as specified in section 37-80-111.5 (1) (d) and except that, of each fee collected pursuant to the following sections, the treasurer shall credit the following amounts to the general fund:

(I) Section 37-90-107 (7) (c) (I) and (7) (d) (I) and section 37-90-116 (1) (a), (1) (h), and (1) (i), thirty dollars;

(II) Section 37-90-137 (2) and (3) (a) (I) and section 37-92-602 (3) (a) for wells applied for pursuant to section 37-92-602 (3) (b), twenty-five dollars;

(III) Section 37-90-116 (1) (c), ten dollars; and

(IV) Section 37-90-105 (3) (a) and (4) (a) and section 37-92-602 (3) (a) for wells applied for pursuant to section 37-92-602 (3) (c) and (5), five dollars.

(3) The state engineer may expend moneys in the fund, subject to appropriation by the general assembly, for the purposes specified in the sections listed in the introductory portion to paragraph (b) of subsection (2) of this section and for the following purposes:

(a) Developing an automated well permit processing system that will expedite the issuance of well permits, creating and maintaining a groundwater information management system, establishing a groundwater data network, establishing groundwater recharge programs, conducting groundwater investigations, monitoring compliance with rooftop precipitation capture laws and permits pursuant to section 37-92-602 (1) (g), the administration of rotational crop management contracts, and for other groundwater-related activities that are deemed necessary by the state engineer in performing statutory duties, subject to appropriation by the general assembly. The office of the state engineer shall make data in the groundwater data network available to the public as expeditiously as possible.

(b) Paying for publications made pursuant to section 37-90-116 (1) (f) to process final permits pursuant to section 37-90-108;

(c) Reviewing applications for approval of a plan for augmentation or a plan of substitute supply pursuant to section 37-90-137 (11) (f);

(d) Investigating and conducting enforcement of violations of orders issued by the state engineer or the ground water commission for the illegal withdrawal of designated groundwater, including costs associated with the implementation of section 37-90-111.5;

(e) Reviewing engineering reports, field inspections, and administering rotational crop management contracts pursuant to section 37-92-305 (17);

(f) Publishing and administrative costs incurred in processing applications and renewals and administering substitute water supply plans pursuant to section 37-92-308;

(g) Publishing and administrative costs incurred in processing applications, reviewing engineering reports, and administering interruptible water supply agreements pursuant to section 37-92-309; and

(h) Funding the operations and administration of the division based on ongoing priorities of the division.

ANNOTATION

The objects of the requirement of this section are plain; first, to inform the executive and general assembly in regard to the department; second, to allow the governor to recommend legislation, should the law be found defective, or suggest necessary legislation if recommended by the officer. Henderson v. Collier & C. Lithographing Co., 2 Colo. App. 251, 30 P. 40 (1892).

When the report has been made as required by law, and the state engineer has performed all the functions required, and subsequent action is taken to print a large number of copies for gratuitous distribution, the right to contract the debt can be predicated upon this section. Henderson v. Collier & C. Lithographing Co., 2 Colo. App. 251, 30 P. 40 (1892).

37-80-113. State engineer - qualifications - salary - conflict of interest. (1) The state personnel director shall require that the state engineer is a person qualified to be a registered engineer in Colorado having the background of knowledge and experience in areas essential to the proper discharge of his duties and functions.

(2) The salary of the state engineer shall be fixed, within the authority granted by section 13 of article XII of the state constitution at a grade requiring compensation adequate to attract and hold in regular employment a person qualified to carry out the functions, duties, and responsibilities of the office, and shall be paid out of general funds of the state as the salaries of the executive officers of the state are paid.

(3) If the state engineer has any personal interest in any matter coming before his office for decision, he shall immediately notify the governor in writing, delineating that interest, and the governor has authority to designate some appropriate person to carry out the functions of the state engineer regarding such matters and to cause such person to be paid a reasonable amount for his services. Personal interest does not mean those matters which members of the public generally may have with respect to any given subject.

37-80-114. Deputy state engineer - powers. (1) The state engineer shall appoint a deputy state engineer, subject to the provisions of section 13 of article XII of the state constitution relating to the state personnel system, whose duties shall be to assist the state engineer in the administration of his office. The deputy state engineer has the power to act for the state engineer in all his official duties, including the administration of interstate river compacts, during the absence of the state engineer from his office or when so directed by the state engineer.

(2) The salary of the deputy state engineer shall be paid as the salaries of the officers of the executive department of the state are paid. He shall also receive reimbursement monthly for the actual necessary expenses incurred in the performance of his official duties, as shall be allotted by the state engineer from funds appropriated for such purpose. The controller is authorized to pay warrants for said salary and expenses upon vouchers approved by the state engineer.

(3) The deputy state engineer, before entering on the discharge of his duties, shall take and subscribe to an oath before the judge of a state court of record to faithfully perform the duties of his office and file said oath with the secretary of state, together with his official bond in the penal sum of ten thousand dollars. The bond shall be executed by a responsible surety company authorized to do business within the state and conditioned upon the faithful discharge of the duties of his office.

37-80-115. Performance of personnel - duties. (1) The state engineer shall furnish such directions and require such performance with respect to the work of those under his jurisdiction as will insure continuous, efficient, and effective discharge of the functions of the division of water resources.

(2) It is the duty of the state engineer to call to the attention of the state personnel director any conduct or failure of conduct of any employee in the division of water resources which would merit discharge or discipline beyond the authority of the state engineer, and, if necessary, he shall file formal charges with respect to such matters.

(3) Default in performance of his duties by the state engineer may be made the subject of charges by the executive director of the department of natural resources or the governor.

(4) Effective administration being essential to good government, it is the duty of the state personnel board to promptly hear, determine, and take action necessary to make effective the provisions of this section whenever the occasion may rise, and such board may, of its own motion, undertake whatever action may be necessary to insure efficient and honorable conduct on the part of employees within the division of water resources.

cusses the role of the state engineer's office historically in state water planning, see 55 U. Colo. L. Rev. 391 (1984).

37-80-116. Legal services authorized. (1) (a) The attorney general shall assign an assistant from his office to act as an advisor to the state engineer and to the various employees of the state who are subject to the administrative authority of the state engineer. The state engineer shall avail himself of the services of such assistant to whatever extent the performance of his duties can be facilitated by legal consultation.

(b) To whatever extent additional legal services are required, they shall be procured at the request of the state engineer, but the cost of their services shall be paid for out of funds budgeted to the state engineer for professional services, and in preparing budgets the state engineer shall anticipate his probable requirements for such additional assistants. All such assistants shall be selected by and serve at the pleasure of the attorney general and may include attorneys employed for special areas of the state or for the performance of specific duties on a fee rather than salary basis.

(2) The state engineer and the various division engineers may call on the assistant attorney general assigned to the state engineer, or any additional assistants who may be employed, to furnish services customarily furnished by lawyers.

37-80-117. Regulation of water for measurements. Whenever it is necessary for any duly authorized hydrographer from the office of the state engineer, or any hydrographer duly authorized by the state engineer or division engineer or water commissioner, or for any water official to make a rating of any weir or flume or measuring section of any canal, the owners, superintendent, or persons having charge and control of the diversion of water into said canal shall increase and decrease the flow of water into said canal as may be ordered and required by the person making such measurements in order that accurate ratings may be taken of the water flowing in said canal at different depths and gauge heights. Any person refusing so to regulate the flow of water into said canal for such purpose is guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars for the first offense and not more than five hundred dollars for the second and succeeding offenses.

37-80-118. False reports of gauge heights. Any headgate keeper, owner, employee, or other person having charge of any automatic self-registering device installed and operated pursuant to order of the state engineer or a division engineer or compiling gauge height records pursuant to order of the state engineer or division engineer, or any gauge height observer at any river station in this state, installed, maintained, and operated for the purpose of recording the amount of water flowing in said stream, or any reservoir keeper having charge of the keeping of gauge height records on weirs on intakes or outlets of reservoirs who makes false or fictitious reports of gauge heights or who alters, changes, or falsifies any gauge height record or report or who alters or modifies the record made by any automatic self-registering device is guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars for each violation of the provisions of this section.

37-80-119. Interference with recording instruments. It is unlawful for any person who does not have charge of any weir, headgate, automatic self-registering device, or other measuring recording device or any canal or reservoir intake or outlet, who does not have authority to install, repair, maintain, or operate any such device or to inspect the same from the owners thereof or from the water officials of the state of Colorado, or who represents any other canal diverting water from the same stream to interfere with or seek to examine or regulate any such instrument or device or structure. Any person who willfully injures or destroys any automatic self-registering device, gauge, or other instrument installed upon any canal or weir for the measuring and recording of the water depths upon such weir, who tampers with or falsifies any record made or being made by any such instrument or device, or who violates the provisions of this section is guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars for the first offense and not more than one thousand dollars for the second and succeeding offenses.

37-80-120. Upstream storage - substitute supply - historic natural depletion.

(1) In every case in which the state engineer finds that water can be stored out of priority under circumstances such that the water so stored can be promptly made available to downstream senior storage appropriators in case they are unable to completely store their entire appropriative right due to insufficient water supply, the state engineer may permit such upstream storage out of priority, but such storage water shall be promptly released on demand of a downstream senior whenever needed by such senior for actual use.

(2) Individuals and private or public entities, alone or in concert, may provide a substituted supply of water to one or more appropriators senior to them, not to exceed that to which any senior appropriator is entitled from time to time by virtue of his appropriations, and, to the extent that such substituted water is made available to meet the appropriative requirements of such senior, the right of such senior to draw water pursuant to his appropriation shall be deemed to be satisfied. The rights of such senior may be used for effectuating such substitution during the period while it is in operation, and the practice may be confirmed by court order as provided for determining water rights.

(3) Any substituted water shall be of a quality and continuity to meet the requirements of use to which the senior appropriation has normally been put.

(4) Whenever substitute water is supplied to a senior ditch, the supplier or his assignee may take an equivalent amount for beneficial use from water of the state of Colorado to the fullest extent possible without impairing the availability of water lawfully divertible by others. A practice of substitution or exchange pursuant to law may constitute an appropriative right and may be adjudicated or otherwise evidenced as any other right of appropriation.

(5) In determining the quantity of water required as a substitute supply to replace evaporation from groundwater exposed to the atmosphere in connection with the extraction of sand and gravel by open mining as defined in section 34-32-103 (9), C.R.S., there shall be no requirement to replace the amount of historic natural depletion to the waters of the state, if any, caused by the preexisting natural vegetative cover on the surface of the area which will be, or which has been, permanently replaced by an open water surface. The applicant shall bear the burden of proving the historic natural depletion.

(6) In determining the quantity of water required as a substitute supply to replace stream depletions in connection with any mining operation as defined in section 34-32-103

(8), C.R.S., for which a reclamation permit has been obtained as set forth in section 34-32-109, C.R.S., there is no requirement to replace the amount of historic natural depletion to the waters of the state, if any, caused by the preexisting natural vegetative cover and evaporation on the surface of the area that will be, or that has been, eliminated or made impermeable as part of the permitted mining operation. The applicant bears the burden of proving the historic natural depletion.
